[39 Stat. L. 959.]

SEC. 30. [Senators and representatives — term of office — vacancies — appointment to other office.] That the term of office of senators and representatives chosen by the first general election shall be until January first, nineteen hundred and twenty-one, and the terms of office of senators and representatives chosen at subsequent elections shall be four years from the second of January following their election. [39 Stat. L. 960.]

SEC. 32. [Senate and house as sole judges, etc., of qualifications of members, etc.—time and place of convening—organization.] That the senate and house of representatives, respectively, shall be the sole judges of the elections, returns, and qualifications of their members, and they shall have and exercise all the powers with respect to the conduct of their proceedings that usually pertain to parliamentary legislative bodies. [39 Stat. L. 960.]

SEC. 34. [Powers and duties of legislature—procedure—bribery of members—appropriations—payment.] That the enacting clause of the laws shall be as to acts, "Be it enacted by the Legislature of Porto Rico," and as to joint resolutions, "Be it resolved by the Legislature of Porto Rico." Except as hereinafter provided, bills and joint resolutions may originate in either house. The governor shall submit at the opening of each regular session of the legislature a budget of receipts and expenditures, which shall be the basis of the ensuing biennial appropriation bill. No bill shall become a law until it be passed in each house by a majority yea-and-nay vote of all of the members belonging to such house and entered upon the journal and be approved by the governor within ten days thereafter. If when a bill that has been passed is presented to the governor for his signature he approves the same, he shall sign it; or if not, he shall return it, with his objections, to the house in which it originated, which house shall enter his objections at large on its journal and proceed to reconsider it. If, after such reconsideration, two-thirds of all the members of that house shall agree to pass the same it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other house, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered, and if approved by two-thirds of all the members of that house, it shall be sent to the governor, who, in case he shall then not approve, shall transmit the same to the President of the United States. The vote of each house shall be by yeas and nays, and the names of the members voting for and against shall be entered on the journal. If the President of the United States approve the same he shall sign it and it shall become a law. If he shall not approve same he shall return it to the governor so stating, and it shall not become a law: Provided, That the President of the United States shall approve or disapprove an Act submitted to him under the provisions of this section within ninety days from and after its submission for his approval; and if not approved within such time it shall become a law the same as if it had been specifically approved. If any bill presented to the governor contains several items of appropriation of money, he may object to one or more of such items, or any part or parts, portion or portions thereof, while approving of the other portion of the bill. In such case he shall append to the bill, at the time of signing it, a statement of the items, parts or portions thereof to which he objects, and the appropriation so objected to shall not take effect. If any bill shall not be returned by the governor within ten days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, it shall be a law in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the legislature by adjournment prevents its return, in which case it shall be a law if signed by the governor within thirty days after receipt by him; otherwise it shall not be a law. All laws enacted by the Legislature of Porto Rico shall be reported to the Congress of the United States, as provided in section twenty-three of this Act, which hereby reserves the power and authority to annul the same. If at the termination of any fiscal year the appropriations necessary for the support of the government for the ensuing fiscal year shall not have been made, the several sums appropriated in the last appropriation bills for the objects and purposes therein specified, so far as the same may be applicable, shall be deemed to be reappropriated item by item; and until the legislature shall act in such behalf the treasurer may, with the advice of the governor, make the payments necessary for the purposes aforesaid.

Each house shall keep a journal of its proceedings, and may, in its discretion, from time to time publish the same, and the yeas and nays on any question shall, on the demand of one-fifth of the members present, be entered on the journal.

The sessions of each house and of the committees of the whole shall be open.

Neither house shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than three days, nor to any other place than that in which the two houses shall be sitting.

No laws shall be passed except by bill, and no bill shall be so altered or amended on its passage through either house as to change its original purpose.

No act of the legislature except the general appropriation bills for the expenses of the government shall take effect until ninety days after its passage, unless in case of emergency (which shall be expressed in the preamble or body of the act) the legislature shall by a vote of two-thirds of all the members elected to each house otherwise direct. No bill, except the general appropriation bill for the expenses of the government only, introduced in either house of the legislature after the first forty days of the session, shall become a law.

No bill shall be considered or become a law unless referred to a committee, returned therefrom, and printed for the use of the members: Provided, That either house may by a majority vote discharge a committee from the consideration of a measure and bring it before the body for consideration.

No bill, except general appropriation bills, shall be passed containing more than one subject, which shall be clearly expressed in its title; but if any subject shall be embraced in any act which shall not be expressed in the title, such act shall be void only as to so much thereof as shall not be so expressed.

No law shall be revived, or amended, or the provisions thereof extended or conferred by reference to its title only, but so much thereof as is revived, amended, extended, or conferred shall be reenacted and published at length.

The presiding officer of each house shall, in the presence of the house over which he presides, sign all bills and joint resolutions passed by the legislature, after their titles shall have been publicly read, immediately before signing; and the fact of signing shall be entered on the journal.

The legislature shall prescribe by law the number, duties, and compensation of the officers and employees of each house; and no payment shall be made for services to the legislature from the treasury, or be in any way authorized to any person, except to an acting officer or employee elected or appointed in pursuance of law.

No bill shall be passed giving any extra compensation to any public officer, servant or employee, agent or contractor, after services shall have been rendered or contract made.

Except as otherwise provided in this Act, no law shall extend the term of any public officer, or increase or diminish his salary or emoluments after his election or appointment, nor permit any officer or employee to draw compensation for more than one office or position.

All bills for raising revenue shall originate in the house of representatives, but the senate may propose or concur with amendments, as in case of other bills.

The general appropriation bill shall embrace nothing but appropriations for the ordinary expenses of the executive, legislative, and judicial departments, interest on the public debt, and for public schools. All other appropriations shall be made by separate bills, each embracing but one subject.

Every order, resolution, or vote to which the concurrence of both houses may be necessary, except on the question of adjournment, or relating solely to the transaction of business of the two houses, shall be presented to the governor, and before it shall take effect be approved by him, or, being disapproved, shall be repassed by two-thirds of both houses, according to the rules and limitations prescribed in case of a bill.

Any person who shall, directly, or indirectly, offer, give, or promise any money or thing of value, testimonial, privilege, or personal advantage to any executive or judicial officer or member of the legislature to influence him in the performance of any of his public or official duties, shall be deemed guilty of bribery, and be punished by a fine not exceeding $5,000, or imprisonment not exceeding five years, or both.

The offense of corrupt solicitation of members of the legislature, or of public officers of Porto Rico, or of any municipal division thereof, and any occupation or practice of solicitation of such members or officers to influence their official action, shall be defined by law, and shall be punished by fine and imprisonment.

In case the available revenues of Porto Rico for any fiscal year, including available surplus in the insular treasury, are insufficient to meet all the appropriations made by the legislature for such year, such appropriations shall be paid in the following order, unless otherwise directed by the governor:

First class. The ordinary expenses of the legislative, executive, and judicial departments of the State government, and interest on any public debt, shall first be paid in full.

Second class. Appropriations for all institutions, such as the penitentiary, insane asylum, industrial school, and the like, where the inmates are confined involuntarily, shall next be paid in full.

The board of trustees shall take from such banks such security in public bonds or other securities, authorized by Act of Congress or supported by the taxing power, as the board may prescribe, approve, and deem sufficient and necessary to insure the safety and prompt payment of such deposits on demand. Such funds may be withdrawn from the treasurer of said board of trustees, and all other postal savings funds, or any part of such funds, may be at any time withdrawn from the banks and savings depository offices for the repayment of postal savings depositors when required for that purpose. If at any time the postal savings deposits in any State or Territory shall exceed the amount which the qualified banks therein are willing to receive under the terms of this Act, and such excess amount is not required to make up the reserve fund of five per centum hereinbefore provided for, the board of trustees may invest all or any part of such excess amount in bonds or other securities of the United States. When, in the judgment of the President, the general welfare and interests of the United States so require, the board of trustees may invest all or any part of the postal savings funds, except the reserve fund of five per centum herein provided for, in bonds or other securities of the United States. The board of trustees may in its discretion purchase from the holders thereof bonds which have been or may be issued under the provisions of section ten of the Act of June twenty-fifth, nineteen hundred and ten. [Railway mail clerks — assignments — promotions — deadheading.]

* * * That clerks assigned as clerks in charge of crews consisting of more than one clerk shall be clerks of grades five to ten, inclusive, and may be promoted one grade only after three years' satisfactory and faithful service in such capacity: Provided further, That railway postal clerks shall be credited with full time when deadheading under orders of the department. [39 Stat. L. 419.]

That the Act of March third, nineteen hundred and one (Thirty-first Statutes, page eleven hundred and five), be amended to read as follows: “The Postmaster General may allow railway postal clerks an annual vacation of fifteen days, with pay”: And provided further, That the Act of March fourth, nineteen hundred and thirteen (Thirty-seventh Statutes, page seven hundred and ninety-eight), be amended to read as follows: “That hereafter the Postmaster General may, in his discretion, under such regulations as he may provide, allow any railway postal clerk leave of absence with pay for a period not exceeding thirty days, with the understanding that his duties will be performed without expense to the Government during the period for which leave is granted, he to provide a substitute at his own expense.” [39 Stat. L. 420.]

The proviso of the Act of March 3, 1901, ch. 851, § 1, 31 Stat. L. 1105, amended by the text, was as follows:

“The Postmaster-General may allow railway postal clerks whose duties require them to work six days or more per week, fifty-two weeks per year, an annual vacation of fifteen days, with pay.”

This had been superseded, prior to its amendment by the text, by the Act of March 1, 1909, ch. 232, § 1, which was in the same words but with the addition of the word “hereafter,” which rendered it permanent. See 1909 Supp. Fed. Stat. Ann. 526; 8 Fed. Stat. Ann. (2d ed.) 206.

[Maps — post-route — rural delivery.] * * * and the Postmaster General may authorize the sale to the public of post-route maps and rural-delivery maps or blue prints at the cost of printing and ten per centum thereof added, the proceeds of such sale to be used as a further appropriation for the preparation and publication of post-route maps and rural-delivery maps or blue prints. [39 Stat. L. 422.]

[Rural mail delivery — extension of service.] * * * That rural mail delivery shall be extended so as to serve, as nearly as practicable, the entire rural population of the United States. [39 Stat. L. 423.]

[Rural mail delivery — routes — classes — letter carriers — appointment — pay — parcel post.] * * * Hereafter all rural mail delivery routes shall be divided into two classes to be known as—

Standard horse-drawn vehicle routes, which shall be twenty-four miles in length, and

Standard motor-vehicle routes, which shall be fifty miles in length, and shall only be established hereafter when a majority of the proposed patrons who are heads of families residing upon such proposed routes shall by written petition ask the Post Office Department to establish the same.

Nothing herein contained shall be construed to prohibit the establishment of horse-drawn vehicle routes of less length than the standard of twenty-four miles: Provided, That if, in the discretion of the Postmaster General, in order to render more complete service, it should be necessary to do so the Postmaster General is hereby authorized to increase the length of routes not to exceed fifty per centum above the standards herein prescribed, and in such cases the compensation of the carrier on such horse-drawn vehicle routes shall be increased above the maximum pay heretofore fixed by law for rural carriers at the rate of $24 per annum for each mile of said routes in excess of thirty miles, and any major fraction of a mile shall be counted as a mile: Provided further, That carriers in rural mail-delivery service shall furnish and maintain at their own expense all necessary vehicle equipment for prompt handling of the mail: And provided further, That nothing herein shall be construed, and no order shall be issued, to prevent the use of motor vehicles on horse-drawn vehicle routes: Provided further, The Postmaster General in his discretion may require all carriers to furnish sufficient equipment to properly handle postal business on their routes: And provided further, That the Postmaster General may, in his discretion, allow and pay additional compensation to rural letter carriers who are required to carry pouch mail to intermediate post offices, or for intersecting loop routes, in all cases where it appears that the carriage of such pouches increases the expense of the equipment required by the carrier or materially increases the amount of labor performed by him, such compensation not to exceed the sum of $12 per annum for each mile such carrier is required to carry such pouch or pouches.

The Postmaster General is hereby authorized and directed to reorganize and readjust existing rural mail delivery service where necessary to conform to the standards herein prescribed: Provided further, That in making appointments of rural carriers for service on new routes, which may be created by the reorganization herein ordered, preference shall be given to carriers who were formerly employed in rural-delivery service and who were separated therefrom on or after June thirtieth, nineteen hundred and fifteen, by reason of any previous reorganization of the service and without charges against them: And provided further, That the Postmaster General is authorized and directed to pay, out of the appropriations already made and still available and unexpended for rural free-delivery service for the fiscal year ending June thirtieth, nineteen hundred and fifteen, to all letter carriers in the Rural Free Delivery Service during the fiscal year ending June thirtieth, nineteen hundred and fifteen, their executors or administrators, the difference between what they received for their said services and the amount that would have been paid to them in accordance with the proviso contained in joint resolution making appropriations for the service of the Post Office Department for the fiscal year ending June thirtieth, nineteen hundred and sixteen, approved March fourth, nineteen hundred and fifteen: Provided, That no part of the money paid under this provision shall be paid to any agent or attorney, directly or indirectly, for any alleged services in connection with this appropriation.

The Postmaster General is hereby authorized to conduct experiments in three or more communities for the purpose of determining the most practical means of extending the operations of the parcel post in the direction of promoting the marketing of farm products and furthering direct transactions between producers and consumers. Such investigation will further include the consideration of the effects on the Rural Free Delivery Service such extension of the Parcel Post System will have, and report of conclusions reached shall be made to Congress. [39 Stat. L. 423.]

SEC. 2. [Second-class mail matter — sending by freight — former Act repealed.] That so much of section one of the “ Act making appropriations for the service of the Post Office Department for the fiscal year ending June thirtieth, nineteen hundred and thirteen, and for other purposes,” approved August twenty-fourth, nineteen hundred and twelve, which provides that the Post Office Department shall not extend or enlarge its present policy of sending second-class matter by freight trains, is hereby repealed, but no publication shall be sent by freight if such method of transportation results in unfair discrimination: Provided, That whenever the owner of any publication required by an order of the Post Office Department to be transmitted by freight believes that he is unfairly discriminated against, he may apply to the Post Office Department for an opportunity to be heard; that upon such application being duly filed in writing the owner of such publication shall have opportunity for a full and fair hearing before said department, and pending final determination no change shall be made in the method of transportation of such publication as ordered by the department. The testimony in any such hearing or proceedings shall be reduced to writing and filed in the Post Office Department prior to entering an order upon such hearing. That upon such hearing if the Post Office Department decides adversely to the contention of the publisher, such publisher shall have the right, within the period of twenty days after the date of the order of the Post Office Department made upon such hearing, to appeal to the United States court of appeals of the District of Columbia, for a review of such order by said court of appeals, by filing in the court a written petition praying that the order of the Post Office Department be set aside. A copy of such petition shall be forthwith served upon the Post Office Department and thereupon the said department forthwith shall certify and file in the court a transcript of the record and testimony. Upon the filing of such transcript the court shall have jurisdiction to affirm, set aside or modify the order of the department.

The jurisdiction of the court of appeals of the District of Columbia to affirm, set aside or modify such orders of the Post Office Department shall be exclusive.

Such proceedings in the court of appeals of the District of Columbia shall be given precedence over other cases pending therein and shall be in every way expedited. [39 Stat. L. 424.]

For the provisions of the Act of Aug. 24, 1912, ch. 389, repealed by the text, see 1914 Supp. Fed. Stat. Ann. 313; 8 Fed. Stat. Ann. (2d ed.) 208.

SEC. 3. [Increased weight of mails — additional compensation.] That on account of the increased weight of mails resulting from Postmaster General's order numbered seventy-seven hundred and twenty, of December eighteenth, nineteen hundred and thirteen, respecting rates upon and limit of weight of parcel-post packages, effective from January first, nineteen hundred and fourteen, the Postmaster General is authorized to add to the compensation paid for transportation on railroad routes on and after January first, nineteen hundred and fourteen, for the remainder of the contract terms, not exceeding one per centum thereof per annum. [39 Stat. L. 425.]

SEC. 4. [Transportation of mails — additional compensation.] That on account of the increased weight of mails resulting from Postmaster General's order numbered seventy-three hundred and forty-nine, of July twenty-fifth, nineteen hundred and thirteen, respecting rates upon the limit of weight of parcel-post packages in the local, first, and second zones, and effective from August fifteenth, nineteen hundred and thirteen, the Postmaster General is authorized to add to the compensation paid for transportation on railroad routes on and after August fifteenth, nineteen hundred and thirteen, for the remainder of the contract terms, not exceeding one-half of one per centum thereof per annum. [39 Stat. L. 425.]

SEC. 5. [Transportation of mails — readjustment of compensation — equipment of railroad companies.] That the Postmaster General is authorized and directed to readjust the compensation to be paid to railroad companies from and after the thirtieth day of June, nineteen hundred and sixteen, or as soon thereafter as may be practicable, for the transportation and handling of the mails and furnishing facilities and services in connection therewith upon the conditions and at the rates hereinafter provided.

The Postmaster General may state railroad mail routes and authorize mail service thereon of the following four classes, namely: Full railway post-office car service, apartment railway post-office car service, storage-car service, and closed-pouch service.

Full railway post-office car mail service shall be service by cars forty feet or more in length, constructed, fitted up, and maintained for the distribution of mails on trains. The authorizations of full railway post-office cars shall be for standard-sized cars sixty feet in length, inside measurement, except as hereinafter provided.

Apartment railway post-office car mail service shall be service by apartments less than forty feet in length in cars constructed, fitted up, and maintained for the distribution of mails on trains. Two standard sizes of apartment railway post-office cars may be authorized and paid for, namely, apartments fifteen feet and thirty feet in length, inside measurement, except as hereinafter provided.

Storage-car mail service shall be service by cars used for the storage and carriage of mails in transit other than by full and apartment railway post-office cars. The authorizations for storage cars shall be for cars sixty feet in length, inside measurement, except as hereinafter provided: Provided, That storage space in units of three feet, seven feet, fifteen feet, and thirty feet, both sides of car, may be authorized in baggage cars at not exceeding pro rata of the rates hereinafter named for sixty-foot storage cars.

Service by full and apartment railway post-office cars and storage cars shall include the carriage therein of all mail matter, equipment, and supplies for the mail service and the employees of the Postal Service or Post Office Department, as shall be directed by the Postmaster General to be so carried.

Closed-pouch mail service shall be the transportation and handling by railroad employees of mails on trains on which full or apartment railway post-office cars are not authorized, except as hereinbefore provided. The authorizations for closed-pouch service shall be for units of seven feet and three feet in length, both sides of car.

The rates of payment for the services authorized in accordance with this section shall be as follows, namely:

For full railway post-office car mail service at not exceeding 21 cents for each mile of service by a sixty-foot car.

In addition thereto he may allow not exceeding $4.25 as a combined initial and terminal rate for each one-way trip of a sixty-foot car.

For apartment railway post-office car mail service at not exceeding 11 cents for each mile of service by a thirty-foot apartment car and 6 cents for each mile of service by a fifteen-foot apartment car.

In addition thereto he may allow not exceeding $2.75 as a combined initial and terminal rate for each one-way trip of a thirty-foot apartment car and $2 as a combined initial and terminal rate for each one-way trip of a fifteen-foot apartment car.

For storage-car mail service at not exceeding 21 cents for each mile of service by a sixty-foot car.

In addition thereto he may allow not exceeding $4.25 as a combined initial and terminal rate for each one-way trip of a sixty-foot car.

Where authorizations are made for cars of the standard lengths of sixty, thirty, and fifteen feet, as provided by this section, and the railroad company is unable to furnish such cars of the length authorized, but furnishes cars of lesser length than those authorized, but which are determined by the department to be sufficient for the service, the Postmaster General may accept the same and pay only for the actual space furnished and used, the compensation to be not exceeding pro rata of that provided by this section for the standard length so authorized: Provided, That the Postmaster General may accept cars and apartments of greater length than those of the standard requested, but no compensation shall be allowed for such excess lengths.

For closed-pouch service, at not exceeding $1\frac{1}{2}$ cents for each mile of service when a three-foot unit is authorized, and 3 cents for each mile of service when a seven-foot unit is authorized.

In addition thereto he may allow not exceeding 25 cents as the combined initial and terminal rate for each one-way trip of a three-foot unit of service and 50 cents as a combined initial and terminal rate for each one-way trip of a seven-foot unit of service.

Railroad companies whose railroads were constructed in whole or in part by a land grant made by Congress, on the condition that the mails should be transported over their roads at such price as Congress should by law direct, shall receive only eighty per centum of the compensation otherwise authorized by this section.

The initial and terminal rates provided for herein shall cover expenses of loading and unloading mails, switching, lighting, heating, cleaning mail cars, and all other expenses incidental to station service and required by the Postmaster General in connection with the mails that are not included in the car-mile rate. The allowance for full railway post-office cars, apartment railway post-office cars, and storage cars may be varied in accordance with the approximate difference in their respective cost of construction and maintenance.

In computing the car miles of the full railway post-office cars and apartment railway post-office cars, the maximum space authorized in either direction of a round-trip car run shall be regarded as the space to be computed in both directions, unless otherwise mutually agreed upon.

In computing the car miles of storage cars, the maximum space authorized in either direction of a round-trip car run shall be regarded as the space to be computed in both directions, unless the car be used by the company in the return movement, or otherwise mutually agreed upon.

New service and additional service may be authorized at not exceeding the rates herein provided, and service may be reduced or discontinued with pro rata reductions in pay, as the needs of the Postal Service may require: Provided, That no additional pay shall be allowed for additional service unless specifically authorized by the Postmaster General.

The Postmaster General is authorized to make special contracts with the railroad companies for the transportation of the mails where in his judgment the conditions warrant the application of higher rates than those herein specified, and make report to Congress of all cases where such special contracts are made and the terms and reasons therefor.

All cars or parts of cars used for the Railway Mail Service shall be of such construction, style, length, and character, and furnished in such manner as shall be required by the Postmaster General, and shall be constructed, fitted up, maintained, heated, lighted, and cleaned by and at the expense of the railroad companies. No pay shall be allowed for service by any railway post-office car which is not sound in material and construction and which is not equipped with sanitary drinking-water containers and toilet facilities, nor unless such car is regularly and thoroughly cleaned. No pay shall be allowed for service by any wooden full railway post-office car unless constructed substantially in accordance with the most approved plans and specifications of the Post Office Department for such type of cars, nor for service by any wooden full railway post-office car run in any train between adjoining steel cars, or between the engine and a steel car adjoining. After the first of July, nineteen hundred and seventeen, the Postmaster General shall not approve or allow to be used, or pay for service by, any full railway post-office car not constructed of steel or steel underframe or equally indestructible material; and all full railway post-office cars accepted for this service and contracted for by the railroad companies hereafter shall be constructed of steel. Until July first, nineteen hundred and seventeen in cases of emergency and in cases where the necessities of the service require it, the Postmaster General may provide for service by full railway post-office cars of other than steel or steel underframe construction, and fix therefor such rate of compensation within the maximum herein provided as shall give consideration to the inferior character of construction, and the railroad companies shall furnish service by such cars at such rates so fixed.

Service over property owned or controlled by another company or a terminal company shall be considered service of the railroad company using such property and not that of the other or terminal company: Provided, That service over land-grant road shall be paid for as herein provided.

Railroad companies carrying the mails shall furnish all necessary facilities for caring for and handling them while in their custody. They shall furnish all cars or parts of cars used in the transportation and distribution of the mails, except as herein otherwise provided, and place them in stations before the departure of trains at such times and when required to do so. They shall provide station space and rooms for handling, storing, and transfer of mails in transit, including the separation thereof, by packages for connecting lines, and such distribution of registered mail in transit as may be necessary, and for offices for the employees of the Railway Mail Service engaged in such station work when required by the Postmaster General, in which mail from station boxes may be distributed if it does not require additional space.

If any railroad company carrying the mails shall fail or refuse to provide cars or apartments in cars for distribution purposes when required by the Postmaster General, or shall fail or refuse to construct, fit up, maintain, heat, light, and clean such cars and provide such appliances for use in case of accident as may be required by the Postmaster General, it shall be fined such reasonable sum as may, in the discretion of the Postmaster General, be deemed proper.

The Postmaster General shall in all cases decide upon what trains and in what manner the mails shall be conveyed. Every railroad company carrying the mails shall carry on any train it operates, and with due speed, all mailable matter, equipment, and supplies directed to be carried thereon. If any such railroad company shall fail or refuse to transport the mails, equipment, and supplies when required by the Postmaster General on any train or trains it operates, such company shall be fined such reasonable amount as may, in the discretion of the Postmaster General, be deemed proper.

The Postmaster General may make deductions from the pay of railroad companies carrying the mails under the provisions of this section for reduction in service or infrequency of service where, in his judgment, the importance of the facilities withdrawn or reduced requires it, and impose fines upon them for delinquencies. He may deduct the price of the value of the service in cases where it is not performed, and not exceeding three times its value if the failure be occasioned by the fault of the railroad company.

The provisions of this section shall apply to service operated by railroad companies partly by railroad and partly by steamboats.

The provision of this section respecting the rates of compensation shall not apply to mails conveyed under special arrangement in freight trains, for which rates not exceeding the usual and just freight rates may be paid, in accordance with the classifications and tariffs approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Railroad companies carrying the mails shall submit, under oath, when and in such form as may be required by the Postmaster General, evidence as to the performance of service.

The Postmaster General shall, from time to time, request information from the Interstate Commerce Commission as to the revenue received by railroad companies from express companies for services rendered in the transportation of express matter, and may, in his discretion, arrange for the transportation of mail matter other than of the first class at rates not exceeding those so ascertained and reported to him, and it shall be the duty of the railroad companies to carry such mail matter at such rates fixed by the Postmaster General.

The Postmaster General is authorized, in his discretion, to petition the Interstate Commerce Commission for the determination of a postal carload or less-than-carload rate for transportation of mail matter of the fourth class and periodicals, and may provide for and authorize such transportation, when practicable, at such rates, and it shall be the duty of the railroad companies to provide and perform such service at such rates and on the conditions prescribed by the Postmaster General.

The Postmaster General may, in his discretion, distinguish between the several classes of mail matter and provide for less frequent dispatches of mail matter of the third and fourth classes and periodicals when lower rates for transportation or other economies may be secured thereby without material detriment to the service.

The Postmaster General is authorized to return to the mails, when practicable for the utilization of car space paid for and not needed for the mails, postal cards, stamped envelopes, newspaper wrappers, empty mail bags, furniture, equipment, and other supplies for the Postal Service.

The Postmaster General, in cases of emergency between October first and April first of any year, may hereafter return to the mails empty mail bags and other equipment theretofore withdrawn therefrom as required by law, and, where such return requires additional authorization of car space under the provisions of this section, to pay for the transportation thereof as provided for herein out of the appropriation for inland transportation by railroad routes.

The Postmaster General may have the weights of mail taken on railroad mail routes, and computations of the average loads of the several classes of cars and other computations for statistical and administrative purposes made at such times as he may elect, and pay the expense thereof out of the appropriation for inland transportation by railroad routes.

Pending the decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission, as hereinafter provided for, the existing method and rates of railway mail pay shall remain in effect, except on such routes or systems as the Postmaster General shall select, and to the extent he may find it practicable and necessary to place upon the space system of pay in the manner and at the rates provided in this section, with the consent and approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission, in order to properly present to the Interstate Commerce Commission the matters hereinafter referred thereto: Provided, That if the final decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission shall be adverse to the space system, and if the rates established by it under whatever method or system is adopted shall be greater or less than the rates under this section, the Postmaster General shall readjust the compensation of the carriers on such selected routes and systems in accordance therewith, from the dates on which the rates named in this section became effective.

All railway common carriers are hereby required to transport such mail matter as may be offered for transportation by the United States in the manner, under the conditions, and with the service prescribed by the Postmaster General and shall be entitled to receive fair and reasonable compensation for such transportation and for the service connected therewith.

The Interstate Commerce Commission is hereby empowered and directed as soon as practicable to fix and determine from time to time the fair and reasonable rates and compensation for the transportation of such mail matter by railway common carriers and the service connected therewith, prescribing the method or methods by weight, or space, or both, or otherwise, for ascertaining such rate or compensation, and to publish the same, and orders so made and published shall continue in force until changed by the commission after due notice and hearing.

In fixing and determining the fair and reasonable rates for such service the commission shall consider the relation existing between the railroads as public service corporations and the Government, and the nature of such service as distinguished, if there be a distinction, from the ordinary transportation business of the railroads.

The procedure for the ascertainment of said rates and compensation shall be as follows:

Within three months from and after the approval of this Act, or as soon thereafter as may be practicable, the Postmaster General shall file with the commission a statement showing the transportation required of all railway common carriers, including the number, equipment, size, and construction of the cars necessary for the transaction of the business; the character and speed of the trains which are to carry the various kinds of mail; the service, both terminal and en route, which the carriers are to render; and all other information which may be material to the inquiry, but such other information may be filed at any time in the discretion of the commission.

The Postmaster General is authorized to employ such clerical and other assistance as shall be necessary to carry out the provisions of this section, and to rent quarters in Washington, District of Columbia, if necessary, for the clerical force engaged thereon, and to pay for the same out of the appropriation for inland transportation by railroad routes. The Postmaster General shall file with the commission a comprehensive plan for the transportation of the mails on said railways and shall embody therein what he believes to be the reasonable rate or compensation the said railway carriers should receive.

Thereupon the commission shall give notice of not less than thirty days to each carrier so required to transport mail and render service, and upon a day to be fixed by the commission, not later than thirty days after the expiration of the notice herein required, each of said carriers shall make answer and the commission shall proceed with the hearing as now provided by law for other hearings between carriers and shippers or associations.

All the provisions of the law for taking testimony, securing evidence, penalties, and procedure are hereby made applicable.

For the purpose of determining and fixing rates or compensation hereunder the commission is authorized to make such classification of carriers as may be just and reasonable and, where just and equitable, fix general rates applicable to all carriers in the same classification.

Pending such hearings, and the final determination of the question, if the Interstate Commerce Commission shall determine that it is necessary or advisable, in order to carry out the provisions of this section, to have additional and more frequent weighing of the mails for statistical purposes, the Postmaster General, upon request of the commission, shall provide therefor in the manner now prescribed by law, but such weighing need not be for more than thirty days.

At the conclusion of the hearing the commission shall establish by order a fair, reasonable rate or compensation to be received, at such stated times as may be named in the order, for the transportation of mail matter and the service connected therewith, and during the continuance of the order the Postmaster General shall pay the carrier from the appropriation herein made such rate or compensation.

Either the Postmaster General or any such carrier may at any time after the lapse of six months from the entry of the order assailed apply for a reexamination, and thereupon substantially similar proceedings shall be had with respect to the rate or rates for service covered by said application, provided said carrier or carriers have an interest therein.

For the purposes of this section the Interstate Commerce Commission is hereby vested with all the powers which it is now authorized by law to exercise in the investigation and ascertainment of the justness and reasonableness of freight, passenger, and express rates to be paid by private shippers.

The Interstate Commerce Commission shall allow to railroad companies whose railroads were constructed in whole or in part by a land grant made by Congress on condition that the mails should be transported over their roads at such price as Congress should by law direct only eighty per centum of the compensation paid other railroads for transporting the mails and all service by the railroads in connection therewith.

The existing law for the determination of mail pay, except as herein modified, shall continue in effect until the Interstate Commerce Commission under the provisions hereof fixes the fair, reasonable rate or compensation for such transportation and service.

That the appropriations for inland transportation by railroad routes and for railway post-office car service for the fiscal year ending June thirtieth, nineteen hundred and seventeen, are hereby made available for the purposes of this section.

That it shall be unlawful for any railroad company to refuse to perform mail service at the rates or methods of compensation provided by law when required by the Postmaster General so to do, and for such offense shall be fined $1,000. Each day of refusal shall constitute a separate offense. [39 Stat. L. 425.]

SEC. 6. [Fourth class mail matter — the parcel post — readjustment of classification, etc.] If the Postmaster General shall find on experience that the classification of articles mailable, as well as the weight limit, or the rates of postage, zone or zones, and other conditions of mailability, under section eight of the Act approved August twenty-fourth, nineteen hundred and twelve, or any of them, are such as to prevent the shipment of articles desirable, or to permanently render the cost of the service greater than the receipts of the revenue therefrom, he is hereby authorized to re-form from time to time such classification, weight limit, rates, zone or zones, or conditions, or either, in order to promote the service to the public or to insure the receipt of revenue from such service adequate to pay the cost thereof: Provided, however, That before any change is hereafter made in weight limit, rates of postage, or zone or zones, by the Postmaster General, the proposed change shall be approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission after thorough and independent consideration by that body in such manner as it may determine. or who knowingly and wilfully otherwise makes any such threat against the President, shall upon conviction be fined not exceeding $1,000 or imprisoned not exceeding five years, or both. [— Stat. L. —.]

Sufficiency of indictments.—In Clark v. U. S., 250 Fed. 449, plaintiff in error was convicted under this Act for the use of the following language, alleged by the indictment to have been with reference to the President: "Wilson is a wooden-headed son of a bitch. I wish Wilson was in hell, and if I had the power I would put him there." It was held that a motion to quash the indictment was properly overruled by the court below.

In U. S. v. French, 243 Fed. 785, an indictment under this Act set out letters passing from the defendant to another person as follows: "Dear Sir: if the german people can pay $20,000.00 for Wilson [the President of the United States] wholesale fires, or soldier poisoning answer yes by cutting or having 6 of the Spanish banuts off at roots, I mean the ones on front of lot close to corner of gate way. A pro-Jerman Anarcist." And also the following: "I have an invention that will destroy an entire fleet, Navy without a noise or shot, I can burn cities and poison thousands. I am not crazy or a faker but can produce the goods lets get together." It was held that these letters did not separately or taken together contain a threat to take the life of the President, or to do him bodily harm, and that a demurrer to the indictment should be sustained.

In U. S. v. Stickrath, 242 Fed. 151, the indictment charged that the defendant on a certain date "did unlawfully, knowingly, and willfully make a threat against the President of the United States, to wit, a threat to take the life of or to inflict bodily harm upon the said President of the United States, said threat being then and there uttered and spoken by the said Pemberton W. Stickrath in words and substance as follows, to wit: 'President Wilson ought to be killed. It is a wonder some one has not done it already. If I had an opportunity, I would do it myself' — contrary to the form of the statute," etc. It was held in demurrer that the indictment was sufficient.

[Obligations of foreign governments — conversion into obligations containing different terms — sale.] That the Secretary of the Treasury is hereby authorized, from time to time, to exercise in respect to any obligations of foreign governments acquired under authority of this Act or of said Act approved April twenty-fourth, nineteen hundred and seventeen, any privilege of conversion into obligations bearing interest at a higher rate provided for in or pursuant to this Act or said Act approved April twenty-fourth, nineteen hundred and seventeen, and to convert any short-time obligations of foreign governments which may have been purchased under the authority of this Act or of said Act approved April twenty-fourth, nineteen hundred and seventeen, into long-time obligations of such foreign governments, respectively, maturing not later than the bonds of the United States then last issued under the authority of this Act or of said Act approved April twenty-fourth, nineteen hundred and seventeen, as the case may be, and in such form and terms as the Secretary of the Treasury may prescribe; but the rate or rates of interest borne by any such long-time obligations at the time of their acquisition shall not be less than the rate borne by the short-time obligations so converted into such long-time obligations; and, under such terms and conditions as he may from time to time prescribe, to receive payment, on or before maturity, of any obligations of such foreign governments acquired on behalf of the United States under authority of this Act or of said Act approved April twenty-fourth, nineteen hundred and seventeen, and, with the approval of the President, to sell any of such obligations (but not at less than the purchase price with accrued interest unless otherwise hereafter provided by law), and to apply the proceeds thereof, and any payments so received from foreign governments on account of the principal of their said obligations, to the redemption or purchase, at not more than par and accrued interest, of any bonds of the United States issued under authority of this Act or of said Act approved April twenty-fourth, nineteen hundred and seventeen; and if such bonds can not be so redeemed or purchased the Secretary of the Treasury shall redeem or purchase any other outstanding interest-bearing obligations of the United States which may at such time be subject to redemption or which can be purchased at not more than par and accrued interest. The Act of April 24, 1917, ch. —, mentioned in this section, is given, supra, p. 675.

SEC. 4. [Convertible bonds — reissuance when authorized.] That in connection with the issue of any series of bonds under the authority of section one of this Act the Secretary of the Treasury may determine that the bonds of such series shall be convertible as provided in or pursuant to this section, and, in any such case, he may make appropriate provision to that end in offering for subscription the bonds of such series (hereinafter called convertible bonds). In any case of the issue of a series of convertible bonds, if a subsequent series of bonds (not including United States certificates of indebtedness, war savings certificates, and other obligations maturing not more than five years from the issue of such obligations, respectively) bearing interest at a higher rate shall, under the authority of this or any other Act, be issued by the United States before the termination of the war between the United States and the Imperial German Government, then the holders of such convertible bonds shall have the privilege, at the option of the several holders, at any time within such period, after the public offering of bonds of such subsequent series, and under such rules and regulations as the Secretary of the Treasury shall have prescribed, of converting their bonds, at par, into bonds bearing such higher rate of interest at such price not less than par as the Secretary of the Treasury shall have prescribed. The bonds to be issued upon such conversion under this Act shall be substantially the same in form and terms as shall be prescribed by or pursuant to law with respect to the bonds of such subsequent series, not only as to interest rate but also as to convertibility (if future bonds be issued at a still higher rate of interest) or nonconvertibility, and as to exemption from taxation, if any, and in all other respects, except that the bonds issued upon such conversion shall have the same dates of maturity, of principal, and of interest, and be subject to the same terms of redemption before maturity, as the bonds converted; and such bonds shall be issued from time to time if and when and to the extent that the privilege of conversion so conferred shall arise and shall be exercised. If the privilege of conversion so conferred under this Act shall once arise, and shall not be exercised with respect to any convertible bonds within the period so prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury, then such privilege shall terminate as to such bonds and shall not arise again though again thereafter bonds be issued bearing interest at a higher rate or rates.

conversion of four per centum bonds issued under section one, or (c) upon conversion of three and one-half per centum bonds issued under said Act approved April twenty-fourth, nineteen hundred and seventeen, or (d) upon conversion of four per centum bonds issued upon conversion of such three and one-half per centum bonds, shall not be entitled to any privilege of conversion under or pursuant to this section or otherwise. The provisions of section seven shall extend to all such bonds.

If bonds bearing interest at a higher rate than four per centum per annum shall be issued before July first, nineteen hundred and eighteen, then any bonds bearing interest at the rate of four per centum per annum which shall, after July first, nineteen hundred and eighteen, and before the expiration of the six months' conversion period prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury, be presented for conversion into bonds bearing interest at such higher rate, shall, for the purpose of computing the amount of interest payable, be deemed to have been converted on the dates for the payment of the semiannual interest on the respective bonds so presented for conversion, last preceding the date of such presentation. [— Stat. L. —, as amended by — Stat. L. —.]

The last two paragraphs were added to this section by the Third Liberty Bond Act of April 4, 1918, ch. —, § 3.

[SEC. 1.] [Bond issue for national security and defense — amount — form — sale.] That the Secretary of the Treasury, with the approval of the President, is hereby authorized to borrow, from time to time, on the credit of the United States for the purposes of this Act, and to meet expenditures authorized for the national security and defense and other public purposes authorized by law, not exceeding in the aggregate $20,000,000,000, and to issue therefor bonds of the United States, in addition to the $2,000,000,000 bonds already issued or offered for subscription under authority of the Act approved April twenty-fourth, nineteen hundred and seventeen, entitled "An Act to authorize an issue of bonds to meet expenditures for the national security and defense, and, for the purpose of assisting in the prosecution of the war, to extend credit to foreign governments, and for other purposes": Provided, That of this sum $3,062,945,460 shall be in lieu of that amount of the unissued bonds authorized by sections one and four of the Act approved April twenty-fourth, nineteen hundred and seventeen, $225,000,000 shall be in lieu of that amount of the unissued bonds authorized by section thirty-nine of the Act approved August fifth, nineteen hundred and nine, $150,000,000 shall be in lieu of the unissued bonds authorized by the joint resolution approved March fourth, nineteen hundred and seventeen, and $100,000,000 shall be in lieu of the unissued bonds authorized by section four hundred of the Act approved March third, nineteen hundred and seventeen.

The bonds herein authorized shall from time to time first be offered at not less than par as a popular loan, under such regulations, prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury from time to time, as will in his opinion give the people of the United States as nearly as may be an equal opportunity to participate therein, but he may make allotment in full upon applications for smaller amounts of bonds in advance of any date which he may set for the closing of subscriptions and may reject or reduce allotments upon later applications and applications for larger amounts, and may reject or reduce allotments upon applications from incorporated banks and trust companies for their own account and make allotment in full or larger allotments to others, and may establish a graduated scale of allotments, and may from time to time adopt any or all of said methods, should any such action be deemed by him to be in the public interest: Provided, That such reduction or increase of allotments of such bonds shall be made under general rules to be prescribed by said Secretary and shall apply to all subscribers similarly situated. And any portion of the bonds so offered and not taken may be otherwise disposed of by the Secretary of the Treasury in such manner and at such price or prices, not less than par, as he may determine. SEC. 2. [Establishment of credits for foreign governments — foreign bond — purchase.] That for the purpose of more effectually providing for the national security and defense and prosecuting the war, the Secretary of the Treasury, with the approval of the President, is hereby authorized, on behalf of the United States, to establish credits with the United States for any foreign governments then engaged in war with the enemies of the United States; and, to the extent of the credits so established from time to time, the Secretary of the Treasury is hereby authorized to purchase, at par, from such foreign governments respectively their several obligations hereafter issued, bearing such rate or rates of interest, maturing at such date or dates, not later than the bonds of the United States then last issued under the authority of this Act, or of such Act approved April twenty-fourth, nineteen hundred and seventeen, and containing such terms and conditions as the Secretary of the Treasury may from time to time determine, or to make advances to or for the account of any such foreign governments and to receive such obligations at par for the amount of any such advances; but the rate or rates of interest borne by any such obligations shall not be less than the highest rate borne by any bonds of the United States which, at the time of the acquisition thereof, shall have been issued under authority of said Act approved April twenty-fourth, nineteen hundred and seventeen, or of this Act, and any such obligations shall contain such provisions as the Secretary of the Treasury may from time to time determine for the conversion of a proportionate part of such obligations into obligations bearing a higher rate of interest if bonds of the United States issued under authority of this Act shall be converted in other bonds of the United States bearing a higher rate of interest, but the rate of interest in such foreign obligations issued upon such conversion shall not be less than the highest rate of interest borne by such bonds of the United States; and the Secretary of the Treasury with the approval of the President, is hereby authorized to enter into such arrangements from time to time with any such foreign Governments as may be necessary or desirable for establishing such credits and for the payment of such obligations of foreign Governments before maturity. For the purposes of this section there is appropriated, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, the sum of $7,000,000,000, and in addition thereto the unexpended balance of the appropriations made by section two of said Act approved April twenty-fourth, nineteen hundred and seventeen, or so much thereof as may be necessary: Provided, That the authority granted by this section to the Secretary of the Treasury to establish credits for foreign Governments, as aforesaid, shall cease upon the termination of the war between the United States and the Imperial German Government. [— Stat. L. —, as amended by — Stat. L. —, — Stat. L. —.]

This section was first amended by substituting in the last sentence the figures $5,500,000,000 for the figures $4,000,000,000, which originally appeared, by the Third Liberty Bond Act of April 4, 1918, ch. —, § 2 and as so amended it was again amended by striking out the figures $5,500,000,000 and inserting in lieu thereof the figures $7,000,000,000, as given in the text, by the Fourth Liberty Bond Act of July 9, 1918, ch. —, § 2.

SEC. 3. [Obligations of foreign governments — conversion into obligations containing different terms — sale.] That the Secretary of the Treasury is hereby authorized, from time to time, to exercise in respect to any obligations of foreign governments acquired under authority of this Act or of said Act approved April twenty-fourth, nineteen hundred and seventeen, any privilege of conversion into obligations bearing interest at a higher rate provided for in or pursuant to this Act or said Act approved April twenty-fourth, nineteen hundred and seventeen, and to convert any short-time obligations of foreign governments which may have been purchased under the authority of this Act or of said Act approved April twenty-fourth, nineteen hundred and seventeen, into long-time obligations of such foreign governments, respectively, maturing not later than the bonds of the United States then last issued under the authority of this Act or of said Act approved April twenty-fourth, nineteen hundred and seventeen, as the case may be, and in such form and terms as the Secretary of the Treasury may prescribe; but the rate or rates of interest borne by any such long-time obligations at the time of their acquisition shall not be less than the rate borne by the short-time obligations so converted into such long-time obligations; and, under such terms and conditions as he may from time to time prescribe, to receive payment, on or before maturity, of any obligations of such foreign governments acquired on behalf of the United States under authority of this Act or of said Act approved April twenty-fourth, nineteen hundred and seventeen, and, with the approval of the President, to sell any of such obligations (but not at less than the purchase price with accrued interest unless otherwise hereafter provided by law), and to apply the proceeds thereof, and any payments so received from foreign governments on account of the principal of their said obligations, to the redemption or purchase, at not more than par and accrued interest, of any bonds of the United States issued under authority of this Act or of said Act approved April twenty-fourth, nineteen hundred and seventeen; and if such bonds can not be so redeemed or purchased the Secretary of the Treasury shall redeem or purchase any other outstanding interest-bearing obligations of the United States which may at such time be subject to redemption or which can be purchased at not more than par and accrued interest. The Act of April 24, 1917, ch. —, mentioned in this section, is given, supra, p. 675.

SEC. 4. [Convertible bonds — reissuance when authorized.] That in connection with the issue of any series of bonds under the authority of section one of this Act the Secretary of the Treasury may determine that the bonds of such series shall be convertible as provided in or pursuant to this section, and, in any such case, he may make appropriate provision to that end in offering for subscription the bonds of such series (hereinafter called convertible bonds). In any case of the issue of a series of convertible bonds, if a subsequent series of bonds (not including United States certificates of indebtedness, war savings certificates, and other obligations maturing not more than five years from the issue of such obligations, respectively) bearing interest at a higher rate shall, under the authority of this or any other Act, be issued by the United States before the termination of the war between the United States and the Imperial German Government, then the holders of such convertible bonds shall have the privilege, at the option of the several holders, at any time within such period, after the public offering of bonds of such subsequent series, and under such rules and regulations as the Secretary of the Treasury shall have prescribed, of converting their bonds, at par, into bonds bearing such higher rate of interest at such price not less than par as the Secretary of the Treasury shall have prescribed. The bonds to be issued upon such conversion under this Act shall be substantially the same in form and terms as shall be prescribed by or pursuant to law with respect to the bonds of such subsequent series, not only as to interest rate but also as to convertibility (if future bonds be issued at a still higher rate of interest) or nonconvertibility, and as to exemption from taxation, if any, and in all other respects, except that the bonds issued upon such conversion shall have the same dates of maturity, of principal, and of interest, and be subject to the same terms of redemption before maturity, as the bonds converted; and such bonds shall be issued from time to time if and when and to the extent that the privilege of conversion so conferred shall arise and shall be exercised. If the privilege of conversion so conferred under this Act shall once arise, and shall not be exercised with respect to any convertible bonds within the period so prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury, then such privilege shall terminate as to such bonds and shall not arise again though again thereafter bonds be issued bearing interest at a higher rate or rates.

conversion of four per centum bonds issued under section one, or (c) upon conversion of three and one-half per centum bonds issued under said Act approved April twenty-fourth, nineteen hundred and seventeen, or (d) upon conversion of four per centum bonds issued upon conversion of such three and one-half per centum bonds, shall not be entitled to any privilege of conversion under or pursuant to this section or otherwise. The provisions of section seven shall extend to all such bonds.

If bonds bearing interest at a higher rate than four per centum per annum shall be issued before July first, nineteen hundred and eighteen, then any bonds bearing interest at the rate of four per centum per annum which shall, after July first, nineteen hundred and eighteen, and before the expiration of the six months' conversion period prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury, be presented for conversion into bonds bearing interest at such higher rate, shall, for the purpose of computing the amount of interest payable, be deemed to have been converted on the dates for the payment of the semiannual interest on the respective bonds so presented for conversion, last preceding the date of such presentation. [— Stat. L. —, as amended by — Stat. L. —.]

The last two paragraphs were added to this section by the Third Liberty Bond Act of April 4, 1918, ch. —, § 3.

The sum of such certificates outstanding hereunder and under section six of said Act approved April twenty-fourth, nineteen hundred and seventeen, shall not at any one time exceed in the aggregate $8,000,000,000. [— Stat. L. —, as amended by — Stat. L. —.]

This section was amended to read as here given by the Third Liberty Loan Act of April 4, 1918, ch. —, § 4, the amendment consisting of inserting the figures $5,000,000,000 in the last sentence in lieu of $4,000,000,000 which originally appeared.

SEC. 6. [War-savings certificates.] That in addition to the bonds authorized by section one of this Act and the certificates of indebtedness authorized by section five of this Act, the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to borrow from time to time, on the credit of the United States, for the purposes of this Act and to meet public expenditures authorized by law, such sum or sums as in his judgment may be necessary, and to issue therefor, at such price or prices and upon such terms and conditions as he may determine, war-savings certificates of the United States on which interest to maturity may be discounted in advance at such rate or rates and computed in such manner as he may prescribe. Such war-savings certificates shall be in such form or forms and subject to such terms and conditions, and may have such provisions for payment thereof before maturity, as the Secretary of the Treasury may prescribe. Each war-saving certificate so issued shall be payable at such time, not exceeding five years from the date of its issue, and may be redeemable before maturity, upon such terms and conditions as the Secretary of the Treasury may prescribe. The sum of such war-savings certificates outstanding shall not at any one time exceed in the aggregate $2,000,000,000. The amount of war-savings certificates sold to any one person at any one time shall not exceed $100, and it shall not be lawful for any one person at any one time to hold war-savings certificates to an aggregate amount exceeding $1,000. The Secretary of the Treasury may, under such regulations and upon such terms and conditions as he may prescribe, issue, or cause to be issued, stamps to evidence payments for or on account of such certificates. [— Stat. L. —.]

SEC. 7. [Circulation privilege — exemption from taxation.] That none of the bonds authorized by section one, nor of the certificates authorized by section five, or by section six, of this Act, shall bear the circulation privilege. All such bonds and certificates shall be exempt, both as to principal and interest from all taxation now or hereafter imposed by the United States, any State, or any of the possessions of the United States, or by any local taxing authority, except (a) estate or inheritance taxes, and (b) graduated additional income taxes, commonly known as surtaxes, and excess profits and war-profits taxes, now or hereafter imposed by the United States, upon the income or profits of individuals, partnerships, associations, or corporations. The interest on an amount of such bonds and certificates the principal of which does not exceed in the aggregate $5,000, owned by any individual, partnership, association, or corporation, shall be exempt from the taxes provided for in subdivision (b) of this section. [— Stat. L. —.]

SEC. 8. [Proceeds from sale of bonds, etc.—where deposited—foreign depositaries.] That the Secretary of the Treasury, in his discretion, is hereby authorized to deposit, in such incorporated banks and trust companies as he may designate, the proceeds, or any part thereof, arising from the sale of the bonds and certificates of indebtedness and war-savings certificates authorized by this Act, and arising from the payment of income and excess profits taxes, and such deposits shall bear such rate or rates of interest, and shall be secured in such manner, and shall be made upon and subject to such terms and conditions as the Secretary of the Treasury may from time to time prescribe: Provided, That the provisions of section fifty-one hundred and ninety-one of the Revised Statutes, as amended by the Federal Reserve Act, and the amendments thereof, with reference to the reserves required to be kept by national banking associations and other member banks of the Federal Reserve System, shall not apply to deposits of public moneys by the United States in designated depositaries. The Secretary of the Treasury is hereby authorized to designate depositaries in foreign countries with which shall be deposited all public money which it may be necessary or desirable to have on deposit in such countries to provide for current disbursements to the military and naval forces of the United States and to the diplomatic and consular and other representatives of the United States in and about such countries until six months after the termination of the war between the United States and the Imperial German Government, and to prescribe the terms and conditions of such deposits.

SEC. 12. [Auditing accounts during war — place of auditing — manner, etc.] That the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized during the war, whenever it shall appear that the public interests require that any of the accounts of the Military Establishment be audited at any place other than the seat of Government, to direct the Comptroller of the Treasury and the Auditor for the War Department to exercise, either in person or through assistants, the powers and perform the duties of their offices at any place or places away from the seat of Government in the manner that is or may be required by law at the seat of Government and in accordance with the provisions of this section.

(e) That it shall be the duty of all contracting, purchasing, and disbursing officers to allow any representative of the comptroller or auditor to examine all books, records, and papers in any way connected with the receipt, disbursement, or disposal of public money, and to render such accounts and at such times as may be required by the comptroller. No administrative examination by the War Department shall be required of accounts rendered and settled abroad, and the time within which these accounts shall be rendered by disbursing officers shall be prescribed by the comptroller, who shall have power to waive any delinquency as to time or form in the rendition of these accounts. All contracts connected with accounts to be settled by the auditor abroad shall be filed in his office there.

(f) That any person appointed or employed under the provisions of this section who at the time is in the service of the United States shall, upon termination of his services hereunder, be restored to the position held by him at the time of such employment. No provision of existing law shall be construed to prevent the payment of money appropriated for the salary of any Government officer or employee at the seat of Government who may be detailed to perform duty under this section outside the District of Columbia, and such details are hereby authorized.

(g) That for the payment of the expenses in carrying into effect this section, including traveling expenses, per diem of $4 in lieu of subsistence for officers and employees absent from Washington, rent, cablegrams, and telegrams, printing, law books, books of reference, periodicals, stationery, office equipment and exchange thereof, supplies, and all other necessary expenses, there is hereby appropriated, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, for the fiscal year ending June thirtieth, nineteen hundred and eighteen, the sum of $300,000, of which not exceeding $25,000 may be expended at Washington for the purposes of this section, but no officer or employee shall receive for duty in Washington any compensation other than his regular salary.

(h) That the Secretary of the Treasury may designate not more than two persons employed hereunder to act as special disbursing agents of the appropriation herein, to serve under the direction of the comptroller, and their accounts shall be rendered to and settled by the accounting officers of the Treasury in Washington. All persons employed under this section shall perform such additional duties as the Secretary of the Treasury may direct.

(i) That the comptroller and the auditor, and such persons as may be authorized in writing by either of them, may administer oaths to American citizens in respect to any matter within the jurisdiction of either of said officers and certify the official character, when known, of any foreign officer whose jurat or certificate may be necessary on any paper to be filed with them.

(j) That persons engaged in work abroad under the provisions of this section may purchase from Army stores for cash and at cost price for their own use such articles or stores as may be sold to officers and enlisted men.

(k) That the authority granted under this section shall terminate six months after the close of the war or at such earlier date as the Secretary of the Treasury may direct, and it shall be the duty of the comptroller and auditor to make such reports as the Secretary of the Treasury may require of the expenditures made and work done pursuant to this section, and such reports shall be transmitted to the Congress at such time as he may decide to be compatible with the public interest.

(l) No officers, employees, or agents appointed or employed under this section shall receive more salary or compensation than like officers, employees, or agents of the Government now receive. [— Stat. L. —.]

SEC. 14. [Bonds receivable in payment of estate and inheritance tax.] That any bonds of the United States bearing interest at a higher rate than four per centum per annum (whether issued under section one of this Act or upon conversion of bonds issued under this Act or under said Act approved April twenty-fourth, nineteen hundred and seventeen), which have been owned by any person continuously for at least six months prior to the date of his death, and which upon such date constitute part of his estate, shall, under rules and regulations prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury, be receivable by the United States at par and accrued interest in payment of any estate or inheritance taxes imposed by the United States, under or by virtue of any present or future law upon such estate or the inheritance thereof. [— Stat. L. —.]

This section 14 and the following sections 15, 16 and 17 were added to this Act by the Third Liberty Bond Act of April 4, 1918, ch. —, § 6, entitled "An Act To amend an Act approved September twenty-fourth, nineteen hundred and seventeen, entitled 'An Act to authorize an additional issue of bonds to meet expenditures for the national security and defense, and, for the purpose of assisting in the prosecution of the war, to extend additional credit to foreign governments, and for other purposes.'"

The par amount of bonds of any such series which may be purchased in the twelve months' period beginning on the date of issue shall not exceed one-twentieth of the par amount of bonds of such series originally issued, and in each twelve months' period thereafter, shall not exceed one-twentieth of the amount of the bonds of such series outstanding at the beginning of such twelve months' period. The average cost of the bonds of any series purchased in any such twelve months' period shall not exceed par and accrued interest.

For the purposes of this section the Secretary of the Treasury shall set aside, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, a sum not exceeding one-twentieth of the amount of such bonds issued before April first, nineteen hundred and eighteen, and as and when any more such bonds are issued he shall set aside a sum not exceeding one-twentieth thereof. Whenever, by reason of purchases of bonds, as provided in this section, the amount so set aside falls below the sum which he deems necessary for the purposes of this section, the Secretary of the Treasury shall set aside such amount as he shall deem necessary, but not more than enough to bring the entire amount so set aside at such time up to one-twentieth of the amount of such bonds then outstanding. The amount so set aside by the Secretary of the Treasury is hereby appropriated for the purposes of this section, to be available until the expiration of one year after the termination of the war.

The Secretary of the Treasury shall make to Congress at the beginning of each regular session a report including a detailed statement of the operations under this section. [— Stat. L. —.]

An Act To alter and amend an Act entitled "An Act granting lands to aid in the construction of a railroad and telegraph line from the Central Pacific Railroad, in California, to Portland, in Oregon," approved July twenty-fifth, eighteen hundred and sixty-six, as amended by the Acts of eighteen hundred and sixty-eight and eighteen hundred and sixty-nine, and to alter and amend an Act entitled "An Act granting lands to aid in the construction of a railroad and telegraph line from Portland to Astoria and McMinnville, in the State of Oregon," approved May fourth, eighteen hundred and seventy, and for other purposes.

[SEC. 1.] [Certain railroad lands revested in government.] That the title to so much of the lands granted by the Act of July twenty-fifth, eighteen hundred and sixty-six, entitled "An Act granting lands to aid in the construction of a railroad and telegraph line from the Central Pacific Railroad in California to Portland, in Oregon," as amended by the Acts of eighteen hundred and sixty-eight and eighteen hundred and sixty-nine, for which patents have been issued by the United States, or for which the grantee is entitled to receive patents under said grant, and to so much of the lands granted by the Act of May fourth, eighteen hundred and seventy, entitled "An Act granting lands to aid in the construction of a railroad and telegraph line from Portland to Astoria and McMinnville, in the State of Oregon," for which patents have been issued by the United States, or for which the grantee is entitled to receive patents under said grant, as had not been sold by the Oregon and California Railroad Company prior to July first, nineteen hundred and thirteen, be, and the same is hereby, revested in the United States: Provided, That the provisions of this Act shall not apply to the right of way to the extent of one hundred feet in width on each side of the railroad and all lands in actual use by said railroad company on December ninth, nineteen hundred and fifteen, for depots, sidetracks, wood yards, and standing grounds. [39 Stat. L. 218.]

Preceding the foregoing section was the following preamble:

"Whereas by the Acts of Congress approved April tenth, eighteen hundred and sixty-nine (Fourteenth Statutes at Large, page two hundred and thirty-nine), and May fourth, eighteen hundred and seventy (Sixteenth Statutes at Large, page ninety-four), it was provided that the lands granted to aid in the construction of certain railroads from Portland, in the State of Oregon, to the northern boundary of the State of California, and from Portland to Astoria and McMinnville, in the State of Oregon, should be sold to actual settlers only, in quantities not exceeding one hundred and sixty acres to each person and at prices not greater than $2.50 per acre; and

"Whereas the Oregon and California Railroad Company, beneficiary of said acts, has violated the terms under which the said lands were granted by selling certain of said lands to persons other than actual settlers, by selling in quantities of more than one-quarter section to each person, by selling at prices in excess of $2.50 per acre, and by refusing to sell any further portions of such lands to actual settlers at any price, and in so doing has willfully violated the terms of the statutes by which the said lands were granted; and

"Whereas in the suit instituted by the Attorney General of the United States, pursuant to the authority and direction contained in the joint resolution of April thirtieth, nineteen hundred and eight (Thirty-fifth Statutes at Large, page five hundred and seventy-one), the Supreme Court of the United States, in its decision rendered June twenty-first, nineteen hundred and fifteen (Two hundred and thirty-eighth United States, page three hundred and ninety-three), ordered that the Oregon and California Railroad Company be enjoined from making further sales of lands in violation of the law, and that the said railroad company be further enjoined from making any sales whatever of either the land or the timber thereon until Congress should have a reasonable opportunity to provide for the disposition of said lands in accordance with such policy as Congress might deem fitting under the circumstances and at the same time secure to the railroad company all the value conferred by the granting Acts; and

"Whereas it was expressly provided by section twelve of the Act of July twenty-fifth, eighteen hundred and sixty-six (Fourteenth Statutes at Large, page two hundred and thirty-nine), that Congress might at any time, having due regard for the rights of the grantees railroad company, add to, alter, amend, or repeal the Act making the grant; and

"Whereas the Oregon and California Railroad Company and its predecessors in interest received a large sum of money from sales of said land for prices in excess of $2.50 per acre, and from leases, interest on contracts, and so forth; and

"Whereas the aforesaid granting Acts conferred upon the said railroad company the right to receive not more than $2.50 per acre for each acre of land so granted: Therefore," etc.

The Acts mentioned in the title of this Act and the first section thereof are the Act of July 25, 1866, ch. 242, 14 Stat. L. 239; the amendatory Act of June 25, 1868, ch. 80, 15 Stat. L. 80, the amendatory Act of April 10, 1869, ch. 27, 16 Stat. L. 47, and the Act of May 4, 1870, ch. 69, 16 Stat. L. 94.

The resolution mentioned in the preamble is the Res. of April 30, 1908, No. 18, 35 Stat. L. 571.

Name of Act.—This Act is known as the Chamberlain-Ferris Act. Oregon, etc., R. C. v. U. S., 243 U. S. 549, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 890.

Constitutionality.—Vested rights of railway companies whose disregard of the covenants in certain congressional land grant Acts that the lands granted shall be sold to actual settlers only, in quantities not greater than one quarter section to one purchaser, and at a price not exceeding $2.50 an acre, had made the lands more inviting for speculation than for settlement, were not destroyed without due process of law by the enactment, in the exercise of the reserved power to alter or repeal, of the provisions of this Act, which revert the title to the unsold lands in the United States, excepting rights of way and lands in actual use for depots, sidetracks, etc., and regulate the disposition of such lands and the distribution of the proceeds, securing to the railway companies $2.50 an acre, less any off-sets properly chargeable against the railway companies on account of prior sales, the use of the timber, the evading of taxation, etc. Oregon, etc., R. Co. v. U. S., 243 U. S. 549, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 890.

SEC. 2. [Classification of revested lands.] That the Secretary of the Interior, in cooperation with the Secretary of Agriculture, or otherwise, is hereby authorized and directed, after due examination in the field, to classify said lands by the smallest legal subdivisions thereof into three classes, as follows:

Class one. Power-site lands, which shall include only such lands as are chiefly valuable for water-power sites, which lands shall be subject to withdrawal and such use and disposition as has been or may be provided by law for other public lands of like character.

Class two. Timberlands, which shall include lands bearing a growth of timber not less than three hundred thousand feet board measure on each forty-acre subdivision.

Class three. Agricultural lands, which shall include all lands not falling within either of the two other classes:

Provided, That any of said lands, however classified, may be reclassified, if, because of a change of conditions or other reasons, such action is required to denote properly the true character and class of such lands: Provided further, That all the general laws of the United States now existing or hereafter enacted relating to the granting of rights of way over or permits for the use of public lands shall be applicable to all lands title to which is revested in the United States under the provisions of this Act. All lands disposed of under the provisions of this Act shall be subject to all rights of way which the Secretary of the Interior shall at any time deem necessary for the removal of the timber from any lands of class two. [39 Stat. L. 219.]

SEC. 3. [Effect of classification — mineral lands — disposition of timber thereon.] That the classification provided for by the preceding section shall not operate to exclude from exploration, entry, and disposition, under the mineral land laws of the United States, any of said lands, except power sites, which are chiefly valuable for the mineral deposits contained therein, and the general mineral laws are hereby extended to all of said lands, except power sites: Provided, That any person entering mineral lands of class two shall not acquire title to the timber thereon, which shall be sold as hereinafter provided in section four, but he shall have the right to use so much of the timber thereon as may be necessary in the development and operation of his mine until such time as such timber is sold by the United States. [39 Stat. L. 219.]

SEC. 4. [Nonmineral lands — disposition of timber.] That nonmineral lands of class two shall not be disposed of until the Secretary of the Interior has determined and announced that the merchantable timber thereon has been removed, and thereupon said lands shall fall into class three and be disposed of in the manner hereinafter provided for the disposal of lands of that class.

The timber on lands of class two shall be sold for cash by the Secretary of the Interior, in cooperation with the Secretary of Agriculture, or otherwise, to citizens of the United States, associations of such citizens, and corporations organized under the laws of the United States, or any State, Territory, or District thereof, at such times, in such quantities, and under such plan of public competitive bidding as in the judgment of the Secretary of the Interior may produce the best results: Provided, That said Secretary shall have the right to reject any bid where he has reason to believe that the price offered is inadequate, and may reoffer the timber until a satisfactory bid is received: Provided further, That upon application of a qualified purchaser that any legal subdivision shall be separately offered for sale such subdivision shall be separately offered before being included in any offer of a larger unit, if such application be filed within ninety days prior to such offer: And provided further, That said timber shall be sold as rapidly as reasonable prices can be secured therefor in a normal market.

The Secretary of the Interior shall as soon as the purchase price is fully paid by any person purchasing under the provisions of this section issue to such purchaser a patent conveying the timber and expressly reserving the land to the United States. The timber thus purchased may be cut and removed by the purchaser, his heirs or assigns, within such period as may be fixed by the Secretary of the Interior, which period shall be designated in the patent; all rights under said patent shall cease and terminate at the expiration of said period: Provided, That in the event the timber is removed prior to the expiration of said period the Secretary of the Interior shall make due announcement thereof, whereupon all rights under the patent shall cease.

No timber shall be removed until the issuance of patent therefor. All timber sold under this Act shall be subject to the taxing power of the States apart from the land as soon as patents are issued as provided for herein. [39 Stat. L. 219.]

SEC. 5. [Agricultural lands — entry — application of homestead laws.] That nonmineral lands of class three shall be subject to entry under the general provisions of the homestead laws of the United States, except as modified herein, and opened to entry in accordance with the provisions of the Act of September thirtieth, nineteen hundred and thirteen (Thirty-eighth Statutes at Large, page one hundred and thirteen). Fifty cents per acre shall be paid at the time the original entry is allowed and $2 per acre when final proof is made. The provisions of section twenty-three hundred and one, Revised Statutes, shall not apply to any entry hereunder and no patent shall issue until the entryman has resided upon and cultivated the land for a period of three years, proof of which shall be made at any time within five years from date of entry. The area cultivated shall be such as to satisfy the Secretary of the Interior that the entry is made in good faith for the purpose of settlement and not for speculation: Provided, That the payment of $2.50 per acre shall not be required for homestead entrymen upon lands of class two when the same shall become subject to entry as agricultural lands in class three: Provided further, That during the period fixed for the submission of applications to make entry under this section any person duly qualified to enter such lands who has resided thereon, to the same extent and in the same manner as is required under the homestead laws, since the first day of December, nineteen hundred and thirteen, and who has improved the land and devoted some portion thereof to agricultural use, and who shall have maintained his residence to the date of such application, shall have the preferred right to enter the quarter section upon which he was so residing whether such lands shall be of class two or class three and where such quarter section does not contain more than one million two hundred thousand feet board measure of timber, and where the quarter section contains more than the said quantity of timber such person may enter the forty-acre tract, or lot or lots containing approximately forty acres, upon which his improvements, or the greater part thereof, are situated: Provided further, That a prior exercise of the homestead right by any such person shall not be a bar to the exercise of such preference rights: And provided further, That all of the following described lands which may become revested in the United States by operation of this Act, to-wit: Township one south, range five east, sections twenty-three and thirty-five; township one south, range six east, sections three, five, seven, nine, seventeen, nineteen, twenty-nine, thirty-one, and thirty-three; township two south, range five east, sections one and three; township two south, range six east, sections one, three, five, seven, nine, and eleven; township two south, range seven east, section seven; township three south, range three east, section fifteen; township four south, range four east, sections eleven and thirteen; township four south, range five east, sections nineteen and twenty-nine; and township twelve south, range seven west, sections fifteen, twenty-one, twenty-three, twenty-seven, thirty-three, and thirty-five, Willamette meridian and base, State of Oregon, shall be withheld from entry or other disposition for a period of two years after the approval hereof. [39 Stat. L. 221.]

SEC. 7. [Suits against railroad — recovery of moneys received on account of lands — taxes.] That the Attorney General of the United States be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to institute and prosecute any and all suits in equity and actions at law against the Oregon and California Railroad Company, and any other proper party which he may deem appropriate, to have determined the amount of moneys which have been received by the said railroad company or its predecessors from or on account of any of said granted lands, whether sold or unsold, patented or unpatented, and which should be charged against it as a part of the "full value" secured to the grantees under said granting Acts as heretofore interpreted by the Supreme Court. In making this determination the court shall take into consideration and give due and proper legal effect to all receipts of money from sales of land or timber, forfeited contracts, rent, timber depredations, and interest on contracts, or from any other source relating to said lands; also to the value of timber taken from said lands and used by said grantees or their successor or successors. In making this determination in the aforementioned suit or suits the court shall also determine, on the application of the Attorney General, the amount of the taxes on said lands paid by the United States, as provided in this Act, and which should in law have been paid by the said Oregon and California Railroad Company, and the amount thus determined shall be treated as money received by said railroad company. [39 Stat. L. 221.]

SEC. 8. [Title to moneys on deposit to await outcome of suit — subrogation.] That the title to all money arising out of said grant lands and now on deposit to await the final outcome of said suit commenced by the United States in pursuance of said joint resolution of nineteen hundred and eight is hereby vested in the United States, and the United States is subrogated to all the rights and remedies of the obligee or obligees, and especially of Louis L. SEC. 9. [Taxes — payment by government.] That the taxes accrued and now unpaid on the lands revested in the United States, whether situate in the State of Oregon or State of Washington, shall be paid by the Treasurer of the United States, upon the order of the Secretary of the Interior, as soon as may be after the approval of this Act, and a sum sufficient to make such payment is hereby appropriated, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated. [39 Stat. L. 221.]

SEC. 10. [Moneys received for lands and timber — special fund — liens — payments from fund.] That all moneys received from or on account of said lands and timber under the provisions of this Act shall be deposited in the Treasury of the United States in a special fund, to be designated "The Oregon and California land-grant fund," which fund shall be disposed of in the following manner: The Secretary of the Interior shall ascertain as soon as may be the exact number of acres of said lands, sold or unsold, patented to the Oregon and California Railroad Company, or its predecessors, and the number of acres of unpatented lands which said railroad company is entitled to receive under the terms of said grants and the value of said lands at $2.50 per acre. From the sum thus ascertained he shall deduct the amount already received by the said railroad company and its predecessors in interest on account of said lands and which should be charged against it as determined under section seven of this Act; and a sum equal to the balance thus resulting shall be paid, as herein provided, to the said railroad company, its successors or assigns, and to those having liens on the land, as their respective interests may appear. The amount due lien holders shall be evidenced either by the consent, in writing, of the railroad company or by a judgment of a court of competent jurisdiction in a suit to which the railroad company and the lien holders are parties. Payments shall be made from time to time, as the fund accumulates, by the Treasurer of the United States upon the order of the Secretary of the Interior: Provided, however, That if, upon the expiration of ten years from the approval of this Act, the proceeds derived from the sale of lands and timber are not sufficient to pay the full amount which the said railroad company, its successors or assigns, are entitled to receive, the balance due shall be paid from the general funds in the Treasury of the United States, and an appropriation shall be made therefor. After the said railroad company, its successors or assigns, and the lien holders shall have been paid the amount to which they are entitled, as provided herein, an amount equal to that paid for accumulated taxes, as provided in section nine hereof, shall be deposited in the Treasury to the credit of the United States, thereafter all other moneys received from the sales of land and timber shall be distributed as follows:

A separate account shall be kept in the General Land Office of the sales of land and timber within each county in which any of said lands are situated, and, after deducting from the amount of the proceeds arising from such sales in each county a sum equal to that applied to pay the accrued taxes in that county and a sum equal to $2.50 per acre for each acre of such land therein title to which is revested in the United States under this Act, twenty-five per centum of the remainder shall be paid to the State treasurer of the State in which the land is located, to be and become a part of the irreducible school fund of the State; twenty-five per centum shall be paid to the treasurer of the county for common schools, roads, highways, bridges, and port districts, to be apportioned by the county courts for the several purposes above named; forty per centum shall be paid into, reserved, and appropriated as a part of the fund created by the Act of Congress approved June seventeenth, nineteen hundred and two, known as the reclamation Act; ten per centum shall become a part of the general fund in the Treasury of the United States; and of the balance remaining in said Oregon and California land grant fund from whatsoever source derived twenty-five per centum shall be paid to the State treasurer of the State in which the land is located, to be and become a part of the irreducible school fund of the State; twenty-five per centum shall be paid to the treasurer of the county for common schools, roads, highways, bridges, and port districts, to be apportioned by the county courts for the several purposes above named; and the remainder shall become a part of the general fund in the Treasury of the United States. The payments herein authorized shall be made to the treasurers of the States and counties, respectively, by the Treasurer of the United States, upon the order of the Secretary of the Interior, as soon as may be after the close of each fiscal year during which the moneys were received: Provided, That none of the payments to the States and counties and to the reclamation fund in this section provided for shall be made until the amount due the Oregon and California Railroad Company, its successors or assigns, has been fully paid, and the Treasury reimbursed for all taxes paid pursuant to the provisions of section nine of this Act. An Act To establish a National Park Service, and for other purposes.

[SEC. 1.] [National Park Service — creation — officers and employees — purpose of service.] That there is hereby created in the Department of the Interior a service to be called the National Park Service, which shall be under the charge of a director, who shall be appointed by the Secretary and who shall receive a salary of $4,500 per annum. There shall also be appointed by the Secretary the following assistants and other employees at the salaries designated: One assistant director, at $2,500 per annum; one chief clerk, at $2,000 per annum; one draftsman, at $1,800 per annum; one messenger, at $600 per annum; and, in addition thereto, such other employees as the Secretary of the Interior shall deem necessary: Provided, That not more than $8,100 annually shall be expended for salaries of experts, assistants, and employees within the District of Columbia not herein specifically enumerated unless previously authorized by law. The service thus established shall promote and regulate the use of the Federal areas known as national parks, monuments, and reservations hereinafter specified by such means and measures as conform to the fundamental purpose of the said parks, monuments, and reservations, which purpose is to conserve the scenery and the natural and historic objects and the wild life therein and to provide for the enjoyment of the same in such manner and by such means as will leave them unimpaired for the enjoyment of future generations. [39 Stat. L. 535.]

SEC. 2. [Duties of director — cooperation of Secretary of Agriculture.] That the director shall, under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior, have the supervision, management, and control of the several parks and national monuments which are now under the jurisdiction of the Department of the Interior and of the Hot Springs Reservation in the State of Arkansas, and of such other national parks and reservations of like character as may be hereafter created by Congress: Provided, That in the supervision, management, and control of national monuments contiguous to national forests the Secretary of Agriculture may cooperate with said National Park Service to such extent as may be requested by the Secretary of the Interior. [39 Stat. L. 535.]

SEC. 3. [Rules and regulations — publication — violation — disposition of timber — leases and privileges.] That the Secretary of the Interior shall make and publish such rules and regulations as he may deem necessary or proper for the use and management of the parks, monuments, and reservations under the jurisdiction of the National Park Service, and any violations of any of the rules and regulations authorized by this Act shall be punished as provided for in section fifty of the Act entitled "An Act to codify and amend the penal laws of the United States," approved March fourth, nineteen hundred and nine, as amended by section six of the Act of June twenty-fifth, nineteen hundred and ten (Thirty-sixth United States Statutes at Large, page eight hundred and fifty-seven). He may also, upon terms and conditions to be fixed by him, sell or dispose of timber in those cases where in his judgment the cutting of such timber is required in order to control the attacks of insects or diseases or otherwise conserve the scenery or the natural or historic objects in any such park, monument, or reservation. He may also provide in his discretion for the destruction of such animals and of such plant life as may be detrimental to the use of any of said parks, monuments, or reservations. He may also grant privileges, leases, and permits for the use of land for the accommodation of visitors in the various parks, monuments, or other reservations herein provided for, but for periods not exceeding twenty years; and no natural curiosities, wonders, or objects of interest shall be leased, rented, or granted to anyone on such terms as to interfere with free access to them by the public: Provided, however, That the Secretary of the Interior may, under such rules and regulations and on such terms as he may prescribe, grant the privilege to graze live stock within any national park, monument, or reservation herein referred to when in his judgment such use is not detrimental to the primary purpose for which such park, monument, or reservation was created, except that this provision shall not apply to Yellowstone National Park. [39 Stat. L. 535.]

For Penal Laws, § 50, mentioned in the text, as originally enacted, see 1909 Supp. Fed. Stat. Ann. 419; for said section 50, as amended by the Act of June 25, 1910, ch. 431, § 6, mentioned in the text, see 1912 Supp. Fed. Stat. Ann. 98, 7 Fed. Stat. Ann. (2d ed.) 618.

SEC. 4. [Effect on prior Act.] That nothing in this Act contained shall affect or modify the provisions of the Act approved February fifteenth, nineteen hundred and one, entitled "An Act relating to rights of way through certain parks, reservations, and other public lands." [39 Stat. L. 536.]

For the Act of Feb. 15, 1901, ch. 372, mentioned in this section, see 6 Fed. Stat. Ann. 513; 8 Fed. Stat. Ann. (2d ed.) 811.

II. CRATER LAKE NATIONAL PARK

An Act To accept the cession by the State of Oregon of exclusive jurisdiction over the lands embraced within the Crater Lake National Park, and for other purposes.

[Act of Aug. 21, 1916, ch. 368, 39 Stat. L. 521.]

[SEC. 1.] [Crater Lake National Park — jurisdiction of United States — laws applicable.] That the provisions of the act of the Legislature of the State of Oregon, approved January twenty-fifth, nineteen hundred and fifteen, ceding to the United States exclusive jurisdiction over the territory embraced within the Crater Lake National Park, are hereby accepted and sole and exclusive jurisdiction is hereby assumed by the United States over such territory, saving, however, to the said State the right to serve civil or criminal process within the limits of the aforesaid park in suits or prosecution for or on account of rights acquired, obligations incurred, or crimes committed in said State but outside of said park, and saving further to the said State the right to tax persons and corporations, their franchises and property, on the lands included in said park. All the laws applicable to places under the sole and exclusive jurisdiction of the United States shall have force and effect in said park. All fugitives from justice taking refuge in said park shall be subject to the same laws as refugees from justice found in the State of Oregon. [39 Stat. L. 521.]

SEC. 2. [Judicial district.] That said park shall constitute a part of the United States judicial district for Oregon, and the district court of the United States in and for Oregon shall have jurisdiction of all offenses committed within said boundaries. [39 Stat. L. 522.]

SEC. 3. [Offenses — punishment.] That if any offense shall be committed in the Crater Lake National Park, which offense is not prohibited or the punishment for which is not specifically provided for by any law of the United States, the offender shall be subject to the same punishment as the laws of the State of Oregon in force at the time of the commission of the offense may provide for a like offense in said State; and no subsequent repeal of any such law of the State of Oregon shall affect any prosecution for said offense committed within said park. [39 Stat. L. 522.]

SEC. 4. [Hunting and fishing — rules and regulations.] That all hunting or the killing, wounding, or capturing at any time of any wild bird or animal, except dangerous animals when it is necessary to prevent them from destroying human lives or inflicting injury, is prohibited within the limits of said park; nor shall any fish be taken out of the waters of the park in any other way than by hook and line, and then only at such seasons and in such times and manner as may be directed by the Secretary of the Interior. That the Secretary of the Interior shall make and publish such rules and regulations as he may deem necessary and proper for the management and care of the park and for the protection of the property therein, especially for the preservation from injury or spoliation of all timber, mineral deposits other than those legally located prior to the passage of this Act, natural curiosities, or wonderful objects within said park, and for the protection of the animals and birds in the park from capture or destruction, and to prevent their being frightened or driven from the park; and he shall make rules and regulations governing the taking of fish from the streams or lakes of the park. Possession within said park of the dead bodies, or any part thereof, of any wild bird or animal shall be prima facie evidence that the person or persons having the same are guilty of violating this Act. Any person or persons, or stage or express company, or railway company, who knows or has reason to believe that they were taken or killed contrary to the provisions of this Act and who receives for transportation any of said animals, birds, or fish so killed, caught, or taken, or who shall violate any of the other provisions of this Act or any rule or regulation that may be promulgated by the Secretary of the Interior with reference to the management and care of the park or for the protection of the property therein, for the preservation from injury or spoliation of timber, mineral deposits other than those legally located prior to the passage of this Act, natural curiosities, or wonderful objects within said park, or for the protection of the animals, birds, or fish in the park, or who shall within said park commit any damage, injury, or spoliation to or upon any building, fence, hedge, gate, guidepost, tree, wood, underwood, timber, garden, crops, vegetables, plants, land, springs, mineral deposits other than those legally located prior to the passage of this Act, natural curiosities, or other matter or thing growing or being thereon or situate therein, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be subject to a fine of not more than $500 or imprisonment not exceeding six months, or both, and be adjudged to pay all costs of the proceedings. [39 Stat. L. 522.]

SEC. 5. [Forfeiture of property used illegally.] That all guns, traps, teams, horses, or means of transportation of every nature or description used by any person or persons within said park limits when engaged in killing, trapping, ensnaring, or capturing such wild beasts, birds, or animals shall be forfeited to the United States and may be seized by the officers in said park and held pending the prosecution of any person or persons arrested under charge of violating the provisions of this Act, and upon conviction under this Act of such person or persons using said guns, traps, teams, horses, or other means of transportation; such forfeiture shall be adjudicated as a penalty in addition to the other punishment provided in this Act. Such forfeited property shall be disposed of and accounted for by and under the authority of the Secretary of the Interior. [39 Stat. L. 523.]

SEC. 6. [United States Commissioner — appointment — jurisdiction — appeals.] That the United States District Court for Oregon shall appoint a commissioner who shall reside in the park and who shall have jurisdiction to hear and act upon all complaints made of any violations of law or of the rules and regulations made by the Secretary of the Interior for the government of the park and for the protection of the animals, birds, and fish, and objects of interest therein, and for other purposes authorized by this Act.

Such commissioner shall have power, upon sworn information, to issue process in the name of the United States for the arrest of any person charged with the commission of any misdemeanor, or charged with a violation of the rules and regulations, or with a violation of any of the provisions of this Act prescribed for the government of said park and for the protection of the animals, birds, and fish in said park, and to try the person so charged, and if found guilty, to impose punishment and to adjudge the forfeiture prescribed.

In all cases of conviction an appeal shall lie from the judgment of said commissioner to the United States District Court for Oregon, and the United States court in said district shall prescribe the rules of procedure and practice for said commissioner in the trial of cases and for appeal to said United States District Court. [39 Stat. L. 523.]

SEC. 7. [Process — issuance — bail.] That any such commissioner shall also have power to issue process as hereinbefore provided for the arrest of any person charged with the commission within said boundaries of any criminal offense not covered by the provisions of section four of this Act to hear the evidence introduced, and if he is of opinion that probable cause is shown for holding the person so charged for trial shall cause such person to be safely conveyed to a secure place of confinement within the jurisdiction of the United States District Court for Oregon, and certify a transcript of the record of his proceedings and the testimony in the case to said court, which court shall have jurisdiction of the case: Provided, That the said commissioner shall grant bail in all cases bailable under the laws of the United States or of said State. [39 Stat. L. 523.]

SEC. 8. [Service of process — arrest without process.] That all process issued by the commissioner shall be directed to the marshal of the United States for the district of Oregon, but nothing herein contained shall be so construed as to prevent the arrest by any officer or employee of the Government or any person employed by the United States in the policing of said reservation within said boundaries without process of any person taken in the act of violating the law or this Act or the regulations prescribed by said Secretary as aforesaid. [39 Stat. L. 523.]

SEC. 9. [Salary of Commissioner.] That the commissioner provided for in this Act shall be paid an annual salary of $1,500, payable quarterly: Provided, That the said commissioner shall reside within the exterior boundaries of said Crater Lake National Park, at a place to be designated by the court making such appointment: Provided further, That all fees, costs, and expenses collected by the commissioner shall be disposed of as provided in section eleven of this Act. [39 Stat. L. 523.]

SEC. 10. [Fees, costs, and expenses—payment.] That all fees, costs, and expenses arising in cases under this Act and properly chargeable to the United States shall be certified, approved, and paid as are like fees, costs, and expenses in the courts of the United States. [39 Stat. L. 524.]

SEC. 11. [Deposit of fines and costs.] That all fines and costs imposed and collected shall be deposited by said commissioner of the United States, or the marshal of the United States collecting the same, with the clerk of the United States District Court for Oregon. [39 Stat. L. 524.]

SEC. 12. [Notice of approval of Act.] That the Secretary of the Interior shall notify, in writing, the governor of the State of Oregon of the passage and approval of this Act. [39 Stat. L. 524.]

SEC. 2. [Act of Sept. 3, 5, 1916, ch. 436, 39 Stat. L. 721.]

[SEC. 1.] [Eight-hour day — establishment for employees of carriers engaged in interstate, etc., commerce.] That beginning January first, nineteen hundred and seventeen, eight hours shall, in contracts for labor and service, be deemed a day's work and the measure or standard of a day's work for the purpose of reckoning the compensation for services of all employees who are now or may hereafter be employed by any common carrier by railroad, except railroads independently owned and operated not exceeding one hundred miles in length, electric street railroads, and electric interurban railroads, which is subject to the provisions of the Act of February fourth, eighteen hundred and eighty-seven, entitled "An Act to regulate commerce," as amended, and who are now or may hereafter be actually engaged in any capacity in the operation of trains used for the transportation of persons or property on railroads, except railroads independently owned and operated not exceeding one hundred miles in length, electric street railroads, and electric interurban railroads, from any State or Territory of the United States or the District of Columbia to any other State or Territory of the United States or the District of Columbia, or from one place in a Territory to another place in the same Territory, or from any place in the United States to an adjacent foreign country, or from any place in the United States through a foreign country to any other place in the United States: Provided, That the above exceptions shall not apply to railroads though less than one hundred miles in length whose principal business is leasing or furnishing terminal or transfer facilities to other railroads, or are themselves engaged in transfers of freight between railroads or between railroads and industrial plants. [39 Stat. L. 721.]

This is the so-called "Adamson Act." It was approved on Sept. 3 and again on Sept. 5, because the 3d fell on Sunday, and some doubt existed as to the validity of an Act approved on that day.

That the sum of $25,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary, be, and hereby is, appropriated, out of any money in the United States Treasury not otherwise appropriated, for the necessary and proper expenses incurred in connection with the work of such commission, including salaries, per diem, traveling expenses of members and employees, and rent, furniture, office fixtures and supplies, books, salaries, and other necessary expenses, the same to be approved by the chairman of said commission and audited by the proper accounting officers of the Treasury. [39 Stat. L. 722.]

Sec. 3. [Compensation pending report of commission.] That pending the report of the commission herein provided for and for a period of thirty days thereafter the compensation of railway employees subject to this Act for a standard eight-hour workday shall not be reduced below the present standard day's wage, and for all necessary time in excess of eight hours such employees shall be paid at a rate not less than the pro rata rate for such standard eight-hour workday. [39 Stat. L. 722.]

SEC. 4. [Violation of Act—punishment.] That any person violating any provision of this Act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined not less than $100 and not more than $1,000, or imprisoned not to exceed one year, or both. [39 Stat. L. 722.]

[SEC. 1.] [Hours of service of employees—limitation—penalties—prosecutions—defenses—former Act amended.] That section three of an Act entitled "An Act to promote the safety of employees and travelers upon railroads by limiting the hours of service of employees thereon," approved March fourth, nineteen hundred and seven, be, and the same is hereby, amended so as to read as follows:

"SEC. 3. That any such common carrier, or any officer or agent thereof, requiring or permitting any employee to go, be, or remain on duty in violation of the second section hereof shall be liable to a penalty of not less than $100 nor more than $500 for each and every violation, to be recovered in a suit or suits to be brought by the United States district attorney in the district court of the United States having jurisdiction in the locality where such violations shall have been committed; and it shall be the duty of such district attorney to bring such suit upon satisfactory information being lodged with him; but no such suit shall be brought after the expiration of one year from the date of such violation; and it shall also be the duty of the Interstate Commerce Commission to lodge with the proper district attorney information of any such violations as may come to its knowledge. In all prosecutions under this Act the common carrier shall be deemed to have knowledge of all acts of all its officers and agents: Provided, That the provisions of this Act shall not apply in any case of casualty or unavoidable accident of the act of God; nor where the delay was the result of a cause not known to the carrier or its officer or agent in charge of such employee at the time said employee left a terminal, and which could not have been foreseen: Provided further, That the provisions of this Act shall not apply to the crews of wrecking or relief trains." SEC. 2. [Effect on prior or pending suits.] That nothing in this Act shall affect, or be held to affect, any suit that may be instituted for recovery of penalty for violation of the Act hereby amended occurring prior to the approval of this Act, or any suit for such penalty or growing out of alleged violation of the Act hereby amended which may be pending in any court at the time of the approval of this Act. IV. FEDERAL CONTROL

An Act To provide for the operation of transportation systems while under Federal control, for the just compensation of their owners, and for other purposes.

[SEC. 1.] [Railroads — federal control — compensation — payment — income — excess of income over compensation — computation — taxes — maintenance.] That the President, having in time of war taken over the possession, use, control, and operation (called herein Federal control) of certain railroads and systems of transportation (called herein carriers), is hereby authorized to agree with and to guarantee to any such carrier making operating returns to the Interstate commerce commission, that during the period of such Federal control it shall receive as just compensation an annual sum, payable from time to time in reasonable installments, for each year and pro rata for any fractional year of such Federal control, not exceeding a sum equivalent as nearly as may be to its average annual railway operating income for the three years ended June thirtieth, nineteen hundred and seventeen.

That any railway operating income accruing during the period of Federal control in excess of such just compensation shall remain the property of the United States. In the computation of such income, debits and credits arising from the accounts called in the monthly reports to the Interstate Commerce Commission equipment rents and joint facility rents shall be included, but debits and credits arising from the operation of such street electric passenger railways, including railways commonly called interurbans, as are at the time of the agreement not under Federal control, shall be excluded. If any lines were acquired by, leased to, or consolidated with such railroad or system between July first, nineteen hundred and fourteen, and December thirty-first, nineteen hundred and seventeen, both inclusive, and separate operating returns to the Interstate Commerce Commission were not made for such lines after such acquisition, lease, or consolidation, there shall (before the average is computed) be added to the total railway operating income of such railroad or system for the three years ended June thirtieth, nineteen hundred and seventeen, the total railway operating income of the lines so acquired, leased, or consolidated, for the period beginning July first, nineteen hundred and fourteen, and ending on the date of such acquisition, lease, or consolidation, or on December thirty-first, nineteen hundred and seventeen, whichever is the earlier. The average annual railway operating income shall be ascertained by the Interstate Commerce Commission and certified by it to the President. Its certificate shall, for the purpose of such agreement, be taken as conclusive of the amount of such average annual railway operating income.

Every such agreement shall provide that any Federal taxes under the Act of October third, nineteen hundred and seventeen, or Acts in addition thereto or in amendment thereof, commonly called war taxes, assessed for the period of Federal control beginning January first, nineteen hundred and eighteen, or any part of such period, shall be paid by the carrier out of its own funds, or shall be charged against or deducted from the just compensation; that other taxes assessed under Federal or any other governmental authority for the period of Federal control or any part thereof, either on the property used under such Federal control or on the right to operate as a carrier, or on the revenues or any part thereof derived from operation (not including, however, assessments for public improvements or taxes assessed on property under construction, and chargeable under the classification of the Interstate Commerce Commission to investment in road and equipment), shall be paid out of revenues derived from railway operations while under Federal control; that all taxes assessed under Federal or any other governmental authority for the period prior to January first, nineteen hundred and eighteen, whenever levied or payable, shall be paid by the carrier out of its own funds, or shall be charged against or deducted from the just compensation.

Every such agreement shall also contain adequate and appropriate provisions for the maintenance, repair, renewals, and depreciation of the property, for the creation of any reserves or reserve funds found necessary in connection therewith, and for such accounting and adjustments of charges and payments, both during and at the end of Federal control as may be requisite in order that the property of each carrier may be returned to it in substantially as good repair and in substantially as complete equipment as it was in at the beginning of Federal control, and also that the United States may, by deductions from the just compensations or by other proper means and charges, be reimbursed for the cost of any additions, repairs, renewals, and betterments to such property not justly chargeable to the United States; in making such accounting and adjustments, due consideration shall be given to the amounts expended or reserved by each carrier for maintenance, repairs, renewals, and depreciation during the three years ended June thirtieth, nineteen hundred and seventeen, to the condition of the property at the beginning and at the end of the Federal control and to any other pertinent facts and circumstances.

The President is further authorized in such agreement to make all other reasonable provisions, not inconsistent with the provisions of this Act or of the Act entitled "An Act making appropriations for the support of the Army for the fiscal year ending June thirtieth, nineteen hundred and seventeen, and for other purposes," approved August twenty-ninth, nineteen hundred and sixteen, that he may deem necessary or proper for such Federal control or for the determination of the mutual rights and obligations of the parties to the agreement arising from or out of such Federal control.

If the President shall find that the condition of any carrier was during all or a substantial portion of the period of three years ended June thirtieth, nineteen hundred and seventeen, because of nonoperation, receivership, or where recent expenditures for additions or improvements or equipment were not fully reflected in the operating railway income of said three years or a substantial portion thereof, or because of any undeveloped or abnormal conditions, so exceptional as to make the basis of earnings hereinabove provided for plainly inequitable as a fair measure of just compensation, then the President may make with the carrier such agreement for such amount as just compensation as under the circumstances of the particular case he shall find just.

That every railroad not owned, controlled, or operated by another carrier company, and which has heretofore competed for traffic with a railroad or railroads of which the President has taken the possession, use, and control, or which connects with such railroads and is engaged as a common carrier in general transportation, shall be held and considered as within "Federal control," as herein defined, and necessary for the prosecution of the war, and shall be entitled to the benefit of all the provisions of this Act: Provided, however, That nothing in this paragraph shall be construed as including any street or interurban electric railway which has as its principal source of operating revenue urban, suburban, or interurban passenger traffic, or sale of power, heat and light, or both.

The agreement shall also provide that the carrier shall accept all the terms and conditions of this Act and any regulation or order made by or through the President under authority of this Act or of that portion of the Act entitled "An Act making appropriations for the support of the Army for the fiscal year ending June thirtieth, nineteen hundred and seventeen, and for other purposes," approved August twenty-ninth, nineteen hundred and sixteen, which authorizes the President in time of war to take possession, assume control, and utilize systems of transportation. [— Stat. L. —.]

For the Army Appropriation Act of Aug. 29, 1916, ch. 418, § 1, see WAR DEPARTMENT AND MILITARY ESTABLISHMENT.

Jurisdiction of negligence cases against railroad.—In Muir v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 247 Fed. 888, (1918 D. C. W. D. Ky.) it was held that an action against a railroad company, for an accident occurring December 20, 1917, and therefore before the President's proclamation of December 26, 1917, taking control of the railroad under this Act, should be remanded from a federal court, to which it had been removed from a state court, back to the state court, as the federal court had no jurisdiction. The contention of the railroad company was that the action arose under the constitution and laws of the United States.

Garnishment proceedings will not lie against a railroad company under government control, by reason of the fact that the President's proclamation of December 26, 1917, taking over the railroads expressly prevented levies by lien or final process. Dooley v. Penn. R. Co., (1918 D. C. Minn.) 250 Fed. 142. See also Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Steel, (Ky. 1918) 202 S. W. 878.

SEC. 2. [Compensation in absence of agreement — payment — excess of profits over compensation.] That if no such agreement is made, or pending the execution of an agreement, the President may nevertheless pay to any carrier while under Federal control an annual amount, payable in reasonable installments, not exceeding ninety per centum of the estimated annual amount of just compensation, remitting such carrier, in case where no agreement is made, to its legal rights for any balance claimed to the remedies provided in section three hereof. Any amount thereafter found due such carrier above the amount paid shall bear interest at the rate of six per centum per annum. The acceptance of any benefits under this section shall constitute an acceptance by the carrier of all the provisions of this Act and shall obligate the carrier to pay to the United States, with interest at the rate of six per centum per annum from a date or dates fixed in proceedings under section three, the amount by which the sums received under this section exceed the sum due in such proceedings. [— Stat. L. —.]

SEC. 3. [Adjustment of claims for compensation — boards for adjustment — powers, duties, etc.— agreements.] That all claims for just compensation not adjusted (as provided in section one) shall, on the application of the President or of any carrier, be submitted to boards, each consisting of three referees to be appointed by the Interstate Commerce Commission, members of which and the official force thereof being eligible for service on such boards without additional compensation. Such boards of referees are hereby authorized to summon witnesses, require the production of records, books, correspondence, documents, memoranda, and other papers, view properties, administer oaths, and may hold hearings in Washington and elsewhere, as their duties and the convenience of the parties may require. In case of disobedience to a subpoena the board may invoke the aid of any district court of the United States in requiring the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the production of documentary evidence, and such court within the jurisdiction of which such inquiry is carried on may, in case of contumacy or refusal to obey a subpoena issued to any person, corporation, partnership, or association, issue an order requiring appearance before the board, or the production of documentary evidence if so ordered, or the giving of evidence touching the matter in question; and any failure to obey such order of the court may be punished by such court as a contempt thereof. Such cases may be heard separately or together or by classes, by such boards as the Interstate Commerce Commission in the first instance, or any board of referees to which any such cases shall be referred may determine. Said boards shall give full hearings to such carriers and to the United States; shall consider all the facts and circumstances, and shall report as soon as practicable in each case to the President the just compensation, calculated on an annual basis and otherwise in such form as to be convenient and available for the making of such agreement as is authorized in section one. The President is authorized to enter into an agreement with such carrier for just compensation upon a basis not in excess of that reported by such board, and may include therein provisions similar to those authorized under section one. Failing such agreement, either the United States or such carrier may file a petition in the Court of Claims for the purpose of determining the amount of such just compensation, and in the proceedings in said court the report of said referees shall be prima facie evidence of the amount of just compensation and of the facts therein stated. Proceedings in the Court of Claims under this section shall be given precedence and expedited in every practicable way. [— Stat. L. —.]

SEC. 4. [Increase of compensation.] That the just compensation that may be determined as hereinbefore provided by agreement or that may be adjudicated by the Court of Claims, shall be increased by an amount reckoned at a reasonable rate per centum to be fixed by the President upon the cost of any additions and betterments, less retirements, and upon the cost of road extensions to the property of such carrier made by such carrier with the approval of or by order of the President while such property is under Federal control. [— Stat. L. —.]

SEC. 5. [Dividends.] That no carrier while under Federal control shall, without the prior approval of the President, declare or pay any dividend in excess of its regular rate of dividends during the three years ended June thirtieth, nineteen hundred and seventeen: Provided, however, That such carriers as have paid no regular dividends or no dividends during said period may, with the prior approval of the President, pay dividends at such rate as the President may determine. [— Stat. L. —.]

SEC. 6. [Appropriation — expenditure — improvement of equipment, etc.— adjustment of losses — purchase of transportation facilities.] That the sum of $500,000,000 is hereby appropriated, out of any moneys in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, which, together with any funds available from any operating income of said carriers, may be used by the President as a revolving fund for the purpose of paying the expenses of the Federal control, and so far as necessary the amount of just compensation, and to provide terminals, motive power, cars, and other necessary equipment, such terminals, motive power, cars, and equipment to be used and accounted for as the President may direct and to be disposed of as Congress may hereafter by law provide.

The President may also make or order any carrier to make any additions, betterments, or road extensions, and to provide terminals, motive power, cars and other equipment necessary or desirable for war purposes or in the public interest on or in connection with the property of any carrier. He may from said revolving fund advance to such carrier all or any part of the expense of such additions, betterments, or road extensions, and to provide terminals, motive power, cars, and other necessary equipment so ordered and constructed by such carrier or by the President, such advances to be charged against such carrier and to bear interest at such rate and be payable on such terms as may be determined by the President, to the end that the United States may be fully reimbursed for any sums so advanced.

Any loss claimed by any carrier by reason of any such additions, betterments, or road extensions so ordered and constructed may be determined by agreement between the President and such carrier; failing such agreement the amount of such loss shall be ascertained as provided in section three hereof.

From said revolving fund the President may expend such an amount as he may deem necessary or desirable for the utilization and operation of canals, or for the purchase, construction, or utilization and operation of boats, barges, tugs, and other transportation facilities on the inland, canal, and coastwise waterways, and may in the operation and use of such facilities create or employ such agencies and enter into such contracts and agreements as he shall deem in the public interest. [— Stat. L. —.]

SEC. 7. [Bonds, etc.— issue — approval of President — purchase and sale by United States — annual reports.] That for the purpose of providing funds requisite for maturing obligations or for other legal and proper expenditures, or for reorganizing railroads in receivership, carriers may, during the period of Federal control, issue such bonds, notes, equipment trust certificates, stock, and other forms of securities, secured or unsecured by mortgage, as the President may first approve as consistent with the public interest. The President may, out of the revolving fund created by this Act, purchase for the United States all or any part of such securities at prices not exceeding par, and may sell such securities whenever in his judgment it is desirable at prices not less than the cost thereof. Any securities so purchased shall be held by the Secretary of the Treasury, who shall, under the direction of the President, represent the United States in all matters in connection therewith in the same manner as a private holder thereof. The President shall each year as soon as practicable after January first, cause a detailed report to be submitted to the Congress of all receipts and expenditures made under this section and section six during the preceding calendar year. [— Stat. L. —.]

SEC. 8. [Authority of President — agencies.] That the President may execute any of the powers herein and heretofore granted him with relation to Federal control through such agencies as he may determine, and may fix the reasonable compensation for the performance of services in connection therewith, and may avail himself of the advice, assistance, and cooperation of the Interstate Commerce Commission and of the members and employees thereof, and may also call upon any department, commission, or board of the Government for such services as he may deem expedient. But no such official or employee of the United States shall receive any additional compensation for such services except as now permitted by law. [— Stat. L. —.]

SEC. 9. [Effect on former Act — application of Act.] That the provisions of the Act entitled "An Act making appropriations for the support of the Army for the fiscal year ending June thirtieth, nineteen hundred and seventeen, and for other purposes," approved August twenty-ninth, nineteen hundred and sixteen, shall remain in force and effect except as expressly modified and restricted by this Act; and the President, in addition to the powers conferred by this Act, shall have and is hereby given such other and further powers necessary or appropriate to give effect to the powers herein and heretofore conferred. The provisions of this Act shall also apply to any carriers to which Federal control may be hereafter extended. [— Stat. L. —.]

For the Act of Aug. 29, 1918, ch. 418, § 1, mentioned in the text, see WAR DEPARTMENT AND MILITARY ESTABLISHMENT.

SEC. 10. [Carriers under Federal control — liabilities — suits by or against — new rates, charges, classifications, etc.] That carriers while under Federal control shall be subject to all laws and liabilities as common carriers, whether arising under State or Federal laws or at common law, except in so far as may be inconsistent with the provisions of this Act or any other Act applicable to such Federal control or with any order of the President. Actions at law or suits in equity may be brought by and against such carriers and judgments rendered as now provided by law; and in any action at law or suit in equity against the carrier, no defense shall be made thereto upon the ground that the carrier is an instrumentality or agency of the Federal Government. Nor shall any such carrier be entitled to have transferred to a Federal court any action heretofore or hereafter instituted by or against it, which action was not so transferable prior to the Federal control of such carrier; and any action which has heretofore been so transferred because of such Federal control or of any Act of Congress or official order or proclamation relating thereto shall upon motion of either party be retransferred to the court in which it was originally instituted. But no process, mesne or final, shall be levied against any property under such Federal control.

That during the period of Federal control, whenever in his opinion the public interest requires, the President may initiate rates, fares, charges, classifications, regulations, and practices by filing the same with the Interstate Commerce Commission, which said rates, fares, charges, classifications, regulations, and practices shall not be suspended by the commission pending final determination.

Said rates, fares, charges, classifications, regulations, and practices shall be reasonable and just and shall take effect at such time and upon such notice as he may direct, but the Interstate Commerce Commission shall, upon complaint, enter upon a hearing concerning the justness and reasonableness of so much of any order of the President as establishes or changes any rate, fare, charge, classification, regulation, or practice of any carrier under Federal control, and may consider all the facts and circumstances existing at the time of the making of the same. In determining any question concerning any such rates, fares, charges, classifications, regulations, or practices or changes therein, the Interstate Commerce Commission shall give due consideration to the fact that the transportation systems are being operated under a unified and coordinated national control and not in competition.

After full hearing the commission may make such findings and orders as are authorized by the Act to regulate commerce as amended, and said findings and orders shall be enforced as provided in said Act: Provided, however, That when the President shall find and certify to the Interstate Commerce Commission that in order to defray the expenses of Federal control and operation fairly chargeable to railway operating expenses, and also to pay railway tax accruals other than war taxes, net rents for joint facilities and equipment, and compensation to the carriers, operating as a unit, it is necessary to increase the railway operating revenues, the Interstate Commerce Commission in determining the justness and reasonableness of any rate, fare, charge, classification, regulation, or practice shall take into consideration said finding and certificate by the President, together with such recommendations as he may make. [— Stat. L. —.]

First paragraph construed.—The effect of the first paragraph of this section is to entirely suspend the right of issuing and levying executions, attachments, or other like process against the property of common carriers under federal control, during the continuance of such control; but it does not prevent a litigant from bringing his action against the latter in any court of competent jurisdiction, or such court from granting him such relief in the form of a judgment or otherwise, short of the coercive payment or satisfaction of such judgment by the levy of an execution or other like process upon or against any property of the carrier, as the litigant might, but for the passage of the act, under the laws of the state of his residence, have been entitled to. In other words, he may, notwithstanding the act, bring his action and obtain judgment against the carrier; but he cannot enforce against the latter the satisfaction of the judgment, when obtained, by execution or similar process. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Steel, 202 S. W. 878.

SEC. 11. [Violation of Act—interference with use, etc., of property, etc.—violation of orders, etc.—penalty—embezzlement of funds, etc.—prosecutions.] That every person or corporation, whether carrier or shipper, or any receiver, trustee, lessee, agent, or person acting for or employed by a carrier or shipper, or other person, who shall knowingly violate or fail to observe any of the provisions of this Act, or shall knowingly interfere with or impede the possession, use, operation, or control of any railroad property, railroad, or transportation system hitherto or hereafter taken over by the President, or shall knowingly violate any of the provisions of any order or regulation made in pursuance of this Act, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall, upon conviction, be punished by a fine of not more than $5,000, or, if a person, by imprisonment for not more than two years, or both. Each independent transaction constituting a violation of, or a failure to observe, any of the provisions of this Act, or any order entered in pursuance hereof, shall constitute a separate offense. For the taking or conversion to his own use or the embezzlement of money or property derived from or used in connection with the possession, use, or operation of said railroads or transportation systems, the criminal statutes of the United States, as well as the criminal statutes of the various States where applicable, shall apply to all officers, agents, and employees engaged in said railroad and transportation service, while the same is under Federal control, to the same extent as to persons employed in the regular service of the United States. Prosecutions for violations of this Act or of any order entered hereunder shall be in the district courts of the United States, under the direction of the Attorney General, in accordance with the procedure for the collection and imposing of fines and penalties now existing in said courts. [— Stat. L. —.]

SEC. 12. [Income derived from operation — disposition — disbursements — taxes.] That moneys and other property derived from the operation of the carriers during Federal control are hereby declared to be the property of the United States. Unless otherwise directed by the President, such moneys shall not be covered into the Treasury, but such moneys and property shall remain in the custody of the same officers, and the accounting thereof shall be in the same manner and form as before Federal control. Disbursements therefrom shall, without further appropriation, be made in the same manner as before Federal control and for such purposes as under the Interstate Commerce Commission classification of accounts in force on December twenty-seventh, nineteen hundred and seventeen, are chargeable to operating expenses or to railway tax accruals and for such other purposes in connection with Federal control as the President may direct, except that taxes under Titles One and Two of the Act entitled "An Act to provide revenue to defray war expenses, and for other purposes," approved October third, nineteen hundred and seventeen, or any Act in addition thereto or in amendment thereof, shall be paid by the carrier out of its own funds. If Federal control begins or ends during the tax year for which any taxes so chargeable to railway tax accruals are assessed, the taxes for such year shall be apportioned to the date of the beginning or ending of such Federal control, and disbursements shall be made only for that portion of such taxes as is due for the part of such tax year which falls within the period of Federal control.

At such periods as the President may direct, the books shall be closed and the balance of revenues over disbursements shall be covered into the Treasury of the United States to the credit of the revolving fund created by this Act. If such revenues are insufficient to meet such disbursements, the deficit shall be paid out of such revolving fund in such manner as the President may direct. [— Stat. L. —.]

For the Act of Oct. 3, 1917, ch. —, Titles I and II, mentioned in the text, see INTERNAL REVENUE, ante, pp. 336, 341.

SEC. 13. [Determination of pending cases.] That all pending cases in the courts of the United States affecting railroads or other transportation systems brought under the Act to regulate commerce, approved February fourth, eighteen hundred and eighty-seven, as amended and supplemented, including the commodities clause, so called, or under the Act to protect trade and commerce against unlawful restraints and monopolies, approved July second, eighteen hundred and ninety, and amendments thereto, shall proceed to final determination as soon as may be, as if the United States had not assumed control of transportation systems; but in any such case the court having jurisdiction may, upon the application of the United States, stay execution of final judgment or decree until such time as it shall deem proper. [— Stat. L. —.]

For the Act of Feb. 4, 1887, ch. 104, mentioned in the text, see 3 Fed. Stat. Ann. 809, and for said Act as subsequently amended, including the commodities clause, see 4 Fed. Stat. Ann. (2d ed.) 337.

For the Sherman Act of July 2, 1890, ch. 647, mentioned in the text, see 7 Fed. Stat. Ann. 336; 9 Fed. Stat. Ann. (2d ed.) 642.

SEC. 14. [Duration of Federal control.] That the Federal control of railroads and transportation systems herein and heretofore provided for shall continue for and during the period of the war and for a reasonable time thereafter, which shall not exceed one year and nine months next following the date of the proclamation by the President of the exchange of ratifications of the treaty of peace: Provided, however, That the President may, prior to July first, nineteen hundred and eighteen, relinquish control of all or any part of any railroad or system of transportation, further Federal control of which the President shall deem not needful or desirable; and the President may at any time during the period of Federal control agree with the owners thereof to relinquish all or any part of any railroad or system of transportation. The President may relinquish all railroads and systems of transportation under Federal control at any time he shall deem such action needful or desirable. No right to compensation shall accrue to such owners from and after the date of relinquishment for the property so relinquished. [— Stat. L. —.]

SEC. 15. [Effect on existing laws or powers of States.] That nothing in this Act shall be construed to amend, repeal, impair, or affect the existing laws or powers of the States in relation to taxation or the lawful police regulations of the several States, except wherein such laws, powers, or regulations may affect the transportation of troops, war materials, Government supplies, or the issue of stocks and bonds. [— Stat. L. —.]

SEC. 16. [Act as emergency legislation — effect on future policy of government.] That this Act is expressly declared to be emergency legislation enacted to meet conditions growing out of war; and nothing herein is to be construed as expressing or prejudicing the future policy of the Federal Government concerning the ownership, control, or regulation of carriers or the method or basis of the capitalization thereof. [— Stat. L. —.]

SEC. 7. [Report of Chief of Engineers.] That hereafter the Chief of Engineers, United States Army, shall indicate in his annual reports the character of the terminal and transfer facilities existing on every harbor or waterway under maintenance or improvement by the United States, and state whether they are considered adequate for existing commerce. The board shall be composed of five commissioners, to be appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate; said board shall annually elect one of its members as chairman and one as vice chairman.

The first commissioners appointed shall continue in office for terms of two, three, four, five, and six years, respectively, from the date of their appointment, the term of each to be designated by the President, but their successors shall be appointed for terms of six years, except that any person chosen to fill a vacancy shall be appointed only for the unexpired term of the commissioner whom he succeeds.

The President, upon the request of the board, may authorize the detail of officers of the military, naval, or other services of the United States for such duties as the board may deem necessary in connection with its business.

With the exception of the secretary, a clerk to each commissioner, the attorneys, naval architects, and such special experts and examiners as the board may from time to time find necessary to employ for the conduct of its work, all employees of the board shall be appointed from lists of eligibles to be supplied by the Civil Service Commission and in accordance with the civil-service law.

The expenses of the board, including necessary expenses for transportation, incurred by the members of the board or by its employees under its orders, in making any investigation, or upon official business in any other place than in the city of Washington, shall be allowed and paid on the presentation of itemized vouchers therefor approved by the chairman of the board.

(a) Which is then engaged in the foreign or domestic commerce of the United States, unless it is about to be withdrawn from such commerce without any intention on the part of the owner to return it thereto within a reasonable time;

(b) Which is under the registry or flag or [of] a foreign country which is then engaged in war;

(c) Which is not adapted, or can not by reasonable alterations and repairs be adapted, to the purpose specified in this section;

(d) Which, upon expert examination made under the direction of the board, a written report of such examination being filed as a public record, is not without alteration or repair found to be at least seventy-five per centum as efficient as at the time it was originally put in commission as a seaworthy vessel. [39 Stat. L. 730.]

SEC. 6. [Transfer of vessels to board by President.] That the President may transfer either permanently or for limited periods to the board such vessels belonging to the War or Navy Department as are suitable for commercial uses and not required for military or naval use in time of peace, and cause to be transferred to the board vessels owned by the Panama Railroad Company and not required in its business. [39 Stat. L. 730.]

SEC. 7. [Authority of board to charter, etc., vessels to citizens.] That the board, upon terms and conditions prescribed by it and approved by the President, may charter, lease, or sell to any person, a citizen of the United States, any vessel so purchased, constructed, or transferred. [39 Stat. L. 730.]

SEC. 8. [Sale of vessels unsuited to purposes of Act.] That when any vessel purchased or constructed by or transferred to the board as herein provided, and owned by the United States, becomes, in the opinion of the board, unfit for the purposes of this Act, it shall be appraised and sold at public or private competitive sale after due advertisement free from the conditions and restrictions of this Act. [39 Stat. L. 730.]

SEC. 9. [Registry, etc., of vessels — transfers, sales, etc.— penalty.] That any vessel purchased, chartered, or leased from the board may be registered or enrolled and licensed, or both registered and enrolled and licensed, as a vessel of the United States and entitled to the benefits and privileges appertaining thereto: Provided, That foreign-built vessels admitted to American registry or enrollment and license under this Act, and vessels owned, chartered, or leased by any corporation in which the United States is a stockholder, and vessels sold, leased, or chartered to any person a citizen of the United States, as provided in this Act, may engage in the coastwise trade of the United States while owned, leased, or chartered by such a person.

Every vessel purchased, chartered, or leased from the board shall, unless otherwise authorized by the board, be operated only under such registry or enrollment and license. Such vessels while employed solely as merchant vessels shall be subject to all laws, regulations, and liabilities governing merchant vessels, whether the United States be interested therein as owner, in whole or in part, or hold any mortgage, lien, or other interest therein. No such vessel, without the approval of the board, shall be transferred to a foreign registry or flag, or sold; nor, except under regulations prescribed by the board, be chartered or leased.

No vessel documented under the laws of the United States or owned by any person a citizen of the United States or by a corporation organized under the laws of the United States or of any State, Territory, District, or possession thereof, except one which the board is prohibited from purchasing, shall be sold to any person not a citizen of the United States or transferred to or placed under a foreign registry or flag, unless such vessel is first tendered to the board at the price in good faith offered by others, or, if no such offer, at a fair price to be determined in the manner provided in section ten.

Any vessel sold, chartered, leased, transferred to or placed under a foreign registry or flag, or operated, in violation of any provision of this section shall be forfeited to the United States, and whoever violates any provision of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and subject to a fine of not more than $5,000 or to imprisonment for not more than five years, or both. [39 Stat. L. 730, as amended by — Stat. L. —.]

This section was amended to read as given in the text by the Act of July 15, 1918, ch. —, § 3. As originally enacted it was as follows:

"SEC. 9. That any vessel purchased, chartered, or leased from the board may be registered or enrolled and licensed, or both registered and enrolled and licensed, as a vessel of the United States and entitled to the benefits and privileges appertaining thereto: Provided, That foreign-built vessels admitted to American registry or enrollment and license under this Act, and vessels owned, chartered, or leased by any corporation to which the United States is a stockholder, and vessels sold, leased, or chartered to any person a citizen of the United States, as provided in this Act, may engage in the coastwise trade of the United States.

"Every vessel purchased, chartered, or leased from the board shall, unless otherwise authorized by the board, be operated only under such registry or enrollment and license. Such vessels while employed solely as merchant vessels shall be subject to all laws, regulations, and liabilities governing merchant vessels, whether the United States be interested therein as owner, in whole or in part, or hold any mortgage, lien, or other interest therein. No such vessel, without the approval of the board, shall be transferred to a foreign registry or flag, or sold; nor, except under regulations prescribed by the board, be chartered or leased.

"When the United States is at war, or during any national emergency the existence of which is declared by proclamation of the President, no vessel registered or enrolled and licensed under the laws of the United States shall, without the approval of the board, be sold, leased, or chartered to any person not a citizen of the United States, or transferred to a foreign registry or flag. No vessel registered or enrolled and licensed under the laws of the United States, or owned by any person a citizen of the United States, except one which the board is prohibited from purchasing, shall be sold to any person not a citizen of the United States or transferred to a foreign registry or flag, unless such vessel is first tendered to the board at the price in good faith offered by others, or, if no such offer, at a fair price to be determined in the manner provided in section ten.

"Any vessel sold, chartered, leased, transferred, or operated in violation of this section shall be forfeited to the United States, and whoever violates any provision of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and subject to a fine of not more than $5,000 or to imprisonment of not more than five years, or both such fine and imprisonment."

"Employed solely as a merchant vessel," as used in the second paragraph of this section, is applicable to a vessel chartered to the French Government by the United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation, and carrying a cargo of food for that government, and such vessel is subject to libel if it collides with a British vessel on the high seas. The Florence H., 248 Fed. 1012.

SEC. 10. [Authority of President to take possession of vessels purchased, etc., from board for naval, etc., purposes — compensation.] That the President, upon giving to the person interested such reasonable notice in writing as in his judgment the circumstances permit, may take possession, absolutely or temporarily, for any naval or military purpose of any vessel purchased, leased, or chartered from the board: Provided, That if, in the judgment of the President, an emergency exists requiring such action he may take possession of any such vessel without notice.

Thereafter, upon ascertainment by agreement or otherwise, the United States shall pay the person interested the fair actual value based upon normal conditions at the time of taking of the interest of such person in every vessel taken absolutely, or if taken for a limited period, the fair charter value under normal conditions for such period. In case of disagreement as to such fair value it shall be determined by appraisers, one to be appointed by the board, one by the person interested, and a third by the two so appointed. The finding of such appraisers shall be final and binding upon both parties. [39 Stat. L. 731.]

SEC. 11. [Formation of corporations by board for purchase, etc., of merchant vessels — conditions precedent to operation.] That the board, if in its judgment such action is necessary to carry out the purposes of this Act, may form under the laws of the District of Columbia one or more corporations for the purchase, construction, equipment, lease, charter, maintenance, and operation of merchant vessels in the commerce of the United States. The total capital stock thereof shall not exceed $50,000,000. The board may, for and on behalf of the United States, subscribe to, purchase, and vote not less than a majority of the capital stock of any such corporation, and do all other things in regard thereto necessary to protect the interests of the United States and to carry out the purposes of this Act. The board, with the approval of the President, may sell any or all of the stock of the United States in such corporation, but at no time shall it be a minority stockholder therein: Provided, That no corporation in which the United States is a stockholder, formed under the authority of this section, shall engage in the operation of any vessel constructed, purchased, leased, chartered, or transferred under the authority of this Act unless the board shall be unable, after a bona fide effort, to contract with any person a citizen of the United States for the purchase, lease, or charter of such vessel under such terms and conditions as may be prescribed by the board.

The board shall give public notice of the fact that vessels are offered and the terms and conditions upon which a contract will be made, and shall invite competitive offerings. In the event the board shall, after full compliance with the terms of this proviso, determine that it is unable to enter into a contract with such private parties for the purchase, lease, or charter of such vessel, it shall make a full report to the President, who shall examine such report, and if he shall approve the same he shall make an order declaring that the conditions have been found to exist which justify the operation of such vessel by a corporation formed under the provisions of this section.

At the expiration of five years from the conclusion of the present European war the operation of vessels on the part of any such corporation in which the United States is then a stockholder shall cease and the said corporation stand dissolved. The date of the conclusion of the war shall be declared by proclamation of the President. The vessels and other property of any such corporation shall revert to the board. The board may sell, lease, or charter such vessels as provided in section seven and shall dispose of the property other than vessels on the best available terms and, after payment of all debts and obligations, deposit the proceeds thereof in the Treasury to its credit. All stock in such corporations owned by others than the United States at the time of dissolution shall be taken over by the board at a fair and reasonable value and paid for with funds to the credit of the board. In case of disagreement, such value shall be determined in the manner provided in section ten. [39 Stat. L. 731.]

SEC. 12. [Investigations by board as to cost of building vessels, etc.—reports.] That the board shall investigate the relative cost of building merchant vessels in the United States and in foreign maritime countries, and the relative cost, advantages, and disadvantages of operating in the foreign trade vessels under United States registry and under foreign registry. [39 Stat. L. 734.]

SEC. 17. [Discriminatory rates, etc.—receiving, etc., property — reasonable regulations.] That no common carrier by water in foreign commerce shall demand, charge, or collect any rate, fare, or charge which is unjustly discriminatory between shippers or ports, or unjustly prejudicial to exporters of the United States as compared with their foreign competitors. Whenever the board finds that any such rate, fare, or charge is demanded, charged, or collected it may alter the same to the extent necessary to correct such unjust discrimination or prejudice and make an order that the carrier shall discontinue demanding, charging, or collecting any such unjustly discriminatory or prejudicial rate, fare, or charge.

SEC. 34. [39 Stat. L. 738.]

SEC. 36. [Refusal of clearance by Secretary of Treasury — grounds.] The Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to refuse a clearance to any vessel or other vehicle laden with merchandise destined for a foreign or

See the note to section 37 of this Act, supra, this page.

SEC. 40. [Transfer of interests in vessels — formalities — violations.] That whenever any bill of sale, mortgage, hypothecation, or conveyance of any vessel, or part thereof, or interest therein, is presented to any collector of the customs to be recorded, the vendee, mortgagee, or transferee, shall file therewith a written declaration in such form as the board may by regulation prescribe, setting forth the facts relating to his citizenship, and such other facts as the board requires, showing that the transaction does not involve a violation of any of the provisions of section nine

Any declaration filed by or in behalf of a corporation shall be signed by the president, secretary, or treasurer thereof.

Whenever by this Act the approval of the board is required to render any act or transaction lawful, whoever knowingly makes any false statement of a material fact to the board, or to any member thereof, or to any officer, attorney, or agent thereof, for the purpose of securing such approval, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and subject to a fine of not more than $5,000 or to imprisonment for not more than five years, or both. (b) ["Transportation of subjects or citizens of enemy or ally of enemy nation.] For any person, except with the license of the President, to transport or attempt to transport into or from the United States, or for any owner, master, or other person in charge of a vessel of American registry to transport or attempt to transport from any place to any other place, any subject or citizen of an enemy or ally of enemy nation, with knowledge or reasonable cause to believe that the person transported or attempted to be transported is such subject or citizen.

(c) ["Mail matter or other communication, etc.— bringing into or sending out of United States — exceptions.] For any person (other than a person in the service of the United States Government or of the Government of any nation, except that of an enemy or ally of enemy nation, and other than such persons or classes of persons as may be exempted hereunder by the President or by such person as he may direct), to send, or take out of, or bring into, or attempt to send, or take out of, or bring into the United States, any letter or other writing or tangible form of communication, except in the regular course of the mail; and it shall be unlawful for any person to send, take, or transmit, or attempt to send, take, or transmit out of the United States, any letter or other writing, book, map, plan, or other paper, picture, or any telegram, cablegram, or wireless message, or other form of communication intended for or to be delivered, directly or indirectly, to an enemy or ally of enemy: Provided, however, That any person may send, take, or transmit out of the United States anything herein forbidden if he shall first submit the same to the President, or to such officer as the President may direct, and shall obtain the license or consent of the President, under such rules and regulations, and with such exemptions, as shall be prescribed by the President.

"To an enemy or ally of an enemy" does not apply to the first paragraph ending at the semicolon, but only to the second paragraph. The first paragraph was intended to apply to any tangible communication, whether innocent or not, and whether intended for or delivered to a friendly or innocent person. U. S. v. Welsh, (S. D. N. Y. 1918) 309.

Any person who willfully evades or attempts to evade the submission of any such communication to such censorship or willfully uses or attempts to use any code or other device for the purpose of concealing from such censorship the intended meaning of such communication shall be punished as provided in section sixteen of this Act. [40 Stat. L. 412.]

SEC. 4. (a) [Insurance, reinsurance or other business company — license — transmission of funds out of United States — existing contracts.] Every enemy or ally of enemy insurance or reinsurance company, and every enemy or ally of enemy, doing business within the United States through an agency or branch office, or otherwise, may, within thirty days after the passage of this Act, apply to the President for a license to continue to do business; and, within thirty days after such application, the President may enter an order either granting or refusing to grant such license. The license, if granted, may be temporary or otherwise, and for such period of time, and may contain such provisions and conditions regulating the business, agencies, managers and trustees and the control and disposition of the funds of the company, or of such enemy or ally of enemy, as the President shall deem necessary for the safety of the United States; and any license granted hereunder may be revoked or regranted or renewed in such manner and at such times as the President shall determine: Provided, however, That reasonable notice of his intent to refuse to grant a license or to revoke a license granted to any reinsurance company shall be given by him to all insurance companies incorporated within the United States and known to the President to be doing business with such reinsurance company. Provided further, That no insurance company, organized within the United States, shall be obligated to continue any existing contract, entered into prior to the beginning of the war, with any enemy or ally of enemy insurance or reinsurance company, but any such company may abrogate and cancel any such contract by serving thirty days' notice in writing upon the President of its election to abrogate such contract.

For a period of thirty days after the passage of this Act, and further pending the entry of such order by the President, after application made by any enemy or ally of enemy insurance or reinsurance company, within such thirty days as above provided, the provisions of the President's proclamation of April sixth, nineteen hundred and seventeen, relative to agencies in the United States of certain insurance companies, as modified by the provisions of the President's proclamation of July thirteenth, nineteen hundred and seventeen, relative to marine and war-risk insurance, shall remain in full force and effect so far as it applies to such German insurance companies, and the conditions of said proclamation of April sixth, nineteen hundred and seventeen, as modified by said proclamation of July thirteenth, nineteen hundred and seventeen, shall also during said period of thirty days after the passage of this Act, and pending the order of the President as herein provided, apply to any enemy or ally of enemy insurance or reinsurance company, anything in this Act to the contrary notwithstanding. It shall be unlawful for any enemy or ally of enemy insurance or reinsurance company, to whom license is granted, to transmit out of the United States any funds belonging to or held for the benefit of such company or to use any such funds as the basis for the establishment directly or indirectly of any credit within or outside of the United States to, or for the benefit of, or on behalf of, or on account of, an enemy or ally of enemy.

For a period of thirty days after the passage of this Act, and further pending the entry of such order by the President, after application made within such thirty days by any enemy or ally of enemy, other than an insurance or reinsurance company as above provided, it shall be lawful for such enemy or ally of enemy to continue to do business in this country and for any person to trade with, to, from, for, on account of, on behalf of or for the benefit of such enemy or ally of enemy, anything in this Act to the contrary notwithstanding: Provided, however, That the provisions of sections three and sixteen hereof shall apply to any act or attempted act of transmission or transfer of money or other property out of the United States and to the use or attempted use of such money or property as the basis for the establishment of any credit within or outside of the United States to, or for the benefit of, or on behalf of, or on account of, an enemy or ally of enemy.

If no license is applied for within thirty days after the passage of this Act, or if a license shall be refused to any enemy or ally of enemy, whether insurance or reinsurance company or other person, making application, or if any license granted shall be revoked by the President, the provisions of sections three and sixteen hereof shall forthwith apply to all trade or to any attempt to trade with, to, from, for, by, on account of, or on behalf of, or for the benefit of such company or other person: Provided, however, That after such refusal or revocation, anything in this Act to the contrary notwithstanding, it shall be lawful for a policyholder or for an insurance company, not an enemy or ally of enemy, holding insurance or having effected reinsurance in or with such enemy or ally of enemy insurance or reinsurance company, to receive payment of, and for such enemy or ally of enemy insurance or reinsurance company to pay any premium, return premium, claim, money, security, or other property due or which may become due on or in respect to such insurance or reinsurance in force at the date of such refusal or revocation of license; and nothing in this Act shall vitiate or nullify then existing policies or contracts of insurance or reinsurance, or the conditions thereof; and any such policyholder or insurance company, not an enemy or ally of enemy, having any claim to or upon money or other property of the enemy or ally of enemy insurance or reinsurance company in the custody or control of the alien property custodian, hereinafter provided for, or of the Treasurer of the United States, may make application for the payment thereof and may institute suit as provided in section nine hereof.

(b) [Change of name of company, etc.—license to do business.] That, during the present war, no enemy, or ally of enemy, and no partnership of which he is a member or was a member at the beginning of the war, shall for any purpose assume or use any name other than that by which such enemy or partnership was ordinarily known at the beginning of the war, except under license from the President.

Whenever, during the present war, in the opinion of the President the public safety or public interest requires, the President may prohibit any or all foreign insurance companies from doing business in the United States, or the President may license such company or companies to do business upon such terms as he may deem proper. [40 Stat. L. 413.]

SEC. 5. (a) [Suspension of Act — granting, revoking, etc., of licenses.] That the President, if he shall find it compatible with the safety of the United States and with the successful prosecution of the war, may, by proclamation, suspend the provisions of this Act so far as they apply to an ally of enemy, and he may revoke or renew such suspension from time to time; and the President may grant licenses, special or general, temporary or otherwise, and for such period of time and containing such provisions and conditions as he shall prescribe, to any person or class of persons to do business as provided in subsection (a) of section four hereof, and to perform any act made unlawful without such license in section three hereof, and to file and prosecute applications under subsection (b) of section ten hereof; and he may revoke or renew such licenses from time to time, if he shall be of opinion that such grant or revocation or renewal shall be compatible with the safety of the United States and with the successful prosecution of the war; and he may make such rules and regulations, not inconsistent with law, as may be necessary and proper to carry out the provisions of this Act; and the President may exercise any power or authority conferred by this Act through such officer or officers as he shall direct.

If the President shall have reasonable cause to believe that any act is about to be performed in violation of section three hereof he shall have authority to order the postponement of the performance of such act for a period not exceeding ninety days, pending investigation of the facts by him.

(b) [Investigation, regulation or prohibition of transactions in foreign exchange, coin, bullion, credit, evidences of indebtedness, etc.] That the President may investigate, regulate, or prohibit, under such rules and regulations as he may prescribe, by means of licenses or otherwise, any transaction in foreign exchange, export or earmarkings of gold or silver coin or bullion or currency, transfers of credit in any form (other than credits relating solely to transactions to be executed wholly within the United States), and transfers of evidences of indebtedness or of the ownership of property between the United States and any foreign country, whether enemy, ally of enemy or otherwise, or between residents of one or more foreign countries, by any person within the United States; and he may require any such person engaged in any such transaction to furnish, under oath, complete information relative thereto, including the production of any books of account, contracts, letters or other papers, in connection therewith in the custody or control of such person, either before or after such transaction is completed [40 Stat. L. 415.]

SEC. 6. [Alien property custodian — appointment — salary — powers — bond — employees — report.] That the President is authorized to appoint, prescribe the duties of, and fix the salary (not to exceed $5,000 per annum), of an official to be known as the alien property custodian, who shall be empowered to receive all money and property in the United States due or belonging to an enemy, or ally of enemy, which may be paid, conveyed, transferred, assigned, or delivered to said custodian under the provisions of this Act; and to hold, administer, and account for the same under the general direction of the President and as provided in this Act. The alien property custodian shall give such bond or bonds, and in such form and amount, and with such security as the President shall prescribe. The President may further employ in the District of Columbia and elsewhere and fix the compensation of such clerks, attorneys, investigators, accountants, and other employees as he may find necessary for the due administration of the provisions of this Act: Provided, That such clerks, investigators, accountants, and other employees shall be appointed from lists of eligibles to be supplied by the Civil Service Commission and in accordance with the civil service law: Provided further, That the President shall cause a detailed report to be made to Congress on the first day of January of each year of all proceedings had under this Act during the year preceding. Such report shall contain a list of all persons appointed or employed, with the salary or compensation paid to each, and a statement of the different kinds of property taken into custody and the disposition made thereof. [40 Stat. L. 415.]

SEC. 7. (a) [Lists of officers, directors, stockholders, etc., of corporations — reports of indebtedness to enemy, etc.] That every corporation incorporated within the United States, and every unincorporated association, or company, or trustee, or trustees within the United States, issuing shares or certificates representing beneficial interests, shall, under such rules and regulations as the President may prescribe and, within sixty days after the passage of this Act, and at such other times thereafter as the President may require, transmit to the alien property custodian a full list, duly sworn to, of every officer, director, or stockholder known to be, or whom the representative of such corporation, association, company, or trustee has reasonable cause to believe to be an enemy or ally of enemy resident within the territory, or a subject or citizen residing outside of the United States, of any nation with which the United States is at war, or resident within the territory, or a subject or citizen residing outside of the United States, of any ally of any nation with which the United States is at war, together with the amount of stock or shares owned by each such officer, director, or stockholder, or in which he has any interest.

The President may also require a similar list to be transmitted of all stock or shares owned on February third, nineteen hundred and seventeen, by any person now defined as an enemy or ally of enemy, or in which any such person had any interest; and he may also require a list to be transmitted of all cases in which said corporation, association, company, or trustee has reasonable cause to believe that the stock or shares on February third, nineteen hundred and seventeen, were owned or are owned by such enemy or ally of enemy, though standing on the books in the name of another: Provided, however, That the name of any such officer, director, or stockholder shall be stricken permanently or temporarily from such list by the alien property custodian when he shall be satisfied that he is not such enemy or ally of enemy.

Any person in the United States who holds or has or shall hold or have custody or control of any property beneficial or otherwise, alone or jointly with others, of, for, or on behalf of an enemy or ally of enemy, or of any person whom he may have reasonable cause to believe to be an enemy or ally of enemy and any person in the United States who is or shall be indebted in any way to an enemy or ally of enemy, or to any person whom he may have reasonable cause to believe to be an enemy or ally of enemy, shall, with such exceptions and under such rules and regulations as the President shall prescribe, and within thirty days after the passage of this Act, or within thirty days after such property shall come within his custody or control, or after such debt shall become due, report the fact to the alien-property custodian by written statement under oath containing such particulars as said custodian shall require. The President may also require a similar report of all property so held, of, for, or on behalf of, and of all debts so owed to, any person now defined as an enemy or ally of enemy, on February third, nineteen hundred and seventeen: Provided, That the name of any person shall be stricken from the said report by the alien-property custodian, either temporarily or permanently, when he shall be satisfied that such person is not an enemy or ally of enemy. The President may extend the time for filing the lists or reports required by this section for an additional period not exceeding ninety days.

(b) [Prior illegal acts — transfer, etc., of money — completion of contracts — payments for benefit of enemies, etc.—suits by or against enemies, etc.] Nothing in this Act contained shall render valid or legal, or be construed to recognize as valid or legal, any act or transaction constituting trade with, to, from, for or on account of, or on behalf or for the benefit of an enemy performed or engaged in since the beginning of the war and prior to the passage of this Act, or any such act or transaction hereafter performed or engaged in except as authorized hereunder, which would otherwise have been or be void, illegal, or invalid at law. No conveyance, transfer, delivery, payment, or loan of money or other property, in violation of section three hereof, made after the passage of this Act, and not under license as herein provided shall confer or create any right or remedy in respect thereof; and no person shall by virtue of any assignment, indorsement, or delivery to him of any debt, bill, note, or other obligation or chose in action by, from, or on behalf of, or on account of, or for the benefit of an enemy or ally of enemy have any right or remedy against the debtor, obligor, or other person liable to pay, fulfill, or perform the same unless said assignment, indorsement, or delivery was made prior to the beginning of the war or shall be made under license as herein provided, or unless, if made after the beginning of the war and prior to the date of passage of this Act, the person to whom the same was made shall prove lack of knowledge and of reasonable cause to believe on his part that the same was made by, from or on behalf of, or on account of, or for the benefit of an enemy or ally of enemy; and any person who knowingly pays, discharges, or satisfies any such debt, note, bill, or other obligation or chose in action, shall, on conviction thereof, be deemed to violate section three hereof: Provided, That nothing in this Act contained shall prevent the carrying out, completion, or performance of any contract, agreement, or obligation originally made with or entered into by an enemy or ally of enemy where, prior to the beginning of the war and not in contemplation thereof, the interest of such enemy or ally of enemy devolved by assignment or otherwise upon a person not an enemy or ally of enemy, and no enemy or ally of enemy will be benefited by such carrying out, completion, or performance otherwise than by release from obligation thereunder.

Nothing in this Act shall be deemed to prevent payment of money belonging or owing to an enemy or ally of enemy to a person within the United States not an enemy or ally of enemy, for the benefit of such person or of any other person within the United States, not an enemy or ally of enemy, if the funds so paid shall have been received prior to the beginning of the war and such payments arise out of transactions entered into prior to the beginning of the war, and not in contemplation thereof: Provided, That such payment shall not be made without the license of the President, general or special, as provided in this Act.

Nothing in this Act shall be deemed to authorize the prosecution of any suit or action at law or in equity in any court within the United States by an enemy or ally of enemy prior to the end of the war, except as provided in section ten hereof: Provided, however, That an enemy or ally of enemy licensed to do business under this Act may prosecute and maintain any such suit or action so far as the same arises solely out of the business transacted within the United States under such license and so long as such license remains in full force and effect: And provided further, That an enemy or ally of enemy may defend by counsel any suit in equity or action at law which may be brought against him.

Receipt of notice from the President to the effect that he has reasonable ground to believe that any person is an enemy or ally of enemy shall be prima facie defense to any one receiving the same, in any suit or action at law or in equity brought or maintained, or to any right to set-off or recoupment asserted by, such person and based on failure to complete or perform since the beginning of the war any contract or other obligation. In any prosecution under section sixteen hereof, proof of receipt of notice from the President to the effect that he has reasonable cause to believe that any person is an enemy or ally of enemy shall be prima facie evidence that the person receiving such notice has reasonable cause to believe such other person to be an enemy or ally of enemy within the meaning of section three hereof.

(c) [Delivery of property, etc., to alien property custodian.] If the President shall so require, any money or other property owing or belonging to or held for, by, on account of, or on behalf of, or for the benefit of an enemy or ally of enemy not holding a license granted by the President hereunder, which the President after investigation shall determine is so owing or so belongs or is so held, shall be conveyed, transferred, assigned, delivered, or paid over to the alien property custodian.

(d) [Transfer of money, property, etc., to alien property custodian.] If not required to pay, convey, transfer, assign, or deliver under the provisions of subsection (c) hereof, any person not an enemy or ally of enemy who owes to, or holds for, or on account of, or on behalf of, or for the benefit of an enemy or of an ally of enemy not holding a license granted by the President hereunder, any money or other property, or to whom any obligation or form of liability to such enemy or ally of enemy is presented for payment, may, at his option, with the consent of the President, pay, convey, transfer, assign, or deliver to the alien property custodian said money or other property under such rules and regulations as the President shall prescribe.

(e) [Liability for acts done under Presidential regulation — effect of transfer of property, etc., to alien property custodian — certificate of authority of custodian, etc.] No person shall be held liable in any court for or in respect to anything done or omitted in pursuance of any order, rule, or regulation made by the President under the authority of this Act.

Any payment, conveyance, transfer, assignment, or delivery of money or property made to the alien property custodian hereunder shall be a full acquittance and discharge for all purposes of the obligation of the person making the same to the extent of same. The alien property custodian and such other persons as the President may appoint shall have power to execute, acknowledge, and deliver any such instrument or instruments as may be necessary or proper to evidence upon the record or otherwise such acquittance and discharge, and shall, in case of payment to the alien property custodian of any debt or obligation owed to an enemy or ally of enemy, deliver up any notes, bonds, or other evidences of indebtedness or obligation, or any security therefor in which such enemy or ally of enemy had any right or interest that may have come into the possession of the alien property custodian, with like effect as if he or they, respectively, were duly appointed by the enemy or ally of enemy, creditor, or obligee. The President shall issue to every person so appointed a certificate of the appointment and authority of such person, and such certificate shall be received in evidence in all courts within the United States. Whenever any such certificate of authority shall be offered to any registrar, clerk, or other recording officer, Federal or otherwise, within the United States, such officer shall record the same in like manner as a power of attorney, and such record or a duly certified copy thereof shall be received in evidence in all courts of the United States or other courts within the United States. [40 Stat. L. 416.]

SEC. 8. (a) [Mortgage, pledge, lien, contract, etc.—termination—disposition of surplus.] That any person not an enemy or ally of enemy holding a lawful mortgage, pledge, or lien, or other right in the nature of security in property of an enemy or ally of enemy which, by law or by the terms of the instrument creating such mortgage, pledge, or lien, or right, may be disposed of on notice or presentation or demand, and any person not an enemy or ally of enemy who is a party to any lawful contract with an enemy or ally of enemy, the terms of which provide for a termination thereof upon notice or for acceleration of maturity on presentation or demand, may continue to hold said property, and, after default, may dispose of the property in accordance with law or may terminate or mature such contract by notice or presentation or demand served or made on the alien property custodian in accordance with the law and the terms of such instrument or contract and under such rules and regulations as the President shall prescribe; and such notice and such presentation and demand shall have, in all respects, the same force and effect as if duly served or made upon the enemy or ally of enemy personally: Provided, That no such rule or regulation shall require that notice or presentation or demand shall be served or made in any case in which, by law or by the terms of said instrument or contract, no notice, presentation, or demand was, prior to the passage of this Act, required; and that in case where, by law or by the terms of such instrument or contract, notice is required, no longer period of notice shall be required: Provided further, That if, on any such disposition of property, a surplus shall remain after the satisfaction of the mortgage, pledge, lien, or other right in the nature of security, notice of that fact shall be given to the President pursuant to such rules and regulations as he may prescribe, and such surplus shall be held subject to his further order.

(b) [Abrogation of contracts.] That any contract entered into prior to the beginning of the war between any citizen of the United States or any corporation organized within the United States, and an enemy or ally of any enemy, the terms of which provide for the delivery, during or after any war in which a present enemy or ally of enemy nation has been or is now engaged, of anything produced, mined, or manufactured in the United States, may be abrogated by such citizen or corporation by serving thirty days' notice in writing upon the alien property custodian of his or its election to abrogate such contract.

(c) [Suspension of statute of limitations.] The running of any statute of limitations shall be suspended with reference to the rights or remedies on any contract or obligation entered into prior to the beginning of the war between parties neither of whom is an enemy or ally of enemy, and containing any promise to pay or liability for payment which is evidenced by drafts or other commercial paper drawn against or secured by funds or other property situated in an enemy or ally of enemy country, and no suit shall be maintained on any such contract or obligation in any court within the United States until after the end of the war, or until the said funds or property shall be released for the payment or satisfaction of such contract or obligation: Provided, however, That nothing herein contained shall be construed to prevent the suspension of the running of the statute of limitations in all other cases where such suspension would occur under existing law. [40 Stat. L. 418.]

SEC. 9. [Claims of enemy, etc., for property — suits against claimant — liability of property for lien, attachment, etc.] That any person, not an enemy, or ally of enemy, claiming any interest, right, or title in any money or other property which may have been conveyed, transferred, assigned, delivered, or paid to the alien property custodian hereunder, and held by him or by the Treasurer of the United States, or to whom any debt may be owing from an enemy, or ally of enemy, whose property or any part thereof shall have been conveyed, transferred, assigned, delivered, or paid to the alien property custodian hereunder, and held by him or by the Treasurer of the United States, may file with the said custodian a notice of his claim under oath and in such form and containing such particulars as the said custodian shall require; and the President, if application is made therefor by the claimant, may, with the assent of the owner of said property and of all persons claiming any right, title, or interest therein, order the payment, conveyance, transfer, assignment or delivery to said claimant of the money or other property so held by the alien property custodian or by the Treasurer of the United States or of the interest therein to which the President shall determine said claimant is entitled: Provided, That no such order by the President shall bar any person from the prosecution of any suit at law or in equity against the claimant to establish any right, title or interest which he may have in such money or other property. If the President shall not so order within sixty days after the filing of such application, or if the claimant shall have filed the notice as above required and shall have made no application to the President, said claimant may, at any time before the expiration of six months, after the end of the war, institute a suit in equity in the district court of the United States for the district in which such claimant resides, or, if a corporation, where it has its principal place of business (to which suit the alien property custodian or the Treasurer of the United States, as the case may be, shall be made a party defendant), to establish the interest, right, title, or debt so claimed, and if suit shall be so instituted then the money or other property of the enemy, or ally of enemy, against whom such interest, right, or title is asserted, or debt claimed, shall be retained in the custody of the alien property custodian, or in the Treasury of the United States, as provided in this Act, and until any final judgment or decree which shall be entered in favor of the claimant shall be fully satisfied by payment or conveyance, transfer, assignment, or delivery by the defendant or by the alien property custodian or Treasurer of the United States on order of the court, or until final judgment or decree shall be entered against the claimant, or suit otherwise terminated.

Except as herein provided, the money or other property conveyed, transferred, assigned, delivered, or paid to the alien property custodian shall not be liable to lien, attachment, garnishment, trustee process, or execution, or subject to any order or decree of any court.

This section shall not apply, however, to money paid to the alien property custodian under section ten hereof. [40 Stat. L. 419.]

SEC. 10. That nothing contained in this Act shall be held to make unlawful any of the following Acts:

(a) [Application for patent, trademark or copyright.] An enemy, or ally of enemy, may file and prosecute in the United States an application for letters patent, or for registration of trade-mark, print, label, or copyright, and may pay any fees therefor in accordance with and as required by the provisions of existing law and fees for attorneys or agents for filing and prosecuting such applications. Any such enemy, or ally of enemy, who is unable during war, or within six months thereafter, on account of conditions arising out of war, to file any such application, or to pay any official fee, or to take any action required by law within the period prescribed by law, may be granted an extension of nine months beyond the expiration of said period, provided the nation of which the said applicant is a citizen, subject, or corporation shall extend substantially similar privileges to citizens and corporations of the United States.

(b) [Payment of fees, etc., to enemy, etc., for patents or trademarks or copyrights.] Any citizen of the United States, or any corporation organized within the United States, may, when duly authorized by the President, pay to an enemy or ally of enemy any tax, annuity, or fee which may be required by the laws of such enemy or ally of enemy nation in relation to patents and trademarks, prints, labels, and copyrights; and any such citizen or corporation may file and prosecute an application for letters patent or for registration of trademark, print, label, or copyright in the country of an enemy, or of an ally of enemy after first submitting such application to the President and receiving license so to file and prosecute, and to pay the fees required by law and customary agents' fees, the maximum amount of which in each case shall be subject to the control of the President.

(c) [Use of enemy, etc., trademarks, copyrights, etc.—license.] Any citizen of the United States or any corporation organized within the United States desiring to manufacture, or cause to be manufactured, a machine, manufacture, composition of matter, or design, or to carry on, or to use any trade-mark, print, label or cause to be carried on, a process under any patent or copyrighted matter owned or controlled by an enemy or ally of enemy at any time during the existence of a state of war may apply to the President for a license; and the President is hereby authorized to grant such a license, nonexclusive or exclusive as he shall deem best, provided he shall be of the opinion that such grant is for the public welfare, and that the applicant is able and intends in good faith to manufacture, or cause to be manufactured, the machine, manufacture, composition of matter, or design, or to carry on, or cause to be carried on, the process or to use the trade-mark, print, label or copyrighted matter. The President may prescribe the conditions of this license, including the fixing of prices of articles and products necessary to the health of the military and naval forces of the United States or the successful prosecution of the war, and the rules and regulations under which such license may be granted and the fee which shall be charged therefor, not exceeding $100, and not exceeding one per centum of the fund deposited as hereinafter provided. Such license shall be a complete defense to any suit at law or in equity instituted by the enemy or ally of enemy owners of the letters patent, trade-mark, print, label or copyright, or otherwise, against the licensee for infringement or for damages, royalty, or other money award on account of anything done by the licensee under such license, except as provided in subsection (f) hereof.

(d) [Statement of use of enemy trademarks, copyrights, etc.—payment therefor.] The licensee shall file with the President a full statement of the extent of the use and enjoyment of the license, and of the prices received in such form and at such stated periods (at least annually) as the President may prescribe; and the licensee shall pay at such times as may be required to the alien property custodian not to exceed five per centum of the gross sums received by the licensee from the sale of said inventions or use of the trademark, print, label, or copyrighted matter, or, if the President shall so order, five per centum of the value of the use of such inventions, trade-marks, prints, labels or copyrighted matter to the licensee as established by the President; and sums so paid shall be deposited by said alien property custodian forthwith in the Treasury of the United States as a trust fund for the said licensee and for the owner of the said patent, trade-mark, print, label or copyright registration as hereinafter provided, to be paid from the Treasury upon order of the court, as provided in subdivision (f) of this section, or upon the direction of the alien property custodian.

(e) [Duration of license—termination.] Unless surrendered or terminated as provided in this Act, any license granted hereunder shall continue during the term fixed in the license or in the absence of any such limitation during the term of the patent, trade-mark, print, label, or copyright registration under which it is granted. Upon violation by the licensee of any of the provisions of this Act, or of the conditions of the license, the President may, after due notice and hearing, cancel any license granted by him.

(f) [Suits by enemy, etc., against licensee, etc., decree—injunction.] The owner of any patent, trade-mark, print, label, or copyright under which a license is granted hereunder may, after the end of the war and until the expiration of one year thereafter, file a bill in equity against the licensee in the district court of the United States for the district in which the said licensee resides, or, if a corporation, in which it has its principal place of business, (to which suit the Treasurer of the United States shall be made a party,) for recovery from the said licensee for all use and enjoyment of the said patented invention, trade-mark, print, label, or copyrighted matter: Provided, however, That whenever suit is brought, as above, notice shall be filed with the alien property custodian within thirty days after date of entry of suit: Provided further, That the licensee may make any and all defenses which would be available were no license granted. The court on due proceedings had may adjudge and decree to the said owner payment of a reasonable royalty. The amount of said judgment and decree, when final, shall be paid on order of the court to the owner of the patent from the fund deposited by the licensee, so far as such deposit will satisfy said judgment and decree; and the said payment shall be in full or partial satisfaction of said judgment and decree, as the facts may appear; and if, after payment of all such judgments and decrees, there shall remain any balance of said deposit, such balance shall be repaid to the licensee on order of the alien property custodian. If no suit is brought within one year after the end of the war, or no notice is filed as above required, then the licensee shall not be liable to make any further deposits, and all funds deposited by him shall be repaid to him on order of the alien property custodian. Upon entry of suit and notice filed as above required, or upon repayment of funds as above provided, the liability of the licensee to make further reports to the President shall cease.

If suit is brought as above provided, the court may, at any time, terminate the license, and may, in such event, issue an injunction to restrain the licensee from infringement thereafter, or the court, in case the licensee, prior to suit, shall have made investment of capital based on possession of the license, may continue the license for such period and upon such terms and with such royalties as it shall find to be just and reasonable.

When an applicant whose patent is withheld as herein provided and who faithfully obeys the order of the President above referred to shall tender his invention to the Government of the United States for its use, he shall, if he ultimately receives a patent, have the right to sue for compensation in the Court of Claims, such right to compensation to begin from the date of the use of the invention by the Government. [Same.] That whenever during the existence of a war in which the United States is not engaged, the President shall be satisfied that there is reasonable ground to believe that any vessel, American or foreign, is, on account of the laws, regulations, or practices of a belligerent Government, making or giving any undue or unreasonable preference or advantage in any respect whatsoever to any particular person, company, firm, or corporation, or any particular description of traffic in the United States or its possessions or to any citizens of the United States residing in neutral countries abroad, or is subjecting any particular person, company, firm, or corporation or any particular description of traffic in the United States or its possessions, or any citizens of the United States residing in neutral countries abroad to any undue or unreasonable prejudice, disadvantage, injury, or discrimination in regard to accepting, receiving, transporting, or delivering, or refusing to accept, receive, transfer, or deliver any cargo, freight or passengers, or in any other respect whatsoever, he is hereby authorized and empowered to direct the detention of such vessels by withholding clearance or by formal notice forbidding departure, and to revoke, modify, or renew any such direction.

That whenever, during the existence of a war in which the United States is not engaged, the President shall be satisfied that there is reasonable ground to believe that under the laws, regulations, or practices of any belligerent country or Government, American ships or American citizens are not accorded any of the facilities of commerce which the vessels or citizens of that belligerent country enjoy in the United States or its possessions, or are not accorded by such belligerent equal privileges or facilities of trade with vessels or citizens of any nationality other than that of such belligerent, the President is hereby authorized and empowered to withhold clearance from one or more vessels of such belligerent country until such belligerent shall restore to such American vessels and American citizens reciprocal liberty of commerce and equal facilities of trade; or the President may direct that similar privileges and facilities, if any, enjoyed by vessels or citizens of such belligerent in the United States or its possessions be refused to vessels or citizens of such belligerent; and in such case he shall make proclamation of his direction, stating the facilities and privileges which shall be refused, and the belligerent to whose vessels or citizens they are to be refused, and thereafter the furnishing of such prohibited privileges and facilities to any vessel or citizen of the belligerent named in such proclamation shall be unlawful; and he may change, modify, revoke, or renew such proclamation; and any person or persons who shall furnish or attempt or conspire to furnish or be concerned in furnishing or in the concealment of furnishing facilities or privileges to ships or persons contrary to the prohibition in such proclamation shall be liable to a fine of not less than $2,000 nor more than $50,000 or to imprisonment not to exceed two years, or both, in the discretion of the court.

In case any vessel which is detained by virtue of this Act, shall depart or attempt to depart from the jurisdiction of the United States without clearance or other lawful authority, the owner or master or person or persons having charge or command of such vessel shall be severally liable to a fine of not less than $2,000 nor more than $10,000, or to imprisonment not to exceed two years, or both, and in addition such vessel shall be forfeited to the United States.

That the President of the United States is hereby authorized and empowered to employ such part of the land or naval forces of the United States as shall be necessary to carry out the purposes of this Act. [39 Stat. L. 799.]

[Act of June 27, 1918, ch. —, — Stat. L. —.]

[Sec. 1.] ["Vocational Rehabilitation Act"—"board"—"bureau."]
That this Act shall be known as the Vocational Rehabilitation Act. That the word "board," as hereinafter used in this Act, shall mean the "Federal Board for Vocational Education." That the word "bureau," as hereinafter used in this Act, shall mean the "Bureau of War-Risk Insurance."

SEC. 2. [Persons affected by Act — course of vocational rehabilitation prescribed — monthly compensation — family allowances.] That every person who is disabled under circumstances entitling him, after discharge from the military or naval forces of the United States, to compensation under Article III of the Act entitled "An Act to amend an Act entitled 'An Act to authorize the establishment of a Bureau of War-Risk Insurance in the Treasury Department,' " approved October sixth, nineteen hundred and seventeen, hereinafter referred to as "said Act," and who, after his discharge, in the opinion of the board, is unable to carry on a gainful occupation, to resume his former occupation, or to enter upon some other occupation, or having resumed or entered upon such occupation is unable to continue the same successfully, shall be furnished by the said board, where vocational rehabilitation is feasible, such course of vocational rehabilitation as the board shall prescribe and provide.

The board shall have power, and it shall be its duty, to furnish the persons included in this section suitable courses of vocational rehabilitation to be prescribed and provided by the board, and every person electing to follow such a course of vocational rehabilitation shall, while following the same, receive monthly compensation equal to the amount of his monthly pay for the last month of his active service, or equal to the amount to which he would be entitled under Article III of said Act, whichever amount is the greater. If such person was an enlisted man at the time of his discharge, for the period during which he is so afforded a course of rehabilitation, his family shall receive compulsory allotment and family allowance according to the terms of Article II of said Act in the same manner as if he were an enlisted man, and for the purpose of computing and paying compulsory allotment and family allowance his compensation shall be treated as his monthly pay: Provided, That if such person willfully fails or refuses to follow the prescribed course of vocational rehabilitation which he has elected to follow, in a manner satisfactory to the board, the said board in its discretion may certify to that effect to the bureau and the said bureau shall, during such period of failure or refusal, withhold any part or all of the monthly compensation due such person and not subject to compulsory allotment which the said board may have determined should be withheld: Provided, however, That no vocational teaching shall be carried on in any hospital until the medical authorities certify that the condition of the patient is such as to justify such teaching.

The military and naval family allowance appropriation provided for in section eighteen of said Act shall be available for the payment of the family allowances provided by this section; and the military and naval compensation appropriation provided for in section nineteen of said Act shall be available for the payment of the monthly compensation herein provided. No compensation under Article III of said Act shall be paid for the period during which any such person is furnished by said board a course of vocational rehabilitation except as is hereinbefore provided. [— Stat. L. —.]

For the War Risk Insurance Act of Sept. 2, 1914, ch. 293, art. III, as amended by the Act of Oct. 6, 1917, ch. 105, mentioned in the text, see WAR DEPARTMENT AND MILITARY ESTABLISHMENT.

SEC. 3. [Cost of instruction.] That the courses of vocational rehabilitation provided for under this Act shall, as far as practicable and under such conditions as the board may prescribe, be made available without cost for instruction for the benefit of any person who is disabled under circumstances entitling him, after discharge from the military or naval forces of the United States, to compensation under Article III of said Act and who is not included in section two hereof. [— Stat. L. —.]

SEC. 4. [Board for vocational education — powers.] That the board shall have the power and it shall be its duty to provide such facilities, instructors, and courses as may be necessary to insure proper training for such persons as are required to follow such courses as herein provided; to prescribe the courses to be followed by such persons; to pay, when in the discretion of the board such payment is necessary, the expense of travel, lodging, subsistence, and other necessary expenses of such persons while following the prescribed courses; to do all things necessary to insure vocational rehabilitation; to provide for the placement of rehabilitated persons in suitable or gainful occupations. The board shall have the power to make such rules and regulations as may be necessary for the proper performance of its duties as prescribed by this Act, and is hereby authorized and directed to utilize, with the approval of the Secretary of Labor, the facilities of the Department of Labor, in so far as may be practicable, in the placement of rehabilitated persons in suitable or gainful occupations. [— Stat. L. —.]

SEC. 5. [Studies, investigations, and reports.] That it shall also be the duty of the board to make or cause to have made studies, investigations, and reports regarding the vocational rehabilitation of disabled persons and their placement in suitable or gainful occupations. When the board deems it advisable, such studies, investigations, and reports may be made in cooperation with or through other departments and bureaus of the Government, and the board in its discretion may cooperate with such public or private agencies as it may deem advisable in performing the duties imposed upon it by this Act. [— Stat. L. —.]

SEC. 6. [Medical and surgical work or other treatment — control — cooperation of Board with War and Navy Department.] That all medical and surgical work or other treatment necessary to give functional and mental restoration to disabled persons prior to their discharge from the military or naval forces of the United States shall be under the control of the War Department and the Navy Department, respectively. Whenever training is employed as a therapeutic measure by the War Department or the Navy Department a plan may be established between these agencies and the board acting in an advisory capacity to insure, in so far as medical requirements permit, a proper process of training and the proper preparation of instructors for such training. A plan may also be established between the War and Navy Departments and the board whereby these departments shall act in an advisory capacity with the board in the care of the health of the soldier and sailor after his discharge.

The board shall, in establishing its plans and rules and regulations for vocational training, cooperate with the War Department and the Navy Department in so far as may be necessary to effect a continuous process of vocational training. [— Stat. L. —.]

SEC. 7. [Gifts and donations.] That the board is hereby authorized and empowered to receive such gifts and donations from either public or private sources as may be offered unconditionally. All moneys received as gifts or donations shall be paid into the Treasury of the United States, and shall constitute a permanent fund, to be called the "special fund for vocational rehabilitation," to be used under the direction of the said board, in connection with the appropriations hereby made or hereafter to be made, to defray the expenses of providing and maintaining courses of vocational rehabilitation; and a full report of all gifts and donations offered and accepted, and all disbursements therefrom, shall be submitted annually to Congress by said board. [— Stat. L. —.]

SEC. 8. [Available appropriations to meet expenses.] That there is hereby appropriated, out of any money in the Treasury of the United States not otherwise appropriated, available immediately and until expended, the sum of $2,000,000 or so much thereof as may be necessary to be used by the Federal Board for Vocational Education for the purposes of this Act, to wit, for renting and remodeling buildings and quarters, repairing, maintaining, and equipping same, and for equipment and other facilities necessary for proper instruction of disabled persons, $250,000; for the preparation of instructors and salaries of instructors, supervisors, and other experts, including necessary traveling expenses, $545,000; for traveling expenses of disabled persons in connection with training and for lodging, subsistence, and other necessary expenses in special cases of persons following prescribed courses, $250,000; for tuition for disabled persons pursuing courses in existing institutions, public or private, $545,000; for the placement and supervision after placement of vocationally rehabilitated persons, $45,000; for studies, investigations, reports, and preparation of special courses of instruction, $55,000; for miscellaneous contingencies, including special mechanical appliances necessary in special cases for disabled men, $110,000; and for the administrative expenses of said board incident to performing the duties imposed by this Act, including salaries of such assistants, experts, clerks, and other employees in the District of Columbia or elsewhere as the board may deem necessary, actual traveling and other necessary expenses incurred by the members of the board and by its employees under its orders, including attendance at meetings of educational associations and other organizations, rent and equipment of offices in the District of Columbia and elsewhere, purchase of books of reference, law books, and periodicals, stationery, typewriters and exchange thereof, miscellaneous supplies, postage on foreign mail, printing and binding to be done at the Government Printing Office, and all other necessary expenses, $200,000. [—Stat. L. —.]

Such enlistment shall entitle the person to full pay as during the last month of his active service, and his family to family allowances and allotment as hereinbefore provided, in lieu of all other compensation for the time being.

"In case of his willful failure properly to follow such course or so to enlist, payment of compensation shall be suspended until such willful failure ceases and no compensation shall be payable for the intervening period."

That the President be, and he is hereby, further authorized to present, but not in the name of Congress, a distinguished-service cross of appropriate design and a ribbon, together with a rosette or other device, to be worn in lieu thereof, to any person who, while serving in any capacity with the Army of the United States since the sixth day of April, nineteen hundred and seventeen, has distinguished, or who shall hereafter distinguish, himself or herself by extraordinary heroism in connection with military operations against an armed enemy.

That the President be, and he is hereby, further authorized to present, but not in the name of Congress, a distinguished-service medal of appropriate design and a ribbon, together with a rosette or other device, to be worn in lieu thereof, to any person who, while serving in any capacity with the Army of the United States since the sixth day of April, nineteen hundred and seventeen, has distinguished, or who hereafter shall distinguish, himself or herself by exceptionally meritorious service to the Government in a duty of great responsibility; and said distinguished-service medal shall also be issued to all enlisted men of the Army to whom the certificate of merit has been granted up to and including the date of the passage of this Act under the provisions of previously existing law, in lieu of such certificate of merit, and after the passage of this Act the award of the certificate of merit for distinguished service shall cease; and additional pay heretofore authorized by law for holders of the certificate of merit shall not be paid to them beyond the date of the award of the distinguished-service medal in lieu thereof as aforesaid.

That no more than one medal of honor or one distinguished service cross or one distinguished-service medal shall be issued to any one person; but for each succeeding deed or act sufficient to justify the award of a medal of honor or a distinguished-service cross or a distinguished-service medal, respectively, the President may award a suitable bar, or other suitable device, to be worn as he shall direct; and for each other citation of an officer or enlisted man for gallantry in action published in orders issued from the headquarters of a force commanded by a general officer he shall be entitled to wear, as the President may direct, a silver star three-sixteenths of an inch in diameter.

That, except as otherwise prescribed herein, no medal of honor, distinguished-service cross, distinguished-service medal, or bar or other suitable device in lieu of either of said medals or of said cross, shall be issued to any person after more than three years from the date of the act justifying the award thereof, nor unless a specific statement or report distinctly setting forth the distinguished service and suggesting or recommending official recognition thereof shall have been made at the time of the distinguished service or within two years thereafter, nor unless it shall appear from official records in the War Department that such person has so distinguished himself as to entitle him thereto; but in case an individual who shall distinguish himself dies before the making of the award to which he may be entitled, the award may nevertheless be made and the medal or cross or the bar or other emblem or device presented, within three years from the date of the act justifying the award thereof, to such representative of the deceased as the President may designate; but no medal, cross, bar, or other device, hereinbefore authorized, shall be awarded or presented to any individual whose entire service subsequently to the time he distinguished himself shall not have been honorable; but in cases of officers and enlisted men now in the Army for whom the award of the medal of honor has been recommended in full compliance with then existing regulations but on account of services which, though insufficient fully to justify the award of the medal of honor, appear to have been such as to justify the award of the distinguished-service cross or distinguished-service medal hereinbefore provided for, such cases may be considered and acted upon under the provisions of this Act authorizing the award of the distinguished-service cross and distinguished-service medal, notwithstanding that said services may have been rendered more than three years before said cases shall have been considered as authorized by this Act, but all consideration of and action upon any of said cases shall be based exclusively upon official records now on file in the War Department; and in cases of officers and enlisted men now in the Army who have been mentioned in orders, now a part of official records, for extraordinary heroism or especially meritorious services, such as to justify the award of the distinguished-service cross or the distinguished-service medal hereinbefore provided for, such cases may be considered and acted on under the provisions of this Act, notwithstanding that said act or services may have been rendered more than three years before said class shall have been considered as authorized by this Act, but all consideration of and action upon any said cases shall be based exclusively upon official records of the War Department.

That the President be, and he is hereby, authorized to delegate, under such conditions, regulations, and limitations as he shall prescribe, to the commanding general of a separate army or higher unit in the field, the power conferred upon him by this Act to award the medal of honor, the distinguished-service cross, and the distinguished-service medal; and he is further authorized to make from time to time any and all rules, regulations, and orders which he shall deem necessary to carry into effect the provisions of this Act and to execute the full purpose and intention thereof.

That American citizens who have received, since August first, nineteen hundred and fourteen, decorations or medals for distinguished service in the armies or in connection with the field service of those nations engaged in war against the Imperial German Government, shall, on entering the military service of the United States, be permitted to wear such medals or decorations.

That any and all members of the military forces of the United States serving in the present war be, and they are hereby, permitted and authorized to accept during the present war or within one year thereafter, from the Government of any of the countries engaged in war with any country with which the United States is or shall be concurrently likewise engaged in war, such decorations, when tendered, as are conferred by such Government upon the members of its own military forces; and the consent of Congress required therefor by clause eight of section nine of Article I of the Constitution is hereby expressly granted: Provided, That any officer or enlisted man of the military forces of the United States is hereby authorized to accept and wear any medal or decoration heretofore bestowed by the Government of any of the nations concurrently engaged with the United States in the present war.

That the President is authorized, under regulations to be prescribed by him, to confer such medals and decorations as may be authorized in the military service of the United States upon officers and enlisted men of the military forces of the countries concurrently engaged with the United States in the present war.

[Materials for Ordnance Department—American manufactures—duty on imported materials.] * * * The Secretary of War is authorized, during the present emergency, in addition to the appropriations and obligations specifically authorized by law, to incur obligations for ordnance and ordnance supplies and materials: Provided, That the aggregate amount of such obligations shall not exceed $500,000,000.

Provided, That out of the authorizations provided for ordnance stores, ammunition, ordnance stores and supplies, small-arms target practice, manufacture of arms, automatic machine rifles, and armored motor cars there is authorized to be expended and is hereby appropriated the sum of $600,000,000.

Provided further, That all material purchased under the appropriations for the Ordnance Department in this Act shall be of American manufacture, except in cases when, in the judgment of the Secretary of War, it is to the manifest interest of the United States to make purchases abroad, which material shall be admitted free of duty. [— Stat. L. —.]

[Payment from total available balances.] * * * That during the present emergency when pressing obligations are required to be paid by a disbursing officer of the Army and the allotment to his official credit under the proper appropriation or appropriations is temporarily insufficient to pay the same, he is authorized to make payments from the total available balance to his official credit, provided sufficient funds under proper appropriation or appropriations have been appropriated by the chief officer of the bureau or department for the expenditure. When such disbursements are made, the accounts of the disbursing officer shall show the charging of the proper appropriations, and the balances thereunder, which will be adjusted by the disbursing officer on receipt of funds, or by the accounting officer of the Treasury. An Act To promote the reclamation of arid lands.

[SEC. 1.] [Arid public lands — reclamation — irrigation.] That when in any State of the United States under the irrigation district laws of said State there has heretofore been organized and created or shall hereafter be organized and created any irrigation district for the purpose of irrigating the lands situated within said irrigation district, and in which irrigation district so created or to be created there shall be included any of the public lands of the United States, such public lands so situated in said irrigation district, when subject to entry, and entered lands within said irrigation district, for which no final certificates have been issued, which may be designated by the Secretary of the Interior in the approval by him of the map and plat of an irrigation district as provided in section three, are hereby made and declared to be subject to all the provisions of the laws of the State in which such lands shall be situated relating to the organization, government and regulation of irrigation districts for the reclamation and irrigation of arid lands for agricultural purposes, to the same extent and in the same manner in which the lands of a like character held under private ownership are or may be subject to said laws: Provided, That the United States and all persons legally holding unpatented lands under entry made under the public land laws of the United States are accorded all the rights, privileges, benefits, and exemptions given by said State laws to persons holding lands of a like character under private ownership, except as hereinafter otherwise provided: Provided further, That this Act shall not apply to any irrigation district comprising a majority acreage of unentered land. [39 Stat. L. 506.]

SEC. 2. [Apportionment of cost of irrigation canals, etc.—liens.] That the cost of constructing, acquiring, purchasing, or maintaining the canals, ditches, reservoirs, reservoir sites, water, water right, rights of way, or other property incurred in connection with any irrigation project under said irrigation district laws shall be equitably apportioned among lands held under private ownership, lands legally covered by unpatented entries, and unentered public lands included in said irrigation district. Officially certified lists of the amounts of charges assessed against the smallest legal subdivision of said lands shall be furnished to the register and receiver of the land district within which the lands affected are located as soon as such charges are assessed; but nothing in this Act shall be construed as creating any obligation against the United States to pay any of said charges, assessments, or debts incurred.

That all charges legally assessed shall be a lien upon unentered lands and upon lands covered by unpatented entries included in said irrigation district; and said lien upon said land covered by unpatented entries may be enforced upon said unpatented lands by the sale thereof in the same manner and under the same proceeding whereby said assessments are enforced against lands held under private ownership: Provided, That in the case of entered unpatented lands the title or interest which such irrigation district may convey by tax sale, tax deed, or as a result of any tax proceeding shall be subject to the following conditions and limitations: If such unpatented land be withdrawn under the Act of Congress of June seventeenth, nineteen hundred and two (Thirty-second Statutes, page three hundred and eighty-eight), known as the reclamation Act, or subject to the provisions of said Act, then the interest which the district may convey by such tax proceedings or tax deed shall be subject to a prior lien reserved to the United States for all the unpaid charges authorized by the said Act of June seventeenth, nineteen hundred and two, but the holder of such tax deed or tax title resulting from such district tax shall be entitled to all the rights and privileges in the land included in such tax title or tax deed of an assignee under the provisions of the Act of Congress of June twenty-third, nineteen hundred and ten (Thirty-sixth Statutes, page five hundred and ninety-two), and upon submission to the United States land office of the district in which the land is located of satisfactory proof of such tax title, the name of the holder thereof shall be indorsed upon the records of such land office as entitled to the rights of one holding a complete and valid assignment under the said Act of June twenty-third, nineteen hundred and ten, and such person may at any time thereafter receive patent upon submitting satisfactory proof of the reclamation and irrigation required by the said Act of Congress of June seventeenth, nineteen hundred and two, and Acts amendatory thereto, and making the payments required by said Acts. [39 Stat. L. 507.]

For the Act of June 23, 1910, ch. 357, mentioned in the text, see 1912 Supp. Fed. Stat. Ann. 319; 9 Fed. Stat. Ann. (2d ed.) 1376.

SEC. 3. [Liens — taxes and assessments.] That no unentered lands and no entered lands for which no final certificates have been issued shall be subject to the lien or liens herein contemplated until there shall have been submitted by said irrigation district to the Secretary of the Interior, and approved by him, a map or plat of said district and sufficient detailed engineering data to demonstrate to the satisfaction of the Secretary of the Interior the sufficiency of the water supply and the feasibility of the project, and which shall explain the plan or mode of irrigation in those irrigation districts where the irrigation works have not been constructed, and which plan shall be sufficient to thoroughly irrigate and reclaim said land and prepare it to raise ordinary agricultural crops, and which shall also show the source of water to be used for irrigation of land included in said district: Provided, That the Secretary of the Interior may, upon the expiration of ten years from the date of his approval of said map and plan of any irrigation district, release from the lien authorized by this Act any unentered land or lands upon which final certificate has not issued, for which irrigation works have not been constructed and water of such district made available for the land: Provided further, That in those irrigation districts already organized and whose irrigation works have been constructed and are in operation as soon as a satisfactory map, plat, and plan shall have been approved by the Secretary of the Interior, as in this Act provided, such entered and unentered lands shall be subject to all district taxes and assessments theretofore actually levied against the lands in said district and in the same manner in which lands of a like character held under private ownership are subject to liens and assessments. [39 Stat. L. 507.]

SEC. 4. [Approval of district map or plat.] That upon the approval of the district map or plat as hereinbefore provided by the Secretary of the Interior the register and receiver will note said approval upon their records where any unentered or entered and unpatented lands are affected. [39 Stat. L. 508.]

SEC. 5. [Sale for taxes and assessments.] That no public lands which were unentered at the time any tax or assessment was levied against same by such irrigation district shall be sold for such taxes or assessments, but such tax or assessment shall be and continue a lien upon such lands, and not more than one hundred and sixty acres of such land shall be entered by any one person; and when such lands shall be applied for, after said approval by the Secretary of the Interior, under the homestead or desert-land laws of the United States the application shall be suspended for a period of thirty days to enable the applicant to present a certificate from the proper district or county officer showing that no unpaid district charges are due and delinquent against said land. [39 Stat. L. 508.]

SEC. 6. [Patents — subrogation to rights of purchaser — relinquishment of entered land.] That any entered but unpatented lands not subject to the reclamation Act of June seventeenth, nineteen hundred and two (Thirty-second Statutes, page three hundred and eighty-eight), sold in the manner and for the purposes mentioned in this Act may be patented to the purchaser thereof or his assignee at any time after the expiration of the period of redemption allowed by law under which it may have been sold (no redemption having been made) upon the payment to the receiver of the local land office of the minimum price of $1.25 per acre, or such other price as may be fixed by law for such lands, together with the usual fees and commissions charged in entries of like lands under the homestead laws, and upon a satisfactory showing that the irrigation works have been constructed and that water of the district is available for such land; but the purchaser or his assignee shall, at the time of application for patent, have the qualification of a homestead entryman or desert-land entryman, and not more than one hundred and sixty acres of said land shall be patented to any one purchaser under the provisions of this Act.

That unless the purchaser or his assignee of such lands shall, within ninety days after the time for redemption has expired, pay to the proper receiver all fees and commissions and the purchase price to which the United States shall be entitled as provided for in this Act, any person having the qualification of a homestead entryman or a desert-land entryman may pay to the proper receiver, for not more than one hundred and sixty acres of said lands, for which payment has not been made, the unpaid purchase price, fees, and commissions to which the United States may be entitled; and upon satisfactory proof that he has paid to the purchaser at the tax sale, or his assignee or to the proper officer of the district for such purchaser or for the district, as the case may be, the sum for which the land was sold at sale for irrigation district charges or bid in by the district at such sale, and in addition thereto the interest and penalties on the amount bid at the rate allowed by law, shall be subrogated to the rights of such purchaser to receive patent for said land.

In any case where any tract of entered land lying within such approved irrigation district shall become vacant by relinquishment or cancellation for any cause, any subsequent applicant therefor shall be required, in addition to the qualifications and requirements otherwise provided, to furnish satisfactory proof by certificate from the proper district or county officer that he has paid all charges then due to the district upon said land and also has paid to the proper district or county officer for the holder or holders of any tax certificates, delinquency certificates, or other proper evidence of purchase at tax sale the amount for which the said land was sold at tax sale, together with the interest and penalties thereon provided by law. [39 Stat. L. 508.]

For the Reclamation Act of June 17, 1902, ch. 1093, mentioned in the text, see 7 Fed. Stat. Ann. 1098; 9 Fed. Stat. Ann. (2d ed.) 1363.

SEC. 7. [Notices — hearing by petition, etc. — redemption.] That all notices required by the irrigation district laws mentioned in this act shall, as soon as such notices are issued, be delivered to the register and receiver of the proper land office in cases where unpatented lands are affected thereby, and to the entryman whose unpatented lands are included therein, and the United States and such entryman shall be given the same rights to be heard by petition, answer, remonstrance, appeal, or otherwise as are given to persons holding lands in private ownership, and all entrymen shall be given the same rights of redemption as are given to the owners of lands held in private ownership. [39 Stat. L. 509.]

SEC. 8. [Money received from sale of public lands — disposition.] That all moneys derived by the United States from the sale of public lands herein referred to shall be paid into such funds and applied as provided by law for the disposal of the proceeds from the sale of public lands. [39 Stat. L. 509.]

All moneys heretofore or hereafter refunded or received in connection with operations under the reclamation law, except repayments of construction and operation and maintenance charges, shall be a credit to the appropriation for the project or operation from or on account of which the collection is made and shall be available for expenditure in like manner as if said sum had been specifically appropriated for said project or operation. SUPPLEMENTAL NOTES

Vol. I, p. 233, sec. 7.

Potato diseases.—In Daigle v. U. S., (C. C. A. 1st Cir. 1916) 237 Fed. 159, 150 C. C. A. 305, the facts showed that the Secretary of Agriculture, by virtue of the authority conferred by this section, prohibited the importation of the common potato from the Dominion of Canada and certain other countries because of the prevalence of potato diseases, and that this potato quarantine was set up as a good ground for the seizure of potatoes which had been imported from Canada to Maine. The libel, however, was held insufficient to make such ground available. The court said: "If it had been alleged in the libel that the goods in question had been knowingly brought into the United States contrary to law, in that their importation was prohibited under the Plant Quarantine Act and the order of the Secretary of Agriculture, there would be little doubt but that the potatoes, together with the other property used in bringing them into the country, would be subject to seizure and condemnation . . . but none of the counts of the libel contain such allegations."

"Plant product" as including lumber.—In Boston, etc., R. Co. v. U. S., (C. C. A. 1st Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 440, 158 C. C. A.

504, it was held that the words "plant product" did not include lumber.

Vol. I, p. 235, sec. 10.

Necessity that information be sworn to.—Where no warrant of arrest is asked for the information need not be sworn to. U. S. v. Adams Express Co., (D. C. Mass. 1915) 230 Fed. 531.

Sufficiency of information.—In U. S. v. Adams Express Co., (D. C. Mass. 1915) 230 Fed. 531, the information was brought under section 8 of this Act, which authorized the Secretary of Agriculture to establish, by regulations to be made by him from time to time, quarantine boundaries against dangerous plant diseases and insect pests, and forbid common carriers to receive for transportation goods covered by such regulations unless such goods had been inspected and the package containing them was certified by the proper officers. The information alleged that the defendant did receive for such transportation nursery stock which had not been inspected and which bore no certificate as required by the Act, and that the defendant knew that the box which it received for transportation, and which bore no certificate, contained nursery stock. The information was demurred to and there was also a motion to quash. The demurrer was sustained.

Vol. I, p. 255, sec. 9.

Purpose of exemption clause.—In the second proviso of this section Congress reserved to itself the exclusive power for five years from the date of its enactment to fix and impose any and all taxes upon railways and railroad property in Alaska. In all of its legislation with respect to Alaska, Congress was dealing with a section of the country the development of which is necessarily attended with hard conditions. Its long winter climate, and the smallness of its population, necessarily make the building of railroads a costly and difficult matter, which fact no doubt entered into the consideration of the law makers in enacting the exemption clause in this section. Alaska Northern R. Co.

v. Municipality of Seward, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 229 Fed. 667, 144 C. C. A. 77.

Power of municipality to levy tax on railway.—Authorizing, as Congress did, the legislature to levy taxes for territorial purposes up to 1 per centum upon the assessed valuation of property situated within the territory in any one year, and authorizing any incorporated town or municipality thereof to levy any tax for any purpose up to 2 per centum of the assessed valuation of property within the town in any one year, Congress expressly declared that it reserved to itself the exclusive power for five years to fix and impose any tax upon railways or railway property in Alaska. The necessary effect of this reservation is to prohibit the levy of any tax upon such property during the specified period by any other power.—Alaska Northern R. Co. v. Municipality of Seward, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 229 Fed. 667, 144 C. C. A. 77.

Vol. I, p. 301, sec. 1.

Validity of location.—This statute contemplates as a basis of a valid location the opening and development of a producing mine of coal. Work performed upon a claim merely for prospecting purposes does not fulfil the requirement. U. S. v. Lane, (1917) 46 App. Cas. (D. C.) 443.

Vol. I, p. 310, sec. 2.

Time of recording power of attorney.—A power of attorney, authorizing the location of placer mining claims by one for another must be recorded before any step in the matter of such location can be taken. Sutherland v. Purdy, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 234 Fed. 600, 148 C. C. A. 366, overruling dicta on this point in Cloninger v. Finlaison, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 230 Fed. 98, 144 C. C. A. 396.

Vol. I, p. 319, sec. 15.

Reservation of adjacent waters.—The reservation by presidential proclamation of the waters surrounding Annette Island for the use and benefit of the natives is in accord with the practical purpose Congress had in view when it made the original reservation. Alaska Pacific Fisheries v. U. S., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 240 Fed. 274, 153 C. C. A. 200.

Vol. I, p. 320, sec. 10.

Roadway through reserved lands.—The reference in this section is to a roadway through the reserved lands previously described and not other lands granted in fee under the Homestead Laws. Worthen Lumber Mills v. Alaska, Juneau Gold Min. Co., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 229 Fed. 966, 144 C. C. A. 248.

Vol. I, p. 325.

Construction.—The provision, that "along such shore a space of at least eighty rods shall be reserved from entry between all such claims," means plainly that a space of at least 80 rods shall be reserved from entry along the shore of the navigable water between claims along such shore. It does not mean that there shall be reserved a space of 80 rods from any other entry however situated. U. S. v. Poland, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 231 Fed. 810, 145 C. C. A. 630.

Vol. I, p. 327.

Effect on occupation and alienation.—This act, authorizing the Secretary of the Interior in his discretion to allot nonmineral land to any Indian or Eskimo as a homestead for the allottee and his heirs in perpetuity, which "shall be inalienable and nontaxable until otherwise provided by Congress" does not of its own force terminate the rights of occupation which the Indian had prior thereto, or place any bar upon the alienation thereof. Worthen Lumber Mills v. Alaska, Juneau Gold Min. Co., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 229 Fed. 966, 144 C. C. A. 248.

Vol. I, p. 353, sec. 1.

Additional license taxes.—The territory of Alaska may impose additional license taxes, for the purpose of revenue. When Congress by the Organic Act, conferred legislative power upon the territory of Alaska, while it expressly withheld power to alter or amend laws pertaining to fish and other certain subjects, and saved certain laws then in force, it nevertheless transferred power to the newly created legislative body to impose other and additional taxes and licenses; that is, power to impose taxes different from, and it might be additional to, those already in force when the Organic Act was approved. And so by the Organic Act those general provisions for the protection of fish which we find in the Act of 1906 was kept in force without possibility of alteration, amendment or repeal by the territorial legislature and the specific license tax provided by the Act of 1906 was kept in force, but with power transferred to the legislature to impose, if it should see fit, other and additional license taxes. Alaska Pacific Fisheries v. Alaska, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 236 Fed. 52, 149 C. C. A. 262; Hoonah Packing Co. v. Alaska, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 236 Fed. 61, 149 C. C. A. 271. See also Alaska Salmon Co. v. Alaska, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 236 Fed. 62, 149 C. C. A. 272; Alaska Pacific Fisheries v. Alaska, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 236 Fed. 70, 149 C. C. A. 280.

Vol. I, p. 355, sec. 5.

Release of obstructions.—The provision of this section requiring that 25 feet of the webbing or net of the heart of traps shall be lifted or lowered so as to permit the free passage of salmon and other fishes is not merely directory. It is a plain command of the statute and disobedience thereto is a crime under the Act. Thlinket Packing Co. v. U. S., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 236 Fed. 109, 149 C. C. A. 319.

Vol. I, p. 357, sec. 13.

Indictment.—An indictment charging a violation of section 5 of this Act, respecting the release of obstructions, need not allege that the accused was actually fishing or taking fish. An allegation that the accused "did unlawfully and wrongfully maintain and operate for fishing a certain trap" is sufficient. Thlinket Packing Co. v. U. S., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 236 Fed. 109, 149 C. C. A. 319.

ANIMALS

Vol. I, p. 374, sec. 7.

Quarantine regulations.—The Secretary of Agriculture has full authority to make regulations designating ports of import and quarantine and inspection stations, and requiring that cattle, sheep and other ruminants and swine imported into the United States, which are subject to both quarantine and inspection, must be entered at such ports of entry and inspected by an inspector of the Bureau of Animal Industry. Estes v. U. S., (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 227 Fed. 818, 142 C. C. A. 342.

Vol. I, p. 377, sec. 1.

Application of statute—Shipment originating in foreign country.—That the point of origin of shipment was in a foreign country, is immaterial, when the period of confinement while passing through the United States exceeds the statutory limitation. Regardless of the points of origin or destination of the shipment the statute applies whenever its violation occurs within the jurisdiction of the federal government. Grand Trunk R. Co. v. U. S., (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1916) 229 Fed. 116, 143 C. C. A. 392.

Liability of connecting carrier for delay of initial carrier.—Where the initial carrier has incurred liability for the penalty, such liability is not transferred to the connecting carrier with the delivery of the stock. U. S. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., (N. D. Ia. 1916) 234 Fed. 386.

Sufficiency of request extending time.—An indorsement, by a shipper or by a member of a firm making a shipment, in his own hand writing on the blank margin of the bill of lading covering one of the shipments, is sufficient to bring the shipment in question within the terms of the proviso. Norfolk, etc., R. Co. v. Steele, (1915) 117 Va. 788, 86 S. E. 124.

Equipment of stock pens.—Stock pens in open corrals in the sand, wholly without shade or covering of any kind, held to be unfit and not properly equipped for rest. Southern Pac. Co. v. Stewart, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 233 Fed. 956, 147 C. C. A. 630.

Defenses—In general.—Any defense to an action for the penalty for confinement of cattle in violation of this law must rest upon one of two grounds. One is the absence of a corpus delicti, that is any confinement not due to storms or accidents, etc. If such fact is present, the defendant is not liable because no offense has been established. The other is that the offense, although made out to exist and to have been committed by the defendant, was committed unwittingly. If the carrier did not have knowledge, it is not to be penalized, even though its ignorance was due to its own carelessness, and it was misled by the negligence of its own agents or servants. U. S. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., (E. D. Pa. 1916) 238 Fed. 428.

Compliance with statute as defense to delay in delivery.—In St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Shepherd, (1916) 240 U. S. 240, 36 S. Ct. 274, 60 U. S. (L. ed.) 622, which was an action for damages resulting from unreasonable delay in transporting cattle from Texas to Missouri it appeared that the plaintiff had a verdict and judgment and that the latter was affirmed (see 40 Okla. 589), whereupon a writ of error was obtained in the United States Supreme Court to review the action of the Oklahoma court. One of the errors assigned was that due effect was not given to this act limiting the time that cattle in interstate transit might be confined in cars without being unloaded for rest, water and feed. It was claimed that part of the delay was excusable, because the transportation reasonably could not have been completed within the maximum time—thirty-six hours—during which the cattle could be confined in the cars and it therefore became necessary under the act to unload them for rest, water and feed for at least five hours, as was done. But the court said: "Whether the transportation reasonably could have been completed within thirty-six hours was the subject of direct and conflicting testimony and was committed to the jury as a question of fact. In that connection the court said to the jury: 'You are instructed that under the laws of the United States the defendant company could not keep the stock in this shipment in the cars longer than thirty-six hours and if you find the evidence that it was not reasonably possible that the shipment should reach Kansas City within the thirty-six hour limit, then it is not liable for the delay caused by the unloading of the stock. No exception was reserved to this instruction, no modification of it was suggested and no other instruction upon the subject was requested. It therefore is apparent that the assignments based upon this statute are so devoid of merit as to be frivolous. Writ of error dismissed."

Accident as defense to delay.—Confinement exceeding the maximum thirty-six-hour period necessitated by accidents happening near final destination is excused where, in the exercise of ordinary care, prudence, and foresight the carrier reasonably could have expected that, following the determined schedule, the containing car would have reached its destination or some unloading place within the prescribed time, and thereafter exercised the diligence and foresight which prudent men, experienced in such matters, would have adopted to prevent accidents and delays, and to overcome the effect of any that might happen. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. U. S., 246 U. S. 512, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 434, reversing (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1916) 234 Fed. 268, 148 C. C. A. 170.

An indistinct notation upon a bill of lading of the time live stock was loaded on the cars is not a defense to an action under this section. It can be considered, if at all, only in mitigation. U. S. v. Sioux City Terminal R. Co., (N. D. Ia. 1916) 234 Fed. 663.

Civil action for damages.—A shipper of live stock, furnished by an interstate carrier with transportation under a contract to care for, feed, water, and unload his own stock when necessary, who actually accompanies his shipment on the train in which they are transported, and consents to and participates with the carrier in a violation of the federal statutes relating to such shipment, is not in a position to maintain a civil action for damages against such carrier, alleged to have been caused by such violation. Fluckinger v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., (1915) 99 Neb. 6, 154 N. W. 865.

Vol. I, p. 387, sec. 3.

"Wilfully."—The term "wilfully," as employed in this act, does not imply deliberate intent to do injury to the stock or to its owner. The jury may conclude that the violation was wilful, if from the evidence they find that the carrier in conferring the stock beyond the statutory limit, manifested disregard of the law or indifference to its requirements. Grand Trunk R. Co. v. U. S., (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1916) 229 Fed. 116, 143 C. C. A. 392; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. U. S., (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1916) 234 Fed. 268, 148 C. C. A. 170.

The ultimate question of the wilfulness of the act of confinement must be determined from the evidentiary facts, and it makes no difference that such facts appear by stipulation of the parties rather than through oral or documentary evidence. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. U. S., (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1916) 234 Fed. 272, 148 C. C. A. 174.

Construction of proviso—Question for court.—The proviso in this section deals wholly with the structure of the car. If the car is such that "they can and do have proper space, and opportunity to rest" then the requirement in regard to unloading does not apply. It is for the court to say what Congress meant by this language. That question cannot be left to the jury. Otherwise there would be as many rules as there are verdicts. Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Finch, (D. C. N. D. 1915) 225 Fed. 676.

"Opportunity to rest."—The only opportunity to rest that is possible while animals are in transit is the opportunity to lie down. The animals, while they are in transit, have no opportunity to rest standing up. Congress, having in view the muscular and nervous strain to which animals are subjected while on cars, passed the law requiring them to be unloaded at stated intervals. It is too plain for debate that such animals, while they are in the unusual situation in which they are placed on cars in rapid motion, subject to the jolts and jerks of such cars, are subject to a severe nervous and muscular strain, such a strain as they never experience in the stable or field. The only rest possible from that strain while the animals are on the cars is for them to lie down. It is plain, therefore, that the phrase "opportunity to rest" means opportunity to lie down. Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Finch, (D. C. N. D. 1915) 225 Fed. 676.

Burden of bringing case within proviso.

—It is not necessary to the recovery of a penalty under this section that the government negative the excuse embodied in the proviso of this section. That excuse is a separate topic, a defense and the burden is on the defendant to establish it. And where the declaration contains a negative allegation with respect to the absence of storms or other unavoidable causes excusing compliance with the Act such an allegation is mere surplusage and affirmative evidence in support thereof is unnecessary. Grand Trunk R. Co. v. U. S., (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1916) 229 Fed. 116, 143 C. C. A. 392.

Vol. I, p. 393, sec. 4.

State regulations.—When the subject of transportation of live stock from one state to another is taken under direct national supervision and a system devised by which diseased stock may be excluded from interstate commerce, any state regulations in respect of such matters will cease to have any force. The acts of Congress and the regulations thereunder will alone control. Pecos, etc., R. Co. v. Hall, (Tex. Civ. App. 1916) 189 S. W. 535.

Vol. I, p. 397, sec. 1.

Validity of statute.—The stated purpose of the Meat Inspection Act is "to prevent the use in interstate and foreign commerce of meat and meat food products, which are unsound, unhealthful, unwholesome or otherwise unfit for human food," and it would seem that a purpose so obviously beneficial should receive the sanction and approval of the courts, unless in the face of an unquestionable constitutional prohibition against the right of Congress to enact such legislation. U. S. v. Cudahy Packing Co., (D. C. Conn. 1917) 243 Fed. 441.

Purpose of law.—The entire Meat Inspection Law was, as distinctly indicated in it, to prevent the sale of food which is unsound, unwholesome or otherwise unfit for human use or misbranded. It was not the design of Congress to provide standards of quality except to prohibit the sale of food which was unsound, unwholesome or otherwise unfit for human use and secure true branding. St. Louis Independent Packing Co. v. Houston, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1914) 215 Fed. 553, 132 C. C. A. 65, reversing (E. D. Mo. 1913) 204 Fed. 120. See also St. Louis Independent Packing Co. v. Houston, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 337, 155 C. C. A. 113.

Relation to Oleomargarine Act.—This statute applies to oleomargarine dealers notwithstanding the Oleomargarine Act of May 9, 1902, ch. 784 (title FOOD AND DRUGS, vol. 3, p. 353). Whatever may have been the ulterior purpose in the passage of the Oleomargarine Law, it cannot be held that anything in it tended to subtract any power subsequently conferred on the Secretary of Agriculture under the Meat Inspection Law. The Oleomargarine Law, was enacted in the exercise of the taxing power and this could not prevent Congress, under the power to regulate commerce, enacting the Meat Inspection Law in the interest of public health or welfare. Brougham v. Blanton Mfg. Co., (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1917) 243 Fed. 503, 156 C. C. A. 201.

Meat food product.—Oleo oil is a meat food product. It is, without being refined or undergoing any chemical change, the principal ingredient of oleomargarine. In manufacturing this substitute for butter, oleo oil is mechanically mixed with other substances. What the oleo oil was before mixing, it continues to be afterward; the mixture is fit for human consumption and is largely used for food. Totten v. Pittsburgh Melting Co., (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1916) 232 Fed. 694, 146 C. C. A. 620, reversing (W. D. Pa. 1916) 229 Fed. 214.

Oleomargarine is a meat food product and its manufacture comes within the language of this Act. Brougham v. Blanton Mfg. Co., (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1917) 243 Fed. 503, 156 C. C. A. 201.

Authority to make regulations.—While it is true that Congress cannot delegate its legislative powers, it can, nevertheless, delegate authority to the proper administrative or executive officer to make administrative rules, violations of which may be punished as public offenses where the act of legislation which delegates the authority ordains that this be done. U. S. v. Cudahy Packing Co., (D. C. Conn. 1917) 243 Fed. 441.

That Congress may delegate to an executive officer the power to determine facts and conditions upon which the operation of the statute depends, without violating the prohibition against the delegation of legislative functions, is settled. U. S. v. Pennsylvania Co., (W. D. Pa. 1916) 235 Fed. 961.

Finality of Secretary's decision.—It is within the discretion of the Secretary of Agriculture to find whether meat products are unsound, unhealthful or unwholesome. But his finding is not conclusive upon the courts. St. Louis Independent Packing Co. v. Houston, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 337, 155 C. C. A. 113, reversing (E. D. Mo. 1916) 231 Fed. 779. See also St. Louis Independent Packing Co. v. Houston, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1914) 215 Fed. 553, 132 C. C. A. 65, reversing (E. D. Mo. 1913) 204 Fed. 120.

Vol. I, p. 399. [Inspectors, etc.]

Inspection by packer.—Under the rules and regulations prescribed by the Secretary of Agriculture, the packer is forbidden to make an inspection prior to the government's inspection, in the manner in which such inspection is made; but there is nothing to indicate that a subsequent independent inspection is forbidden or could not be made by the packer. And where he fails to make an inspection for himself in order to determine whether the meat sold by him is fit for food, the inspection by the government will not relieve him from civil liability for damages. Catani v. Swift, (1915) 251 Pa. St. 52, 95 Atl. 931, L. R. A. 1917B 1272.

Vol. I, p. 403. [Inspection, etc.]

Civil liability.—The provisions herein for meat inspection by government officers do not relieve the packer from liability for damages where he has made no inspection nor taken any steps to ascertain for himself whether the meat sold by him is fit for food. The common-law duty to sell only wholesome food still remains, and the burden of discharging this duty has not been shifted to government inspectors. So where the jury having found that the death of plaintiff's husband was the result of eating meat packed by, defendant which was affected by a disease which the evidence showed was discoverable by proper inspection, it was held that the burden was on defendant to show fulfillment of its duty, which burden was not met by merely proving inspection by the United States government inspectors. Catani v. Swift, (1915) 251 Pa. St. 52, 95 Atl. 931, L. R. A. 1917B 1272.

Vol. I, p. 404. [Appointment of inspectors, etc.]

Authority to make regulations.—While it is true that Congress cannot delegate its legislative powers, it can nevertheless, delegate authority to the proper administrative or executive officer to make administrative rules, violations of which may be punished as public offenses where the act of legislation which delegates the authority ordains that this be done. U. S. v. Cudahy Packing Co., (D. C. Conn. 1917) 243 Fed. 441.

That Congress may delegate to an executive officer the power to determine facts and conditions upon which the operation of the statute depends, without violating the prohibition against delegation of legislative functions, is settled. U. S. v. Pennsylvania Co., (W. D. Pa. 1916) 235 Fed. 961.

The Secretary of Agriculture has no power to adopt and enforce a regulation which prohibits the making of a compound which is sound, healthful, wholesome, and free from dyes, chemicals, preservatives or ingredients which render such compound unfit for human food. St. Louis Independent Packing Co. v. Houston, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1914) 215 Fed. 553, 132 C. C. A. 65, holding that the Secretary of Agriculture had no power to prohibit the manufacture and sale of sausage and cereal where the cereal was in excess of 2 per cent, reversing (E. D. Mo. 1913) 204 Fed. 120. See also St. Louis Independent Packing Co. v. Houston, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 337, 155 C. C. A. 113, reversing (E. D. Mo. 1916) 231 Fed. 779.

Vol. I, p. 405. [Exceptions, etc.]

Application of first proviso.—This proviso does not fix responsibility for the condition of food subsequent to its inspection. So, one who delivers and offers for transportation in interstate commerce an unwholesome food product which is marked "inspected" by label as provided in this Act, is not within the proviso. U. S. v. Northwestern Fisheries Co., (W. D. Wash. 1915) 224 Fed. 274.

Vol. I, p. 411, sec. 1.

Power of Secretary to prescribe regulations.—To accomplish the purpose of this statute, the Secretary of Agriculture is authorized to make such regulations and take such measures as may be deemed proper. It may be wholly impracticable for Congress to determine what measures should be taken to prevent the spread of animal diseases. New conditions arise, and not infrequently an epidemic breaks out requiring prompt measures in order to successfully combat it. Evidently this can best be accomplished by the employment of some executive agency under such restriction as Congress may see fit to impose. That Congress may delegate to an executive officer the power to determine facts and conditions upon which the operation of the statute depends, without violating the prohibition against the delegation of legislative functions, is settled. U. S. v. Pennsylvania Co., (W. D. Pa. 1916) 235 Fed. 961. See also U. S. v. Cudahy Packing Co., (D. C. Conn. 1917) 243 Fed. 441.

Vol. I, p. 413, sec. 2.

Quarantine regulations.—The Secretary of Agriculture has full authority to make regulations designating ports of import and quarantine and inspection stations and requiring that horses, cattle, sheep and other ruminants, and swine imported into the United States, which are subject to both quarantine and inspection, must be entered at such ports of entry and inspected by an inspector of the Bureau of Animal Industry. Estes v. U. S., (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1915) 227 Fed. 818, 142 C. C. A. 342.

BAIL AND RECOGNIZANCES

Vol. I, p. 490, sec. 1015.

Declaratory of common law.—The power conferred by Congress to bail offenders against the criminal laws of the United States is declaratory of the power inherent at the common law. Ewing v. U. S., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 240 Fed. 241, 153 C. C. A. 167.

Vol. I, p. 492, sec. 1020.

Petition—Pleading.—An allegation in the petition for the remission of the penalty, "that there has been no wilful default" of the defendant or his sureties is a sufficient averment of that fact. Allegations of the evidence that the default was not wilful are not necessary. U. S. v. Smart, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 237 Fed. 978, 150 C. C. A. 628.

Verification.—The verification of the petition by a person who put up the money to induce the sureties to sign the recognizance, and who is therefore the real party in interest, is sufficient. U. S.

v. Smart, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 237 Fed. 978, 150 C. C. A. 628.

Time for application for remission.—The penalty may be remitted after final judgment, after the expiration of the term in which the default was adjudged and after the expiration of the term in which the final judgment was entered. U. S. v. Smart, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 237 Fed. 978, 150 C. C. A. 628.

BANKRUPTCY

Vol. I, p. 504.

General purposes of the Act.—The purpose of the Bankruptcy Act is to establish a uniform system of bankruptcy throughout the United States, and place the bankrupt's property, wherever situate, under the control of the court, for the purpose of determining the status of the bankrupt and the settlement and distribution of such estate. West v. Empire L. Ins. Co., (W. D. Wash. 1917) 242 Fed. 605.

Suspension of state insolvency laws.—The bankruptcy law is paramount. Hawkins v. Dannenberg Co., (S. D. Ga. 1916) 234 Fed. 752.

Where the jurisdiction of the federal Bankruptcy Court is invoked, the state insolvency laws are suspended. Shaw v. Standard Piano Co., (N. J. 1917) 100 Atl. 167.

Vol. I, p. 510, sec. 1a (9).

Attorney.—This court is of the opinion that the practice which has grown up, and which seems to be recognized by the Act itself, requiring attorneys-at-law duly admitted, who appear for a creditor and desire to vote for trustee, to have specific written authority, is a wise and necessary rule of practice. In re Capitol Trading Co., (D. C. N. D. N. Y. 1916) 229 Fed. 806. See also In re H. E. Ploof Mfg. Co., (D. C. S. D. Fla. 1916) 243 Fed. 421.

Vol. I, p. 511, sec. 1a (15).

Capital stock.—This definition indicates that the capital stock of a corporation is not to be taken into account in determining whether a corporation is insolvent. Capital stock is a liability, but in no sense can it be said to be a corporate debt to be reckoned with in ascertaining whether the company is insolvent. Tepel v. Coleman, (D. C. Pa. 1914) 229 Fed. 300.

Vol. I, p. 515, sec. 1a (24).

Porto Rico is included in the word "states," as here used. In re Vidal, (C. C. A. 1st Cir. 1916) 233 Fed. 733, 147 C. C. A. 499.

Vol. I, p. 515, sec. 1a (25).

The word "transfer" is given a broad meaning by the statutory definition. A money payment is within this generality of definition. Golden Hill Distilling Co. v. Logue, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 243 Fed. 342, 156 C. C. A. 122.

Vol. I, p. 516, sec. 2.

Not courts of limited jurisdiction.—The United States District Courts are by the Bankruptcy Act created into Bankruptcy Courts, and their jurisdiction as such is limited. In re Hollins, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 229 Fed. 349, 143 C. C. A. 469.

But such jurisdiction is unlimited in respect of its power over proceedings in bankruptcy. In re Sage, (E. D. Mo. 1915) 224 Fed. 525.

The jurisdiction of the Bankruptcy Court is intended to be exclusive of all other courts. Commercial Trust, etc., Bank v. Busch-Grace Produce Co., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1916) 228 Fed. 300, 142 C. C. A. 592. And such proceedings include all matters of administration and the determining of rights between contending parties with relation to the estate upon a fund in the custody of the court. Gibbons v. Dexter Horton Trust, etc., Bank, (W. D. Wash. 1915) 225 Fed. 424.

A bill in equity will not be entertained for the purpose of adjudicating any matter or reviewing any proceeding in the court of administration in the Bankruptcy Court. Gibbons v. Dexter Horton Trust, etc., Bank, (W. D. Wash. 1915) 225 Fed. 424.

Equitable jurisdiction.—The Bankruptcy Court is a court of equity and, controlled by the statute, may do equity guided by the well-defined and established principles of equity jurisprudence. In re Syracuse Gardens Co., (N. D. N. Y. 1916) 231 Fed. 284.

Where the necessary parties are before a court of equity, it is immaterial that the subject-matter of the controversy, whether real or personal property, is beyond the territorial jurisdiction of the court. In such case the power exists to compel a defendant to do all things necessary which he could do voluntarily to give full effect to the decree against him. Obedience to the decrees so made is enforced by means of process against the person. Orinoco Iron Co. v. Metzel, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1916) 230 Fed. 40, 144 C. C. A. 338.

A Bankruptcy Court does not always require actual and intentional fraud to afford a remedy in equity. Implied fraud or constructive fraud growing out of both representations and the concealment of or failure to disclose material facts, many times is ground for equitable relief. In re Syracuse Gardens Co., (N. D. N. Y. 1916) 231 Fed. 284.

Appointment of special master.—A court in bankruptcy is a court of equity and has the powers of a court of equity, and this carries with it the power of appointing a special master to take evidence in aid of the court, and these special masters may be standing masters in chancery or appointed pro hac vice in particular cases. U. S. v. Coyle, (N. D. N. Y. 1916) 229 Fed. 256.

Vol. I, p. 518, sec. 2 (1).

Jurisdiction as dependent on residence, domicile, or place of business.—By the terms of the Act it appears that District Courts are invested with jurisdiction to adjudge persons bankrupt (1) who have had their principal place of business, or (2) who have resided, or (3) who have had their domicile within their respective territorial jurisdictions for the period of six months, or the greater portion thereof. The grant of jurisdiction is therefore not general in the sense that persons may be adjudged bankrupt, regardless of the place of their residence, etc. But the jurisdiction of the court over the estate of the bankrupt, the subject-matter of the proceeding, is confined by the terms of the act to such persons as may be embraced within one of the three categories mentioned. Finn v. Carolina Portland Cement Co., (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1916) 232 Fed. 815, 147 C. C. A. 9.

Residence as dependent on place of business.—The residence of a partnership is at its principal place of business, and not where the individual members reside, though some business is done in the latter place. In re Gurler, (N. D. Ia. 1916) 232 Fed. 1016.

Traveling salesman.—In the case of a traveling salesman whose only compensation consists of a commission on sales, and who spends over one-half of his time on the road it has been held that he does not have a "place of business," within the meaning of this section, at the place where he spends the remainder of his time so as to confer jurisdiction on the federal court in the latter place. In re Price, (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 231 Fed. 1001.

Corporations principal place of business—Question of fact.—The question as to where the principal place of business of a corporation is situated is determined purely by the facts, and not by intentions of the corporate authorities or recitals in the charter. In re San Antonio

Land, etc., Co., (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 228 Fed. 984.

The locus of the principal place of business of a corporation is a question of fact and the burden of proving it rests on the petitioning creditors. In re Pennington, (W. D. Ky. 1915) 228 Fed. 388.

Concurrent jurisdiction.—Where a corporation has its domicile in one district and its principal place of business in another the court of either district has jurisdiction. In re New Era Novelty Co., (D. C. N. J. 1916) 241 Fed. 298.

Jurisdiction in case of aliens.—Whether the alleged bankrupt is an alien, or his creditors are aliens, or both, the United States courts has jurisdiction, provided there is "property within their jurisdiction." In re Berthoud, (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 231 Fed. 529.

Objection to jurisdiction.—The fact that a bankrupt appears by filing demurrer to the petition of the creditors, going to the merits of the controversy without objecting to the jurisdiction does not preclude him from thereafter timely asserting the want of jurisdiction. Finn v. Carolina Portland Cement Co., (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1916) 232 Fed. 815, 147 C. C. A. 9.

"Property within their jurisdictions."—In determining what is included or meant by this phrase it has been said: "For the purpose of making a record that may be available in case of appeal, however, I will say that I think the meaning of the word 'property' under the Bankruptcy Act should be much the same as that under judicial decisions relating to matters of taxation and attachment." In re San Antonio Land, etc., Co., (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 228 Fed. 984.

Obligation of bank to pay depositor or property within the jurisdiction.—In this connection it has been said: "Whether the obligation of the National Park Bank to pay its depositor, Berthoud, be called a debt or a chose in action, the result is the same. It is clearly property, and has been so considered in many cases involving a wide variety of questions as to the relation between a bank and its depositor; and, by a course of practical construction by courts of bankruptcy, a bank deposit, by whatever name called in law, has been regarded and treated as property." In re Berthoud, (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 231 Fed. 529.

Jurisdiction of court—In general.—It is well settled that, where the Bankruptcy Court has acquired lawful custody of property to which conflicting liens attach, it has jurisdiction to determine the priorities of such liens, though the trustee has no interest in such question; that the administration and distribution of the property of bankrupts is a proceeding in equity, and, when authorized by Act of Congress, it becomes a branch of equity jurisprudence; that property in the custody of a court of equity for administration is always held by it in trust for those to whom it rightfully belongs. The jurisdiction to inquire and determine who the lawful owners are, and to that end to call before it all claimants by a reasonable notice or order to present their claims to the court within a reasonable time, or to be barred of any right or interest in the property, in its custody, or in its proceeds, is a power inherent in every court of equity, incidental and indispensable to the authority to administer the property in its possession and to distribute its proceeds. These principles are announced and confirmed in many decisions of this court and the Supreme Court. Nisbet v. Federal Title, etc., Co., (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1915) 29 Fed. 647, 144 C. C. A. 54.

Generally speaking, the jurisdiction of courts of bankruptcy in the administration of bankrupt estates extends "to all matters of bankruptcy without limitation. It is coextensive with the United States." It knows no state or district boundaries. Orinoco Iron Co. v. Metzel, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1916) 230 Fed. 40, 144 C. C. A. 338.

The rule which gives the Bankruptcy Court exclusive jurisdiction to determine claims to property in its custody is not limited to actual possession, but extends to constructive possession as well including property held not only by but for the bankrupt. Orinoco Iron Co. v. Metzel, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1916) 230 Fed. 40, 144 C. C. A. 338.

Conflicting and adverse claims.—As to property within the custody of the Bankruptcy Court its exclusive jurisdiction over the general administration of the bankrupt's estate carries with it exclusive authority to determine, not only the claims of creditors, but also adverse claims, whether by way of ownership or paramount liens. Orinoco Iron Co. v. Metzel, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1916) 230 Fed. 40, 144 C. C. A. 338.

Where the bankrupt has possession of the property, and such possession passes to the trustee, this possession gives to the Bankruptcy Court control of the res and authority to administer it; and of course authority to administer it includes the power to ascertain and determine all conflicting claims thereto, whether the claimants reside in the district where such bankruptcy proceeding is pending or in some other state. In re Wegman Piano Co., (N. D. N. Y. 1915) 228 Fed. 60.

Remedy.—A court which has possession of a fund has jurisdiction of a proceeding in which a petitioner claims a lien thereon and the proper and most convenient method is by ancillary bill filed in the bankruptcy proceedings. Brown Bros. Co. v. Smith Bros. Co., (E. D. Ia. 1916) 231 Fed. 475.

Vol. I, p. 522, sec. 2 (3).

Appointment of receiver—Paramount jurisdiction of Bankruptcy Court.—The fact that the bankrupt has made a general assignment under the state law to one who has taken possession of the estate does not preclude the Bankruptcy Court from exercising its jurisdiction to appoint a receiver, especially where the interests of creditors will be better protected. In re Federal Mail, etc., Co., (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 233 Fed. 691.

Appointment must be necessary for preservation of estate.—"In order to warrant the court in appointing a receiver, the court must find that it is absolutely necessary for the preservation of the property of the bankrupt that a receiver be placed in charge thereof." In re Hargadine-McKittrick Dry Goods Co., (E. D. Mo. 1917) 239 Fed. 155.

Where a receiver has been appointed by a state court and it is not claimed that he is not careful, prudent or responsible or that the assets are in any way endangered, a federal Bankruptcy Court should not interfere by appointing a receiver to take charge of the estate. Ingram v. Ingram Dart Lighterage Co., (S. D. Ga. 1915) 226 Fed. 58.

"A receiver appointed by the state court is in every sense the official arm of that court, and while this court, sitting in bankruptcy, has in my opinion exclusive jurisdiction, after a petition has been filed, to control the custody of the property, there can be no reason ordinarily for adding to the expenses by appointing a federal receiver, and such appointment should not, in the absence of special controlling circumstances, be made. That receiver is the choice of a court acting independently of the insolvent, and not of the insolvent himself." In re Federal Mail, etc., Co., (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 233 Fed. 691.

In involuntary proceedings receivers should never be appointed under this section without full compliance with all the requirements, including a showing of cause. It is an extraordinary remedy which should only be granted when, as the statute says, "absolutely necessary" for the preservation of the estate. Badders Clothing Co. v. Burnham-Munger-Root Dry Goods Co., (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1915) 228 Fed. 470, 143 C. C. A. 52.

Proof of necessity.—"Where the appointment of a receiver in bankruptcy is sought, it is not enough to allege the necessity for such appointment in the language of the state, but the moving papers must set forth the specific facts which reasonably establish such necessity." In re Hargadine-McKittrick Dry Goods Co., (E. D. Mo. 1917) 239 Fed. 155.

Receiver's powers and duties in general—As to court orders.—In addition to the duties devolving upon a receiver as a preserver of property actually in his possession, he is a proper person, pending the appointment of a trustee, to carry out any orders that the court may make for the enforcement of the provisions of the Bankruptcy Act under section 2, subd. 15. It is his duty, as well as his privilege, to bring to the court's attention any matters which suggest the advisability of making an order as to book accounts transferred to a creditor. In re Gottlieb, (D. C. N. J. 1917) 245 Fed. 139.

A receiver of private bankers in a Bankruptcy Court is not entitled to hold the proceeds of checks collected by them for depositors where the pass book provided that "Deposits of checks shall not be drawn against until collected." And the fact that the depositors were permitted as a favor to draw upon the deposit is not material, it not appearing that there was any agreement, express or implied, which modified the provision in the pass book. In re H. & L. Jarmulowsky, (S. D. N. Y. 1917) 243 Fed. 632.

Right of receiver to maintain suits—Suits to prevent enforcement of fraudulent judgment.—A receiver may maintain a suit to prevent the enforcement of a judgment on the ground that it was fraudulently procured, although the claim has not been formally presented. Owen v. Clifton, (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1916) 232 Fed. 136, 146 C. C. A. 328.

Intervention by party.—A party may not intervene in an ancillary suit brought by the trustee or receiver, the sole purpose of which is to collect assets of the bankrupt for transmission to the Bankruptcy Court for administration. West v. Empire L. Ins. Co., (W. D. Wash. 1917) 242 Fed. 605.

Restraining suits against receivers.—Where an order appointing an ancillary receiver of a corporation enjoined the corporation, its officers "and all other persons whomsoever, . . . from interfering with, attaching, levying upon, or in any manner whatsoever disturbing the claims, choses in action, and causes of action of the said defendant railway company, . . . or any of the property and premises of the defendant railway company, . . . or from taking possession of, or in any way assuming a control of, or from interfering with, the said claims, choses in action, causes of action, or any other property or premises, or any part thereof," it was held that such provision did not prevent the prosecution of previously instituted actions by stockholders against the corporation and others. American Steel Foundries v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., (S. D. N. Y. 1915) 231 Fed. 1003.

Vol. I, p. 529, sec. 2 (7).

Jurisdiction conferred by section.—A bankrupt estate is within the exclusive jurisdiction of the Bankruptcy Court from the time of the filing of the petition, and this jurisdiction does not depend upon actual possession of the property affected; there is no right to seize or attach property admittedly belonging to an alleged bankrupt after the filing of the petition against him, without the consent of the Bankruptcy Court, regardless of whether actual possession of the property has been taken by its officers. In re Wellmade Gas Mantle Co., (D. C. Mass. 1916) 230 Fed. 502.

The Bankruptcy Court has jurisdiction under this section of a bill in equity filed by trustees to restrain foreclosure of certain mortgages made by the bankrupt in which the validity of these mortgages, as well as the amount due thereunder, is attacked in an attempt to test their claims against the property now in the possession of trustees elected in bankruptcy proceedings pending in this district. Karasik v. People's Trust Co., (E. D. N. Y. 1917) 241 Fed. 939.

"Generally speaking, a court of equity has power to determine all questions affecting a fund in course of distribution." In re Jamison, (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1915) 227 Fed. 30, 142 C. C. A. 3.

Where shares of stock are actually in the custody of the trustee, who holds them in that character, the court has jurisdiction to determine the question as to the right of the parties where they had been pledged by the bankrupt and afterwards returned to the trustee by the pledgee. In re Jamison, (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1915) 227 Fed. 30, 142 C. C. A. 3.

Determination of extent of liens and rights thereunder.—As to the exercise of jurisdiction by the federal courts in the case of a petition by lien creditors to have the property of a bankrupt returned to a state court for administration there it has been said: "Where the admitted and uncontested liens on any part or portion of the bankrupt estate clearly exceed the value of that property, so as that it is manifest that under no circumstances there can be any fund therefrom to be administered for the unsecured creditors, the courts of bankruptcy have exercised the discretion of permitting the lien creditors to realize on their securities in their own way, either by permitting proceedings already commenced in state courts for that purpose to proceed or by permitting the lien creditors to exercise any powers of sale they may have, or to initiate proceedings in any court of competent jurisdiction they prefer, to realize on their security. This has been done upon the theory that, inasmuch as in such cases the property really belongs to the lien creditors, the bankrupt court is not required to burden it with the expense of an administration in bankruptcy, if the lien creditors prefer another method or tribunal for the administration." Union Electric Co. v. Hubbard, (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 248, 155 C. C. A. 88.

Vol. I, p. 531, sec. 2 (8).

Reopening of estate.—Where an application is made to reopen an estate the referee may take judicial notice of what his own record showed in the original case. Pollack v. Meyer Bros. Drug Co., (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 233 Fed. 861, 147 C. C. A. 535.

Time of making application for reopening.—An application to reopen is regarded as timely though made more than two years after the closing of the estate, where made directly after the recording of conveyances alleged to be fraudulent. Duncan v. Watson, (Ala. 1916) 73 So. 448.

Practice.—Where, after the referee has overruled a demurrer by a bankrupt to a petition to reopen the estate, any error in the ruling on the demurrer is waived by the bankrupt pleading over in an answer. Pollack v. Meyer Bros. Drug Co., (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 233 Fed. 861, 147 C. C. A. 535.

Vol. I, p. 533, sec. 2 (11).

Extent of jurisdiction.—Generally.—After property has been set apart to the bankrupt as exempt, the jurisdiction of the Bankruptcy Court is at an end so far as adjudication of the rights of claimants thereto is concerned. Barker-Bond Lumber Co. v. Whaley, (1915) 117 Va. 642, 86 S. E. 160.

Vol. I, p. 535, sec. 2 (15).

General power of Bankruptcy Court.—Where the question involved is that of jurisdiction to enforce the bankruptcy law or to administer the estate and to protect the bankrupt free from claims vacated or made void by the adjudication the provisions of this section apply. But the court can obtain control of the bankrupt only to carry out the law and not to prevent litigation in courts which have jurisdiction to litigate. In re Lockwood, (E. D. N. Y. 1917) 240 Fed. 161.

Power to open and reconsider orders.—The court of bankruptcy is always open, and until the distribution of the fund in controversy the court has the power to open and reconsider on the merits its own orders. Hume v. Myers, (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 827, 155 C. C. A. 415.

Enforcing agreement by claimant of property to surrender proceeds of sale to owners of court.—A Bankruptcy Court has power to enforce an agreement by which a claimant of property undertakes to sell the same and deliver the proceeds of the sale to the receiver of a bankrupt. In re Hollingsworth, etc., Co., (C. C. A. 1st Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 763, 155 C. C. A. 341.

Injunction lies to protect or preserve assets.—In re Consumers' Albany Brewing Co., (N. D. N. Y. 1915) 224 Fed. 235.

Powers and duty of receiver.—In addition to the duties devolving upon a receiver as a preserver of property actually in his possession, he is a proper person, pending the appointment of a trustee, to carry out any orders that the court may make for the enforcement of the provisions of the Bankruptcy Act under section 2, subd. 15. It is his duty, as well as his privilege, to bring to the court's attention any matters which suggest the advisability of making an order as to book accounts transferred to a creditor. In re Gottlieb, (D. C. N. J. 1917) 245 Fed. 139.

Vol. I, p. 538, sec. 2 (16).

Facts must exist showing contempt.—In re Sobol, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 487, 155 C. C. A. 263.

Defense.—The fact that a bankrupt has been sentenced for concealing assets and has served out his term is no defense in a proceeding to punish him for contempt with an order to turn over the assets he concealed. In re Sobol, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 487, 155 C. C. A. 263.

Valid excuse.—The law is well settled that inability to comply with an order requiring the payment of money, resulting from poverty, insolvency, or other cause not attributable to the fault of the party charged, will under ordinary circumstances be received as a valid excuse from the consequences of contempt. In re Sobol, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 487, 155 C. C. A. 263.

Criminal contempt.—Where the act complained of as a contempt is criminal under the Bankruptcy Act it seems that even conceding the existence of the power to punish by imprisonment for contempt, the court should not exercise it. In re Elias, (E. D. N. C. 1917) 240 Fed. 448.

Vol. I, p. 538, sec. 2 (20).

Ancillary jurisdiction authorized.—"The ancillary court may act summarily in aid of the court of original jurisdiction, when such court could have compelled an act by summary proceeding. Babbitt v. Dutcher, 216 U. S. 102, 30 Sup. Ct. 372, 54 L. ed. 402, 17 Ann. Cas. 969. But for all substantial purposes of administration the court of original jurisdiction, which is in control of the bankrupt estate, is regarded as in charge, and the ancillary court has nothing to do but collect the assets and transmit them to the bankruptcy court for distribution." West v. Empire Life Ins. Co., (W. D. Wash. 1917) 242 Fed. 605.

It is well settled that a court of bankruptcy can exercise ancillary jurisdiction for the purpose of enabling a trustee in bankruptcy, who has been appointed and qualified in another jurisdiction, to reduce to his possession property of the bankrupt which is within the territorial jurisdiction of the court whose ancillary jurisdiction is invoked, and that, where the court of primary jurisdiction can act summarily, the court exercising ancillary jurisdiction may also proceed in summary order. In re Sage, (E. D. Mo. 1915) 224 Fed. 525.

A court exercising ancillary jurisdiction and powers in aid of the main jurisdiction and having possession of a specific fund, the title to which is in question and the existence or nonexistence of liens thereon, held by parties residing in the jurisdiction of the court of ancillary jurisdiction, being in question, such last-mentioned court has the power, and it is its duty, to determine title and the existence or nonexistence of such liens thereon. In re Einstein, (N. D. N. Y. 1917) 245 Fed. 189.

Ancillary receiver—Restraining suits against.—Where an order appointing an ancillary receiver of a corporation enjoined the corporation, its officers "and all other persons whomsoever, . . . from interfering with, attaching, levying upon, or in any manner whatsoever disturbing the claims, choses in action, and causes of action of the said defendant railway company, . . . or any of the property and premises of the defendant railway company, . . . or from taking possession of, or in any way assuming a control of, or from interfering with, the said claims, choses in action, causes of action, or any other property or premises, or any part thereof," it was held that such provision did not prevent the prosecution of previously instituted actions by stockholders against the corporation and others. American Steel Foundries v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., (S. D. N. Y. 1915) 231 Fed. 1003.

Adverse claims.—A court of bankruptcy exercising ancillary jurisdiction has power to determine whether or not a fund held by a receiver in bankruptcy belongs to the estate for which he is acting or to another bankrupt estate and to make proper allowances to the receiver where he has had the care and custody of the fund and has been charged with its preservation. In re Einstein, (N. D. N. Y. 1917) 245 Fed. 189.

In Jaffe v. Pyle, (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 67, 155 C. C. A. 11, the plaintiffs set out in their bill that by fraudulent practices the bankrupt firm had obtained a certain sum of money from them; that the same constituted a trust fund in the hands of the said bankrupts; that subsequently, out of the trust fund, they purchased certain cotton; and that this same cotton came into the possession of this court by virtue of ancillary proceedings in the said bankruptcy. The bill prayed that the cotton be impressed with a trust in their favor to the extent of their claim. The court quoted from the opinion of the trial judge on the demurrer and supported him in the disposition of the case.

Right to intervene in ancillary suit.—"A party may not intervene in an ancillary suit brought by the trustee or receiver, the sole purpose of which is to collect assets of the bankrupt for transmission to the bankruptcy court for administration." West v. Empire Life Ins. Co., (W. D. Wash. 1917) 242 Fed. 605.

Vol. I, p. 540, sec. 3a.

"The burden is upon the petitioner to show the respondent has committed an act which brings it within the purview of the statute." Maplecroft Mills v. Childs, (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1915) 226 Fed. 415, 141 C. C. A. 245.

The fact that acts charged against a corporation were ultra vires and void, and were not corporate acts does not constitute a defense to a petition for an adjudication of bankruptcy. Badders Clothing Co. v. Bunham-Munger-Root Dry Goods Co., (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1915) 228 Fed. 470, 143 C. C. A. 52.

Vol. I, p. 541, sec. 3a (1).

Necessity of intention to hinder, delay or defraud.—In this connection it has been said regarding a chattel mortgage: "Do the chattel mortgage and the other evidence in the case establish the fact that this mortgage was made with the intent to hinder, delay, or defraud creditors, within the meaning of section 3, subdivision 1, of the Bankruptcy Law? An intent to hinder, delay, or defraud creditors unlawfully, not a mere intent to hinder or delay or defraud them so far as necessary to enable the mortgagee to collect his claim from the mortgaged property, by means of his mortgage, is indispensable to this intent. Until the commencement of bankruptcy proceedings a debtor has the right to dispose of his property, the right to secure and pay his debts with it, and the right to secure and pay one of his creditors in preference to others, provided the payment or security is not violative of any Act of Congress or law of the state. There is no proof in this case that the chattel mortgage here in question violated any other provision of law than the part of section 3 which describes the first act of bankruptcy there mentioned. Hence the mere fact that the mortgage had the effect to prefer one creditor to another, or to hinder or delay other creditors until the mortgagee's claim could be collected, or even that it might have the effect to deprive other creditors of a means of obtaining payment of their claims, was not sufficient to constitute the act of bankruptcy charged, if the mortgage was given in good faith to secure the payment of an honest debt. Section 3, subdivision 1, must have the same construction as the statute of Elizabeth. An actual intent to hinder, delay, and defraud other creditors more than is necessary to secure the preferential payment of the debt of the mortgagee is essential to the act of bankruptcy there described." Johnson-Baillie Shoe Co. v. Beardsley, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 237 Fed. 763, 150 C. C. A. 517.

Concealment of property.—Where it appeared that an alleged bankrupt, in response to an inquiry by a creditor, as to what he had done with certain money collected by him, replied that he had it in a safe place, and that it was available on a settlement but that he had offsets amounting to more than petitioner's claim, it was held that this amounts to a concealment of property and is an act of bankruptcy. In re Burg, (N. D. Tex. 1917) 245 Fed. 173.

Burden of establishing intent.—Creditors alleging that a chattel mortgage was an act of bankruptcy within the meaning of this clause have the burden of proving the bad faith and evil intent which they charge. Johnson-Baillie Shoe Co. v. Bardsley, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 237 Fed. 763, 150 C. C. A. 517.

The filing of a petition in a state court by an individual stockholder acting on his own behalf, and who is also the president and director and owner of a majority of the capital stock, to which answer is filed is not an act of bankruptcy under this section. In re Valentine Bohl Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1915) 224 Fed. 685, 140 C. C. A. 225.

Confessing judgment.—Confession of a judgment thus creating a lien on real estate through which a sale can be effected is a transfer within the meaning of this clause. In re Irish, (E. D. Pa. 1916) 238 Fed. 411.

Validity of mortgage—State laws.—The question as to the validity of a mortgage alleged as an act of bankruptcy within the terms of this clause is to be determined by the laws of the state where the property is situated and the mortgage made, and if not invalid there will not be considered as an act of bankruptcy as here provided. Johnson-Baillie Shoe Co. v. Bardsley, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 237 Fed. 763, 150 C. C. A. 517.

Distinction in cases covered by subdivisions a (2) and a (3).—"Upon consideration it is concluded that while a preference effected through judicial proceedings may fall within one class or the other, the two provisions do not necessarily overlap. The distinction is to be found in the presence or absence of an intent on the part of the debtor to give a preference, and by intent is meant an actual, and not merely a constructive, intent. If the debtor has acted in such a way as to give a preference with the intent and purpose so to do, it is quite immaterial by what means such purpose is accomplished, whether by judicial proceedings or in some other manner. In such case the act falls within a (2). Upon the other hand, if, through legal proceedings, a preference has in fact been permitted or procured, but without any intent or purpose on the part of the debtor to give it, then the act falls within the terms of subdivision a (3)." In re Musgrove Min. Co., (D. C. Idaho 1916) 234 Fed. 99.

Receivership suit in state court—Estoppel.—Where a receiver has been appointed in proceedings in a state court in which a dividend has been declared and the receivership proceeding practically concluded creditors who have received dividends thereunder are estopped from asserting in a subsequent proceeding in bankruptcy not only any claim to an adjudication on the ground of the appointment of the receiver constituting an act of bankruptcy but also on the ground of a preferential payment constituting such an act. Ohio Motor Car Co. v. Eisenman Magneto Co., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1916) 230 Fed. 370, 144 C. C. A. 512.

Failure to release levy of attachment.—The failure of an alleged bankrupt to release the levy of an attachment upon his supposed interest in property transferred by him nearly seven years previously has been held not to constitute an act of bankruptcy, even though it be alleged that such transfer was a fraudulent one. Nor can it appear that such attaching creditor will obtain a preference until such sale has been determined to be fraudulent in an action to which the transferee is a party. In re Murphy, (N. D. Cal. 1914) 228 Fed. 1018.

Confession of judgment.—Confession of a judgment, thus creating a lien on real estate, through which a sale can be effected is a transfer within the meaning of this clause. In re Irish, (E. D. Pa. 1916) 238 Fed. 411.

Vol. I, p. 549, sec. 3a (3).

Subdivision a (2) distinguished.—see note under section 3a (2), supra, this page.

Elements of preference.—The preference, which is an act of bankruptcy, is only an execution levy or analogous lien which has been "suffered or permitted" to come into existence and which is allowed to continue until five days before the execution sale. Golden Hill Distilling Co. v. Logue, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 243 Fed. 342, 156 C. C. A. 122.

Lien obtained beyond four months' period.—Failure to discharge valid liens acquired through legal proceedings more than four months prior to the filing of the petition in bankruptcy does not constitute an act of bankruptcy under this section. In re Superior Jewelry Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 243 Fed. 368, 156 C. C. A. 148.

The statute does not contemplate that the judgment obtained by a diligent creditor prior to the four months period, and the lien obtained likewise prior to the four months period, should be defeated merely because it was not possible to have the sale take place earlier than some date which fell within the four months period. In re Superior Jewelry Co., (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 239 Fed. 373.

Vol. I, p. 555, sec. 3a (4).

- I. Assignment for benefit of creditors.
- II. Appointment of receiver or trustee.

I. ASSIGNMENT FOR BENEFIT OF CREDITORS (p. 556)

In general.—Under the Bankruptcy Act an assignment for the benefit of creditors is in itself an act of bankruptcy. The assignment remains valid, unless and until an adjudication in bankruptcy is made. It is properly regarded as potentially a fraud upon the Bankruptcy Law and upon the creditors, since its necessary effect would be to defeat the operation of the Bankruptcy Law and to deprive creditors of the protection that that law affords them and the provisions it makes for a speedy and equal distribution of the estate. In re Neuburger, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 240 Fed. 947, 153 C. C. A. 633.

"The attempt of a debtor through the operation of a general assignment for the benefit of creditors to place his property out of the reach of his creditors, even for the laudable purpose of assuring to them the ultimate payment of their claims, constitutes in itself an act of bankruptcy irrespective of a question of solvency." In re Utley, (E. D. Pa. 1916) 235 Fed. 905.

Form of assignment.—The assignment need not be formal, and it is not even necessary that it should be valid for all purposes. In re Matthews, (D. C. N. J. 1916) 229 Fed. 309, affirmed (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1916) 236 Fed. 539, 149 C. C. A. 591.

"A general assignment, within the meaning of the cited provision of the Bankruptcy Act, embraces any act by the alleged bankrupt having the effect of a conveyance of all its property and an appropriation of it to raise funds to pay its debts, share and share alike. The name and form which the transaction assumes are not material." Moody-Hormann-Boelhaue v. Clinton Wire Cloth Co., (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 653, 158 C. C. A. 609.

So the execution of an instrument which, though not in terms yet in legal effect is an assignment is an act of bankruptcy under this section. Anders v. Latimer, (Ala. 1917) 73 So. 925.

It has been held quite uniformly that the general assignment here contemplated is to be taken in its generic sense, and embraces any conveyance, at common law or by statute, by which one intends to make an absolute and unconditional appropriation of all his property to pay his creditors, share and share alike. In re Matthews, (D. C. N. J. 1916) 229 Fed. 309, affirmed (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1916) 236 Fed. 539, 149 C. C. A. 591.

And it is immaterial whether such general assignment is voluntary or statutory. In re Berthoud, (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 231 Fed. 529.

Extent of assignment.—An absolute transfer by the debtor of both the legal and equitable titles is indispensable. In re Matthews, (D. C. N. J. 1916) 229 Fed. 309, affirmed (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1916) 236 Fed. 539, 149 C. C. A. 591.

Place of assignment.—It is immaterial whether such a general assignment is made within or without the United States, and the statute evidently contemplated that wherever a person made such a general assignment, the act was an act of bankruptcy. In re Berthoud, (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 231 Fed. 529.

And where the assignment is alleged to have occurred in another country it is immaterial that under the laws of that jurisdiction an act of bankruptcy must have occurred within three months before the presentation of the petition by creditors. In re Berthoud, (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 231 Fed. 529.

Deed of trust.—The execution of a deed of trust which is placed with an attorney to be held in escrow to be delivered in the event that all the creditors should consent to the agreement which had been entered into by the advisory board and has not been delivered to the trustee is not an act of bankruptcy under this section. Carpenter v. Lybrand, (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1915) 230 Fed. 84, 144 C. C. A. 382.

Where it appears that the creditors of an alleged bankrupt had been receiving payments on their debts in pursuance of an agreement, and that within 90 days all the creditors would be paid in full, this was declared to be sufficient to show that it was not the purpose of the debtor in executing a deed of trust to in any wise hinder, delay, or prevent his creditors from collecting the debts which he owed. Carpenter v. Lybrand, (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1915) 230 Fed. 84, 144 C. C. A. 382.

Deed of assignment.—The execution of a deed of assignment of property directing the sale thereof and, from the proceeds, the payment of mortgages thereon in the order of their priority and the balance to the general creditors of the assignor, is an act of bankruptcy. In re Cutler, (E. D. N. C. 1916) 228 Fed. 771.

Power of attorney.—A mere power of attorney does not operate as in general assignment under this section. In re Matthews, (D. C. N. J. 1916) 229 Fed. 309, affirmed (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1916) 236 Fed. 539, 149 C. C. A. 591.

No defense is possible to a general assignment as an act of bankruptcy. In re Federal Mail, etc., Co., (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 233 Fed. 691.

II. APPOINTMENT OF RECEIVER OR TRUSTEE (p. 558)

In general.—An application by an insolvent debtor for the appointment of a receiver or trustee is an act of bankruptcy. In re McKinnon Co., (E. D. N. C. 1916) 127 Fed. 869.

It is not every receivership, even though to finally administer a debtor's assets, or that results in finally administering an insolvent debtor's assets, which is an act of bankruptcy, but those only are such acts as the Bankruptcy Act so declares. In re Butte Duluth Min. Co., (D. C. Mont. 1915) 227 Fed. 334.

Trustee named by stockholders.—Where by a vote of the stockholders of a corporation it was dissolved and the directors were named as trustees to liquidate the affairs of the corporation as provided by the state law it was held that this was in the nature of an assignment which amounted to an act of bankruptcy although the action was taken by the stockholders. Moody-Hormann-Boelhanne v. Clinton Wire Cloth Co., (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 653, 158 C. C. A. 609.

Insolvency essential.—"The insolvency of the bankrupt company is an indispensable prerequisite to the exercise by this court of jurisdiction over the property now in the custody of the receiver of the state court." In re Hargadine-McKittrick Dry Goods Co., (E. D. Mo. 1917) 239 Fed. 155.

Where the record of the receivership involved in the proceedings in a state court neither directly nor by implication makes it to appear that the debtor was insolvent within the meaning of the Bankruptcy Act—that is, that the aggregate of its property at a fair valuation was not sufficient in amount to pay its debts—it fails to show that because of insolvency as so defined a receiver was put in charge of respondent's property, and so fails to prove that respondent committed the act of bankruptcy under this section. In re Butte Duluth Min. Co., (D. C. Mont. 1915) 227 Fed. 334.

"It was obviously not the purpose of Congress, in using the terms 'being insolvent,' or 'because of insolvency,' to have the same apply when the facts upon which a receiver was appointed only show that its assets would not bring enough to pay its debts at a forced sale, or where there was imminent danger of insolvency. The fact that respondent deemed it necessary to make application for the appointment of a receiver in order to enable it to secure temporary relief should not be used to its prejudice in a court of bankruptcy, unless it clearly appears upon the face of the complaint filed in the state court that respondent was insolvent within the meaning of the Bankruptcy Act at the date of the filing of the same." Maplecroft Mills v. Childs, (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1915) 226 Fed. 415, 141 C. C. A. 245.

Vol. I, p. 561, sec. 3a (5).

Test of admission.—Where the written admission referred to in this section, is averred, it may be set up that the proceedings are the result of fraud and collusion between the bankrupt and the petitioners. The opposing creditors may not be able to deny the genuineness of the bankrupt's admission, but certainly they may still assert that even a genuine admission is in aid of a collusive scheme. Accordingly, if an amended answer sufficiently avers fraud and collusion between the bankrupts and the petitioning creditors, a proper issue is tendered that calls for disposal. In re Cohn, (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1915) 227 Fed. 843, 142 C. C. A. 367.

Admission by corporation.—A corporation by filing a petition in bankruptcy commits an act of bankruptcy within the meaning of this section. Thus it was so held where the petition of the corporation set forth in full the resolution of the board of directors reciting that their company was then largely indebted and wholly unable to pay any of its indebtedness, all of which was long overdue, that it was involved in litigation and without funds with which to pay the necessary expense thereof, that it had "exhausted its ability to borrow money to procure funds for the care and preservation of its property," and declared that it was willing to be adjudged a bankrupt under the laws of the United States, and to surrender all of its property for the benefit of its creditors. In re Southern Arizona Smelting Co., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 231 Fed. 87, 145 C. C. A. 275; Bell v. Blessing, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1915) 225 Fed. 750, 141 C. C. A. 34.

Insolvency unnecessary.—It is settled that the question of solvency or insolvency is immaterial where the act of bankruptcy is written admission referred to in the statute. In re Cohn, (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1915) 227 Fed. 843, 142 C. C. A. 367.

Burden of proof.—The burden of proof is on the alleged bankrupt to show his solvency. In re Burg, (N. D. Tex. 1917) 245 Fed. 173.

Vol. I, p. 565, sec. 3e.

The amount of the bond fixes the extent of the liability of creditors and sureties. In re Weissbord, (D. C. N. J. 1917) 241 Fed. 516.

Vol. I, p. 566. [Allowance of costs, damages, etc.]

Costs on dismissal of petition.—This provision as to costs, damages, etc., relates to the dismissal of a petition for seizure of property, before adjudication, as by receivership, and has nothing to do with the awarding of costs upon a mere dismissal of the petition. In re National Carbon Co., (1917) (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 241 Fed. 330, 154 C. C. A. 210.

The court has jurisdiction to fix costs and assess damages occasioned by the seizure and detention of the debris property by the receiver though the petition for adjudication has been dismissed. In re Weissbord, (D. C. N. J. 1917) 241 Fed. 516.

Amount of recovery.—The liability of bondsmen under this section is limited to such costs, expenses, and damages as were incident to the taking and withholding of the property, and no recovery can be had as against the bondsmen for costs or expenses incurred in meeting the issue and resisting the petition in bankruptcy. In re Terusaki, (W. D. Wash. 1916) 238 Fed. 934.

Counsel fees.—Under this section if an alleged bankrupt sees fit to procure the release of his property from the seizure by seeking a dismissal of the petition for adjudication, rather than by an independent proceeding, he cannot be compensated for the expenses and counsel fees which he thus incurred. In re Weissbord, (D. C. N. J. 1917) 241 Fed. 516.

Vol. I, p. 568, sec. 4a.

Validity and purpose.—The Bankruptcy Act recognizes the right of the bankrupt to make a voluntary assignment of his property, with the purpose of avoiding attachments, and thereby securing an equal distribution of his property among all his creditors, and it cannot be predicated of such a proceeding that its purpose is to defraud the attaching creditors. Bell v. Blessing, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1915) 225 Fed. 750, 141 C. C. A. 34.

Corporations.—This section extends to a corporation not within the exceptions the same privilege of becoming a voluntary bankrupt as to an individual, and there exists no good reason why it may not become such a bankrupt in the same way. It is not necessary for such a petitioner, praying adjudication, that he show that he owes debts which he is unable to pay in full, and that he is willing to surrender his property for the benefit of his creditors. Bell v. Blessing, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1915) 225 Fed. 750, 141 C. C. A. 34.

A subordinate lodge of Odd Fellows organized and existing under the laws of the state of New York is a corporation and entitled to the benefits of this provision. In re Carthage Lodge, etc., (N. D. N. Y. 1916) 230 Fed. 694.

A farmer may institute voluntary proceedings in bankruptcy and a state court is therefore without jurisdiction over a voluntary proceeding in insolvency by a farmer. Pitcher v. Standish, (1916) 90 Conn. 601, 98 Atl. 93, L. R. A. 1917A 105.

II. Statutory exceptions.

III. Natural persons.

IV. Corporations and unincorporated companies.

II. STATUTORY EXCEPTIONS (p. 570)Date of status of statutory exceptions.

—The question whether an insolvent is exempt, under this section, depends upon his status as to occupation at the time the acts of bankruptcy were committed. Virginia-Carolina Chemical Co. v. Shellhorse, (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1915) 228 Fed. 493, 143 C. C. A. 493; Harris v. Tapp, (S. D. Ga. 1916) 235 Fed. 918.

Persons engaged chiefly in farming or the tillage of the soil—In general.—These persons are not amenable to involuntary bankruptcy proceedings. Harris v. Tapp, (S. D. Ga. 1916) 235 Fed. 918; Pitcher v. Standish, (1916) 90 Conn. 601, 98 Atl. 93, L. R. A. 1917A 105.

For an extended statement of facts under which a person was held to be "engaged chiefly in farming" and not subject to adjudication as a bankrupt, see Harris v. Tapp, (S. D. Ga. 1916) 235 Fed. 918.

Farming and tillage.—"The word 'farming' and the words 'tillage of the soil' mean the same thing." Hart-Parr Co. v. Barkley, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 231 Fed. 912, 146 C. C. A. 109; In re Spengler, (S. D. Ia. 1916) 238 Fed. 862.

The business of threshing grain for others for hire is not farming. Hart-Parr Co. v. Barkley, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 231 Fed. 913, 146 C. C. A. 109.

Distinction between exemption of farmer and wage earner.—"A farmer is exempt from involuntary proceedings, whatever his other interests, if farming is his chief occupation; a wage-earner is exempt only when he actually pursues the calling which that term describes. The farmer works for himself; the wage-earner is an employee, and this implies service for another which is substantially exclusive. This characteristic difference between the two classes is clearly recognized in the language of section 4b." Virginia-Carolina Chemical Co. v. Shellhorse, (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1915) 228 Fed. 493, 143 C. C. A. 75.

Wage earner — Burden of proof.—The burden of proof is on the petitioners to show that a person was not a wage earner when the acts of bankruptcy were committed. Virginia-Carolina Chemical Co. v. Shellhorse, (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1915) 228 Fed. 493, 143 C. C. A. 75.

This burden was held to be sustained by the presumption arising from years of nonexempt occupation, from the apparent continuance of that occupation down to a later period, and from other facts and circumstances tending to identify him as a manufacturer and trader. Virginia-Carolina Chemical Co. v. Shellhorse, (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1915) 228 Fed. 493, 143 C. C. A. 75.

Jurisdiction under state laws over exempted classes.—The state insolvency laws remain in force as to classes of persons expressly excepted from the operation of the federal Act, and classes which these provisions do not reach; and the same rule should apply to classes of cases not within the scope of the federal Act. So the provision that a farmer cannot be adjudged a bankrupt in involuntary proceedings leaves that field open to state action, and a state court may have jurisdiction of involuntary proceedings against farmers under a state Act. Pitcher v. Standish, (1916) 90 Conn. 601, 98 Atl. 93, L. R. A. 1917A 105.

IV. CORPORATIONS AND UNINCORPORATED COMPANIES (p. 574)

Insurance corporations—Fraternal benefit societies.—In the case of In re Grand Lodge, etc., (N. D. Cal. 1916) 232 Fed. 199, it was held that a fraternal benefit society is not an insurance corporation within the meaning of the bankrupt law.

"Unincorporated company — Construction and scope of word 'company.'"—Whatever may be the full scope of the word 'company,' it does include at least any unincorporated association or group of individuals whose object and purpose are either wholly or chiefly of the same kind as the object and purpose of a moneyed business, or commercial corporation." In re Order of Sparta, (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 235, 155 C. C. A. 75, affirming (E. D. Pa. 1916) 238 Fed. 437.

An unincorporated fraternal beneficial association has been held to be a company within the meaning of this section. In re Order of Sparta, (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 235, 155 C. C. A. 75, affirming (E. D. Pa. 1916) 238 Fed. 437.

Vol. I, p. 578, sec. 4b. [Liability of officers and stockholders of corporations.]

The express provision of the Bankruptcy Act specifically forbids that the bankruptcy of a corporation shall not release its officers or directors from any liability under the laws of a state, territory or United States. In re United Grocery Co., (S. D. Fla. 1917) 239 Fed. 1016.

Vol. I, p. 578, sec. 5a.

Adjudication of partnerships as bankrupts, in general.—"The statute provides that a partnership may be declared bankrupt. A partnership is an entity to that extent. The statute does not impose the condition that the partners shall be declared bankrupt at the same time as the partnership. It is plain that the partnership may be declared a voluntary or involuntary bankrupt. There is no limitation in the statute in this regard. It is well settled that one partner may petition to have the partnership declared a voluntary bankrupt. It is undoubtedly necessary, except in certain cases, that the court should determine that the members of the partnership are insolvent; otherwise the partnership would not be bankrupt. Bankruptcy and insolvency are different things under the statute. There are many instances that could be stated that would defeat the statute authorizing a partnership to be declared bankrupt, if it were necessary before doing so to adjudicate the members thereof bankrupts. The language of the statute does not justify an inference that Congress meant that a partnership could not be declared bankrupt without adjudication of the partners to be bankrupt." In re Hansley, (S. D. Cal. 1916) 228 Fed. 564.

If the total assets of the firm and individuals will not suffice "to pay the partnership debts," the firm property and the individual properties may be administered in bankruptcy if the firm is insolvent and if the unadjudicated partner does not object, i. e., consents thereto. In re Kobre, (E. D. N. Y. 1915) 224 Fed. 106.

Existence of partnership necessary.—In order to justify an adjudication that a person is bankrupt as a partner there must be evidence from which the court can properly find as a fact that such person was a partner. "It would not be enough that to various creditors he had held himself out as a partner, because, while an estoppel might give rights to those who were misled, in order to give rights to all creditors he must have been in fact a partner." In re Kaplan, (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1916) 234 Fed. 866, 148 C. C. A. 464.

Necessity of showing insolvency of members composing firm.—No firm can be compulsorily adjudicated a bankrupt in which any partner appears to be solvent to the extent of having a surplus of property over the debts for which he is personally liable and the debts for which he is liable as a member of the firm. In re Kobre, (E. D. N. Y. 1915) 224 Fed. 106.

Under the bankruptcy laws a firm may be bankrupt and the individual composing such firm solvent. Doubtless the members of the firm might be included with it in the petition, asking that all be found insolvent; but, before the individual members could be so found in involuntary bankruptcy one or more of the enumerated acts of insolvency must have been alleged and proven to have been committed by such members. And where no act of bankruptcy is charged against the members of a firm, and the proceedings are solely against the partnership as a legal entity, the individual members are not entitled to a discharge in bankruptcy. Peterson v. Perego, etc., Co., (Ia. 1917) 163 N. W. 224.

Where there is no allegation of any act of bankruptcy committed by a nonjoining partner, there is no ground for adjudicating him a bankrupt. In re Lenoir-Cross, (E. D. Tenn. 1915) 226 Fed. 227.

Petition.—Where there is no prayer in the petition for an adjudication of the petitioners individually, the adjudication should be limited to that of the firm. And where an adjudication is desired of the petitioning partners as individuals as well as the firm, there should at least be inserted in the prayer of the petition a request for an adjudication of the petitioning partners as well as of the firm. In re Lenoir-Cross, (E. D. Tenn. 1915) 226 Fed. 227.

Who may petition.—It is well settled that one partner may petition to have the partnership declared a voluntary bankrupt. In re Hansley, (S. D. Cal. 1916) 228 Fed. 564.

Creditors.—There is only one method in the statute for the institution of an involuntary bankruptcy proceeding, namely, by the petition of a creditor or creditors, stating necessary jurisdictional facts. In re Hansley, (S. D. Cal. 1916) 228 Fed. 564.

Vol. I, p. 583, sec. 5c.

Jurisdiction.—When a person submits himself to the bankruptcy jurisdiction of the District Court in the districts in which his partner is resident that court acquires jurisdiction of him and of his estate wheresoever situated for all purposes of bankruptcy. Gretsch v. U. S., (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1916) 231 Fed. 57, 145 C. C. A. 245.

Vol. I, p. 587, sec. 5f.

Distribution.—"From 1841 down to the present time, the several Bankruptcy Acts have so far recognized the doctrine of the separate entity of a firm as distinguished from its individual partners, as to specifically enforce in bankruptcy the equitable rule of distribution, generally recognized aliunde in the Federal courts, that the net proceeds of the partnership property are to be first appropriated to the payment of partnership debts; the individual estates of the partners, to the payment of their individual debts; and any surplus in either fund, to be applied to the other." In re Nashville Laundry Co., (M. D. Tenn. 1917) 240 Fed. 795.

Reduction of claims to judgment.—"The reduction of their claims to judgment by the partnership creditors does not change the character of such indebtedness from a partnership debt to an individual debt, but changes the form of the debt only." In re Hacker, (N. D. Ia. 1915) 225 Fed. 869.

The reduction of partnership debts to judgment, in a state court, according to the local law against both the firm and the individual members, all being thereafter adjudged bankrupt, does not entitle the judgment creditor to primary participation in the distribution in the bankruptcy court of the individual estates. Cutler Hardware Co. v. Hacker, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 238 Fed. 146, 151 C. C. A. 222.

Joint individual debts.—In construing these several Bankruptcy Acts giving partnership debts priority of payment out of partnership assets, it has been held by the Federal courts, from the beginning, that joint debts of the individual partners of a firm, not created in furtherance of the business of the firm or in its behalf or for a consideration passing to it, are merely the joint individual debts of the partners entitled to share in their individual assets, and are not partnership debts entitled to share as such in the distribution of the partnership property in bankruptcy proceedings. In re Nashville Laundry Co., (M. D. Tenn. 1917) 240 Fed. 795.

Where two members of a firm execute joint notes for property purchased by one of the makers and such purchase has no connection with the partnership business, the holders are not entitled to participate in the administration of the partnership assets in bankruptcy proceedings. In re Nashville Laundry Co., (M. D. Tenn. 1917) 240 Fed. 795.

Partnership and individual insolvency.

— When a partnership as such is insolvent, and when each individual number is also insolvent, and when the only fund for distribution is produced by the individual estate of one member, the individual creditors of such member are entitled to priority in the distribution of the fund. Farmers', etc., Nat. Bank v. Ridge Ave. Bank, (1915) 240 U. S. 498, 36 S. Ct. 461, 60 U. S. (L. ed.) 767, L. R. A. 1917A 135.

In case of a bona fide dissolution of a partnership where the firm property has been transferred by the retiring partner to his copartner, the bankrupt, a considerable period of time before the filing of the petition, it has been held that a creditor of the firm has no rights, in preference to the trustee, to a fund derived from a sale of the property of the bankrupt. In re Zartman, (M. D. Pa. 1917) 242 Fed. 595.

Firm creditors are entitled to be first paid out of the firm assets. In re Stringer, (E. D. N. Y. 1916) 234 Fed. 454.

Pro rata distribution between firm and individual creditors.—As to the rights of individual creditors to such a distribution, under section 36 of the prior Bankruptcy Act, the current of opinion was that where there is no partnership estate and no solvent partner, partnership creditors were entitled to share ratably with individual creditors in the individual assets of the bankrupt partner. But under the present law the greater authority is to the point that no such exception should be recognized, but that the distribution should follow strictly the language of the Act. In re Hull, (N. D. Ohio 1915) 224 Fed. 796.

Selection of trustee.—Where the record of the first meeting of creditors, after giving the title of the cause and reciting that, "this being the time and place for the first meeting of creditors in the above matter in bankruptcy," states that creditors appeared by a person who, having a majority of claims in number and amount of those presented for approval, nominated and elected the plaintiff as trustee, and it is not shown that the trustee was selected wrongfully, and the record contains no intimation that the trustee was elected by persons who were not creditors of the partnership the recital of the appointment sufficiently shows in an action by the trustee to recover an alleged preference, especially in the absence of any evidence to the contrary, that the trustee of the partnership, the recital of the apfull compliance with this section. Anderson v. Stayton State Bank, (1916) 82 Ore. 357, 159 Pac. 1033.

Vol. I, p. 590, sec. 5g.

Marshaling assets.—This section relates to the marshaling of assets between the partnership estate and individual estates of the partners. In re Cobb's Consol. Co., (D. C. Mass. 1916) 233 Fed. 458.

Proof of claims — Jurisdiction.—"It is settled that where a partnership is declared bankrupt on a ground involving its insolvency, although one or more, but not all, of the individual member are declared bankrupt, the effect of the adjudication is to draw to the jurisdiction and administration of the bankruptcy court the separate estates of all the partners as well as the partnership estate." Ft. Pitt Coal, etc., Co. v. Diser, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 239 Fed. 443, 152 C. C. A. 327.

Firm creditors.—The general rule is that firm creditors are not entitled to receive dividends from the separate estates of the partners until separate creditors have been paid in full. International Agricultural Corp. v. Cary, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 240 Fed. 101, 153 C. C. A. 137.

Insolvent partners of an insolvent partnership cannot rightfully devote the whole of their separate estates to the benefit of a single firm creditor under the guise of treating him as their private creditor, and so ignore their joint and several liability to all the firm creditors. Ft. Pitt Coal, etc., Co. v. Diser, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 239 Fed. 443, 152 C. C. A. 321.

Vol. I, p. 591, sec. 5h.

When section applies.—This section is limited in its effect to cases in which the partnership is not adjudicated bankrupt and one or more, but not all, the members are so adjudicated. So where a partnership composed of two members and one of the members are adjudicated bankrupt, and the other member is not so adjudicated, the bankruptcy court may draw to itself and administer the property of the latter to the extent necessary to pay the debts of the partnership. Armstrong v. Fisher, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1915) 224 Fed. 97, 139 C. C. A. 653.

Vol. I, p. 592, sec. 6a.

- I. Constitutionality and construction.
- II. Claiming exemption.
- III. Matters affecting right to exemption.
- IV. Recognition of state and federal exemption laws.

I. CONSTITUTIONALITY AND CONSTRUCTION (p. 593)

Construction.—The exemption laws should receive a construction comporting with the spirit which prompted their enactment and there should be no attempt by the courts to defeat an exemption by niceties in practice. In re Lenters, (D. C. Pa. 1915) 225 Fed. 878; In re Opava, (D. C. Ia. 1916) 235 Fed. 779.

And it is said in another case: "These exemption sections are to be liberally construed with a view of accomplishing the humane purpose for which they were enacted. The homestead exemption, it is said, is not given for the benefit of the debtor, but for the protection of his family, and in part for the protection of the public who might otherwise be burdened with the partial support of an insolvent debtor's family. In construing and applying these sections the Ohio Supreme Court has extended their protection, whenever the law or the facts brought a case within the policy and reason thereof." In re Hewit, (N. D. Ohio 1917) 244 Fed. 245.

Purpose of exemption laws.—The purpose behind the enactment of exemption laws is to secure some measure of protection to those to whom a man may owe a legal or moral obligation to furnish a living, in case misfortune or insolvency should come. In re Opava, (N. D. Ia. 1916) 235 Fed. 779.

II. CLAIMING EXEMPTIONS (p. 593)

Time and manner of claiming.—See to same effect as original annotation. In re Lenters, (D. C. Pa. 1915) 225 Fed. 878.

The schedules of the bankrupt must contain his claim of exemptions, and the trustee is required to set apart the bankrupt's exemptions and to report to the court as to the exemptions so set apart. In re Brincat, (S. D. Ala. 1916) 233 Fed. 811.

Claiming specific property.—Whether a specific item of property should go to creditors or be reserved by the bankrupt, it is not for him to constitute himself the judge; but it is his duty to dissolve the transaction, that the bankrupt court may determine the right. In re Brincat, (S. D. Ala. 1916) 233 Fed. 811.

Amendment of schedules.—See to same effect as original annotation. In re Radcliffe, (D. C. Ohio 1917) 243 Fed. 716; In re Hewit, (N. D. Ohio 1917) 244 Fed. 245.

While the allowance of an amendment is said to be a matter of grace, the allowance of a claim for exemption is a matter of substantial right, and if, by refusing to allow the amendment, the bankrupt is denied a right which the courts should be astute to recognize and allow, he has gone beyond matters of grace, upon which discretion may be properly exercised, and denied the bankrupt a substantial right, which has not been expressly waived by him, and which he should not be estopped from asserting by reason of any conduct disclosed in this record. In re Lenters, (E. D. Pa. 1915) 225 Fed. 878.

III. MATTERS AFFECTING RIGHT TO EXEMPTION (p. 596)

Fraud.—Ordinary creditors have no interest in exempt property. Its transfer, even with a purpose to hinder, delay, or defraud them, is not therefore an act of which they can justly complain. In re Ziff, (M. D. Ala. 1915) 225 Fed. 823.

Where mercantile statements as to assets and schedules subsequently filed, make out in favor of the creditors a prima facie case of concealment on the part of the bankrupt, the burden is cast upon the bankrupt, either to show that the statements were false when made, or else to explain what became of his assets; otherwise, the conclusion would follow that he was concealing a part of his assets. In re Powell, (S. D. Ga. 1916) 230 Fed. 316.

The fraud of the bankrupt has been held in Alabama not to disentitle him to his exemptions, even in property fraudulently transferred, when recovered by the creditors. In re Ziff, (M. D. Ala. 1915) 225 Fed. 823.

In some jurisdictions under the statute there in force a bankrupt loses his exemption in case of a fraudulent concealment of a part of his property from his creditors. In such cases in order, therefore, to determine the question whether the bankrupt should be allowed his exemption or not, it is necessary to ascertain whether the bankrupt made a full and fair disclosure of all his personal property, or was guilty of wilful fraud in the concealment of a part of his property from his creditors under the state statute. In re Hardy, (S. D. Ga. 1916) 229 Fed. 825.

Homestead exemption.—The failure of a bankrupt to make a full and fair disclosure of all the property owned by him at the time of the filing of his petition will defeat his right to his homestead exemption. In re Hadden, (S. D. Ga. 1917) 242 Fed. 284.

Evidence explaining shortage of goods as bearing on right to exemption.—Where a bankrupt attempts to explain a shortage of goods for the purpose of claiming an exemption the measure of proof applicable is that which obtains in civil cases, and not that necessary in cases of contempt for disobedience of an order to surrender. In re Aronson, (N. D. Ala. 1916) 233 Fed. 1022.

Lien against homestead.—"Congress cannot destroy the plaintiff's lien against the homestead by the Bankruptcy Act." Watters v. Hedgepeth, (1916) 172 N. C. 310, 80 S. E. 314.

Abandonment.—It is to be kept in mind always that, whenever land shall have had impressed upon it the homestead character, its abandonment as homestead must be beyond doubt before the homestead protection will be refused. There must be an unequivocal and absolute intention to abandon; and, in most cases, the inference of abandonment will not be indulged in the absence of the acquisition of a new homestead." Woodward v. Sanger, (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 777, 169 C. C. A. 79.

Waiver.—The right to claim exemption to a specific property exempted by law belongs to the bankrupt householder, and he may surrender or waive it in favor of general creditors, execution creditors and trustee in bankruptcy, but should not be permitted to do so as against a mortgagee in good faith and for value, who, by virtue of his mortgage, has succeeded to his title and interest. In re French, (N. D. N. Y. 1916) 231 Fed. 255.

The fact that a bankrupt has been given notes in which he waived his right to exemptions does not give the Bankruptcy Court jurisdiction to administer his exempt property, nor affect his right to have the same set apart to him. In re Ziff, (M. D. Ala. 1915) 225 Fed. 323.

A court of bankruptcy has no control over the bankrupt's exemption for the purpose of distributing it among creditors holding waiver notes and cannot do any more than set apart the exemption and turn it over to the bankrupt, or some one duly constituted and appointed to receive it. In re Anderson, (N. D. Ga. 1915) 224 Fed. 790.

"A waiver of homestead rights in favor of all creditors cannot be worked out through a waiver made to one creditor only, nor can the latter form of waiver entitle all creditors to a right to marshal securities or funds." In re Brown, (W. D. Ky. 1915) 228 Fed. 533.

IV. RECOGNITION OF STATE AND FEDERAL EXEMPTION LAWS (p. 601)

State law adopted.—To the same effect as the original annotation, see Grattan v. Trego, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1915) 225 Fed. 705, 140 C. C. A. 579; Sieg v. Greene, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1915) 225 Fed. 955, 141 C. C. A. 79, Ann. Cas. 1917C 1006; Olmsted-Stevenson Co. v. Miller, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 231 Fed. 69, 145 C. C. A. 69; Watters v. Hedgepeth, (1916) 172 N. E. 310, 90 S. E. 314. See also Olmsted-Stevenson Co. v. Langdorf, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 231 Fed. 76, 145 C. C. A. 264.

"The Bankruptcy Act does not create any personal or homestead exemptions in favor of the bankrupt. It merely preserves to the bankrupt the full benefit of such exemptions as at the time of the adjudication he is entitled to under the state law." In re Hewit, (N. D. Ohio 1917) 244 Fed. 245.

The bankrupt court can do nothing more than cause to be set apart to the bankrupt the property which the state law exempts from his debts. Lockwood v. Exchange Bank, (1903) 190 U. S. 294, 23 S. Ct. 751, 47 U. S. (L. ed.) 1061. Otherwise the trustee has nothing to do with exempt property." In re Brown, (W. D. Ky. 1915) 228 Fed. 533.

Distinction between firm and individual property.—While, by this provision the state law is controlling as to the character and amount of exemptions to be allowed to a bankrupt, the distinction between firm and individual property in the administration of a bankrupt estate is to be determined as a matter of general law in the federal courts, irrespective of the views of the state court of the bankrupt's domicile, in equity or under insolvency acts. In re Turnock, (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1916) 230 Fed. 985, 145 C. C. A. 179.

Homestead exemptions.—The rule set forth in the original annotation that the allowance of exemptions under the Bankruptcy Law is governed by the state statutes applicable thereto, has been applied to homestead exemptions.

Georgia.—A bankrupt who does not include property in his schedules which should have been included is not entitled to a homestead exemption where the state law provides that a debtor shall forfeit his right to the exemption allowed by law if he is guilty of fraud in concealing from his creditors any part of his property at the time he seeks the benefit of the exemption. In re Anderson, (N. D. Ga. 1915) 224 Fed. 790.

A claim of a homestead exemption has been denied where it was shown that the creditor sought to avail himself of the statute allowing it to enable him to pay a debt and thus prefer a creditor to whom, as well as to several other creditors, he had given a note with a waiver of homestead attached. In re Anderson, (N. D. Ga. 1915) 224 Fed. 790.

Iowa.—Where there is no registration and record of a deed as required by statute, within the four months' period, it has been held that the deed is voidable as to the excess over the homestead right. Sieg v. Greene, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1915) 225 Fed. 955, 141 C. C. A. 79, Ann. Cas. 1917C 1006.

Ohio.—Where by statute a bankrupt who owns no homestead is entitled to an exemption out of his personal property, the latter exemption should be allowed where it appears that real estate owned by him and which was covered by mortgages in excess of its value has been conveyed by the trustee to the mortgagees. In re Radcliffe, (N. D. Ohio 1917) 243 Fed. 716.

Oklahoma.—In Gregory v. Pritchard, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1917) 240 Fed. 414, 153 C. C. A. 340, the following facts appeared: "About 11 months before the proceedings in bankruptcy were begun the bankrupt purchased a dwelling property in Oklahoma City for the declared purpose of occupying it as a home for himself and wife. At the time of purchase it was in possession of a third party under a lease for a year recently executed. The bankrupt had been informed that he could probably obtain possession and so made the purchase; but the tenant, upon being applied to by the bankrupt and by others in his behalf, finally declined to vacate the premises, or to let the bankrupt and his wife have a room in the house. The bankrupt made all reasonable efforts to obtain possession, but failed. He had no other homestead and no other real property. Between his purchase and the bankruptcy proceedings he painted the house, made some repairs on and about it, and pruned the fruit trees. In area and value this property was within the provisions of the Oklahoma Constitution as to homesteads." It was held that the bankrupt was entitled to a homestead exemption. Gregory v. Pritchard, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1917) 240 Fed. 414, 153 C. C. A. 340.

Oregon.—Where a statute provides for the exemption of a homestead limited in value and extent it was held that where the premises claimed by the bankrupt fell within the limitations of the statute the court was without discretionary power to refuse to set the exemption aside. In re Barbe, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1915) 225 Fed. 715, 140 C. C. A. 589.

Texas.—Where the law of a state provides that "the homestead, not in a town or city, shall consist of not more than 200 acres of land, which may be in one or more parcels, with the improvements thereon; . . . provided, also, that any temporary renting of the homestead shall not change the character of the same, when no other homestead has been acquired," it has been declared that where the head of a family owning several tracts not exceeding 200 acres in the aggregate, lives upon one of the tracts, and claims all as a homestead, the burden of proving one of the tracts not homestead should be upon the person attacking the homestead claim. The presumption should be that all is homestead. Woodward v. Sanger, (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 777, 159 C. C. A. 79.

The bankrupt is entitled to the exemptions allowed to him by the state constitution. In re Shrimmer, (E. D. N. D. 1916) 228 Fed. 794.

Growing and unmatured crops.—When an order is made setting aside a homestead to a bankrupt, whether the homestead be exempt under the laws of the state or under the laws of the United States, the order of necessity carries with it all growing and unmatured crops. Olmsted-Stevenson Co. v. Miller, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 231 Fed. 69, 145 C. C. A. 69. See also Olmsted-Stevenson Co. v. Longdorf, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 231 Fed. 76, 145 C. C. A. 264.

Partnership exemptions.—Where state laws allow no exemptions out of partnership assets, none can be claimed by bankrupts out of the property in the hands of the trustee and specifically identified as part of the former firm property which shortly prior to the filing of an involuntary petition to have the firm adjudged bankrupt, the members of the partnership, with knowledge of the insolvency, divided among themselves for the purpose of enabling each of them to claim an exemption. In re Turnock, (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1916) 230 Fed. 985, 145 C. C. A. 179.

Tools, implements of trade, etc.—Exemptions given bankrupts in their stock in trade, tools and fixtures are personal and cannot be claimed by a purchaser under a mortgage foreclosure sale of the property. Feilbach Co. v. Russell, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1916) 233 Fed. 412, 147 C. C. A. 348.

Milk cans, plows, harrows, cultivators, buzz saws, ice racks, hayracks, harness for team and team blankets are necessary working tools for a farmer. In re French, (N. D. N. Y. 1916) 231 Fed. 255.

Auto truck.—Under a Code provision exempting one dray or truck by the use of which a drayman, truckman, etc., habitually earns his living it was declared that without passing upon the question as to whether or no an auto truck would be exempt under any circumstances, it would not be where it does not appear that the petitioner habitually earned his living by the use of the truck in question. In re Schumm, (N. D. Cal. 1915) 232 Fed. 414.

Work cattle.—"Three yoke of work cattle and their yokes" by all common understanding means bovines and their yokes, and not equines and their harness. Kennedy v. Hills, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 233 Fed. 666, 147 C. C. A. 474.

Wages.—Where a man is the head of a family his creditors have no interest in his wages which are exempt and he may do with them as he chooses. In re Opava, (N. D. Ia. 1916) 235 Fed. 779.

Wearing apparel—Jewelry.—A diamond finger ring valued at $650 has been held not to be exempt. Rivas v. Noble, (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1917) 241 Fed. 673, 145 C. C. A. 673.

City pension.—A pension payable by the city of New York to a bankrupt under charter provisions which permit the board of estimate and apportionment to retire "from active service" any officer, clerk, or employee who shall have been in the employ of the city of New York for a period of thirty years and upwards, and who shall have become physically or mentally incapacitated for further performance of the duties of his position, and to award him an annual sum or annuity, to be fixed by such board, is not a vested right, but a bounty granted by the government through the municipality to encourage persons engaged in the public service. It can be recalled at will, and is not, therefore, an asset which passes to the trustee in bankruptcy. In re Hoag, (S. D. N. Y. 1915) 227 Fed. 478.

Life insurance.—Where at the time of the passage of an act exempting insurance policies on the life of a bankrupt ordinary creditors could have looked to the policies for payment of their debts the act has no effect as to them. In re Bonvillian, (E. D. La. 1916) 232 Fed. 370.

But where a policy had no cash or surrender value when such an act was passed, and was not available as an asset, it was held that the bankrupt was entitled to the policy as against creditors whose debts had not come into existence at that time. In re Rosenberg-Oldstein Co., (E. D. La. 1916) 236 Fed. 812.

Duty of trustee.—One of the first concerns of the trustee should always be promptly to set aside to the bankrupt any exempt property. If the real estate in which the homestead is claimed be indivisible, steps should be taken to have it sold. In re Brown, (W. D. Ky. 1915) 228 Fed. 533.

Vol. I, p. 612, sec. 7a (8).

- I. Schedule of assets.
- II. Schedule of creditors and liabilities.

I. SCHEDULE OF ASSETS (p. 612)

Sufficiency of schedule.—As to what should be included in the schedules it has been said: "It is not unusual to require a report of property which cannot be utilized by the trustee. For example, a bankrupt is required to report all the property which he claims is exempt, although all that can be done with it is to set it off to him. Again, he is required to report what portion of the bankrupt estate has passed under assignment for benefit of creditors, although, if it was more than four months before the bankruptcy, it cannot be recovered by the trustee. Other provisions might be cited, but this is sufficient for our purpose. In other words, the rule requires the reporting of much property that may or may not be held by the trustee that the courts may determine its liability for the payment of debts. Such determination is a part of the administration of the estate. Pollack v. Meyer Bros. Drug Co., (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 233 Fed. 861, 147 C. C. A. 535.

Exempt property.—This section does not require that the bankrupt shall enumerate articles claimed as exempt, but only that the claim for such exemption as he may be entitled to shall appear in the schedules which he is required to file. A strict adherence to form is not necessary in order to obtain a substantial right of this nature in a court of bankruptcy. In re Lenters, (E. D. Pa. 1915) 225 Fed. 878.

A remainder, vested or contingent interest in land must be scheduled. Pollock v. Meyer Bros. Drug Co., (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 233 Fed. 861, 147 C. C. A. 535.

II. SCHEDULE OF CREDITORS AND LIABILITIES (p. 614)

Sufficiency of schedule as to addresses.—When there is a failure to state the correct residence of the creditor the debt is not duly scheduled, and hence not discharged by the decree in bankruptcy, unless it shall appear that the creditor had actual knowledge of the proceeding. Horbach v. Arkell, (1916) 172 App. Div. 566, 158 N. Y. S. 842.

Omission of street and number.—"Whether or not the use of initials and omission of street addresses are insufficient will almost invariably depend upon extrinsic circumstances. It is a matter of common knowledge that there are business concerns whose commercial names and places of business are known throughout the world of commerce. It would be a superfluous task to append street number address in such cases." Claffin v. Wolff, (1915) 88 N. J. L. 308, 96 Atl. 73.

General Order No. VIII—Schedule by nonjoinder partner.—Upon an adjudication of bankruptcy against a firm the non-joining partner may be required to file a schedule of his debts and an inventory of his property, in accordance with the concluding clause of the 8th General Order in Bankruptcy. In re Lenoir, (E. D. Tenn. 1915) 226 Fed. 227.

As the individual property of a partner, who resisted a petition to have the firm adjudicated a bankrupt, is subject to administration and application by the court of bankruptcy so far as necessary in order to pay in full the partnership debts he is required by General Order in Bankruptcy No. VIII (89 Fed. vi, 32 C. C. A. xi) to file a schedule of his debts and an inventory of his property within ten days after his adjudication in bankruptcy. Armstrong v. Fisher, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1915) 224 Fed. 97, 139 C. C. A. 653.

Incomplete schedule as affecting jurisdiction of referee.—Where it was objected on a hearing to confirm the report of the referee that he had no jurisdiction to proceed because the schedules were incomplete and the deposit did not cover all the existing claims, the court confirming the report of the referee said: "It is now urged by the objecting creditors that, upon it appearing that there were claims not scheduled, the referee lost jurisdiction until the schedules had been amended and a deposit made, or a waiver filed, to cover the added indebtedness. Sections 12a, 7a, 39a (2) and General Order 9 (89 Fed. vi, 32 C. C. A. xiii) are referred to in support of this contention. No decision on the point has been called to my attention. If such an objection can of right be insisted on by any creditor except those so omitted—which I doubt—I am of opinion that the sections and order mentioned do not so limit the general discretionary power of the court in matters of reference to and reports from referees as to prevent me from hearing and deciding the case on the present report of the referee, accompanied as it is by the evidence and exhibits before him." In re Spiller, (D. C. Mass. 1916) 230 Fed. 490.

Vol. I, p. 618, sec. 7a (9).

Scope and application.—This section applies to the bankrupt only, and does not protect the ordinary witness, whose rights must rest upon the general rules of law. Knoell v. U. S., (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1917) 239 Fed. 16, 152 C. C. A. 68.

Officers of a bankrupt corporation are included within this Act. People v. Lay, (1916) 193 Mich. 17, 159 N. W. 299.

Perjury.—The Bankruptcy Act, which requires the bankrupt to submit to an examination, does not permit him to give false testimony regarding his estate or property and its whereabouts or the disposition thereof, and then claim immunity from a prosecution for perjury committed while so testifying. U. S. v. Coyle, (N. D. N. Y. 1916) 229 Fed. 256.

Production of books and papers.—A bankrupt private banker may lose his right to object to the use of books and papers in a criminal prosecution against him by a failure to avail himself of the right afforded by the state law to obtain a restitution of the same within the period designated by such law. In re Mandel, (S. D. N. Y. 1915) 224 Fed. 642.

Vol. I, p. 624, sec. 8a. [Not to abate proceedings.]

Death as abating proceedings.—"Bankruptcy proceedings, once commenced, do not abate on the death of the alleged bankrupt, whether the proceeding be voluntary or involuntary and whether adjudication has been had, or not, at the time of such death." In re Agnew, (N. D. N. Y. 1915) 225 Fed. 650.

A proceeding to vacate a sheriff's sale, made after the death of the bankrupt, is properly brought by the trustee under this section. Home Buyers' Bldg., etc., Ass'n v. Peterman, (1916) 253 Pa. St. 418, 98 Atl. 619.

Vol. I, p. 625, sec. 8a. [Dower and allowances for widow and children.]

An assignment for the benefits of creditors within four months of an adjudication in bankruptcy does not affect the right, under this section, of the widow of the bankrupt. In re Scott, (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1915) 226 Fed. 201, 141 C. C. A. 653.

Vol. I, p. 626, sec. 9a.

Arrest prior to institution of bankruptcy proceedings.—A judgment for a breach of contract of marriage, if not accompanied by seduction, is dischargeable in bankruptcy. Where a defendant was arrested on execution against the person on such a judgment prior to the institution of a bankruptcy proceeding a writ of habeas corpus has been sustained. In re Komar, (N. D. N. Y. 1916) 234 Fed. 378. See also Ex parte Marigiasso, (S. D. N. Y. 1917) 242 Fed. 990.

Exemption from arrest.—In the case of an application to restrain the sheriff from levying a body execution upon the judgment debtor, in a state court pending the time within which an application for discharge could be made, the question of the discharge litigated, and the proceedings in bankruptcy carried on to a point where the bankrupt would not be harassed and interfered with in his bankruptcy proceedings by the process in the hands of the sheriff the court granted the motion for a definite period to be stated in the order when settled, in order to allow the bankrupt to apply to the state court for the appropriate remedy to bring up the question of the effect of his discharge. In re Lockwood, (E. D. N. Y. 1917) 240 Fed. 161.

Vol. I, p. 630, sec. 11a.

I. In general.

II. Discretion as to granting stay.

V. Where state court has complete jurisdiction.

I. IN GENERAL (p. 630)

In view of the paramount character of the Bankruptcy Law, the jurisdiction of the Bankruptcy Court, when properly invoked, is exclusive as respects the administration of the affairs of insolvent persons and corporations. The inhibition of R. S. sec. 720 against the issue of injunctions to stay proceedings in a state court, or to take possession of the property, distinctly excepts cases where the injunction is authorized by the Bankruptcy Law. Ohio Motor Car Co. v. Eiseman Magneto Co., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1916) 230 Fed. 370, 144 C. C. A. 512.

Limitation of stay.—A stay under this section cannot delay the prosecution of a suit longer than the determination of the application for a discharge. The court can retain control of the bankrupt only to carry out the law and not to prevent litigation in courts which have jurisdiction to litigate. In re Lockwood, (E. D. N. Y. 1917) 240 Fed. 161.

Suit brought after petition filed.—This section does not in terms cover suits begun after the filing of the petition; but it is obvious that such suits, in so far as they interfere with the bankruptcy administration, are inconsistent with its exclusive jurisdiction, and it is settled that when they do interfere they will be enjoined. In re Lavery, (D. C. Mass. 1916) 235 Fed. 910.

II. DISCRETION AS TO GRANTING STAY (p. 631)

Stay discretionary.—To the same effect as original annotation, see Smith v. Miller, (1917) 226 Mass. 187, 115 N. E. 243.

Consideration of comity.—Where property is in the possession of a receiver appointed by the state court, an application for a stay therein should in the first instance, in obedience to the rule of comity, be presented to the state court, and it cannot be presumed that the application will be denied. Ohio Motor Car Co. v. Eisenman Magneto Co., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1916) 230 Fed. 370, 144 C. C. A. 125.

V. WHERE STATE COURT HAS COMPLETE JURISDICTION (p. 636)

Mere interest of trustee.—A court of bankruptcy has no power to temporarily enjoin a sale of property of the bankrupt, proposed to be made by a state officer pursuant to a decree of a state court entered, before the petition in bankruptcy was filed, in proceedings to foreclose a valid mortgage, which was executed more than four months prior to the adjudication in bankruptcy, when the only reason why the stay is sought is to permit the trustee to attempt to secure a purchaser and to advertise the proposed sale more extensively than has been done by the state officer, and thus possibly realize more for the general creditors. In re Schmidt, (D. C. N. J. 1915) 224 Fed. 814.

Assets unaffected.—Where a bankrupt is not entitled to a discharge because of a prior discharge within six years he cannot have the suits of creditors in a state court stayed where the assets in the custody of the Bankruptcy Court will in no wise be affected thereby. In re Johnson, (S. D. Ala. 1916) 233 Fed. 841.

Supplementary proceedings.—Though an order in supplementary proceedings is stayed by the order adjudging the defendant a bankrupt for the period of twelve months, pursuant to the provision of this section, the proceeding, however, is not superseded and can be continued at any time one year from the adjudication. Taylor v. Buser, (1917) 167 N. Y. S. 887.

Vol. I, p. 643, sec. 11d.

Construction.—This section must be construed with section 2, subd. 8, which invests the court of bankruptcy with the power to close estates, whenever it appears that they have been fully administered, by proving the final accounts and discharging the trustees, and to reopen them whenever it appears that they were closed before being fully administered. Duncan v. Watson, (Ala. 1916) 73 So. 448.

Time within which trustee may sue.—In an action in a state court it has been held that where the statute of limitations has not run on an action by a trustee in bankruptcy on promissory notes held by the bankrupt, owing to the fact that the Bankruptcy Act suspends the running of the statute in favor of such trustee, a recovery is not barred by laches because the action was delayed more than seven years, for an action at law timely brought with respect to the statute of limitations cannot be deemed barred by mere laches without evidence of estoppel. Oppenheimer v. Roberts, (1916) 175 App. Div. 424, 161 N. Y. S. 1049.

Vol. I, p. 643, sec. 12a.

Effect of section.—This section provides a method whereby the expense of preserving and conducting the business of an estate pending action on the composition may become part of the expenses of administration, in case composition is finally denied and adjudication made, and, impliedly at least, negative the idea that such expenses may become part of the expenses of administering the estate where the defendant, without invoking the action of the court, in the prescribed manner, voluntarily and on its own sole motion continues the conduct of its business. In re Kinnane Co., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 769, 154 C. C. A. 357.

Theory of composition agreement.—“The fundamental theory and purpose of a composition agreement is that all creditors shall be treated alike, and that none shall have any advantage, secret or otherwise, over the other.” In re Gordon, (S. D. N. Y. 1917) 245 Fed. 905.

Composition after discharge.—The fact that a dividend has been paid to creditors and the bankrupt has applied for and received his discharge does not preclude the bankrupt from making an offer of composition. In re Spiller, (D. C. Mass. 1916) 230 Fed. 490.

The schedules filed by the bankrupt are binding upon him in the absence of fraud or mistake. In re Aarons, (D. C. N. J. 1917) 243 Fed. 634.

Vol. I, p. 645, sec. 12b.

Application for confirmation.—Where, from a financial standpoint, an offer of composition is in the best interest of creditors and it would be an undue hardship on a bankrupt if the composition agreement should fail a new application to confirm the agreement may be made after an arrangement, by reason of which a confirmation was refused, has been nullified. In re Gordon, (S. D. N. Y. 1917) 245 Fed. 905.

Withdrawal of claim by creditor.—“There is nothing in this section which prevents a creditor from withdrawing a claim at any time he pleases, provided, of course, such withdrawal is in good faith and without fraud or other wrongful agreement or means." In re Gordon, (S. D. N. Y. 1917) 245 Fed. 905.

Deposit—Generally.—"The 'consideration to be paid by the bankrupt to his creditor's may or may not be cash. A bankrupt usually does not have enough ready money of his own to carry out a composition. The 'consideration to be paid' may be the bankrupt's notes, secured or even wholly unsecured, or his mere promise to pay in the future a given amount. . . . It is common knowledge that compositions sometimes contemplate the taking by creditors of stock or securities under a reorganization. . . . It is, we think, also clear that such 'consideration' need not be actually deposited with the court. True, the statute requires that it 'be deposited in such place as shall be designated by and subject to the order of the judge,' thus plainly permitting a deposit of notes or other evidences of debt, secured or unsecured, with any approved depository. But this deposit is for the sole benefit of the creditors concerned, and there can, we think, be not doubt of the power of such creditors to waive actual deposit of money or securities." Kinkead v. Bacon, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1916) 230 Fed. 362, 144 C. C. A. 504.

Where an offer of composition is made before the year is up it is regarded as made to all those who are shown on the schedules, including those who may not prove till after the year is past, and the bankrupt must deposit a sum sufficient to pay the dividends of all creditors scheduled. In re Atlantic Const. Co., (S. D. N. Y. 1915) 228 Fed. 571.

Vol. I, p. 648, sec. 12d (1).

The decision of the creditors is evidence, prima facie, that the composition is for their best interest; and the burden is upon those who attack the composition. In re Spiller, (D. C. Mass. 1916) 230 Fed. 490.

"The mere fact that the estate will on full administration pay more to the creditors than the offer in composition is not sufficient reason for refusing confirmation. Other considerations than the mere amount of the dividends may properly be considered by creditors in determining whether to accept or reject the offer. They have, within fair limits, a right to decide in favor of an immediate payment, as against a postponed and uncertain one, probably of larger amount. A decision to that effect, honestly made by an overwhelming majority of the creditors, in the exercise of their business judgment, ought not to be overridden, unless justice to the objecting minority requires such action." In re Spiller, (D. C. Mass. 1916) 230 Fed. 490.

When composition will not be confirmed.—Where the court is not satisfied with the proof of the validity of claims of certain of the creditors necessary to constitute the required majority assenting to the composition confirmation may be denied. In re Weintrob, (E. D. N. C. 1917) 240 Fed. 532.

Where a bankrupt omitted from a financial statement a liability for the purchase price of goods still on hand confirmation of a composition has been denied. In re Kerner, (S. D. N. Y. 1917) 245 Fed. 807.

Where there is either an unexplained large shortage in the bankrupt's assets or certain statements made by him several months prior to his offer of composition were false, confirmation of the composition will be denied. In re Weintrob, (E. D. N. C. 1917) 240 Fed. 532.

An offer of composition has been rejected where it was offered to the creditors before the bankrupt was examined in open court and had filed in court his schedules. In re Berler Shoe Co., (S. D. N. Y. 1917) 246 Fed. 1018.

Vol. I, p. 650, sec. 12d (2).

Concealment.—Where the only books a bankrupt kept were a merchandise ledger, which showed his accounts with all those from whom he purchased on credit, a check book and a pass book, this was held not to authorize an inference of intended concealment. In re Silberstein, (S. D. N. Y. 1915) 225 Fed. 665.

Fraudulent transfer.—Payment of money to a wife and to a daughter for a wedding trousseau do not necessarily operate as a bar to a discharge and therefore authorize a refusal by the court of a confirmation of a composition, but much must depend on the circumstances of the particular case. In re Silberstein, (S. D. N. Y. 1915) 225 Fed. 665.

Vol. I, p. 651, sec. 12e.

Effect of confirmation.—While the confirmation of a composition discharges the bankrupt where he lives up to the agreement and composition, yet it has been held that where cash and notes are given pursuant to the order confirming the composition, and the notes are not paid, the original debt revives. And this is said to be true though the notes are indorsed by a third party, unless it is established by the evidence that they were taken in satisfaction of the original debt. American Woolen Co. v. Friedman, (1916) 97 Misc. 593, 163 N. Y. S. 162.

Distribution.—The clerk of the court is not charged with the duty of making the distribution of the consideration in cases of compositions. In re Newbold, (D. C. Utah 1917) 244 Fed. 888.

Nor is the clerk of the court entitled to charge any amount for the distribution of the consideration paid in compositions effected in bankruptcy proceedings. In re Newbold, (D. C. Utah 1917) 244 Fed. 888.

Claims not scheduled.—Where a bankrupt offered a composition which omitted the claimant from its schedule of creditors for the reason that such creditor had refused to file a claim in the estate of the bankrupt on the theory that its debt was not one dischargeable in bankruptcy, it was declared: "Either the composition should include the payment of this dividend, and the dividend should be paid with an express provision that it is on account of a debt claimed to be not dischargeable, or the bankrupt Alpert must deposit the amount which would be the dividend to be paid upon the amount which is claimed by the Nankin estate, and the amount of this claim may be litigated further." In re Alpert, (E. D. N. Y. 1916) 237 Fed. 295.

Claims reserved for future liquidation.—Where the claims of creditors secured by a special fund were reserved for future liquidation in an order of confirmation, it was held that the claims must be first liquidated before the court could distribute the consideration for the composition. In re Hollins, (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 230 Fed. 920.

Consideration for composition not paid.—Where a composition has been ordered the moral obligation to pay in full is sufficient to support a new promise, made after the bankrupt is discharged, to pay a creditor in full. Spann v. Read Phosphate Co., (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1916) 238 Fed. 338, 151 C. C. A. 354.

Vol. I, p. 652, sec. 13a.

Order confirming composition will not be disturbed where the court on appeal is unable to say from a consideration of the evidence before the referee and the district judge that they were clearly in error in finding it insufficient to prove a statement made by the bankrupt was materially false and made for the purpose of obtaining credit thereby. International Trust Co. v. Myers, (C. C. A. 1st Cir. 1917) 245 Fed. 110, 157 C. C. A. 406.

Right to discharge.—"The policy of the law with respect to the discharge of bankrupts from the legal obligation to pay their debts has been determined and settled by Congress. The bankrupt is entitled to the discharge, except in certain clearly defined cases." In re Pechin, (E. D. Pa. 1915) 225 Fed. 798.

Vol. I, p. 653, sec. 14a.

Who entitled to a discharge.—A corporation is entitled in a proper case to receive a discharge in bankruptcy. In re Hargadine-McKittrick Dry Goods Co., (E. D. Mo. 1917) 239 Fed. 155.

Individual firm members.—Where no act of bankruptcy is charged against the members of a firm, and the proceedings are against the partnership as a legal entity, the individual members are not entitled to a discharge in bankruptcy. Peterson v. Perego, etc., Co., (Ia. 1917) 163 N. W. 224.

Administrator.—Bankruptcy proceedings do not abate on the death of the alleged bankrupt in which case the administrator may properly file an application for a discharge. In re Agnew, (N. D. N. Y. 1915) 225 Fed. 650.

Application for discharge.—"The question as to whether the bankrupt will apply for a discharge, or not apply, is determined by himself alone. The court has no part in this determination. This is a personal matter of the bankrupt until the petition for a discharge is filed, and neither the creditors nor the court are called upon to act until the application is filed." In re Skaats, (S. D. Ala. 1915) 233 Fed. 817.

Notice.—Application for discharge must be made by the bankrupt upon notice to the creditors at the addresses given in the schedules, unless something in the record gives information that that address has been changed, or that some one else has succeeded to the creditor's rights. In re Blaesser, (E. D. N. Y. 1916) 230 Fed. 528.

When application must be made.—"The next twelve months."—If the true construction of the words 'subsequent to being adjudged a bankrupt' in the law is that they were placed there solely to prevent the filing of a petition for a discharge before adjudication, which adjudication follows a voluntary petition as matter of course, then the words 'within the next twelve months' would clearly refer to the words 'after the expiration of one month,' and the true reading would be 'any person, subsequent to being adjudged a bankrupt may, after the expiration of one month and within the next twelve months, file an application,' etc. As the section is written in the statute it is quite clear that the Congress intended that the bankrupt should be debarred from filing his petition for a discharge for one month after his adjudication as a bankrupt, giving that time for his creditors to make inquiry and examine the bankrupt and witnesses prior to the filing of an application for a discharge. Then comes the fixing of the time, limitation of time, within which the application for discharge must be filed, and then the right to an extension of time by order of the court in case he (the bankrupt) is unavoidably prevented from filing his application within 12 months next succeeding the adjudication. In re Snell, (N. D. N. Y. 1917) 244 Fed. 613. See also In re Jacobs, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 241 Fed. 620, 154 C. C. A. 378; In re Daly, (N. D. N. Y. 1915) 224 Fed. 263.

Delay.—If delay is occasioned by the fault of a postmaster, or the postmaster's employees, where the application is forwarded by mail, or is occasioned by the fault of some clerk or employee in the office of the attorney making the application, justice demands that a nunc pro tunc order be made. It is not the purpose or policy of the law in such a matter as this to take advantage of errors, or mistakes, or misconstructions." In re Daly, (N. D. N. Y. 1915) 224 Fed. 263.

Delay by court or referee.—Delay by the court or referee in conducting the bankruptcy proceedings proper or in deciding questions relating to the due administration of the estate arising therein affords no excuse for not filing the application for a discharge within the time fixed by statute. The decision or determination of such questions in no way affect the right of a bankrupt to file his application for a discharge. Thus it was so held where the only excuse offered by the bankrupt for not filing his application in time is that the referee failed to notify him or his attorney of his decision as to the necessity of appointing a trustee, which appointment the referee finally decided not to make. In re Snell, (N. D. N. Y. 1917) 244 Fed. 613.

Mistake.—Where the petitioner's counsel, through an honest mistake as to the law, supposed that the petition for discharge could not be filed until the equity proceedings in the state court (in which charges were made against the bankrupt, which would be sufficient, if established, to defeat the discharge) had been terminated, and he therefore did not attempt to file the petition for discharge until the conclusion of those proceedings it was declared that it would be altogether too strict a construction of the statute to hold that on such facts the bankrupt did not have the right to petition for his discharge within the six months period. In re Swain, (D. C. Mass. 1917) 243 Fed. 781.

Effect of failure to apply for discharge on subsequent bankruptcy proceedings.—"Where a bankrupt fails to apply in due time for a discharge, or is denied a discharge, from debts provable in one proceeding, he cannot be granted a discharge from such debts in a subsequent proceeding." In re Warnock, (W. D. Tenn. 1917) 239 Fed. 779.

The failure of a bankrupt to apply for a discharge in a previous proceeding precludes him, in a subsequent proceeding, from procuring a discharge from the scheduled and provable debts in the former. In re Cooper, (D. C. N. J. 1916) 236 Fed. 298.

In a subsequent bankruptcy proceeding, when it appears that there are debts which have been incurred since the first proceeding, and from which he is entitled to a discharge, the bankrupt may be granted a qualified discharge, excepting the old debts. In re Cooper, (D. C. N. J. 1916) 236 Fed. 298.

Vol. I, p. 661, sec. 14b.

- I. Generally.
- II. Objections to bankrupt's discharge.
- III. Hearing and proof.
- IV. Determination.

I. GENERALLY (p. 662)

Nature of proceeding.—"An application for a discharge is in the nature of a separate proceeding from the original case, which is closed with the final distribution of assets. The reference to the referee of the original case confers no jurisdiction whatever on him as to the discharge." In re Kendrick, (D. C. Vt. 1916) 226 Fed. 960.

Discharge as a matter of right.—"A discharge under the present act is a legal right, unless some objection be filed and affirmatively sustained, for reasons specifically enumerated in section 14 of the statute, and not otherwise." In re Kaufman, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 239 Fed. 305, 152 C. C. A. 293. See also In re Wix, (N. D. S. C. 1916) 236 Fed. 262.

Conditions of discharge.—"An insolvent debtor has no means of obtaining a discharge, except under favor of the bankruptcy law, and that law expressly forbids the granting of a discharge under certain conditions, and they cannot be disregarded even though the denial may impose a hardship on the bankrupt. In re Fackler, (N. D. Ohio 1917) 246 Fed. 864.

Effect of nondischargeable debts.—"The fact that a discharge from one of the debts cannot be granted does not affect the right of the bankrupt to be discharged from such as are dischargeable. In re Lockwood, (E. D. N. Y. 1917) 240 Fed. 158.

II. OBJECTION TO BANKRUPT'S DISCHARGE (p. 664)

Right to object.—"The right to oppose the bankrupt's discharge may be a property right, in the sense that, if discharge is denied, any lien would remain and would pass under the state law in case of the death of a creditor. But this right to oppose is not such that the bankrupt should be compelled to proceed in the proper jurisdiction for administration of the deceased creditor's estate, in order to cut off those rights by actual notice of further hearings to all parties who might prove themselves entitled to name the representative of the estate, or who might contest successfully the claims of others to name such representative. A trustee would not be bound, in declaring a dividend, to seek out those who have a right to make claim to that dividend; but the burden would be upon the proper representatives of the estate of the deceased creditor to claim their property. So, in the matter of discharge, the burden is upon the bankrupt to give reasonable notice to all those appearing by the record to be entitled to an opportunity of being heard or of putting themselves in a position where their interests may be heard. If the bankrupt does this he is entitled to have the proceedings go forward, after waiting a reasonable time for other claimants to assert their claims." In re Blaesser, (E. D. N. Y. 1916) 230 Fed. 528.

Specifications of objections—Requisites.—A bankrupt is entitled to a discharge unless one or more of the six grounds set out in section 14 of the Bankruptcy Act . . . are pleaded and sustained by proof, and the burden to do this rests upon the objecting creditor. The rule of pleading requires the same certainty in the specifications of objections as in other pleadings; such certainty as will put the bankrupt on notice of what he is to meet." In re Groves, (S. D. Fla. 1917) 244 Fed. 197.

Where it is alleged in the specification of objections that some of the creditors are pecuniarily interested in the estate and that they have filed proof of their claims which have been allowed and it appears that all of the objecting creditors have claims which will be barred by the discharge, a right to oppose the granting of a discharge is sufficiently shown. In re Fackler, (N. D. Ohio 1917) 246 Fed. 864.

A specification in objections to the discharge of a bankrupt on the ground of concealment is insufficient where it does not charge that the concealment was knowingly and fraudulently done. In re Opava, (N. D. Ia. 1916) 235 Fed. 779.

Amendment.—Where after the original specifications of objections were filed, and during the progress of the hearing upon those which were filed, another alleged instance of the same general character as those already charged came to the knowledge of the trustee and of objecting creditors, it was held that leave should be granted to amend the specifications. In re Pechin, (E. D. Pa. 1915) 225 Fed. 798.

Who may object.—A mere volunteer, not having a party in interest, cannot object to a discharge "unless the creditors, either singly or collectively, desire that a bankrupt's discharge be opposed, such discharge must be granted." In re White, (N. D. Cal. 1917) 238 Fed. 874.

Party in interest.—Where a petitioner's claim has been proved, admitted by the bankrupt, objected to by no one, allowed by the referee, and not reconsidered on motion of the trustee, it should be regarded as "liquidated" under section 57 of this Act, and the petitioners are a "party in interest" entitled to oppose the bankrupt's discharge under this section. In re Menzin, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 238 Fed. 773, 151 C. C. A. 623.

A creditor cannot insist on remaining in the bankruptcy proceeding and at the same time pursue his remedy in the state court on the theory that his debt is not dischargeable. A creditor like this one can prove his claim in bankruptcy and oppose the discharge on the ground of false statement in obtaining property; but, if he will not liquidate his claim, and persists in proceeding in another jurisdiction on the theory that the debt is not provable and not dischargeable, then by his own interpretation he is not a "party in interest" entitled to oppose discharge. In re Menzin, (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 233 Fed. 333.

III. HEARING AND PROOF (p. 670)

Nature of hearing.—Objections to a bankrupt's discharge are the beginning of a distinct and separate dispute, and the hearing thereon is in effect a trial in equity. In re Amer, (E. D. Pa. 1915) 228 Fed. 576.

Evidence.—The testimony of an objecting creditor, taken by consent and given under oath, may be used, after his death upon proof of the administration of the oath to testify, even if the actual signature or verification upon the paper itself cannot be obtained. In re Blaesser, (E. D. N. Y. 1916) 230 Fed. 528.

Burden of proof.—The burden rests on the creditor objecting to the discharge of a bankrupt to show that he is not entitled to it. In re Wix, (W. D. S. C. 1916) 236 Fed. 262.

Hearing postponed pending proceeding in state court.—Where a petitioner brought suit in a state court more than four months before bankruptcy and had garnishments served on property, to secure a release of which a bond was filed, it has been held that he has an equity entitling him to a "reasonable postponement" of the discharge of the bankrupt, so as to enable him to enforce his rights in the state court. In re Philips, (S. D. Ga. 1915) 224 Fed. 628.

Where a creditor dies during the hearing on his specifications of objections, there can be no general presumption that a man is unable to pay his debts, and that therefore he has creditors who are more interested than his next of kin, and where a reasonable time has elapsed to allow such creditors, if they exist, to act on the default of the next of kin, or representatives of the deceased, there would seem to be no reason why the bankrupt should not be allowed to proceed with his application for discharge. In re Blaesser, (E. D. N. Y. 1916) 230 Fed. 528.

Reference to special commissioner—Jurisdiction.—The question of the effect of a discharge on a particular debt can be raised only in a proceeding before a court having jurisdiction to decide that issue, and cannot be determined by a special commissioner to whom specifications of objection to the discharge have been referred. In re Lockwood, (E. D. N. Y. 1917) 240 Fed. 158.

Confirmation of findings by special commissioner.—As to the confirming of such findings, it has been said: "Experience has proven that a report in the form of an opinion, such as has been used in admiralty and equity and is customary in bankruptcy, is generally of more value than enumerated statements of fact and conclusions of law, which require extensive exceptions in the nature of a pleading, if confirmation is opposed. A simple motion to confirm a report, in the form of an opinion, allows argument of any question involved. Further, the District Court will not overrule the findings or the commissioner, if there is any evidence upon which those findings are based, unless the conclusions are contrary to law, or unless consideration of the entire issue leads to different construction of some of the acts involved. It will be held, therefore, that there is no necessity for returning the report, or for more particular findings." In re Rowe, (E. D. N. Y. 1917) 240 Fed. 165.

Collateral attacks—Order extending time—Letters of administration.—On the hearing of an application for a discharge made by the administrator of a deceased bankrupt after the expiration of the year under the authority of an order extending the time in which to make such an application the order granting the extension cannot be attacked in the proceeding before the special master or judge, nor can the regularity or validity of the letters of administration. Such an attack can only be made by motion. In re Agnew, (N. D. N. Y. 1915) 225 Fed. 650.

IV. DETERMINATION (p. 673)

Vacating discharge.—An order may be granted vacating a discharge and allowing specifications to be filed where the default of the objecting creditor in filing them arose through some misunderstanding between him and the bankrupt's attorney about the time and place when the bankrupt should appear for his examination. In re Applegate, (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 235 Fed. 271.

Costs.—As the hearing on the objections to a bankrupt's discharge is in effect a trial in equity, the equity rules as to taxation of costs may be properly applied.

In re Ames, (E. D. Pa. 1915) 228 Fed. 576.

The fact that the same objecting creditor filed similar exceptions in five separate cases does not relieve it from payment of costs to each of the bankrupts. In re Ames, (E. D. Pa. 1915) 228 Fed. 576.

Vol. I, p. 677, sec. 14b (1).

Making false oath.—Although it is a crime to make any false oath in any proceeding in bankruptcy, it is not a ground for denial of a discharge unless the oath be made in the bankruptcy proceedings of the bankrupt himself. A mere literal reading of the two sections (Bankr. Act, §§ 14 and 29) might lead to a contrary result; but it is perfectly obvious that the bankrupt's discharge depends upon his conduct toward his own creditors, and not upon his general truthfulness, even in other independent proceedings. In re Lesser, (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 232 Fed. 368.

Incredible answers.—A discharge has been refused where on his examination the bankrupt again and again replied, "I don't know," "I couldn't say," "I don't remember," to questions concerning matters which had been within his knowledge, which had taken place within a few months before the examination, and which were of such character that entire forgetfulness concerning them all was incredible. The court further said in this case: "More than 60 times during an examination covering fourteen pages of typewriting, the bankrupt made answers of the sort referred to. In some instances the answers can, perhaps, be justified by the phrasing of the question; but in many others they are obviously untrue. The inference of an intent to falsify is greatly strengthened by the repetition of such answers to various sorts of questions, such as occurs in this examination." In re Kaplan, (D. C. Mass. 1917) 245 Fed. 222.

False oath due to mistake or advice of counsel.—If a false oath was due to a mistake in fact, or the honest advice of counsel, to whom the bankrupt had disclosed all the facts relative to the items omitted from his schedules, and which form the basis of the objections, a discharge will not be refused. In other words, such oath must have been knowingly and fraudulently made. In re Stafford, (D. C. Conn. 1915) 226 Fed. 127.

False oath as to homestead exemption.—An objection that the bankrupt made a false oath with reference to his homestead exemption cannot be passed upon until the question is settled of the bankrupt's right to the exemption, and even if it should be determined that he is not entitled to the exemption, that would not show that he swore wilfully false in his application for the same. In re Meikleham, (N. D. Ga. 1916) 236 Fed. 401.

Specifications alleging false oath.—The specifications of objection must state that the oath was “knowingly and fraudulently” made. This must be the charge in the specifications, and the oath made must be as to a material matter, which must appear from the specifications of objection. The requirement that the false oath must have been, not only knowingly made, but “fraudulently” made, is of the very essence of the objection. “Intentionally” is not the same as “fraudulently.” The meaning of the two words is not the same. The one word is not a synonym of the other. In re Agnew, (N. Y. N. Y. 1915) 225 Fed. 650.

Omissions and inaccuracies in the schedule.—Where it appears that a bankrupt has concealed assets which have not been listed in his schedules, he will be deemed to have taken a false oath when he swore to the truth of the schedules. In re Stafford, (D. C. Conn. 1915) 226 Fed. 127.

Where in making up his schedules the bankrupt attempted to decrease certain claims to a creditor and it appeared that the claim was much larger it was declared that unless the creditor could have been successfully estopped, and his claim held down to the lower amount, it would seem that the attempt by the bankrupt to falsely state his financial condition would be sufficient ground for denial of discharge. In re Rowe, (E. D. N. Y. 1917) 240 Fed. 165.

Concealment—“Knowingly and fraudulently.”—To constitute the punishable offense of having knowingly and fraudulently concealed while a bankrupt from his trustee property belonging to his estate in bankruptcy, such concealment must have been by the bankrupt after the filing of a petition against him, while a bankrupt, or after his discharge, and the property must have been concealed from the trustee, and such property must have belonged to the estate in bankruptcy. The concealment must be knowingly and fraudulently done. The evidence must be clear. In re Agnew, (N. D. N. Y. 1915) 225 Fed. 650.

Opponents of discharge must show existence of property.—Specifications of objection should point out or specify what property was concealed, and when, with some reasonable degree of certainty. In re Agnew, (N. D. N. Y. 1915) 225 Fed. 650.

Vol. I, p. 683, sec. 14b (2).

Concealment of financial condition.—See to same effect as original annotation, In re Shrimmer, (E. D. N. C. 1916) 228 Fed. 794; In re Kaplan, (D. C. Mass. 1917) 245 Fed. 222.

Intention to conceal.—See to same effect as original annotation, In re Shrimmer, (E. D. N. C. 1916) 228 Fed. 794.

“Failed to keep books of accounts.”—In a case, involving the construction of this provision it was said: “Analyzing this statutory provision, it is clear that its sole purpose is to condemn a design on the part of a bankrupt to conceal his financial condition by either (a) destroying his books of accounts or records, or (b) concealing them, or (c) failing to keep them. It cannot be construed to require any particular system of bookkeeping, nor can it be construed to require the keeping of books at all. The books kept may be so faulty and deficient as to in fact deceive creditors as to the bankrupt’s financial condition, yet, if they have been so kept with no purpose to conceal such condition, the inhibition of this statute does not apply. Congress emphasized this construction when by the amendment of 1903 it struck out the words ‘fraudulent’ before the word ‘intent,’ ‘true’ before the words ‘financial condition,’ and the words ‘and in contemplation of bankruptcy’ following the words ‘financial condition.’” Sherwood Shoe Co. v. Wix, (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1917) 240 Fed. 692, 153 C. C. A. 490.

No particular method of bookkeeping is required; the law does not require a man to keep books at all. The only provision of the law is that he must not adopt a method of keeping books for the purpose of concealing his true financial condition. No matter how irregularly or poorly kept his books may be, if the evidence does not show that his intent was to conceal his true financial condition, he is entitled to his discharge.” In re Wix, (W. D. S. C. 1916) 236 Fed. 262.

False entries.—The making of false entries in the books is, of course, a failure to keep true books of the most glaring sort, and only from true books can the bankrupt’s financial condition be ascertained. In re Helfgott, (S. D. N. Y. 1917) 245 Fed. 358.

Limited business.—The nature and extent of the bankrupt’s business may be so limited that an intent to conceal his financial condition will not be inferred from his failure to keep books or more complete records. In re Arnold, (D. C. N. J. 1915) 228 Fed. 75. See also Devorken v. Security Bank, etc., Co., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 243 Fed. 171, 156 C. C. A. 37.

Long-established method.—The fact that a bankrupt had for ten years adopted the same method or lack of method of bookkeeping refutes the presumption that he had adopted such method for the purpose of concealing from his creditors his financial condition. Sherwood Shoe Co. v. Wix, (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1917) 240 Fed. 692, 153 C. C. A. 492.

Where the agent of a bankrupt failed to keep the required books, the bankrupt may be refused a discharge, it being said that there is no reason why the bankrupt should not be required to take the risk of the agent’s conduct, as in many other instances. In re Janavetz, (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1915) 219 Fed. 876, 135 C. C. A. 546; In re Landersman, (D. C. N. J. 1917) 239 Fed. 766.

Intention presumed.—That the failure of a bankrupt to keep books and records was with the intent to conceal his financial condition, in the absence of any reasonable explanation will be presumed, on the theory that he is chargeable with intending the natural and probable consequences of his own acts and omissions. In re Landersman, (D. C. N. J. 1917) 239 Fed. 766.

"The intent spoken of in this clause of the Act need not be proven by absolute showing that the party, in failing to keep books, designed to conceal assets or fail to disclose the state of his business; but it may be deduced from all the facts and circumstances in the case and thus ascertained and determined. The well-established rule is often invoked in determining the intent, namely, that a man must be presumed to intend the natural consequences of his act." In re Josephson, (D. C. Ore. 1916) 229 Fed. 272; In re Chass, (W. D. Pa. 1916) 238 Fed. 573.

The mere destruction of books is not prohibited unless it is done with guilty intent and where there is no proof to that effect and no pretense that a fraud was perpetrated, a discharge will not be denied. In re Rosenthal, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 231 Fed. 449, 145 C. C. A. 443.

Burden of proof.—In determining whether the bankrupt has offended against the provisions of the Bankruptcy Act in failing to keep certain books the burden rests on the objecting creditors to prove the essential element of the offense that the acts done and omitted by the bankrupt were with intent to conceal his financial condition. Sheinberg v. Hoffman, (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1916) 236 Fed. 343, 149 C. C. A. 475.

The objecting creditor carries the burden of establishing the unlawful intent. In re Shrimmer, (E. D. N. C. 1916) 228 Fed. 794.

False statement in writing.—In General.—See to same effect as original annotations, In re Josephson, (D. C. Ore. 1916) 229 Fed. 272; In re Smith, (N. D. N. Y. 1916) 232 Fed. 248.

The written statement must have been (1) materially false, and (2) made for the purpose of obtaining property on credit. A statement, to be "materially false" within the meaning of this statute, must be not only false in fact in a material matter, but must have been made with the intention to deceive. And such statement must have been made for a certain specified purpose, namely, "to secure property from another on credit." Aller-Wilmes Jewelry Co. v. Osborn, (C. C. A.

8th Cir. 1916) 231 Fed. 907, 146 C. C. A. 103.

It may appear not only that the statement relied on was false but was also knowingly made. In re Stafford, (D. C. Conn. 1915) 226 Fed. 127; Hamlin v. J. M. Radford Grocery Co., (Tex. Civ. App. 1916) 182 S. W. 716.

Extension of credit on faith of statement.—A false statement in writing made for the purpose of obtaining credit bars a discharge. In re Smith, (N. D. N. Y. 1916) 232 Fed. 248; In re Blank, (E. D. Pa. 1916) 236 Fed. 801; In re Samet, (D. C. Md. 1917) 243 Fed. 203.

Conditional sale on faith of statement.—Where false statements are made the case is not taken out of the operation of this provision though the goods were delivered under "conditional sale contracts" with a reservation of title. In re Fackler, (N. D. Ohio 1917) 246 Fed. 864.

False statement by stockholder of corporation.—A false statement made by a bankrupt may bar his right to a discharge, although the credit was obtained by a corporation of which the bankrupt owned the majority of the stock. In re Stafford, (D. C. Conn. 1915) 226 Fed. 127.

False statement by stockbroker.—Where a stockbroker represented to a customer who purchased stock on margin, that he had stocks "on hand" for him and the latter, induced thereby, made further payments thereon, it was held proper to deny a discharge to the broker. In re Shea, (D. C. Mass. 1917) 245 Fed. 363.

Financial statement to bank.—Where a bank relying on false statements made by the bankrupt did not apply the debtor's balance to the reduction or extinguishment of any of his notes when they fell due in consequence of which he owed the bank more than he otherwise would have done, a discharge was denied. In re Samet, (D. C. Md. 1917) 243 Fed. 203.

False statement to commercial agency.—Where the bankrupt gave a false statement of his financial standing to a mercantile agency and according to his own testimony the purpose was not merely to obtain a rating but to obtain credit through the agency from his creditors it was held that the bankrupt made such agency his duly authorized agent to circulate the falsehoods concerning his financial condition among his different creditors whenever they should ask for information, and the case therefore falls directly within the terms of section 14b. In re Haimowich, (E. D. Pa. 1916) 232 Fed. 378, affirmed (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1917) 243 Fed. 338, 156 C. C. A. 118.

"But if in fact the false statement was made generally to the mercantile agency and was not afterward communicated to a subscriber, and if, therefore, no credit was procured upon faith in it, then obviously the provision, which contemplates obtaining property on credit based upon a false statement, does not extend to a false statement alone." Haimowich v. Mandel, (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1917) 243 Fed. 338, 156 C. C. A. 118, affirming (E. D. Pa. 1916) 232 Fed. 378.

A false statement made to a commercial agency two years before incurring the debt in question has been held not to be a sufficient ground on which to base opposition to a discharge, as it was not a statement made in contemplation of securing credit, which could be relied on by the creditor without additional inquiry. Balfe v. Tilton, (D. C. N. H. 1916) 237 Fed. 684.

In J. W. Ould Co. v. Davis, (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 228, 158 C. C. A. 388, it was held that Congress did not intend to make "general statements to mercantile agencies not specifically asked for by prospective creditors" available grounds for opposing a bankrupt's discharge.

False statement made by partner.—See to same effect as original annotation, Doyle v. Baltimore First Nat. Bank, (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1916) 231 Fed. 649, 145 C. C. A. 535.

An omission of an indebtedness of partners to relatives, in a statement made by a member of a firm for the purpose of obtaining credit is a ground for refusing a discharge. In re Blank, (E. D. Pa. 1916) 236 Fed. 801.

Statement omitting liabilities.—A bankrupt who omitted some liabilities from a statement by him of his financial condition cannot defend by showing that the balance is substantially correct. In re Maaget, (S. D. N. Y. 1911) 245 Fed. 804. See In re Kerner, (S. D. N. Y. 1917) 245 Fed. 807.

Immaterial false statement.—While there may be a point at which the proportion of sums omitted in an untrue statement to the total sum of liabilities or surplus may be so insignificant as to have no weight in making the untruth material, yet in the consideration of the question, each case must stand upon its own facts. In re Blank, (E. D. Pa. 1916) 236 Fed. 801.

It has been held that the discharge must be denied, if money or property in any amount, not utterly trivial, is thus obtained. In re Fackler, (N. D. Ohio 1917) 246 Fed. 864.

Intent.—See to same effect as original annotation, Doyle v. Baltimore First Nat. Bank, (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1916) 231 Fed. 649, 145 C. C. A. 535.

Evidence—Burden of proof.—The burden is upon the objector to sustain the allegations in his specifications of objection. In re Haimowich, (E. D. Pa. 1916) 232 Fed. 378.

Vol. I, p. 694, sec. 14b (4).

Concealment, etc., of assets—In General.—To the same effect as the original annotation see In re Cooper, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 230 Fed. 991, 145 C. C. A. 185; In re Opava, (N. D. Ia. 1916) 235 Fed. 779; In re Braus, (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 237 Fed. 139; In re Wibeck, (D. C. Mass. 1917) 245 Fed. 135.

What constitutes concealment—Small bank balance.—Where a bankrupt had a sum of money on deposit in a bank which he did not schedule or turn over to the trustee but later checked it out and used it for his own personal benefit, there was held to be a concealment justifying an inference of fraud, even though the amount was small. In re Smith, (N. D. N. Y. 1916) 232 Fed. 248.

Transfer to bankrupt's wife.—Although a deed given to a bankrupt's wife within four months of bankruptcy might constitute a preference it would not of itself be a ground for opposition to a discharge. "If the payment merely constituted a preference, the discharge should be granted, and if the bankrupt did not intentionally conceal his assets from his creditors, but sought to secure an equitable claim belonging to his wife, even though it might make him insolvent, it would not legally of necessity involve fraudulent concealment of assets." In re Kean, (E. D. N. Y. 1916) 237 Fed. 682.

Mere carelessness in scheduling assets will not amount to such a fraudulent concealment as will bar a discharge. In re Meikleham, (N. D. Ga. 1916) 236 Fed. 401.

A transfer made more than four months prior to filing of petition, though, probably made to hinder, delay, and defraud creditors, is not a ground for objection to a discharge. In re Fackler, (N. D. Ohio 1917) 246 Fed. 864.

Transfer of equity of redemption.—Whether such a transfer will operate to bar a discharge was considered in Devorkin v. Security Bank, etc., Co., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 243 Fed. 171, 156 C. C. A. 37.

Presumption of value.—"In deciding whether a conveyance had the effect to hinder, delay, and defraud creditors, it is of no controlling importance that the trustee has not been able to avoid it, or even that he has not tried to avoid it, and, doubtless, in the absence of any proof, there would be some presumption that property conveyed by the bankrupt had value." Devorkin v. Security Bank, etc., Co., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 243 Fed. 171, 156 C. C. A. 37.

Advice of counsel.—See to same effect as original annotation, In re Stafford, (D. C. Conn. 1915) 226 Fed. 127.

Specification of objections.—A specification of objections to the discharge of a bankrupt on the ground of concealment is insufficient where it does not charge that the concealment was knowingly and fraudulently done. In re Opava, (N. D. Ia. 1916) 235 Fed. 779.

Evidence—Burden of proof on opposing creditors.—Creditors opposing the bankrupt's application for a discharge on the grounds specified in this section have the burden of proof. Poff v. Adams, (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1915) 226 Fed. 187, 141 C. C. A. 185; In re Landersman, (D. C. N. J. 1917) 239 Fed. 766.

Vol. I, p. 701, sec. 14b (5).

Application and effect of section.—While this Act provides that a bankrupt may have only one discharge within six years it does not preclude him from having more than one adjudication and distribution of his property through a Bankrupt Court during that period. In re Johnson, (S. D. Ala. 1916) 233 Fed. 841.

There is no limit to the number of petitions a debtor may file in bankruptcy, nor of their frequency, except he may not be granted more than one discharge in a voluntary proceeding within a period of six years. In re Warnock, (W. D. Tenn. 1917) 239 Fed. 779.

Proceedings brought within six years.—Previous proceedings in bankruptcy in which no application for a discharge was made do not bar the right of the bankrupt to a discharge in subsequent proceedings brought within six years. In re Skaats, (S. D. Ala. 1914) 233 Fed. 817.

Vol. I, p. 701, sec. 14b (6). [Refusal to obey lawful orders.]

Refusal to answer proper questions.—In order to justify the denial of a discharge on the ground of the refusal by a bankrupt to answer questions it must appear that the court or referee approved the question propounded, and that then the bankrupt refused to answer, and that such question was material. In re Lenweaver, (N. D. N. Y. 1915) 226 Fed. 987.

Scope of trustee's authority.—See the case of In re White, (N. D. Cal. 1917) 242 Fed. 1001.

Vol. I, p. 703, sec. 15.

Revocation of discharge.—This section does not prevent the granting of an order vacating a discharge and allowing specifications to be filed where the default of the objecting creditor in filing them arose through some misunderstanding between him and the bankrupt's attorney about the time and place when the bankrupt should appear for his examination. In re

Applegate, (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 235 Fed. 271.

Vol. I, p. 706, sec. 16a.

Surety on bond to dissolve attachment.—In an action against the sureties on a bond given to dissolve an attachment it has been held that the fact that the plaintiff had presented his claim against the bankrupt to the Bankruptcy Court, and received dividends thereon in excess of the sum in which the undertaking involved in the pending suit was given, did not operate to discharge the obligation of the sureties upon said undertaking. Curtin v. Katschinski, (1916) 31 Cal. App. 768, 161 Pac. 764.

Surety on injunction bond.—In an action on a bond given on the issuance of an injunction to enjoin the collection of a judgment, it has been held that an adjudication and discharge of the judgment debtor in bankruptcy and the action of the creditor in accepting a composition and a share of the proceeds thereof does not operate to discharge the surety on the bond. Martin Furniture Co. v. Massey, (1916) 135 Tenn. 338, 186 S. W. 451.

The surety on a "forthcoming bond" given to release a levy on property of the judgment debtor, is not released by the discharge of the debtor in bankruptcy proceedings. Evans v. Rea, (Tex. Civ. App. 1917) 193 S. W. 707. See also Evans v. Rea, (1917) 108 Tex. 260, 191 S. W. 1133.

Indorsers of promissory notes.—The provisions of this section have been applied in the case of an action against the indorsers of a promissory note, the maker of which has been discharged in bankruptcy. Bass v. Geiger, (Fla. 1917) 73 So. 796.

Vol. I, p. 708, sec. 17a.

Effect of discharge.—"The discharge is prima facie a release from all debts—at least a bar against enforcement." Halligan v. Dowell, (Ia. 1917) 161 N. W. 177.

All provable debts released—In general.—See to same effect as original annotation, Butler Cotton Oil Co. v. Collins, (Ala. 1917) 75 So. 975; Bunting Stone Hardware Co. v. Alexander, (Tex. Civ. App. 1917) 190 S. W. 1152.

Liens and mortgages.—All liens and mortgages are not annulled or avoided by bankruptcy or discharge, but only those which come within the provisions of the Bankruptcy Act. Butler Cotton Oil Co. v. Collins, (Ala. 1917) 75 So. 975.

Valid liens against the property of a bankrupt may be enforced after he is discharged in bankruptcy as he is released from personal liability only. Wills v. E. K. Wood Lumber, etc., Co., (1915) 29 Cal. App. 97, 154 Pac. 613.

Nondischargeable debt.—Where a debt is not dischargeable in bankruptcy, the creditor is not required to come into a Bankruptcy Court and prove his claim, with a view of having it excluded from the order of discharge. In re Warnock, (W. D. Tenn. 1917) 239 Fed. 779.

Judgments.—A judgment on a note made by the bankrupt and indorsed by another is a claim provable in bankruptcy and after a discharge has been granted to the bankrupt the enforcement of the judgment against the indorser may be restrained. Bunting Stone Hardware Co. v. Alexander, (Tex. Civ. App. 1917) 190 S. W. 1152.

Pleading discharge — Necessity of pleading.—In a suit to enjoin the sale of property under execution where it is claimed that the judgment on which the execution was issued is barred by a discharge in bankruptcy it is necessary for him to plead his discharge and that the debt from which he was discharged and which was asserted against him in the subsequent proceeding was not within any of the classes of claims which the Act excepts from the operation of the discharge. Bunting Stone Hardware Co. v. Alexander, (Tex. Civ. App. 1917) 190 S. W. 1152.

Burden of proof.—In a suit to enjoin the sale of property under execution where it is claimed that the judgment on which the execution was issued is barred by a discharge in bankruptcy the burden is on the plaintiff to prove his discharge. Bunting Stone Hardware Co. v. Alexander, (Tex. Civ. App. 1917) 190 S. W. 1152.

In an action upon a judgment the burden of establishing that it has been discharged in bankruptcy rests upon the defendant. Hyde Park Flint Bottle Co. v. Miller, (1917) 179 App. Div. 73, 166 N. Y. S. 110.

It is for the judgment creditor to show by a preponderance of the evidence that the judgment upon which he sues was not affected by the discharge in bankruptcy because the liability upon which his judgment is bottomed is within said exceptions. Halligan v. Dowell, (Ia. 1917) 161 N. W. 177.

- III. Miscellaneous.

I. FALSE PRETENSES OR REPRESENTATIONS (p. 716)

Liability for obtaining property by false pretenses or false representations.—See to same effect as original annotation, In re Menzin, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 238 Fed. 773, 151 C. C. A. 623.

Judgment — In general.—The fact that a liability has passed to judgment does not take it out of the operation of this section, as the judgment does not so far work a merger that the original claim cannot be inquired into. Taylor v. Buser, (1917) 167 N. Y. S. 887.

Judgment on surety bond.—Where a bond was obtained from a surety company by false representations and the company, having been compelled to pay the bond, thereafter sued the insured for false representations in obtaining the bond and obtained judgment against him for the penalty and interest, such judgment is not canceled by his discharge in bankruptcy. In re Dunfee, (1916) 219 N. Y. 188, 114 N. E. 52.

Judgment for costs.—Costs decreed to defendants in a suit in equity to reform a written contract of sale, in connection with which false and fraudulent representations were made, as established by a judgment in an action at law, constitute a provable debt in bankruptcy proceedings where they were commenced and the discharge granted after the equity case came into the appellate court. Kennett v. Tudor, (Vt. 1916) 99 Atl. 306.

Promissory notes given by bankrupt.—The discharge of a bankrupt does not discharge his liability on a note, executed for borrowed money where it appears that he had created the debt through false pretenses and representations in regard to an insurance policy. Ehlinger v. Speckels, (Tex. Civ. App. 1916) 189 S. W. 348.

Renewal note.—The mere giving of a note in renewal of a former one, even if acceptance is induced by false representations is not an obtaining of property by false pretenses or false representations within the meaning of this section. Carville v. Lane, (1917) 116 Me. 332, 101 Atl. 968.

When a tort may be waived and an action quasi ex contractu maintained, the claim is a debt within the meaning of the Bankruptcy Act and provable. Enosburg Falls First Nat. Bank v. Bamforth, (1916) 90 Vt. 75, 96 Atl. 600.

II. WILFUL AND MALICIOUS INJURIES (p. 720)

Wilful and malicious injury defined.—The words "wilful and malicious" do not have the general, broad, legal significance, but they are used in a more narrow and specific sense, implying actual malice and "wilful disregard of what one knows to be his duty, an act which is against good morals and wrongful in and of itself, and which necessarily causes injury and is done intentionally." It is not necessary that "malice," as used in the phrase "wilful and malicious injuries to the person," should be shown toward a particular individual. In acts of a certain character, the law will imply malice. McClellan v. Schmidt, (D. C. N. J. 1916) 235 Fed. 986. See further

In re Levitan, (D. C. N. J. 1915) 224 Fed. 241.

Assault and battery.—The bringing of a suit on a judgment rendered in an action for assault and battery and the recovery of a second judgment thereon does not operate to take the claim out of the operation of this provision. Taylor v. Buser, (1917) 167 N. Y. S. 887.

Conversion of property.—Where a person with whom money has been deposited to secure the performance of a contract by another, which contract is fully performed, converts such money to his own use, there is a wilful and malicious injury to the property of another within the meaning of this section. In re Keeler, (N. D. N. Y. 1917) 243 Fed. 770.

A conversion of stock by a firm of brokers constitutes a wilful and malicious injury to property where, in violation of instructions to have the stock transferred to the name owner for whom it was purchased, they misappropriate it to help themselves over a financial crisis. Wood v. Fiske, (1916) 175 App. Div. 135, 161 N. Y. S. 1097.

Burden of proof.—Where a debt is one which is provable in bankruptcy, the burden of proof is on the judgment creditor to show that such liability is within the exception of this provision as to liabilities for wilful or malicious injury to the person or property of another. In re Levitan, (D. C. N. J. 1915) 224 Fed. 241.

III. MISCELLANEOUS (p. 722)

Liabilities for alimony.—Where a state court, in awarding a judgment for alimony, gives the wife the right to occupy certain property as a homestead, such judgment is not released by a discharge in bankruptcy. Brown v. Brown, (1916) 172 Ky. 754, 189 S. W. 921.

A divorce decree by which a wife was awarded the "sum of fifty (50) dollars per month, as alimony, payable monthly, or en masse, at the option of the plaintiff, in the sum of five thousand (5,000) dollars," has been held to be a judgment in the nature of alimony and not released by a discharge of the husband in bankruptcy. Egbers v. Egbers, (1917) 98 Wash. 531, 167 Pac. 1073.

Vol. I, p. 724, sec. 17a (3).

Debts not duly scheduled—Address of creditor.—A debt is not duly scheduled where it appears that the address of the creditor given in the schedule was the business address of the creditor, and the debtor knew that the creditor had not conducted business at such address for several years and that any communication addressed there would not be received. Jenkins v. Levy, (1917) 167 N. Y. S. 847.

Stating the residence of a judgment creditor as unknown, without some evidence of due diligence to ascertain the address, does not constitute a due scheduling of the debt so as to effect its discharge. Hyde Park Flint Bottle Co. v. Miller, (1917) 179 App. Div. 173, 166 N. Y. S. 110.

Notice or actual knowledge.—"While it is true that the word 'actual' does not usually advance the meaning, it must be understood in the connection used in the statute under consideration to emphasize the fact that the knowledge of the party must be actual as contradistinguished from constructive or speculative; it must be something existing in fact." Wheeler v. Newton, (1915) 168 App. Div. 782, 154 N. Y. S. 431.

Actual knowledge of officer of creditor bank in time to permit of participation in the proceedings in time to prove the claim, is sufficient. Wrightsville Bank v. Four Seasons, (Ga. App. 1917) 94 S. E. 649.

Knowledge of bankruptcy proceedings.—The fact that one's debtor has gone into bankruptcy is not notice or knowledge of "the proceedings in bankruptcy;" it does not impose the duty upon the creditor of taking active steps. Wheeler v. Newton, (1915) 168 App. Div. 782, 154 N. Y. S. 431; Jenkins v. Levy, (1917) 167 N. Y. S. 847.

Burden of proof.—The burden of proof is upon the bankrupt to establish the fact that the debt was duly scheduled and that the creditor had actual knowledge of the proceedings in bankruptcy. Jenkins v. Levy, (1917) 167 N. Y. S. 847.

Vol. I, p. 728, sec. 17a (4).

Debt created by fraud or embezzlement.—One who has stolen or fraudulently received a sum of money cannot retain that money and schedule the claim as a debt in his own estate and then obtain a discharge in bankruptcy. In re Alpert, (E. D. N. Y. 1916) 237 Fed. 295.

Embezzlement.—A claim against the president of a corporation for money embezzled by him is not released by the discharge of such officer in bankruptcy. Floyd v. Layton, (1916) 172 N. C. 64, 89 S. E. 998.

Fiduciary capacity.—The term "fiduciary capacity" embraces technical trusts only and not implied trusts. Enosburg Falls Nat. Bank v. Bamforth, (1916) 90 Vt. 75, 96 Atl. 600.

Where goods are consigned under a contract providing that title thereto remains in the consignor, the consignee to hold the proceeds of any sale separate and a part in trust for the use and benefit of the consignor, the consignee is not acting in a fiduciary capacity within the meaning of this provision. Michelin Tire

Co. v. Hearn, (Tex. Civ. App. 1916) 188 S. W. 943.

A debt created by fraud, embezzlement, misappropriation, or defalcation, while acting in a fiduciary capacity, will not be released by a discharge in bankruptcy. Arnold v. Smith, (1917) 137 Minn. 364, 163 N. W. 672.

Factor, commission merchant, etc.—A debt due by a commission merchant is not one accruing in a fiduciary capacity and, though such a person converts the proceeds of goods sold on commission, the liability thus arising does not come within the exception in this provision. Butler-Kyser Mfg. Co. v. Mitchell, (1915) 195 Ala. 240, 70 So. 665.

Vol. I, p. 734, sec. 18a.

Irregularities in proceedings.—As to the distinction between irregularities in proceedings leading to the adjudication which are mere errors of procedure and not jurisdictional defects, see In re Sage, (E. D. Mo. 1915) 224 Fed. 525.

Petition—Sufficiency.—The sufficiency of a petition in involuntary bankruptcy in respect to the description of the claim of the petitioners is to be tested by the rules of pleading which would govern a declaration or a bill in equity in an action or suit brought to enforce such claims. Doty v. Mason, (S. D. Fla. 1917) 244 Fed. 587.

A petition has been held sufficient though it only alleges that a confession of judgment was made within an intent to prefer, without setting forth the facts and circumstances from which such intent may be inferred. In re Musgrove Min. Co., (E. D. Idaho 1916) 234 Fed. 99.

Amendment of petition.—Where a defect is easily amendable, the petition will not be dismissed without opportunity afforded the petitioners to make the required amendment. Doty v. Mason, (S. D. Fla. 1917) 244 Fed. 587.

The exercise of the jurisdiction to amend is within the sound discretion of the court, having in mind the interests of the creditors. International Silver Co. v. New York Jewelry Co., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1916) 233 Fed. 945, 147 C. C. A. 619.

The fact that an application to amend a petition is not in writing does not affect jurisdiction to act thereon where notice has been waived by express written consent to the amendment. International Silver Co. v. New York Jewelry Co., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1916) 233 Fed. 945, 147 C. C. A. 619.

In the case of In re Frank, (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1917) 239 Fed. 709, 152 C. C. A. 543, it appeared that the original petition contained positive averments (not averments on information and belief) that the acts of bankruptcy charged had been committed, and the amended petition contains the same averments. The Circuit Court of Appeals, on an appeal from an order dismissing the petition in bankruptcy, said: "The record before us does not show what the petitioners testified to during the trial, but the trial judge (who heard this testimony) evidently regarded it as a contradiction of 'the facts now sworn to, that is, the facts presented to him on the formal application to amend. He based his refusal, at least in part, on this contradiction, and as we have no means of reviewing the correctness of his statement we accept it as true. If true, the court was asked to permit the filing of an amended petition in which the petitioners swore to positive averments of fact, although they had already testified that they had no such knowledge as would justify the averments. In refusing to allow the appellants to take such a contradictory attitude, we cannot say that the court abused its discretion, and accordingly the orders appealed from are affirmed."

Verification.—While an amendment does not affirmatively appear to have been verified as required by General Order in Bankruptcy No. XI, yet where the order stated that "said amendment was made accordingly on the face of the bill," meaning, of course, the petition—it was within the power of the court to permit verification later. International Silver Co. v. New York Jewelry Co., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1916) 233 Fed. 945, 147 C. C. A. 619.

Mode of service—Defective service—Waiver.—See to same effect as original annotation, In re Continental Engine Co., (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1916) 234 Fed. 58, 148 C. C. A. 74.

Service on Sunday.—Service of subpoena and of copy of petition in an involuntary bankruptcy proceeding may be made upon a Sunday. Lamar-Wells Co. v. Hamilton Co., (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1916) 237 Fed. 54, 150 C. C. A. 256.

Dismissal of proceedings—Suit pending in state court.—The fact that a suit is pending in a state court between one of the petitioners in the bankruptcy proceedings and the indorsers on a note is not a sufficient ground for the dismissal of the proceedings. Doty v. Mason, (S. D. Fla. 1917) 244 Fed. 587.

Vol. I, p. 738, sec. 18b.

Right to appear and plead.—From the fact that the Bankruptcy Act (section 18b) makes express provision for the exercise by the bankrupt or by any creditor of a right to appear and plead to a petition for involuntary bankruptcy it does not follow that it was a purpose of the Act to withhold from the court of bankruptcy the power of permitting participation in the proceedings by other parties shown to be interested in the result of them. Jackson v. Wauchula Mfg., etc., Co., (C.

C. A. 5th Cir. 1916) 230 Fed. 409, 144 C. C. A. 409, wherein the liability to the petitioner was for a personal injury not "wilful or malicious."

Vol. I, p. 740, sec. 18c.

Amendment.—Where the certificate of the notary is a falsification that is no verification and the petition cannot be amended. In re Frank, (E. D. Pa. 1916) 23 Fed. 665.

Vol. I, p. 741, sec. 18d.

Effect of adjudication.—An adjudication, of itself, imports the existence of all the jurisdictional facts. Anderson v. Stayton State Bank, (1916) 82 Ore. 357, 159 Pac. 1033.

Exclusive jurisdiction.—"Where a valid adjudication of bankruptcy has been made by court of bankruptcy, the jurisdiction of that court to administer the property of the bankrupt is exclusive, and it cannot properly surrender its jurisdiction to any other court." In re Sage, (E. D. Mo. 1915) 224 Fed. 525.

Where a surviving partner has been adjudicated a bankrupt this carries with it the entire rights and obligations of the firm as it existed prior to the copartner's death. In re Stringer, (E. D. N. Y. 1916) 234 Fed. 454.

Effect on assignment.—If an adjudication in bankruptcy follows an assignment for the benefit of creditors it has the effect of automatically and of its own force avoiding the assignment. In re Neuberger, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 240 Fed. 947, 153 C. C. A. 633.

Vacating adjudication.—Proceedings in bankruptcy are in rem, binding all parties interested in the bankrupt's property. If a creditor desires to vacate an adjudication, and his motion is addressed to the sound discretion—that is, the judicial discretion—of the judge, it is incumbent upon him to show that the vacation of the adjudication would result in benefit to him; i. e., that on trial of the issue tendered the result would probably be favorable to his contention. Abbott v. Wauchula Mfg., etc., Co., (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1917) 240 Fed. 938, 153 C. C. A. 624.

In a voluntary proceeding, where an adjudication in bankruptcy immediately follows the filing of a petition good on its face, without opportunity to any interested person to question the allegations of the petitioner, it seems to be entirely settled that allegations as to residence, domicile, and principal place of business are jurisdictional matters, and a petition to vacate upon the ground that the court obtained no jurisdiction of the subject-matter, if these facts are not as alleged, is the correct practice. In re San An- tonio Land, etc., Co., (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 228 Fed. 984.

Jurisdictional grounds.—Where the petition is in due form and is properly verified, and avers all the jurisdictional and other facts essential to entitle the petitioner to have an order entered adjudicating it bankrupt, after the adjudication has been made, any party who has the requisite interest in the proceedings may move to vacate the adjudication upon jurisdictional grounds. In re Hargadine-McKittrick Dry Goods Co., (E. D. Mo. 1917) 239 Fed. 155.

Vol. I, p. 746, sec. 18g.

Simultaneous pendency of voluntary and involuntary proceedings.—While the mere pendency of the involuntary petition does not take away jurisdiction to entertain the voluntary petition and to adjudicate thereunder, the duty arises to choose the course for the best interests of creditors. In many cases such interests are best subserved by adjudicating upon a voluntary petition, thus saving delay, litigation and expense in procuring an adjudication; but notice of the filing of the voluntary petition should be given to the petitioning creditors, and opportunity thus afforded to determine the course most likely to conserve the interests of the estate. The fact, however, that adjudication was made under the voluntary petition did not preclude jurisdiction to protect the rights of creditors under the involuntary petition. International Silver Co. v. New York Jewelry Co., (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 233 Fed. 945, 147 C. C. A. 619. See also In re Continental Coal Corp., (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 238 Fed. 113, 151 C. C. A. 189.

Vol. I, p. 748, sec. 19a.

Right to trial by jury.—In an action at law to recover alleged preferential cash payments, the defendant has a right to have the suit tried by jury, and unless such right has been either expressly or impliedly waived a reference to the master is unauthorized. Wm. Edwards Co. v. La Dow, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1916) 230 Fed. 378, 144 C. C. A. 520.

Where the distribution of the fund is the only issue before the court, there is no question, under the Bankruptcy Act or other law, to be submitted to a jury for determination. In re Gibbons, (W. D. Wash. 1915) 225 Fed. 420.

Waiver of right to jury trial—Failure to demand.—"It is the general and well-settled rule that parties are presumed to have waived a jury, even in the absence of written stipulation, whenever it appears that they were present at the trial in person or by counsel and made no demand for a jury." Wm. Edwards Co. v.

La Dow, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1916) 230 Fed. 378, 144 C. C. A. 520.

Where a bankrupt answered petitions against him denying both insolvency and acts of bankruptcy, but did not ask for a jury trial and an order was immediately entered directing the referee to hear the issues as special master, it was held that the refusal of a separate demand filed on the next court day but one was not an abuse of discretion. In re Wester, (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 465, 155 C. C. A. 241.

Vol. I, p. 751, sec. 21a.

Right of examination.—It is now settled by the Supreme Court, notwithstanding many decisions in the lower courts to the contrary, that the moment a petition in bankruptcy is filed, whether voluntary or involuntary, and a receiver appointed, the administration of the estate has begun, and an order may be granted under section 21a for the examination of the bankrupt or any designated witness or witnesses. In re Emigh, (N. D. N. Y. 1917) 243 Fed. 988.

Scope of examination—Issue of solvency.—“It would be a perversion of the purpose of section 21a to exercise the power it confers to obtain evidence for use on the trial of the issue of solvency or insolvency. Section 3b contains the provision applicable to the examination of the alleged bankrupt with reference to that issue. Rawlins v. Hall-Epps Clothing Co., 217 Fed. 884, 133 C. C. A. 594; Cameron v. United States, 231 U. S. 710, 34 Sup. Ct. 244, 58 L. ed. 448. By the terms of the last-mentioned provision the only effect given to the alleged bankrupt's failure to attend and submit to the examination provided for is that ‘the burden of proving his solvency shall rest upon him.’” Abbott v. Wauchula Mfg., etc., Co., (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1916) 229 Fed. 677, 144 C. C. A. 87.

Conduct of examination—Competency of wife.—The competency of a wife to testify against her husband in a civil proceeding under this Act, is determined by state law. In re Kessler, (E. D. Pa. 1915) 225 Fed. 394.

Books and papers.—Where a state law gives to a private banker the right to apply within a certain number of days for a restitution of possession of papers and books seized by the state banking department, the privilege thus conferred must be asserted or it is lost and it has been held that the court will not direct the state district attorney to deliver such papers and books to the receiver in bankruptcy. In re Mandel, (S. D. N. Y. 1915) 224 Fed. 643.

Vol. I, p. 757, sec. 21e.

Force of order.—A certified copy of an order showing approval of the trustee's bond is under this section conclusive evidence of the vesting in him of title to the property of the bankrupt. Anderson v. Stayton State Bank, (1916) 82 Ore. 357, 159 Pac. 1033.

Vol. I, p. 757, sec. 21f.

Certified copy of order as evidence.—In a suit against the bankrupt, subsequent to his discharge, upon a debt existing at the time of the filing of the petition, the production of a certified copy of the order of discharge makes a prima facie defense, and the burden is cast upon the plaintiff to show that his debt came within the exceptions. Claffin v. Wolff, (1915) 88 N. J. L. 308, 96 Atl. 73.

Where a discharge in bankruptcy is pleaded as a defense to an action, and the plea is traversed, the burden is upon the defendant to prove his discharge; and, to carry this burden, he must put in evidence a certified copy of the order granting the discharge. Williams v. Millen First Nat. Bank, (Ga. 1917) 94 S. E. 73.

Vol. I, p. 759, sec. 23a.

Adverse claimants.—Where facts are undisputed, and only a question of law is involved, and the question of law is debatable, the person resisting is not an adverse claimant. Alco Film Corp. v. Alco Film Service, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 234 Fed. 55, 148 C. C. A. 71.

Jurisdiction of state court.—This section does not have the effect of depriving a state court of jurisdiction of a suit brought by a third party claiming title, and right of possession of property, though the trustee claims that the property in his actual possession as trustee, as an asset of the estate where it appears that the Bankruptcy Court never by summary process, or any kind of process, took actual possession of the property, and never by writ or otherwise authorized the trustee to do so, and never claimed possession of it as an asset of the estate. Peters v. Bowers, (1916) 61 Colo. 534, 158 Pac. 1101.

I. JURISDICTION OF ADVERSE CLAIMS (p. 761)

Bona fide adverse claims.—“Claims made after petition filed, but arising before that time, constitute adverse claims, when the fund is in possession of one who makes no adverse claim." In re Inter-ocean Transp. Co., (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 232 Fed. 408.

Jurisdiction—Rule stated.—"We understand the rule in all such cases to be that if a real adverse claim exists, as distinguished from one which is merely colorable, the claimant cannot be compelled against his will to try the issue in the court of bankruptcy. Whether the claim is real or colorable does not depend upon whether it turns upon a question of fact or upon a question of law. Does the claim rest upon mere pretense of fact or of law? Is it put forward in good faith, and in that sense is it real? Or is it put forward in bad faith, and therefore unreal? If there is a real question either of law or of fact, the claimant need not submit it to the court of bankruptcy, unless he consents to do so; but the trustee must institute his independent action in a court having jurisdiction of the subject-matter and have the claim regularly adjudicated, as the bankrupt himself must have done, had bankruptcy proceedings not been pending." In re Midtown Contracting Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 243 Fed. 56, 155 C. C. A. 586.

Adverse claimant.—A petitioning creditor who after adjudication has received money the title to which has already passed by operation of law to the trustee has been held not to be an adverse claimant. In re Ward, (N. D. Cal. 1917) 242 Fed. 999.

II. JURISDICTION AS AFFECTED BY POSSESSION (p. 765)

Possession of property gives jurisdiction thereover.—See to same effect as original annotation, In re Cobb's Consol. Cas. (D. C. Mass. 1916) 233 Fed. 458; In re Dialogue, (D. C. N. J. 1916) 241 Fed. 290.

"It is well settled that the general rule, that possession of the res vests the court which has first acquired jurisdiction with power to hear and determine all conveyances relating thereto, and for the time being disables other courts of co-ordinate jurisdiction from exercising a like power, and from interfering with the former court, is applicable to courts of bankruptcy." In re Schmidt, (D. C. N. J. 1915) 224 Fed. 814.

"A Bankruptcy Court has no authority or jurisdiction, in the absence of lawful possession of the property by its officers, to draw to itself and determine in a summary proceeding the adverse claim of one claiming for his own benefit a lien upon or title to property of the bankrupt which was created, or is claimed to have been created, otherwise than by the legal proceeding specified in sections 67c, 67f, prior to the filing of the petition in bankruptcy." American Trust, etc., Bank v. Ruppe, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 237 Fed. 581.

Possession through agreement.—The fact that control of property after it had been relinquished by the trustee under a decree of court was only regained through agreement of the party into whose possession the property had been surrendered, does not impair the jurisdiction of the court to determine the ownership thereof. In re Traunstein, (D. C. Mass. 1915) 225 Fed. 317.

III. JURISDICTION BY CONSENT (p. 767)

Effect of consent.—See to same effect as original annotation, Jones v. Blair, (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 783, 155 C. C. A. 371.

IV. RECOVERY OF PREFERENTIAL AND FRAUDULENT TRANSFERS (p. 769)

Jurisdiction to recover property fraudulently or preferentially transferred.—See to same effect as original annotation, Winslow v. Staab, (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 233 Fed. 305.

Suit against transferee of property.—In a case where a creditor of the bankrupt accepted goods in payment of some of the indebtedness to him the court said: "His claim of right to such goods is of substance, and not a mere fictitious or colorable one. The question whether he obtained a preference in such transaction or whether it was tainted with fraud are not pertinent upon the issue whether such creditor is an adverse claimant. The referee had jurisdiction to issue the rule to show cause, there being sufficient in the affidavits upon which such rule was based to justify the inquiry; but as soon as it developed that a transfer of property from the bankrupts to one of their creditors had been made, to discharge some of their indebtedness to him, and that such creditor refused his consent to the referee's inquiring into the legality of such transaction in a summary way, it was the duty of the referee to stay such proceedings and remit the trustee to a plenary suit under section 23b of the Bankruptcy Act. . . . As such creditor never consented to such summary jurisdiction, but always protested against it, the order under review is reversed, and the cause remanded, that proceedings plenary in their nature may be instituted, if the same be deemed advisable." In re Vallozza, (D. C. N. J. 1915) 225 Fed. 334.

V. SUMMARY AND PLENARY JURISDICTION (p. 770)

General principles controlling jurisdiction.—Supplementing the original note, see In re Flanagan, (E. D. Pa. 1915) 228 Fed. 339.

Shea, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1915) 225 Fed. 358, 140 C. C. A. 382.

"The District Court sitting in bankruptcy has jurisdiction to draw to itself and to determine by summary proceedings after reasonable notice to the claimants all controversies between the trustee and adverse claimants over liens upon and the title and possession of (1) property in the possession of the bankrupt when the petition in bankruptcy is filed, (2) property held by third parties for him, (3) property lawfully seized by the marshal as the bankrupt's under clause 3 of section 2 of the Bankruptcy Law, and (4) property claimed by the trustee which has been lawfully reduced to actual possession by the officers of the court." Darrough v. Claremore First Nat. Bank, (Okla. 1916) 156 Pac. 191.

Jurisdiction in summary proceedings, being of statutory authority, and based upon necessity to prevent threatened loss to the rightful owners of property, or defiant disobedience to the orders and decrees of courts, should not be enlarged by construction or implication. In re Cox-Rackley Co., (E. D. N. C. 1917) 245 Fed. 367.

Possession as requisite to summary jurisdiction.—The summary jurisdiction of the court can be sustained only when the Bankruptcy Court, through the acts of its officers, such as referees, receivers, or trustees, has taken possession of the res as the property of the bankrupt. In re Schmick Handle, etc., Co., (D. C. Me. 1916) 233 Fed. 446.

Where the claimant has submitted to the jurisdiction of the court, and has placed the funds in the hands of the officers of the court, summary process is the proper method to determine the final ownership of the fund. In re Schmick Handle, etc., Co., (D. C. Me. 1916) 233 Fed. 446.

Where book accounts have been assigned to a creditor prior to bankruptcy and collections have been made thereon, the assignee's possession prevented such collections from becoming a part of the res which passed into custodia legis with the filing of the petition in bankruptcy and in the absence of consent or waiver these collections cannot be recovered by summary action in proceedings before a referee. But as to uncollected accounts it has been held that the referee has jurisdiction to summarily determine the right thereto. In re Gottlieb, (D. C. N. J. 1917) 245 Fed. 139.

Bona fide adverse claim.—A federal court may not in summary proceedings determine the sufficiency of a truly adverse claim, but the court has granted similar relief where the claim, made by the possessor of the property, after fraudulent transfer, is founded upon patent and flagrant fraud. In re Resnek, (S. D. N. Y. 1917) 246 Fed. 879.

"The courts have held in numerous cases that a stranger to the proceedings in bankruptcy, who sets up an adverse title to property which is claimed by the trustee as assets of the bankrupt, cannot be compelled to submit his claim to adjudication in a summary proceeding in the court of bankruptcy provided his claim is made with the apparent intention of defending it in good faith and is not merely colorable, but is entitled to be heard in a plenary suit." In re Midtown Contracting Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 243 Fed. 56, 155 C. C. A. 586.

The title to property in the possession of a third party under a claim adverse to that of the bankrupt estate cannot be asserted in summary proceedings. In re Flanigan, (E. D. Pa. 1915) 228 Fed. 339.

Effect of failure to object to jurisdiction.—Acquiescence in summary proceedings may operate as a waiver of the right to object. In re Hopkins, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 229 Fed. 378, 143 C. C. A. 498.

Necessity of plenary action.—See to same effect as original annotation, Courtney v. Shea, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1915) 225 Fed. 358, 140 C. C. A. 382. In re McCracken, (S. D. Cal. 1916) 234 Fed. 776; In re Vocks, (W. D. Ky. 1917) 242 Fed. 963.

Effect of amendments of 1903 and 1910.—The jurisdiction of a plenary suit by a trustee to recover a debt due from the bankrupt's estate as it stood before the amendments of 1903 and 1910 has been unaffected by those amendments. De Friece v. Bryant, (E. D. Ky. 1916) 232 Fed. 233.

Suit against adverse claimant.—A federal court has no jurisdiction of plenary suit by the trustee in bankruptcy against an adverse claimant, save as provided in section 23b. De Friece v. Bryant (E. D. Ky. 1916) 232 Fed. 233.

Suit against stockholder.—A proceeding as against the individual stockholder upon his refusal to pay his delinquent subscription is not a mere proceeding in bankruptcy for the collection of the assets of the estate, but a suit plenary in its nature and subject to all the limitations expressed in section 23b of the Bankruptcy Act. Kelley v. Aarons, (S. D. Cal. 1917) 238 Fed. 996.

Action for concealment or conversion by bankrupt and agents.—See Jones v. Blair, (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 783, 155 C. C. A. 371; Jones v. Blair, (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 783, 155 C. C. A. 371.

Application of General Order XXXVII.—General Order XXXVII applies only to equity proceedings, properly so called, and not to summary proceedings in bankruptcy. Even in summary proceedings the court allows the respondent full opportunity for hearing and defense, but it is not limited by the technical rules. In re Cunney, (D. C. Mass. 1904) 225 Fed. 426.

VI. JURISDICTION OF STATE COURTS (p. 772)

Failure or refusal to assert jurisdiction.—Where it appears that the federal court has not only failed to assert exclusive jurisdiction, but also that it has refused to assert or claim it, the state court before which a general creditor's bill is pending not only may, but should proceed to a determination of the questions before it. Morgan v. Dayton Coal, etc., Co., Tenn. (1916) 134 Tenn. 228, 183 S. W. 1019, Ann. Cas. 1917E 42.

Property in lawful possession of state court.—Where the debtor's property is in the hands of receivers appointed by a state court and its assets are being administered satisfactory to a large majority of the creditors, a petition by a small minority to have the debtor adjudged a bankrupt will be dismissed, it also appearing that bankruptcy proceedings would enure only to the detriment of the creditors generally. In re McKinnon Co., (E. D. N. C. 1916) 237 Fed. 869.

The court which first assumed control and had jurisdiction of the property or fund may retain it all for the purpose of a final order or decree where the rights of the parties urging claims that conflict with one another on the same property or fund would be the same whether presented in the state court or in Bankruptcy Court. Pietri v. Wells, (1915) 137 La. 1087, 68 So. 847.

Vol. I, p. 774, sec. 24a.

II. Controversies arising in bankruptcy proceedings.

V. Bankruptcy courts not within organized circuit.

II. CONTROVERSIES ARISING IN BANKRUPTCY PROCEEDINGS (p. 776)

In general—Intervention.—An intervention in bankruptcy proceedings where claimants assert liens against particular funds has been held to give rise to a controversy in bankruptcy proceedings within the meaning of this section. Emerson v. Castor, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1916) 236 Fed. 29, 149 C. C. A. 239.

The appearance of the mortgagees in response to notice of the petition of the mortgagor's trustee in bankruptcy for the marshaling of assets, the sale of the encumbered property, and the application of the proceeds to the payment of all liens thereon, and their assertion of their conflicting rights under their respective mortgages, and their attempt to have them enforced against the proceeds, has been held to be the equivalent of an affirmative intervention, and when taken in connection with the trustees' petition, brought into the bankruptcy proceedings a "controversy," over which the Circuit Court of appeals was vested, by the Bankrupt Act of July 1, 1898, (30 Stat. at L. 544, chap. 541) § 24, with the same appellate jurisdiction which, under the Judicial Code, § 128, it possesses in other cases. Moody v. Century Sav. Bank, (1915) 239 U. S. 374, 36 S. Ct. 111, 60 U. S. (L. ed.) 336.

Dismissal of petition made by trustee.

—Where the issues made in the petition and return were (1) the title of the trustee to certain assets claimed by him to be in existence as part of the bankrupt estate, which the bankrupts claimed should not have embraced in their schedules, and which, they joined their agents in saying, were either not assets at all, or were assets belonging to their agents; and (2) an accounting by the bankrupts and their agents for the proceeds of cotton and other property disposed of, it was said that the questions were not solely between the bankrupts or the trustee and their creditors, but between the trustee and the bankrupts, and also the bankrupts' agents, and it was clearly a "controversy arising in bankruptcy proceedings," as distinguished from a "proceeding in bankruptcy," and therefore is properly here by appeal under section 24a, rather than by petition to superintend and revise under section 24b. Jones v. Blair, (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 783, 155 C. C. A. 371.

Jurisdictional amount.—The jurisdiction given by this section is not in terms affected by the amount involved. Emerson v. Castor, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1916) 236 Fed. 29, 149 C. C. A. 239.

Mode of appeal.—Where there is a doubt as to the correct procedure for obtaining a review of an order both the methods provided by sections 24a and 24b may be resorted to in which case the court must determine which of the two it is authorized to entertain. In re Creech Bros. Lumber Co., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 240 Fed. 8, 153 C. C. A. 44.

Decisions held appealable.—A decree directing the payment to the trustee of the proceeds of the sale of a stock of goods on which a creditor, a bank, claimed a lien. Scandinavian-American Bank v. Sabin, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 227 Fed. 579, 142 C. C. A. 211.

A controversy as to the ownership of a fund claimed by the trustee and the appellee. Wuerpel v. Commercial Germania Trust, etc., Bank, (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1917) 238 Fed. 269, 151 C. C. A. 285.

An order allowing a claim as a preferred claim. In re Creech Bros. Lumber Co., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 240 Fed. 8, 153 C. C. A. 44.

Decisions held not appealable.—An order made ostensibly in a bankruptcy proceeding, allowing counsel fees. In re

Jacobson, (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1917) 239 Fed. 79, 152 C. C. A. 129.

An order relating to a claim secured by a lien on the assets of the bankrupt. In re Monarch Acetylene Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 245 Fed. 741, 158 C. C. A. 143.

V. BANKRUPTCY COURTS NOT WITHIN ORGANIZED CIRCUIT (p. 790)

"From the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia."—Proceedings resulting in a decree adjudging a person not to be a bankrupt are but steps in a bankruptcy proceeding. They are not controversies arising in those proceedings, within the meaning of this provision, confining the appellate jurisdiction of the federal Supreme Court over the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia in bankruptcy proceedings to controversies arising in such proceedings. Swift v. Hoover, (1916) 242 U. S. 107, 37 S. Ct. 56, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 175, overruling Audubon v. Shufeldt, (1901) 181 U. S. 575, 21 S. Ct. 735, 45 U. S. (L. ed.) 1009.

Vol. I, p. 791, sec. 24b.

Appeal or petition to revise as exclusive or optional right.—See to same effect as original annotation, In re Creech Bros. Lumber Co., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 240 Fed. 8, 153 C. C. A. 44.

It is now the settled law of this circuit that the remedies by appeal and petition to revise are mutually exclusive. Henkin v. Fousek, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 285, 159 C. C. A. 15.

Where there is a doubt as to the correct procedure for obtaining a review of an order both the methods provided by sections 24a and 24b may be resorted to, in which case the court must determine which of the two it is authorized to entertain. In re Creech Bros. Lumber Co., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 240 Fed. 8, 153 C. C. A. 44.

Appeal united with petition.—Resort may be had to both appeal and petition to bring up for review rulings complained of, in order to avoid a mistake in remedy. Chavalle v. Washington Trust Co., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1915) 226 Fed. 400, 141 C. C. A. 230.

Time for filing petition.—A petition to revise must be taken within ten days after the original order was entered. In re John M. Linck Constr. Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1915) 225 Fed. 488, 140 C. C. A. 18.

A petition to revise an order making an allowance to the trustee's attorney must be taken within ten days after the order was entered. In re John M. Linck Constr. Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1915) 225 Fed. 488, 140 C. C. A. 18.

The petition to revise will be dismissed where it is not brought within ten days after entry of the order sought to be reviewed as prescribed by equity rule 38. In re Vanoscope Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 233 Fed. 53, 147 C. C. A. 123.

When no rule of court prescribes time.—There are no terms in bankruptcy, and no provision in the statute limiting the time within which an order of the referee may be reviewed or an order of the District Court reheard, and where there is no rule of court a proceeding to revise will not be regarded as too late. In re Barker Piano Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 233 Fed. 522, 147 C. C. A. 408.

Matter of law.—A proceeding which may be revised in matters of law means some formal exercise of judicial power affecting asserted rights of a party. In re Berthoud, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 238 Fed. 797, 151 C. C. A. 647.

Only questions of law can be considered. Hall v. Reynolds, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1915) 224 Fed. 103, 139 C. C. A. 659; Henkin v. Fousek, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 285, 159 C. C. A. 15; In re Nankin, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 811, 159 C. C. A. 113.

And the court is limited to a consideration of the question of law arising out of the facts found or conceded. Kinhead v. Bacon, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1916) 230 Fed. 362, 144 C. C. A. 504.

And where a case involves a consideration and finding of facts it must be disposed of on appeal and not by petition to revise. Henderson v. Morse, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 235 Fed. 518, 149 C. C. A. 64.

Reviewing testimony.—On a petition to revise the court is neither required nor permitted to review the testimony. Olmsted-Stevenson Co. v. Miller, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 231 Fed. 69, 145 C. C. A. 257. See also Olmsted-Stevenson Co. v. Langsdorf, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 231 Fed. 76, 145 C. C. A. 264; Wm. R. Moore Dry Goods Co. v. Brooks, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1917) 240 Fed. 943, 153 C. C. A. 629.

Sufficiency of evidence.—A review of all controverted and uncontroverted facts to determine whether there is any substantial evidence to sustain the order, is a review as to a matter of law within the provisions of section 24b of the Bankruptcy Act, is well settled. In re Kuhn, (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1916) 234 Fed. 277, 148 C. C. A. 179.

Questions and orders reviewable or not reviewable on petition.—Finality of order necessary.—"There must be a certain degree of finality about these administrative orders before they can be reviewed; if every order were reviewable, proceedings could easily be so tied up and prolonged that the situation would become intolerable. But where a fairly separable subject has been finally disposed of, so that rights have been definitely determined, and practically nothing remains to be done in that respect, such a subject is ready for review." In re Pechin, (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1915) 227 Fed. 853, 142 C. C. A. 377.

An order of the District Court refusing to allow a specification of objection to discharge to be filed or to be amended has sufficient finality to permit of its being reviewed. In re Pechin, (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1915) 227 Fed. 853, 142 C. C. A. 377.

Order setting aside discharge.—An order setting aside a discharge is not one denying a discharge within the meaning of section 25a(2), and the appropriate remedy is one to superintend and revise in matter of law under section 24b. In re Jacobs, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 241 Fed. 620, 154 C. C. A. 378.

Order as to intervention.—An order of the Bankruptcy Court, granting or refusing to grant leave to a party to intervene for the purpose of contesting the grounds upon which an adjudication in an involuntary bankruptcy proceeding is sought, may be reviewed on a petition to revise. Ogden v. Gilt Edge Consol. Mines Co., (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1915) 225 Fed. 723, 140 C. C. A. 597.

Review of order denying motion to vacate adjudication.—There is some question as to whether the review of an order denying a motion to vacate an adjudication in bankruptcy should be by appeal or by petition to revise; but the weight of authority seems to support the proposition that the review is by petition to revise. In re Vanoscope Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 233 Fed. 53, 147 C. C. A. 123.

As an order denying the application of a creditor to have the judgment of the court adjudicating the debtor a bankrupt vacated and set aside is not appealable, it seems that as to matters of law it may be reviewed by a petition to revise. Hart-Parr Co. v. Barkley, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 231 Fed. 913, 146 C. C. A. 109.

Order setting aside discharge.—In the case of an order setting aside a discharge the proper remedy is one to superintend and revise in matter of law where the creditor objects to a consideration of any of the facts and relies solely on questions of law. In re Jacobs, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 241 Fed. 620, 154 C. C. A. 378.

An order fixing the compensation of a referee involves a "proceeding in bankruptcy" and is reviewable under this section. Kinhead v. Bacon, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1916) 230 Fed. 362, 144 C. C. A. 504.

Order in omnibus proceeding.—A petition to revise is the proper remedy to review an order in an omnibus proceeding, begun to determine the rights of various claimants to property in the hands of a receiver. In re Pierson, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 233 Fed. 519, 147 C. C. A. 405.

An order requiring a bankrupt to turn over a specified amount of money to the trustee in bankruptcy is a step in bankruptcy proceedings reviewable by petition to revise under section 24b. In re Shidlovsky, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1915) 224 Fed. 450, 140 C. C. A. 654.

Injunction order.—Where the merits of a claim, the prosecution of an action for which has been enjoined, have not been decided, it has been decided that a petition to revise the injunction order and not appeal, is the proper remedy. Orinoco Iron Co. v. Metzel, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1916) 230 Fed. 40, 144 C. C. A. 338.

Allowance of counsel fees.—This section provides the applicable mode of review of an order denying an allowance for counsel fees for services rendered in resisting a confirmation of a composition. In re Kinane Co., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 769, 155 C. C. A. 357.

Where the only questions involved were questions of fact as to whether an allowance to attorneys was a reasonable compensation for the services rendered by them and whether the allowance should be apportioned by the court it was held that there were no questions of law for the court to revise. Hall v. Reynolds, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1915) 224 Fed. 103, 139 C. C. A. 659.

Establishment of lien.—A proceeding in bankruptcy to establish a lien is reviewable by petition to superintend and revise and it is proper to dismiss an appeal. J. M. Radford Grocery Co. v. Powell, (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1915) 228 Fed. 1, 142 C. C. A. 457.

Decree of state court.—A petition to revise is the proper mode to call in question a decree of a state court directing the receiver to surrender possession of the assets after deducting a sum allowed as compensation to the receiver and his attorney. State v. Angle, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 236 Fed. 644, 149 C. C. A. 640.

Disputed questions of fact.—The court cannot determine any conflicting inferences of fact on a petition to revise an order postponing the claims of the petitioners. In re Bean, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1916) 230 Fed. 405, 144 C. C. A. 547.

Security for costs on petition to review.—For writs of error at common law, also for the ordinary appeals in equity, the statutes of the United States, or the rules of the courts, make provisions for security for costs on allowance of the citation, or subsequent thereto, but there is said to be no statute, or rule, or any settled practice, giving a right to a respondent or appellee to apply for security for costs on a petition to review matters of law in bankruptcy proceedings. In re Vidal, (C. C. A. 1st Cir. 1915) 230 Fed. 603, 145 C. C. A. 13.

Vol. I, p. 812, sec. 25a.

Cases appealable in bankruptcy.—The only cases in which an appeal can be taken in bankruptcy proceedings are those mentioned in section 25a of the Bankruptcy Act. Ogden v. Gilt Edge Consol. Mines

Co., (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1915) 225 Fed. 723, 140 C. C. A. 597.

The claim of a petitioner being for unreturned goods sold on credit has been held to constitute a controversy arising in bankruptcy proceedings, which is appealable under section 25a, and not reviewable under section 24b. Howard D. Thomas Co. v. Beharrell, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 229 Fed. 691, 144 C. C. A. 101.

Where it appeared that the appellant recognized the title to and possession of a fund in the trustee for administration under the orders of the Bankruptcy Court, and asserted its right to have it so administered or distributed as to recognize its equitable title to the fund it was held that this constituted a proceeding in bankruptcy, as distinguished from a controversy arising in bankruptcy proceedings, within the meaning of sections 25(a) and 24(a), respectively, and as such proceeding it was subject to the provisions of section 25 (a), and should have been appealed if at all, in accordance with its provisions. Barton Lumber, etc., Co. v. Prewitt, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 231 Fed. 919, 146 C. C. A. 115.

Conditional order.—An order which is conditional is not appealable. In re Sutter Hotel Co., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1915) 241 Fed. 367, 154 C. C. A. 247.

The dismissal of a rule to compel the conveyance of real estate to the highest bidder has been held to be a step in a bankruptcy proceeding from which no appeal lies. Untereiner v. Camors, (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1916) 228 Fed. 890, 143 C. C. A. 288.

Time for taking appeal.—Where the petition for an appeal, accompanied by an assignment of errors, was filed in the District Court within ten days from the date of the decree, and was promptly presented to a judge having authority to allow the appeal it was held that this was a presentation to the court which made the decree, of the application for an appeal within the time allowed by the statute; and the order allowing the appeal, which was made on the third day after such presentation, had relation back to the date of the application therefor. Robertson Banking Co. v. Chamberlain, (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1916) 228 Fed. 500, 143 C. C. A. 82.

Questions of fact.—In equity cases, under the new rules, appeals present the controversy for determination de novo as under the old rules; but where the trial judge has heard the testimony in open court, his finding of fact should not be disturbed, unless the record very clearly discloses either a misapprehension of the testimony or a mistaken application of the law. In re Kaplan, (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1916) 234 Fed. 866, 148 C. C. A. 464.

Where the trial judge has found as a fact that the debtor was then in a bankrupt condition, within the statutory definition, that finding cannot be reviewed in the absence of the evidence on which it was based. Abele v. Beacon Trust Co., (1917) 228 Mass. 438, 117 N. E. 833.

The court on appeal should not reverse the finding of the trial court upon a pure question of fact, where the evidence justifies the finding, even if the Appellate Court might have reached a different conclusion upon the evidence. Brookheim v. Greenbaum, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1915) 225 Fed. 763, 141 C. C. A. 89.

Findings of referee or master.—"The findings of fact by the master and affirmed by the court are presumptively correct and will be upheld on appeal, if supported by substantial evidence, or unless a clear mistake is shown." Sheinberg v. Hoffman, (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1916) 236 Fed. 343, 149 C. C. A. 475.

Record on appeal.—Under order No. 36 of the General Orders in Bankruptcy, the Circuit Court of Appeals cannot review or reverse the order of the District Court without having before it the testimony or record upon which that court acted. In re Murphy, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 229 Fed. 988, 144 C. C. A. 270.

Dismissal of appeal.—Decree appealed from not final or conclusive.—An appeal from a decree dismissing complainant's claim for a part of the demand set forth in the bill has been dismissed where it is apparent that the decree appealed from does not dispose of the whole case, and it is at least doubtful whether the decree complained of is even final and conclusive in the court below, under the general rule that orders and decrees in chancery may be altered, revised, or revoked during the term at which they were passed, or while the cause remains open for further proceedings. Wuerpel v. Canal-Louisiana Bank, etc., Co., (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1916) 231 Fed. 934, 146 C. C. A. 130.

Time for taking appeal.—The jurisdiction of the court to entertain an appeal from an adjudication in bankruptcy can only be acquired when the appeal is properly taken within the time prescribed by the statute. Rhame v. Southern Cotton Oil Co., (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1915) 230 Fed. 403, 144 C. C. A. 545.

Vol. I, p. 824, sec. 25a (1).

Record on appeal.—Under order No. 36 of the General Orders in Bankruptcy the Circuit Court of Appeals cannot review or reverse an order of the District Court denying adjudication and dismissing the petition without having before it the testimony or record upon which that court acted. In re Murphy, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 229 Fed. 988, 144 C. C. A. 270.

Vol. I, p. 826, sec. 25a (2).

Order setting aside a discharge.—An order setting aside a discharge is not one denying a discharge within the meaning of section 25a(2) and the appropriate remedy is one to superintend and revise in matter of law under section 24b. In re Jacobs, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 241 Fed. 620, 154 C. C. A. 378.

An order granting leave to amend specifications of objection to a petition for a discharge does not possess the degree of finality required to permit of its being reviewed. In re Pechin, (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1915) 227 Fed. 853, 142 C. C. A. 377.

Vol. I, p. 826, sec. 25a (3). [From allowance or rejection of claim.]

An order allowing a claim as a preferred claim, in excess of the jurisdictional amount which is objected to on the ground that the claim is not a preferred one is appealable under this section. In re Creech Bros. Lumber Co., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 240 Fed. 8, 153 C. C. A. 44.

Claim adverse to title of trustee.—Where the claim asserted by the petitioner is adverse to the title of the trustee, the petition to superintend and revise should be dismissed as appeal is the proper remedy. American Piano Co. v. Heazel, (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1917) 240 Fed. 410, 153 C. C. A. 336.

Vol. I, p. 829, sec. 25a (3). [Time for taking appeal—hearing.]

Judgment "rendered."—Where the date September 15, 1915, appeared at the end of the order, or judgment, of the District Court, in connection with the signature of the judge; but the filing date and the signature of the court clerk were shown at the commencement of the judgment under the date September 16th, it was held that the filing date rather than the other date, there shown indicated the time of rendition of the judgment in accordance with both the appearance docket and the journal of the court. Paris First Nat. Bank v. Yerkes, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1916) 238 Fed. 278, 151 C. C. A. 294.

Time for appeal.—If the appeal is not taken within the time fixed by statute, the right to take it is lost. In re Stafford, (D. C. Conn. 1917) 240 Fed. 155.

And when the time for taking an appeal has expired, it cannot be arrested or called back by a simple order of court. In re Stafford, (D. C. Conn. 1917) 240 Fed. 155.

In Barton Lumber, etc., Co. v. Prewitt, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 231 Fed. 919, 146 C. C. A. 115, it was held that because the amount involved was not five hundred dollars, or over, and because the appeal was not taken within ten days after the judgment appealed from was rendered, the appeal was improvidently allowed, and, on the authority of Coder v. Arta, (1909) 213 U. S. 223, 29 S. Ct. 436, 59 U. S. (L. ed.) 772, must be dismissed.

Order confirming composition.—Such an order is governed by this provision and a failure to appeal within the time specified is fatal to the right. In re Brookstone Mfg. Co., (C. C. A. 1st Cir. 1917) 239 Fed. 697, 152 C. C. A. 531.

The granting of a rehearing operates to extend the time of the taking effect of an order and therefore of the time of taking an appeal which is computed from the date the order is finally disposed of. Todd v. Alden, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1917) 245 Fed. 462, 157 C. C. A. 624.

An order relating to a claim secured by a lien on the assets of the bankrupt is a proceeding in bankruptcy and, as such, an appeal therefrom must be taken within ten days. In re Monarch Acetylene Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 245 Fed. 741, 158 C. C. A. 143.

Vol. I, p. 833, sec. 25b.

Decision under former section 25b—Appeal to Supreme Court.—A decision of a Circuit Court of Appeals that a claim against a bankrupt estate for damages growing out of the anticipatory breach of an executory contract, while allowable as a provable debt for the term during which that court thought that the contract was mutually obligatory, should not be allowed beyond that period, was not reviewable in the federal Supreme Court under the Bankrupt Act of July 1, 1898 (30 Stat. at L. 553, ch. 541), § 25b-1, as presenting a federal question which would sustain a writ of error to a state court. Central Trust Co. v. Chicago Auditorium Ass'n, (1916) 240 U. S. 581, 36 S. Ct. 412, 60 U. S. (L. ed.) 811, L. R. A. 1917B 580.

Vol. I, p. 843, sec. 27a.

A compromise for an amount much less than the value of the property was not approved, where a receiver claimed title to personal property listed in the bankrupt's schedules and the evidence was such as to prima facie throw on the claimant the burden of proving his title which was not satisfactorily done. In re Stier March Contracting Co., (E. D. Pa. 1916) 245 Fed. 223.

Vol. I, p. 844, sec. 29b (1).

Concealment of assets—Elimination of offense.—"To constitute the punishable offense of having knowingly and fraudulently concealed while a bankrupt from his trustee property belonging to his estate in bankruptcy, such concealment must have been by the bankrupt after the filing of a petition against him, while a bankrupt, or after his discharge, and the property must have been concealed from the trustee, and such property must have belonged to the estate in bankruptcy. The concealment must be knowingly and fraudulently done. The evidence must be clear." In re Agnew, (N. D. N. Y. 1915) 225 Fed. 650.

Concealment by corporation.—Officers of a corporation may be prosecuted for concealment of the corporate property. Wolf v. U. S., (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1916) 238 Fed. 902, 152 C. C. A. 36.

Continuing concealments.—"The construction of continuous concealment has been declared by the courts principally in cases arising on applications for discharge under section 14b of the act. . . . The construction applies with equal force to concealment of property under criminal section 29b. Each section deals with the same thing, though in different ways, and with different objects. The main difference in the provisions is in the proofs required in proceeding under them, and this is the difference that always maintains between proof required in civil and criminal actions." Glass v. U. S., (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1916) 231 Fed. 65, 145 C. C. A. 253.

Omission to schedule property.—While omission of property, from a schedule may be evidence of a fraudulent intent to conceal, such omission does not in itself constitute concealment of property." Gretsch v. U. S., (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1916) 231 Fed. 57, 145 C. C. A. 245.

Criminal intent.—See to same effect as original annotation, In re Lenweaver, (N. D. N. Y. 1915) 226 Fed. 987.

Jurisdiction.—"Concealment is a positive act committed at some time or other with respect to a physical thing. It must, therefore, be done somewhere, and wherever done in violation of the statute, there and there alone has the court jurisdiction of the offense." Gretsch v. U. S., (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1916) 231 Fed. 57, 145 C. C. A. 245.

Indictment—In general.—An indictment which, after alleging that defendants expected an involuntary petition in bankruptcy to be filed against one of them and an adjudication and the appointment of trustee in bankruptcy to follow, charges a conspiracy to conceal from such trustee certain property belonging to the expected bankrupt and specifically described, and sets forth overt acts done pursuant to the conspiracy, but does not allege that such owner was a bankrupt at the time of the conspiracy, is sufficient. Friedman v. U. S., (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1916) 236 Fed. 816, 150 C. C. A. 653.

Evidence.—Where the charge against a bankrupt was that just prior to bankruptcy he had purchased goods on credit, had sold the goods so obtained and had fraudulently concealed the proceeds of such sale from his trustee in bankruptcy it was held that an objection to conversations with the defendant at the time he sold the merchandise and converted it into cash just prior to the bankruptcy was properly overruled. Green v. U. S., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 240 Fed. 949, 153 C. C. A. 635.

Vol. I, p. 849, sec. 29b (2).

False oath.—"The bankrupt is required to answer and give truthful answers so far as he answers at all, and there is an issue sufficient in law for the foundation of a charge of perjury in case the bankrupt willfully and knowingly gives false testimony regarding matters pertinent to the inquiry being made." U. S. v. Coyle, (N. D. N. Y. 1916) 229 Fed. 256.

The disposition made by the bankrupt of his property is a pertinent inquiry, when examined either before or after adjudication, and if, when examined on this subject, the bankrupt willfully and knowingly and contrary to his oath testifies falsely regarding such disposition, it must be that a charge of perjury will lie. U. S. v. Coyle, (N. D. N. Y. 1916) 229 Fed. 256.

Evidence—Admissibility of judgment roll in another action.—On the trial of a person for making false oaths in a bankruptcy proceeding the admission of a judgment roll in another action to which he was also defendant has been held proper as bearing on his motive and the reason for his testimony in the bankruptcy proceedings. Hopkins v. U. S., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 234 Fed. 867, 148 C. C. A. 465.

Indictment—Alleging false testimony.—An indictment alleging that the defendant in answer to the question whether he had since a certain date transferred any money except certain specified sums by answering in the negative made a false and untrue answer in that he had paid a specified sum to his son is not insufficient in failing to show that the attention of the bankrupt was called to the particular payment. U. S. v. Coyle, (N. D. N. Y. 1916) 229 Fed. 256.

An indictment charging conspiracy to make a false account of assets and liabilities must allege the commission of an overt act during the period of the conspiracy. U. S. v. Baker, (D. C. R. I. 1917) 243 Fed. 746.

Vol. I, p. 851, sec. 29b (4).

Conspiracy.—In the case of a conspiracy to fraudulently receive personal property from the bankrupt in violation of this provision it is not necessary in order to obtain a conviction that the property should be in the actual possession of the bankrupt where the conspiracy was formed if it appears that it belonged to him or to the estate. Knoell v. U. S., (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1917) 239 Fed. 16, 152 C. C. A. 66.

Vol. I, p. 895, sec. 31a.

Computation of time by months or years.—To the same effect as the original annotation, see In re De Lewandowski, (D. C. Mass. 1917) 243 Fed. 787.

Where the last day falls on Sunday one has until the next day in which to act. Grafton v. Meikleham, (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 737, 159 C. C. A. 39.

Vol. I, p. 895, sec. 32a.

Transfer for convenience of parties.—The question of the convenience of parties should be determined by the court in the domiciliary jurisdiction. In re New Era Novelty Co., (D. C. N. J. 1916) 241 Fed. 298.

Vol. I, p. 898, sec. 38a.

Jurisdiction.—The duties of the referee do not begin until the case has been referred to him; and his jurisdiction includes only such parts of the bankruptcy jurisdiction of the District Court as are carried by the reference. In re Weidhorn, (D. C. Mass. 1917) 243 Fed. 756.

Objection to jurisdiction.—Where objection is reasonably made to the jurisdiction of the referee the subsequent filing of an answer to the merits does not operate as an assent to his jurisdiction. In re Weidhorn, (D. C. Mass. 1917) 243 Fed. 756.

Mode of review — General Order No. 27.—The statute provides for a review by the judge of the orders or findings of the referee, and the order determines how this review may be obtained by the aggrieved party, and what the duties of the referee are pertaining to such. The former directs the referee to act upon request of interested parties, and the latter suggests that he shall act on petition filed, setting out the error complained of. The petition for review is here wanting, and this accounts for the want of a certificate from the referee. The required petition becomes the foundation of authority and cannot be dispensed with in proceedings to review. When filed, the referee is bound to certify; without it there is no authority to review. In re Avoca Silk Co., (M. D. Pa. 1917) 241 Fed. 607.

Time for review.—In the case of In re Wister, (E. D. Pa. 1916) 232 Fed. 898, it was declared that under General Order 27 (89 Fed. xi, 32 C. C. A. xxvii), which has all the force of statutory law, no review can be had of an order, except upon petition filed with the referee. Under the rules of this court, such petition must be filed with the referee within 10 days after order, and, without this, a review cannot be had, except upon allowance by the court after notice and cause shown, etc. See also In re Isert, (N. D. Cal. 1915) 232 Fed. 484.

Weight of referee's findings of fact.—The findings of fact of a referee, where there is a conflict of evidence, are entitled to great weight; and they will not be disturbed except where they appear to be clearly erroneous. In re Biehl, (E. D. Pa. 1916) 237 Fed. 720; In re Goldman, (E. D. Pa. 1917) 241 Fed. 385; In re Lavery, (D. C. Mass. 1917) 244 Fed. 959; In re Atkinson-Kerce Grocery Co., (N. D. Ga. 1917) 245 Fed. 481; In re Fackler, (N. D. Ohio 1917) 246 Fed. 864. See to same effect, In re Anderson, (N. D. Ga. 1915) 224 Fed. 790; In re Gay, (D. C. Mass. 1915) 224 Fed. 127; In re Murphy, (D. C. Mass. 1915) 225 Fed. 392; McCulloch v. Davenport Sav. Bank, (S. D. Ia. 1915) 226 Fed. 309; Dallam v. Reber, (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1916) 229 Fed. 554, 144 C. C. A. 14; Schmid v. Rosenthal, (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1916) 230 Fed. 818, 145 C. C. A. 128; Aller-Wilmes Jewelry Co. v. Osborn, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 231 Fed. 907, 146 C. C. A. 103; Walter A. Wood Mowing, etc., Mach. Co. v. Croll, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1916) 231 Fed. 679, 145 C. C. A. 565; Wilson v. Continental Bldg., etc., Ass'n, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 232 Fed. 824, 147 C. C. A. 18; In re Ylia, (N. D. N. Y. 1916) 233 Fed. 476; In re Aronson, (N. D. Ala. 1916) 233 Fed. 1022; Henderson v. Morse, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 235 Fed. 518, 149 C. C. A. 64; Chambers v. Continental Trust Co., (S. D. Ga. 1916) 235 Fed. 441.

The referee in bankruptcy is a judicial officer, performing certain functions as part of the Bankruptcy Court, and there can be no question but that his findings upon all matters within his jurisdiction have the same force and effect as if rendered by any court of general jurisdiction. McCulloch v. Davenport Sav. Bank, (S. D. Ia. 1915) 226 Fed. 309.

The court will not disturb the findings of fact of a referee, based upon conflicting evidence involving questions of credibility, unless there is most cogent evidence of mistake and miscarriage of justice. In re New York, etc., Package Co., (D. C. N. J. 1915) 225 Fed. 219.

All presumptions with respect to the want or sufficiency of evidence are in favor of the validity of an order by the referee. In re Farmers' Dairy Ass'n, (S. D. Cal. 1916) 234 Fed. 118.

Evidence unreported.—The findings of a referee which do not on the face of the report appear to be erroneous, are said to be final, where the evidence is not reported. In re Golub, (D. C. Mass. 1917) 245 Fed. 512.

Weight dependent on character of evidence.—"It is also a general rule that, if the finding be a deduction from established facts, it will not carry any great weight, for the court, having the same facts, may as well draw inferences or deduce conclusions as the referee." In re New York, etc., Package Co., (D. C. N. J. 1915) 225 Fed. 219.

Appeals from interlocutory orders.—The practice of taking appeals from interlocutory orders is one not to be encouraged. It is the exceptional case where good to any one results from the practice. The evil consequences are to bring about conditions of interminable delays, which are insufferable. There is no call upon the court through petitions for review to attempt to regulate the minutes details of the practice before referees. In re Graboyes, (E. D. Pa. 1915) 228 Fed. 574.

Discretionary orders.—An order continuing a meeting is largely within the referee's powers as a matter of discretion and will not be disturbed unless the referee has abused his discretion or erred as a matter of law. In re Rosenfeld-Goldman Co., (D. C. Mass. 1915) 228 Fed. 921.

Costs.—On review of an order of the referee directing the trustee to make a certain payment where neither litigant has been wholly successful the disbursements will be taxed equally between the trustee and the claimant. In re Liberty Doll Co., (S. D. N. Y. 1917) 242 Fed. 695.

Vol. I, p. 902, sec. 38a (2).

A referee appointed a special master to take evidence in and of the court has full power and authority to administer the oath and conduct the examination. U. S. v. Coyle, (N. D. N. Y. 1916) 229 Fed. 256.

Vol. I, p. 902, sec. 38a (3).

Ordering surrender of assets.—Although the referee may order the bankrupt to surrender property in his possession to the trustee, jurisdiction to make such an order is not acquired unless the bankrupt has notice of the proceeding and its purpose. In re Atwater, (S. D. N. Y. 1915) 227 Fed. 511.

Warrant for seizure of goods.—A referee is held to have authority under this section to issue a warrant for the seizure of goods in the possession of a transferee where the transfer was made within four months prior to the filing of the petition. Darrough v. Claremore First Nat. Bank, (Okla. 1916) 156 Pac. 191.

Vol. I, p. 904, sec. 38a (4).

The referee has the specific power to hear and determine all questions arising upon claims filed, and objections thereto. McCulloch v. Davenport Sav. Bank, (S. D. Ia. 1915) 226 Fed. 309.

Turning property over to trustee—Practice generally.—In the case of In re Nankin, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 811, 159 C. C. A. 113; the bankrupt made a preliminary objection, not made in the court below, viz., that the district judge had no jurisdiction to refer the petition of the trustee to a special commissioner for a report, and then to dispose of it as a court of first instance, instead of upon a petition to review an order made by him as referee and the court said after referring to this section and general order 12: "The proper practice would therefore have been for the trustee to have applied for the turn-over order to the referee, and, after his finding, to review it, if so advised, by filing with him a petition for review by the District Judge, as provided by General Order 27 (89 Fed. xi, 32 C. C. A. xxvii)."

The referee has no jurisdiction in a summary proceeding to require a purchaser in possession of real property from the bankrupt to turn such property over to the trustee. Nor is the power to thus act affected by the fact that because of the small worth of the equity, the trustee can not afford to institute a plenary suit for its recovery. In re McCracken, (S. D. Cal. 1916) 234 Fed. 776.

Determination of validity of bonds issued by bankrupt.—In the case of In re Valecia Condensed Milk Co., (W. D. Wis. 1916) 233 Fed. 173, it was held that a referee had power to pass on the validity of bonds issued by a bankrupt corporation.

Costs—Authority to tax.—The taxing of costs has been held to be within the discretion of the referee. In re Reeves, (N. D. N. Y. 1915) 227 Fed. 711.

Vol. I, p. 909, sec. 38a (5).

Expenses of examination and stenographer.—See In re Pearce, (D. C. Mass. 1916) 235 Fed. 917.

Vol. I, p. 910, sec. 39a (3).

Furnishing copies of testimony.—For a case wherein it was held that the bankrupt was entitled to a copy of the transcript of witnesses' testimony, see In re Greenbaum, (E. D. Mich. 1917) 243 Fed. 965.

Vol. I, p. 910, sec. 39a (4).

Notice to creditors.—"The mere fact that a creditor denies that he received notice or had knowledge of the bankruptcy proceedings in time to prove his claim, is not conclusive that the statutory notice was not given or that he had no actual knowledge of the pendency of such bankruptcy proceedings, in face of a record of the District Court that such notice was given." Clafin v. Wolff, (1915) 88 N. J. L. 308, 96 Atl. 73.

Vol. I, p. 912, sec. 40a.

Referee entitled to commissions on moneys which should have been paid through trustee.—Where creditors who have agreed to a composition under which they are to receive a certain per cent in cash subsequently enter into an agreement by which a less amount in cash and the balance in notes were to be accepted, it has been held that the referee is entitled to a commission as though the amount first agreed on had been deposited with the court. In re H. Batterman Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 231 Fed. 699, 145 C. C. A. 585.

Commission on moneys expended by the trustee in carrying on the business of the bankrupt will not be allowed to a referee. In re Bacon, (W. D. Ky. 1915) 224 Fed. 764.

Commission or rent.—The referee is not entitled to a commission on the amount paid for rent of premises occupied by the trustee in carrying on the business of the bankrupt although it has been held proper to allow a commission on rent paid prior thereto. In re Bacon, (W. D. Ky. 1915) 224 Fed. 764; Kinkead v. Bacon, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1916) 230 Fed. 362, 144 C. C. A. 504.

Compensation proportionate to the difficulties encountered in administering the estate is not authorized by law. American Surety Co. v. Freed, (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1915) 224 Fed. 333, 140 C. C. A. 19.

Extra compensation.—To the same effect as the first paragraph of the original annotation, see In re Langford, (S. D. Cal. 1915) 225 Fed. 311.

Statute covers all commissions and disbursements.—“The only authority for the payment of commissions to referees and trustees is found in the bankruptcy law.” American Surety Co. v. Freed (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1915) 224 Fed. 333, 140 C. C. A. 19.

Computation—Composition agreement.—In Kinkead v. Bacon, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1916) 230 Fed. 362, 144 C. C. A. 504, it was said: “We think the meaning of the term ‘amount to be paid to creditors,’ on which the commission of one half of 1 per cent. is to be computed, means the amount which creditors are to receive by virtue of the composition agreement. The amount offered by the bankrupt and accepted by the creditors became, upon confirmation, ‘the amount to be paid creditors.’ This construction not only seems logically to result from the consideration to which we have already referred, but receives additional confirmation when consideration is given to the difference between the language ‘on all moneys disbursed to creditors by the trustee’ (on which the 1 per cent. commission is to be computed in the case of a fully administered estate) and the ‘amount to be paid to creditors,’ on which one-half of 1 per cent. is to be paid in case of composition—not requiring complete administration.” See also In re White, (S. D. Ga. 1915) 225 Fed. 796; In re Mills Tea, etc., Co., (D. C. Mass. 1916) 235 Fed. 815.

Review of referee's fees.—Where a motion was made having for its object to secure a revision of the referee's statement of his own fees in a composition case, it was held that the objection should have been raised by review proceedings on the referee's report but that the suggestion having been made to the court that its officer has charged fees on an erroneous basis, the matter ought not, in view of the previous uncertainty as to the proper practice, to be dismissed without examination because informally presented. In re Mills Tea, etc., Co., (D. C. Mass. 1916) 235 Fed. 815.

Vol. I, p. 916, sec. 40b.

Apportionment of commissions.—Where a portion only of the money to be paid under a compromise agreement was deposited owing to a waiver by a part of the creditors, which money was disbursed by the referee to whom the case was transferred, it was said: “As to the apportionment between the referee and his successor: It follows from what we have said that the fact that the successor referee made the disbursement of the moneys actually deposited by the bankrupt did not entitle the successor to the full amount of the commission thereon. We are asked by petitioner to apportion on this review the entire commissions allowed between the two referees. How completely the successor has intended to disclaim the right to participate in further commission, if allowed, is not entirely clear. As we are not considering the case on appeal, but merely upon revision in matters of law, we cannot on this review make or direct such complete apportionment. We assume that the District Judge will determine the apportionment under section 40b of the act, taking into account the proportionate labor and service performed by the two referees in the administration of the estate, in case the successor claims any interest in the further commission.” Kinkead v. Bacon, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1916) 230 Fed. 362, 144 C. C. A. 504.

Vol. I, p. 916, sec. 41a (1).

Contempt dependent on ability to comply with order.—Where the bankrupt is without means in his possession or control to pay over money to the trustee in accordance with an order of the referee the court can not punish by summary imprisonment for contempt even though he may have committed an offense under section 29b of this Act. In re McNaught, (D. C. Mass. 1908) 225 Fed. 511.

The law is, well settled that inability to comply with an order requiring the payment of money, resulting from poverty, insolvency, or other cause not attributable to the fault of the party charged, will under ordinary circumstances be received as a valid excuse from the consequences of contempt. In re Sobol, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 487, 155 C. C. A. 263.

Failure to turn over assets.—The failure of the bankrupt to prove that he was unable to make a payment ordered by the referee and his failure to make surrender of such assets is a civil contempt of court, for which an attachment may issue committing him to the penitentiary, to be there imprisoned only unless or until he complies with the order of the Bankruptcy Court. In re Stanny, (W. D. N. Y. 1915) 228 Fed. 517.

The fact that a bankrupt has been sentenced for concealing assets and has served out his term is no defense in a proceeding to punish him for contempt with an order to turn over the assets he concealed. In re Sobol, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 487, 155 C. C. A. 263.

Vol. I, p. 922, sec. 41a (4).

Contempt by witnesses—Elements of offense.—"It is obvious that a refusal 'to be examined according to law,' means a refusal in fact and effect. The form of the refusal, or in what way manifested, is of no importance. A formal refusal by a witness to answer questions, displayed by a flat and defiant declaration that he would not answer, is one form. Standing mute is another. Evasive, inconclusive, or irresponsible replies to clear and plain inquiries is another. Palpably and flagrantly untruthful answers is still another. There is, it must be observed, in all of these instances, the element of contumaciousness; something of the element of defiance; something which can be distinguished from mere lack of candor or frankness, or from untruthfulness, or even from plain perjury. Refusing to testify is one thing. Testifying falsely is another thing. Although equally reprehensible and open to condemnation, they are distinct and separate, and the distinction should be kept in mind, or confusion will result in visiting upon the offender the deserved punishment. The line of demarcation is distinct enough, but cannot be as readily drawn. This can be best left to the discriminating judgment of the referee before whom the bankrupt appears, and such judgment should not lightly be disturbed." In re Blitz, (E. D. Pa. 1916) 232 Fed. 276.

Purging oneself of contempt.—"A commitment for contempt should be preceded with certain formalities. The witness would ordinarily be permitted to purge himself by showing a willingness to recant and to testify fully. He should therefore be first admonished. This should be followed with a specific question, and an answer required. The real attitude of the witness will be then disclosed, and any further proceeding be clear cut and definite." In re Blitz, (E. D. Pa. 1916) 232 Fed. 276.

Vol. I, p. 923, sec. 41b.

Hearing.—This provision clearly requires a hearing as to the facts, and by necessary implication excludes any inference that in such case the alleged contemnor is to be purged merely by denial upon oath. In re Boyd, (E. D. Tenn. 1915) 228 Fed. 1003.

Punishment.—It is settled, in the absence of statutory regulation, that the matter of dealing with contempts and how they should be punished are within the trial court's sound discretion, and that such discretion will not be interfered with, unless it has been grossly abused. In re Sobol, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 487, 155 C. C. A. 263.

Vol. I, p. 926, sec. 44a.

Authority of referee.—The conduct of the elections of trustee is part of the administrative work which is left largely with the referees. Their decisions in reference thereto will not be set aside, unless an unjust and injurious abuse of discretion, or a clear mistake of law, is shown. In re Grat, (D. C. Mass. 1915) 228 Fed. 925.

"An appointment once made shall not be lightly set aside on appeal. Rights of creditors in the selection of a trustee are important, but the decision as to them ought to rest largely with the referee." In re Rosenfeld-Goldman Co., (D. C. Mass. 1915) 228 Fed. 921.

Appointment by creditors—Prompt action essential.—It is essential to the proper administration of a bankrupt estate that a trustee shall be appointed as promptly as possible. In re Rosenfeld-Goldman Co., (D. C. Mass. 1915) 228 Fed. 921.

Postponing election.—Where the stated time for an election has arrived and a majority in number of the creditors are ready and oppose delay it is the duty of the objecting creditors to be ready or to present a good excuse for not doing so and where no such excuse is offered it is not an abuse of discretion on the part of the referee to refuse to postpone the election. In re Grat, (D. C. Mass. 1915) 228 Fed. 925.

Action of a creditor to control the election of a trustee is not objectionable so long as his efforts are directed to the welfare of the entire unsecured creditors. Bollman v. Tobin, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1917) 239 Fed. 469, 152 C. C. A. 347.

Right of relative of bankrupt to vote for trustees.—There is no reason in law or in morals why a relative of the bankrupt, who is a legitimate creditor, shall not have the same right to vote for a trustee as any other creditor. In re Rothleder, (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 232 Fed. 398. Compare In re Ballantine, (N. D. N. Y. 1916) 232 Fed. 271, wherein the court, on an application to review the referee's decision refusing to allow the wife of the bankrupt to vote and rejecting her claim, said that the wife should in no event be permitted to dominate the choice of the trustee.

Right of attorney to vote for trustee.—Attorneys who appear for a creditor and desire to vote for a trustee should have specific written authority, even though the law itself does not expressly require this. In re Capitol Trading Co., (N. D. N. Y. 1916) 229 Fed. 806.

Improper or irregular vote for trustee.—“The election of a trustee will be disapproved where that result has been obtained through the active efforts of the bankrupt, . . . the question is always one of good faith, and the inquiry must be as to whether anything has been done by the bankrupt which will disqualify, or tend to disqualify, a trustee from acting in that impartial and vigorous manner which will assure the proper results for the creditors.” In re Rothleder, (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 232 Fed. 398.

Selection in interest of bankrupt.—“If creditors knowingly join with the bankrupt or his attorney, or with an assignee or his attorney, in an effort to do what it has repeatedly been decided they may not do, the simplest and most obvious way to defeat their purpose is to reject their selection of trustee, and permit the creditors who are not in the combination to make the selection.” In re Stowe, (N. D. Cal. 1916) 235 Fed. 463.

Creditors' appointment subject to approval.—While the appointment is subject to approval or disapproval by the referee, he can not act arbitrarily, but only for cause. Wilson v. Continental Bldg., etc., Ass'n, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 232 Fed. 824, 147 C. C. A. 18, affirming (N. D. Cal. 1915) 232 Fed. 413.

Review by judge.—It is said to be a settled practice not to disturb the acts of referees in administrative matters, as for instance the election of a trustee, unless a plain and injurious error of law or abuse of discretion is shown. In re Rosenfeld-Goldman Co., (D. C. Mass. 1915) 228 Fed. 921.

The power of the court as to refusing approval of trustees will not be so exercised as to deprive creditors acting in good faith from controlling the election of trustees. In re Archbold, (N. D. Cal. 1916) 237 Fed. 408.

Where the inquiry is whether the referee and the District Court had before them substantial evidence that the relations between the bankrupt and the person appointed as trustee were such as to justify the referee in disapproving of the appointment or whether the selection was accomplished through the efforts of the officers and attorneys of the bankrupt, if there is substantial evidence upon either of these points, this court will not interfere upon a petition to review. Wilson v. Continental Bldg., etc., Ass'n, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 232 Fed. 824, 147 C. C. A. 18, affirming (N. D. Cal. 1915) 232 Fed. 413.

Vol. I, p. 931, sec. 45a (1).

Unsuccessful candidate.—Where there is no election of a trustee, owing to a lack of the requisite votes, the referee may select one of the unsuccessful candidates. In re F., etc., Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 69, 155 C. C. A. 13, reversing (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 237 Fed. 895.

Vol. I, p. 933, sec. 46a.

Ground for removal.—Where the trustee not only failed to carry out the wishes of the creditors by whom he was chosen but placed himself in direct antagonism to them it was held that such conduct justified his removal. Bollman v. Tobin, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1917) 239 Fed. 469, 152 C. C. A. 347.

Vol. I, p. 934, sec. 47a (2).

Purpose and effect of amendment of 1910.—The amendment of 1910 to this section did not confer new means of collecting ordinary claims due the bankrupt. Kelley v. Gill, (1917) 245 U. S. 116, 38 S. Ct. 38, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 185.

“The effect of this amendment was to give to the trustee, as to all property coming into the custody of the Bankruptcy Court, the rights of a creditor holding a lien.” In re Fitchugh Hall Amusement Co., (W. D. N. Y. 1915) 228 Fed. 169.

Since 1910 a trustee has two rights as to the property in his custody, that is that of a bankrupt and of a creditor with a lien. These rights are different and sometimes antagonistic in which case the trustee can take his choice. In re Seward Dredging Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 225, 155 C. C. A. 65.

Rights of trustee.—“This act has been held to confer upon the trustee the rights which the bankrupt or any of his creditors possessed or might lawfully possess at the time of the filing of the petition.” Mergenthaler Linotype Co. v. Hull, (C. C. A. 1st Cir. 1916) 239 Fed. 26, 152 C. C. A. 76.

Trustee has rights, remedies and powers of a judgment creditor holding an execution returned unsatisfied. Bell v. Shaw, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 230 Fed. 976, 145 C. C. A. 170; In re Hawley Down-Draft Furnace Co., (E. D. Pa. 1916) 233 Fed. 451; Bunch v. Maloney, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 233 Fed. 967, 147 C. C. A. 641; In re Ricketts, (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1916) 234 Fed. 285, 148 C. C. A. 187; In re Reynolds, (N. D. N. Y. 1917) 243 Fed. 268; In re Zeis, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 245 Fed. 737, 158 C. C. A. 139.

State law.—As the rights of a creditor "holding a lien by legal or equitable proceedings" are essentially a matter of state law, it follows that the trustee's rights are the same. In re Floyd-Scott Co., (D. C. Mass. 1915) 224 Fed. 987.

Status of trustee.—While the Bankruptcy Act imposes upon the trustee the duty of conserving the estate, collecting outstanding claims, and resisting payment of doubtful claims, he stands in a fiduciary capacity, and is to some extent a stakeholder. In re Lentars, (E. D. Pa. 1915) 225 Fed. 878.

A trustee appointed in subsequently instituted bankruptcy proceedings does not acquire the status of a creditor holding a lien superior to that of a mortgage executed more than four months before the petition in bankruptcy was filed but recorded within that period. Martin v. Commercial Nat. Bank, (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1916) 228 Fed. 651, 143 C. C. A. 173.

Time as of which trustee takes status of creditor.—The trustee in bankruptcy takes the status of a creditor holding a lien as of the time when the petition in bankruptcy is filed. Bailey v. Baker Ice Mach. Co., (1915) 239 U. S. 268, 36 S. Ct. 50, 60 U. S. (L. ed.) 276. See also Fairbanks Steam Shovel Co. v. Wills, (1916) 240 U. S. 642, 36 S. Ct. 466, 60 U. S. (L. ed.) 841.

"Creditor."—"When speaking of a 'creditor' Congress means a creditor of the bankrupt; it is impossible that any trustee could exercise the power or right of any creditor of any person, who (e. g.) might lawfully establish a lien upon property fortuitously coming into the court's custody." In re Seward Dredging Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 225, 155 C. C. A. 65.

Collection and reduction of assets.—"It is the imperative duty of the trustee of a bankrupt estate to exercise all due diligence to gather in the assets of the estate, and it would seem clear that an examination of the schedule and a following up of all leads naturally suggested thereby would be the first step to be taken. In the absence of some explanation for a failure so to act, the trustee must be charged with negligence and must respond for the consequences thereof." In re Kuhn, (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1916) 234 Fed. 277, 148 C. C. A. 179.

"The trustee cannot be excused from the performance of the duties for which it receives compensation because its beneficiaries, the creditors, have the same avenues of information open to them and fail to take advantage thereof. The creditors may, but are under no duty to, investigate and search for assets, or to suggest to the trustee possible sources of information, which the latter has at least the same opportunity of knowing." In re Kuhn, (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1916) 234 Fed. 277, 148 C. C. A. 179.

Trustees' right to collect assets—Right to possession.—Where it appears by a fair preponderance of the testimony that the bankrupt has assets in his possession which he has not turned over to the trustee a decree may be entered directing the bankrupt to turn it over. In re Dixon, (D. C. Mass. 1915) 224 Fed. 624.

Property encumbered by liens.—"When a trustee finds that the bankrupt owns property subject to liens, he should present a petition to the court asking for instructions as to the course which he should pursue." In re Cutler, (E. D. N. C. 1916) 228 Fed. 771.

Unrecorded chattel mortgage.—The title of the chattel mortgage of a bankrupt corporation cannot be perfected as against the trustee in bankruptcy, who asserts the invalidity of the mortgage as against him because not properly acknowledged and recorded, by taking possession of the chattel under the mortgage after the filing of the petition in bankruptcy and before the adjudication. Fairbanks Steam Shovel Co. v. Wills, (1916) 240 U. S. 642, 36 S. Ct. 466, 60 U. S. (L. ed.) 841.

Unrecorded conditioned sales.—The adjudication in bankruptcy creates a lien in favor of the trustee upon all property in the custody, or coming into the custody, of the Bankruptcy Court. The status of the general creditors by such act is changed, and by operation of law a lien is created and established in favor of the trustee for the general creditors, and supersedes any rights theretofore existing in favor of a condition sale, a memorandum of which was not recorded pursuant to a state law. In re Pacific Electric, etc., Co., (W. D. Wash. 1915) 224 Fed. 220.

"The decisions since the adoption of this statute hold that where the seller of property by conditional sale has failed to record his contract of sale where the state statute renders the contract invalid as to lien creditors or bona fide purchasers without registration, he has no remedy as against the trustee in bankruptcy to enforce the lien, but is a mere general creditor, with a right to share in the assets of the estate." Hinton v. Williams, (1915) 170 N. C. 115, 86 S. E. 994.

But where the failure to file a conditional contract of sale does not under a state law make the contract void as to all creditors but only as against subsequent purchasers, pledges and mortgages in good faith, it is valid as to the trustee, he not being clothed with the rights of a subsequent purchaser. In re I. S. Remsen Mfg. Co., (E. D. N. Y. 1915) 227 Fed. 207.

A deed of trust or assignment of property subject to mortgages which directs a sale thereof, and, from the proceeds the payment of the mortgages in the order of their priority and the balance to their general creditors were made within four months of the filing of a petition in bankruptcy is avoided by the adjudication and the property passes to the trustee. In re Cutler, (E. D. N. C. 1916) 228 Fed. 771.

Unrecorded transfer.—Trustees have the rights and remedies of a lien creditor or a judgment creditor as against an unrecorded transfer. Fairbanks Steam Shovel Co. v. Wills, (1916) 240 U. S. 642, 36 S. Ct. 466, 60 U. S. (L. ed.) 841.

Property accidentally in possession of bankrupt.—A creditor holding an unsatisfied judgment can not attack the property of a third person accidentally in the possession of a bankrupt and therefore trustees can not take title to such property. Brown Bros. Co. v. Smith Bros. Co., (E. D. La. 1916) 231 Fed. 475.

Recovery of preferences.—The trustee in bankruptcy has no more extensive and no better title or right in property than did the bankrupt himself, except he may set aside transfers of property made by the bankrupt in fraud of his creditors and recover preferences. In re Place, (N. D. N. Y. 1915) 224 Fed. 778.

Recovery of concealed property from bankrupt.—Where it appears that property was in a person's hands, and that fabricated evidence has been given by that person concerning the alleged items of payment or discharge, the natural inference is that falsehood has been resorted to, because no true and correct items of discharge exist; i. e., that the property is still in the possession of the person into whose hands it was traced. In re Dixon, (D. C. Mass. 1915) 224 Fed. 624.

"The law is well settled that 'recent' possession of property by the bankrupt, accompanied by a failure to account for it, justifies an inference that the property is still in the bankrupt's possession." In re Dixon, (D. C. Mass. 1915) 224 Fed. 624.

Burden of proof.—"While the burden or proof is primarily on the trustee to show that the bankrupt has not accounted for all his assets, yet, when it is established . . . that the bankrupt had possession of the unscheduled assets very recently before the bankruptcy proceedings were instituted, a presumption arises that he still had them when such event took place, and the burden is shifted to the bankrupt to show why they were not scheduled and turned over." In re Ricciardelli, (D. C. N. J. 1915) 224 Fed. 638.

Trust funds.—A trustee being vested with all the rights, remedies and powers of a judgment creditor holding an execution duly returned unsatisfied, a motion made by him, within the time allowed by law for the filing of claims against the bankrupt's estate, for an order directing that an execution issue under section 1391 of the New York Code of Civil Procedure against the income from certain trust funds for the benefit of the bankrupt and directing the testamentary trustee to pay over, etc., will be granted. Matter of Poskanzer, (1917) 101 Misc. 100, 166 N. Y. S. 811.

Liens—Validity.—Under this section the trustee has the right to attack the validity of a lien. In re Shute, (W. D. Wash. 1916) 233 Fed. 544.

Prior recorded lien.—A lien created prior to, and recorded within, the four months period is good as against the statutory lien of the trustee given by this section. In re Brown Wagon Co., (S. D. Ga. 1915) 224 Fed. 266.

Void mortgage.—A mortgage by the bankrupt which is void as to a creditor who has fixed a lien on the property in controversy the day the petition in bankruptcy was filed is void as to the trustee. Park v. South Bend Chilled Plow Co., (Tex. Civ. App. 1918) 199 S. W. 843.

Mortgage void as to creditors under state law.—Where under state laws a mortgage, defective both in its execution and recordation, is by reason thereof void as to creditors subsequently dealing with the mortgagor without notice it is held to be void as to the trustee in whom title rests. Davis v. Harlow, (1917) 130 Md. 165, 100 Atl. 102. See also as to where mortgage not recorded In re T. H. Bunch Commission Co., (E. D. Ark. 1915) 225 Fed. 243; In re Cooper's Estate, (S. D. Ia. 1915) 226 Fed. 317; In re Kruse, (N. D. Ia. 1916) 234 Fed. 470; In re Empress Pharmacy Co., (S. D. Ia. 1916) 237 Fed. 676; In re Rosenthal, (S. D. Ga. 1916) 238 Fed. 597.

Prior recorded chattel mortgage.—The lien of a chattel mortgage executed prior to and recorded within the four months period is superior to any lien created by this provision in the trustee. In re Virgin, (S. D. Ga. 1915) 224 Fed. 128. See also In re Bolstad, (W. D. Wash. 1915) 224 Fed. 283.

Landlord's lien.—Where the lien of a landlord is inchoate and covers no special property he is not entitled to priority over the lien given to the trustee under this provision. Southern R. Co. v. Wilder, (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1916) 231 Fed. 933, 146 C. C. A. 129.

Mechanics' lien.—A contractor's trustee in bankruptcy takes his titles subject to liens filed by laborers, mechanics, material men or subcontractors subsequent to the assignment but within the time prescribed by a state statute. Gates v. John F. Stevens Constr. Co., (1917) 220 N. Y. 38, 115 N. E. 22.

"Valid liens created by mortgages made by the bankrupt before the institution of the bankruptcy proceeding are not subordinated to the rights of his trustee in bankruptcy, which vest as of the date of the filing of the petition in bankruptcy." Border Nat. Bank v. Coupland, (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1917) 240 Fed. 355, 153 C. C. A. 281.

Secret and unrecorded liens.—The amendment of the Bankruptcy Law was not intended to enlarge the rights of a trustee as against lienors under a state statute but to enable the trustee to avoid secret and unrecorded liens created by act of the bankrupt. Gates v. John F. Stevens Constr. Co., (1917) 220 N. Y. 38, 115 N. E. 22.

This provision is mandatory.—In re Dayton Coal, etc., Co., (E. D. Tenn. 1916) 239 Fed. 737.

A bank was not charged with notice that funds belonged to a bankrupt estate merely from the fact that certain of the checks deposited by the trustee were countersigned by the clerk of the court, pursuant to the provisions of rule 29 and section 47 of the Bankruptcy Act. Fidelity, etc., Co. v. Queens County Trust Co., (1916) 174 App. Div. 160, 159 N. Y. S. 954.

Vol. I, p. 942, sec. 47a (11).

Setting apart exemptions.—Exemption should be set aside promptly.—One of the first concerns of the trustee should always be promptly to set aside to the bankrupt any exempt property. If the real estate in which the homestead is claimed be indivisible, steps should be taken to have it sold. These things should always be promptly attended to by a trustee, and the referee should see that it is done. In re Brown, (W. D. Ky. 1915) 228 Fed. 533.

The trustee can not arbitrarily refuse to set aside property to which the bankrupt is clearly entitled by law; but he represents all of the creditors, and is vested with some discretion. In re Bonvillain, (E. D. La. 1916) 232 Fed. 370.

Trustee's action not final.—The bankrupt's exemption when set apart by the trustee is inchoate and not fully fixed in him until approved by the referee in bankruptcy. In re Anderson, (N. D. Ga. 1915) 224 Fed. 790.

Exceptions to exemptions.—General Order XVII is mandatory as to the time of filing exceptions to the exemptions set apart and the District Court has no discretion to extend the time. In re Krecun, (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1916) 229 Fed. 711, 144 C. C. A. 121.

Vol. I, p. 947, sec. 48a.

Trustee's compensation.—The courts are controlled by the provisions of this Act in fixing the referee's compensation. In re New York Commercial Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 231 Fed. 445, 145 C. C. A. 439.

There is no law authorizing compensation to a referee and a trustee proportionate to the difficulties encountered in administering an estate. American Surety Co. v. Freed, (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1915) 224 Fed. 333, 140 C. C. A. 19.

Congress did not intend by the 1910 amendment to permit trustees to charge a compensation for performing acts outside their duties as such. C. B. Norton Jewelry Co. v. Hinds, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1917) 245 Fed. 341, 157 C. C. A. 533.

Making sale of mortgaged property.—Commissions and expenses of a trustee in making a sale of mortgaged property have been denied where it was apparent from the first that there would be no balance over the lien for the benefit of the general state. C. B. Norton Jewelry Co. v. Hinds, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1917) 245 Fed. 341, 157 C. C. A. 533.

Surcharge against trustee's commissions.—A trustee on his accounting will be surcharged against his commissions with the expense of controversies which arise through his fault. In re Eden Musce American Co., (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 230 Fed. 925.

Counsel fees.—Reasonable counsel fees are allowable as a proper expense in connection with a sale by the trustee. In re West, (M. D. Pa. 1916) 232 Fed. 903.

The trustee is not entitled to take credit for counsel fees for services unconnected with the sale of property. Gugel v. New Orleans Nat. Bank, (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1917) 239 Fed. 676, 152 C. C. A. 510.

Effect of amendment of 1910.—The amendment of 1910 was intended to furnish an enlarged basis for the computation of the trustee's commissions, but was not intended to affect the source of payment, so as to displace liens in violation of the provisions of section 67d, as amended and re-enacted in 1910. Gugel v. New Orleans Nat. Bank, (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1917) 239 Fed. 676, 152 C. C. A. 510.

Vol. I, p. 950, sec. 48d. [Compensation of receiver and marshals appointed under section 2(3).]

Receiver's fees.—The total compensation to receivers is not to be increased by the fact that there is more than one receiver. In re Mills Tea, etc., Co., (D. C. Mass. 1916) 235 Fed. 813.

A receiver's duties are limited by the powers given him in the order of appointment. He cannot exceed the powers of the appointment, and expect compensation for any activities not authorized. In re

Metropolitan Motor Car Co., (W. D. Wash. 1915) 225 Fed. 274.

Where it is necessary for the preservation of the property that a receiver should be appointed to take charge of it before the selection of a trustee it has been held that expenses necessitated by such receivership, including compensation to the receiver should be allowed. C. B. Norton Jewelry Co. v. Hinds, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1917) 245 Fed. 341, 157 C. C. A. 533.

Orders for allowances to receivers are purely administrative, subject to entire disallowance or change by either increase or decrease with the development of the administration. Hume v. Myers, (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 827, 155 C. C. A. 415.

Discretion of court.—"The receivers are entitled to a reasonable compensation for the services they have performed. The court which appointed them has the right to determine what that reasonable compensation is. In doing so it must exercise its discretion. But while the matter is left to its discretion, it is not at liberty to fix the allowance at more than a fair and reasonable amount." Appellate courts are not, however, much inclined to interfere with the exercise of this discretionary power. Eames v. H. B. Claffin Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 231 Fed. 693, 145 C. C. A. 579.

"The compensation specified in the statute is clearly intended not as a fixed, invariable amount to be awarded in all cases, but as a maximum to be allowed only in cases justifying it. As a practical matter, in the great majority of cases the maximum compensation is so small that it is not even fair compensation for the work done; but in each case the question, nevertheless, is how much the services of the receivers were fairly worth." In re Mills Tea, etc., Co., (D. C. Mass. 1916) 235 Fed. 813.

Receiver appointed by state court.—Compensation may be allowed by a Bankruptcy Court to a receiver appointed by a state court for services which were of value to the estate in preserving and collecting it. State v. Angle, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 236 Fed. 644, 149 C. C. A. 640.

Vol. I, p. 952, sec. 48d. [When acting as mere custodian.]

Mere custodian.—The proviso limiting the compensation of the custodian was meant to cover cases where the services performed are merely those of a keeper. In re Metropolitan Motor Car Co., (W. D. Wash. 1915) 225 Fed. 274.

Vol. I, p. 951, sec. 48e. [On confirmation of compensation.]

Effect of confirmation of composition on fees.—See In re Miller, (E. D. N. Y. 1917) 243 Fed. 242.

Vol. I, p. 956, sec. 51a (2).

Application.—This section relates only to the statutory fees to be paid to the clerk, referee and trustee as compensation for their services, and has no reference to the expenses incurred by the officers of the court in the bankruptcy proceedings. In re Crisp, (E. D. Tenn. 1917) 239 Fed. 419.

Vol. I, p. 960, sec. 55e.

The referee, if in his judgment it is advisable, may call a meeting of the creditors, to the end that they may be heard before action is taken, subjecting the estate to possible cost and expense. In re Cutler, (E. D. N. C. 1916) 228 Fed. 771.

Vol. I, p. 960, sec. 56a.

Right of secured creditors to participate in proceedings.—By sections 56a and 57e of the Bankruptcy Act secured creditors are permitted to participate in the bankruptcy proceedings as creditors, but only as creditors for the sum which the court finds to be due them over and above the value of the securities which they hold. In re Reichard, (E. D. Pa. 1916) 230 Fed. 525.

Vol. I, p. 962, sec. 56b.

Secured creditors.—After a trustee has been chosen, a secured creditor cannot in respect to its claim vote at creditors' meetings, nor can its claim be counted at such meetings in computing either the number of creditors or the amounts of their claims unless the amounts exceed the value of such securities or priorities, and then only for the excess. Merchants' Nat. Bank v. Continental Bldg., etc., Ass'n, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 232 Fed. 828, 147 C. C. A. 22.

But while a secured creditor is not entitled to vote at a creditors' meeting the fact that through the fault or inadvertence of the referee or trustee a creditor is permitted to vote at such meeting when his lien has been asserted in his claim as filed is no waiver of the lien. Horton v. Queens County Machinery Corp., (1917) 101 Misc. 31, 166 N. Y. S. 662.

Vol. I, p. 962, sec. 57a.

Necessity and manner of proving claim.—It is essential that a proof of debt in bankruptcy show on its face the true interest of the person presenting it. In re Collins, (E. D. La. 1916) 235 Fed. 937.

"It has been uniformly held under the present Bankruptcy Law that the statement of the claim and its consideration must be sufficiently specific and full to enable the trustee and the creditors to make proper investigation as to its fairness and legality, without undue trouble or inconvenience." In re Hudson Porce- lain Co., (D. C. N. J. 1915) 225 Fed. 325.

The proof of claim must accord with the statutory requirements before it is accorded any probative force. In re Hudson Porcelain Co., (D. C. N. J. 1915) 225 Fed. 325.

Negative averments.—Where in the sworn proof of claim for breach of a contract there are negative averments, clearly alleged, to the effect that the breach was not brought about by certain causes which would excuse it, it has been held that these allegations are prima facie evidence and in the absence of proof to the contrary sufficient proof of the claim. Board of Commerce v. Security Trust Co., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1915) 225 Fed. 454, 140 C. C. A. 486.

Where the proof of a claim for services incorporated a copy of the judgment, which showed all facts necessary to ascertain the true character of the claim, and also made a statement as to the date of the services, it was held that it was sufficient in form to be acted upon and that where neither the trustee nor other creditors seemed to have been misled or hindered by lack of information as to the precise nature of the claim, the referee did not exceed his powers in treating the proof as adequate for the purpose in hand. In re Haskell, (D. C. Mass. 1915) 228 Fed. 819.

Effect of failure to prove.—"In the case of a bankrupt corporation, the bankruptcy act does not restrain a creditor, who has not proved his claim in bankruptcy, from prosecuting an action to judgment, for the purpose of enforcing his lien upon the property attached, or of charging officers or stockholders who are liable for the debts of the corporation." Chickasaw Hotel Co. v. C. B. Barker Constr. Co., (1916) 135 Tenn. 305, 186 S. W. 115, L. R. A. 1916F 106.

"When property is sold subject to liens, the lienholder, not having presented his claim and invoked the administration of the full value of the property, cannot afterwards resort to the bankrupt estate, but is relegated to the property as security." In re Old Oregon Mfg. Co., (W. D. Wash. 1916) 236 Fed. 804.

Proof of partnership obligation.—"The better rule, sanctioned by the later cases, is that, when persons who are partners unite in making a note, though they sign their several names, instead of the partnership name, if the note is one given in a partnership transaction and the partnership receives the consideration, it should be proved and allowed as a partnership obligation in bankruptcy." In re Kendrick, (D. C. Vt. 1915) 226 Fed. 978.

Amendment of proofs.—See to same effect as original annotation, Lontos v. Coppard, (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1917) 246

Fed. 803, 159 C. C. A. 105; In re Soltmann, (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 238 Fed. 241.

After a judgment has been rendered allowing proof of an unsecured claim to be amended the claim stands as if it had been originally filed in the way it had been amended. Britton v. Thomas, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 238 Fed. 125, 151 C. C. A. 201.

An amendment of proof as one of an unsecured debt has been allowed where there has been no order expunging the claim. Seligman v. Gray, (C. C. A. 1st Cir. 1915) 227 Fed. 417, 142 C. C. A. 113.

Amendment to avoid statute of limitations.—A claimant may be allowed to file an amended proof of claim for this purpose. In re Ballantine, (N. D. N. Y. 1916) 232 Fed. 271.

Who may prove claims.—A surety or an indorser for the bankrupt, whose liability is contingent, cannot prove a claim of his own by reason of such liability. It is only the creditor's claim which is provable. In re Astoroga Paper Co., (N. D. N. Y. 1916) 234 Fed. 792.

Proof by agent.—The Supreme Court has prescribed the form to be used by an agent, and it provides for a disclosure of the principal. It is not contemplated by the rules that debts be proved by an agent when the principal is present and able to file his own proof. In re Collins, (E. D. La. 1916) 235 Fed. 937.

Proof by assignee.—"Assignees of claims have the right, under the provisions of the bankruptcy law, to prove them against the estate just as other claims may be proven." In re Breakwater Co., (E. D. Pa. 1916) 232 Fed. 375.

The assignee of a claim proven and allowed, and upon which dividends have been paid, need not and cannot make proof of the same claim in his own name as the then owner and assignee of such claim. In re Louis J. Bergdoll Motor Co., (E. D. Pa. 1916) 230 Fed. 248.

Father of minor son.—Proofs are properly made by the father for a claim for labor performed by a minor son. In re Haskell, (D. C. Mass. 1915) 228 Fed. 819.

Secured creditor.—Under section 57, subsections "a" and "h," of the Bankruptcy Act, as construed by the courts, when the trustee does not elect to redeem by paying the debt, a secured creditor, having the right to sell the security, is not required, in the first instance, to so elect, but he may sell the security and file a claim for the unpaid remainder of his debt. In re McAusland, (D. C. N. J. 1916) 235 Fed. 173.

Effect of proving claims.—Proof of a claim does not commit the claimant to a waiver of his unquestioned right to have the affairs of the debtor administered elsewhere than in the Bankruptcy Court.

Tate v. Brinser, (M. D. Pa. 1915) 226 Fed. 878.

Where creditors have only proved a partnership debt they are not entitled on that proof to share in the distribution of a bankrupt member's individual estate. Adams v. Brown, (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1915) 226 Fed. 688, 141 C. C. A. 444.

The allowance of a claim against the estate of one of the members of a firm is not a determination of priorities as between firm and individual creditors. International Agricultural Corp. v. Cary, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 240 Fed. 101, 153 C. C. A. 137.

Vol. I, p. 967, sec. 57c.

Where the claim reasonably delivered to the referee lacked the statement of the official character of the officer signing the jurat and the referee returned it to the creditor's attorney for correction in that respect and it was not redelivered to the referee for about two years it was held that the proof as originally filed was sufficient to form the foundation for a good proof by perfecting amendments and that the claim should appear on the referee's filing record to have been filed on the date when first presented. In re Haskell, (D. C. Mass. 1915) 228 Fed. 819.

Vol. I, p. 967, sec. 57d.

Allowance of claims.—The sworn proof of claim against the bankrupt is prima facie evidence of the indebtedness claimed; and the allowance of the claim amounts to an adjudication that his estate was indebted to the creditor, so long as such adjudication is not set aside or reversed. International Agricultural Corp. v. Cary, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 240 Fed. 101, 153 C. C. A. 137.

Power to allow.—The court can not order an unsecured creditor paid in full to the exclusion of all other unsecured creditors. Thus it was so held where a creditor, the owner of letters patent, had a valid license agreement with the bankrupt to take back upon request any of the patented articles at the net price at which they were furnished and to credit them on account or pay cash therefor and in pursuance of an opportunity given by the court to repurchase the articles, refused to do so except upon condition that its unsecured account against the bankrupt should be paid in full. L. E. Waterman Co. v. Kline, (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1916) 234 Fed. 891, 148 C. C. A. 489.

Effect of allowance.—The allowance of claims against the estate of a bankrupt is a finding as to all parties that the debts did exist and had not been discharged or waived. Gleason v. Thaw, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 234 Fed. 570, 148 C. C. A. 336.

Vol. I, p. 969, sec. 57e.

Allowance of secured and priority claims.—After a trustee has been chosen a secured creditor cannot in respect to its claim vote at creditors' meetings, nor can its claim be counted at such meetings in computing either the number of creditors or the amounts of their claims unless the amounts exceed the value of such securities or priorities, and then only for the excess. Merchants' Nat. Bank v. Continental Bldg., etc., Ass'n, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 232 Fed. 828, 147 C. C. A. 22. See also In re Reichard, (E. D. Pa. 1916) 230 Fed. 525.

One to whom notes of a bankrupt have been pledged may be allowed to prove for the whole amount of the notes if necessary to cover his claim. In re Anger Baking Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1915) 228 Fed. 181, 142 C. C. A. 537.

A claimant having a demand against two insolvent estates has a right to prove against each for the full amount, and can assert this right against one unimpaired by the fact that he holds security against the other. He can recover dividends from the two bankrupt estates upon the full amount of his claim at the time the petition in bankruptcy was filed therein until from all sources he receives full payment of his claim, but no longer. In re New York Commercial Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 233 Fed. 906, 147 C. C. A. 580.

Mortgage bondholders under a corporation mortgage have, under this section, proper standing to petition the court to vacate an order of adjudication, on the ground that the bankrupt did not have his principal place of business, residence, or domicile within the district, but had its principal place of business in another district. In re San Antonio Land, etc., Co., (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 228 Fed. 984.

Vol. I, p. 971, sec. 57f.

Objections by trustee.—Where a trustee has been appointed, objections to claims should be made, and review proceedings, if advisable, be taken by him, or, in case he declines to act, by creditors proceeding in his name by order of the referee. The practice of recognizing individual creditors in such matters, after the appointment and qualification of the trustee, is improper and objectionable. In re Knox Automobile Co., (D. C. Mass. 1915) 229 Fed. 241.

Where the bankrupt and one creditor contested a petition of three creditors on the ground that the petition of one of the creditors was not valid and provable but subsequently, and after a partial hearing, the adjudication was expressly consented to and the order of adjudication was entered, it was held that this adjudication could not estop the trustee acting on behalf of all creditors or any noncontesting creditors from denying the validity and provability of such claim. In re Continental Engine Co., (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1916) 234 Fed. 58, 148 C. C. A. 74.

The reduction of an alleged debt to judgment in a state court before bankruptcy does not exempt it from attack by or on behalf of creditors who would be injuriously affected by its allowance, when such allowance is sought in bankruptcy proceedings. In re Continental Engine Co., (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1916) 234 Fed. 58, 148 C. C. A. 74.

Vol. I, p. 972, sec. 57g.

Surrender essential.—A creditor who has received a preference which is voidable must surrender the same before his claim will be allowed. In re French, (N. D. N. Y. 1916) 231 Fed. 255.

So where it appears that a creditor has received a preference within the four months prior to bankruptcy proceedings the referee has power to order the claim disallowed unless the claimant surrender such preference to the trustee in accordance with the provisions of this section. McCulloch v. Davenport Sav. Bank, (S. D. Ia. 1915) 226 Fed. 309.

A preferred creditor may prove his claim under this section, notwithstanding there has been no surrender of his preference by him beyond what is involved in the payment of a final judgment secured against him in a proceeding instituted by the trustee to avoid the preference. In re Louis J. Bergdoll Motor Co., (E. D. Pa. 1916) 230 Fed. 248.

A right asserted by a mortgagee under a chattel mortgage to the proceeds of the sale of the mortgaged property is not such a claim as, under this section, will be disallowed until the surrender of an illegal preference obtained. Even were it considered as an ordinary claim, not arising out of an entirely separate transaction, the greater weight of authority is against its disallowance. In re Johnson, (W. D. Wash. 1915) 224 Fed. 180.

Compulsory surrender.—The fact that a claimant has retained a voidable preference, until he has been compelled to surrender the same by legal proceedings, does not affect the provability or allowance of his debt after such surrender has been made. In re Louis J. Bergdoll Motor Co., (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1916) 233 Fed. 410, 147 C. C. A. 346.

So a creditor may prove his claim as a general creditor after compliance with a decree directing him to return a voidable preference. State Bank v. Ingram, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 237 Fed. 76, 150 C. C. A. 278.

Vol. I, p. 976, sec. 57h.

The word "litigation," as used in this section, is a comprehensive term, meaning any appropriate action or proceeding in the courts to ascertain the value of the security, wherein the secured creditor and trustee may each be heard, and includes foreclosure proceedings. In re Soltmann, (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 238 Fed. 241.

Right generally of secured creditor.—Under section 57, subsections "a" and "h," of the Bankruptcy Act, as construed by the courts, when the trustee does not elect to redeem by paying the debt, a secured creditor, having the right to sell the security is not required in the first instance to so elect, but he may sell the security and file a claim for the unpaid remainder of his debt. In re McAusland, (D. C. N. J. 1916) 235 Fed. 173.

Allowance for balance only.—A creditor who has realized on collateral can only prove for the amount of the debt after deduction of the amount received for the collateral. In re Bash, (E. D. Pa. 1917) 245 Fed. 808.

When the creditor lawfully converts the securities into money, the amount realized should determine the amount to be charged against the face of the claim. In re Isaacs, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 820, 159 C. C. A. 122.

The fact that a trustee knew of and acquiesced in a foreclosure suit has been held not to vary the original agreement between the mortgagor and mortgagee and, if construed as an agreement as to method of liquidation, to be without validity for lack of the court's direction as provided in this section. In re Soltmann, (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 238 Fed. 241.

Burden of proof.—Where the proof of claims shows that claimant on a sale of the property mortgaged as security for its debt bought in the property, the burden is on it to show that such property was of insufficient value to pay its debt. In re McAusland, (D. C. N. J. 1916) 235 Fed. 173.

Vol. I, p. 978, sec. 57i.

Proof by surety.—In ordinary instances, no question of waiver of rights intervening, subsection "i" of section 57 is conclusive of the authority of a surety to prove the claim of the creditor whose debt be paid. Kilpatrick v. U. S. Fidelity, etc., Co., (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1916) 228 Fed. 587, 143 C. C. A. 109.

Where a surety has paid the amount of its obligation into court which sum has been divided among the creditors, it is entitled to subrogation and steps into the creditors' shoes with the right to prove its claim and a claimant who has received such a dividend must credit the sum so received and confine itself to the balance. In re American Product Co., (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1915) 224 Fed. 401, 140 C. C. A. 87.

Subrogation of indorser.—Upon payment of a note by the indorsers they become subrogated to the petition of the creditor. In re Griffith Stillings Press, (D. C. Mass. 1917) 244 Fed. 316.

Vol. I, p. 980, sec. 57k.

Reconsideration of allowed claim.—Under this section and General Order XXI, a claim which has been allowed may be reconsidered and rejected on the petition of a creditor. In re Collins, (E. D. La. 1916) 234 Fed. 937.

Under this provision it is competent for the referee, proper notice being given to all persons in interest, to reconsider his action in allowing a claim and to realow it or deal with it according to the equities of the case. Cary v. International Agricultural Corp., (N. D. Ohio 1916) 243 Fed. 475; International Agricultural Corp. v. Cary, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 240 Fed. 101, 153 C. C. A. 137.

Vol. I, p. 982, sec. 57n.

Construction and application.—This section has reference only to the proving of claims against the bankrupt's estate. It does not apply to an offer of composition. In re Atlantic Constr. Co., (S. D. N. Y. 1915) 228 Fed. 571. See also In re Aarons, (D. C. N. J. 1917) 243 Fed. 634; In re Breakwater Co., (E. D. Pa. 1916) 232 Fed. 375.

Time for proving claims—One year limitation.—Claims must be proved within one year after the date of adjudication. In re Trion Mfg. Co., (N. D. Ga. 1915) 224 Fed. 521. And the period prescribed by this section is not enlarged or stated anew by the discovery of unscheduled assets. Chapman v. Whitsett, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 236 Fed. 873, 150 C. C. A. 135.

The limitation prescribed by this section is, with some exceptions, definite and conclusive. Chapman v. Whitsett, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 236 Fed. 873, 150 C. C. A. 135.

It was not intended to apply to any claim against the estate for something arising after the proceedings were instituted as part of the cost of administration as for instance a claim for rental of the premises occupied by the trustee. In re Green, (E. D. Pa. 1916) 231 Fed. 253.

Time of proving claims "liquidated by litigation"—The phrase "liquidated by litigation."—A preferred creditor is not barred by the one year statute of limitation, but his claim is within the protection of the proviso in section 57n as a claim "liquidated by litigation." In re Louis J. Bergdoll Motor Co., (E. D. Pa. 1916) 230 Fed. 248.

A proceeding to recover a preference is within the phrase "liquidation by litigation." In re Louis J. Bergdoll Motor Co., (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1916) 233 Fed. 410, 147 C. C. A. 346.

Amendment after one year period.—Much liberality has been shown by the courts in permitting imperfect claims and proofs of claim to be put into proper form after the statutory period has expired, but there seems to be no decision that runs counter to the positive language of the Act and permits a claim that is wholly new to be presented after the limitation has run. In some form the substance of a claim must have been made within the proper time, but if this has been done amendments may be made afterward. In re Thompson, (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1915) 227 Fed. 981, 142 C. C. A. 439.

In the case of In re Amsdell-Kirschner Brewing Co., (N. D. N. Y. 1917) 243 Fed. 783, the court denied an application to amend after the expiration of the one year period on the ground that it would be a waste of time to allow the amendment to the claim, and expend time and money in taking proofs in regard thereto, as the trustee in bankruptcy contested the same most strenuously.

Vol. I, p. 987, sec. 58a (5).

Effect of notice.—An order of the Bankruptcy Court declaring a dividend and adjudicating the claim of a bank to priority in a fund collected from insurance companies on policies held by the bank as collateral has been held to be binding upon indorsers who were parties to the settlement with the insurance companies and who had notice of the intention to declare the dividend, and consented to the payment of the policies to the trustee while parties to the bankruptcy proceedings, although they voluntarily withdrew their claim in the bankruptcy proceeding prior to the declaration of the dividend. American Sav. Bank, etc., Co. v. Munson, (1916) 93 Wash. 78, 159 Pac. 1195.

Where a claim has been properly disallowed the claimant has no standing to object to a dividend order made without giving the required ten days' notice. In re Leslie, etc., Co., (D. C. Mass. 1916) 230 Fed. 465.

Vol. I, p. 987, sec. 58a (8).

Sections 58a (8) and 59g when read together relate only to dismissals upon application of a party in interest, and do not apply to the dismissal of a voluntary petition, upon the initiation of the court, and for the protection of its officers from the continuance of merely futile proceedings, on account of the bankrupt's own failure to take the preliminary steps necessary to bring the creditors before the court. In re Crisp, (E. D. Tenn. 1917) 239 Fed. 419.

Vol. I, p. 988, sec. 59a.

A voluntary petition for adjudication of a corporation as a bankrupt may be filed by authority of the board of directors. In re S., etc., Mfg., etc., Co., (N. D. Ohio 1917) 246 Fed. 1005; In re Hargadine-McKittrick Dry Goods Co., (E. D. Mo. 1917) 239 Fed. 155; In re United Grocery Co., (S. D. Fla. 1917) 239 Fed. 1016; Rudebeck v. Sanderson, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1915) 227 Fed. 575, 152 C. C. A. 207.

In the case of a voluntary petition authorized by the directors of a corporation it is the duty of objecting stockholders to move against it promptly if at all. Rudebeck v. Sanderson, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1915) 227 Fed. 575, 142 C. C. A. 207.

"The solvency vel non of the corporation is not material in a voluntary petition." In re United Grocery Co., (S. D. Fla. 1917) 239 Fed. 1016.

Effect of previous involuntary petition.—See to same effect as original annotations, International Silver Co. v. New York Jewelry Co., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1916) 233 Fed. 945, 147 C. C. A. 619. See also In re Continental Coal Corp., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1916) 238 Fed. 113, 151 C. C. A. 189.

Averments of petition.—Where an adjudication is desired of the petitioning partners as individuals as well as the firm, there should at least be inserted in the prayer of the petition a request for an adjudication of the petitioning partners as well as of the firm. In re Lenoir, (E. D. Tenn. 1915) 226 Fed. 227.

Where the averments of the petition clearly show commercial insolvency the court has authority under this section to act on the petition as soon as it is filed and to make the adjudication. In re Southern Arizona Smelting Co., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 231 Fed. 87, 145 C. C. A. 275.

Right of creditors to contest.—While creditors may contest any petition in involuntary bankruptcy, no provision is made for contesting a petition in voluntary bankruptcy. In re Pennington, (W. D. Ky. 1915) 228 Fed. 388.

Vol. I, p. 990, sec. 59b.

I. Who may file petition in involuntary bankruptcy.

II. Form, averments, and amendment of petition.

I. WHO MAY FILE PETITION IN INVOLUNTARY BANKRUPTCY (p. 990)

Creditors having provable claims.—Where one of several joint makers of a note failed and refused to pay his share and the others paid it in full and then filed an involuntary petition in bankruptcy against the one refusing to pay it was held that the petitioners were creditors having "provable claims" against the alleged bankrupt within the meaning of Bankruptcy Act. Wright v.

Rumph, (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1917) 238 Fed. 138, 151 C. C. A. 214.

Time when petitioner must be creditor.—Petitioning creditor must have provable claim when the petition is filed. In re Van Horn, (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 822, 159 C. C. A. 124.

Before the petition, creditors may buy claims, and the bankrupt may induce creditors not to join in the petition; but to sustain the petition the requisite petitioners must be those who are creditors when the petition is filed. In re Kehoe, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 233 Fed. 415, 147 C. C. A. 351.

Disqualification of creditors as petitioners—Generally.—In the case of In re Burg, (N. D. Tex. 1917) 245 Fed. 173, the list filed by defendant showing his creditors at the date of the filing of the petition disclosed 24, not including the plaintiff. Only 3 of them were for more than $100, the highest being for $252.56, and 12 of them were for sums under $5. These small claims were current accounts for groceries, drugs, dry goods, milk, gas and oil, telegrams, telephone bills, water, light and gas bills, etc., such as are contracted and paid for from month to month. The court said: "Such creditors are practically secured, as their bills have to be paid from month to month before further necessities can be obtained. The Bankruptcy Law is never invoked by any such small creditors, who themselves have adequate remedy for the collection of their accounts by cutting off further supplies. As to these accounts, I think the maxim, 'De minimis non curat lex,' applies."

Disqualification by participation in general assignment.—A creditor who has assented to an assignment by his debtor may not ordinarily thereafter file an involuntary petition in bankruptcy against him, based solely upon such assignment. In re Campe, (N. D. Cal. 1917) 240 Fed. 433.

II. FORM, AVERMENTS AND AMENDMENT OF PETITION (p. 994)

Averment of commission of act of bankruptcy.—The words "because of insolvency" in the allegation of a petition have been construed as meaning insolvency as defined by the Bankruptcy Act, § 1a (15). In re Valentine Bohl Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1915) 224 Fed. 685, 140 C. C. A. 225.

General averments as to acts of bankruptcy are not sufficient. In re Mason-Seaman Transp. Co., (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 235 Fed. 974.

But the jurisdictional averments that the defendant is "insolvent" in the sense in which the term is used in the statute, and "within four months next preceding the filing of this petition" the defendant, "while insolvent," committed the respective acts of bankruptcy as alleged, and "that, being insolvent, it did apply for a receiver for its property," have been held sufficient to give the court jurisdiction. Graham Mfg. Co. v. Davy-Pocahontas Coal Co., (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1916) 238 Fed. 488, 151 C. C. A. 424.

And an allegation that a confession of judgment was made with intent to prefer has been held sufficient though it does not set forth the facts and circumstances from which such intent may be inferred. "It would be quite impracticable to set out all the facts and circumstances upon which a party may rely to show intent, especially where, . . . it is necessary to show actual rather than constructive intent." In re Musgrove Min. Co., (D. C. Idaho 1916) 234 Fed. 99.

Amendment of fatal defects.—It has been decided that the court has no power to allow an amendment to a petition setting up a new, separate, and independent act of bankruptcy which occurred more than 4 months before the application to insert it in the petition. But even if the court has power to allow amendments of this character, it certainly ought not to do so, except upon a showing that the petitioner was duly diligent and that the interests of justice require such action. In re Forbes, (D. C. Mass. 1916) 235 Fed. 316.

Amendment of allegation as to act of bankruptcy.—The averments as to acts of bankruptcy may be amended. In re Irish, (E. D. Pa. 1915) 228 Fed. 573.

Amendment to avoid preference.—Although there has been an adjudication on a voluntary petition filed over four months after an alleged preferential transfer a petition in involuntary proceedings, commenced within the four months' period, may be amended where it alleges a preferential transfer in the language of the statute, omitting only the information necessary to enable the bankrupt to meet the charge, if necessary to protect rights which would be lost under the adjudication of the voluntary petition alone. International Silver Co. v. New York Jewelry Co., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1916) 233 Fed. 945, 147 C. C. A. 619.

Vol. I, p. 999, sec. 59c.

Notice to creditors unnecessary.—Notice to creditors of the filing of a petition is unnecessary. Coppard v. Gardner, (Tex. Civ. App. 1918) 199 S. W. 650.

Vol. I, p. 1000, sec. 59d.

Notice required.—This section requires notification to "such creditors," meaning, those creditors named in the list filed with the answer, and hence necessarily the creditors who were such when the petition was filed. In re Kehoe, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 233 Fed. 415, 147 C. C. A. 351.

Vol. I, p. 1001, sec. 59f.

Jurisdiction.—The court which is charged with the duty of collecting and distributing a bankrupt estate alone has jurisdiction to authorize other creditors to intervene as parties. Babbitt v. Read, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 240 Fed. 694, 153 C. C. A. 492.

Opposing petition—Involuntary proceedings.—When one having an interest in preventing or vacating an adjudication of bankruptcy on an involuntary petition seeks leave to appear and plead to the petition, and discloses as the occasion of his proposed participation in the proceedings an alleged unwarranted substitution by the debtor of an admission of the petition's allegation of insolvency in the place of his previously made denial of that allegation, the first question to be determined is whether the proposed defense was duly presented prior to the adjudication so made. The application calls for the exercise by the court of a sound discretion in determining, in the first place, whether the leave sought should be granted or refused. Abbott v. Wauchula Mfg., etc., Co., (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1916) 229 Fed. 677, 144 C. C. A. 87.

A motion to dismiss the petition being in the nature of a demurrer, the facts set forth therein, which clearly present the questions involved, will be considered as true. Graham Mfg. Co. v. Davy-Pocahontas Coal Co., (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1916) 238 Fed. 488, 151 C. C. A. 424.

Effect of intervention.—Where a person has, on his own motion, obtained an order allowing him to intervene in a bankruptcy proceeding he thereby submits himself to the jurisdiction of the court and must remain there so as concerns any attack by him on the court's orders. In re Ohio Copper Min. Co., (S. D. N. Y. 1917) 241 Fed. 711.

A single intervening creditor has the right to carry on a petition good on its face. In re Culgin-Pace Contracting Co., (D. C. Mass. 1915) 224 Fed. 245.

Withdrawal from petition.—"It is not within the power of a creditor who joins in good faith in a petition to have his debtor adjudged a bankrupt thereafter to withdraw from such petition, and prevent the matter from proceeding, so long as any of the petitioning creditors insist that the matter do proceed. It is doubtful whether such petitioning creditor may withdraw in any event without leave of court so to do. Any other rule would leave the door open for the perpetration of fraud, and the surreptitious bargaining between the debtor and petitioning creditors in an effort to procure the withdrawal of a sufficient number of the latter to reduce the amount of claims or the number of creditors below the requirements of the statute. The court cannot inquire into the good faith of every attempted withdrawal, nor indeed is there any way to prove the secret bargainings between debtor and creditors, and the only way to prevent them is to hold such attempted withdrawals to be ineffectual so long as any of the petitioning creditors desire in good faith to prosecute their petition to an adjudication." In re San Jose Baking Co., (M. D. Cal. 1916) 232 Fed. 200.

Vol I, p. 1003, sec. 59g.

Sections 58a (8) and 59g when read together relate only to dismissals upon application of a party in interest, and do not apply to the dismissal of a voluntary petition, upon the initiation of the court, and for the protection of its officers from the continuance of merely futile proceedings, on account of the bankrupt's own failure to take the preliminary steps necessary to bring the creditors before the court. In re Crisp, (E. D. Tenn. 1917) 239 Fed. 419.

Notice to creditors.—Where there is neither an application by the petitioner for the dismissal, nor the consent of any of the parties, and the application is opposed by the petitioning creditor, it has been held that notice of the application served upon the petitioning creditors who have appeared in the proceeding is sufficient and that it need not be served on all the creditors of the alleged bankrupt. In re Mason-Seaman Transp. Co., (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 235 Fed. 974.

Vol. I, p. 1004, sec. 60a.

- I. Creation of preferences.
- II. Constituent elements.

I. CREATION OF PREFERENCES (p. 1005)

Preference created by judgment.—A preference is created where a debtor suffers and procures a judgment to be obtained and entered against it. Grant v. National Bank, (N. D. N. Y. 1916) 232 Fed. 201.

"Transfer" defined.—The word "transfer" is given a broad meaning by the statutory definition. A money payment is within this generality of definition. Golden Hill Distilling Co. v. Logue, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 243 Fed. 342, 156 C. C. A. 122.

Preference created by transfer.—See to same effect as original annotation, Wolfe v. Anderson Bank, (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1916) 238 Fed. 343, 151 C. C. A. 359; Grandison v. National Bank, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 231 Fed. 800, 145 C. C. A. 620.

A security transferred for future advances, in the absence of fraud or collusion, does not constitute a voidable preference. Dunlap v. Seattle Nat. Bank, (1916) 93 Wash. 568, 161 Pac. 364.

A transfer to a third person may be a preference where done with intent to evade the statute. Grandison v. National Bank, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 231 Fed. 800, 145 C. C. A. 620; McKnight v. Shadbolt, (1917) 98 Wash. 665, 168 Pac. 473.

Insolvent partners of an insolvent partnership cannot rightfully devote the whole of their separate estates to the benefit of a single firm creditor, under the guise of treating him as their private creditor, and so ignore their joint and several liability to all the firm creditors. To do this operates to create a preference. Ft. Pitt Coal, etc., Co. v. Diser, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 239 Fed. 443, 152 C. C. A. 321.

Preferences created by attachment.

The provision of the Bankruptcy Act making void the preference gained by an attachment does not preclude the sheriff from asserting his superior right to have his fees paid upon the discharge of the levy. Gotham Nat. Bank v. Hickox, (1917) 100 Misc. 372, 166 N. Y. S. 644.

Preference created by mortgage.—A mortgage operates as a preference when it is executed within the four months' period, and its effect is to enable one creditor to obtain a greater percentage of his debt than is obtained by other creditors of the same class. In re Hawkins, (N. D. Ga. 1917) 243 Fed. 792.

Preference created by payment—Payment of rent.—Where a tenant within the four months prior to his bankruptcy paid money to his landlord, who, instead of applying it to current rent, applied it to the payment of back rent upon which he would have had only the right of an ordinary creditor, it was held that such application was a preference. In re Louis J. Bergdoll Motor Co., (E. D. Pa. 1915) 225 Fed. 87.

Dividends paid by an assignee under a general assignment for the benefit of creditors do not come within the Bankruptcy Act's definition of preferences. In re Vorck, (D. C. Mont. 1916) 235 Fed. 655.

Money acquired after petition filed.—Bankrupts may properly pay a creditor money earned by them after petition filed or obtained from relatives and friends. Cohen v. Bacharach, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 229 Fed. 385, 143 C. C. A. 505.

Money deposited in pursuance of contract to pay all lienable claims.—A contract between a railway company, a construction company, and the latter's sureties, which, after reciting the controversy as to whether the construction contract had been performed, the filing of claims for liens and attachment suits for more than the sum admitted by the railway company to be due, and the latter company's assertion of its right against the surety companies, fixed a sum to be paid by the railway company in full settlement of the mutual claims between it and the construction company, which sum, with an additional amount to be furnished by the surety companies, should be put into the hands of named trustees "to be used in paying all lienable claims" growing out of the construction contract, created an equitable lien in favor of all alleged liens which the parties should deem to have color of right, and the fund having thus been appropriated and set aside more than four months before bankruptcy proceedings against the construction company were begun, a preference was not created by the formal ascertainment of, and payment to, a specific beneficiary within the four months period. Johnson v. Root Mfg. Co., (1915) 241 U. S. 160, 36 S. Ct. 520, 60 U. S. (L. ed.) 934.

Banking transactions—In general.—A bank which is a creditor of a bankrupt, who has in the usual course of business a sum of money on deposit to his credit at the date of bankruptcy, is entitled to apply the same on its claim as a set-off, and such action does not create a preference. Wichita Fourth Nat. Bank v. Smith, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 240 Fed. 19, 153 C. C. A. 55.

If an insolvent, within four months antecedent to bankruptcy, should make deposits or give checks to a bank to enable it to secure a preference, the transaction would be inimical to the Bankruptcy Law, and would be held void as a preference. But when an insolvent customer makes a deposit with his bank, in good faith and in the usual course of business, at any time within four months before the petition in bankruptcy is filed against him, the bank is allowed to credit the amount on notes of the bankrupt held by it. American Bank, etc., Co. v. Copard, (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1915) 227 Fed. 597, 142 C. C. A. 229.

Preferential payments to banks.—Where it appeared that deposits which accumulated in a bank were paid over to it by the officers of the bankrupt company, there was held to be a preference, it clearly appearing that the money was received by the bank, when its officers had every reason to know that a preference would result and that the bank would get more on its general claim against the bankrupt than other creditors of the same class. In re Fairburn Oil, etc., Co.; (N. D. Ga. 1917) 240 Fed. 835.

II. CONSTITUENT ELEMENTS (p. 1014)

In general.—A transfer by an insolvent person, to constitute a voidable preference under this section as amended, must be on account of a pre-existing debt. In re Mosher, (N. D. N. Y. 1915) 224 Fed. 739.

Before adjudication bankrupts are at liberty to deal with their property as they see fit, so long as they do not give a preference to any creditor or impair the value of their estate. O'Connell v. Worcester, (1916) 225 Mass. 159, 114 N. E. 201.

In construing the meaning of the words "will be" in this section it has been declared that by the very language of section 60b the payment must operate as a preference at the time it is made, or not at all, and the belief of the creditor as to whether it will constitute a preference or not must be of the time the payment is made. Peck v. Whitmer, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 231 Fed. 893, 146 C. C. A. 89.

Insolvency.—In a proceeding to determine whether a transfer of a debtor is a preferential one, the state rule of insolvency is the one to be followed. Simpson v. Western Hardware, etc., Co., (1917) 97 Wash. 626, 167 Pac. 113.

Intention to give a preference is not material since the amendment of 1910. Golden Hill Distilling Co. v. Logue, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 243 Fed. 342, 156 C. C. A. 122.

Time of obtaining preference.—The effect and object of the amendment was to extend the time within which the conveyance or assignment or preference could be assailed, and the property conveyed or assigned subjected as assets for the benefit of all the creditors alike, thereby avoiding the preference. It did not make void or voidable any mortgage, conveyance, assignment, or preference which would not otherwise have been voidable had it been made within the four months of the filing of the petition of bankruptcy; but it did have the effect to make the date from which the four months should be reckoned start from the recording or filing for registration, rather than from the date of execution, though whether the transaction in question was void or voidable must be ascertained from the facts and circumstances existing at the date of execution, rather than from those obtaining at the date of the filing for record. Gray, etc., Hardware Co. v. Guthrie, (Ala. 1917) 75 So. 318.

In calculating the four months the preferential character of a transfer of property is to be determined as of the date of the filing of the petition. Rubenstein v. Lottow, (1916) 223 Mass. 227, 111 N. E. 973.

Where recording required.—Where registration and record of a deed was required and this was not done until within the prohibited four months' period, it is therefore voidable as to the excess over a homestead right. Sieg v. Greene, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1915) 225 Fed. 955, 141 C. C. A. 79, Ann. Cas. 1917C 1006.

A chattel mortgage is invalid against lien creditors and the trustee until acknowledged and where this Act essential to validity is not performed until within the four months' period, the mortgage operates as a preference. In re Caslon Press, (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1915) 229 Fed. 133, 143 C. C. A. 409.

Instrument valid under state law.—The recording of a conveyance by an insolvent is not "required" by law, within the meaning of the provisions of the Bankrupt Act, §§ 60a and 60b, where, under the applicable local law, the failure to record a deed does not render it invalid as to the grantor's creditors, but only as to subsequent bona fide purchasers without notice. Carey v. Donohue, (1915) 240 U. S. 430, 36 S. Ct. 386, 60 U. S. (L. ed.) 726, L. R. A. 1917A 295. See also Johnson v. Barrett, (N. D. Ga. 1916) 237 Fed. 112.

Where by the state law a deed is good between the parties and against all the world, except subsequent purchasers in good faith, and for a valuable consideration from the same vendor, whose conveyance is first recorded, a trustee in bankruptcy not being such a purchaser and not representing any such person, the conveyance is not by law required to be recorded against him. Marsh v. Leseman, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 484, 155 C. C. A. 260.

Necessity of diminishing estate.—Where a person agreed to loan money to a corporation on condition that she receive a mortgage for a like sum on designated property, and delivered a check for the amount on like condition, it was held that a return of the money in a few days on her demand, because of a failure to give the mortgage, did not constitute a preference, as the money remained her money, and no rights of creditors had attached. Wallerstein v. Gallagher, (E. D. Pa. 1916) 236 Fed. 602.

Where securities were loaned to a firm of brokers, the lender retaining title, for the purpose of hypothecation to aid the firm in financial difficulties, a return of the securities to the lender was held not to constitute a preference. Robinson v. Roe, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 233 Fed. 936, 147 C. C. A. 610.

Transfer for present consideration.—This section does not apply where the bankrupt receives a present consideration for the transfer. Lake View State Bank v. Jones, (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 821, 155 C. C. A. 409; In re Sutherland Co., (D. C. Mass. 1917) 245 Fed. 863; O'Connell v. Worcester, (1916) 225 Mass. 159, 114 N. E. 201.

Where property is transferred by a bankrupt, part of the consideration for such transfer being a pre-existing debt, and the other part a present payment of money, such transfer will be held void, except to the extent that a present consideration was paid therefor. Payne v. Schon, (W. Va. 1917) 94 S. E. 34.

A chattel mortgage is not a preference where given at the same time a loan is made to the mortgagor. In re Metropolitan Dairy Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1915) 224 Fed. 444, 140 C. C. A. 646.

Renewal of fire policies.—Where the fire insurance policy on a stock of goods was made payable to the seller and some of the policies were renewed within the four months' period, and loss thereunder was paid to the seller within that period, there was held to be no preference. Sullivan v. Myer, (1917) 137 Tenn. 412, 193 S. W. 124.

The formal assignment of a policy of fire insurance has been held not to constitute a preference where the policy was actually pledged and the assignment actually made more than four months before bankruptcy. Hecker v. Commercial State Bank, (1916) 35 N. D. 12, 159 N. W. 97.

Vol. I, p. 1026, sec. 60b.

I. Elements of voidability.

II. Recovery of voidable preferences.

I. ELEMENTS OF VOIDABILITY (p. 1026)

In general—"A trustee in bankruptcy is entitled under the Bankruptcy Act to recover a transfer of property if the following circumstances concur: (1) That a 'transfer' of the property of the debtor has taken place. (2) That the debtor at the time of the 'transfer' was insolvent. (3) That the transfer was made within four months before the filing of the petition in bankruptcy, or after the filing and before the adjudication. (4) The transfer must enable the creditor to obtain a greater percentage of his debt than other creditors of the same class. (5) The person receiving it must have had reasonable cause to believe that the enforcement of the transfer would effect a preference." Grandison v. National Bank of Commerce, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 231 Fed. 800, 145 C. C. A. 620. See also Hogar v. Watt, (M. D. Pa. 1915) 232 Fed. 373; Abele v. Beacon Trust Co., (1917) 228 Mass. 438, 117 N. E. 833; Putnam v. United States Trust Co., (1916) 223 Mass. 199, 111 N. E. 969.

This section as amended in 1910, authorizes the trustee to avoid a preferential transfer only when the person receiving the transfer or to be benefited thereby, or his agent acting therein, "shall then have reasonable cause to believe that the enforcement of such transfer would effect preference, it shall be voidable by the trustee," etc. In re Terrell, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 743, 159 C. C. A. 45.

An act on the part of the bankrupt whereby he surrenders or encumbers his property or some part of it for the benefit of a particular creditor, and thereby diminishes the estate, is what is meant by the provisions of this section. Bailey v. Baker Ice Machine Co., (1917) 239 U. S. 268, 36 S. Ct. 50, 60 U. S. (L. ed.) 275.

The word "required" in this section refers directly to statutes in many states relating to recording which through various forms of expression seek to protect creditors by providing that their rights shall be superior to transfers while off the record. Recognizing the beneficial results of these enactments and intending that rights based thereon might be utilized for the advantage of bankrupt estates, Congress inserted (amendment of 1910) the clause "or of the recording or registering of the transfer if by law recording or registering thereof is required." Purchasers are not of those in whose favor registration is "required," but the reference is to persons concerned in the distribution of the estate, i. e., "creditors, including those whose position the trustees was entitled to take." It properly follows that before a trustee may avoid a transfer because of the provision in question he must in fact represent or be entitled to take the place of some creditor whose claim actually stood in a superior position to the challenged transfer while unrecorded and within the specified period. Martin v. Commercial Nat. Bank, (1917) 245 U. S. 513, 38 S. Ct. 176, 62 U. S. (L. ed. 201, affirming (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1916) 226 Fed. 651, 141 C. C. A. 85. See also Hawkins v. Dannenberg Co., (S. D. Ga. 1916) 234 Fed. 752.

The insolvency must exist at the time of the transfer, and the transfer must then operate as a preference and the creditor must then have reasonable cause to believe that the enforcement of the transfer would effect a preference. Peck v. Whitmer, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 231 Fed. 893, 146 C. C. A. 89.

Distinction between remedies under section 60b and 67e.—"The provisions of sections 60b and 67e, disclose a wide difference as to what is required to show liability. To establish a liability under the former section no actual fraud need be shown. The section merely condemns a transfer by bankrupt within four months for the purpose of creating a preference, providing the party receiving the transfer has reasonable cause to believe that a preference was intended. The legal remedy is entirely adequate, and no relief is offered in equity that the law does not afford. To establish a liability under section 67e actual fraud must be shown, and suits under that provision are peculiarly within the cognizance of and should be entertained by the equity court." Simpson v. Western Hardware, etc., Co., (W. D. Wash. 1915) 227 Fed. 304.

"The exercise of a pre-existing right, lawful in the local jurisdiction, although occurring within the prescribed period, is not an illegal preference, unless made with intent to hinder or defraud creditors." MacDonald v. Aetna Indemnity Co., (1916) 90 Conn. 415, 97 Atl. 332.

It cannot be ruled as matter of law that there has been a preference, but it must be determined as a fact. Putnam v. United States Trust Co., (1916) 223 Mass. 199, 111 N. E. 969.

Reasonable cause to believe transaction would effect preference.—The amendment of 1910 does not dispense with the necessity of proving reasonable cause to believe that such transfer would effect a preference. Maysville First Bank v. Alexander, (Okla. 1915) 153 Pac. 646.

A suit cannot be maintained under this section unless the defendant knew or had reasonable cause to believe that a preference would result from the payments the trustee seeks to recover. Grandison v. National Bank of Commerce, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 231 Fed. 785, 145 C. C. A. 620.

The creditor who receives a partial payment on his debt, so far as the question of his having reasonable cause to believe that the enforcement of the payment would effect a preference is concerned, has the right to look at the bankrupt's estate at the time the payment is made. Bankruptcy may never occur, but if it does, the creditor may not be charged with a knowledge of what an estate will pay out after it has undergone the shrinking process of the courts. Peck v. Whitmer, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 231 Fed. 893, 146 C. C. A. 89.

Reasonable cause to believe that payments would effect a preference has been held to be established where in connection with other evidence it appeared that the sale of the property and distribution of the proceeds was in pursuance of a plan to pay the local creditors, regardless of nonresident creditors. D. C. Wise Coal Co. v. Small, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 225 Fed. 524, 140 C. C. A. 508.

"The creditor, or his agent acting in the matter, must have had such information at the time as gave him reasonable cause to believe that the taking of the transfer would, as to then existing creditors, if the transfer were later enforced, enable such creditor to obtain a greater percentage of his debt than any other of such creditors of the same class." In re Gaylord, (N. D. N. Y. 1915) 225 Fed. 234.

"Reasonable cause to believe" is usually inferred from such facts as from inability to pay bills in the usual course of business as they mature, from poor business, and from transactions of a character not ordinarily resorted to by solvent traders. In re Sutherland Co., (D. C. Mass. 1917) 245 Fed. 663.

"Where in any particular case it is shown that a creditor at the time he receives full payment of his debt knows that his debtor is insolvent or has knowledge of such facts, which investigated would show insolvency, it necessarily results that the creditor had reasonable cause to believe that the enforcement of the transfer would effect a preference." Peck v. Whitmer, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 231 Fed. 893, 146 C. C. A. 89.

Question of fact.—Whether a person had such cause is a question of fact to be determined from all the circumstances attending the transaction and the relations existing between the parties thereto: Marshall v. Nevins, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 476, 155 C. C. A. 252; Stephen Putney Shoe Co. v. Dashiell, (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 121, 158 C. C. A. 121; Putnam v. United States Const. Co., (1916) 223 Mass. 199, 111 N. E. 696; MacDonald v. Aetna Indemnity Co., (1916) 90 Conn. 415, 97 Atl. 332.

Each case is dependent on its own circumstances. Healy v. Wehrung, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 229 Fed. 686, 144 C. C. A. 96; Clifford v. Morrill, (D. C. Mass. 1916) 230 Fed. 190; Peninsula Bank v. Wolcott, (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1916) 232 Fed. 68, 146 C. C. A. 260, Ann. Cas. 1918C 477; Grant v. National Bank, (N. D. N. Y. 1916) 232 Fed. 201; Paris First Nat. Bank v. Yerkes, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1916) 238 Fed. 278, 151 C. C. A. 294; In re Sutherland Co., (D. C. Mass. 1917) 245 Fed. 663.

Presumption.—"The pledgee, taking possession in pursuance of and in the enforcement of his pre-existing right, is prima facie presumed to take in the belief in his right, and not in the belief that his taking is with intent to give himself a preference." MacDonald v. Aetna Indemnity Co., (1916) 90 Conn. 415, 97 Atl. 332.

The proof must show the insolvency of the debtor as defined by subdivision 15 of section 1. In re Walker Starter Co., (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1916) 235 Fed. 285, 148 C. C. A. 645.

Positive knowledge unnecessary.—Knowledge of sufficient facts and circumstances to put a prudent man upon inquiry is all that is required. Grandison v. National Bank of Commerce, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 231 Fed. 800, 145 C. C. A. 620; Maysville First Bank v. Alexander, (Okla. 1915) 153 Pac. 646; Jacobs v. Saperstein, (1916) 225 Mass. 300, 114 N. E. 360, see also Walter v. National Fire Ins. Co., (1917) 101 Neb. 639, 164 N. W. 569.

The knowledge which a creditor has that his payment is out of funds which (if liquidation were had) would be needed equally by other creditors brings him within the language of the statute. Scheuer v. Katsoff, (E. D. N. Y. 1916) 233 Fed. 473.

In the case of a transfer of accounts by a bankrupt to a bank within four months of the filing of the petition under such circumstances as naturally would have caused an ordinary person, had he been the creditor receiving the preference, to have believed that thereby a preference would be effected, it has been declared that property received under such circumstances constitutes a voidable preference and the trustee can recover for the benefit of the bankrupt estate. Aronin v. Security Bank, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1915) 228 Fed. 888, 143 C. C. A. 286.

Duty of inquiry.—"When put on inquiry and there is a failure to inquire, it may be presumed that inquiry would have disclosed the truth, all the facts; but when put on inquiry, and due inquiry is made and the truth is either wholly suppressed or so colored and explained that the creditor taking the security does not, in fact, have the information which would give reasonable cause to believe, knowledge cannot be imputed to him and he held to have had reasonable cause to believe." In re Gaylord, (N. D. N. Y. 1915) 225 Fed. 234.

A preference is not necessarily actually fraudulent, and it is not necessary to prove that the creditor taking the security actually knew the insolvent condition of his debtor giving it, or that he actually believed the security and its enforcement would work or operate as a preference. The existence of facts which came to the creditor's knowledge, or as to which facts he had such information as put him on inquiry in taking the security, or transfer, may establish reasonable cause to believe. In re Gaylord, (N. D. N. Y. 1915) 225 Fed. 234; In re States Printing Co., (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1917) 238 Fed. 775, 151 C. C. A. 625. See also Jacobs v. Saperstein, (1916) 225 Mass. 300, 114 N. E. 360; Walter v. National Fire Ins. Co., (1917) 101 Neb. 639, 164 N. W. 569.

The question of knowledge ordinarily is one of fact dependent on the evidence in each case, and no rule can be formulated by which all cases can be mathematically adjusted. Jacobs v. Saperstein, (1916) 225 Mass. 300, 114 N. E. 360.

Reason to suspect insufficient.—Mere suspicion is not sufficient to charge creditors with knowledge of, or reasonable cause to believe, the debtor is insolvent. There must be evidence of facts sufficient to put a reasonably prudent person upon inquiry, which, if pursued, would show that the debtor is insolvent and that a preference will be the result. Nichols v. Elken, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1915) 225 Fed. 689, 140 C. C. A. 563; Brookheim v. Greenbaum, (S. D. N. Y. 1912) 228 Fed. 114, 142 C. C. A. 520; Putnam v. U. S. Trust Co., (1916) 223 Mass. 199, 111 N. E. 969; Rubenstein v. Lottow, (1916) 223 Mass. 227, 111 N. E. 973; Dunlap v. Seattle Nat. Bank, (1916) 93 Wash. 568, 161 Pac. 364.

Knowledge presumed.—In the case of a mortgage given to cover the whole of a stock of goods it has been declared that the giving and receiving of such a mortgage is an act entirely out of the ordinary course of business and is almost conclusive evidence of the intent of the mortgagor to give and of the mortgagee to receive a preference over other creditors, and therefore of an intent on the part of the mortgagor to hinder and delay the creditors other than the mortgagee, the receiving of such a mortgage gives to the mortgagee reasonable cause to believe the mortgagor insolvent. Schneider v. Bosley, (S. D. 1917) 165 N. W. 1.

A mortgagee is bound to draw such inference as would naturally follow from the facts coming to his attention; and, where those facts would ordinarily excite suspicion as to solvency and cause inquiry, he is to be held to such knowledge as a reasonable inquiry would have furnished. In re Sutherland Co., (D. C. Mass. 1917) 245 Fed. 663.

Where the purchaser and assignee of a chattel mortgage knew or ought to have known that it was voidable because of its preferential character and he obtained possession of the mortgaged property and, through foreclosure proceedings, converted it to his own use, it has been declared that, upon the plainest principles of law, he became liable for its value when the mortgage was set aside. The fact that he was not the creditor for whose immediate benefit the preference was primarily given does not forbid a decree against him. Feilbach Co. v. Russell, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1916) 233 Fed. 412, 147 C. C. A. 348.

Where there is no room to doubt that a wife knew of, and, indeed, participated in, a series of nearly simultaneous transactions by which her husband was divesting himself of practically all his property for the payment of part of his debts, and that she knew he was leaving a large part unpaid and unsecured, it was said to follow that the preferential payment was voidable as against her and the money could have been recovered from her, if it had remained in her hands; and it followed, also, that any attempt by her to put it beyond the reach of a possible action by a possible trustee was voidable, as being in hindrance and defeat of that portion of the Bankruptcy Law which contemplated that the trustee should recover such preferences. Watson v. Adams, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 441, 155 C. C. A. 217.

Whether or not the debt secured by a lien is a pre-existing one must be determined as of its date of the creation of the lien. In re Mossler Co., (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1917) 239 Fed. 262, 152 C. C. A. 250.

Intent to prefer.—The intent of the debtor is not of any consequence. In re Gaylord, (N. D. N. Y. 1915) 225 Fed. 234.

It is not necessary for the trustee to show that the bankrupt intended a preference or that the creditor believed that such preference was intended. Abele v. Beacon Trust Co., (1917) 228 Mass. 438, 117 N. E. 833.

In order to create a preference, such as will be held void under this act, no showing of fraud is at all necessary, such a preference consisting in a person while insolvent, and within four months of his bankruptcy, procuring or suffering judgment to be entered against himself, or making a transfer of his property, the effect of which will be to enable one creditor to obtain a greater percentage of his debt than any other creditor of the same class. Payne v. Schon, (W. Va. 1917) 94 S. E. 34.

Facts of case as controlling.—Under the facts of the particular case there was held to be a preferential transfer in each of the following cases. In re French, (N. D. N. Y. 1916) 231 Fed. 255 (chattel mortgages and assignment); Rosenthal v. Bronx Nat. Bank, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 231 Fed. 691, 145 C. C. A. 577 (chattel mortgages); In re Alden, (D. C. Me. 1916) 233 Fed. 160 (mortgage); Feilbach Co. v. Russell, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1916) 233 Fed. 412, 147 C. C. A. 348 (chattel mortgage); Scheuer v. Katsoff, (E. D. N. Y. 1916) 233 Fed. 473 (payments); Security Trust, etc., Bank v. Wm. R. Staats Co., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 233 Fed. 514, 147 C. C. A. 400 (mortgage).

II. RECOVERY OF VOIDABLE PREFERENCES (p. 1038)

In General.—Where it is shown that all the elements of a voidable preference, as defined by this section, exist there may be a recovery by the trustee. State Bank v. Ingram, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 237 Fed. 76, 150 C. C. A. 278.

"A long line of decisions has determined that the relief sought, if granted, under section 60, extends only to an avoidance of the preference secured by the lender himself as a creditor, or as the practical agent of one who is a creditor." Johnstone v. Babb, (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1917) 240 Fed. 668, 153 C. C. A. 466.

A suit to recover property claimed to have been received as a voidable preference is not a part of the "proceedings in bankruptcy" but is a controversy either at law or in equity between the trustee and a third party. McCulloch v. Davenport Sav. Bank, (S. D. Ia. 1915) 226 Fed. 309.

A contract of conditional sale which was not recorded until after the conditional purchasers had become insolvent has been held not to operate as a preferential transfer by them, within the meaning of the bankrupt Act of this section. Bailey v. Baker Ice Machine Co., (1915) 239 U. S. 268, 36 S. Ct. 50, 60 U. S. (L. ed.) 275.

Preference created by judgment.—A creditor who recovers a judgment, by consent or in invitum, and by execution sale collects his money within four months preceding bankruptcy, and with reasonable cause to believe, etc., receives a voidable preference, which he must repay to the trustee. Golden Hill Distilling Co. v.

Logue, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 243 Fed. 342, 156 C. C. A. 122.

Improvements made on property transferred.—Where a transferee immediately after taking possession of property transferred within the four months period made large expenditures in improvements it was held that any property thus added was no part of the estate in bankruptcy. Sieg v. Greene, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1915) 225 Fed. 955, 141 C. C. A. 79.

Pleadings.—A petition is defective where it omits any statement that the recipients of a conveyance were chargeable with notice that a preference would result. Watson v. Adams, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 441, 155 C. C. A. 217.

A trustee must allege and prove all the statutory elements of a preference before he can recover from the defendant. Anderson v. Stayton State Bank, (1916) 82 Ore. 857, 159 Pac. 1033.

In a suit to recover property claimed to have been received as a voidable preference no allegation or proof of a demand and refusal is necessary. McCulloch v. Davenport Sav. Bank, (S. D. Ida. 1915) 226 Fed. 309.

Evidence.—The burden of proof is on the trustee to show that the creditor had reasonable ground to believe that the transfer of the security would effect a preference. Dunlap v. Seattle Nat. Bank, (1916) 93 Wash. 568, 161 Pac. 364. See also In re Hull, (N. D. Ohio 1915) 224 Fed. 796; Clifford v. Morrill, (D. C. Mass. 1916) 230 Fed. 190; Marshall v. Nevins, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 476, 155 C. C. A. 252; Brown v. Weimar First State Bank, (Tex. Civ. App. 1918) 199 S. W. 895; Simpson v. Western Hardware, etc., Co., (1917) 97 Wash. 626, 167 Pac. 113.

The burden of proof rests on the trustee to show knowledge. Watson v. Adams, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 441, 155 C. C. A. 217.

The burden of proof is on the trustee alleging the invalidity or voidability of the transfer. In re Gaylord, (N. D. N. Y. 1915) 226 Fed. 234. See also Rosenman v. Coppard, (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1916) 228 Fed. 114, 142 C. C. A. 520; Peck v. Whitmer, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 231 Fed. 893, 146 C. C. A. 89; Frederick v. People's Bank, (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 84, 158 C. C. A. 310; Putnam v. U. S. Trust Co., (1916) 223 Mass. 199, 111 N. E. 969.

Property transferred by a conveyance which operates as a preference can be recovered from any one who is not a purchaser in good faith and for value, and the burden rests upon the person claiming to be such purchaser to show that he paid value. Watson v. Adams, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 441, 155 C. C. A. 217.

In order to establish that a mortgage was a preference it is necessary for the trustee to prove that the mortgage was given while the mortgagor was insolvent, that the effect of the enforcement of such mortgage would enable the mortgagee to obtain a greater percentage of its debt than other creditors of the same class, and that the mortgagee had reasonable cause to believe that it was intended thereby to give a preference. In re Walker Starter Co., (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1916) 235 Fed. 285, 148 C. C. A. 645.

It is not sufficient to defeat the allowance of creditor's claims that they received preferences as defined by law, but it also must appear that at the time the payments were made they had reasonable cause to believe that the enforcement of the payment or transfer would effect a preference. Therefore the burden of proof is upon the trustee to show by a fair preponderance of the evidence (1) that the bankrupt was insolvent at the time the several payments were made; (2) that the payments so made enabled appellants to receive a larger percentage of their respective debts than any other creditor of the same class; (3) that at the time each particular payment was made appellants had reasonable cause to believe that the enforcement of the payment or transfer would effect a preference. Peck v. Whitmer, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 231 Fed. 893, 146 C. C. A. 89.

Suit under this section controversy in bankruptcy proceedings.—A suit brought under this section by a trustee in bankruptcy to set aside a conveyance on the ground that it was made with a view to giving a preference in violation of the Bankruptcy Act is a controversy arising in bankruptcy proceedings and the decree therein is final, under the Act of Congress of January 28, 1915, 38 Stat. L. 804, and the only right of review by the Supreme Court is by a writ of certiorari. Staats Co. v. Security Trust, etc., Bank, (1917) 243 U. S. 121, 37 S. Ct. 336, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 632.

Hearing on appeal.—The finding of the referee as to whether there has been a preference will not, especially when confirmed by the lower court, be reversed on appeal. Ullman v. Coppard, (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 124, 158 C. C. A. 350; Stephen Putney Shoe Co. v. Dashiell, (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 121, 158 C. C. A. 347.

Where the referee found as a conclusion of fact that the appellee bank had no knowledge or reasonable cause to believe that the debtor company was insolvent when, within four months prior to its bankruptcy, it transferred to the bank a certain note to apply upon or as security for a pre-existing debt, it was held that in the absence of a preponderance of opposing proof such as to warrant a reversal the decree appealed from would be affirmed. Owens v. Farmer's Bank, (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1915) 228 Fed. 508, 143 C. C. A. 90.

Vol. I, p. 1045, sec. 60d.

A petition for re-examination is a condition precedent to any determination by the referee that any portion of the amount paid to an attorney, as specified in the section, may be recovered by the trustee for the benefit of the estate as an excess over and above what is reasonable. In re Union Dredging Co., (D. C. Del. 1915) 225 Fed. 188.

Vol. I, p. 1048, sec. 61a.

Deposit of funds in special hearing interest savings accounts.—Under the provisions of this section and section 47a (3) the placing of funds by the trustee in banks in special interest bearing savings account instead of depositing them in a general checking account is unauthorized. In re Dayton Coal, etc., Co., (E. D. Tenn. 1916) 239 Fed. 737.

Vol. I, p. 1048, sec. 62a.

Necessary expenses allowed—Expense for rent.—If the premises are needed and used by the trustee for carrying on the business or other administration purposes, their rent, or, at least, their rental value, forms an expense of administration. Louisville Woolen Mills v. Tapp, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 239 Fed. 463, 152 C. C. A. 341. See also In re Mullings Clothing Co., (D. C. Conn. 1916) 230 Fed. 681.

Attorney fees.—In a case in which compensation is sought by attorneys for services rendered by them in the commencement and prosecution of the preference suit in the name of the trustee and with his consent, and the services so performed have resulted in bringing a fund into the court, which is the only source of dividends open to the general creditors of the bankrupt estate, it has been held that they are entitled to an allowance for such services and also expenses out of the fund. In re Stearns Salt, etc., Co., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1915) 225 Fed. 1, 140 C. C. A. 461.

Fees of trustee's attorney.—"As a general rule an allowance should not be made to a trustee in bankruptcy for compensation for an attorney employed by him for doing such things for the protection and benefit of the estate as do not require professional skill but are well within the ability of a person possessing ordinary intelligence and business capacity." In re Union Dredging Co., (D. C. Del. 1915) 225 Fed. 188.

An assignee or trustee who has in good faith protected and preserved property to the benefit of the estate of a bankrupt under an assignment or trust deed valid while he was acting under it is entitled to payment of his legitimate expenses and to compensation for his services and for the services of his attorney out of the proceeds of the property he has preserved which subsequently comes to the trustee in bankruptcy. Bramble v. Brett, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 230 Fed. 385, 144 C. C. A. 527.

Fees of attorney for receiver.—Fees should be allowed only for services beneficial to the estate. In re Williams, (N. D. Ohio 1917) 240 Fed. 788.

Vol. I, p. 1055, sec. 63a (1).

The date of filing the petition marks the line between claims which are provable and those which are not. Board of Commerce v. Security Trust Co., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1915) 225 Fed. 454, 140 C. C. A. 486; In re Leslie, etc., Co., (D. C. Mass. 1916) 230 Fed. 465; In re Mullings Clothing Co., (D. C. Conn. 1916) 230 Fed. 681; In re Henry, (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 238 Fed. 639.

The liability of a building and loan association to stockholders for amounts paid in and proportions of profits, if any, is fixed, notwithstanding the fact that it may require examination of books to ascertain the exact amount due to each shareholder, and a claim therefor is provable. Merchants' Nat. Bank v. Continental Bldg., etc., Ass'n, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 232 Fed. 828, 147 C. C. A. 22.

Judgments.—The Bankruptcy Act expressly makes it unimportant whether or not the liability is payable at the end of the filing of the petition. If the debt was then a fixed liability in the form of a judgment the right to file the claim existed. A judgment is primarily absolutely owing when rendered and entered. If it has been paid before the petition in bankruptcy against the judgment debtor has been filed, or if some agreement of satisfaction has been had, or, perhaps, if the judgment is of a kind where it is very uncertain whether an actual duty to pay has arisen, in such cases the judgment would not be absolutely owing. More v. Douglas, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 230 Fed. 399, 144 C. C. A. 541, affirming (S. D. Cal. 1915) 225 Fed. 683.

A debt founded on a judgment obtained in an action in which it was claimed that the bankrupt had obtained property by false and fraudulent representations is provable. In re Lockwood, (E. D. N. Y. 1917) 240 Fed. 158.

Where a judgment in a state court has not been paid, or has not been superseded on appeal by a bond given pursuant to the state law, the judgment debtor cannot avoid the effect of levy and execution, and it is a provable debt. Moore v. Douglas, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 230

Fed. 899; 144 C. C. A. 541, affirming (S. D. Cal. 1916) 225 Fed. 683.

The reduction of an alleged debt to judgment in a state court before bankruptcy does not exempt it from attack by or on behalf of creditors who would be injuriously affected by its allowance, when such allowance is sought in bankruptcy proceedings. In re Continental Engine Co., (C. Where the evidence as a whole justifies the inferences that the payees of notes, executed by individual members of a firm understood that the loans were made to the firm and for its benefit and that the notes were given with the intention of binding the firm, and in the belief that such a result was being accomplished, it has been held that the notes are provable against the estate of the firm. Frederick v. Citizen's Nat. Bank, (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1916) 231 Fed. 667, 145 C. C. A. 553.

The indorser on the note of a bankrupt who pays the note can not prove up his claim on the note so paid and also on the implied promise of the bankrupt made at the time of the indorsement to repay him in case he is compelled to pay such note. In re Astoroga Paper Co., (N. D. N. Y. 1916) 234 Fed. 792.

A claim, evidenced by a note, for services rendered by a wife to her husband, contracts for which are permitted by the laws of the state, is provable and should not be made subordinate to the claims of other creditors. In re Starr, (N. D. Cal. 1916) 232 Fed. 416.

Checks.—One from whom a check was obtained by fraud does not have a provable claim against a bankrupt to whom it was indorsed and who occupies the position of a bona fide holder for value. In re U. S. Hair Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 239 Fed. 703, 152 C. C. A. 537.

Rent.—Any amount which may have been due for rent of premises used by a bankrupt tenant, as well as any periodical payments reserved in a lease which have accrued at the time of the filing of the petition in bankruptcy are claims representable and allowable against the estate. In re Mullings Clothing Co., (D. C. Conn. 1916) 230 Fed. 681.

Where the state law gives the landlord a lien for the unexpired term of the lease, or any part of it, the claim for rent for that period may be proved in bankruptcy and enforced against the proceeds of the property subject to the lien, even though the debt may not be provable against the general estate. Lontos v. Coppard, (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 803, 159 C. C. A. 105.

Claims under lease of machinery.—Where under such a lease no formal notice or re-entry is required in case of the termination of the lease by insolvency or bankruptcy, termination is coincident with the bankruptcy, itself and liability thereunder becomes fixed. In re Desnoyers Shoe Co., (C. Interest.—In case of claims strictly against the assets of the bankrupt, interest is allowable only up to the time of filing the petition in bankruptcy.

But it is declared that this rule has no application to solvent estates. In re McAusland, (D. C. N. J. 1916) 235 Fed. 173.

Contingent claims.—This Act makes no provision for the payment of such claims and they are not provable. In re Mullings Clothing Co., (D. C. Conn. 1916) 230 Fed. 681; In re Astoroga Paper Co., (N. D. N. Y. 1916) 234 Fed. 792; In re Mullings Clothing Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 238 Fed. 58, 151 C. C. A. 134, L. R. A. 1918A 539.

Vol. I, p. 1064, sec. 63a (3).

Costs arising in connection with a writ of attachment in a state court which accrue up to the time of the institution of bankruptcy proceedings and which are provable and privileged under the state law, are provable and preferred. In re Romm, (D. C. Mass. 1916) 235 Fed. 383.

When a trustee contests the claim of an outsider, the controversy is inter partes and costs follow as in any other case. In re All Star Feature Corp., (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 232 Fed. 1004.

Vol I, p. 1065, sec. 63a (4).

Contracts and open accounts.—Where a creditor has a claim of debt against a firm, evidenced by an absolute obligation in writing for its payment, and also an optional claim in tort for misappropriation of money or property (the damages in which are measured by the same debt), and also has a claim against an individual upon a separate and independent contract of bailment (damages flowing from the breach of which are measured by the same debt), he may prove his claim of debt against the bankrupt estate of the firm, and (after allowing credit for the dividend received) prove a claim for the balance due him against the bankrupt estate of the individual, notwithstanding the fact that the individual is a member of the firm and liable as a partner for the firm debt. In re Biehl, (E. D. Pa. 1916) 237 Fed. 720.

A claim for damages for the breach of an executory contract of lease, where the lessee is a corporation and has voted to wind up and its stockholders have applied to the court for the appointment of a receiver to wind up its affairs and dissolve the corporation, is a claim founded upon a contract and provable in bankruptcy. In re Mullings Clothing Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 238 Fed. 58, 151 C. C. A. 134, L. R. A. 1918A 539.

Where a bankrupt made upon a good consideration a contract obligating him to pay the creditor a certain sum per day during the creditor's life, the undertaking is absolute, and the liability "fixed," "founded upon a contract" and therefore provable. In re Miller, D. C. Mass. 1915) 225 Fed. 331.

Taxes on personal property of a bankrupt, and which are due or past due, are quasi contractual and are provable debts. Kaw Boiler Works v. Schull, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 230 Fed. 587, 144 C. C. A. 641, L. R. A. 1916E 628.

Stipulated attorney's fees on foreclosure of mortgage.—A sale free from liens in the Bankruptcy Court is not the equivalent of a foreclosure by the mortgagee of the mortgage lien, which will permit the mortgage to an allowance of an attorney's fee under a stipulation in the mortgage providing for the allowance of an attorney's fee in case legal proceedings are instituted on the note or mortgage. Gugel v. New Orleans Nat. Bank, (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1917) 239 Fed. 676, 152 C. C. A. 510.

Breach occasioned by bankruptcy.—Bankruptcy has been held to constitute a breach of contract to be performed in the future, damages for which for the whole term are provable. In re Schultz, (D. C. Mass. 1916) 235 Fed. 907.

Upon a breach of an executory contract occasioned by bankruptcy, a sum stipulated to be liquidated damages in case of a breach has been held to be provable. Board of Commerce v. Security Trust Co., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1915) 225 Fed. 454, 140 C. C. A. 486.

A claim for damages for the breach of an executory contract is a claim "founded upon a contract," within the meaning of the statute, and is provable in bankruptcy. In re Mullings Clothing Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 238 Fed. 58, 151 C. C. A. 134, L. R. A. 1918A 539.

The filing of an involuntary petition in bankruptcy against a corporation, followed by an adjudication of bankruptcy, is the equivalent of an anticipatory breach of its executory contract, where the trustee in bankruptcy does not elect to assume performance, and gives rise to a claim provable in the bankruptcy proceedings, as one "founded," "upon a contract, express or implied." Central Trust Co. v. Chicago Auditorium Ass'n, (1916) 240 U. S. 581, 36 S. Ct. 412, 60 U. S. (L. ed.) 811, L. R. A. 1917B 580.

A bankruptcy court, in allowing as a provable debt a claim for damages arising out of the anticipatory breach by the bankrupt of his executory contract with a hotel company, should not limit it to the damages for the six months following such breach, although the contract reserved to the hotel company an option to revoke the privileges by giving six months' notice in writing of its election so to do, in which case both parties were to be released from further liability at the expiration of the six months. Central Trust Co. v. Chicago Auditorium Ass'n, (1916) 240 U. S. 581, 36 S. Ct. 412, 60 U. S. (L. ed.) 811, L. R. A. 1917B 580.

Claims for tort.—A claim against a bailee for hire for the destruction of property in his possession although suable either in contract or tort is provable under this section. Fingold v. Schacter, (1916) 223 Mass. 274, 111 N. E. 903.

A claim for the conversion of money, founded on an implied contract to pay over any money collected, is a provable one. Sabinal Nat. Bank v. Bryant, (Tex. Civ. App. 1917) 191 S. W. 1179.

A claim for damages for the conversion of bonds and stocks has been held to be a provable debt. Pitcairn v. Scully, (1916) 252 Pa. St. 82, 97 Atl. 120.

The holder of collateral security has a special property in it which entitles him to recover its value, to the extent at least of his debt, if it be converted by the debtor. Such a liability, arising after the institution of the bankruptcy proceedings, would not however constitute a provable debt thereunder, and would not be affected by that law. Harcastle v. National Clothing Co., (1917) 137 Tenn. 64, 191 S. W. 524.

A claim against stockbrokers who have repledged stock left with them as collateral is a claim provable in bankruptcy as being one founded "upon a contract express or implied." Wood v. Fisk, (1915) 215 N. Y. 233, 109 N. E. 177. Compare Pitcairn v.

Vol. I, p. 1074, sec. 63b.

Construction and application.—"It is thoroughly established that paragraph 'b' does not enlarge the class of debts which may be proved under paragraph 'a'; it does, however, permit an unliquidated claim to be liquidated as the court may direct provided, always, such claim is one within the provisions of 63a." Moore v. Douglas, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 230 Fed. 399, 144 C. C. A. 541, affirming (S. D. Cal. 1915) 225 Fed. 683.

This provision relates merely to procedure, and does not define an additional class of debts which are provable. In re Mullings Clothing Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 238 Fed. 58, 151 C. C. A. 134, L. R. A. 1918A 539.

Reversed judgment.—Where a judgment in an action in a state court for breach of contract to marry, has been reversed the claim is an unliquidated one. In re Martin, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1915) 228 Fed. 184, 142 C. C. A. 540.

Vol. I, p. 1076, sec. 64a.

Construction and application.—The provisions of section 64 with relation to the payment of taxes, costs, filing fees, costs of administration, wages due to employees, and debts owing to any person entitled to priority, all pertain to the general assets of the estate, and have no relation to property which by reason of liens never became any part of the bankrupt estate. In re Hosmer (S. D. Ia. 1916) 233 Fed. 318.

This section should be strictly construed and its benefit should not be extended so as to allow the owner of premises against which a tax has been levied to claim priority for the payment of such taxes out of the assets of a bankrupt tenant who by the terms of the lease is obligated to pay them. In re William A. Harris Steam Engine Co., (D. C. R. I. 1915) 225 Fed. 609.

This section has no reference to lien creditors, but is intended to apply only to general creditors, and should be read in connection with subsection "b" relating to debts that are to be paid in full. Bird v. Richmond, (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1917) 240 Fed. 545, 153 C. C. A. 349.

Taxes entitled to priority.—Taxes valid under the state law are entitled to priority. Delahunt v. Oklahoma County, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1915) 226 Fed. 31, 141 C. C. A. 139; In re United Five, etc., Cent Store, (S. D. N. Y. 1917) 242 Fed. 1005.

Under this section taxes are placed in a class by themselves. They are not preferred claims against the estate; they stand ahead of preferred claims. In re Ashland Emery, etc., Co., (D. C. Mass. 1916) 229 Fed. 829.

If there be general assets in the estate, the taxes will be given preference "in advance of the payments of dividends to creditors," as provided by section 64a; but in the absence of a lien this is the only priority to which the claim for taxes is entitled. In re Hosmer, (S. D. Ia. 1916) 233 Fed. 318.

Taxes which are not a lien are not to be given a priority over liens. In re Hosmer, (S. D. Ia. 1916) 233 Fed. 318.

Interest.—The state clearly has the right to charge upon taxes not paid when due such interest as will make the payment, when received, equivalent to payment at the appointed time. This interest is part of the tax and entitled to priority. In re Ashland Emery, etc., Co., (D. C. Mass. 1916) 229 Fed. 829.

Penalty for failure to pay tax.—It cannot be said that a penalty imposed for failure to pay a tax is a part of the original tax, in the sense that interest is. A penalty, as applied to cases of this character, means a punishment imposed for failure to make the payment on time. Section 64a contains no provision for the payment of penalties; and it cannot fairly be construed to include them, especially when, the estate was in course of administration during the entire period when they accrued. In re Ashland Emery, etc., Co., (D. C. Mass. 1916) 229 Fed. 829.

Duties on goods imported by the bankrupt are a "tax" within the meaning of this section. In re Rosenthal, (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 235 Fed. 315.

Mere volunteers who pay taxes have no claim against the trustee for the amount so paid. In re Gracey, (E. D. Pa. 1917) 241 Fed. 981.

Power of court to reassess tax.—There is said to be no doubt of the power and duty of the court to reassess the tax in case objection is made, regardless of its original assessment by the proper state authority. In re Simcox, (S. D. N. Y. 1917) 243 Fed. 479. See also In re E. C. Fisher Corp., (D. C. Mass. 1915) 229 Fed. 316; In re United Five, etc., Cent Store, (S. D. N. Y. 1917) 242 Fed. 1005.

Vol. I, p. 1081, sec. 64b.

Term "bankrupt estates" construed.—By the words "of estates," in section 62, supra, and "bankrupt estates," in section 64, subsection "b," is meant the unincumbered assets generally of a bankrupt, properly administrable in bankruptcy, as distinguished from that of the property of a bankrupt dedicated by law to the payment of a particular obligation, or upon which there is a specific lien. The last named section is intended particularly to give the order to be observed by trustees in the payment of such unincumbered estate. In re Rauch, (E. D. Va. 1915) 226 Fed. 982.

Vol. I, p. 1081, sec. 64b (1).

Claim of assignment for creditors for preserving estate.—An assignee or trustee who has in good faith protected and preserved property to the benefit of the estate of a bankrupt under an assignment or trust deed valid while he was acting under it is entitled to payment of his legitimate expenses and to compensation for his services and for the services of his attorney out of the proceeds of the property he has preserved which subsequently comes to the trustee in bankruptcy. Bramble v. Brett, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 230 Fed. 385, 144 C. C. A. 527. See In re Sobol, (S. D. N. Y. 1915) 230 Fed. 652.

Vol. I, p. 1083, sec. 64b (2).

Clerk's fee.—In the order of priority established by the statute the clerk's fee takes precedence over the fees of the bankrupt's attorney, and a bankrupt cannot reverse this order by paying his attorney first and not paying the clerk at all. In re Darr, (N. D. Cal. 1916) 232 Fed. 415.

Vol. I, p. 1083, sec. 64b (3).

The term "costs of administration" to which orders of court authorizing loans to the bankrupt estate in order to enable it to complete a contract, subjects such loans has been held to cover not only court costs but to refer to all the expenses attending the execution of those orders of the court entered with reference to the furnishing of a contract asset of the bankrupt, and to include labor and material claims. In re Farley, (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1915) 227 Fed. 378, 142 C. C. A. 74.

Allowances in general.—See In re Rauch, (E. D. Va. 1915) 226 Fed. 982.

Compensation to receiver.—Assets in the hands of the trustee are subject to reduction by paying out of the same the amount for which in equity the assets were chargeable as compensation to the receiver before they came into the hands of the trustee, and claim therefor is entitled to priority. Paine v. Archer, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 233 Fed. 259, 147 C. C. A. 265.

Expense of appraisal.—Where an appraisal was reasonably necessary, in connection with the proper preservation and care of the property received by the assignee, the assignee, if he has paid the expense of it, should be allowed therefor in his account with the trustee. In re Cooper, (D. C. Mass. 1917) 243 Fed. 797.

Attorneys' fees allowed.—The only legal services which may be paid or secured are those directly connected with the bankruptcy proceeding. Magee v. Fox, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 229 Fed. 395, 143 C. C. A. 515.

Receiver's certificates issued under authority of the state court are not liens on the property when it comes into the Bankruptcy Court which the attorney's fees allowed by law to the bankrupt can not displace. Smith v. Shenandoah Valley Nat. Bank, (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 379, 158 C. C. A. 443.

Allowance confined to one fee.—Division of fee.—The court should not be called upon to settle differences between counsel for petitioning creditors as to what proportion of the total amount allowed each should receive. Hall v. Reynolds, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 231 Fed. 946, 146 C. C. A. 142.

Services of counsel for trustee.—The fee should be reasonable and an excessive allowance will be reduced. In re Atkins, (W. D. Ky. 1915) 225 Fed. 639.

But it is for the trial court to determine the allowance to be made to attorneys for the trustee and the appellate courts will not reverse unless the decision is unmistakably wrong or unless a plain abuse of discretion is shown. In re Grant, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 238 Fed. 132, 151 C. C. A. 208.

Attorneys fees for creditors.—What the law contemplates is that a creditor, who feels that a bankruptcy petition should be filed, shall have the right to employ an attorney to investigate the legal questions involved in the situation presented, and to give such advice as is necessary, and to investigate records, and to prepare the petition and file it; beyond this, an attorney's services are not necessary. In re Sage, (S. D. Ia. 1915) 225 Fed. 397. Where there is absence of evidence as to the value of services preformed by an attorney, the court determines it as a matter of discretion. In re Williams, (N. D. Ohio 1917) 240 Fed. 788.

Where petitioner and his associates were not actually petitioning creditors, either originally or by intervention, it was held that they did not become constructively such from the mere facts that during the pendency of the composition proceedings the petitioning creditors (who were with the majority favoring the composition) did not press their petition for adjudication, and that those opposing the composition urged that the case be brought to adjudication, and finally contributed to bringing about the hearing on the original petition, and it was decided that a claim for reimbursement was not sustainable as an attorney's fee "to the petitioning creditors in involuntary cases." In re Kinnane Co., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 789, 155 C. C. A. 357.

Attorney's fee denied.—Services rendered to bankrupt prior to bankruptcy are not included by the terms of this provision. Magee v. Fox, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 229 Fed. 395, 143 C. C. A. 515.

Counsel fees for services in resisting adjudication if allowed at all should only be allowed in extreme cases where such action is plainly necessary to avoid great hardship and injustice. In re Murphy

Boot, etc., Co., (D. C. Mass. 1917) 242 Fed. 991.

An attorney for a voluntary bankrupt is not entitled to a fee for services in having a homestead exemption set apart for said bankrupt and attending a hearing before the referee upon objections filed by creditors to such exemption. In re Bohrman, (S. D. Ga. 1915) 224 Fed. 287.

The services of counsel in advising the bankrupt regarding its business during the period between the filing of the petition and the adjudication of bankruptcy, including legal services in opposing attachment and lien proceedings, are not within this section. In re Kinnane Co., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 769, 155 C. C. A. 357.

Effect of composition agreement.—In case of a composition the bankrupt must first pay the expenses of those who are entitled to payment out of the estate, including the allowance to the attorney for petitioning creditors, before the composition is approved, and, if necessary, the amount agreed upon by the bankrupt for his attorneys will be used to meet the expenses of the composition and of the bankruptcy proceedings. In re Miller, (E. D. N. Y. 1917) 243 Fed. 242.

Vol. I, p. 1090, sec. 64b (4).

Application.—This section only relates to the distribution of assets coming into the hands of the trustee and does not apply to moneys transferred before the bankruptcy occurred. Riverside Cont. Co. v. New York, (1916) 218 N. Y. 596, 113 N. E. 564.

Relation of master and servant contemplated.—To be entitled to priority as wages of workmen, clerk or servant the relation must be such as arises from the relation of master and servant. In re Footville Condensed Milk Co., (W. D. Wis. 1916) 237 Fed. 136.

The word "servant" does not include all cases where the formal relation of master and servant exists. In re All Star Feature Corp., (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 231 Fed. 251.

It means a restricted class of subordinate helpers who work for wages, but who are not salesmen, workmen, or clerks. Keyes v. Davie, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 231 Fed. 688, 145 C. C. A. 574.

Priority in allowance of wages under Ohio Code.—See Emerson v. Castor, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1916) 236 Fed. 29, 149 C. C. A. 239.

The fact that the claimant's compensation was more than $1,500 per year does not of itself disentitle him to priority under this section. In re Schultz, (D. C. Mass. 1916) 235 Fed. 907.

Who may claim wages—Clerks.—Where under the laws of a state the owners of rented buildings have so called "preferential" lien, and clerks, accountants, and laborers have a first lien only subordinate to the landlord's lien in the case of farm hands, clerks are properly given priority. In re Woulfe, (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1916) 239 Fed. 128, 152 C. C. A. 170.

President of corporation.—"It is clear on the authorities that the president of a corporation as such is not entitled to wages as a preferred claim under the bankruptcy act." In re Eagle Ice, etc., Co., (C. D. Pa. 1917) 241 Fed. 393. But see In re Capital Paint Co., (N. D. Cal. 1916) 239 Fed. 424.

A treasurer and director is not entitled to priority under this section. In re Boston French Range Co., (D. C. Mass. 1916) 235 Fed. 916.

The secretary, general manager and superintendent of a bankrupt corporation is not a "laborer," as that word is used in a state priority statute. Wintermote v. MacLafferty, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 233 Fed. 95, 147 C. C. A. 165.

General manager of business.—"Servant" does not include the general manager of a business. Keyes v. Davie, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 231 Fed. 688, 145 C. C. A. 574.

A mining engineer who is paid $4000 per annum to advise and assist the superintendent in developing and operating the mine is not a "workman, clerk or servant" and his earnings are not wages entitled to priority. In re Gay, (D. C. Mass. 1916) 233 Fed. 604.

An actress commanding $5000 for a four weeks engagement is not a workman or servant within the meaning of this provision. In re All Star Feature Corp., (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 231 Fed. 251.

Wife of bankrupt.—Where the statutes of a state do not deny the right of the wife to contract with the husband for services rendered outside of her marital duties, a claim by her for wages for such services has been held to have priority. In re Davidson, (M. D. Ala. 1916) 233 Fed. 462.

Assignee of wage claim.—A person who has cashed checks given by the bankrupt to his workmen is an assignee and stands in the shoes of his assignor and is entitled to priority in payment. In re Stultz, (S. D. N. Y. 1915) 226 Fed. 989.

Effect of reducing claim to judgment.—In the case of In re Haskell, (D. C. Mass. 1915) 228 Fed. 819, it is declared, although it is said the question seems to be unsettled, that the priority given to claims for wages by this section is not lost by taking judgment on the claim before the institution of bankruptcy proceedings.

Order of priority—Preference or lien under state statutes.—In Lott v. Salisbury, (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1916) 237 Fed. 191, 150 C. C. A. 337, it was held that a lien given a landlord for rent is entitled to priority over the claims of clerks.

Vol. I, p. 1100, sec. 64b (5).

Priorities accorded by state or federal laws.—Claims entitled to priority under state laws will also be entitled to priority in bankruptcy proceedings. Louisville Woolen Mills v. Johnson, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1916) 228 Fed. 606, 143 C. C. A. 128.

If a petitioner is entitled to "priority" by the laws of Porto Rico in respect of his debt, in the sense in which this section uses the term, the provisions of this section apply. In re Vidal, (C. C. A. 1st Cir. 1916) 233 Fed. 733, 147 C. C. A. 499. See Gandia v. Cadierno, (C. C. A. 1st Cir. 1916) 233 Fed. 739, 147 C. C. A. 505.

Order of priority.—"The bankruptcy law does not undertake to displace or invalidate bona fide liens upon the property of the bankrupt. It declares null and void liens that were given or accepted in fraud of the bankruptcy law, but all liens given or accepted in good faith and not in contemplation of bankruptcy nor in fraud of the bankruptcy act are entitled to recognition and payment in accordance with the law creating them. Section 64b of the Bankrupt Act (Act July 1, 1898, c. 541, 30 Stat. 563) which provides for the order of distribution of bankrupt's funds has no reference whatever to lien debts. It has reference to the distribution of the funds not subject to lien among nonlien creditors." Lott v. Salisbury, (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1916) 237 Fed. 191, 150 C. C. A. 337.

Landlords right to priority.—A priority accorded the landlord by state laws will be recognized and enforced in the Bankruptcy Court. In re W. R. Kuhn Co., (C. C. A. 3rd Cir. 1915) 225 Fed. 13, 140 C. C. A. 473; Hattiesburg Bank v. Carter, (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1916) 232 Fed. 127, 146 C. C. A. 366; In re Braus, (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 233 Fed. 835; In re Gerrow, (E. D. Pa. 1916) 233 Fed. 845.

Where the statutes of a state give the landlord a specific lien upon any goods on the leased premises for rent it has been held that the claim of the landlord for the rent of the premises in which the bankrupt was conducting his business is superior to and entitled to priority over the claims of clerks for salary for the three months immediately preceding bankruptcy. Lott v. Salisbury, (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1916) 237 Fed. 191, 150 C. C. A. 337.

The priority of liens as between mortgage lienholders and a landlord is determined by state laws. Pretorius v. Anderson, (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1916) 236 Fed. 723, 150 C. C. A. 55.

If the landlord is not entitled to priority under the state law he is not entitled to priority under the bankrupt law. In re Spies-Alper Co., (D. C. N. J. 1916) 231 Fed. 535.

Priority provided for decedent's estates.

—Where by the laws of a state a direction by a testator in his will that his debts be paid serves to charge such debts on his realty, the fact that some of the decedent's creditors did business with the bankrupt executrix of his estate and received payment on account thereof, as well as on their claims against testator, and that some of the payments were made by her as executrix, does not change the status of these creditors with respect to the priority of their claims against decedent's property. In re McAusland, (D. C. N. J. 1916) 235 Fed. 173.

Equitable rights.—If a petitioner claims to have a lien upon the funds in the hands of the trustees superior to the right of any other creditors to have their claims paid out of such funds, it is entitled in a proper proceeding to have such contention heard and determined before payment of such claim is actually made. For otherwise, if the trustees wrongfully and on their own responsibility paid out the funds, those having the superior claim thereon might to their disadvantage be obliged to resort to the personal liability of the trustees and their sureties to make good any loss occasioned through such improper payment. In re O'Gara Coal Co., (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1916) 235 Fed. 883, 149 C. C. A. 195.

Misappropriation by bankrupt.—Where the trustee contends that the fact that appellee filed an unsecured claim for the amount in controversy, which was allowed and on which it received a dividend, without asserting any right of priority, operates as an estoppel against its now asserting any such priority, it has been held that the estoppel cannot be sustained in the absence of a showing in the record that the trustee was in any way induced to change his position by the act of appellee, or that he has paid out funds for costs or dividends that he would have retained for the satisfaction of the appellee's prior claim, had he been advised it was to be asserted, or that the trustee was injured by delay in asserting the alleged priority of appellee's claim in the way of making his proof or otherwise. *Wuerpel v. Effect of oral promise by stockholder to pay creditor.—The fact that a stockholder who is also a creditor of a bankrupt corporation orally promised that the indebtedness to another creditor should be paid does not create any estoppel on the part of the stockholder from receiving dividends on an equality with such creditor.

Mechanics' and kindred liens.—A mechanics' lien, if ineffective under state laws, will not be given priority. Varner v. New Hampshire Sav. Bank, (1916) 240 U. S. 617, 36 S. Ct. 409, 60 U. S. (L. ed.) 828.

Mechanics' liens are liens created by statute, and by the act of the lienholders pursuant to the statute, without suits or legal proceedings, and paragraphs 67c-67f of the Bankruptcy Law cited are inapplicable to them. *Kemp Lumber Co. v. Materialmen's liens.—In Louisville Woolen Mills v. Tapp, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 239 Fed. 463, 152 C. C. A. 341, a materialman's lien was held under the state statutes to be superior to the landlord's lien.

Distinction between remedies under sections 60b and 67e.—"The provisions of sections 60b and 67e, . . . disclose a wide difference as to what is required to show liability. To establish a liability under the former section no actual fraud need be shown. The section merely condemns a transfer by bankrupt within four months for the purpose of creating a preference, providing the party receiving the transfer has reasonable cause to believe that a preference was intended. The legal remedy is entirely adequate, and no relief is offered in equity that the law does not afford. To establish a liability under section 67e actual fraud must be shown, and suits under that provision are peculiarly within the cognizance of and should be entertained by the equity court." Simpson v. Western Hardware, etc., Co., (W. D. Wash. 1915) 227 Fed. 304.

Intent to hinder delay or defraud essential.—See to the same effect as the original annotation, Johnson v. Barrett, (N. D. Ga. 1916) 237 Fed. 112.

Mortgage given before not recorded until within four months.—Where a complaint, in an action to set aside a conveyance, alleges that there was no change of possession of the property, but that it remained in the open and notorious possession of the grantor, that the deed was withheld from record for the purpose of enabling the grantor to obtain credit upon his reputed and apparent ownership, and that such credit was obtained, it has been held that if these allegations are established the plaintiff trustee is entitled to the relief he seeks. Manders v. Wilson, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 235 Fed. 878, 149 C. C. A. 190, Ann. Cas. 1918A 1052.

A part payment on a debt barred by statute of limitations recreates the obligation, and the promise thereby arising falls within the term "incumbrance" as used in this section. In re Salmon, (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 239 Fed. 413.

Bona fide purchasers protected.—See to the same effect as original annotation, Grandison v. Robertson, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 231 Fed. 785, 145 C. C. A. 605; Chambers v. Continental Trust Co., (S. D. Ga. 1916) 235 Fed. 441.

In an action to set aside a conveyance this section does not require proof of insolvency, as is the case with suits to recover voidable preferences, or to invalidate transfers held null by the laws of a state. Senft v. Lewis, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 239 Fed. 116, 152 C. C. A. 158.

Extent of relief.—Where relief is sought by the trustee under this section, it may extend to the extinguishment of the lien created, as having been so created for the purpose of hindering, delaying and defrauding creditors. Johnstone v. Babb, (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1917) 240 Fed. 668, 153 C. C. A. 466.

- I. Annulment of liens generally.
- III. Judgment liens.
- IV. Attachment and garnishment liens.

I. ANNULMENT OF LIENS GENERALLY
(p. 1130)

Purpose of statute.—It was the intention of Congress and the legal effect of this section to grant to the courts of bankruptcy the power to effect an avoidance in summary proceedings of liens of the character there specified, obtained against persons who were insolvent at the respective times the liens were obtained, and those only, and that the insolvency of the person at the time the lien is acquired is an indispensable condition of the existence and of the exercise of the power. Stone-Ordean-Wells Co. v. Mark, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1915) 227 Fed. 975, 142 C. C. A. 433.

This section relates merely to levies, judgments, attachments, and liens which are acquired through legal proceedings, and does not affect contractual liens or quasi-contractual liens or rights, except perhaps as to matters of procedure. Gray v. Arnot, (1915) 31 N. D. 461, 154 N. W. 268.

Under this section those liens only are excepted which are established against a debtor not insolvent at their date. Pearson Mowbray Co. v. Pershall, (1916) 92 Wash. 516, 159 Pac. 682.

Landlord's lien.—In Bird v. Richmond, (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1917) 240 Fed. 545, 153 C. C. A. 349, it is held that the landlord's lien is not a lien created through legal proceedings, though perfected by levying a distress warrant. See also In re Mossler Co., (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1917) 239 Fed. 262, 152 C. C. A. 250.

Where under the state law a vendor's lien is created as of the date of the contract of sale, a decree in a proceeding to enforce such lien, though rendered within the four months period, is not subject to the provisions of this section. Farrell v. Wysong, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 281, 159 C. C. A. 11.

III. JUDGMENT LIENS (p. 1134)

Judgment liens.—Where there is no order for the preservation of the lien of the judgment for the benefit of the estate such lien is by this section rendered null and void. Finney v. Knapp Co., (Ga. 1916) 145 Ga. 400, 89 S. E. 413. See also Dreyer v. Kicklighter, (S. D. Ga. 1916) 228 Fed. 744.

In Harvard v. Davis, (1916) 145 Ga. 580, 89 S. E. 740, where a borrower of money executed a deed to secure the debt and received a bond for title as provided in Ga. Civ. Code 1910, § 3306, and suit was instituted for a general judgment and to subject the property to payment of the debt, as provided in Ga. Civ. Code 1910, § 6037, and within four months next after rendition of the judgment, but more than four months after the debt and record of the security deed, the debtor was adjudged a bankrupt upon his voluntary petition in bankruptcy, it was held that the judgment was not invalid under this section.

Execution liens acquired within four months are invalid. In re Fitzhugh Hall Amusement Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 230 Fed. 811, 145 C. C. A. 121.

An execution lien which has become dormant may be revived by direction to the sheriff to proceed with the sale and where this is done it becomes prior to any liens acquired subsequent thereto. The revival is not a revival of the lien but of its priority. In re Zeis, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 245 Fed. 737, 158 C. C. A. 139.

Where judgment liens are void under this section it follows that levies made of executions issued on the judgments and sales made by virtue thereof are also void. Dreyer v. Kicklighter, (S. D. Ga. 1916) 228 Fed. 744.

IV. ATTACHMENT AND GARNISHMENT LIENS (p. 1136)

Attachment and garnishment liens.—As to a lien created by attachment, see Yumet v. Delgado, (C. C. A. 1st Cir. 1917) 243 Fed. 519, 156 C. C. A. 217.

Attachment liens within the four months are rendered void. In re Southern Arizona Smelting Co., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 231 Fed. 87, 145 C. C. A. 275.

Vol. I, p. 1141, sec. 68a.

Mutual debts and credits may be set off. Clifford v. Oak Valley Milk Co., (D. C. Mass. 1916) 229 Fed. 851; Roger v. J. B. Levert Co., (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1916) 237 Fed. 737, 150 C. C. A. 491.

The credits do not adjust themselves automatically. In re American Paper Co., (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 790, 159 C. C. A. 92.

Any set-off or counterclaim must come within the provisions of this section. In re Neaderthal, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1915) 225 Fed. 38, 140 C. C. A. 364, so holding where a creditor of a bankrupt firm owed a debt to one of the partners.

Where a payment has been made to a creditor under such circumstances as to constitute it an illegal preference he is not entitled to have a debt owing to him from the bankrupt set off against the payment so made. Rotan Grocery Co. v. West, (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 685, 158 C. C. A. 641.

Set-off between bank and depositor.—A bank which is a creditor of one who has a sum on deposit to his credit, and which has knowledge of the depositor's insolvency, is entitled to apply the same on its claim as a set-off prior to bankruptcy proceedings. Wichita Fourth Nat. Bank v. Smith, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 240 Fed. 19, 153 C. C. A. 55; American Bank of Alaska v. Johnson, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 245 Fed. 312, 153 C. C. A. 504.

Whether the bank charges off the deposit of its customer and applies it on the indebtedness which it holds against the customer, or whether it draws a check in the name of the customer covering his deposit and applies it as a credit on the indebtedness, or whether it does neither of these things, but appeals to the law to do the same thing in effect, makes no difference as a legal proposition. Wilson v. Citizens' Trust Co., (S. D. Ga. 1916) 233 Fed. 697.

As against a primary debt due to a bank on a note which is provable in bankruptcy the bank has the right to use deposits and also any obligations or securities which are in its hands for future collection, and without a specific agreement to apply them for the purpose of third parties. In re Friedman, (E. D. N. Y. 1917) 241 Fed. 603.

Set off of deposit not preference.—See to the same effect as the original annotation. German-American State Bank v. Larimer, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 235 Fed. 501, 149 C. C. A. 47; Putnam v. U. S. Trust Co., (1916) 223 Mass. 199, 111 N. E. 969; Dunlap v. Seattle Nat. Bank, (1916) 93 Wash. 568, 161 Pac. 364.

Set-off of judgment against interest on mortgage.—A judgment purchased by the mortgagor may be set off against the interest due on the mortgage where it appears that the judgment was not purchased with a view to a set off nor after the filing of the petition, or within four months before such filing, with a view to such use and with knowledge or notice that the bankrupt was insolvent or had committed an act of bankruptcy. In re Colwell Lead Co., (S. D. N. Y. 1917) 241 Fed. 922.

Unpaid stock subscriptions due an insolvent corporation are not subjects of set-off against ordinary claims held by the subscribers against the corporation. In re La Jolla Lumber, etc., Co., (S. D. Cal. 1917) 243 Fed. 1004.

The trustee of a bankrupt succeeds to the bankrupt's title to corporate stock and has the bankrupt's rights and remedies as respects dividends which have been declared or which ought to have been declared. In re Brantman, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 244 Fed. 101, 157 C. C. A. 51.

Title of trustee is subject to existing equities.—In re Reading Hat Mfg. Co., (E. D. Pa. 1915) 224 Fed. 786; Charles Roesch, etc., Co. v. Mumford, (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1916) 230 Fed. 56, 144 C. C. A. 91; In re Terrell, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 743, 159 C. C. A. 45.

Liens invalid as to creditors.—"It was clearly the intention of Congress in adopting the amendment of 1910 to paragraph 47, cl. A, of the Bankruptcy Act, that thereafter the trustee should not stand in the shoes of the bankrupt with regard to unrecorded liens depending for their validity upon registration, and that, as to the general creditors, such liens should be void." In re Collins, (E. D. La. 1914) 235 Fed. 937.

III. TIME WHEN TITLE PASSES (p. 1154)

Effect of commencement of proceedings.—The title of the trustee in bankruptcy is fixed as to the time of filing the petition. Arnold v. Horrigan, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1916) 238 Fed. 39, 151 C. C. A. 115; In re Continental Coal Corp., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1916) 238 Fed. 113, 151 C. C. A. 189.

Property in custodia legis.—From the time of the filing of the petition the property of the bankrupt is in custodia legis. Friedlaender's Petition, (C. C. A. 1st Cir. 1916) 233 Fed. 250, 147 C. C. A. 256; Fairbanks Steam Shovel Co. v. Willa, (1915) 240 U. S. 642, 36 S. Ct. 466, 60 U. S. (L. ed.) 841.

Effect of adjudication.—Title passes to trustee as of date of adjudication. In re Progressive Wall Paper Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 229 Fed. 489, 143 C. C. A. 557, L. R. A. 1916E 563; In re Neuburger, (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 233 Fed. 701.

The rights of a trustee in bankruptcy in the debtor's property as of the date of adjudication are at least as great as those of an assignee in possession. In re Howe, (D. C. Mass. 1916) 235 Fed. 908.

V. BURDENSOME PROPERTY (p. 1160)

Acceptance optional with trustee — Generally.—"It is undisputed that a trustee in bankruptcy is under no obligation to accept a patent license burdened with executory obligations. It is, in this respect, like other property rights belonging to the bankrupt, whether resulting from a grant or conveyance coupled with executory obligations, like a lease of real or personal property, or from a purely executory agreement." In re Wisconsin Engine Co., (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1916) 234 Fed. 281, 148 C. C. A. 183.

VI. EXEMPT PROPERTY (p. 1162)

Title remains in bankrupt.—Title to exempt property remains in bankrupt and does not vest in trustee. In re Brown, (W. D. Ky. 1915) 228 Fed. 533; In re French, (N. D. N. Y. 1916) 231 Fed. 255; In re Vonhee, (W. D. Wash. 1916) 238 Fed. 422; In re Auge, (D. C. Mont. 1916) 238 Fed. 621; Norwood v. Watson, (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 885, 155 C. C. A. 473; Watters v. Hedgpeth, (1916) 172 N. C. 310, 90 S. E. 314.

While it is true that title to exempt property does not pass to the trustee, yet it is said that he has what may be termed a defeasible title, and that he has temporary dominion over such property until the exemptions are made, after which the title of the bankrupt becomes superior to that of the trustee and absolute. In re Vonhee, (W. D. Wash. 1916) 238 Fed. 422. See also In re Auge, (D. C. Mont. 1916) 238 Fed. 621.

Of "exempt property a certain amount of control, but not title, passes to the bankrupt's trustee, only for orderly administration and to set it aside to the bankrupt. . . . If there are creditors against whom the exemption fails, it is by reason of state law, and they are left to work out their remedy in the state court." In re Auge, (D. C. Mont. 1916) 238 Fed. 620.

Homesteads — Federal homestead lands.

—Title to such lands passes to the trustee where under state law they are only exempt as to debts prior to patent and there are debts subsequent thereto. In re Auge, (D. C. Mont. 1916) 238 Fed. 621.

VII. RECLAMATION PROCEEDINGS (p. 1165)

Right to reclaim.—The owner, other than the bankrupt, of property in the possession of the trustee may recover the same in some appropriate proceeding. In re Midland Motor Co., (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1915) 224 Fed. 368, 140 C. C. A. 54; In re Pierson, (S. D. N. Y. 1915) 225 Fed. 889; In re National Home, etc., Co., (E. D. Where a client furnishes a broker with funds on the agreement by the latter to buy certain shares of stock for him and apply the payment made to the purchase, and he does not buy the stock, but has the money in his possession when he goes into bankruptcy, no right to retain such money was created by his going into bankruptcy, and consequently no right passed to the broker's trustee. In re Wettengel, (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1917) 238 Fed. 798, 151 C. C. A. 648.

Where property claimed has been taken and used by the trustee and the claimant proves his right thereto he may be allowed the fair value of the property. Smith Wallace Shoe Co. v. Ternes, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 235 Fed. 282, 148 C. C. A. 642.

The fact that a bankrupt bank converted and dissipated the proceeds of a note collection does not operate to give the owner of the note a lien upon or right to priority of payment from the general assets of the bankrupt, to the prejudice of its general creditors. Macy v. Roeden- beck, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1915) 227 Fed. 346, 142 C. C. A. 42, L. R. A. 1916C 12.

Where partnership assets are used by one partner to pay his individual debt without the consent of his copartners, the nonconsenting partner has the right to recover the property, and in case of bankruptcy, the trustee has the same right. A trustee in bankruptcy becomes vested with all the property rights of the bankrupt, and he is empowered to recover any property which the bankrupt could recover in order that it may be applied to the payment of his debts. Ryan v. Cavanagh, (S. D. Ia. 1916) 238 Fed. 604.

The burden of proof rests on the claimant. In re Hunter-Rand Co., (E. D. N. C. 1917) 241 Fed. 175; Schroth v. Monarch Fence Co., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1916) 229 Fed. 549, 144 C. C. A. 9.

Reclamation precluded by act of claimant.—Filing and proving claim is binding as an election. In re Kaplan, (M. D. Pa. 1916) 236 Fed. 260.

II. INTERESTS IN REAL PROPERTY, ETC.
 (p. 1174)

A desert entry under the laws of the United States is property which can be transferred within the meaning of this section, although final proof has not yet been made. In re Evans, (D. C. Idaho 1916) 235 Fed. 956.

Vested remainder passes to trustee.—In re Dorgan, (S. D. Ia. 1916) 237 Fed. 507.

Encumbered property.—This section does not mean that the status of the mortgagee is exactly that of the mortgagor for all purposes. In some particulars his rights are greater. The mortgagee, however, is the virtual owner of the land and entitled to the rents. In re Donner, (D. C. N. J. 1917) 243 Fed. 984.

III. PLEDGES (p. 1178)

Where life insurance policies have been pledged, although they pass to the trustee, they are subject to the indebtedness for which they were pledged, and it is proper that the trustee in bankruptcy be directed on the delivery to him by the claimants of the two policies for that purpose, to receive from the bankrupt or collect from the insurance company such surrender value and apply the proceeds to the payment of the indebtedness of the bankrupt to them. In re Baird, (D. C. Del. 1917) 245 Fed. 504.

IV. CONDITIONAL SALE (p. 1181)

Goods sold for purpose of resale.—A nominal understanding between seller and purchaser as to payment and title not intended to be acted on unless the bankrupt gets into financial difficulties has been held fraudulent as to creditors and invalid as against the trustee. In re Aronson, (D. C. Mass. 1917) 245 Fed. 207.

In the following cases title to goods sold on consignment contract was held to vest in trustee. In re Reeves, (N. D. N. Y. 1915) 227 Fed. 711; In re Stoughton Wagon Co., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1916) 231 Fed. 676, 145 C. C. A. 562; Walter A. Wood Mowing, etc., Mach. Co. v. Croll, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1916) 231 Fed. 679, 145 C. C. A. 565.

If the sale is valid and binding in all respects the vendor may exercise the right to reclaim the property. In re I. S. Remson Mfg. Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 232 Fed. 594, 146 C. C. A. 552; In re Hamil, (W. D. N. Y. 1916) 236 Fed. 292; Ewart v. Squire, (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1916) 239 Fed. 34, 152 C. C. A. 84; Shook v. Levi, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 240 Fed. 121, 153 C. C. A. 157.

The burden of proving that a sale was conditional rests on the one affirming it. In re Farmers' Dairy Ass'n, (S. D. Cal. 1916) 234 Fed. 118; Shook v. Levi, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 240 Fed. 121, 153 C. C. A. 157.

V. TRUST FUNDS AND DEPOSITS (p. 1185)

Where bankrupt is beneficiary.—The interest of a bankrupt in a trust fund, which was capable of transfer at institution of proceedings, passes to trustee. Pollack v. Meyer Bros. Drug Co., (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 233 Fed. 861, 147 C. C. A. 535.

Where a testator bequeathed a certain sum in trust to pay the income to his son, during his life, with a remainder over to others, subject to the "wish . . . that . . . my said son shall have the principal of said trust fund whenever he shall become financially solvent and able to pay all his just debts and liabilities from resources other than the principal of this trust fund," it was held that it was that on payment of the sum to the son after the latter's discharge in bankruptcy the trustee acquired no right thereto. Hull v. Farmers' Loan, etc., Co., (1917) 245 U. S. 312, 38 S. Ct. 103, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 312.

The equitable life interest of the beneficiary in a trust created by a bequest of a fund to a trustee to pay the entire net income thereof to the beneficiary for life, "free from the interference or control of her creditors," does not pass to her trustee in bankruptcy, where the local law treats such restrictions against interference or control by creditors as limiting the character of the equitable property, and inherent in it. Eaton v. Boston Safe Deposit, etc., Co., (1916) 240 U. S. 427, 36 S. Ct. 391, 60 U. S. (L. ed.) 723.

Burden of proof.—Where a company, in whose store complainant conducted a department, agreed to keep the proceeds of the complainant's sales "in trust" for the latter's benefit, it has been held that the burden of proof is upon the complainant to clearly trace the proceeds of said sales into "some specific fund or property" in the hands of the trustee in bankruptcy. In re A. D. Matthews' Sons, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 238 Fed. 785, 151 C. C. A. 635.

VII. SUBSCRIPTIONS FOR STOCK (p. 1188)

Trustee may recover stock subscriptions.—Kelley v. Aarons, (S. D. Cal. 1917) 238 Fed. 996.

Where the state laws and decisions do not give a right of action to recover from stockholders who have not paid in full for their stock, no right to recover vests in the trustee. In re Huffman-Salvar Roofing Paint Co., (N. D. Ala. 1916) 234 Fed. 798; Courtney v. Croxton, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 239 Fed. 247, 152 C. C. A. 235.

The claims of stockholders who have loaned money to the corporation will not, where there is no suggestion that they are not financially responsible, be postponed until the collection of assessments on unpaid stock subscriptions has been had and other creditors paid in full. Courtney v. Croxton, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 239 Fed. 247, 152 C. C. A. 235.

Bona fide purchaser of voting trust certificates not the original subscribers, who have purchased in the open market, have a right to rely on statements in the certificates that the stock is fully paid, and one not liable for an unpaid balance thereon. Clark v. Johnson, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1917) 245 Fed. 442, 157 C. C. A. 604.

When the assessment on unpaid stock subscriptions is to be ascertained, no dividends should be paid to a stockholder of such stock until the assessment is fully paid, but in case it is paid then the claim should be allowed and share equally in the payment of dividends with those of the same class. Moise v. Scheibel, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1917) 245 Fed. 546, 157 C. C. A. 658.

The amount of the assessment to be levied upon stock which has not been fully paid can only be determined in a proceeding brought by the trustee. Moise v.

Scheibel, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1917) 245 Fed. 546, 157 C. C. A. 658.

Jurisdiction.—A suit to enforce the collection of unpaid stock subscriptions is properly brought on the equity side of the court. Kelley v. Aarons, (S. D. Cal. 1917) 238 Fed. 996.

The action of the Bankruptcy Court is conclusive, so far as the necessity of an assessment against any unpaid stock that may exist is concerned, and also as to the rate of the assessment, but beyond these facts the stockholder is not concluded by the action of the Bankruptcy Court. Enright v. Heckscher, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 240 Fed. 863, 153 C. C. A. 549.

VIII. MEMBERSHIP IN STOCK EXCHANGE (p. 1189)

Membership in a board of trade is property which passes to the trustee. Board of Trade v. Weston, (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1917) 243 Fed. 332, 156 C. C. A. 112.

IX. CONTRACTUAL INTERESTS AND OBLIGATIONS (p. 1191)

"Creditors participating in the distribution."—Creditors in respect to whose claims the court has ordered that the claim of each "be wholly withdrawn from said bankruptcy proceeding and expunged from the list of claims upon the record in this case and excluded from participating in the distribution of the estate . . . of the bankrupt," do not come within the meaning of this clause. Andrews v. Nix, (1918) 246 U. S. 273, 38 S. Ct. 249, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 268.

When property traceable.—"Cash is never traced by showing that it went into the general estate." In re A. D. Matthews' Sons, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 238 Fed. 785, 151 C. C. A. 635.

Contract invalid as to lien creditors.—Seller has no remedy where contract invalid because not properly executed or recorded. In re M. L. B. Sturkey Co., (W. D. S. C. 1915) 224 Fed. 251; In re Kruse, (N. D. Ia. 1916) 234 Fed. 470; Citizens' Coal, etc., Co. v. Custard, (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1917) 244 Fed. 425, 157 C. C. A. 51.

Fire insurance policy.—Right of trustee to proceeds of fire insurance policy as against mortgagees, see In re Stucky Trucking, etc., Co., (D. C. N. J. 1917) 240 Fed. 427.

Vol. I, p. 1196, sec. 70a (5).

[Policy of insurance.]

An industrial policy payable to the executors or administrators only at the discretion of the insurer does not pass to the trustee. In re Gannon, (S. D. N. Y. 1917) 241 Fed. 733.

Policies not payable to bankrupt or his estate or personal representatives.—This section applies only when an insurance policy has a cash surrender value, payable to the bankrupt, his estate, or personal representatives, and a policy payable to the wife, in which is reserved no right to change the beneficiary, does not pass to the trustee. In re Majors, (D. C. Ore. 1917) 241 Fed. 538; In re Fetterman, (N. D. Ohio 1917) 243 Fed. 975.

Exempt policies do not pass.—In re Flanigan, (E. D. Pa. 1915) 228 Fed. 339; In re Cohen, (S. D. Ga. 1916) 230 Fed. 733; Frederick v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., (W. D. Pa. 1916) 235 Fed. 639; In re Rosenberg-Oldstein Co., (E. D. La. 1916) 236 Fed. 812; In re Fetterman, (N. D. Ohio 1917) 243 Fed. 975.

When the insured has died, and the beneficiary has furnished due proof and made timely demand for the contracted sum, the company, "without notice of any character as to any adverse claim thereto," is not only justified, but contractually bound, to pay the money to her. Having done so, having fulfilled its promises, it is entitled to a surrender of the contract it has fully and in good faith fulfilled. Such being the case it is manifest that the trustee has no legal right to again collect the whole amount of this policy from the company. Frederick v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1917) 239 Fed. 125, 152 C. C. A. 167.

Effect of right to change beneficiary.—See to same effect as original annotation. Cohen v. Samuels, (1917) 245 U. S. 50, 38 S. Ct. 36, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 143, reversing (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 237 Fed. 796, 151 C. C. A. 38; In re Shoemaker, (E. D. Pa. 1915) 225 Fed. 329; In re Bonvillain, (E. D. La. 1916) 232 Fed. 370; Malone v. Cohn, (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1916) 236 Fed. 882, 150 C. C. A. 144. Compare In re Arkin, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 231 Fed. 947, 146 C. C. A. 143.

Where there is nothing more than the naming of the wife as beneficiary, and this is revocable by the husband, there the trustee may surrender the policy and receive the surrender value, and he does not lose this right unless paid an equivalent sum. If, however, there had been a bona fide assignment to the wife of the whole policy, including the right to the cash surrender value as well as the insurance moneys; and a fortiori, if the assignment has been for value, or before any debts were contracted by the husband, so that the policy was the property of the wife, the trustee could not surrender the policy or successfully claim its surrender value. In re Flanigan, (E. D. Pa. 1915) 228 Fed. 339.

Question of fact.—Question of title, in reclamation proceedings, is one of fact. In re Aronson, (D. C. Mass. 1917) 245 Fed. 207.

- I. Appraisal of property.
- II. Sales.

I. APPRAISAL OF PROPERTY (p. 1204)

"An appraisal in bankruptcy is an estimate of the value of the bankrupt estate made by three disinterested persons. The appraisers are officers of the court and are selected with an especial regard to their fitness to give an opinion upon the value of the particular property comprising the estate." Jacobsohn v. Larkey, (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1917) 245 Fed. 538, 157 C. C. A. 650, L. R. A. 1918C 1176. See also In re Mills Tea, etc., Co., (D. C. Mass. 1916) 235 Fed. 812.

II. SALES (p. 1205)

Manner of selling assets—The power to sell is under the direction of the court.—The trustee can only sell in accordance with the authority given by law. In re Eden Musee American Co., (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 230 Fed. 925.

A sale through proceedings in bankruptcy is a judicial sale subject to the same rules as an auction. The bidder may withdraw his bid at any time before the hammer falls. In re Glas-Shipt Dairy Co., (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1917) 239 Fed. 122, 152 C. C. A. 164.

Sale of assets free of incumbrances may be ordered. In re Whiteside, (N. D. Ga. 1916) 230 Fed. 937; In re West, (M. D. Pa. 1916) 232 Fed. 903.

When a lienholder accepts service of a petition to sell property free from liens such acceptance operates as a consent that it be sold on such terms. Gugel v. New Orleans Nat. Bank, (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1917) 239 Fed. 676, 152 C. C. A. 510.

A mortgagee, who stands by and without objection or demand for the mortgaged property knowingly permits a court order sale by a trustee in bankruptcy for less than the amount of the secured debt, will be limited in his preferred claim to the proceeds of the sale. Furthermore, even if a mortgagee knows nothing of the bankruptcy, the sale, or the order, his recovery would be limited to the actual value of the property sold. In re States Printing Co., (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1917) 241 Fed. 245, 154 C. C. A. 165.

Setting aside sale—Inadequacy of price.—"The rule is that mere inadequacy of price is not a sufficient ground for setting aside a judicial sale; but when the inadequacy is so great as in itself to raise a presumption of fraud or to shock the conscience of the court, it becomes gross inadequacy, and is a sufficient ground." Jacobsohn v. Larkey, (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1917) 245 Fed. 538, 157 C. C. A. 650, L. R. A. 1918C 1176.

A contract of sale entered into by a corporation before bankruptcy, will not be set aside for mere inadequacy of consideration where it would result in an expensive litigation, involving delay and loss to the estate. In re Copiag-Lindenhurst Co., (N. D. N. Y. 1917) 240 Fed. 431.

Confirmation of sale involves exercise of judicial discretion. In re Finks, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1915) 224 Fed. 92, 139 C. C. A. 648.

When in a given case a price is grossly inadequate and when upon that ground confirmation should be refused, are matters within the judgment and discretion of the tribunal ordering the sale. Jacobsohn v. Larkey, (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1917) 245 Fed. 538, 157 C. C. A. 650, L. R. A. 1918C 1176.

An order directing the trustee to sell all his right, title and interest in the estate of the bankrupt is not subject to objection by an adverse claimant. In re Vanoscope Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 244 Fed. 445, 157 C. C. A. 71.

Nunc pro tunc order.—An order of confirmation will not be treated nunc pro tunc of an earlier date where it would result in injustice. In re Finks, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1915) 224 Fed. 92, 139 C. C. A. 648.

Vol. I, p. 1212, sec. 70e. [Avoiding certain transfers—recovery of property.]

Power conferred on trustee.—Trustees may impeach or set aside any fraudulent act or transaction of the bankrupt or assert any right which the creditor might have asserted. Stellwagen v. Clum, (1918) 245 U. S. 605, 38 S. Ct. 215, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) —; In re Webb Co., (E. D. Pa. 1915) 224 Fed. 258; Cardozo v. Brooklyn Trust Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1915) 228 Fed. 333, 142 C. C. A. 625; In re Progressive Wall Paper Corp., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 229 Fed. 489, 143 C. C. A. 557, L. R. A. 1916E 563; Owens v. Daniel, (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1916) 230 Fed. 101, 144 C. C. A. 399; In re Progressive Wall Paper Corp., (N. D. N. Y. 1916) 230 Fed. 171; Manders v. Wilson, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1918) 235 Fed. 878, 149 C. C. A. 190, Ann. Cas. 1918A 1052; Memphis First Nat. Bank v. Towner, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 239 Fed. 433, 152 C. C. A. 311; Edison Electric Illuminating Co. v. Tibbetts, (C. C. A. 1st Cir. 1917) 241 Fed. 468, 154 C. C. A. 300; McGill v. Commercial Credit Co., (D. C. Md. 1917) 243 Fed. 637; Angle v. Bankers' Surety Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 244 Fed. 401, 157 C. C. A. 27.

Power is conferred upon a trustee to recover all the property transferred in fraud of creditors, although such recovery may result in the possession by the trustee of property in excess of the entire indebtedness of the bankrupt Davis v. Gates, (M. D. Pa. 1916) 235 Fed. 192.

The trustee may sue for tortious injuries inflicted upon the estate property intermediate the petition and the adjudication as to hold otherwise would be to say that the estate may be destroyed with impunity. Arnold v. Horrigan, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1916) 238 Fed. 39, 151 C. C. A. 115.

The trustee can act for all the creditors in asserting their rights to liens upon property coming into his custody by legal or equitable proceedings. Sanborn-Cutting Co. v. Paine, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 244 Fed. 672, 157 C. C. A. 120.

It is, to be assumed in the absence of proof to the contrary that the trustee as representing creditors has been injured by a conveyance executed by the bankrupt in fraud of his creditors, but it is not necessary that the extent to which he has been so injured should be equal to the entire value of the property conveyed. Davis v. Gates, (M. D. Pa. 1916) 235 Fed. 192.

Where a check was delivered by the bankrupt before but not paid until after petition and adjudication it was held that the trustee was entitled to recover the amount of the check, the delivery of the check not operating as an assignment or segregation of the funds on deposit, nor impressing those funds with any trust in favor of the payee. In re Howe, (D. C. Mass. 1916) 235 Fed. 908.

Transfer which any creditor "might have avoided."—The provision that "a trustee may avoid any transfer by the bankrupt of his property which any creditor of such bankrupt might have avoided," etc., means "which any creditor might have avoided" under the laws of the state where the transaction occurred. Manders v. Wilson, (N. D. Cal. 1915) 230 Fed. 536.

Bill in equity.—Trustee may file bill in equity to recover property which has been fraudulently transferred by the bankrupt. Davis v. Gates, (M. D. Pa. 1916) 235 Fed. 192.

Bona fide transactions are excepted.—Brent v. Simpson, (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1916) 238 Fed. 285, 151 C. C. A. 301.

Pleading.—A trustee in a suit to set aside a conveyance by a bankrupt is entitled to the relief sought where the petition alleges that there was no change of possession of the property, but that it remained in the open and notorious possession of the grantor, that the deed was withheld from record for the purpose of enabling the grantor to obtain credit upon his reputed and apparent ownership, and that such credit was obtained. Manders v. Wilson, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 235 Fed. 878, 149 C. C. A. 190, Ann. Cas. 1918A 1052.

Vol. I, p. 1216, sec. 70e. [Jurisdiction.]

A court of bankruptcy has summary jurisdiction of a proceeding by the trustee to compel a third person, to turn over to him property in the latter's possession and which is alleged to belong to the bankrupt's estates where the sole question is one of law. In re Midtown Contracting Co., (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 238 Fed. 871.

Vol. I, p. 1219, sec. 70f.

After a composition has been confirmed the receiver has no right to receive any property as the property of the bankrupt and a pledgee of such property has no right to turn it over to the receiver; nor has the Bankruptcy Court jurisdiction to pass on claims made by third parties to any property thereafter turned over. In re Hollins, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 238 Fed. 787, 151 C. C. A. 637.

Vol. I, p. 1220, sec. 72.

Bar to extra allowance.—This section and section 48a limit the court in its allowance to trustees. In re New York Commercial Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 231 Fed. 445, 145 C. C. A. 439. See also In re Langford, (S. D. Cal. 1915) 225 Fed. 311; American Surety Co. v. Freed, (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1913) 224 Fed. 333, 140 C. C. A. 19.

CARRIERS

Vol. II, p. 15, sec. 13.

Action on bond.—In an action on a bond voluntarily given to secure penalties incurred by violation of this Act, the court to determine its meaning, may look not only to the language of the instrument, but to the subject matter and surrounding circumstances, and while the bond is not a statutory bond, it is valid as a common-law obligation. Findlay v. U. S., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1915) 225 Fed. 337, 139 C. C. A. 207.

Mitigation or remission of penalty.—

While the Secretary of Commerce has no authority to remit or mitigate any of the penalties incurred under this Act, he has revisory and supervisory authority to inquire and determine whether the statute has been violated and the extent of such violation if any, and in accordance with such determination to direct the prosecution of the case or its abandonment in whole or in part as the facts found on examination may justify. Findlay v. U. S., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1915) 225 Fed. 337, 139 C. C. A. 207.

CHINESE EXCLUSION

Vol. II, p. 67, sec. 1.

"Chinese laborers" defined.—The words "Chinese laborers" as used in the Act, was intended to designate all immigration to the United States from China other than that of privileged classes. U. S. v. Jew Sung Gwong, (D. C. Ore. 1916) 232 Fed. 279.

Merchant afterwards becoming laborer.

—The mere fact that an alien who has been domiciled as a merchant thereafter becomes a laborer does not itself justify deportation. Ong Seen v. Burnett, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 232 Fed. 850, 147 C. C. A. 44.

Chinese persons born in United States.

—The Chinese Exclusion Act does not apply to persons of that race, even though laborers, if they were born in the United States, of parents living in the United States. U. S. v. Ching Hing, (D. C. Me. 1915) 225 Fed. 794.

Evidence of citizenship.—Where a Chinese person seeks to remain in the United States upon the claim that he was born in this country, the burden is upon him to prove it, and where the commissioner and the district judge determine the fact as to the place of birth, such determination will not be disturbed on appeal. Jew Lee v. U. S., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 237 Fed. 1013, 151 C. C. A. 75.

Vol. II, p. 71, sec. 6.

Force and effect of certificate.—The admission of a Chinese person into this country, under a merchant's certificate admittedly in due form, places him in the exempt class, and he cannot be deported from having fraudulently entered the United States unless there is some competent evidence to overcome the legal effect of the certificate. U. S. v. Fong Hong, (D. C. N. J. 1916) 233 Fed. 168, following Liu Hop Fong v. U. S., (1908) 209 U. S. 453, 28 S. Ct. 676, 52 U. S. (L. ed.) 888.

Certificate prima facie evidence.—The certificate is prima facie evidence only of the facts set forth therein and may be controverted and the facts there stated may be disproved by the United States authorities. U. S. v. Fong Hong, (D. C. N. J. 1916) 233 Fed. 168; Lo Pong v. Dunn, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 235 Fed. 510, 149 C. C. A. 56.

The certificate of admission is prima facie evidence of such right. But it is open to the government to show that the entry was in fact not for the purpose of following the occupation of a merchant but for the purpose of immediately becoming a laborer, in evasion of the Exclusion Act. And the court, if so satisfied, is justified in holding that the entry was in violation of the statute and not the one so entering is unlawfully here. Lew Loy v. U. S. (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 405, 155 C. C. A. 181.

Annulment of certificate.—While the certificate is prima facie evidence of the right to enter and remain in the country and it may be overcome by competent evidence that it was fraudulently obtained, fraud in procuring the same can not be merely imputed. It is incumbent upon the government to overcome its legal effect by evidence and not by presumption. It ought not to be annulled on suspicion and conjecture. Moy Kong Chiu v. U. S., (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 94, 158 C. C. A. 320.

Wife of Chinese merchant.—The right of the wife of a resident Chinese merchant, to enter this country, is beyond question. Ex parte Chan Shee, (N. D. Cal. 1916) 236 Fed. 579.

Children of Chinese merchants — Minor son becoming laborer.—It is well settled that a minor son of a member of the exempt classes, admitted as such into the United States, does not forfeit his right to remain by subsequently doing a laborer's work. Ex parte Wong Yee Toom, (D. C. Md. 1915) 227 Fed. 247, reversed on other ground (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1916) 233 Fed. 194, 147 C. C. A. 200; Lam Fung Yen v. Frick, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1916) 233 Fed. 393, 147 C. C. A. 329.

The fact that one who lawfully entered as the minor son of a merchant has since become a laborer is not enough to destroy his right to remain. Lew Loy v. U. S., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 405, 155 C. C. A. 181.

But it is open to the government to show that the entry of a minor son was not for the purpose of conserving the family relation or following the occupation of a merchant. So, the fact that a Chinese person, securing admission as the son of a merchant, is 20 years of age, immediately becomes and continues as a laborer, is strong evidence tending to show that he came into the United States as a laborer. Lew Loy v. U. S., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 405, 155 C. C. A. 181.

Vol. II, p. 75, sec. 10.

Who is "master."—The owner of the minority interest in a gasoline launch without the knowledge or consent of the owner of the majority interest and in violation of agreement, had himself enrolled as master and used the vessel to bring Chinese persons to a United States port, where the vessel was seized under this Act. It was held that such minority owner was not the master of the vessel within the meaning of this section and that the interest of the majority owner was not subject to forfeiture because of the former's action. The Calypso, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 230 Fed. 962, 145 C. C. A. 156, affirming (N. D. Cal. 1914) 217 Fed. 669.

Vol. II, p. 76, sec. 11.

Conspiracy — Indictment.—Conspiracy for a violation of this section, is not of itself a crime under the Exclusion Act; hence the acts need not be charged with the same particularity. In a charge of conspiracy to commit a crime while the particular crime must be alleged, it need not be set out with the same particularity in an indictment as a charge for the crime itself. So, an indictment for conspiracy to violate this section which alleged "did unlawfully, wilfully, knowingly, feloniously, wickedly and maliciously conspire, combine, confederate and agree together, and together with divers other persons to the grand jurors unknown" and then charged overt acts committed in furtherance of the conspiracy, was held to be sufficient. U. S. v. Dahl, (W. D. Wash. 1915) 225 Fed. 909, affirmed (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 234 Fed. 618, 148 C. C. A. 384.

In an indictment to commit an offense in violation of this section, definiteness or detail of averment is not necessary as in a charge of the offense which is the subject of the conspiracy. The outlines of the plot or concert may well be as general in the minds of the conspirators as the prohibitions of the particular statute which they conspire to violate. The means to be employed need not necessarily be set forth in the indictment, since the precise means may not have been a part of the concerted agreement or understanding. They may not have been predetermined, but left to the exigencies of the criminal enterprise as it progressed. So where an indictment expressly averred that the Chinese persons to be brought into the United States were not entitled to enter or to remain, that they were brought from Mexico and by land and that they were to be taken to Rock Springs, Wyoming, and elsewhere in this country, was held to be sufficient to inform the defendants of the crime charged, and to protect them from a second prosecution for the same offense. Lew Moy v. U. S., (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 237 Fed. 50, 150 C. C. A. 252.

Evidence.—For evidence held sufficient to warrant a conviction under an indictment for conspiring to violate this section, see Louie Ding v. U. S., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 80, 158 C. C. A. 306.

Effect of Immigration Act.—The offenses of bringing in, or aiding, abetting, or attempting to bring unqualified Chinese aliens into the United States, are governed by and punishable under the Chinese Exclusion Act only. The Immigration Act of Feb. 20, 1907, § 8 (title IMMIGRATION, vol. 3, p. 660), is inapplicable thereto. Stoneberg v. Morgan, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 98, 158 C. C. A. 324.

Vol. II, p. 82, sec. 7.

Identification — Sufficiency.—For identification of a Chinese person, charged with entering in violation of this section, held insufficient to warrant an order of deportation, see White v. Tom Yuen, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 244 Fed. 739, 157 C. C. A. 187.

Vol. II, p. 86, sec. 13.

Nature of proceedings.—Proceedings in the matter of Chinese exclusion are summary; they are not to be compared with the trial of either a civil or criminal suit, nor do they resemble hearings before a committing magistrate. The statute contains no prohibition upon asking a Chinamen questions regarding his right to remain in this country at any time or place, or by any officer or official and what the statute does not forbid it is not in the interest of justice to read into the Act because it is highly conducive to ascertain the truth to find out what the Chinamen will say when suddenly asked as to his right to remain. U. S. v. Lem You, (S. D. N. Y. 1915) 224 Fed. 519; U. S. v. Moy Toom, (S. D. N. Y. 1915) 224 Fed. 520.

Hearing de novo.—The appellant has the right to have the whole case retried in another court, that is tried de novo, and disposed of there without any regard to the proceedings before the commissioner. U. S. v. Chin Sing Quong, (N. D. N. Y. 1915) 224 Fed. 752; U. S. v. Chin Dong Ying, (D. C. Mass. 1916) 229 Fed. 813.

Prior adjudication.—An adjudication by a United States commissioner in deportation proceedings that the defendant was born in the United States and the issuance to him of a certificate, establishes his right to remain in the United States and subsequent misconduct will not deprive him of the right thus acquired. U. S. v. Lew Ah Jung, (D. C. Mass. 1915) 224 Fed. 649.

Use of writ of habeas corpus.—The writ of habeas corpus can not be used as a substitute for the appeal provided for in this section. U. S. v. McCarthy, (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 228 Fed. 398.

Change of status — Student.—Where a Chinese person came to the United States, properly certified as a student, supported by his father in China, the fact that he supported himself temporarily during a period when his father was unable to send remittances, did not operate to take him permanently out of the "student" class excepted from the operation of the Exclusion Act. U. S. v. Lau Chu, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1915) 224 Fed. 446, 140 C. C. A. 648.

Under Immigration Act.—In Lee Wong Hin v. Mayo, (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1917) 240 Fed. 368, 153 C. C. A. 294, it was held that a Chinese person, being subject to deportation under the Chinese Exclusion Act could not therefore be deported under the procedure provided for under section 21 of the Immigration Act (title IMMIGRATION, vol. 3, p. 681) unless such Chinese alien was held under a warrant charging a violation of some provision of the Immigration Act.

See further the note under section 6, Act of May 5, 1892, infra, p. 1021.

Vol. II, p. 90, sec. 14.

Consulate attaché.—An attaché of a Chinese consulate, whose original entry into the United States was surreptitious is subject to deportation. U. S. v. Gin Dock Sue, (N. D. Cal. 1915) 230 Fed. 657, affirmed (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 245 Fed. 308, 157 C. C. A. 500.

Vol. II, p. 92, sec. 2.

Country to which deported.—The admission of Chinese descent and failure to show native born citizenship of the United States give rise to a presumption that the person is a subject of China and by virtue of the provisions of this section, when adjudged to be not lawfully entitled to remain in the United States, he must be removed to China. Ng You Nuey v. U. S., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1915) 224 Fed. 340, 140 C. C. A. 26.

Wife of Chinese merchant.—The right of the wife of a Chinese merchant, to remain in the United States, is beyond question. Ex parte Chan Shee, (N. D. Cal. 1916) 236 Fed. 579.

Vol. II, p. 94, sec. 3.

Constitutionality.—A child born in the United States of Chinese parents domiciled in the United States becomes at the time of birth a citizen of the United States. It was competent for Congress, by the Chinese Exclusion Act, to empower a United States commissioner to determine the various facts upon which citizenship depends. Louis Lit v. U. S., (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1916) 238 Fed. 75, 151 C. C. A. 151.

Evidence—Admissibility of testimony of Chinese witnesses.—The testimony of Chinese witnesses is competent and admissible to establish the right of a Chinese person to be and remain in the United States. Congress has not seen fit to provide that Chinese persons found in the United States must establish their right to remain by other evidence than that of Chinese witnesses, even though it has done so as to persons seeking re-entrance on the ground they were formerly engaged as merchants in the United States, and until Congress acts and establishes a rule of evidence which excludes from consideration the testimony of Chinese persons, or requires that the fact be established by non-Chinese witnesses alone, the testimony of Chinese persons is competent and must be received and considered. U. S. v. Chin Sing Quong, (N. D. N. Y. 1915) 224 Fed. 752, affirmed (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 231 Fed. 948, 146 C. C. A. 144. See also Louie Dai v. U. S., (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1916) 238 Fed. 68, 151 C. C. A. 144; Yee Chung v. U. S., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 243 Fed. 126, 155 C. C. A. 656.

Evidence of pedigree.—The testimony of a Chinese person that according to his father's statements to him he was born in the United States, although hearsay evidence, is admissible and competent because the matter is one of pedigree or descent. U. S. v. Lem You, (S. D. N. Y. 1915) 224 Fed. 519.

Evidence of merchant status.—In Louie Dai v. U. S., (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1916) 238 Fed. 68, 151 C. C. A. 144, it was held that the evidence of mercantile status was not insufficient because it consisted wholly of Chinese witnesses.

Sufficiency.—For evidence held sufficient to sustain the burden of proving native-born citizenship, see U. S. v. Chin Mun, (D. C. Me. 1915) 225 Fed. 799.

For a case wherein the evidence was held sufficient to establish the right of a Chinese person to remain in the country and revoking an order of deportation, see U. S. v. Jung You, (E. D. Pa. 1916) 235 Fed. 1012.

For evidence held insufficient to support the burden of proving citizenship, see Hoey Ay Sing v. U. S., (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1915) 227 Fed. 209, 142 C. C. A. 9; Yee Chung v. U. S., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 243 Fed. 126, 155 C. C. A. 656.

Certificate of commissioner as evidence.—To the same effect as the original annotation, see Ex parte Chin Quock Wah, (W. D. Wash. 1915) 224 Fed. 138.

Burden and measure of proof.—To the same effect as the original annotation, see U. S. v. Chin Sing Quong, (N. D. N. Y. 1915) 224 Fed. 752; U. S. v. Quan Wah, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1915) 224 Fed. 420, 140 C. C. A. 114, following U. S. v. Hom Lim, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1915) 223 Fed. 520, 139 C. C. A. 68.

Assertion of citizenship.—Where a person of the Chinese race claims to be a citizen by birth of the United States, the burden of proof is upon him to sustain the claim. Lum Kim v. U. S., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1915) 225 Fed. 31, 140 C. C. A. 357; Ng You Nuey v. U. S., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1915) 224 Fed. 340, 140 C. C. A. 26; Jew Lee v. U. S., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 237 Fed. 1013, 151 C. C. A. 75; Young Ti v. U. S., (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 110, 156 C. C. A. 336.

And the assertion of a claim of domestic birth can not shift the burden upon the government of showing that the claimant was not born within the United States. Woo Vey v. U. S., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 838, 155 C. C. A. 426.

If the applicant is the son of an American citizen of Chinese descent, he is also such citizen and entitled to enter as such but the burden of proving such relationship is upon the applicant. However that burden should not be increased by throwing extraneous matters into the scales against him, as for instance proof of the father's sense of allegiance to this country. Ex parte Wong Foo, (N. D. Cal. 1916) 230 Fed. 534. See also Ex parte Lee Dung Moo, (N. D. Cal. 1910) 230 Fed. 746; Ex parte Tom Toy Tin, (N. D. Cal. 1916) 230 Fed. 747; Ex parte Ng Doo Wong, (N. D. Cal. 1915) 230 Fed. 751.

Assertion of merchant status.—"The statute not only prescribes the character of probative force of the evidence necessary to be produced, but it defines who shall produce it by saying 'that any Chinese person, . . . arrested under the provisions of this act,' shall produce such evidence or be adjudged to be unlawfully within the United States. As the statute places upon Chinese persons generally the burden of proving their lawful right to be in the country, it is entirely logical that when a Chinese person relies upon his mercantile status for his right to be here, the burden is upon him to prove it. United States v. Lung Hong, (D. C.) 105 Fed. 188; United States v. Lee You Wing, 211 Fed. 939, 128 C. C. A. 437. The government may controvert that evidence in the customary way, or because of the particular burden placed upon the defendant, the government may rest and at times succeed upon his failure to produce evidence of the affirmative and satisfactory character required. Whether by his evidence the Chinese person has placed himself beyond the statute or has failed to do so, then becomes a question to be determined by the tribunal before which the case is tried." Louie Dai v. U. S., (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1916) 238 Fed. 68, 151 C. C. A. 144.

Credibility of Chinese witnesses.—Mercantile status, at the time of the passage of this Act, providing for the registration of Chinese laborers, may be established by Chinese witnesses. Louie Dai v. U. S., (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1916) 238 Fed. 68, 151 C. C. A. 144. See also U. S. v. Chin Sing Quong, (N. D. N. Y. 1915) 224 Fed. 752, affirmed (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 231 Fed. 948, 146 C. C. A. 144; Yee Chung v. U. S., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 243 Fed. 126, 155 C. C. A. 656.

In U. S. v. Chin Sing Quong, (N. D. N. Y. 1915) 224 Fed. 752, the court, adhering to the view expressed in the third paragraph of the original annotation, said that in determining the weight to be given the testimony of Chinese persons, the policy of Congress as declared in the Act of May 5, 1892, sec. 6 and the Act of Nov. 3, 1893, sec. 2 (vol. 2, pp. 98, 104), may be considered.

Prior adjudication.—The fact that the right of a Chinese person to remain in the United States has already been decided in his favor in previous deportation proceedings conclusively establishes his right to remain. And this right is not affected by subsequent misconduct. U. S. v. Lew Ah Jung, (D. C. Maas. 1915) 224 Fed. 649.

Consulate attaché.—That a Chinese person is an attaché of a Chinese consular office in the United States is not a defense where the original entry of such person into the country was surreptitious. Such status cannot cure an irregular or illegal entry into the country. U. S. v. Gin Dock Sue, (N. D. Cal. 1915) 230 Fed. 657, affirmed (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 245 Fed. 308, 157 C. C. A. 500.

Conclusiveness of findings.—The discretion exercised by the trial judge in affirming the commissioner's order of deportation should not be lightly disturbed. Young Ti v. U. S., (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 110, 158 C. C. A. 336.

While an appellate court should be very slow to disturb the findings of fact of the commissioner and the district court, it is beyond question that appellate courts have jurisdiction to inquire into and to reverse such findings. Louie Dai v. U. S., (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1916) 238 Fed. 68, 151 C. C. A. 144, wherein the court reversed an order of deportation on the ground that error was committed in failing to accord to testimony its natural probative force and in failing to find that it was of the force required by statute. See also Louie Lit v. U. S., (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1916) 238 Fed. 75, 151 C. C. A. 151.

Where the assignment of errors brings up the single question that the judgment is against the weight of evidence, the commissioner and the judge agreeing, the decision on the facts will not be disturbed by an appellate court. Lee Lew You v. U. S., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 230 Fed. 920, 145 C. C. A. 130; Chin Sing Quon v. U. S., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 231 Fed. 948, 146 C. C. A. 144, affirming (N. D. N. Y. 1915) 224 Fed. 752; Ng Jung v. U. S., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 233 Fed. 992, 147 C. C. A. 666; Chin Hung v. U. S., (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1917) 240 Fed. 341, 153 C. C. A. 267; Woo Vey v. U. S., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 838, 155 C. C. A. 426.

And the fact that no evidence was introduced by the appellant before the commissioner, and all the evidence on the hearing in the District Court was by deposition, will not render this rule, limiting the right to repeated trial of facts in cases under this statute, inapplicable. Wong Woo v. U. S., (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1917) 240 Fed. 673, 153 C. C. A. 471.

Bail.—The issuance of a writ of habeas corpus does not change the status of the relator. The writ does not disturb the custody but simply requires his production for the purpose of examining into the legality of his detention. The relator is not, in a legal sense within the United States and no power is given by the statute to the court to admit an alien by giving bail pending an appeal from a decision of the court finding that he has been accorded a fair hearing by the commissioner. In re Chin Own, (W. D. Wash. 1917) 242 Fed. 996.

Vol. II, p. 98, sec. 6.

Purpose of provision—Exemption of merchants.—An inquiry into the scheme of the Chinese Exclusion Act discloses what the Congress intended was the restriction of Chinese labor in this country by the exclusion of Chinese laborers; that in carrying out this purpose, the Congress recognizing treaty obligations, very carefully preserved the right of all Chinese (whether laborers or others) then lawfully in the country to remain here thereafter. Being directed against laborers as a class, the Act required every Chinese laborer to register within a certain time and procure a certificate that he was a resident of the United States at the time of the passage of the Act, and to further effectuate its purpose, the Act provided that "Any Chinese laborer . . . found within the jurisdiction of the United States without such certificate shall be deemed and adjudged to be unlawfully within the United States," and accordingly deported. There were in the country at the time Chinese of favored classes, notably merchants, who were not subjected to the requirement of registration. They were permitted to register if they chose, but were not required to do so, and were entitled to remain without registration.

Louie Dai v. U. S., (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1916) 238 Fed. 68, 151 C. C. A. 144.

Evidence—Certificate prima facie proof.—The certificate is primary evidence of the right to remain in this country and the executive authorities are not justified in arbitrarily disregarding its effect. After the certificate is issued, the burden is cast upon the government, in case of attack on it, to show by testimony which the law recognizes as evidence, that it should be annulled before an order for deportation is warranted. Wong Yee Toon v. Stump, (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1916) 233 Fed. 194, 147 C. C. A. 200, reversing (D. C. Md. 1915) 227 Fed. 247. See also Lui Hip Chin v. Plummer, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 238 Fed. 763, 151 C. C. A. 613.

But where the holder of a certificate of residence leaves the United States and goes to a foreign country, he must on re-entering this country show that he has complied with the law and that his re-entry was not fraudulent. In such case the original certificate is not prima facie evidence of his right to remain. Bun Chew v. Connell, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 233 Fed. 220, 147 C. C. A. 226.

Merchant subsequently becoming laborer.—The fact that one who has been admitted into the United States as a merchant subsequently becomes a laborer is not in itself ground for his deportation. But if one who has been admitted on certificate as a merchant immediately on his arrival proceeds to engage in and continues in employment as a laborer, that fact has a strong retroactive bearing as evidence of the intent with which he came. Lui Hip Chin v. Plummer, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 238 Fed. 763, 151 C. C. A. 613; Lew Loy v. U. S., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 405, 155 C. C. A. 181.

Where a Chinese person was a merchant at the time of the test of his right to remain in the country, namely the registration period, and he thereafter acquires the status of a laborer, such change of status does not work a forfeiture of his right lawfully to remain in the country. But under the circumstances of his arrest as a laborer, there devolves upon him the necessity of overcoming the natural presumption arising from his status when arrested. Being a laborer when arrested he is bound to produce a laborer's certificate or show a reason why such certificate could not or need not be produced by him. Louis Dai v. U. S., (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1916) 238 Fed. 68, 151 C. C. A. 144.

In U. S. v. Fong Foo, (N. D. Ia. 1916) 235 Fed. 452, it was held that where a Chinese person, under the status of a merchant, departed for China and on his return a few years later was permitted to re-enter as a merchant, but did not thereafter engage in the business of a merchant or in any other occupation than that of a laborer, his status reverted to that of a laborer, and in the absence of a certificate of residence, as required by this section, he was subject to deportation.

Under Immigration Act.—The Department of Labor has power and authority under section 21 of the Immigration Act (title IMMIGRATION, vol. 3, p. 681), to determine the right of a Chinese person, charged with being in the United States. Ex parte Lee Ying, (W. D. N. Y. 1915) 225 Fed. 335; Ex parte Woo Shing, (N. D. Ohio 1915) 226 Fed. 141; Sibray v. U. S., (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1915) 227 Fed. 1, 141 C. C. A. 555; Ex parte Chin Him, (W. D. N. Y. 1915) 227 Fed. 131; U. S. v. Prentis, (N. D. Ill. 1916) 230 Fed. 935; Wong Chung v. U. S., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 244 Fed. 410, 157 C. C. A. 36. But see the note under section 13 of the Act of Sept. 13, 1888, supra, p. 1019.

Vol. II, p. 104, sec. 2.

Chinese merchants—Partnership or firm.—To the same effect as the original annotation, see U. S. v. Chin Sing Quong, (N. D. N. Y. 1915) 224 Fed. 752, wherein the court said: "It has been decided that membership in a firm is all sufficiently proved if the name appears in the books of such firm and shows that the defendant was a member thereof."

Conducting factory.—One engaged solely in conducting a factory for the manufacture of materials furnished by others is not a merchant; but if, in addition to the work of a factory, he buys and sells goods, he is a merchant. Ong Chew Lung v. Burnett, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 232 Fed. 853, 147 C. C. A. 47.

Adopted children of merchant.—To the same effect as the original annotation, see U. S. v. Lee Chee, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1915) 224 Fed. 447, 140 C. C. A. 649, wherein the court held further that the circumstance that later on an adopted child became a laborer would be no ground for his deportation.

Nephew of merchant.—A Chinese boy, coming to this country with his uncle and under his charge and protection should be given the status of the uncle; and being entitled to such status it would be lawful for him to enter the United States without a certificate, providing the person with whom he came was of the merchant class. U. S. v. Jew Sung Qwong, (D. C. Ore. 1916) 232 Fed. 279.

Chinese laborer.—The words "Chinese laborers" as used in the Exclusion Act were intended to designate all immigration to the United States from China other than that of privileged classes. U. S. v. Jew Sung Qwong, (D. C. Ore. 1916) 232 Fed. 279.

Change of status—Student.—The fact that a Chinese person, properly admitted as a student, was compelled to labor in order to support himself temporarily until he could secure remittances from China, did not operate to take him permanently out of the "student" class excepted from the operation of the Exclusion Act. U. S. v. Lau Chu, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1915) 224 Fed. 446, 140 C. C. A. 648.

Evidence.—For an extensive review of evidence held insufficient to show that a Chinese person resisting deportation was ever a merchant in the United States, as defined in this section, see U. S. v. Chin Sing Quong, (N. D. N. Y. 1915) 224 Fed. 752.

Vol. II, p. 110, sec. 2.

Authority of Secretary of Commerce and Labor to make rules.—Under this section the Secretary of Commerce and Labor had authority to adopt rule 7 of the regulations governing the admission of Chinese, exacting a bond for the granting of shore leave to Chinese sailors. U. S. v. Vaccaro, (E. D. La. 1916) 230 Fed. 943.

Vol. II, p. 113, sec. 4.

Deportation.—Power of collector of customs.—The insular collector of customs had authority to appoint a board of examiners primarily to determine, subject to his review, the right to enter under the Chinese exclusion laws. Sui v. McCoy, (1915) 239 U. S. 139, 36 S. Ct. 95, 60 U. S. (L. ed.) 183, affirming 22 Phil. Island, 361.

Board of examiners.—There is no conflict between the Act of Congress extending the Chinese exclusion laws to the Philippine Islands and the action of a collector in selecting a board of examiners to determine the right to enter, in whom the power had been already lodged to act under the supervision of the collector concerning matters of immigration. Sui v. McCoy, (1915) 239 U. S. 139, 36 S. Ct. 95, 60 U. S. (L. ed.) 183, affirming 22 Phil. Island, 361.

CITIZENSHIP

Vol. II, p. 116, sec. 1993.

Children born abroad.—Where a native of China seeks admission as the son of a native-born citizen, the question of relationship should be fairly investigated with a view to ascertain the truth and with a perfect willingness to admit him as a citizen under this law, instead of being investigated in a spirit hostile to the law, which, lacking the power to repeal, accomplishes the same result by denying to it effect. Ex parte Lee Dung Moo, (N. D. Cal. 1916) 230 Fed. 746; Ex parte Tom Toy Tin, (N. D. Cal. 1916) 230 Fed. 747.

A native of China, who claims admission as the son of a native-born citizen, should not be denied admission solely on the ground that his application was not made until some years after he reached majority. Ex parte Tom Toy Tin, (N. D. Cal. 1916) 230 Fed. 747; Ex parte Ng Doo Wong, (N. D. Cal. 1915) 230 Fed. 751.

Vol. II, p. 122, sec. 2.

To whom applicable.—In U. S. v. Howe, (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 231 Fed. 546, it appeared that a naturalized citizen returned to his native country, where he had left his family, and resided there for nearly ten years, during which time he took no steps to register himself as an American citizen with any diplomatic or consular officer. On his return to America his right to enter was questioned by the immigration authorities on the ground that he was an undesirable alien. On petition for habeas corpus, it was held that under this section the relator had lost his citizenship by his continuous residence abroad, that the Act applied to a naturalized citizen, and was constitutional and valid as to him, although it was not passed until after he left the United States. This decision was, however, partly based on a provision of a treaty between the United States and Sweden, that if a naturalized Swede or Norwegian, who has become a naturalized citizen of the United States, renews his residence in his native country without the intent of returning to America, he is to be held by the United States as having renounced his American citizenship.

However, in Stein v. Fleischmann Co., (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 237 Fed. 679, it was held, in view of a treaty between the United States and Austria, providing that an emigrant should not forfeit his citizenship by returning to his original country, unless he shall, of his own accord, reacquire his former citizenship and renounce that obtained by naturalization, that an Austrian could not sue as an alien in the federal courts, notwithstanding the fact that he had resided in Austria for more than two years and had taken no steps to retain his American citizenship.

Enlistment in foreign army.—One who moves to another country, and enlists in a foreign army, taking the oath of allegiance to the sovereign of the foreign state, and actually enters service, thereby effectually expatriates himself under this section.

CIVIL RIGHTS

Vol. II, p. 132, sec. 1980.

Evidence.—For evidence sufficient to sustain a connection for violation of this section by conspiring to prevent colored persons from voting on account of their race and color, see Guinn v. U. S., (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1915) 228 Fed. 103, 142 C. C. A. 509.

Vol. II, p. 137, sec. 1990.

Punishment for failure to perform service.—In holding invalid a state statute making it a misdemeanor punishable by fine or imprisonment to fail or refuse without just causes to perform labor or services under a contract, or to fail or refuse to pay for money or other advances received by virtue of the contract, the court, in Goode v. Nelson, (Fla. 1917) 74 So. 17, said that, as "involuntary servitude, except as a punishment for crime whereof the party shall have been duly convicted," is forbidden "within the United States" by the federal Constitution, a crime to be punished by imprisonment cannot lawfully be predicated upon the breach of a promise to perform labor or service. And as "all . . . laws . . . of any . . . state . . . which . . . shall . . . be made to . . . enforce, directly or indirectly, the voluntary or involuntary service or labor of any persons as peons, in liquidation of any debt or obligation, or otherwise, are declared null and void," a state statute making the failure or refusal, without just cause, to perform labor or service pursuant to a promise, a criminal offense, is "null and void," as its effect is to enforce, "directly or indirectly, the voluntary or involuntary service or labor of . . . persons as peons, in liquidation of any debt or obligation," in violation of the federal statutes, which, with Amendment Thirteenth of the federal Constitution, comprises the supreme law of the land on the subject.

CIVIL SERVICE

vol. II, p. 168, sec. 1.

Construction.—The words "any matter depending before the Civil Service Commission" as used in this section are not restricted to matters involving formal hearings, but apply to an application for a position in the civil service of the United States, and one who knowingly makes false statements in his sworn application is guilty of perjury. U. S. v. Crandol, (E. D. Va. 1916) 233 Fed. 331.

Vol. II, p. 169, sec. 1.

Constitutionality.—It was competent for Congress to exempt the marshal's office from the provisions of all laws relating to civil service and to subject the deputies to the terms of the exempting enactment. U. S. v. Lapp, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 244 Fed. 377, 157 C. C. A. 3.

Construction.—The fact that this provision was a rider in an appropriation bill cannot effect its construction. U. S. v. Lapp, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 244 Fed. 377, 157 C. C. A. 3.

Removal from office.—Under this provision a United States marshal may remove a deputy marshal at his discretion, and may not be controlled by mandamus. So much of the Act of Aug. 24, 1912, ch. 389, § 6 (see PUBLIC OFFICERS AND EMPLOYEES, vol. 8, p. 956), providing for the removal of persons from the classified civil service, as is inconsistent with this section, must yield so far as the appointment of deputy marshals is concerned. U. S. v. Lapp, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 244 Fed. 377, 157 C. C. A. 3.

CLAIMS

Vol. II, p. 179, sec. 3477.

Compliance with statute essential.—An assignment which does not comply absolutely with this section, is void as between the assignor and assignee, as well as between all other parties. Manhattan Commercial Co. v. Paul, (1916) 216 N.

Y. 481, 111 N. E. 76, overruling York v. Conde, (1895) 147 N. Y. 486, 42 N. E. 193.

Lien.—Since the purpose of this section is to protect the government and not the interests of the parties, an equitable lien, created by assignment, on moneys accruing under a contract with the United States is not invalid. Jennings v. Whitney, (1916) 224 Mass. 138, 112 N. E. 655.

Vol. II, p. 197, sec. 3482.

Operation of statute.—This section was intended to provide for losses to those engaged in military service in time of war. It was amended by the Act of June 22, 1874, ch. 395, but that Act was temporary legislation only intended to effect the consideration of a specific class of claims theretofore existing, if and when presented within the time limit prescribed by the Act and when the Act expired by its own limitation this section remained in force unaffected thereby. Griffis v. U. S. (1917) 52 Ct. Cl. 170, modifying (1916) 52 Ct. Cl. 1.

Vol. II, p. 205. [Act of March 3, 1885]

"Private property" defined.—The term private property as used in this Act includes all articles, carried by the persons enumerated into the military service, which were indispensable to the conditions of that service and comprehends privately owned horses inasmuch as they are not specifically excluded by the terms of the Act. Andrews v. U. S., (1917) 52 Ct. Cl. 373.

Property in military service.—This act is expressly limited to times of peace, but the term "in the military service" has a universally accepted legal meaning and Congress clearly did not intend to make the Government an insurer of privately owned property while in the military service, but limited liability to the loss and destruction of such property directly caused by military service and in nowise attributable to the fault or negligence of the soldier. Andrews v. U. S., (1917) 52 Ct. Cl. 373.

"In time of war" in proviso.—A loss occurring May 16, 1899, of private property aboard a transport bound from Porto Rico to New York which was wrecked, though the troops aboard were destined for service in the Philippines after refitting in New York was not "in time of war" within the meaning of this Act. Newcomber v. U. S. (1916) 51 Ct. Cl. 408.

Presentation of claim.—Claims under this Act must have been presented to the "proper accounting officer" within two years from the occurrence of the loss. Griffis v. U. S., (1917) 52 Ct. Cl. 170, modifying (1916) 52 Ct. Cl. 1; Goodman v. U. S., (1917) 52 Ct. Cl. 244. See also Andrews v. U. S., (1917) 52 Ct. Cl. 373.

Presentation of claims under this Act to the Quartermaster General is not a presentation to "the proper accounting officer." Griffis v. U. S., (1917) 52 Ct. Cl. 170, modifying (1916) 52 Ct. Cl. 1.

The requirement of presentation within two years to the accounting officers is a condition precedent to the right of action. Newcomber v. U. S., (1916) 51 Ct. Cl. 408.

Jurisdiction of Court of Claims.—By virtue of its general jurisdiction of claims "founded upon . . . any law of congress" given in Judicial Code, sec. 145, vol. V. p. 649 the Court of Claims has jurisdiction of claims arising under this Act where (1) the facts are undisputed and the accounting officers misapply the law, or (2) they refuse to act on claims properly presented, or (3) payment by the Treasury of their award is refused. Newcomber v. U. S. (1916) 51 Ct. Cl. 408.

Vol. II, p. 216, sec. 3466.

Priority.—Where a nonresident contractor failed to complete a building which he had undertaken to construct for the government, and his property was attached in the state court by the bank which had advanced him money, the surety on the contractor's bond replevied it, completed the building and claimed subrogation to any claim of the government. It was held that even if the words "absent debtor" as used in this section could be construed to mean a nonresident, yet the government had no priority to which the surety could be subrogated, since the attachment did not operate as a sequestration of the property for distribution among the creditors. People's Nat. Bank v. Corse, (1915) 133 Tenn. 720, 182 S. W. 917.

Priority as creating lien.—This section and R. S. sec. 3468 do not create a lien on the debtor's property as such. People's Nat. Bank v. Corse, (1915) 133 Tenn. 720, 182 S. W. 917.

Vol. II, p. 235, sec. 3.

Amendment of petition.—Where in a claim under this Act it appears that two separate depredations were committed, one by the Cheyennes and the other by the Sioux, and where the Cheyennes alone were named as the Indian defendants therein, it is not allowable to make a change of parties by an amendment to the original petition, so as to make the Sioux joint defendants, and the plaintiff is furnished no relief by the amendment of the first section of this Act by the Act of Jan. 11, 1915, ch. 7. Coffield v. U. S., (1916) 52 Ct. Cl. 17.

COINAGE, MINTS AND ASSAY OFFICES

Vol. II, p. 328, sec. 3504.

Power of removal by superintendent.—The power of appointment of workmen was, prior to the passage of the Act of Aug. 23, 1912, ch. 350, § 1 (vol. 2, p. 333), vested in the superintendent of the mint and his appointments were valid unless disapproved by the director, and in the absence of a statutory provision relating to the removal of workmen appointed by the superintendent, that power is incident to the power to appoint. Costello v. U. S., (1916) 51 Ct. Cl. 257.

Vol. II, p. 333, sec. 1.

Power of superintendent.—This Act took effect from the date of its passage, and the power of a superintendent of a mint to remove a workman prior to that date was not affected by the date mentioned in the statute from which the Secretary of the Treasury should control. Costello v. U. S., (1916) 51 Ct. Cl. 257.

COLLISIONS

Vol. II, p. 379, art. 5.

Obstruction of lights.—A schooner is guilty of fault in so carrying her green light that it was screened by her sails from the approaching steamer. The Brand, (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1915) 224 Fed. 391, 140 C. C. A. 77, Ann. Cas. 1917B 996, affirming (E. D. Pa. 1914) 214 Fed. 266.

Vol. II, p. 389, art. 16.

Rule absolute.—Under this article when a vessel is proceeding in a fog and a whistle is heard apparently forward of her beam, the position of which is not ascertained, the duty to stop the engines, if the circumstances will permit, is imperative. Lie v. San Francisco, etc., Steamship Co., (1917) 243 U. S. 291, 37 S. Ct. 270, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 726, affirming (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1915), 219 Fed. 134, 135 C. C. A. 32.

Violation of rule.—Where it appeared that steamer and a tug approaching each other, both sounding fog signals, and the steamer on hearing a whistle ahead, stopped for a minute, and hearing no response to the whistle she gave, was started forward, but her engine was almost immediately reversed on hearing another signal, it was held that she was in fault for violating this article. The Tillicum, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 230 Fed. 415, 144 C. C. A. 557.

Vol. II, p. 415, sec. 1.

Definition.—Steam vessel.—A collision between a steam vessel and a schooner whose sails were furled and which was being propelled by a gasoline motor alone, is a collision between two "steam vessels" within the meaning of this preliminary article. The Machigonne, (C. C. A. 1st Cir. 1916) 230 Fed. 777, 145 C. C. A. 87.

Vol. II, p. 419, art. 11.

Position of lights.—Where it is shown that the lights on a vessel at anchor were clearly visible, and in proper position, except that the stern light was not more than 10 feet lower than the forward light instead of 15 feet as required by this article, that fact alone is not sufficient to charge her with fault for collision with a vessel in motion. The John G. McCullough, (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1916) 239 Fed. 111, 152 C. C. A. 153.

Vol. II, p. 421, art. 16.

Moderate speed.—A sailing vessel proceeding with all sails set and drawing in a dense fog is going faster than necessary to maintain steerageway, is not going at the "moderate speed" required by the article, and is at fault for steaming at an excessive speed. The Robert M. Thompson, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 244 Fed. 662, 157 C. C. A. 110.

Mutual fault.—Where it appeared that a steamship and a pilot boat collided in a fog which rendered each invisible to the other until within a distance of 500 feet, it was held that both were in fault for proceeding at an excessive speed after each heard the fog signals of the other. The Manchioneal, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 243 Fed. 801, 156 C. C. A. 313.

Presumption and burden of proof.—The failure to observe this rule creates a presumption of fault and casts upon the vessel at fault the burden of proof to show even contributing fault in the other vessel. The Easton, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 239 Fed. 859, 152 C. C. A. 643.

Sailing vessel.—This article applies to sailing vessels as well as steam vessels. The Oceania Vance, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 223 Fed. 77, 146 C. C. A. 147.

Vol. II, p. 423, art. 18, rule I.

Burden of proof.—A departure from this puts on the boat attempting to justify it, the burden of establishing that the other boat assented by proper signals to the departure. The Mercer, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 234 Fed. 259, 148 C. C. A. 161.

Vol. II, p. 426, art. 18, rule V.

Signal given at time too far past.—This rule was considered in The Daniel Willard, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 235 Fed. 112, 148 C. C. A. 606, wherein it appeared that a steamer in leaving her pier passed out into the river on the north side of a long pier which completely shut off her view from the south and it was held that because of her failure to go at moderate speed or to give warning to other vessels after having given her slip signal, when leaving her own pier, about 1300 feet from the head of the long pier, she negligently violated this rule and was in fault for a collision with another vessel which was approaching from the south.

Vol. II, p. 427, art. 18, rule VIII.

Violation of rule.—In The James L. Morgan, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1915) 225 Fed. 34, 140 C. C. A. 360, it appeared that a steam lighter was passing down a river, and desiring to pass to the starboard side of a ferryboat, gave a one blast signal but was answered by a two blast signal. The steamer continued, and about the same time the ferryboat changed her course to cross ahead of the steamer, which then went to starboard and came into collision with a tug which was also passing down. It was held that the steam lighter and ferryboat were both in fault for violation of this rule.

Vol. II, p. 427, art. 18, rule IX.

Construction of rule.—The signals prescribed by this rule are only for vessels meeting, passing, and overtaking and do not relieve the vessel from the duty to give the signals prescribed by rule III. The Virginian, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 238 Fed. 156, 151 C. C. A. 232.

Vol. II, p. 436, art. 25.

Rule not inflexible.—This is not an inflexible rule but is to be construed in connection with rule 27 and is to be followed only "when safe and practicable;" and, where it is manifest that adherence to it will produce disaster, it is not only the right, but the duty, of the navigator to disregard it. The Santa Maria, (D. C. Del. 1915) 227 Fed. 149. See also The P. R. R. No. 32, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 240 Fed. 118, 153 C. C. A. 154.

Rights of moving vessels.—This article is a rule of the road defining the respective rights of moving vessels in narrow channels, and as against a vessel not proceeding but wrongfully lying at anchor, there the right of a traveling vessel is superior in any part of the channel. The Belfast, (D. C. Mass. 1914) 226 Fed. 362.

East river.—The East river is not a "narrow channel" within the meaning of this article. The Wrestler, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 232 Fed. 448, 146 C. C. A. 442.

President Roads.—President Roads and its approaches in Boston Harbor are to be regarded, generally speaking as a "narrow channel" within the meaning of this article. The Vera, (D. C. Mass. 1914) 224 Fed. 998, affirmed (C. C. A. 1st Cir. 1915) 226 Fed. 369, 141 C. C. A. 199.

Vol. II, p. 440, art. 27.

Special circumstances.—The steering and sailing rules apply to vessels navigating on steady courses. Where one of them is maneuvering merely, as for instance to get into or out of a dock, or winding around to get on her course, the situation is one of special circumstances, within the meaning of this article. The John Rugge, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 234 Fed. 861, 148 C. C. A. 459.

In The William A. Jamison, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 241 Fed. 950, 154 C. C. A. 586, it appeared that a tug was navigating near the ends of piers, while another tug was bringing barges to make up its tow, and it was held that the case was one of special circumstances within the meaning of this article. To the same effect see The Washington, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 241 Fed. 952, 154 C. C. A. 588.

Vol. II, p. 465, sec. 4233, rule 22.

Duty of overtaking vessel.—Under this rule the overtaking vessel has the right to overtake and pass another if it can do so with safety to both; it must be its own judge of safety and assumes all risks except those due to the fault of the vessel overtaken, and a reply of the latter to a passing signal of an overtaking vessel is no more than an assent by it to what the overtaking vessel proposes to do at its own risk. Atlas Transp. Co. v. Lee Line Steamers, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 235 Fed. 492, 149 C. C. A. 38.

COMMERCE DEPARTMENT

Vol. II, p. 481, sec. 10.

Authority of Secretary.—The transfer made by this Act does not give to the Secretary of Commerce any greater power or authority with respect of the subjects mentioned in this section, than that previously conferred on the Secretary of the Treasury. The practice of the Department with respect of the remission or mitigation of fines, penalties or forfeitures is the same as that previously exercised by the Secretary of the Treasury under the advice of the Attorney General. Findlay v. U. S., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1915) 225 Fed. 337, 139 C. C. A. 207.

CONGRESS

Vol. II, p. 502 [Act of Aug. 8, 1911]

Effect on referendum of state act.—There is nothing in this Act preventing the people of a state from reserving the right to approve or disapprove by referendum a state Act redistricting the state for the purpose of congressional elections. Davis v. Hildebrant, (1916) 241 U. S. 565, 36 S. Ct. 708, 60 U. S. (L. ed.) 1172, affirming (1916) 94 Ohio St. 154, 114 N. E. 55, wherein it was said that Congress, in enacting the controlling law concerning the duties of the states through their legislative authority to deal with the subject of the creation of congressional districts expressly modified the phraseology of the previous Acts relating to that subject by inserting a clause plainly intended to provide that where, by the state constitution and laws, the referendum was treated as a part of the legislative power, the power thus constituted should be held and treated to be the state legislative power for the purpose of creating congressional districts by law. This is the case since under the Act relating to apportionment which was superseded by this Act it was commanded that the existing districts in a state should continue in force "until the legislature of such state in the manner herein prescribed shall redistrict such state" while in this Act there was substituted a provision that the redistricting shall be made by a state "in the manner provided by the laws thereof" and the legislative history of this Act leaves no room for doubt that the prior words were stricken out and the new words inserted for the express purpose, in so far as Congress had power to do it, of excluding the possibility that it would effect a referendum.

Vol. II, p. 547, sec 1(b).

Right to novelize play.—The right to novelize a play was created by this section. Under the old copyright statute the right to novelize a play in such form as did not result in a "copy" was a right in the public domain and inhered in the first novelizer whether he were the author of the play, or another. Fitch v. Young, (S. D. N. Y. 1911) 230 Fed. 743.

Right of dramatization.—An exclusive right to dramatize a novel "for presentation on the stage" was held to mean an exclusive right to dramatize a spoken play and did not comprehend the independent right to dramatize the novel for a moving picture play. Klein v. Beach, (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 232 Fed. 240, affirmed

(C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 239 Fed. 108, 151 C. C. A. 282.

Vol. II, p. 548, sec. 1(d).

Playright distinguished from copyright.—Under the old copyright statute the distinction between playright and copyright was recognized although printed publication would forfeit both and one statutory copyright would protect both. So, the author of a play could reserve his common-law playright from the assignment of the play, and the assignee could, by the necessary formalities on the printed play, create a statutory copyright held beneficially by the assignee. Fitch v. Young, (S. D. N. Y. 1911) 230 Fed. 743.

Vol. II, p. 548, sec. 1(e).

"Performance for profits."—The performance of a copyrighted musical composition in the dining room of a hotel or restaurant, open to guests without charge for admission to hear it, infringes the exclusive right of the owner of the copyright to perform the work publicly for profit. "If the rights under the copyright are infringed only by a performance where money is taken at the door they are very imperfectly protected. Performances not different in kind from those of the defendants could be given that might compete with and even destroy the success of the monopoly that the law intends the plaintiffs to have. It is enough to say that there is no need to construe the statute so narrowly." Herbert v. Shanley Co., (1917) 242 U. S. 591, 37 S. Ct. 32, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 511, reversing (C. C. A. 1915) 221 Fed. 229, 136 C. C. A. 639, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 229 Fed. 340, 143 C. C. A. 460, cited in the original note.

Construing this phrase in Hubbell v. Royal Pastime Amusement Co., (S. D. N. Y. 1917) 242 Fed. 1002, the court said: "I am entirely satisfied that a semicolon should precede the words 'and for the purpose of public performance for profit.' This is born out by a reading of the committee reports and a reading of the statute. [See article STATUTES AND STATUTORY CONSTRUCTION, Vol. 1, par. 50, p. 70, as to the rules of construction where punctuation is involved.] If the semicolon is not inserted at the place above indicated, subdivision 'e' of section 1 does not seem to make sense. Eliminating the semicolon, the most, however, that the section amounts to is a protection in favor of those persons who do not perform publicly for profit the musical composition—as in the case of street parades, school, educational, or similar public occasions and exhibitions."

Musical composition.—A musical composition would seem, in connection with section 3, providing for the protection of all copyrightable component parts of the work copyrighted, to include both words and music. Standard Music Roll Co. v. Mills, (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1917) 241 Fed. 360, 154 C. C. A. 240, affirming (D. C. N. J. 1915) 223 Fed. 849.

Failure to file notice as defense.—"In order to compel the owner to make the license public by filing a notice in the office at Washington, the statute provides as a penalty that failure to file shall be a 'complete defense to any suit, action, or proceeding for any infringement of such copyright.' What does 'such copyright' refer to? Manifestly, as we think, some particular right to reproduce the musical work mechanically. Just how the reproduction is to be made, and whether it is to be confined to the music or shall extend to the words also, is in the first instance left for the owner to determine. But after he has determined it, and has granted a license to one person, he thereby opens the field to all others to do the same, or a similar, thing. If he license one person to reproduce both words and music by the phonograph method, other persons may reproduce them both by using phonography. If he license one person to reproduce the music by the automatic roll, others also may use the roll, but they do not thereby acquire the right to print the words. In brief, 'such copyright' means the particular right covering mechanical reproduction that happens to be in controversy—in the present case, the right to reproduce, not the words but the music, mechanically." Standard Music Roll Co. v. Mills, (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1917) 241 Fed. 360, 154 C. C. A. 240, affirming (D. C. N. J. 1915) 223 Fed. 849.

Object of proviso.—The object of the proviso in this section seems to be the prevention of monopoly or favoritism in granting the right to reproduce a musical work mechanically. If the owner authorize one person to reproduce the work mechanically, other persons also may reproduce it in a similar mechanical manner, subject to the payment of the statutory royalty. Standard Music Roll Co. v. Mills, (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1917) 241 Fed. 360, 154 C. C. A. 240, affirming (D. C. N. J. 1915) 223 Fed. 849.

Vol. II, p. 553, sec. 5.

What may be copyrighted.—An English translation of an original French play, with such modification as the translator's ingenuity might suggest, is copyrightable. But such translator has no right to transfer into his adaptation, variations from and additions to the French play which were original with a prior translator who copyrighted his translation. Stevenson v. Fox, (S. D. N. Y. 1915) 226 Fed. 990.

Photo-play presentation.—The copyright of a dramatization covers a photo-play presentation of the same subject. U. S. v. Motion Picture Patents Co., (E. D. Pa. 1915) 225 Fed. 800.

A manual of instruction, illustrating, by designs and explanatory matter, the uses of a complicated mechanical toy, is copyrightable. Meccano v. Wagner, (S. D. Ohio 1916) 234 Fed. 912.

A photograph of a street scene is copyrightable when the result evidences originality in bringing out the proper setting for both animate and inanimate objects.

with the adjunctive features of light, shade, position, etc. Pagano v. Beseler Co., (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 234 Fed. 963.

Chromos are copyrightable and it makes no difference that they are intended for advertising articles of commerce. Stecher Lithographic Co. v. Dunston Lithograph Co., (W. D. N. Y. 1916) 233 Fed. 601.

What cannot be copyrighted—Title or name.—"It is well settled that the owner of the thing copyrighted acquires through the copyright no property in the name by which it is designated. 'Neither the author nor proprietor of a literary work has any property in its name. It is term of description, which serves to identify the work; but any other person can with impunity adopt it, and apply it to any other book, or to any trade commodity, provided he does not use it as a false token, to induce the public to believe that the thing to which it is applied is the identical thing which it originally designated. If literary property could be protected upon the theory that the name by which it is christened is equivalent to a trademark, there would be no necessity for copyright law.'" Wilson v. Hecht, (1915) 44 App. Cas. (D. C.) 33.

A plan of medical instruction illustrating practice in general use and embodying previous medical knowledge which was common property to any writer, is not copyrightable. Chautauqua School of Nursing v. National School of Nursing, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 238 Fed. 151, 151 C. C. A. 227, reversing (W. D. N. Y. 1914) 211 Fed. 1014.

"Statue."—If a production is intended for or bound to be given free and unrestricted public exhibition, and is so displayed, there is a publication of the thing and dedication to the public, defeating copyright. Such display inevitably exposes the production to copy and so is inconsistent with claim of copyright and the latter cannot be preserved by any notice thereof hung upon the exhibit. A statue or structure built for public free exhibition can no more be copyrighted than Liberty Enlightening the World, or the Dewey Arch or the Washington Monument. Carns v. Keefe, (D. C. Mont. 1917) 242 Fed. 745.

Vol. II, p. 562, sec. 8.

Question of ownership of copyright.—The legal title to a copyright vests in the person in whose name the copyright is taken out. It may, however, be held by him in trust for the true owner, and the question of true ownership is one of fact, dependent upon the circumstances of the case. Harms v. Stern, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 229 Fed. 42, 145 C. C. A. 2.

Vol. II, p. 574, sec. 18.

Notice—Legality of name.—The proprietor of a copyright may use either his real name or an assumed name on his notice of copyright but the name must be legal where he uses it. So where a state statute (N. Y.) prohibits the use of a fictitious partnership name, and the copyright proprietor, instead of his own name, used that of a company of which he was not a member and which in fact did not exist, it was held that a suit for infringement would not lie under the notice of copyright in that form. Haas v. Feist, (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 234 Fed. 105.

Vol. II, p. 579, sec. 20.

Effect of defective notice.—Where in a notice of copyright, the letter C enclosed in a circle as required by section 18, and affixed to a published illustration, was so defective as not to convey to any one the existence of a copyright, it was held, although there had been a technical and incidental infringement, that by reason of the improper and defective notice, no damage would be awarded against the infringers, but they would be enjoined only from the future use of the copyrighted illustration. Alfred Decker Cohn Co. v. Etchison Hat Co., (E. D. Va. 1915) 225 Fed. 135.

Application of section.—For a case held to be within the application of this section, see Stecher Lithographic Co. v. Dunston Lithograph Co., (W. D. N. Y. 1916) 233 Fed. 601, holding a certain number of copyrighted chromos infringed although they were published without the copyright mark.

Vol. II, p. 581, sec. 25 (b).

Purpose of section.—The language of this section is a growth of years, resulting from the efforts of Congress to avoid that strictness of construction which historically attached to any statute inflicting penalties and to confer upon an injured copyright owner some pecuniary solace even when the rules of law render it difficult, if not impossible, as it often is, to prove damages or discover profits. S. E. Hendricks Co. v. Thomas Pub. Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 37, 154 C. C. A. 629.

Consolidation of suits.—Where one copyrights separately ten cuts, and finds each one of the ten infringed on separate days by the same newspaper, and then brings ten separate damage suits, on application to compel consolidation, the court would look into the facts and ascertain whether there were really ten controversies involving ten questions or whether there was just the one dispute involving one question, and probably would consolidate or not, according as it decided this question. If these suits were consolidated upon a finding that they were really only one controversy and injury to the plaintiff's business, or if the plaintiff in the first place brought one consolidated suit, minimum damages as for one infringement would satisfy the statute. L. A. Westermann Co. v. Dispatch Printing Co., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1916) 233 Fed. 609, 147 C. C. A. 417.

Joint tortfeasors.—All parties who unite in an infringement are, under the statute, liable for the damages sustained by the owner of the copyright. Gross v. Van Dyk Gravure Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 230 Fed. 412, 144 C. C. A. 554. See also Haas v. Feis, (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 234 Fed. 105.

Quantum of damages.—The maximum and minimum limitations unquestionably apply to the "in lieu" of damages. Whether they apply to the actual damages which may be proved and established, under the first part of this section, was mooted, but passed over, as not requiring decision in L. A. Westermann Co. v. Dispatch Printing Co., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1916) 233 Fed. 609, 147 C. C. A. 417.

In consolidated suits.—On a consolidated suit the statute may be satisfied by awarding the minimum damages as for one infringement. L. A. Westermann Co. v. Dispatch Printing Co., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1916) 233 Fed. 609, 147 C. C. A. 417.

Infringement under minimum damage clause.—"What did Congress mean when it referred to the 'infringement' for which not less than $250 must be paid? The common instance, such as Congress probably had in mind, is clear. In case of an unauthorized publication of a copyrighted book, or an infringing edition of a copyrighted song, there are clearly one right and one violation, though an infringing edition may contain many copies. The statute had recognized that in some instances acts of infringement, though connected and united, may require separate treatment, and in other instances (newspaper reproduction of photographs) a number, perhaps a vast number, of acts are treated collectively as one infringement; but in still other instances the statute is wholly silent in these respects. The publishing of an edition of a thousand books is an infringement; so is the putting on sale of one of them. Using the analogy of the patent law, the manufacture and sale of one article is an infringement sufficient to support an action; yet all the conduct of the defendant in continuing the manufacture and sale over a period of years may be 'the infringement' for which damages will be assessed at the end of the action. There is no corresponding damage statute in the patent law to make the analogy complete; but can it be supposed that the copyright proprietor can take each infringing act out of a series or group, because each one is sufficient to support an action, and then plant a separate action or complaint upon each, and so recover his minimum damages practically as many times as he chooses? These and other considerations convince us that the 'infringement' which calls for minimum damages is that conduct of the defendant, whether being one act or many, which constitutes a connected and fairly unitary invasion of the proprietor's rights." L. A. Westermann Co. v. Dispatch Printing Co., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1916) 233 Fed. 609, 147 C. C. A. 417.

Damages—"Actual" and "in lieu."—"Actual" damages means "real" as opposed to "nominal." It means "existent" without precluding the thought of change. "In lieu" means in place of the thing modified by the quoted phrase. What a plaintiff is entitled to ask of the court in its discretion is something in place of his real—i. e., legally existent and legally ascertained damages. S. E. Hendricks Co. v. Thomas Pub. Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 37, 154 C. C. A. 629.

By the clause "in lieu of" this section contemplates an election or discretionary choice between actual damages and profits on the one side, and, on the other side, and assumed or somewhat arbitrary award of such damages as may be just. L. A. Westermann Co. v. Dispatch Printing Co., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1916) 233 Fed. 609, 147 C. C. A. 417.

Nominal damages.—Nominal damages may be awarded for proven infringement where little or no actual injury appears. S. E. Hendricks Co. v. Thomas Pub. Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 37, 154 C. C. A. 629.

Vol. II, p. 593, sec. 36.

- I. What constitutes infringement.
- II. Injunction and accounting.

I. WHAT CONSTITUTES INFRINGEMENT (p. 594)

Similarities in dramatic compositions.—Mere similarities in plot and lines, developed from a common source and accounted for by reference to the common source, do not constitute infringement. Bachman v. Belasco, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1915) 224 Fed. 817, 140 C. C. A. 263, affirming (S. D. N. Y. 1913) 224 Fed. 815.

Resemblances between two dramatic compositions in fundamental plot and minor and unimportant instances, does not involve infringement where the fundamental dramatic feature common to both, had long been common property. While copyright will of course protect the author who adds elements of literary value to an old plot, it will not prohibit the use by some one else of the same old plot without the particular embellishment. Eichel v. Marcin, (S. D. N. Y. 1913) 241 Fed. 404.

Dramatization of novel.—The exhibition of a series of photographs of persons and things arranged on films as moving pictures, and so depicting the principal scenes of an author's work as to tell the story, is a dramatization of such work as held by the Supreme Court in Kalem Co. v. Harper, (1911) 222 U. S. 55, 32 S. Ct. 20, 56 U. S. (L. ed.) 92, Ann. Cas. 1913A 1285, cited in the original note. And an agreement granting the exclusive right of dramatizing an author's work would include the right to make a "movie play" as well as a spoken play. But if a grant made by an agreement is limited as "for presentation on the stage," or is limited to one version only and that in a particular manner or prohibits any change in the manner of performance or text, the right of dramatization for a moving picture play would not be comprehended. Harper v. Klaw, (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 232 Fed. 609, wherein it was held that an agreement, authorizing the defendant to dramatize the novel "Ben Hur" and giving the "exclusive right of producing such dramatic version on the stage" did not confer on the defendant moving picture rights in the play and that its production in that mode and method would be an infringement of the plaintiff's copyright. The language of the agreement was held to be incapable of application to any method of producing photoplays in commercial use and to be not only inconsistent with but repugnant to the thought of making "movies" out of "Ben Hur."

An exclusive right to dramatize a novel "for presentation on the stage" was held to mean an exclusive right to dramatize a spoken play and did not comprehend the independent right to dramatize the novel for a moving picture play. Klein v. Beach, (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 232 Fed. 240, affirmed (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 239 Fed. 108, 151 C. C. A. 282.

Infringement of musical copyright.—Where two compositions were considerably different, both in theme and execution, except as to the particular phrase, "I hear you calling me" and the music accompanying those words was practically identical in both compositions, it was held that the use of this similar phraseology and the similar bars of music was sufficient to warrant the charge of piracy and infringement of copyright. Boosey v. Empire Music Co., (S. D. N. Y. 1915) 224 Fed. 646.

Second hand books.—One may sell a second hand copyrighted book for what it is. He may rebind or otherwise improve its condition or appearance for the purposes of a resale. But if he supplies missing parts by copying the maps and of reprinting portions of the original text and incorporates these reproduced parts with the old books, and sells them as the publications of the original publishers, it constitutes an infringement of copyright. Ginn v. Apollo Pub. Co., (E. D. Pa. 1914) 215 Fed. 772.

A photograph of a street scene, held to be a proper subject of copyright, is infringed by a lantern slide reproduction. Pagano v. Chas. Beseler Co., (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 234 Fed. 963.

II. INJUNCTIONS AND ACCOUNTING (p. 601)

Bill or complaint—Misjoinder of parties plaintiff.—The misjoinder of a party plaintiff having no interest, and to whom no relief can be granted, renders the complaint multifarious and devoid of equity, and the complaint must be dismissed. Tully v. Triangle Film Corp., (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 229 Fed. 297.

Exhibits.—In accordance with rule 2 of the Supreme Court adopted pursuant to section 25 (see vol. 2, p. 587) a copy of the work alleged to be infringed must accompany the complaint or its absence be explained. "It sometimes happens that redress by injunction in case of this kind must be speedily obtained in order to prevent irreparable injury, and that the plaintiff may not have at hand a copy of the manuscript, whereas he can describe, for all practical purposes, the substance of the subject-matter of his copyrighted work; but the rule must be followed, and, if the work cannot be produced, satisfactory reasons for its absence must be presented. Tully v. Triangle Film Corp., (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 229 Fed. 297.

Preliminary injunction.—Where a novel and an alleged infringing photoplay had some marked similarities, but neither was wholly original, and the principal theme and many incidents were derived from common sources and the question of infringement was therefore by no means clear, a preliminary injunction was denied. Bobbs-Merrill Co. v. Equitable Motion Pictures Corp., (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 232 Fed. 791.

Where the author of a story conferred the whole copyright privilege upon his publisher to hold the same for its own benefit as to serial publication and as trustee for him, the author, as to all other rights, and the publisher thereafter released motion picture rights in the story, it was held that a preliminary injunction against the producers of the picture was properly denied the author where there was no actual notice or sufficient evidence of constructive notice to them. "Where one clothes another with apparent ownership, though actually as trustee, he cannot defeat the title of those who in good faith, for a valuable consideration and without notice deal with the trustee." Brady v. Reliance Motion Picture Corp., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 229 Fed. 137, 143 C. C. A. 413. See also Brady v. Reliance Motion Picture Corp., (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 232 Fed. 259.

Suspension of temporary injunction.—Where the sale of defendant's composition cannot interfere with the sale of plaintiff's composition by virtue of the inherent difference, generally speaking, of the tastes to which they appeal, and the case is therefore not one where the plaintiff's commercial exploitation of their composition is interfered with, but one which involves solely the rights under the statute, a temporary injunction will be suspended on the filing of a bond and periodical statements of sales, pending final hearing or appeal. Boosey v. Empire Music Co., (S. D. N. Y. 1915) 224 Fed. 646.

Computation of profits recoverable.—In copyright as in patent cases, the purpose is to find the amount of damages or of profits. The difference in the two classes of cases is a practical one. In patent cases, the profits are found by contrasting the amount of proceeds and sales made with the total cost of production. In copyright cases under this section the plaintiff may show only the receipts, or debit side of the account, and put upon the defendant the burden of proving the cost of production, or the plaintiff may exact the penalty. A successful plaintiff is thus given something in the nature of certain options. He may take damages and profits or the penalty imposed. If he takes profits, he may avail himself of the method of proving profits given by the Act of 1912. This method, however, is not exclusive. Whatever method he adopts, he may apply it by calling upon the defendant to account, or by proving either sales or profits through and by evidence introduced or witnesses called by him. He may require the production of books and papers, and in proper cases offer them as part of his evidence in proof of either sales or profits. He may compel such production either by notice, or through an order to produce, or by a subpoena duces tecum. Ginn v. Apollo Pub. Co., (E. D. Pa. 1915) 228 Fed. 214.

Vol. II, p. 608, sec. 40.

Counsel fees.—The allowance of counsel fees is a matter peculiarly within the discretion of the court awarding the same. S. F. Hendricks Co. v. Thomas Pub. Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 37, 154 C. C. A. 629, wherein the court declined to disturb an award of counsel fees fixed by the trial judge.

Vol. II, p. 622, sec. 3.

Chromos.—As chromos are plainly omitted from this section, they do not come under the provision relating to registration in the patent office. Stecher Lithographic Co. v. Dunston Lithograph Co., (W. D. N. Y. 1916) 233 Fed. 601.

COSTS

Vol. II, p. 628, sec. 824.

"For each deposition," etc.—Examination before commissioner.—There is not a uniformity of opinion in the courts as to whether an examination before a commissioner shall be treated as a deposition under this section. See the original annotations. In The Mary, (W. D. Wash. 1916) 233 Fed. 121, on a motion to disallow proctor's fees on taking testimony before a court commissioner of 10 witnesses, the tax of $2.50 was allowed as to all the witnesses except one, as to whom it was disallowed on the ground that his testimony was immaterial.

Disbursements for transcribing deposition.—The allowance of disbursements for transcribing a deposition pertains directly to testimony intended to be used in the case, and when the deposition has been taken in good faith and under apparent necessity therefor, the fee for transcribing it so that it can be used may be allowed in the discretion of the court, even though the witness himself is produced and for this reason the deposition is not used. Alaska Steamship Co. v. Gilbert, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 236 Fed. 715, 150 C. C. A. 47.

"Admitted in evidence in a cause."—In respect to depositions in the admiralty court, no proctor's fee is recoverable in a cause unless the deposition is admitted in evidence. Alaska Steamship Co. v. Gilbert, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 236 Fed. 715, 150 C. C. A. 47.

Docket fee—Entry of decrees by consent.—A docket fee cannot be allowed in a suit in admiralty where the decree was entered as a matter of course upon consent of the parties and not by reason of the submission of any question of law or fact to the court. The Dwinak, (S. D. N. Y. 1915) 227 Fed. 958.

Vol. II, p. 641, sec. 974.

"Costs"—Preliminary examination.—In U. S. v. Smith, (M. D. Tenn. 1917) 240 Fed. 756, the court said: "Under this section the word costs as used in reference to prosecutions for fines or forfeitures, means the 'taxable costs of the trial before the court and petit jury in which defendants have been convicted.' United States v. Wilson (C. C.) 193 Fed. 1007. That is, in effect, in such cases the word 'costs' means merely the taxable costs of the court cause. It is earnestly insisted, however, in behalf of the Government, that 'the costs of the prosecution,' which under this section may be awarded against a defendant upon conviction for any other offense, not capital, that is, offenses punishable by imprisonment, is a broader term than the word 'costs' as used in reference to prosecutions for fines or forfeitures merely, and hence includes other costs of the entire prosecution, such as those incurred in the preliminary proceedings before a Commissioner and grand jury, which may be taxed against a convicted defendant under this section, although not, strictly speaking, costs of the cause. While it may perhaps be that the term 'costs of the prosecution' is broader than the word 'costs,' and may include costs of the prosecution which are not costs of the cause itself, such as the fees of witnesses examined before the grand jury prior to the return of an indictment, this would not strengthen the Government's position in the instant case, since the awarding of the entire 'costs of the prosecution' is, under the statute, discretionary with the court, and in the instant case, under the judgment, which was rendered at a former term and has now passed beyond the control of the court, it was not awarded that the defendants pay 'the costs of the prosecution,' but merely 'the costs of the cause.' Obviously the costs of the preliminary proceeding before the Commissioner are not part of the costs of the cause, within the definition of 'costs' given in United States v. Wilson (C. C.), supra. The preliminary proceedings before the Commissioner are, it is settled, not a part of the cause in the court itself. There is no 'cause' in the court until an indictment or information is filed; the filing therein of the Commissioner's transcript not being the institution of a suit, but having as its object the giving of information to the district attorney that the defendant has been held to bail or committed to await the action of the grand jury." See to the same effect, U. S. v. Briebach, (E. D. Ark. 1917) 245 Fed. 204.

Conviction for criminal contempt.—On a conviction for criminal contempt it is within the power of the trial judge to require payment of costs, not as a fine but as are incident of the judgment of conviction. Oates v. U. S., (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1916) 233 Fed. 201, 147 C. C. A. 207.

Cited without specific application in American Surety Co. v. U. S., (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1917) 239 Fed. 680, 152 C. C. A. 514, wherein costs were included as part of a judgment of conviction for rebating.

Vol. II, p. 644, sec. 982.

Dismissal on eve of trial.—Waiting until the moment of trial to dismiss a proceeding furnishes ample ground for the court to tax as costs every item which the law permits. In fact the circumstances may justify a court of equity in going as far as possible in compelling reimbursement for expenditures defendant made in good faith, in preparation for the trial of the case. Bone v. Walsh Constr. Co., (S. D. Ia. 1916) 235 Fed. 901.

But, upon dismissal, the court cannot tax any costs which could not be taxed if the case had gone to trial and there had been a decree for the defendant. There is no authority for permitting a penalty to be assessed because of the dismissal of the case on the eve of the trial. Bone v. Walsh Constr. Co., (S. D. Ia. 1916) 235 Fed. 901.

Expenses for expert witnesses.—In Bone v. Walsh Constr. Co., (S. D. Ia. 1916) 235 Fed. 901, on motion to tax costs, the defendant's disbursements for expert witnesses in the preparation of a case and in attendance for the trial, were denied. But the statutory witness fees were allowed.

Vol. II, p. 644, sec. 983.

Cases where costs are recoverable.—This section, when it refers to "trials in cases where by law costs are recoverable," means that costs are recoverable in all cases where by any provision of statute any costs are recoverable. Motion Picture Patents Co. v. Universal Film Mfg. Co., (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 232 Fed. 263.

Exemplifications and copies.—For exemplifications and copies of papers necessarily obtained for use on a trial, "necessarily" must be limited to mean those exemplifications and copies of papers which are essential to the cause. Motion Picture Patents Co. v. Universal Film Mfg. Co., (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 232 Fed. 263.

For an extended memorandum of items of copies of papers, in a suit for infringement of patent, considered and held to be taxable, see Motion Picture Patents Co. v. Universal Film Mfg. Co., (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 232 Fed. 263. See also Bone v. Walsh Constr. Co., (S. D. Ia. 1916) 235 Fed. 901.

Stenographer's minutes.—A copy of the stenographer's minutes of a trial furnished to one of the parties is not a copy of a paper necessarily obtained for use on the trial within the meaning of this section. Stallo v. Wagner, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 245 Fed. 636, 158 C. C. A. 64.

A docket fee is unquestionably costs. Motion Picture Patents Co. v. Universal Film Mfg. Co., (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 232 Fed. 263.

Vol. II, p. 647, sec. 1.

Liability of government for costs.—Congress did not intend that the United States should be liable for any of the costs incurred under the provisions of this Act. U. S. v. Fair, (N. D. Cal. 1916) 235 Fed. 1015, wherein it was held that the court was without power to order the transcription of the testimony at the expense of the government or at the expense of the reporter, where he was not an officer of the court.

CRIMINAL LAW

Vol. II, p. 654, sec. 1014.

Nature of proceedings.—Proceedings before a commissioner, or other magistrate authorized to conduct examinations under R. S. sec. 1014, are merely preliminary for the purpose of ascertaining whether there is reasonable cause to believe that the person brought before the examining officer has violated a statute of the United States, and, if he so finds, it is his duty to hold or admit him to bail, to await the action of the grand jury. In no sense can it be said that this is a trial, for no judgment or sentence can be pronounced or imposed by the commissioner, or any judge, sitting as an examining magistrate, even if it is the district judge, who holds the examination. U. S. v. Briebach, (E. D. Ark. 1917) 245 Fed. 204.

Following state practice—Mode of process.—It has been assumed that the phrase "agreeably to the usual mode of process against offenders in such state" found in this section, regulates and controls the steps to be taken upon bailing one who has been indicted by a grand jury of the United States as well as those preliminary examinations to which parts of the section are particularly appropriate. Ewing v. U. S., (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1917) 240 Fed. 241, 153 C. C. A. 167.

Liability upon forfeiture of bail bond.—Where a state statute enumerates the causes which will exonerate a defendant and his sureties from liability upon a forfeiture taken, the state procedure will govern the federal courts in a proceeding by the government for forfeiture of a bail bond. De Orozco v. U. S., (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1916) 237 Fed. 1008, 151 C. C. A. 70.

Removal of accused to trial district—Offense against the United States.—An offense under the Alaska Criminal Code is not an offense against the laws of the United States and an offender thereunder, present in a federal district, cannot be removed to the District Court of Alaska under the provisions of this section. Ex parte Krause, (W. D. Wash. 1915) 228 Fed. 547.

Vol. II, p. 672, sec. 1028.

A certified copy of order of sentence and record of conviction, is sufficient to authorize the retention of the prisoner without any warrant or mittimus. Ex parte Thurston, (W. D. Wash. 1916) 233 Fed. 847.

Vol. II, p. 676, sec. 1024.

Election of counts.—Where the different counts of an indictment charge different offenses, but all violations of the same statute, and all relate virtually to the same transaction, so that the evidence offered to sustain one is also admissible under the others, the court may properly refuse to require the government, at the close of its case, to elect upon which of the counts conviction would be sought. Wallace v. U. S., (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1917) 243 Fed. 300, 156 C. C. A. 80.

Offenses held to have been properly joined.—In one count of the indictment the defendant was charged with embezzling money, and in the other with embezzling property, both belonging to the United States. It was held that these two offenses being of the same class of crimes, were properly joined in one indictment. McNeil v. U. S., (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 827, 159 C. C. A. 129.

Consolidation.—For a case giving a statement of matters embraced in two indictments, one charging acts in restraint of trade in violation of the Sherman Act and the other charging a conspiracy to begin and set on foot certain military enterprises to be carried on from within the United States against a foreign power, which sufficiently showed that the charges contained in them were charges for acts and transactions connected together and which might be properly joined, within the meaning of this section, see U. S. v. Bopp, (N. D. Cal. 1916) 237 Fed. 283.

Vol. II, p. 681, sec. 1025.

Effect of section.—This section, in effect, directs that the existence of irregularity, if error of form, shall not be presumed a wrong to the accused; but it must be shown to be so. Moffatt v. U. S., (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 232 Fed. 522, 146 C. C. A. 480.

Selection of grand jury.—The designation made by the statute of the officials charged with the duty of selecting the names to be drawn from to make up grand and petit juries is a means adopted to prevent the pollution of the stream of justice at its source. The provision was intended to guard the administration of the criminal law against improper influences. The court is not vested with a discretionary power to dispense with a compliance with an essential feature of a safeguard prescribed by law. An impeachment of an indictment because of a non-compliance with the requirement that the names put in the jury box be selected by specified officials is not a suggestion of a defect or imperfection in matter of form only under this section, but goes to the vital question of the legality of the existence of the body by which the charge was made, and of its right or power to make a charge which the party charged can be required to defend against. Dunn v. U. S., (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1917) 238 Fed. 508, 151 C. C. A. 444.

Indictment—Sufficiency in general.—In its last analysis the question of the sufficiency of an indictment under this section is: Does the indictment contain a sufficient accusation of crime, and do its averments furnish the accused with such a description of the charge as will enable him to make his defense and avail himself of his conviction or acquittal for protection against future proceedings for the same offense? And is the indictment sufficient to inform the court of the facts alleged, so that it may decide whether those facts are sufficient in law to sustain a conviction if one should be had? Knauer v. U. S., (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 237 Fed. 8, 150 C. C. A. 210.

Particularity.—In Lamar v. U. S., (1916) 241 U. S. 103, 36 S. Ct. 535, 60 U. S. (L. ed.) 912, the indictment, charging a violation of section 32 of the Penal Code (vol. 7, p. 516) alleged that at a stated time the accused "unlawfully, knowingly and feloniously did falsely assume and pretend to be an officer of the Government of the United States, to-wit, a member of the House of Representatives of the Congress of the United States of America, that is to say, A. Mitchell Palmer, a member of Congress representing the Twenty-sixth District of the State of Pennsylvania, with the intent, then and there, to defraud Lewis Cass Ledyard," and other persons who were named and others to the grand jury unknown, "and the said defendant, then and there, with the intent and purpose aforesaid, did take upon himself to act as such member of Congress against the peace," etc. It was urged that the indictment was defective because of its failure to describe the circumstances of the offense. Holding that the case was clearly covered by this section the court said: "It will be observed from the text of the indictment which we have previously reproduced that it clearly charges the illegal acts complained of and the requisite fraudulent intent, states the date and place of the commission of the acts charged and gives the name and official character of the officer whom the accused was charged with having falsely personated. It is moreover to be observed that there is not the slightest suggestion that there was a want of knowledge of the crime which was charged or of any surprise concerning the same, nor is there any intimation that any request was made for a bill of particulars concerning the details of the offense charged.

Allegation of incorporation.—In view of this section, it was unnecessary to charge in an indictment, that a railway company, whose car was broken into for the purpose of committing larceny, was an incorporated company, as such omission could have no tendency to prejudice the defendant. Morris v. U. S., (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 229 Fed. 516, 143 C. C. A. 584.

So, an indictment for use of the mails to defraud a bank, which fails to charge that the bank was incorporated, will not be quashed since the omission can in no wise prejudice the defendant. McClendon v. U. S., (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 229 Fed. 523, 143 C. C. A. 591. And see further to the same effect Kasle v. U. S., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1916) 233 Fed. 878, 147 C. C. A. 552.

Indictment held sufficient.—An indictment charging a violation of the Anti-Drug Act, in that the defendant, on a specified date gave an order for opium, which "was thereafter accepted" and "after acceptance" he failed to preserve a duplicate thereof "in such a way as to be readily accessible" contrary to law, was held saved under this section from the objection that the offense was not alleged of a day certain, since the indictment referred to things past and an offense completed and at least of date between acceptance of the order and indictment, an allegation of some unnamed date within the essential period could not tend to the prejudice of the defendant. U. S. v. Gaag, (D. C. Mont. 1916) 237 Fed. 728.

Rule applicable to information.—The rule applicable to an information is no less liberal than that applicable to an indictment under this section. Its averments of facts constituting the offense need be only so certain and specific as fairly to inform defendant of the crime intended to be alleged, and as to make the judgment of conviction or acquittal thereon a complete defense to a second prosecution of the defendant for the same offense. Simpson v. U. S., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 241 Fed. 841, 154 C. C. A. 543.

CUSTOMS DUTIES

Vol. II, p. 724, sec. 1.

Purpose and effect of Act—Canadian reciprocity.—The Tariff Act of 1913 was designed to be a complete revision of the tariff laws of the country, and its wording very clearly shows that it was intended as a substitute for all prior tariff legislation not saved by the Act itself. The rule seems to be well settled that an act of that character must be held to have repealed all prior laws not expressly continued in force and relating to the same subject. And so, the Tariff Act of 1913 repealed section 2 of the Canadian Reciprocity Act. Dow Co. v. U. S., (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 343.

Vol. II, p. 730, par. 17.

Medicinal preparation.—The fact that preparations designed to cure or alleviate, or to palliate or prevent, a disease of the human body, also afford nourishment to the patient does not necessarily exclude them from the classification of medicinal compounds or articles similar thereto. Britt v. U. S., (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 118.

"Malt soup stock" and "food maltose."—Packages of less than 2½ pounds of Loefflund's malt soup stock, a preparation of 57 per cent maltose and 12 per cent dextrin with a certain percentage of potassium carbonate, designed to be given, in combination with milk, wheat flour, and water, to marantic infants for their nourishment and to counteract their intestinal acid intoxication, are dutiable under paragraph 17, as being similar to medicinal compounds. *Britt v. Hague v. U. S., (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 75.

Base-metal safety pins and hair pins coated with lacquer.—The fact that pins answering to the description of paragraph 158 are coated with lacquer does not take them without the operation of the words "composed wholly of" certain named metals in that paragraph and make them dutiable as manufactures of wire under paragraph 114. Hague v. U. S., (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 75.

Vol. II, p. 764, par. 162.

U. S.*, (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 66.

"Imported exclusively for propagating purposes."—When Congress limited the proviso of paragraph 210 to "bulbs imported exclusively for propagating purposes," it had in mind the use of the bulbs and not the business of the importer; and so the fact that bulbs fit only for such purpose were sold, and not used, by the importer would not prevent their falling within the proviso. Maltus v. U. S., (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 320.

Orchid plants.—Orchid plants, known as Cattleyas, which at the time of importation had already flowered, would never flower again, and were useful for no commercial purpose except propagating, and which, although not true bulbs, were known to the trade as orchid bulbs, were entitled to free entry under the proviso to this paragraph, as mature mother flowering bulbs imported exclusively for propagating purposes. *Maltus v. "Woven whole for rooms."—The language "carpets of every description, woven whole for rooms," in this paragraph, shows, by the express inclusion of this class of "carpets" or carpeting, that the other enumerations therein would not otherwise have included it; in other words, that carpets and carpeting and things made therefrom were not otherwise embraced within paragraph 300. Beuttell v. U. S., (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 356.

Vol. II, p. 811, par. 324.

Construction—Typewriter paper.—This paragraph, calling for certain kinds of paper, "by whatever names known," includes typewriter paper of such kinds and prevents it from being dutiable as typewriter paper under paragraph 326. Stone v. U. S., (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 124.

"Gold borders."—Merchandise invoiced as "gold borders," consisting of metal-coated paper cut into strips each about two and a half feet long and a quarter of an inch wide, embossed with a small ornamental design and with the letters "P" and "T" left attached to a very narrow border at each end for convenience in handling, used for fancy wrapping around candy boxes or similar packages, is dutiable as a manufacture of metal-coated paper, and not as metal-coated paper itself, under this paragraph. Kupfer Bros. Co. v. U. S., (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 86.

Vol. II, p. 813, par. 326.

Typewriter paper.—See under this title, vol. 2, p. 811, par. 324.

Vol. II, p. 815, par. 332.

Gold borders.—See under this title, vol. 2, p. 811, par. 324.

Vol. II, p. 816, par. 333.

Necklaces, with or without base metal clasps, in chief value of beads, the beads being made of wood, gelatin, or paste, and china or colored glass, some in imitation of jet and amber, are dutiable as articles in chief value of beads under this paragraph, and not as jewelry under paragraph 358. American Bead Co. v. U. S., (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 18.

Imitation jet bead necklaces.—Necklaces substantially of imitation jet beads with imitation jet pendants are dutiable as beaded articles under this paragraph. Wolff v. U. S., (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 156.

Vol. II, p. 820, par. 342.

Toy defined.—An article designed, adapted, and used for serious instruction, no matter how elementary, and not for the amusement of children at play, is not a toy. Illfelder v. U. S., (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 53.

"Water color boxes."—Merchandise consisting of small boxes containing water colors of good quality and articles incidental to their use, designed, adapted, and used for elementary instruction in art and used to some extent also by artists, is not dutiable as toys under paragraph 342, but as artists' paints or colors under paragraph 63. Illfelder v. U. S., (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 53.

Vol. II, p. 822, par. 347.

Stuffed chicks and ducklings.—Dried skins of chicks and ducklings with the heads and feet attached, stuffed with cotton, fitted with bead eyes and wired so as to give them a natural appearance, and having a wire attachment apparently for the purpose of fastening them to other objects as decorations, were properly classified by the collector as "down dressed on the skin, . . . not suitable for use as millinery ornaments," under this paragraph. Morimura v. U. S., (1917) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 378.

Vol. II, p. 824, par. 349.

Fans dutiable under paragraph.—The language, "fans of all kinds, except common palm-leaf fans," means that all fans except common palm-leaf fans are dutiable under that paragraph, even though they may respond also to the description of some other. U. S. v. Field, (1917) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 430.

Vol. II, p. 825, par. 356.

Imitation jet — Jewelry.—Congress has regarded imitation jet articles as separate from jewelry. American Bead Co. v. U. S., (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 18.

Imitations of precious stones and precious metals.—Necklaces and chains in imitation of precious stones and precious metals are commonly characteristic of jewelry. American Bead Co. v. U. S., (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 18.

Jewelry.—Jewelry is commonly composed of the precious metals or imitations thereof, or of precious or semiprecious stones, pearls, or imitations thereof, or cameos, coral, or amber, including artificial, synthetic, or reconstructed pearls, rubies, or other precious stones, strung or set. American Bead Co. v. U. S., (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 18.

Pocket cigar lighters.—Cigar lighters designed to be carried on the person are within paragraph 356, and also within paragraph 381. By virtue of paragraph 386 ("if two or more rates of duty shall be applicable to any imported article it shall pay duty at the highest of such rates") they are dutiable under paragraph 356. Bischoff v. U. S., (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 138.

Articles designed to be carried on or about or attached to the person.—Small brass-bound memorandum books with brass-capped lead pencil so fitted to the binding as to keep the book closed when not in use and small metal pencil cases and holders belong to the class of articles which are designed to be carried on or about or attached to the person. Rumpp v. U. S., (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 203.

Small containers of vanity articles.—Metal powder boxes, powder puff boxes, eyebrow pencil cases, and lip-stick boxes are suitable containers for vanity articles and preparations, and are properly classified under paragraph 356. Rumpp v. U. S., (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 203.

Articles or wares of metal.—See under this title, vol. 2, p. 765, par. 167.

Pedometers.—See under this title, vol. 2, p. 765, par. 167.

Vol. II, p. 827, par. 358.

Handkerchiefs, embroidered or scalloped.—With reference to embroidered or scalloped, hemmed or unhemmed, linen or cotton handkerchiefs, paragraph 358 is more specific than paragraph 255 or paragraph 282, and classifies them for duty. Field v. U. S., (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 30.

"Clo-clo braids."—"Lead and cotton clo-clo braids," merchandise consisting of pieces of lead molded upon a flax cord, the whole being covered by tubular cotton braiding, lead being the component material of chief value, are not dutiable as being in part of braids, under paragraph 358, but as being in chief value of lead, under paragraph 167. U. S. v. Macy, (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 8.

Silk veil.—A silk article known to the trade as a veil and as a scarf would be dutiable eo nomine as a veil under this paragraph. Van Raalte v. U. S., (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 299.

Silk mourning crepes.—See under this title, vol. 2, p. 808, par. 318.

Vol. II, p. 831, par. 359.

Chamois-skin glove leather.—Chamois skins (invoiced as glove leather, natural dole and white dole), which have been subjected to a special treatment to fit them for use as glove leather, are dutiable as "glove leathers" and not as "chamois skins." U. S. v. Stiner, (1917) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 485.

Vol. II, p. 831, par. 360.

Construction.—This paragraph should not, on account of the fact that it levies a higher rate of duty on the articles it names is "permanently fitted" with certain other articles, be construed to mean that an article, to be dutiable under it, must be susceptible of being fitted. Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co. v. U. S., (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 84.

Vol. II, p. 833, par. 368.

Manufacture of wood chip.—With respect to ropings made of wood chip, paragraph 368 ("manufactures of . . . chip") is more specific than paragraph 176 ("manufactures of wood"). U. S. v. Kronfeld, (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 93.

Vol. II, p. 835, par. 373.

Musical instrument.—It is no part of the definition of a musical instrument that it can be used to produce a continuous melody and that a chromatic scale can be played upon it. U. S. v. Sears, (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 60.

A metal triangle, with a wooden-handled hammer or striker, is dutiable as a musical instrument under this paragraph. U. S. v. Sears, (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 60.

Vol. II, p. 836, par. 376.

Work of art—Definition.—"Works of art" does not cover the whole range of the beautiful and artistic, but only those productions of the artist which are something more than ornamental and decorative and which may be properly ranked as examples of the free fine arts, or, possibly, that class only of the free fine arts imitative of natural objects as the artist sees them, and appealing to the emotions through the eye alone. U. S. v. Olivotfi, (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 46.

A marble font and marble seats, the work of a sculptor and incidentally embellished by him with artistic carvings, are not sculpture or works of art under this paragraph, but manufactures of marble under paragraph 98. U. S. v. Olivotti, (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 46.

Vol. II, p. 837, par. 378.

Pencils of wood with metal holders.—Wooden lead pencils with metal holders are not dutiable as entireties. The pencils are dutiable as such under paragraph 378, and the holders as metal articles under paragraph 167. U. S. v. Borgfeldt, (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 367.

Vol. II, p. 839, par. 385.

Spruce gum is dutiable as a nonenumerated unmanufactured article under this paragraph. U. S. v. Maine Cent. R. Co., (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 114.

Vol. II, p. 843, par. 386.

Pocket cigar lighters.—See under this title, vol. 2, p. 825, par. 356.

Vol. II, p. 848, par. 391.

Test of use.—Proof that a machine actually used in making chocolate is susceptible of being used in making sugar would not be sufficient to make it classifiable under paragraph 391 as "machinery for use in the manufacture of sugar." Downing v. U. S., (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 287.

Sugar-manufacturing machinery.—The language, "machinery for use in the manufacture of sugar," refers to the chief use made of such machinery when imported, and not to the use made of a particular importation. Brown v. U. S., (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 307.

Sheep shears.—"Sheep shears, specially designed for shearing sheep" and shown to be exclusively used for that purpose are admissible free of duty as "agricultural implements" under this paragraph. United States v. Boker & Co., 6 Ct. Cust. App. 243; U. S. v. Irwin, (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 362.

Shovels.—Long-handled, round-point polished shovels and D-handled, square-point polished shovels chiefly used by farmers for agricultural purposes are admissible free of duty as agricultural implements. Tower v. U. S., (1917) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 408.

Vol. II, p. 852, par. 408.

"Printed."—The term "printed," as used in this paragraph, applies only to such printing as affects the character or condition of the woven fabrics as such, whether by way of ornamentation or exploitation, or for other like purpose. The conspicuous stenciling of the consignee's name upon a fabric for purposes of temporary identification does not make it a printed fabric. Texas, etc., R. Co. v. U. S., (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 328.

Vol. II, p. 858, par. 477.

Spruce gum.—There being no evidence in the record that spruce gum is a drug, it cannot be classified under this paragraph. U. S. v. Eastern Drug Co., (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 210.

Vol. II, p. 862, par. 517.

Wire of platinum and iridium is not admissible free of duty under this paragraph. It is an artificial combination and is dutiable under par. 114. Bosch Magneto Co. v. U. S., (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 50.

Vol. II, p. 862, par. 518.

Tant iron—"Iron in pigs"—Ferro-silicon.—Iron in the form of pigs, known by the proprietary name "tant iron," having a silicon content greater than that of ordinary pig iron but much less than that of ordinary ferrosilicon and manganese and sulphur contents greater than those of ferrosilicon, used for casting and machining into bowls to contain acids, shown to be unfit for use like ferrosilicon as an alloy in the manufacture of steel, is but a special kind of pig iron, and is dutiable as "iron in pigs." U. S. v. Faunce, (1917) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 426.

Vol. II, p. 863, par. 530.

Leather cue tips.—Cue tips, made by cutting with a round stamp a sheet of soft and a sheet of hard leather glued together, most of them having the soft-leather side rounded on the lathe, are too far advanced in condition to be admissible free under this paragraph; since they are a manufacture of leather, they are more specifically provided for by paragraph 360. Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co. v. U. S., (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 1.

Vol. II, p. 864, par. 545.

"Meats."—This paragraph contemplates such "meats" only as are of everyday consumption and the subject of the meat-inspection laws of the country, its states, and municipalities. Frankeld v. U. S., (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 296.

Vol. II, p. 866, par. 552.

Nori-seaweed.—Seaweed, dried, with nothing added to change its character, and packed in tin boxes as a convenient method of getting the product to market, is classifiable as crude seaweed. United States v. Furuya & Co., (7 Ct. Cust. App. 495; U. S. v. Ohashi Importing Co., (1917) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 487.

Vol. II, p. 877, par. 642.

"Acquired abroad."—Merchandise ordered by appellee in a foreign country from a foreign country for delivery in a foreign country, but delivered to and paid for by appellee in this country, was not "acquired abroad" within the meaning of this paragraph. U. S. v. Hutchings, (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 283.

Vol. II, p. 879, par. 648.

Reeds made from rattan.—See under this title, vol. 2, p. 769, par. 173.

Vol. II, p. 885, sec. IV, par. J, subsec. 5.

Construction.—The obvious intent of subsection 5 of paragraph J of section 4 was to favor the shipping industry of this country, and whatever of ambiguity may be found in it must be resolved so as to give effect to that intention. The interchangeable use in the subsection of the words "materials" and "articles" denies to it uniform expression unless "articles" be construed to mean such articles as are materials used in further manufacture. To hold that a completed marine engine is "materials" and can be imported free of duty would defeat the obvious intent of the subsection. U. S. v. Outerbridge, (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 223.

A trawl is not a part of the vessel which draws it, but is equipment for the vessel. Otte v. U. S., (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 166.

Trawls imported for repairs are not admissible free of duty as original equipment of American vessels under this subsection or as repair parts of such vessels under subsection 6. Otte v. U. S., (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 166.

Marine engine.—A marine engine is not admissible free of duty under subsection 5 of paragraph J of section 4, as shipbuilding materials or articles, but is dutiable under paragraph 165 as a steam engine. U. S. v. Outerbridge, (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 223.

Vol. II, p. 885, sec. IV, par. J, subsec. 6.

Wireless apparatus imported to replace inefficient apparatus upon American ships is admissible free of duty as repairs for American vessels under this section. U. S. v. Kennedy, (1917) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 442.

Vol. II, p. 886; sec. IV, par. J, subsec. 7.

Discount—American vessels.—Goods imported in American vessels are entitled to 5 per cent discount under this section. Straus v. U. S., (1917) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 414.

Belgian vessels.—Goods imported in Belgian vessels are entitled to 5 per cent discount. Straus v. U. S., (1917) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 414.

Dutch vessels.—Goods imported in vessels belonging to Holland or the Netherlands are entitled to the 5 per cent discount under section 4, paragraph J, subsection 7. Ialer v. U. S., (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 178.

Reciprocity treaties.—The 5 per cent tariff discount given to merchandise imported in American bottoms by this section with its proviso, is inoperative so long as the present reciprocity treaties with foreign countries remain in force. U. S. v. M. H. Pulaaki Co., (1917) 243 U. S. 97, 37 S. Ct. 346, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 617.

Vol. II, p. 960, sec. 2630.

Special deputy collector.—The powers and duties of collectors of customs are equally vested in their special deputies; so the special deputies' right and power to liquidate and reliquidate are without question. Vitelli v. U. S., (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 243.

Vol. II, p. 1019, sec. III, par. I.

Construction—Entered higher than market value.—The addition by the importer of a certain sum to the invoice value, with a certificate to the effect that the addition was made to make market value as indicated by the appraiser's advance in similar cases and that his action was taken pursuant to paragraph I of section 3, was not a compliance with the paragraph, since it required him to certify that the entered value was higher than the market value and provided that his action should appear to be taken after due diligence and inquiry. Vandiver v. U. S., (1918) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 338.

Construction.—Where both importer and appraiser arrived at the market value by deducting inland freight and shipping charges from the value at the foreign port, and a greater deduction was made by the importer than by the appraiser, such action resulting in a larger appraised than entered value, the additional duty provided by this paragraph was justly imposed. U. S. v. Philips Co., (1917) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 497.

Clerical error—Interlined invoice.—Where the total of the itemized invoice showed a lower value and an interlineation in the invoice showed a higher one and the importers entered the merchandise at the lower figure, "manifest clerical error" did not appear, and the additional duty provided for by the paragraph was justly imposed. Oberle v. U. S., (1917) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 404.

Undervaluation.—When zinc ore was entered, in accordance with the estimate on the consular invoice as being 40 per cent zinc, and the subsequent official assay showed 46.6 per cent zinc, there was no undervaluation such as would subject it to the "additional duty" provisions of paragraph I of section 3. But when the entry stated the market value of the zinc in a ton of 40 per cent zinc ore to be less than the consular invoice showed, less than the price stated for it in the contract under which it was purchased, and less than the true market value as found by the appraiser, there was. National Zinc Co. v. U. S., (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 145.

Vol. II, p. 1062, sec. III, par. K.

Construction—appraisal.—Under paragraph K of section 3, authorizing the appraiser to use "all reasonable ways and means" in his power to "ascertain, estimate, and appraise" the actual market value and wholesale price of dutiable merchandise at the time of its exportation to the United States, in the principal markets of the country whence the same has been imported, the appraiser is justified in arriving at his conclusion by deducting from the value of the merchandise at the port the shipping and freight charges from the place where the shipment originated—the principal market for such merchandise—to the port. Such action is not an appraisal of the freight and shipping charges, but a convenient method of finding the value at the place where the shipment originated. U. S. v. Philips Co., (1917) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 497; distinguishing U. S. v. Spingarn, (1913) 5 U. S. Cust. App. 2.

Vol. II, p. 1064, sec. III, par. L.

Construction.—The provision in paragraph L of section 3, "all general expenses to be estimated at not less than 10 per centum," does not authorize appraising officers to fix general expenses at any sum greater than 10 per cent of the total expenses which to them may seem proper and without regard to the actual general expenses. Austin v. U. S., (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 186.

"Cost of production"—Phonograph records.—The compensation paid to talent for the production of phonograph records is an element in the "cost of production" of such records under this paragraph. Austin v. U. S., (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 186.

General expenses.—Money expended in the production of phonograph records for "locating room, moving and hire of piano, wages of boy at laboratory, and rent of laboratory, furniture and curtains" is within the category of "personal expenses" under this paragraph. Austin v. U. S., (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 186.

Vol. II, p. 1065, sec. III, par. M.

Construction—Reappraisal.—This paragraph confers ultimate and exclusive appellate jurisdiction to appraise upon the board of three general appraisers to which the case is assigned; and the decision of that body becomes, by the precise language of the statute itself, final and conclusive on all parties, and is not subject to review by appeal. U. S. v. Loeb, etc., Co., (1917) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 380.

Jurisdiction—Unsigned appeal to re-appraisement.—This court has no jurisdiction to review the action of the Board of General Appraisers in dismissing an appeal to re-appraisement on the ground that the appeal was not signed. U. S. v. Loeb, etc., Co., (1917) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 380.

Vol. II, p. 1071, sec. III, par. N.

Board's jurisdiction.—The addition to the tariff law by paragraph N of section 3, of the words "or upon merchandise on which duty shall have been assessed" extends the jurisdiction of the Board of United States General Appraisers to all decisions of collectors of customs as to the rate and amount of duties whether or not the merchandise was imported and whether or not provision is made for its legal entry. It is any and every decision of a collector as to the rate and amount of duties that may be protested and reviewed, and not only such a decision as to imported or legally entered merchandise or as to goods for which a certain entry is by statute provided. U. S. v. Mandel, (1917) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 476.

Pleading—Protest filed before liquidation.—This paragraph expressly inhibits the filing of a protest before liquidation. Such prematurely filed protest is ineffective. U. S. v. Mandel, (1917) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 476.

Vol. II, p. 1136, sec. 21.

Construction.—A liquidation by the collector pending appeal to reappraisement is not voidable merely, but void. Such action does not constitute a "settlement of duties" within the purview of this section providing that a settlement of duties shall be final a year after entry in the absence of fraud and in the absence of protest. Stubbs v. U. S., (1917) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 399.

"Absence of Fraud."—The statute makes the liquidation final "in the absence of fraud." This does not necessitate a finding of fraud by the collector to justify relinquishment, but directs him not to reliquidate in "the absence of fraud." If he suspects fraud, he cannot say that fraud is absent. A well-founded suspicion of fraud is sufficient to move him to reliquidation. Vitelli v. U. S., (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 243.

The words "in the absence of fraud and in the absence of protest by the owner, importer, agent, or consignee" do not restrict the fraud to the owner, importer, agent, or consignee. Vitelli v. U. S., (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 243.

Reliquidation—Goods beyond collector's control.—The power of the collector to reliquidate when the goods have gone beyond his possession or control has been administratively, legislatively, and judicially recognized from the earliest time. Vitelli v. U. S., (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 243.

Collector's decision.—The law restricts a collector's findings to rate and amount of duty. He can make no conclusive finding as to fraud or anything else than rate and amount of duty. A reliquidation involves nothing except a different finding as to rate and amount of duty. Vitelli v. U. S., (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 243.

Within year from entry.—The collector's power to reliquidate within a year after entry has received uniform administrative, legislative, and judicial recognition prior to, and since, the passage of this Act. Vitelli v. U. S., (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 243.

After year from entry in case of protest.—The collector's power to reliquidate after the expiration of a year from entry in case of protest has received uniform administrative, legislative and judicial recognition prior to, and since, the passage of this Act. Vitelli v. U. S., (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 243.

Evidence—burden of proof.—In the trial before the board of general appraisers of a protest against a reliquidation made more than a year after entry, the legal presumption is, as in all cases, that the collector of customs acted within the powers conferred upon him by law, and the burden is on the protestant to show the invalidity of the reliquidation. Vitelli v. U. S., (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 243.

In the trial before the board of general appraisers of a protest against a reliquidation made more than a year after entry, evidence that the goods had been bought and sold by importers at weights greater than the entered ones, is sufficient to establish a prima facie case of fraud and put upon the protestants the burden of overcoming it. Vitelli v. U. S., (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 243.

Due process of law.—The customs administrative procedure, in case of reliquidation for fraud more than one year after entry, gives the importer ample notice and abundant opportunity to defend. The record shows that such notice and opportunity were had in these cases. Vitelli v. U. S., (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 243.

Liquidation pending appeal.—The collector has no power to liquidate pending appeal to reappraisement. Stubbs v. U. S., (1917) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 399.

Vol. II, p. 1141, sec. III, par. Y.

Clerical error.—An understatement of the market value per ton of zinc ore, varying from the consular invoice and from the price stated in the contract for purchasing it, the arithmetical extension in the entry being correctly made upon the basis of the declared price per ton, declared number of tons, and declared percentage of zinc content, is not manifest clerical error within the meaning of paragraph Y of section 3. National Zinc Co. v. U. S., (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 145.

DISCRIMINATING LAWS AND DUTIES

Vol. III, p. 81, par. E.

Construction.—The plain, explicit, and unequivocal purpose of paragraph E is that whenever a foreign power or dependency or any political subdivision of a government shall give any aid or any advantage to exporters of goods imported into this country therefrom, whereby they may be sold for less in competition with our domestic goods, the duties on them shall be increased to that extent. It is the result of such aid or advantage that Congress seeks to countervail, regardless of whatever name or in whatever manner or form or for whatever purpose it was given. Whether the thing done be called "allowance," "bonification," "bounty," "grant," "drawback," or what, matters not. The question is whether or not the result would be to admit the merchandise to our markets at a lower cost price. Nicholas v. Shaw, (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 97.

Countervailing of British "allowance."—An "allowance" paid by the United Kingdom to the exporter of spirits is a "bounty or grant" within the meaning of paragraph E and justifies the imposition of the countervailing duty provided for by the paragraph. Nicholas v. Shaw, (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 97.

ELECTIONS

Vol. III, p. 122, sec. 7.

Primary laws.—This Act recognizing primary elections and limiting the expenditures of candidates for senator in connection with them is not in effect an adoption by Congress of all state primary laws. U. S. v. Gradwell, (1917) 243 U. S. 476, 37 S. Ct. 407, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 857.

Vol. III, p. 126, sec. 1.

Primary election.—The word "election" as used without qualification, refers to a general election and not to a primary election. U. S. v. O'Toole, (S. D. W. Va. 1916) 236 Fed. 993. See also U. S. v. Gradwell, (1917) 243 U. S. 476, 37 S. Ct. 407, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 857.

EVIDENCE

Vol. III, p. 172, sec. 863.

Depositions when taken—Rule 47 of the federal equity rules.—The rule would seem to be that to take depositions under this section within the time provided by equity rule 47, it is not necessary that previous authorization be obtained from the court; in other words, that equity rule 47 was not intended to vary section 863, by imposing as a prerequisite to the taking of testimony under that section, the previous order or authorization of the court. But if the depositions are not taken within the time limited by rule 47, they will be suppressed, unless previous permission from the court to take them has been obtained. Audiffren Refrigerating Mach. Co. v. General Electric Co., (D. C. N. J. 1917) 245 Fed. 783.

In Block v. Arrowsmith Mfg. Co., (D. C. N. J. 1917) 247 Fed. 775, the question before the court was whether or not plaintiff, long after the time had elapsed for taking and filing depositions under rule 47, and after the case had been placed on the trial calendar for two terms, may take depositions by notice to defendant, or its counsel, without "some strong reason shown by affidavit" therefor, and without application to court for an order to do so. The court said: "Depositions under such circumstances may not be taken. Before depositions under such circumstances may be taken, the litigant must, upon application to court, show by affidavits some strong reason why the testimony of the witnesses cannot be had orally on the trial, and why their depositions have not been taken before. This the plaintiffs have not done, and so far as the court is informed there is no reason why the depositions were not taken within the time required by the equity rules."

Witness outside territorial limits of district—Equity rule 46.—Equity rule 46 (198 Fed. XXXI, 115 C. C. A. XXXI), providing that testimony shall be taken by oral examination in open court, does not deprive the court of power to take depositions, in a proper case, under the provisions of this section. Jennings v. Smith, (S. D. Ga. 1917) 244 Fed. 836.

Re-examination of witness.—The same witness may be examined de bene esse, under this section, more than once in suits in equity as well as in actions at law. Of course, the court may restrain the taking of depositions of witnesses who have been previously examined when the purpose of examining them again is to harass or oppress. Audiffren Refrigerating Mach. Co. v. General Electric Co., (D. C. N. J. 1917) 245 Fed. 783.

Notice.—Where appellants had due notice of the taking of a deposition under this section, but did not appear, and there was no examination of witnesses, they cannot complain that they had no opportunity for objection, or that they were not notified of the filing of the depositions, it not appearing that by the local law where the deposition was used, that they were entitled to such notice of filing. The D. J. Sawyer, (C. C. A. 1st Cir. 1916) 236 Fed. 913, 150 C. C. A. 175.

Motion to vacate.—If the depositions are not taken in conformity with the law, the court has power, on motion, to vacate the notices in advance of the taking of the testimony. Audiffren Refrigerating Mach. Co. v. General Electric Co., (D. C. N. J. 1917) 245 Fed. 783. Compare Kline v. Liverpool, etc., Ins. Co., (S. D. N. Y. 1911) 184 Fed. 969, wherein the court declined to vacate the notice of the taking of depositions, considering that the plaintiff (who moved to vacate) would be protected by a motion to suppress the depositions after they had been taken.

Vol. III, p. 212, sec. 905.

Full faith and credit—Generally.—Except for the question of jurisdiction the judgment of a court of another state is put upon the same footing as a domestic judgment, and no inquiry can be made as to the accuracy of the record or the conduct of the trial. Lucas v. Vulcan Iron Works, (M. D. Pa. 1916) 233 Fed. 823.

Foreign judgment—Authentication.—In Shufeldt v. Mound City Bank, (Okla. 1916) 160 Pac. 923, the certified copy of a foreign judgment, was made up of the petition, summons, with the return of the sheriff thereon, answer of the defendant and the judgment of the court. It did not show that the judgment was signed and filed in the court where the judgment was rendered. The certificate of the clerk showing that the judgment was of record in his office, was held to be a sufficient authentication.

Certificate of judge.—A copy of a judgment of a state court, certified by the clerk alone without the certificate from the judge of the court to the effect that the attestation by the clerk is in due form, is not admissible in evidence. Arndt v. Burghardt, (165 Wis. 312, 1917) 162 N. W. 317.

Authentication—Exclusiveness of statutory method.—A state may adopt any other method of authenticating records admitted in their own courts. It may prescribe a less requirement but it cannot require more. Block v. Schafer, (Okla. 1917) 162 Pac. 456.

Vol. III, p. 225. [Act of March 9, 1892]

Following state practice.—Where it appears that a considerable saving will be effected thereby, a motion to take depositions under the state practice will be granted, since if the complainant is not fully protected, depositions could afterwards be taken under R. S. sec. 863. Cook v. Flagg, (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 233 Fed. 713.

Vol. III, p. 227. [Act of Feb. 26, 1913.]

Admissibility of writing for comparison. Handwriting admitted to be used as a basis of comparison under the Act of Congress, is not required to be proven genuine in any other way than is any other document offered in evidence. Proof of genuineness, under the Act of Congress, may arise from inference, providing the inference is convincing beyond a reasonable doubt, when the case is a criminal one. Direct evidence is a mode, but not the exclusive mode, of proof. Inference from the admitted facts that only one person had access to a paper, originally blank, and on which writing was afterwards discovered, that such person was the writer, would be irresistible and sufficient. It cannot be said that the genuineness of a writing, for use as a basis of comparison under this Act must be proven by any peculiar mode of proof, or that if cannot be inferred from possession, where the circumstances and character of the possession and of the instrument itself are persuasive enough of its authorship. The defendant's constitutional privilege of refraining from giving evidence against himself by word of mouth, or by furnishing specimens of his handwriting, is an additional reason for not construing the Act so as to require a different degree or kind of proof than that ordinarily required to prove the genuineness of handwriting. Dean v. U. S., (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1917) 247 Fed. 568, 158 C. C. A. 538.

The principle of admitting a memorandum book, diary or other writing for the purposes of comparison should apply only to the class of documents or books which are customarily and of common knowledge kept personally by the owner. Dean v. U. S., (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 568, 158 C. C. A. 538.

It is proper under this Act in order to prove a signature, to admit for comparison, documents which witnesses testify they have seen signed by the one whose signature is questioned. Bowlers v. U. S., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 244 Fed. 641, 157 C. C. A. 89.

EXECUTION

Vol. III, p. 232, sec. 989.

Application of section.—This section is in aid of the collector only who received and turned over the tax to the Treasury Department. It has no application to the ucceeding collector. Roberts v. Lowe, (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 236 Fed. 604; Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Lederer, (E. D. Pa. 1917) 239 Fed. 184.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENTS

Vol. III, p. 250, sec. 161.

Regulations of Postmaster-General—Mail matter as property—Designating depository.—Mail matter, while continuing as such, is "property" appertaining to the Post Office Department and the postmaster is authorized to prescribe requirements, not inconsistent with law, for its custody and preservation. He may determine what shall be regarded as a depository for mail, and the depository so designated becomes an authorized depository as a receptacle for the receipt or delivery of mail matter. Pakas v. U. S., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 240 Fed. 350, 153 C. C. A. 276.

Vol. III, p. 255, sec. 177.

Assistant head of departments—Assistant Attorney General.—This section is cited generally in May v. U. S., (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 236 Fed. 495, 149 C. C. A. 547, on the question of the power of an Assistant Attorney General to take part in a grand jury investigation.

EXTRADITION

Vol. III, p. 285, sec. 5278.

- VI. Fugitive from justice.
- VIII. "Charged" with crime.
- XII. Warrant of arrest.

VI. FUGITIVE FROM JUSTICE (p. 288)

Who is "a fugitive from justice."—The law is well settled that, if the alleged fugitive was in the demanding state at the time when the offense was committed, he is, whenever he is thereafter found in another state, presumed to be a fugitive from justice, no matter for what purpose or reason nor under what circumstances he left the state. Ex parte Montgomery, (S. D. N. Y. 1917) 244 Fed. 967.

VIII. "CHARGED" WITH CRIME (p. 294)

What constitutes "charging" with crime—Question of law.—The question as to whether the person demanded and detained on an extradition warrant is substantially charged with a crime is a question of law, which on the face of the papers, is open to inquiry on writ of habeas corpus. Ex parte Wildman, (Okla. Crim. 1917) 168 Pac. 246.

XII. WARRANT OF ARREST (p. 301)

Effect of warrant as prima facie evidence of legal prerequisites.—The extradition warrant is prima facie proof, but not conclusive proof, that the requirements of the statute were complied with before the issuance of the warrant. Ex parte Wildman, (Okla. Crim. 1917) 168 Pac. 246.

Vol. III, p. 313, sec. 5.

"Similar purposes"—Under treaty.—Where extradition is demanded by a foreign country, under international treaty, the words "similar purposes" when limited to an attempt to prove a criminal charge refer to the crimes so denominated in the treaty and not to an extradition hearing in the country making the demand. In re Lincoln, (E. D. N. Y. 1915) 228 Fed. 70.

FINES, PENALTIES AND FORFEITURES

Vol. III, p. 332, sec. 5292.

Summary investigation — Conditions precedent.—The imposition of a fine or forfeiture is not a necessary condition precedent to the filing of a petition for summary investigation. The words in this section "merchandise which has become the subject of seizure" refer to property taken at the outset of prospective litigation to follow by the filing of a libel by the government. It will be noted that the language of the statute does not limit the prayer for relief to a remission or mitigation of the fine, etc., but, on the contrary, refers to the alleged violation of the customs laws by any person who shall be charged with having incurred a fine. Thus it will be seen that the act under consideration grants to a person interested the right to present his petition for a summary hearing just as soon as the government makes a charge against him, and does not require that he wait until the fines shall be adjudicated or a forfeiture admitted. In re Beloochistan Rug Weaving Co., (S. D. N. Y. 1917) 244 Fed. 283.

FOOD AND DRUGS

Vol. III, p. 360, sec. 2.

Information — Generally.—On information bearing the signature of the district attorney, and attached to which and made a part of it, are affidavits sworn to before notaries public, is sufficient to support a judgment. Abbott Bros. Co. v. U. S., (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 751, 155 C. C. A. 339.

And where no warrant of arrest is sought, an information signed by the district attorney is sufficient without any verification and without supporting affidavits. In such case it is not necessary for the district attorney who signs the information in his official character to assert in the body of that document that he informed the court upon his oath as a government official of the facts therein set forth. It will be presumed that he acted on his oath as an officer of the government. Abbott Bros. Co. v. U. S., (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 751, 155 C. C. A. 339.

Waiver of defects.—Defects in the verification of an information or in the acknowledgment of its supporting affidavits, are waived if not raised by suitable objection before trial. Abbott Bros. Co. v. U. S., (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 751, 155 C. C. A. 339.

Sufficiency of information alleging misbranding as to curative effects.—An information was not insufficient in law because it failed to show that the alleged misrepresentations as to the curative effects of the article were in the "ultimate container," that is to say, in the package as it reached the ultimate consumer. So, where the information alleged that the shipment consisted of "certain packages" and that the packages contained the circular or pamphlet later described therein; that one of the alleged misrepresentations appeared "on the label of the carton aforesaid" and that the other was "included in the circular or pamphlet aforesaid" the information should be interpreted to mean that the misrepresentations were intended to accompany the bottles into the hands of the consumer. Simpson v. U. S., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 241 Fed. 841, 154 C. C. A. 543.

Vol. III, p. 371, sec. 7.

Adulteration—Imitation grape essence.—A bottled article labeled "Compound Ess Grape" but which in fact contained nothing from grapes and was a mere imitation artificially prepared, it was held, must be deemed adulterated within the general terms of this section. U. S. v. Schider, (1918) 246 U. S. 519, 38 S. Ct. 369, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 863.

Vol. III, p. 379, sec. 8.

Validity of state statutes on subject of misbranding.—Since Congress has not covered the field of disclosure of the ingredients of a food product designed for human consumption and moved or moving in interstate commerce from one state into another state for sale there the several states in the exercise of the police power are at liberty and free to legislate on that subject, and lawfully provide for a disclosure of the name of the ingredients entering into the composition or compounding of such food mixtures, so long as the disclosure of the formula for compounding such food mixture is not required. Crescent Mfg. Co. v. Wilson, (N. D. N. Y. 1916) 233 Fed. 282, following Savage v. Jones, (1912) 225 U. S. 501, 32 S. Ct. 715, 56 U. S. (L. ed.) 1182, cited in the original note.

Misleading statements as to curative effects—Issues.—In a proceeding to forfeit drugs on the ground that they were misbranded as to their curative effects, the issues under this Act, resolve themselves into two questions: First, were the statements regarding the curative or therapeutic effects false; and second, were they fraudulent. Eleven Gross Packages, etc., v. U. S., (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1916) 233 Fed. 71, 147 C. C. A. 141.

Misbranding—Imitation grape essence.—A bottled article labeled "Compound Ess Grape" but which in fact contained nothing from grapes and was an imitation artificially manufactured was held misbranded. U. S. v. Schider, (1918) 246 U. S. 519, 38 S. Ct. 369, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 863.

Vol. III, p. 392, sec. 10.

Shipment for use by consignee as raw material.—For a case, wherein the remedy in rem provided by this section was invoked, where adulterated butter had been shipped, not for sale, but intended for use by the consignee in the bakery business, see U. S. v. Nine Barrels of Butter, (S. D. N. Y. 1917) 241 Fed. 499, following Hipolite Egg Co. v. U. S., (1911) 220 U. S. 45, 31 S. Ct. 364, 55 U. S. (L. ed.) 364, cited in the original note.

Libel—Sufficiency.—A libel to condemn cases of "Buffalo Lithia Water" which alleges in effect that the seized property is branded, labeled and sold as lithia water, when in fact it is not lithia water and that by reason of such branding the public is deceived and misled, is sufficient. Particular characterization of the water as a mineral water or a spring water is not necessary. Goode v. U. S., (1915) 44 App. Cas. (D. C.) 162.

GAME ANIMALS AND BIRDS

Vol. III, p. 414, sec. 1.

Materiality in state prosecution.—In State v. Carey, (S. D. 1917) 165 N. W. 539, the appellant was tried and convicted upon an information charging him with the shipment of 15 wild ducks to a point within the state in violation of a state statute making it unlawful to ship, or caused to be shipped, wild ducks by any private or common carrier to any person within or without the state. Several reasons why the conviction was illegal were urged by appellant, but the principal ground relied upon was that the Act of Congress, commonly known as the federal Migratory Game Bird Law, places all migratory game birds under federal protection, and thereby suspended all state laws in regard to the same subject; while, on the other hand, it was contended by the Attorney-General that the said federal Act is unconstitutional and did not have the effect claimed for it by the appellant. The court said: "But it nowhere in the record appears that the ducks in question were killed in violation of the law [the federal act] or of any regulation made thereunder. So far as appears from the record, said ducks were lawfully killed and lawfully in the possession of the defendant at the time of the alleged shipment. Therefore it is immaterial to the issues in this case whether the said federal act is constitutional or not."

HABEAS CORPUS

Vol. III, p. 427, sec. 751.

III. Scope of writ.

1. Generally.

IV. As substitute for writ of error.

1. Rule stated.

7. Indictment.

VIII. Review of proceedings of special tribunals.

2. Court-martial.

3. Immigration.

XI. Enlistment of minors in army and navy.

III. SCOPE OF WRIT.

1. Generally (p. 430)

Inquiry as confined to jurisdiction.—If a court has jurisdiction of the case, the writ of habeas corpus cannot be employed to retry the issues, whether of law, constitutional or other, or of fact. Collins v. Morgan, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1917) 243 Fed. 495, 156 C. C. A. 193.

IV. AS SUBSTITUTE FOR WRIT OF ERROR

1. Rule Stated (p. 431)

Rule against use as substitute.—It is a familiar rule that a writ of habeas corpus cannot be used as a writ of error, but only for the consideration of fundamental and jurisdictional questions. Collins v. Morgan, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1917) 243 Fed. 495, 156 C. C. A. 193.

7. Indictment (p. 434)

Duplicity.—A double charge in a single court of an indictment is no ground for discharge on habeas corpus. Collins v. Morgan, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1917) 243 Fed. 495, 156 C. C. A. 193.

VIII. REVIEW OF PROCEEDINGS OF SPECIAL TRIBUNALS

2. Court-martial (p. 443)

Rule stated.—It is settled law that, if a military tribunal has jurisdiction to try a person charged with an offense against military law, the civil courts cannot interfere by writ of habeas corpus. Ex parte Dostal, (N. D. Ohio 1917) 243 Fed. 664.

3. Immigration (p. 443)

Defects in warrant of deportation.—Where a writ of habeas corpus is sued out after the hearing and the issuing of the warrant of deportation, on objection to the original warrant, as that it was signed by the Assistant Secretary of Labor and not by Secretary of Labor, comes too late, as the only object of the writ is to ascertain whether the petitioner can lawfully be detained in custody. Moy Wing Sun v. Prentiss, (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1916) 234 Fed. 24, 148 C. C. A. 40.

XI. ENLISTMENT OF MINORS IN ARMY AND NAVY (p. 448)

Effect of enlistment—Release.—It is settled law that a minor, who enlists without the written consent of a parent or guardian, when such consent is required, becomes a soldier. His enlistment is not void, nor is it voidable in any event by him. He may be released from the service by a timely application of the parent or guardian having a superior right to his custody or control. But this application must be made with reasonable diligence, after the parent or guardian has acquired knowledge of the actual enlistment, and before an offense has been committed by him. After an offense has been committed by the minor against the military law, and especially after he has been placed under arrest and charges have been preferred against him, it is too late for the parent or guardian to oust the jurisdiction of the military authorities by an application to the civil courts for a writ of habeas corpus. Ex parte Dostal, (N. D. Ohio 1917) 243 Fed. 664.

Habeas corpus lies to obtain the discharge of minors who have fraudulently enlisted in the United States army or navy, but the merits of the case will not be inquired into. Hoskins v. Dickerson, (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1917) 239 Fed. 275, 152 C. C. A. 263, Ann. Cas. 1917C 776, L. R. A. 1917D 1056.

Vol. III, p. 449, sec. 753.

I. Introductory.

V. Order, process or decree.

I. INTRODUCTORY (p. 449)

General principles.—Under the terms of this section, in order to entitle the applicant to the relief sought under writ of habeas corpus, it must appear that he is held in custody in violation of the Constitution of the United States. Second. That he cannot have relief on habeas corpus if he is held in custody by reason of conviction upon a criminal charge before a court having jurisdiction over the subject matter of the offense, the place where it was committed and the person of the prisoner. Third. Mere errors of law, however serious, committed by the court in the exercise of its jurisdiction, cannot be reviewed by habeas corpus. The writ cannot be employed as a substitute for a writ of error. Fourth. A criminal prosecution in the courts of a state, based on a law not repugnant to the Federal Constitution and conducted according to the settled course of proceedings under the law of the state, so long as it includes notice and a hearing, or an opportunity to be heard, before a court of competent jurisdiction, according to established modes of procedure, is "due process of law" in the constitutional sense. Fifth. The federal courts cannot review irregularity or erroneous rulings upon the trial, however serious, and habeas corpus will lie only where the judgment under which the prisoner is detained is shown to be absolutely void for want of jurisdiction in the court, either because such jurisdiction was absent at the beginning, or was lost in the course of the proceedings. Sixth. In determining the question whether the jurisdiction of the court was lost, the inquiry must not be confined to the proceedings and judgment of the trial court. The proceedings in the appellate tribunal are to be regarded as part of the process of law, and are to be considered in determining any question of deprivation of life or liberty under the Federal Constitution. Seventh. Questions arising under the due process clause of the fourteenth amendment, instead of involving merely the jurisdiction of some court, in a broad sense involve the power and authority of the state itself. The prohibition is addressed to the state itself, and if a violation be threatened by one agency of the state, but prevented by another agency of higher authority, there is no violation by the state; and as the state determines what courts shall be established for the trial of offenses against her laws, it follows that the question whether a state is depriving a prisoner of his liberty without due process of law, under a law not violative of the Federal Constitution, cannot be determined ordinarily, with fairness to the state, until the conclusion of the course of justice in its courts. Eighth. Under the liberal procedure on habeas corpus, a prisoner in custody pursuant to the final judgment of a state court may have a judicial inquiry in the federal courts into the very truth and substance of the causes of his detention, and, if necessary, to look beyond the record of his conviction sufficiently to test the jurisdiction of the state court to proceed to judgment against him. But the court should take into consideration the entire course of the proceedings in the state courts, and not merely a single step in the proceedings, and that consideration must be given, not only to the averments of the petition, but to the proceedings which the petition attacks. Filer v. Steele, (W. D. Pa. 1915) 228 Fed. 242, summarized from the opinion by Pitney, J., in Frank v. Mangum, (1915) 237 U. S. 309, 35 S. Ct. 582, 59 U. S. (L. ed.) 989.

V. ORDER, PROCESS OR DECREE (p. 452)

Soldiers.—A federal court has power to issue a writ of habeas corpus for the purpose of an inquiry into the cause of detention of a prisoner held by a state to answer to a criminal charge, where it is alleged by the petitioner that the act charged, as a crime was committed by the prisoner in the performance of his duty as a soldier of the United States. It has authority to determine summarily, as a fact, whether or not such allegation is true, and, if found to be true, to discharge the prisoner on the ground that the state is without jurisdiction to try him for such act. In re Wulzen, (S. D. Ohio 1916) 235 Fed. 362, following U. S. v. Lipsett, (W. D. Mich. 1907) 156 Fed. 65, cited in the original annotation.

But the writ should issue only in urgent cases, since the general jurisdiction in time of peace, of the civil courts of a state over persons in the military service of the United States who are accused of a crime, or an offense against the person of a citizen, committed within the state, is not denied. In re Wulzen, (S. D. Ohio 1916) 235 Fed. 362.

Vol. III, p. 469, sec. 761.

"Dispose of the party as law and justice require"—Military enlistment.—Where habeas corpus is brought by a parent to obtain the custody of a minor child for the purpose of avoiding his enlistment in the national guard, the court will not order his surrender to the parent, where such minor was charged with the commission of military offenses while he was a soldier. The election by the father, evidenced by the writ of habeas corpus, to avoid his son's enlistment, terminated the right of the military authorities to detain the latter under the enlistment, but it did not terminate the right of such authorities to continue their custody of the minor for the time reasonably required for the exercise of the military jurisdiction brought into play by duly made charges of the commission of military offenses by the minor while he was a soldier. Hoskins v. Dickerson, (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1917) 239 Fed. 275, 152 C. C. A. 263, Ann. Cas. 1917C 776, L. R. A. 1917D 1056. See also Ex parte Dostal, (N. D. Ohio 1917) 243 Fed. 664.

Vol. III, p. 475, sec. 763.

Superseded—Appeals to Circuit Court of Appeals.—In Hoskins v. Funk, (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1917) 239 Fed. 278, 152 C. C. A. 266, the court said: "It is not an order of the District Judge in vacation which is made subject to review by this court by section 129 of the Judicial Code. No statute has been found which purports to confer on this court the jurisdiction which section 763 of the Revised Statutes conferred on the Circuit Court to review 'the final decision of any court, justice or judge inferior to the circuit court upon an application for a writ of habeas corpus or upon such writ when issued.' The conclusion reached in the case of Webb v. York, 74 Fed. 753, 21 C. C. A. 65, that, notwithstanding the absence of such a statute, the Circuit Courts of Appeals have in some way succeeded to the jurisdiction which the statute just quoted conferred on another court, is one in which we are unable to concur. The reasoning by which that conclusion was reached does not seem to us to be convincing. We have found no statute having the effect of conferring upon this court appellate jurisdiction to review such an order made by a District Judge in vacation as the appeal in this case seeks to present for review."

Vol. III, p. 476, sec. 764.

Effect of Act of March, 1891, creating Circuit Courts of Appeals.—The right of appeal direct to the Supreme Court exists in habeas corpus cases where a question is involved under section 5 of the Circuit Court of Appeals Act of 1891, now constituting Judicial Code, § 238, vol. 5, p. 794. Otherwise there is no such right of direct appeal, especially as the abolishment of the Circuit Courts by Judicial Code, § 289, vol. 5, p. 1082, "removed the last vestige of authority for an appeal" under R. S. sec. 764. Horn v. Mitchell, (1917) 243 U. S. 247, 37 S. Ct. 293, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 700,

HOSPITALS AND ASYLUMS

Vol. III, p. 601, sec. 4844.

Indigency.—Indigency is a question of fact. To be indigent does not mean that a person must be a pauper. An insane person with insufficient estate to pay for his maintenance in the hospital for the insane, after providing for those who could claim his support, is indigent within the terms of the Revised Statutes. Depue v. District of Columbia, (1916) 45 App. Cas. (D. C.) 54, Ann. Cas. 1917E 414.

And if a person can pay only "a portion, but not the whole," of the expense of maintenance, he is an indigent person within the provisions of this section. Depue v. District of Columbia, (1916) 45 App. Cas. (D. C.) 54, Ann. Cas. 1917E 414.

Vol. III, p. 613, sec. 1.

Purpose of Act.—Interpreting this Act, the court in Baker v. District of Columbia, (1912) 39 App. Cas. (D. C.) 42, speaking through Robb, J., said: "We think Congress thereby intended to declare a change in the relation of the indigent insane, whereby maintenance thereafter received by them should be received upon the condition that they pay therefor when able; in other words, the passage of that act marked a further change in the policy of the law towards the indigent insane. Maintenance thereafter furnished was to be furnished not as an unconditional charity, but upon the expectation of future reimbursement, if the circumstances of the beneficiary should permit. The provision that the committee or trustee of such insane person shall reimburse the District for care and expenses up to the time of the appointment of such committee or trustee was, we think, intended to relate back to the passage of the act, and no further. Upon that date, as above pointed out, the status of the insane person changed, and, by implication of law, he thereafter became liable for the support furnished him."

A new policy is also declared by the Act, "whereby maintenance thereafter furnished was to be furnished, not as an unconditional charity, but upon the expectation of future reimbursement," should the insane person become possessed of sufficient estate. The concluding words of the section of the Act quoted, which appear to limit recovery "up to the time" of the appointment of the committee or trustee, as suggested in the Baker Case, supra, relates to the right of recovery prior to the appointment and back to the date of commitment, provided the commitment does not antedate the Act. After the appointment of the committee or trustee, the statutes, construed together, confer such general power in the court over the persons and estate of the insane, to subject their property to their support (D. C. Code, § 116d), and to supervise the conduct of the committee or trustee upon whom the duty of providing for the support of the ward primarily rests, that its jurisdiction to decree the district reimbursement out of the estate of an insane person cannot be successfully challenged. Depue v. District of Columbia, (1916) 45 App. Cas. (D. C.) 54, Ann. Cas. 1917E 414.

IMMIGRATION

Vol. III, p. 640, sec. 2.

V. Persons likely to become a public charge.

VIII. Persons solicited to migrate.

V. PERSONS LIKELY TO BECOME A PUBLIC CHARGE (p. 643)

Evidence.—For evidence held insufficient to support the charge and finding that an alien was a person likely to become a public charge at the time of his entry into the United States, see Ex parte Callow, (D. C. Colo. 1916) 240 Fed. 212.

VIII. PERSONS SOLICITED TO MIGRATE (p. 646)

Persons excluded.—It was not the intention of Congress to restrict the prohibition to manual laborers and not to apply it to those engaged in other employment. By this section all persons are excluded who do not come within the specified exemptions. The provisions are not limited to "labor" or "service" but are limited expressly by the exemptions. Ex parte Toguchi, (W. D. Wash. 1916) 238 Fed. 632.

Vol. III, p. 649, sec. 3.

Construction—Application to alien residing in Hawaiian Islands.—In U. S. v. Kimi Yamamoto, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 240 Fed. 390, 153 C. C. A. 316, it appeared that the appellee came to the Hawaiian Islands in 1897 and had since been a resident thereof. She was ordered deported upon proof of the charge that she practiced prostitution after entry into the United States. The court below, upon writ of habeas corpus issued to determine the legality of the order of deportation, entered an order of discharge, holding that persons who admittedly were residents of the territory of Hawaii before annexation thereof by the United States did not enter the United States within the meaning of this section. To the same effect see U. S. v. Sin Joy, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 240 Fed. 392, 153 C. C. A. 318.

Owner of premises used for purpose of prostitution.—An alien landlord who leases to a prostitute the house in which she practices prostitution and who receives from her rent thereof, is not within the classification of this section. Katz v. Immigration Commissioner, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 245 Fed. 316, 157 C. C. A. 508, wherein error was assigned on account of the holding in the court below that the owner of a house in which prostitution was practiced and carried on and who received rent thereon from an inmate thereof was within the statute as one "deriving benefit from the earnings of a prostitute" In reversal the court said: "It is quite unreasonable to suppose that the dry goods salesman or the grocer, who sells his goods to a fallen woman and takes the price from her, or a cabman, who carries her for hire and receives the hire from her, or, as in the present case, the landlord, who rents her abode to her and takes rental therefor, all or any of them were designed to be classified as persons who receive or derive benefit from the earnings of a prostitute, and such, we are impressed, is not the intentment of the statute.

"The power to regulate and suppress brothels and bawdyhouses, which includes the regulation of leasing houses or buildings for such purposes, is police in character, and in general is exercised by the states and local municipalities, rather than by the general government; and the statute in question manifests no intentment to encroach upon or interfere with such regulations. It deals, as we have seen, with certain alien classes, and provides for the deportation of aliens comprised thereby, and, considering the spirit and purpose of the statute, we think that there is no intentment to include an alien landlord, who leases to a prostitute the house in which she lives or practices prostitution and receives from her the rental thereof."

Fair trial.—Where, in proceedings to deport an alien woman on the ground that she was practicing prostitution, she admitted the charge in a signed and sworn statement and was then asked if she desired counsel, and the counsel then appearing in her behalf stated that he did not desire to offer any further evidence or to file a brief, an objection that she had no fair hearing before the immigration authorities was untenable. Under such circumstances counsel waived the right to offer testimony again, and acted upon the assumption that the sworn statement which had previously been made by his client before the immigration officer was the evidence to be considered in the case, and that upon it the authorities could make such order as might be appropriate in the premises.

For evidence held to be insufficient to support a finding and recommendation of deportation of an alien on the ground that he was deriving benefit from the earnings of a prostitute, see Katz v. Immigration Commission, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 245 Fed. 316, 157 C. C. A. 508;

Backus v. Katz, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 245 Fed. 320, 157 C. C. A. 512.

Vol. III, p. 654, sec. 4.

Soliciting importation.—Soliciting the importation of a contract laborer, although there is no actual entry into the United States, is an offense under the statute and the fact that the alien was prevented by the government from entering, would not make the offender guiltless. U. S. v. Morrissey, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1917) 245 Fed. 923, 158 C. C. A. 211, following New York Cent., etc., R. Co. v. U. S., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 239 Fed. 130, 152 C. C. A. 172.

Salesman.—In Ex parte Toguchi, (W. D. Wash. 1916) 238 Fed. 632, which was an application for writ of habeas corpus, it appeared that the petitioner came from Japan to the United States to take a position as salesman in the store of his uncle who conducted a Japanese silk and drygoods and bamboo business in Detroit. The uncle sent to petitioner $100 to apply on his expenses and told him to apply for more money on landing if needed. No salary was agreed upon to be paid to the petitioner. The Board of Immigration found that he came to the United States in violation of the alien contract labor provision of the Immigration Act, rejected him on that ground and ordered his deportation to Japan. The Secretary of Labor affirmed the finding of the board. It was contended that the intent of Congress was to restrict the prohibition to manual laborers and not to apply it to those engaged in other employment. But, in denying the writ, the court held that all persons are excluded who do not come within the exemptions specified in the provisions of sections 2, that the provisions are not limited to "labor" or "service" but are limited expressly by the exemptions. The fact that no salary was agreed upon was immaterial as a reasonable compensation would be implied.

The gist of the offense consists in the prepayment of transportation and the offense is committed when that is done, whether the contract laborers succeed in getting into the United States or not. U. S. v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., (N. D. N. Y. 1916) 232 Fed. 179, affirmed (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 239 Fed. 130, 152 C. C. A. 172. See also U. S. v. Morrissey, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1917) 245 Fed. 923, 158 C. C. A. 211.

But in U. S. v. River Spinning Co., (D. C. R. J. 1917) 243 Fed. 759, the court took the view that there must be an actual and completed migration or importation. The court said: "Had it been the intent to impose a penalty for assistance, encouragement, or solicitation of a person who did not in fact migrate, or for attempts to induce a person to do what was not in fact done, different phraseology would seem have been necessary. To assist, encourage, or solicit a person, in order that he may form an intention to migrate, which intention is not carried out, is in substance a different thing from inducing, causing or assisting to cause an actual importation or migration."

Vol. III, p. 656, sec. 5.

Venue of action.—In an action to recover the statutory penalty provided by this section, the place of bringing suit is governed by section 43 of the Judicial Code, a re-enactment without change of R. S. sec. 732 (title JUDICIARY, vol. 5, p. 475). Tomkins v. Paterson, (W. D. Wash. 1916) 238 Fed. 879.

Vol. III, p. 659, sec. 6.

Failure of alien to enter country.—The solicitation, by advertisement, of an alien to enter the country, constitutes the offense although such alien was prevented from entering the country by the government. U. S. v. Morrissey, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1917) 245 Fed. 923, 158 C. C. A. 211, following New York Cent., etc., R. Co. v. U. S., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 239 Fed. 130, 152 C. C. A. 172, which affirmed (N. D. N. Y. 1916) 232 Fed. 179.

But in U. S. v. River Spinning Co., (D. C. R. I. 1917) 243 Fed. 759, the court took a contrary view, holding that the penalty is incurred only when the migration or importation is a completed fact. The court said: "Had it been the intent to impose a penalty for assistance, encouragement, or solicitation of a person who did not in fact migrate, or for attempts to induce a person to do what was not in fact done, different phraseology would seem to have been necessary. To assist, encourage, or solicit a person, in order that he may form an intention to migrate, which intention is not carried out, is in substance a different thing from inducing, causing, or assisting to cause an actual importation or migration."

- II. Limitation of time for deportation.
- V. Warrant of deportation.
- VI. Place of deportation.
- VIII. Habeas corpus.
- IX. Deportation of Chinese.

I. ENTERING IN VIOLATION OF LAW (p. 673)

Surreptitious entry.—The entry into the United States surreptitiously and without inspection, is sufficient in itself, irrespective of other consideration, to justify an order of deportation. Singh v. U. S., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 243 Fed. 557, 156 C. C. A. 255; Singh v. U. S., (C. C. A.

9th Cir. 1917) 243 Fed. 559, 156 C. C. A. 257.

II. LIMITATION OF TIME FOR DEPORTATION (p. 674)

Rule stated.—The jurisdiction of the Secretary of Labor depends upon the fact that the alien has entered the United States within the period of three years preceding his arrest by the immigration authorities. Backus v. Owe Sam Goon, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 235 Fed. 847, 149 C. C. A. 159.

V. WARRANT OF DEPORTATION (p. 677)

Designation of place of deportation.—The warrant must designate the country to which the alien shall be taken on deportation. It is not enough that it direct deportation "to the country whence he came." An alien is not without right simply because he is subject to deportation. He cannot simply be sent away. He has a right under the Act to be returned to the country from which he came, and to be protected in that right, the warrant which authorizes the deportation should expressly name the country to which he is to be taken; and that right should not be left to the determination of the officer executing the warrant or to the transportation company which brought him in as their judgment or convenience might dictate. Ex parte Callow, (D. C. Colo. 1916) 240 Fed. 212.

Postponing deportation pending proceedings in state court.—In the case of In re Andrews, (D. C. Vt. 1916) 236 Fed. 300, it appeared that while the petitioner was in the custody of the United States Inspector of Immigration, confined in jail at St. Albans, Vt., awaiting her deportation to Canada, the Department of Labor, at the request of the state postponed her deportation and surrendered her to the state authorities for the purpose of insuring her appearance as a witness for the state before a County Court. The petitioner claimed that the Department of Labor had no right to allow her to be taken out of the custody of the immigration inspector and that she had the right to be deported forthwith. It was held that such surrender to the state authorities was proper on the well settled rule that as a matter of comity between the federal and state governments either may surrender its custody of a prisoner to the other without the prisoner's consent. In such a case, the question of the jurisdiction and custody of the prisoner is one of comity between the governments, and not a personal right of the prisoner.

VI. PLACE OF DEPORTATION (p. 678)

"Country whence he came."—Where an alien, a native East Indian, entered the United States surreptitiously from Canada and it appeared that he had never acquired a domicile in Canada, it was held that he was properly ordered deported to India, the country whence he came. Singh v. U. S., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 243 Fed. 557, 156 C. C. A. 255; Singh v. U. S., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 243 Fed. 559, 156 C. C. A. 257.

VIII. HABEAS CORPUS (p. 679)

Review.—Where an immigrant is ordered deported on the ground that there is danger of such immigrant becoming a public charge, the court cannot disturb this finding if there is evidence however slight to support the finding, but when there is nothing to support such a charge, the court may rightfully hold that the detention and deportation of the immigrant is an abuse of power. U. S. v. Howe, (S. D. N. Y. 1916) 235 Fed. 990, wherein a writ of habeas corpus was sustained and the immigrant released on the ground that there was no evidence to hold the applicant for deportation.

IX. DEPORTATION OF CHINESE (p. 679)

Violation of Chinese Exclusion Act—

After the expiration of three years.—The deportation of a Chinese person under the Immigration Act, for a violation of the Chinese Exclusion Act, is unauthorized. Moy Wing Sun v. Prentis, (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1916) 234 Fed. 24, 148 C. C. A. 40; Wong Yuen v. Prentis, (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1916) 234 Fed. 28, 148 C. C. A. 44; Backus v. Owe Sam Goon, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 235 Fed. 847, 149 C. C. A. 159.

If more than three years have elapsed since the entry the government may proceed under the special Chinese Exclusion Act alone. Wong Chung v. U. S., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 244 Fed. 410, 157 C. C. A. 36.

If more than three years have elapsed 5th Cir. 1917) 240 Fed. 368, 153 C. C. A. 294, following Ex parte Woo Jan, (E. D. Ky. 1916) 228 Fed. 927, and U. S. v. Prentis, (N. D. Ill. 1916) 230 Fed. 935, cited in the original note, it was held, that deportation proceedings under the Immigration Act are not applicable to persons whose only offense is a violation of the Chinese Exclusion Act.

Violation of Immigration Act.—It has been held that for a violation of this section, in securing admission into the United States, a Chinese alien is subject to deportation under the provisions of this Act, at any time within three years after the date of his entry. Mok Nuey Tau v. White, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 244 Fed. 742, 157 C. C. A. 190; Quan You v. White, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 244 Fed. 746, 157 C. C. A. 194.

Vol. III, p. 681, sec. 21.

Review by court.—On habeas corpus to determine the legality of detention in deportation proceedings, the courts inquiry is limited as to whether the applicant was accorded an impartial hearing, and cannot inquire into the sufficiency of probative facts or consider reasons for the conclusions reached by the immigration officers. The question is not, Would the court have come to the same conclusion? but, Was the petitioner accorded a fair hearing? Ex parte Chin Doe Tung, (W. D. Wash. 1916) 236 Fed. 1017.

Vol. III, p. 684, sec. 24.

Limitation on authority to administer oath.—Under this section immigration officers have power to administer oaths and take and consider evidence touching the right of an alien to enter the United States; but they have no power to administer oaths in an inquiry relating to the deportation of an alien. Backus v. Owe Sam Goon, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 235 Fed. 847, 149 C. C. A. 159.

Vol. III, p. 685, sec. 25.

III. FINALITY OF DECISIONS OF IMMIGRATION OFFICERS (p. 687)

Decision of collector of customs.—A favorable decision by a collector of customs permitting a Chinese person to enter the United States is not a final or conclusive adjudication but is subject to re-examination by the courts. Ex parte Chin Own, (W. D. Wash. 1917) 239 Fed. 391.

Conclusiveness of favorable decision.—Due process of law.—Due process of law does not necessarily require a judicial trial and Congress may intrust the decision of an immigrant's right to enter to an executive officer, even though denial of admission may deprive him of his liberty. Ex parte Chin Own, (W. D. Wash. 1917) 239 Fed. 391, following U. S. v. Ju Toy, (1905) 198 U. S. 253, 25 S. Ct. 644, 49 U. S. (L. ed.) 1040, cited in the original note.

Vol. III, p. 697, sec. 36.

Purpose of section.—The plain purpose of this section, when considered with other pertinent parts of the Act, is to require all aliens who enter the United States to submit themselves to inspection when they so enter. If they enter at seaports they are inspected at the place of landing, and if not at seaports, they must present themselves for inspection at the places designated by the secretary for that purpose. The Act justly places the burden on the alien to present himself at the proper place. It does not contemplate nor permit that he shall walk by, and if unobserved, then be entitled to claim that he is in by right; but to the contrary, the section expressly declares that he is thus unlawfully in the country and shall be deported. Ex parte Callow, (D. C. Colo. 1916) 240 Fed. 212.

Expatriated citizen.—Where a citizen of the United States, who with his family goes to Canada, and there later enlists in the army of that country for oversea service, making the necessary declarations, and takes an oath of allegiance that he will be faithful and bear true allegiance to His Majesty King George the Fifth, his heirs and successors, and that he will as in duty bound honestly and faithfully defend His Majesty, his heirs and successors, in person, crown, and dignity, against all enemies, and will observe and obey all orders of His Majesty, his heirs and successors, and of all the generals and officers set over him, so help him God, and actually enters the service, he thereby effectually expatriates himself. Such person, by such acts, if voluntary, not only abandons and renounces his citizenship in the United States, but becomes an alien, and by such removal, enlistment, and oath of allegiance to a foreign power initiates naturalization in such foreign country and comes under its protection. Therefore, when he thereafter deserts such service and surreptitiously returns to the United States, not coming through any port of entry, he comes in violation of law, and may be deported under the provisions of this section. Ex parte Griffin, (N. D. N. Y. 1916) 237 Fed. 445.

IMPORTS AND EXPORTS

Vol. III, p. 712, sec. 27.

Purpose of provision.—The obvious purpose of this provision is to protect the public and to prevent any one from importing goods identified by their registered trademark which are not genuine. But it does not protect the owner of a registered trademark against the importation by third parties of the genuine article under that trademark. Fred Gretsch Mfg. Co. v. Schoenig, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 238 Fed. 780, 161 C. C. A. 630.

Vol. III, p. 723, sec. 1.

Constitutionality.—This Act is not unconstitutional in so far as it attempts to make penal the keeping and transportation of opium within the limits of a state and as being in conflict with the police power of the state. Shepard v. U. S., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 236 Fed. 73, 149 C. C. A. 283, following Brolan v. U. S., (1915) 236 U. S. 216, 35 S. Ct. 285, 59 U. S. (L. ed.) 544, wherein this objection to the statute was held to be so utterly devoid of merit as to be frivolous. To the same effect, see U. S. v. Ah Hung, (E. D. N. Y. 1917) 243 Fed. 762.

Vol. III, p. 725, sec. 2.

Validity of statute—Possession proof of guilt.—There can be no doubt of the general power and authority of Congress to create a rule changing the burden of proceeding in a criminal case, by providing that upon the production of certain facts it shall rest upon the defendant, and also to establish a rule of evidence making proof of one fact prima facie evidence of another related thereto. We must, of course, keep it in mind that the statute under examination has not attempted to make a rule that any inference or presumption of fact shall be conclusive at law. The statute has laid down a rule, not of substantive law at all, but merely of evidence. It does not in any way conclusively shut out all evidence from defendant; it has declared that, a prima facie case being made, the duty of producing evidence to avoid the effect of such prima facie case is upon the defendant. The great weight of authority confirms our belief that such a law is in no way in excess of power. Ng Choy Fong v. U. S., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 245 Fed. 305, 157 C. C. A. 497.

Effect of statute.—The effect of this law is to put upon every person in the United States the burden of refusing to deal with what is upon its face contraband, unless he can show its innocent character. If, under those circumstances, he takes into his possession an article which is thus labeled contraband, he commits a violation of the statute which renders him liable to punishment unless thereafter he can save himself by obtaining the proof which he should have required before purchasing the article. U. S. v. Ah Hung, (E. D. N. Y. 1917) 243 Fed. 762.

Defense—Permission of government officials to removal of opium.—In Jung Quey v. U. S., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1915) 222 Fed. 766, 138 C. C. A. 314, it appeared in evidence that the quartermaster of a steamship took opium prepared for smoking purposes from his steamship while it was in a United States port, and that he did so with the permission of the government, through its duly authorized officers, for the purpose of securing evidence against the defendants who received it. The court held that this evidence did not constitute a defense to a prosecution of the defendants for a conspiracy to receive opium imported contrary to law but could properly be considered in establishing their guilt.

Vol. III, p. 726, sec. 3.

Constitutionality.—The presumption here involved, though beyond any in revenue laws or elsewhere, appears to come within the limits of legislative power. Doubtless it goes far to prevent possession, use, and intrastate traffic in opium which are subject only to state police power; but this is only incidental to regulation of foreign commerce over which Congress has exclusive authority. This section provides for presumptions or prima facie proof of the offense, which, while sufficient to sustain a verdict of guilty, may or may not be sufficient to satisfy the jury of the guilt of the accused beyond a reasonable doubt. It is but what is commonly styled a rule of evidence and not a substantive law creating a new offense, and does not deprive the jury of its function of weighing evidence and determining facts. Like presumptions are familiar to common and statutory law in England and this country. So too, to civil law they dictate the burden of evidence as public policy may require. Conforming to ancient procedure, when not prohibited by constitutions, legislative bodies have power to create them, and in their application is "due process of law," provided there is rational connection between the facts therefrom inferred, that the inferences are not so unreasonable as to be mere arbitrary mandates and that the party affected is free to oppose them. U. S. v. Yee Fing, (D. C. Mont. 1915) 222 Fed. 154.

Effect of section.—By the provisions of this section the opium itself is presumed to have been imported illegally, and the burden of rebutting that presumption is on the defendant as well as the burden of explaining his possession so as to relieve himself of knowledge as to the importation. This leaves the defendant in the situation of being liable to an accusation that he was in the possession of material presumed to be contraband and presumed to have been brought into the country unlawfully, unless he can show either a certificate or clear chain of title and history of the article, carrying it back of a possible contraband source. U. S. v. Ah Hung, (E. D. N. Y. 1917) 243 Fed. 762.

INDIANS

Vol. III, p. 800, sec. 38.

Evidence.—Evidence that an Indian man and woman held themselves out as man and wife and were reputed to be married, and that it was customary to disregard solemnization before a judge or clergyman, warrants a finding of compliance with all the requisites to validate the marriage under this section. Carney v. Chapman, (1917) 247 U. S. 102, 38 S. Ct. 449, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 595.

Vol. III, p. 819, sec. 15.

Restrictions on alienation.—An Indian who had made a homestead entry under this Act and had substantially performed the conditions entitling him to a patent, except the making of final proof, at the date of the passage of the Act of July 4, 1884 (vol. 3, p. 820), is not affected by the provisions of the latter Act that such Indians as might then be located on the public lands, or should thereafter so locate, might avail themselves of the homestead laws, but that patents issued thereunder should contain a twenty-five years' limitation upon alienation. U. S. v. Hemmer, (1916) 241 U. S. 379, 36 S. Ct. 659, 60 U. S. (L. ed.) 1055, affirming (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1912) 204 Fed. 898, 123 C. C. A. 194.

Vol. III, p. 820, sec. 1.

This Act did not repeal, amend or modify any of the provisions of the Act of March 3, 1875, ch. 31, § 15 (vol. 3, p. 819), and did not extend from five years to twenty-five years the restriction of the lands acquired by an Indian homestead under the earlier Act. U. S. v. Hemmer, (1916) 241 U. S. 379, 36 S. Ct. 659, 60 U. S. (L. ed.) 1055, affirming (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1912) 204 Fed. 898, 123 C. C. A. 194.

Cancellation of patents.—The land office has no authority to cancel a trust patent to a homestead obtained under this Act and issue a new patent without restriction on alienation under section 6 of the Act of Feb. 8, 1887 (vol. 3, p. 830). Seaples v. Card, (E. D. Wash. 1915) 246 Fed. 501.

Vol. III, p. 830, sec. 6.

Restrictions on alienation.—Where a trust patent to a homestead was obtained under the Act of July 4, 1884 (vol. 3, p. 820), the land office has no authority to cancel such patent and issue a new one without restrictions on alienation under this section. Seaples v. Card, (E. D. Wash. 1915) 246 Fed. 501.

Emancipation from federal control.

No intention can be gathered from this section to dissolve the tribal relations and terminate the national guardianship upon the making of the allotments and the issuing of the trust patents without waiting for the expiration of the trust period, in view of the provisions of the preceding section 5. U. S. v. Nice, (1916) 241 U. S. 591, 36 S. Ct. 696, 60 U. S. (L. ed.) 1192.

Vol. III, p. 837, sec. 3.

Oil and gas lease of Indian lands.—Taxation.—A state may not, when assessing for purposes of taxation the corporate assignee of an oil and gas lease of Osage lands, made under the authority of this Act, include in such assessment the lease and rights thereunder, either as separate objects of taxation, or as represented or valued by the stock of the corporation. Indian Territory Illuminating Oil Co. v. Oklahoma, (1916) 240 U. S. 522, 36 S. Ct. 453, 60 U. S. (L. ed.) 779.

Vol. III, p. 846, sec. 7.

Validity.—Congress had power to remove the restrictions originally imposed upon alienation heirs. Egan v. McDonald, (1918) 246 U. S. 227, 38 S. Ct. 223, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 680, affirming (1915) 36 S. D. 92, 153 N. W. 915.

Vol. III, p. 850, sec. 2.

Avoiding conveyances of Indian allotments.—The United States was without capacity to bring suit on behalf of Indian grantors to set aside, because of the fraud of the grantees and the incapacity of such grantors, certain conveyances by adult mixed blood Chippewa Indians of their patented allotments in the White Earth Indian Reservation, where such conveyances were made after the adoption of this Act. U. S. v. Waller, (1917) 243 U. S. 452, 37 S. Ct. 430, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 843.

Vol. III, p. 850, sec. 1.

Avoiding conveyances of Indian allotments.—The United States was without capacity to bring suit on behalf of Indian grantors to set aside, because of the fraud of the grantees and the incapacity of such grantors, certain conveyances by adult mixed blood Chippewa Indians of their patented allotments in the White Earth Indian Reservation, where such conveyances were made after the adoption of the Act. U. S. v. Waller, (1917) 243 U. S. 452, 37 S. Ct. 430, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 843.

Vol. III, p. 853, sec. 1.

Reopening decision of Secretary of Interior.—An order of the Secretary of the Interior, recognizing the adopted children of a deceased Indian allottee as his heirs, though made final and conclusive by this Act, does not exhaust his power so as to permit the courts by mandamus to interfere with his action in reopening the matter for further consideration, where the property to which the order relates is still in the administrative control of the department because of the trust imposed by the law of the United States until the expiration of the statutory period. Lane v. U. S., (1916) 241 U. S. 201, 38 S. Ct. 599, 60 U. S. (L. ed.) 956.

Vol. III, p. 863, sec. 3.

Effect of enrolment.—Enrolment confers rights which cannot be taken away without notice and opportunity to be heard. But enrolment may be canceled by the Secretary of the Interior for fraud or mistake. Duncan Townsite Co. v. Lane, (1917) 245 U. S. 308, 38 S. Ct. 99, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 309.

Vol. III, p. 872, sec. 19.

Osage Indian allotments—Restrictions on alienation by nonmembers of tribe.—The restrictions on alienation of Osage Indian allotments, imposed by Act of June 28, 1906, ch. 3572 (see Vol. 3, p. 862), do not apply to lands or any interest therein which have come into the possession of a white man not a member of the tribe, under allotments made in the right of certain deceased Indians to their respective heirs. Levin-dale Lead, etc., Min. Co. v. Coleman, (1916) 241 U. S. 432, 38 S. Ct. 644, 60 U. S. (L. ed.) 1080.

Taxation.—The exemption from taxation of lands allotted to an Indian under former acts is not, in view of this section, available to his grantees. Sweet v. Schock, (1917) 245 U. S. 192, 38 S. Ct. 101, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 237.

Vol. III, p. 874, sec. 22.

Validity of statute.—A statute requiring approval by the Secretary of the Interior of conveyances made by a tribal Indian is not unconstitutional, even as applied to land upon the conveyance of which no such obstruction existed at the time of its enactment, and notwithstanding the admission of its owner to citizenship. Brader v. James, (1917) 246 U. S. 88, 38 S. Ct. 285, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 591, affirming (1916) 49 Okla. 734, 154 Pac. 560.

Allotment to representative of deceased Indian—Restrictions.—The restrictions made by the provisions of this section apply as well in a case where selection has been made as provided by section 20 of the Cherokee Agreement (32 Stat. L. 716, ch. 1375) by the duly appointed executor or administrator of an Indian who died before receiving his allotment, as to a case where the land was selected by the ancestor in his lifetime. Talley v. Burgess, (1918) 246 U. S. 104, 38 S. Ct. 287, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 600, affirming (1915) 46 Okla. 550, 149 Pac. 120.

Conveyance by minor heir of allottee—Approval by court.—Read as a whole and construed in the light of the purpose to be accomplished this section requires approval by the United States court for the Indian Territory of conveyances made by the guardian of minor heirs of a deceased Indian allottee. Talley v. Burgess, (1918) 246 U. S. 104, 38 S. Ct. 287, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 340, affirming (1915) 46 Okla. 550, 149 Pac. 120.

Conclusiveness of citizenship roll.—The approved Seminole citizenship roll must be deemed conclusive as to the amount of Indian blood of an enrolled member of that tribe, when testing his right under this section to convey his lands. U. S. v. Ferguson, (1917) 38 S. Ct. 434, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 592, affirming (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1915) 225 Fed. 974, 141 C. C. A. 96.

Approval by Secretary of Interior.—The approval of the Secretary of the Interior is, by this section, made a condition of a valid conveyance by the heirs of a deceased allottee of either of the Five Civilized Tribes and must be obtained in the case of land as to which the original restriction upon alienation by the allottee or his heirs had expired before its enactment. Brader v. James (1918) 246 U. S. 88, 38 S. Ct. 285, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 335, affirming (1916) 49 Okla. 734, 154 Pac. 560.

Vol. III, p. 883, sec. 2.

Discretionary power of Secretary of Interior.—The discretionary power of the Secretary of the Interior, under this section, with respect to the approval of oil and gas leases on Indian lands, was not exceeded when he gave such approval to that one of two leases for the same premises which was earlier in time, but later in filing for record with the Indian agency. Anicker v. Gunsburg, (1918) 246 U. S. 110, 38 S. Ct. 228, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 603, affirming (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1915) 226 Fed. 176, 141 C. C. A. 174.

Vol. III, p. 887, sec. 4.

Taxation.—The exemption from taxation of lands allotted to an Indian under former acts is not, in view of this section, available to his grantees. Sweet v. Schock, (1917) 245 U. S. 192, 38 S. Ct. 101, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 132.

Vol. III, p. 915, sec. 2140.

Forfeiture.—By the construction of the courts forfeiture, under this section, has been confined to the interest only of the person guilty of the introduction, so that only where the vehicles were actually owned by the person using them in violating the law, could they be condemned and forfeited. See U. S. v. One Buick Roadster Automobile, (E. D. Okla. 1917) 244 Fed. 961.

Amendment.—The Act of March 2, 1917, ch. 146, sec. 1, ante, this volume, p. 260, effected an amendment of this section by an extension of its provisions, so that as to seizure, libel and forfeiture of vehicles it was operative, not only in what is strictly Indian country but also in any other places where the introduction of such intoxicants is prohibited by treaty or federal statute. U. S. v. One Buick Roadster Automobile, (E. D. Okla. 1917) 244 Fed. 961.

Vol. III, p. 919, sec. 1.

"Indian country."—A station platform on a railway right of way through the heart of the Crow Indian Reservation, is Indian country within the meaning of this Act. U. S. v. Soldana, (1918) 246 U. S. 530, 38 S. Ct. 357, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 870.

Introducing liquor into Indian country.—The mere transportation of liquor across an Indian allotment is not by itself a violation of this Act. Butterfield v. U. S., (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1917) 241 Fed. 556, 154 C. C. A. 332.

INTERNAL REVENUE

Vol. III, p. 1002, sec. 3173.

Compelling production of books.—Under this section the Commissioner of Internal Revenue may compel the production of books by one who has become subject to the stamp tax on agreement of sale imposed by the War Revenue Act of Oct. 22, 1914, ch. 331, sec. 22, vol. IV, p. 297; and an order to produce books is not violative of any constitutional right. Calkins v. Smietanka, (N. D. Ill. 1917) 240 Fed. 138.

This section was amended in the War Revenue Act of Sept. 8, 1916, ch. 463, sec. 16, ante, this volume, title INTERNAL REVENUE, p. 280.

Vol. III, p. 1010, sec. 3182.

Power to assess stamp taxes is given by this section, and is not taken away by R. S. sec. 3176, as amended in Act of Sept. 8, 1916, ch. 463, sec. 16, ante, this volume, title INTERNAL REVENUE, p. 281; "section 3182 is most general, comprehensive, and inclusive, and was unquestionably intended to give, and did give, the Commissioner of Internal Revenue authority to make assessments 'of any tax imposed by this title' being 'Title XXXV—Internal Revenue.' . . . In other words Congress gave the Commissioner of Internal Revenue authority to make assessment of all taxes that were imposed by congressional enactment and which came under the heading of 'Internal Revenue.'" Calkins v. Smietanka, (N. D. Ill. 1917) 240 Fed. 138.

This section authorizes assessment of penalties arising under the Act of Oct. 22, 1914, ch. 331, vol. IV, p. 284 et seq., when the section is construed with other provisions of the statutes. Kohlhamer v. Smietanka, (N. D. Ill. 1917) 239 Fed. 408.

Vol. III, p. 1032, sec. 3224.

The only redress for an aggrieved taxpayer is the method provided in R. S. sec. 3226, vol. III, p. 1034; Calkins v. Smietanka, (N. D. Ill. 1917) 240 Fed. 138.

"The word 'assessment,' as used in this section, cannot fairly be limited to the mental act of the officer who determines the amount. It must include the preliminary investigation as well as the final determination, for one is as important as the other." Calkins v. Smietanka, (N. D. Ill. 1917) 240 Fed. 138.

The inhibition of this statute applies to the collection by the Internal Revenue Collector of penalties assessed under the Act of Oct. 22, 1914, ch. 331, sec. 23, vol. IV, p. 305. Kohlhamer v. Smietanka, (N. D. Ill. 1917) 239 Fed. 408.

An application by a receiver for instructions whether to make a return under the federal Income Tax Act of 1913 was not affected by this section. It is not a suit to restrain the assessment or collection of a tax. Scott v. Western Pac. R. Co., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 545, 158 C. C. A. 515.

Vol. III, p. 1067, sec. 3, par. First.

Constitutionality of tax.—The tax imposed by this section is upon a franchise to conduct the business of banking and clearly lawful. Anderson v. Farmers' Loan, etc., Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 241 Fed. 322, 154 C. C. A. 202.

Capital, etc., "employed" in banking.—In Anderson v. Farmers' Loan, etc., Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 241 Fed. 322, 154 C. C. A. 202, where a trust company did a large trust business and also a large banking business, it was held that certain invested assets were not capital, surplus, and undivided profits not employed in banking, but were employed in all the business of the bank of every kind, and that it was a question of fact, to be determined at a trial, just how far the so-called permanent investments were employed in banking, and that the fact was not to be determined by methods of bookkeeping, but by real transactions.

Vol. IV, p. 41, sec. 3280.

An indictment for unauthorized distillation of alcoholic spirits need not specify the particular kind of spirits which the defendant is accused of producing. Therefore, a specification thereof in the indictment may be regarded as surplusage. Bullard v. U. S., (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1917) 245 Fed. 837, 158 C. C. A. 177.

Vol. IV, p. 173, sec. 1.

An alien Chinese person, so proved to be on the trial, could not lawfully be convicted on an indictment not charging him with manufacturing opium while an alien, but charging a failure to give the bond required of manufacturers of opium for smoking purposes, and, while so failing, engaging in the business of manufacturing opium for smoking purposes. Lee Mow Lin v. U. S., (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1917) 240 Fed. 408, 153 C. C. A. 334.

Vol. IV, p. 177, sec. 1.

Revenue measure.—"It cannot now be questioned in any lower court that the Harrison Act is a revenue measure or tax law and is to be construed as such. U. S. v. Jin Fuey Moy, 241 U. S. 394, 39 S. Ct. 658, 60 U. S. (L. ed.) 1061, a decision which deprives of authority the judgment of this court in Wilson v. U. S., 229 U. S. 344, 143 C. C. A. 464." Lowe v. Farbwerke-Hoechst Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 240 Fed. 671, 153 C. C. A. 469.

"The word 'derivative' is to be taken in its commonly received or popular sense, as distinguished from special or scientific usage. Farbenfabriken v. U. S., 102 Fed. 603, 42 C. C. A. 525, and cases cited. . . . Even if it were possible chemically to extract from coca leaves the component parts of novocaine, the latter substance could not be called a derivative of cocoa leaves; it is a derivative of coal tar." Lowe v. Farbwerke-Hoechst Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 240 Fed. 671, 153 C. C. A. 469.

An indictment for unlawful dealing, etc., in cocaine, morphine sulphate, and morphine was demurrable for failure to allege that either of said drugs was opium or coca leaves or any compound, manufacture, salt, derivative, or preparation of opium or coca leaves, since the court could not take judicial cognizance of the fact. U. S. v. Hammers, (S. D. Fla. 1917) 241 Fed. 542.

An indictment of a physician, charging him with giving a prescription for and so dispensing pounds of opium, charged no offense; because the word "dispense" as used in the statute "relates to actual delivery of the drug by the physician to the patient, from the former's office supply, generally, though not excluding other actual delivery." U. S. v. Reynolds, (D. C. Mont. 1916) 244 Fed. 991, sustaining a demurrer.

Vol. IV, p. 178, sec. 2.

Clause (a) is unconstitutional as in violation of the Tenth Amendment to the Federal Constitution so far as it makes criminal a sale, etc., by a registered physician of a prohibited drug, without a "written order," etc., and not "in the course of his professional practice," since said omissions are merely violations of local police regulations, which Congress had no power to establish, and are not means to effect the objects of the Act in respect of its revenue. U. S. v. Doremus, (W. D. Tex. 1918) 246 Fed. 958.

A physician or other person duly registered may be guilty of violating the Act. Thurston v. U. S., (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1917) 241 Fed. 335, 154 C. C. A. 215.

Conspiracy to violate the statute, see notes to section 37 in title PENAL LAWS, post, this volume.

Indictment—Negating exceptions in section 2a.—An indictment charging duly registered physicians, who had paid the tax assessed by the statute, with dispensing and distributing, without keeping a record, etc., was demurrable for failure to negative that the physician personally attended upon the person to whom the drug was dispensed or distributed. U. S. v. Hammers, (S. D. Fla. 1917) 241 Fed. 542.

Failure to preserve duplicate of order.—A demurrer on the ground that the offense was not alleged of a day certain was overruled to an indictment presented Oct. 26, 1916, which alleged that the defendant on May 13, 1916, gave an order for opium, which "was thereafter accepted," and "after the acceptance" he failed to preserve a duplicate thereof "in such a way as to be readily accessible," contrary to law, the court saying: "The offense would be committed when ready accessibility first failed after the order's acceptance and is capable of continuity."

U. S. v. Gaag, (D. C. Mont. 1916) 237 Fed. 728.

Vol. IV, p. 183, sec. 6.

The words "or other preparations" mean other preparations ejusdem generis with liniments and ointments. Lowe v. Farbwerke-Hoechst Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 240 Fed. 671, 153 C. C. A. 469.

Vol. IV, p. 187, sec. 8.

Constitutionality.—In U. S. v. Brown, (W. D. Wash. 1915) 224 Fed. 135, this section was declared constitutional.

"Any person not registered" in this section cannot be taken to mean any person in the United States, but must be understood to refer to the class with which the statutes undertakes to deal—the persons who are by section 1 required to register. U. S. v. Jin Fuey Moy, (1916) 241 U. S. 394, 36 S. Ct. 658, 60 U. S. (L. ed.) 1061, affirming (W. D. Va. 1915) 225 Fed. 1003.

In U. S. v. Wilson, (W. D. Tenn. 1915) 225 Fed. 82, the sole question determined was to whom the clause "any person not registered under the provisions of this act and who has not paid the tax" in the eighth section referred. The court said: "Clearly it refers to, and at least includes those doing the things specifically named in the first section. Does it refer to and include others doing things not specifically named in the act, viz., those having in their possession or under their control the drugs named for their personal consumption? It seems to me that to so hold would be for the court to enlarge the list of those whom Congress required to register and pay the special tax. In that event it would be an amendment of the act. This is not the function of the court."

To the same effect is U. S. v. Jin Fuey Moy, (W. D. Pa. 1915) 225 Fed. 1003; U. S. v. Woods, (D. C. Mont. 1915) 224 Fed. 278.

In Wilson v. U. S., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 229 Fed. 344, 143 C. C. A. 464, the plaintiff in error was convicted of a violation of this section; there having been found in his possession a substantial quantity of opium. He admitted that he kept it solely for the purpose of smoking it. He did not produce opium, nor import, nor manufacture, nor compound, nor deal in it. Nor did he dispense it, nor sell, distribute or give it away. Upon writ of error to review the judgment, it was affirmed, notwithstanding that the defendant contended that he was not within the provisions of section 8, because the words "any person" as used therein are to be construed as referring only to persons of the classes referred to in section 1 as being obliged to register and to pay a tax.

Possession of drugs by certain persons is made unlawful by this section, with some exemptions; the section "does not merely provide a presumption or a rule of evidence to establish a violation of section 1." U. S. v. O'Hara, (D. C. R. I. 1916) 242 Fed. 749.

Indictment—Alleging possession.—An indictment which charges that the defendant "did unlawfully, wrongfully, and knowingly sell, dispense, and distribute . . . morphine sulphate tablets," and that he sold and dispensed the same as a dealer to consumer, etc., is equivalent to charging that he had the drugs in his possession. U. S. v. Curtis, (N. D. N. Y. 1916) 229 Fed. 288.

But it has been held that a mere allegation that the defendant had the prohibited drug in his possession, or an equivalent count, is not sufficient to charge a violation of the provisions of the Act. Thus an indictment which charged that the defendant did "knowingly and unlawfully have in his possession a large quantity of morphine . . . without having theretofore registered with the collector of internal revenue his name and place of business and paid to said collector the special tax as required by the Act," was held not sufficient to charge a violation of any of the provisions of the Act. U. S. v. Carney, (N. D. Ia. 1915) 228 Fed. 163. To the same effect, upon similar indictments, see U. S. v. Friedman, (W. D. Tenn. 1915) 224 Fed. 276; U. S. v. Woods, (D. C. Mont. 1915) 224 Fed. 278; U. S. v. Jin Fuey Moy, (W. D. Pa. 1915) 225 Fed. 1003, affirmed (1916) 241 U. S. 394, 36 S. Ct. 658, 60 U. S. (L. ed.) 1061.

But compare U. S. v. Brown, (W. D. Wash. 1915) 224 Fed. 135, wherein a contrary conclusion was reached. In that case the view was taken that opium is an "outlaw" in this country and that the Act is therefore intended to prohibit the importation of the drug for any purpose whatever.

Negating innocent possession.—An indictment charging that defendants were persons mentioned in section 1, and unlawfully, wilfully, knowingly, and feloniously had in their possession and under their control certain of such drugs, was sufficient without alleging that such possession was for the purpose of dealing, etc., conceding that a dealer may have an innocent possession of drugs which is not connected with his dealing, for example, as medicine for his personal ailments. U. S. v. O'Hara, (D. C. R. I. 1916) 242 Fed. 749.

Vol. IV, p. 187, sec. 9.

"The rule of strict construction applies to criminal statutes such as this." U. S.

v. Doremus, (W. D. Tex. 1918) 246 Fed. 958.

Vol. IV, p. 189, sec. 6.

Constitutionality.—"The Oleomargarine Law was enacted under the power of Congress (Constitution, art. 7, § 8, par. 3): 'To regulate commerce with foreign nations, and among the several states, and with the Indian tribes.'" Brougham v. Blanton Mfg. Co., (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1917) 243 Fed. 53, 156 C. C. A. 201.

Relative to Meat Inspection Law.—"As a matter of common and judicial knowledge, oleomargarine is a meat product, and therefore its manufacture comes within the language of and is governed by the Meat Inspection Law of June 30, 1906, ch. 3913, 34 Stat. 676, forbidding the use of a "false or deceptive name," repeated in and superseded by the provision in the Meat Inspection Act of Mar. 4, 1907, ch. 2907, vol. I, p. 400. Brougham v. Blanton Mfg. Co., (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1917) 243 Fed. 503, 156 C. C. A. 201.

Vol. IV, p. 191, sec. 8.

"Removed."—Where defendant constructed a "cave" under the back room in one of his places of business, there colored oleomargarine without paying the government tax, and then transferred it from the "cave" to the salesroom in the same building, the oleomargarine was "removed" in violation of the statute as fully as though he had shipped it to an adjoining city. Marhoefer v. U. S., (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1917) 241 Fed. 48, 154 C. C. A. 48.

Vol. IV, p. 196, sec. 17.

Who may commit offense.—In Marhoefer v. U. S., (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1917) 241 Fed. 48, 154 C. C. A. 48, affirming a conviction for violation of this section, the court said: "The contention that the defendant Walsh should have been dismissed, because he was merely an employee, and not a manufacturer, is answered against the appellant in May v. U. S., supra [(C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1912) 199 Fed. 42, 117 C. C. A. 420] and ample reasons for so holding are given."

Indictment.—Where an indictment charged that defendants were engaged in carrying on the business of manufacturing oleomargarine, and did defraud and attempt to defraud the United States of the tax on a quantity of oleomargarine "produced and manufactured and removed from the place of manufacture for consumption and sale by them . . . that is to say, . . . did manufacture produce and furnish for the use and consumption of others a large quantity" of oleomargarine artificially colored to look like butter, which, "at the time it was so manufactured, produced, removed, and furnished" was subject to a tax, which they did not pay, it was held that, construing all the language together, the so-called specific allegations following the words "that is to say," did not narrow or restrict the general charge, but amplified and in greater particularity described how the defendant violated the requirements of section 8, and was sufficient to support a conviction. Marhoefer v. U. S., (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1917) 241 Fed. 48, 154 C. C. A. 48.

In Marhoefer v. U. S., (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1917) 241 Fed. 48, 154 C. C. A. 48, the indictment there quoted in full was held to be sufficiently specific and definite in charging an "attempt to defraud" the United States out of a tax on artificially colored oleomargarine.

Criminal prosecution as bar to forfeiture.—Acquittal of a stockholder of a corporation under an indictment for violating this section is no bar to a proceeding against the corporation for forfeiture for the same alleged offense charged against it. U. S. v. Manufacturing Apparatus, etc., (D. C. Colo. 1916) 240 Fed. 235.

Vol. IV, p. 200, sec. 4.

"Absorption of abnormal quantities."—"Any departure from methods appropriate to the circumstances of the particular churning, departure from methods calculated to result in a product of appropriate quality, with intent and effect to increase moisture over what it would have been, but for such departure, has caused 'absorption of abnormal quantities of water, milk, or cream,' within the statute, whether the increase be due to retention of moisture throughout, or by elimination and reincorporation." Henningsen Produce Co. v. Whaley, (D. C. Mont. 1917) 238 Fed. 650.

A regulation of the commissioner of internal revenue that "butter having 16 per cent or more of moisture contains an abnormal quantity and is classed as adulterated butter," the regulation not applying to a farmer, was unauthorized and void, since it was legislative in character and not simply a rule of procedure and administration. Henningsen Produce Co. v. Whaley, (D. C. Mont. 1917) 239 Fed. 650.

Vol. IV, p. 232, sec. 3.

Contingent beneficial interests.—In Uterhart v. U. S., (1916) 240 U. S. 598, 36 S. Ct. 417, 59 U. S. (L. ed.) 819, reversing (1914) 49 Ct. Cl. 709, it was held that the interests which the residuary legatees took by a will, the terms of which were there considered, as construed by a state court of competent jurisdiction, were contingent and not vested prior to July 1, 1902, within the meaning of this section.

Controlled by the decision in Vanderbilt v. Eidman, (1905) 196 U. S. 480, 25 S. Ct. 331, 49 U. S. (L. ed.) 563, it was held in Rosenfeld v. Scott, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 245 Fed. 646, 158 C. C. A. 74, reversing (N. D. Cal. 1916) 232 Fed. 509, that certain life estates were contingent beneficial interests, and were not vested in possession or enjoyment prior to July 1, 1902.

Where a bequest of stock was made to an infant, the income to be collected by his guardian until he became of age, and applied to his necessary support and maintenance until he became of age, and then the corpus to be transferred to him, his interest in the bequest was absolute and subject to no contingency. Deford v. U. S., (1917) 52 Ct. Cl. 220.

In Carleton v. U. S., (1918) 51 Ct. Cl. 60, a will bequeathed $10,000 to "said Minnie A. Townsend, her heirs and assigns forever, the income from which shall be paid by said Minnie A. Townsend, annually or semiannually to my cousin, Mrs. Augusta H. Worthen, as long as said Augusta H. Worthen shall live." The court said: "It is true that Minnie A. Townsend did not enjoy it at once, but immediately upon passing from the possession of the executors of the will the whole corpus of the legacy was in the possession and enjoyment of the beneficiaries named in the will; and that was all the requirement of the war-revenue act to make it subject to taxation."

Where a bequest of stock was made to an infant, this income to be collected by his guardian until he became of age, and applied to his necessary support and maintenance until he became of age and then the corpus to be transferred to him, his interest in the bequest was absolute and subject to no contingency. Deford v. U. S., (1917) 52 Ct. Cl. 220.

A tax paid without any protest or declaration of any intention to contest its validity is a voluntary payment and not recoverable. Rand v. U. S., (1917) 52 Ct. Cl. 72.

Compliance with R. S. sec. 3226, vol. III, p. 1034, is essential before suit can be maintained for recovery under this statute of taxes paid. And said R. S. sec. 3226 is unaffected by the Act of July 27, 1912, ch. 256, vol. IV, p. 236. Rand v. U. S., (1917) 52 Ct. Cl. 72, 285.

Vol. IV, p. 236, sec. 2.

A tax paid without any protest or declaration of any intention to contest its validity is a voluntary payment and not recoverable. Rand v. U. S., (1917) 52 Ct. Cl. 72.

Income of one who died July 22, 1913, which accrued from March 1st was subject to tax in view of subdivision D of this Act, which makes it retroactive. Brady v. Anderson, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 240 Fed. 665, 153 C. C. A. 463.

Alimony paid to a divorced wife under a decree of court is not subject to an income tax under this subdivision. Gould v. Gould, (1917) 245 U. S. 151, 38 S. Ct. 53, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 211.

A stock dividend which represents surplus profits transferred to the corporation's capital account is capital and not income within the meaning of the Income Tax Law. Towner v. Eisner, (1918) 245 U. S. 418, 38 S. Ct. 158, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 372.

The distributive share of a stockholder paid over to him after the effective date of the Act, upon the surrender of his entire interest in the corporation, as a single and final dividend in liquidation of the company's entire assets and business, is not income arising or accruing during the year, where such payment, although equaling twice the par value of his stock, represented only its intrinsic value at and before the effective date of the Act, the increase in value being one to a gradual rise in the market value of the company's lands, culminating before the Act took effect. Lynch v. Turrish, (1918) 247 U. S. 221, 38 S. Ct. 537, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 1087, affirming (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 236 Fed. 653, 149 C. C. A. 649 distinguished in Lewellyn v. Gulf Oil Corp., (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1917) 245 Fed. 1, 158 C. C. A. 1, reversing (W. D. Pa. 1916) 242 Fed. 709.

"Income from all property."—Income from corporate stocks and bonds owned by a nonresident alien and kept in this country by an agent, who collected such income for the owner was taxable under this provision. De Ganay v. Lederer, (E. D. Pa. 1917) 239 Fed. 568.

Vol. IV, p. 239, par. B.

Dividends declared and paid in the ordinary course of business by a corporation to its stockholders after the taking effect of the Act, whether from current earnings, or from accumulated surplus made up of past earnings or increase in value of corporate assets, notwithstanding it accrued to the corporation in whole or in part prior to March 1, 1913, were taxable "net income" under this subdivision. Lynch v. Hornby, (1918) 247 U. S. 339, 38 S. Ct. 543, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 1149, reversing (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 236 Fed. 661, 149 C. C. A. 657.

"Controlled by Lynch v. Hornby," last above cited was Peabody v. Eisner, (1918) 247 U. S. 347, 38 S. Ct. 546, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 1152, holding that a distribution in specie by a corporation to its stockholders after the effective date of the Income Tax Act, of the holdings of shares of stock in another corporation, which it owned on and prior to that date, was part of the stockholders' taxable income.

Vol. IV, p. 245, par. G.

Doubt must be resolved against the government where the meaning and scope of language claimed to impose a tax is uncertain. Scott v. Western Pac. R. Co., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 545, 158 C. C. A. 515.

Income prior to March 1, 1913.—The purpose was to exclude from consideration any income that accrued prior to March 1, 1913, especially as the 16th Amendment was not adopted until February, 1913. Southern Pac. Co. v. Lowe, (1918) 247 U. S. 330, 38 S. Ct. 540, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 1142, reversing (S. D. N. Y. 1917) 238 Fed. 847. Compare Lewellyn v. Gulf Oil Corp., (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1917) 245 Fed. 1, 158 C. C. A. 1, reversing (W. D. Pa. 1916) 242 Fed. 709.

"The word 'income' as used in revenue legislation has a settled legal meaning. The courts have uniformly construed it to include only the receipt of actual cash as opposed to contemplated revenue due but unpaid, unless a contrary purpose is manifest from the language of the statute. . . . Doubtless it was the intention of Congress in legislation of this character to employ terms of sufficient comprehension to reach the actual income of the corporation by foreclosing any possible avenue of escape, but it can hardly be said that in so doing an intention prevailed to tax that which did not actually exist, except on paper, as income during the taxing period." Maryland Casualty Co. v. U. S., (1917) 52 Ct. Cl. 201.

Accumulations accruing prior to Jan. 1, 1913, were capital, not income, for the purposes of the Act. Southern Pac. Co. v. Lowe, (1918) 247 U. S. 330, 38 S. Ct. 540, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 1142.

Receivers of corporations are not taxable under this statute. Scott v. Western Pac. Co., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 545, 158 C. C. A. 515, where one of the reasons for so concluding was that while this statute omits reference to receiver's corporations the Income Tax Law of Sept. 8, 1916, ch. 463, ante, this volume, title INTERVAL REVENUE, p. 312, expressly provides for the inclusion of property held by such receivers.

Income derived from the business of shipping goods to foreign countries and there selling them is covered by this statute, which is constitutional in that regard. Peck v. Lowe, (1918) 247 U. S. 165, 38 S. Ct. 432, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 1049.

Where the lessee of a railroad paid, in accordance with provisions in the lease, on stipulated dates in each year, to the persons holding shares of the lessor corporation's stock and certified by it as then entitled to dividends, certain stipulated sums per share held, the amount so paid was income of the lessor corporation, and did not cease to be such because not paid directly to it. West End St. R. Co. v. Malley, (C. C. A. 1st Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 625, 158 C. C. A. 581, following Rensselaer v. Irwin, (N. D. N. Y. 1917) 239 Fed. 739. To the same point under the Corporation Tax Act of Aug. 5, 1909, ch. 6, § 38, 1909 Supp. Appendix, p. 829. Blalock v. Georgia R., etc., Co., (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 387, 158 C. C. A. 451.

Vol. IV, p. 255, sec. 38.

I. SUBDIVISION FIRST

2. Construction (p. 261)

"The legislative purpose was not to tax property as such, or the mere conversion of property, but to tax the conduct of the business of corporations organized for profit by a measure based upon the gainful returns from their business operations and property from the time the Act took effect." Doyle v. Mitchell Bros. Co., (1917) 247 U. S. 179, 38 S. Ct. 467, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 1054.

"The trend of judicial opinion has been to examine closely the phraseology of the Act itself, and it must be construed in favor of taxation." U. S. v. Guggenheim Exploration Co., (S. D. N. Y. 1917) 238 Fed. 231, per Manton, J.

A treasury decision, promulgated for the guidance of revenue collectors, is entitled to some consideration in the construction of the statute, but cannot be given great weight in an action against a collector to recover taxes paid under protest, since the government is the real defendant "and, of course, courts cannot permit a party to a lawsuit to say what the rules of law for the decision shall be." Grand Rapids, etc., R. Co. v. Doyle, (W. D. Mich. 1915) 245 Fed. 792.

4. Corporations Subject to Tax (p. 261)

In general—Organized for profit.—The Boston Terminal Company was held under the facts found and stated in Boston Terminal Co. v. Gill, (C. C. A. 1st Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 664, 158 C. C. A. 620, to be a corporation "organized for profit," this conclusion being deemed to find strong support in Von Baumbach v. Sargent Land Co., (1917) 242 U. S. 503, 37 S. Ct. 201, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 460.

A mutual protective association organized under a state statute, whose only source of revenue was assessments paid by its members, was held, under the facts of the case, to be an "insurance company" and to be "doing business" within the meaning of those terms in this Act. Commercial Travelers' L., etc., Assoc. v. Rodway, (N. D. Ohio 1913) 235 Fed. 370.

Corporations formed by the owners of lands for the purpose of handling the property and distributing the proceeds of its disposition are organized for profit within the meaning of this subdivision. Von Baumbach v. Sargent Land Co., (1917) 242 U. S. 503, 37 S. Ct. 201, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 460.

5. "Carrying on," "engaged in" or "doing" business (p. 263)

Leasing of property and franchise by corporation.—In Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Lederer, (E. D. Pa. 1917) 239 Fed. 184, an action to recover a tax paid under protest, "the facts in relation to the carrying on of business by the plaintiffs, as shown by the various leases under which the railroads were operated, clearly brought all of the plaintiffs within the law as laid down in the Minehill case, 226 U. S. 295, 33 S. Ct. 419, 57 U. S. (L. ed.) 842."

"If a corporation is doing the business for which it was organized the income derived from such business is taxable under the Act. . . . If the purpose for which it was organized was to build and lease property, then the rents derived from such lease are taxable, even though thereby the corporation leases all the property and of necessity goes out of all corporate business excepting the collection and distribution of its rents." Rio Grande Junction R. Co. v. U. S., (1916) 51 Ct. Cl. 274.

A street railway corporation which leased its lines and property in 1897 to another corporation, and has not since operated them itself is not a corporation "engaged in business" during that period. West End St. R. Co. v. Malley, (C. C. A. 1st Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 625, 158 C. C. A. 625, where the question was regarded as controlled by the reasoning and result in the following cases: New York Cent., etc., R. Co. v. Gill, (C. C. A. 1st Cir. 1915) 219 Fed. 184, 134 C. C. A. 558; McCoach v. Continental Pass. Co., (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1916) 233 Fed. 976, 47 C. C. A. 650; Jasher, etc., Co. v. Walker, (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1917) 238 Fed. 533, 151 C. C. A. 469.

Realty corporations organized for and actually engaged in such activities as handling large tracts of land owned by such corporations, leasing and selling parcels thereof, disposing of stumpage, seeing that their lessees under mining leases live up to their contracts, and distributing the proceeds of such activities among the stockholders; are "engaged in business" within the meaning of this subdivision. Van Baumbach v. Sargent Land Co., (1917) 242 U. S. 503, 37 S. Ct. 201, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 460.

6. INCOME (p. 267)

"What is income? The flow of capital's service is its income. A disservice is a negative service. A flow of disservice or negative income is called 'outgo.'"

U. S. v. Guggenheim Exploration Co., (S. D. N. Y. 1917) 238 Fed. 231, per Manton, J.

Net income.—The fair market value as of December 31, 1908, of the stumpage cut and converted by a lumber manufacturing corporation from lands acquired by it prior to the passage of this Act, should be deducted from gross receipts when computing the company's net taxable income for the years in which the timber was converted into money, although the increase in market value over original cost had not been entered on the company's books until after the passage of the statute. Doyle v. Mitchell Bros. Co., (1917) 247 U. S. 179, 38 S. Ct. 467, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 1054.

The entire proceeds of a mere conversion of capital assets acquired before and converted into money after the taking effect of the Act are not to be treated as income. "In order to determine whether there has been gain or loss and the amount of the gain, if any, we must withdraw from the gross proceeds an amount sufficient to restore the capital value that existed at the commencement of the period." Doyle v. Mitchell Bros. Co., (1917) 247 U. S. 179, 38 S. Ct. 467, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 1054.

Time of accrual or receipt of income.—This Act measures the tax by the income received within the year for which the assessment was levied, whether it accrued within that year or in some preceding year while the Act was in effect; but it excludes all income that accrued prior to Jan. 1, 1909, although afterward received while the Act was in effect. Hays v. Gauley Mountain Coal Co., (1918) 247 U. S. 189, 38 S. Ct. 470, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 1061.

In computing gain from a sale of assets bought by a corporation, interest should not be added to the original purchase price in order to ascertain its cost. Hays v. Gauley Mountain Coal Co., (1918) 247 U. S. 189, 38 S. Ct. 470, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 1061.

So-called royalties received by the corporate owners of lands leased for long terms for the purpose of exploring it, and mining and removing the merchantable iron therein, to persons who agreed to pay monthly a specified sum per ton for all ore mined and shipped the previous month, and to mine and ship a specified quantity of ore each year, and in default of this to pay for the minimum amount specified and take credit therefor, and apply such sums upon ore mined and shipped thereafter in excess of such minimum—are income within the meaning of this subdivision. Von Baumbach v. Sargent Land Co., (1917) 242 U. S. 503, 37 S. Ct. 201, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 460, reversing (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1914) 219 Fed. 31, 134 C. C. A. 649, which affirmed (D. C. Minn. 1913) 207 Fed. 423, followed in U. S. v. Biwabik Min. Co., (1918) 247

U. S. 116, 38 S. Ct. 462, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 1017, reversing (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 9, 154 C. C. A. 601.

II. SUBDIVISION SECOND (p. 270)

Deductions—Reserve funds of insurance companies.—Amounts of unpaid losses which fire and marine insurance companies are required by the state insurance commissioner, under the authority of Pa. Act June 1, 1911, P. L. 607, to schedule each year as items of liabilities are not "reserve funds" "required by law" within the meaning of this subdivision. McCoach v. Insurance Co. of North America (1917) 244 U. S. 585, 37 S. Ct. 709, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 1333.

Interest on "bonded or other indebtedness."—In Alzheimer, etc., Ins. Co. v. Allen, (E. D. Mo. 1917) 246 Fed. 270, a corporation doing a brokerage business bought securities for its customers, and carried the same for them. On these purchases the customers paid the corporation only a part of the purchase price, and consequently owed it balances, on which they paid interest to it. The corporation in turn also paid on such purchases only a part of the purchase price, and accordingly owed balances on them on which it paid the interest; but the interest thus received by the corporation from its customers on said purchases exceeded the interest paid by the plaintiff on said purchases. It was held that the interest paid by the corporation on account of the purchases was to be treated as having been made "on its bonded and other indebtedness," and that the entire amount received as interest by the corporation was to be included as gross income.

Expenditures for certain additions and betterments to railroad properties were not to be deducted except to the extent of the cost of such additions and betterments so far as they were mere renewals with like kind and quality, such cost only being chargeable to expenses of maintenance and operation. Grand Rapids, etc., R. Co. v. Doyle, (W. D. Mich. 1915) 245 Fed. 792, where the court said: "Every one knows what is usually meant by the operating expenses of a railroad—the payment for labor and materials which go into the actual operating of the road and the property. 'Maintenance,' as used in this statute, fairly means the upkeep or preserving of the condition of the property to be operated, and does not mean additions to the equipment or property, or improvements of former condition of the railroad."

Moneys received for service connections and pipe extensions by a waterworks corporation are not permitted to be deducted from the gross amount of income. "Moneys so expended are invested in permanent improvements which tend to enhance the rental and the market value of the water system." Nor does it make any difference that the state commission has decided that meters and service connections paid for by consumers are not to be included in the valuation of the water company's plant upon which it is entitled to earn a fair return. Union Holly-wood Water Co. v. Carter (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 238 Fed. 329, 151 C. C. A. 345.

"Taxes imposed under authority of state."—Mississippi Code of 1906, § 4273, is construed by the Supreme Court of the state as imposing a tax not on a bank or its capital, but upon the shareholders, the bank being required to pay for them. Hence amounts paid by a bank under that statute were not for "taxes imposed" within the meaning of those words in the federal Corporation Tax Act. Jackson First Nat. Bank v. McNeel, (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1917) 238 Fed. 559, 151 C. C. A. 495.

Depreciation.—A mining corporation is not entitled to deduct from its gross income any amount whatever on account of depletion or exhaustion of ore bodies caused by its operations for the year for which the tax is assessed, nor is it entitled to a deduction against gross proceeds from the mining and treatment of ores to the extent of the cost value of the ore in the ground before it was mined, ascertained in strict compliance with the rules and regulations of the Treasury Department. Goldfield Consol. Mines Co. v. Scott, (1918) 247 U. S. 126, 38 S. Ct. 465, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 1022.

The market value of ore in place on premises at the beginning of the tax period may not be deducted when ascertaining the net income of a corporation which has leased certain lands for the purpose of exploring for and mining and removing the merchantable iron ore therein, and had agreed to pay monthly a specified sum per ton for all ore mined and shipped the previous month, and to mine and ship a specified quantity of ore each year, and, in default of this, to pay for the minimum amount specified and take credit therefor, and apply such sums upon ore mined and shipped thereafter in excess of such amount. The lessee is in no sense a purchaser of ore in place. U. S. v. Biwabik Min. Co., (1918) 247 U. S. 116, 38 S. Ct. 462, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 1017, reversing (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 9, 154 C. C. A. 601.

Exhaustion of the ore body resulting from the process of mining is not an element to be considered in determining reasonable "depreciation" under this subdivision. Von Baumbach v. Sargent Land Co., (1917) 242 U. S. 503, 37 S. Ct. 201, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 460.

IV. SUBDIVISION FOURTH (p. 273)

"Real facts," and not "bookkeeping facts" determine the net income of a corporation. U. S. v. Guggenheim Ex- ploration Co., (S. D. N. Y. 1917) 238 Fed. 231.

V. SUBDIVISION FIFTH (p. 278).

Action to recover—In general.—"In the collection of the taxes imposed by the statute, the government is not confined to the summary proceedings therein provided, but may resort to a plenary suit." U. S. v. Grand Rapids, etc., R. Co., (W. D. Mich. 1915) 239 Fed. 153.

Limitation.—The three-year clause of this subdivision "is not a limitation upon the right of the government to sue for unpaid taxes but, at most, is a limitation upon the right of the collecting officers to make assessment and to enforce payment by the summary statutory proceedings." U. S. v. Grand Rapids, etc., R. Co., (W. D. Mich. 1915) 239 Fed. 153.

Assessment as condition precedent.—Where a tax of a fixed percentage, as here, is imposed by statute on a subject or object which is so definitely described in the statute that its amount or value, on which the fixed per centum is to be calculated, can be ascertained and determined, on evidence, by a court, a suit for the tax will lie, without an assessment. U. S. v. Grand Rapids, etc., R. Co., (W. D. Mich. 1915) 239 Fed. 153 and numerous cases there cited.

Burden of proof.—In an action by the government to collect an excise tax on the amount received on the sale of stock in another corporation owned by the defendant, which the latter had carried on its books at the valuation of $1, the burden was upon the plaintiff to show by a fair preponderance that the stock was worth but $1. U. S. v. Guggenheim Exploration Co., (S. D. N. Y. 1917) 238 Fed. 231.

Vol. IV, p. 277, sec. 1.

Effect on state legislation.—This Act "has no application and makes no reference to maintaining and operating places for the purpose of carrying on and engaging in the business of dealing in futures on margin," and therefore does not invalidate Georgia Code of 1910, § 4257. Tax on "offers".—The total price at which each seller agrees to sell must be the basis upon which the tax on "offers" is computed, and not merely the amount received by the broker for negotiating the deal. Calkins v. Smietanka, (N. D. Ill. 1917) 240 Fed. 138.

Failure to reduce agreements to writing and attach the stamp cannot relieve them from the tax. Calkins v. Smietanka, (N. D. Ill. 1917) 240 Fed. 138.

An agreement once subject to the tax cannot later be relieved of that burden by any action of the parties. Calkins v. Smietanka, (N. D. Ill. 1917) 240 Fed. 138.

Relief from the penalty provided by this section is not afforded by reason of the provision in section 22 of the same Act which makes default, when accompanied by criminal intent, a misdemeanor. Kohlhamer v. Smietanka, (N. D. Ill. 1917) 239 Fed. 408.

VI. VALIDITY OF STATE STATUTES

5. Furnishing Cars (p. 341)

As opposing of the view taken in the original note see Baird v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., (Ia. 1917) 165 N. W. 412.

7. Regulating Liability (p. 343)

A state statute making a bill of lading, acquired in good faith and for value, conclusive that the carrier issuing the same received the goods therein specified for transportation, has no application and no effect where the liability of the common carriers arises out of the issuance of an interstate bill of lading. Lowitz v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., (1917) 136 Minn. 227, 161 N. W. 411.

VIII. PERSONS, ETC., SUBJECT TO ACT

2. Telegraph Companies (p. 343)

In general.—To the same effect as the original note see Western Union Tel. Co. v. Hawkins, (Ala. 1917) 73 So. 973; Western Union Tel. Co. v. Smith, (Ala. 1917) 75 So. 393; Western Union Tel. Co. v. Showers, (1916) 112 Miss. 411, 73 So. 276; Western Union Tel. Co. v. Bolling, (1917) 120 Va. 413, 91 S. E. 154, Ann. Cas. 1918C 1036.

The case of Dickerson v. Western Union Tel. Co., (1917) 114 Miss. 115, 74 So. 779, holds contrary to the original note that state laws may regulate even interstate message where the regulations are not in conflict with federal regulation.

Message sent to place in same state through another state.—A telegraph company in the transmission of a message from one point in the state to another point in the same state where the usual, customary, and necessary route for the transmission thereof is over the company's line, a part of which is located outside of the state, is engaged in an act of interstate commerce, and the same is subject to and controlled by the federal law applicable thereto. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Kaufman, (Okla. 1917) 162 Pac. 708.

Telephone companies.—The Interstate Commerce Act requires telephone companies to afford all reasonable facilities for the transaction of business for which they are chartered. The same law and procedure are applicable to them which safeguard public and private interests in the operation of any other business engaging in interstate commerce. Stephens v. Ohio State Telephone Co., (N. D. Ohio 1917) 240 Fed. 759.

IX. COMMERCE AS INTERSTATE OR INTRASTATE (p. 348)

Whether commerce is interstate or intrastate must be determined by its essential character and not by mere billing or forms of contract. Goods actually destined for points beyond the state of origin are necessarily in interstate commerce when they are delivered to the carrier and start in the course of transportation to another state. This is true whether the goods are shipped on through bills of lading or on initial bills only to a terminal within the same state, where they are transhipped and thereafter transported on new bills of lading to a destination beyond the state. McFadden v. Alabama Great Southern R. Co., (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1917) 241 Fed. 562, 154 C. C. A. 338.

Although the point of shipment and the point of delivery are within the same state, if during the course of transportation the property passes without the boundaries of the state, such a shipment is interstate commerce. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Rogers, (1917) 116 Miss. 99, 76 So. 686.

The principle, above stated, applies to telegraphic messages between points within the state, which in the course of their transmission pass without the state into any other state. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Bolling, (1917) 120 Va. 413, 91 S. E. 154, Ann. Cas. 1918C 1036.

2. Warehouseman's Service (p. 354)

VI. FURNISHING TRANSPORTATION UPON REASONABLE REQUEST (p. 354)

State statute affecting.—The power of a state to enact that four passenger trains each way, if so many are run daily, Sundays excepted, shall stop at all county-seat stations, was not taken away, though it may lead to an incidental interference with interstate trains, by this section making it the duty of carriers to make reasonable regulations affecting transportation facilities,—so long as there is no conflict between such enactment and the regulations of the Interstate Commerce Commission. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Texas, (1918) 246 U. S. 58, 38 S. Ct. 236, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 574, affirming (Tex. Civ. App. 1914) 169 S. W. 385.

Vol. IV, p. 355, sec. 1[C].

II. "JUST AND REASONABLE" CHARGES

8. Telegraph Messages (p. 358)

Limitation of liability.—To the same effect as the original note see Western Union Tel. Co. v. Hawkins, (Ala. 1917) 73 So. 973; Western Union Tel. Co. v. Petteway, (Ga. App. 1918) 94 S. E. 1032; Meadows v. Postal Tel., etc. Co., (1917) 173 N. C. 240, 91 S. E. 1009; Kirah v. Postal Tel. Co., (1917) 100 Kan. 250, 164 Pac. 287; Western Union Tel. Co. v. Kaufman, (Okla. 1917) 162 Pac. 708.

Whether a provision on the back of a telegraph blank limiting the liability of the company for mistakes and delays in the case of unrepeatd messages is reasonable is a question for the Interstate Commerce Commission and a state court is without jurisdiction in the matter. Haskell Implement, etc., Co. v. Postal Tel. Cable Co., (1915) 114 Me. 277, 96 Atl. 219; Western Union Tel. Co. v. Showers, (1916) 112 Misc. 411, 73 So. 276.

"Exchange of service."—The right to exchange implies the right to fix the rate, method, or amount of exchange. Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Western Union Tel. Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 914, 155 C. C. A. 502, affirming (S. D. N. Y. 1917) 241 Fed. 162.

A carrier or telegraph company may not render "off-line" service to the other at a rate other than that published in the regular schedule and different from the rate charged the general public. Such service is not the "exchange of service" referred to in the statute. Chicago, Great Western R. Co. v. Postal Tel. Cable Co., (N. D. Ill. 1917) 245 Fed. 592.

Vol. IV, p. 359, sec. 1[E].

II. PERSONS EXCEPTED (p. 360)

Caretakers of live stock.—To the same effect as the original note see Tripp v.

Michigan Cent. R. Co., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 238 Fed. 449, 151 C. C. A. 385, L. R. A. 1918A 758.

A person in charge of an interstate shipment of the live stock, traveling on a freight train upon a pass issued pursuant to the terms of the contract of shipment, as permitted by this section, which excepts necessary caretakers of live stock from the prohibition against the issuance of any "interstate free pass," must be regarded as a passenger for hire, to whom the carrier must respond in damages in case of his injury through the carrier's negligence, notwithstanding a stipulation in the contract purporting to release the carrier from all liability for any personal injury which he may sustain. Norfolk Southern R. Co. v. Chatman, (1917) 244 U. S. 276, 37 S. Ct. 499, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 1131, L. R. A. 1917F 1128, affirming (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1915) 222 Fed. 802, 138 C. C. A. 350.

A notice to shippers that return passes to caretakers of live stock will not be allowed is all that can be claimed for a provision in a carrier's published tariff that "free or reduced transportation shall not be issued for shippers or caretakers in charge of live-stock shipments, whether carloads or less, and such shippers or caretakers shall pay full fare returning." Such provision implies that passes will be issued by the carrier to the destination of the shipment. Norfolk Southern R. Co. v. Chatman, (1917) 244 U. S. 276, 37 S. Ct. 499, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 1131, L. R. A. 1917F 1128, affirming (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1915) 222 Fed. 802, 138 C. C. A. 350.

The failure of the published tariffs of a carrier to make a separate rate, payable in money, for the carriage of a caretaker of an interstate shipment of live stock, or to state separately how much of the published rate for which the carrier is to transport the live stock and their caretaker to destination is to be treated as payment for the transportation of the stock and how much for the carriage of the caretaker, does not make the latter's presence on a freight train in charge of the shipment unlawful, so as to defeat his right to recover damages in case of injury through the carrier's negligence, since, by sec. 6, infra, p. 1072, the determining and prescribing of the form in which tariff schedules shall be prepared and arranged is committed to the Interstate Commerce Commission, this obviously being an administrative function with which the courts will not interfere in advance of a prior application to the Commission. Norfolk Southern R. Co. v. Chatman, (1917) 244 U. S. 276, 37 S. Ct. 499, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 1131, L. R. A. 1917F 1128, affirming (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1915) 222 Fed. 802, 138 C. C. A. 350.

IV. INJURIES RECEIVED WHILE RIDING ON FREE PASS (p. 362)

Rule stated.—To the same effect as the original note see Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Cole, (1917) 113 Miss. 896, 74 So. 766.

Vol. IV, p. 371, sec. 2.

III. UNJUST DISCRIMINATION

2. What Constitutes (p. 373)

A lease from an interstate carrier of a wagon factory was held to contain provisions conferring a bonus or benefit on the lessee, or his assignee, as a shipper of freight, which the carrier did not and could not confer on other shippers, and had the effect of making the rates paid on shipments controlled by the tenant less than those named in the lessor's published and filed tariffs. Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Blount, (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1917) 238 Fed. 292, 151 C. C. A. 308.

IV. REBATES (p. 378)

Rebate to lessee.—In New Jersey Cent. R. Co. v. U. S. (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1915) 229 Fed. 501, 143 C. C. A. 569, it was held that the defendant, a lessee of a railroad owned by a coal mining company which which gave the lessor better rates than the tariff schedule called for was guilty of unlawful practices.

Allowance for distribution of cars.—Transportation includes delivery and whatever is essential in order to complete delivery the carrier must do. That is what it is paid for when it collects its regular rates. If it fails to make delivery, and the consignee through its own instrumentalities completes the work, an allowance is due. But no allowance is due for service rendered by the consignee after delivery has been made and transportation is at an end. An allowance in such circumstances would constitute an unlawful rebate. That is true of interstate shipments under the laws of Congress. New York Cent., etc., R. Co. v. General Electric Co., (1916) 219 N. Y. 227, 114 N. E. 115 (reversing (1915) 167 App. Div. 726, 153 N. Y. S. 478), wherein it was held that delivery did not require a railroad to distribute cars along a net work of rails in a gigantic manufacturing plant and if the consignee did this it would not be entitled to an allowance from the published railroad rates.

Vol. IV, p. 379, sec. 3.

III. UNDUE OR UNREASONABLE PREFERENCE OR ADVANTAGE

2. Similarity of Circumstances and Conditions (p. 383)

Preference between localities.—The power of Congress and of the Interstate Commerce Commission to prevent interstate carriers from practicing discrimination against a particular locality is not confined to those whose rails enter it. "Localities require protection as much from combinations of connecting carriers as from single carriers whose rails reach them." St. Louis Southwestern R. Co. v. U. S. (1917) 245 U. S. 136, 38 S. Ct. 49, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 199, affirming (W. D. Ky. 1916) 234 Fed. 668.

5. Rates and Charges (p. 397)

Special understanding as to freight charge.—It is unavailing as a defense to an action for the charges on an interstate freight shipment that the shipper had long been a patron of the railway company and had a special understanding and custom in his dealings with the company whereby the carrier was to be the agent of the consignee as to all shipments delivered by defendant, and that he guaranteed the freight charges, only upon condition that he should be promptly notified by the carrier if any consignee refused to accept a shipment and refused to pay the freight charges thereon. All special arrangements, agreements, customs, and understandings between individual shippers and interstate railroads, not open to all similar shippers on equal terms, nor on file with the Interstate Commerce Commission nor sanctioned by that tribunal, are void, and a defense to an action for interstate freight charges based thereon is subject to demurrer on motion for judgment. Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Stannard, (1917) 99 Kan. 720, 162 Pac. 1176, L. R. A. 1917C 1124.

I. DECISION UNDER AMENDMENT OF 1910

6. Hearing (p. 399)

For evidence held sufficient to support an order of the Commission denying an application for relief from the operation of the long and short haul clause of this section see Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. U. S., (1918) 245 U. S. 463, 38 S. Ct. 141, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 400, affirming (W. D. Ky. 1916) 225 Fed. 571.

Vol. IV, p. 404, sec. 5.

II. DECISIONS UNDER SECOND PARAGRAPH (p. 405)

Finality of Commission's findings.—A court of equity is without jurisdiction to enjoin the enforcement of an order of the Interstate Commerce Commission refusing, on the ground of real or possible competition, to grant an extension of time for compliance with the provisions of the second paragraph of this section which prohibited after July 1, 1914, any ownership by a railroad in any common carrier by water when the railroad might compete for traffic with the water carrier, and empowered the Commission to determine questions of fact as to such competition, and to extend the time if the extension would not exclude or reduce competition on the water route, since the order of the Commission was negative in substance as well as form, and the risk to which the railway company was left subject did not come from the order, but from the statute. Lehigh Valley R. Co. v. U. S., (1917) 243 U. S. 412, 37 S. Ct. 397, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 819, affirming (E. D. Pa. 1916) 234 Fed. 682.

4. Demurrage (p. 410)

An interstate carrier may lawfully adopt a demurrage rule exacting demurrage charges on private cars detained on the carrier's tracks while still in railroad service. Swift v. Hocking Valley R. Co., (1917) 243 U. S. 281, 37 S. Ct. 287, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 722, affirming (1915) 93 Ohio St. 143, 112 N. E. 212, L. R. A. 1917E 916.

VI. EFFECT OF PUBLISHED RATES

1. In General (p. 415)

A published tariff, so long as it is in force, has the effect of a statute and is binding on carrier and shipper. Moore v. Duncan, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1916) 237 Fed. 780, 150 C. C. A. 534.

The freight charges for the transportation of an interstate shipment are fixed by the schedules and joint tariffs then in effect, and filed and posted; and though a common carrier, by mistake or otherwise, delivers goods upon the payment of a lower rate than that stated in the tariffs, it may thereafter demand and recover of the consignee (who has adopted the carrier's contract of affreightment with the shipper) the difference between the amount of freight charges actually paid to the transportation company and the amount due upon the basis of the correct rate for the service rendered via the route selected by the consignee and specified in the bill of lading by the shipper. Upon the refusal of the consignee to pay such undercharge the transportation company may maintain and recover in an action therefor. Central of Georgia R. Co. v. O'Neill Mfg. Co., (1917) 19 Ga. App. 490, 91 S. E. 877.

3. Contracts of Transportation (p. 416)

Generally.—To the same effect as the original note see St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. McNabb, (Okla. 1917) 162 Pac. 811.

Secondary evidence.—The published schedule rates filed and approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission are the best evidence of the tariff in force fixing the legal rates upon a shipment between certain points, and evidence as to statements made by the carrier's agent is inadmissible to establish the correct rate. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. McNabb, (Okla. 1917) 162 Pac. 811.

Limitation of liability.—A shipper of live stock in interstate commerce is bound by stipulations in the bill of lading in conformity with the carrier's official tariffs, classifications, and rules duly published and filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission, limiting liability to an agreed value on which a reduced rate was based, and conditioning any liability upon the giving of written notice to the terminal carrier within five days after the stock was removed from the cars at destination. Erie R. Co. v. Stone, (1917) 244 U. S. 332, 37 S. Ct. 633, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 1173.

A released valuation clause in an interstate bill of lading, based upon a difference in the carrier's tariffs on file with the Interstate Commerce Commission, is valid and controlling, although the loss occurs while the freight is in the carrier's warehouse at an intermediate point, conformably to the provisions of one of such tariffs, which confers the right in transit of free storage and diversion at that point, the bill of lading reciting that the shipment is to be held at that point for orders, and providing that every service to be performed thereunder is subject to all the conditions therein contained. Western Transit Co. v. Leslie, (1917) 242 U. S. 448, 37 S. Ct. 133, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 423, reversing (1914) 165 App. Div. 947, 150 N. Y. S. 1073.

Vol. IV, p. 421, sec. 6[G].

II. Through rates.

III. Greater or less or different compensation.

2. Money compensation.

IV. Privileges and facilities.

II. THROUGH RATES (p. 422)

The aggregate of two rates, one intrastate for a part of a given transportation and the other interstate for the rest of it, is not the legal rate for interstate shipments, when there is at the same time a duly established through rate for the same transportation. McFadden v. Alabama Great Southern R. Co., (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1917) 241 Fed. 562, 154 C. C. A. 338, affirming (E. D. Pa. 1916) 232 Fed. 1000.

III. GREATER OR LESS OR DIFFERENT COMPENSATION

2. Money Compensation (p. 422)

A plea of recoupment for injuries to goods in transit can not, it has been held, be set up by a shipper when sued by a common carrier for freight charges on such goods for freight can only be paid in cash and a set-off would open the door to fraud and discrimination. Johnson-Brown Co. v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., (S. D. Ga. 1917) 239 Fed. 590, following Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. William S. Stein Co., (D. C. Neb. 1915) 233 Fed. 716; Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Hooper, (S. D. Ia. 1916) 233 Fed. 135. But in Fargo v. Cuneo, (S. D. N. Y. 1917) 241 Fed. 727, a different view was taken.

IV. PRIVILEGES AND FACILITIES (p. 424)

In general.—This section requires the tariffs filed by carriers with the Interstate Commerce Commission to show all privileges and facilities granted or allowed, and all shippers and carriers are charged with notice of the existence thereof. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Bondies, (Okla. 1917) 166 Pac. 179.

Charges for wharfage and handling of goods cannot be collected when such charges are not specified in the tariff schedule. Southern Cotton Oil Co. v. Central of Georgia R. Co., (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1915) 228 Fed. 335, 142 C. C. A. 627 (affirming (E. D. Ga. 1913) 204 Fed. 476), wherein the court said: "It appears from the statement of facts that the only schedule ever filed by the defendant which specified this charge for wharfage and handling was one which, in a proceeding instituted by the defendant before the Interstate Commerce Commission and before this suit was brought, was directed by that body to be canceled. The effect of that decision, which, so far as appears, has not been directly attacked, was to eliminate such allowances from the filed tariff. American Sugar Refinery Co. v. Delaware, L. & W. Ry. Co., (D. C.) 200 Fed. 652."

Storage charges.—Where a railroad files a tariff providing for storage charges in case goods are not unloaded within the free time therein specified the railroad has no option but to collect them and it has a lien on the goods. And in case the railroad has transported to the seaboard goods to be delivered by it to a steamship company to be carried to a foreign port and those goods as against the shipper are subject to storage charges for which the railroad has a lien, the steamship company by accepting the goods impliedly agrees to be responsible for those charges. Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Oceanic Steam Nav. Co., (1917) 226 Mass. 509, 116 N. E. 260.

Amount of recovery.—All the damages that properly can be attributed to a carrier's overcharge, whether it be the keeping of the shipper out of its money, or the damage to its business following as a remoter result of the same cause, must be deemed to have been included in an award by the Interstate Commerce Commission of a sum of money to a shipper as reparation for unreasonable rates, pursuant to the provisions of sections 8, 9, 13, which contemplates the recovery of all damages sustained through violations of the Act, either before the Commission or in the courts, requiring, however, an election between the two methods of procedure; and a satisfaction of the Commission's award precludes any recovery in a subsequent action in a state court for any damages arising out of such overcharge. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Ohio Valley Tie Co., (1916) 242 U. S. 288, 37 S. Ct. 120, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 305, reversing (1914) 161 Ky. 212, 170 S. W. 633.

In an action by a shipper to recover of a common carrier damages awarded by the Interstate Commerce Commission on account of unjust and unreasonable rates charged and collected for goods transported by the carrier for the shipper it is not a defense that the freight paid was passed along to the ultimate purchaser, and the difference between the reasonable and the unreasonable charge is the proper measure of damages. New York, etc., R. Co. v. Ballou, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 862, 155 C. C. A. 450. Compare as to whether the measure of damages should be the difference between the reasonable and unreasonable charge, Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Spiller, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 1, 158 C. C. A. 227.

I. IN GENERAL (p. 433)

A plaintiff, who brings his action at law for a cause of action arising under the provisions of the Interstate Commerce Law, must (as every plaintiff must, make out his case. If he has been damaged by a car distribution made in accordance with a system or rule of distribution adopted by a railroad carrier and filed with the Commission in accordance with the requirements of the statutes, he has not suffered a legal injury, unless the distribution be one of the character condemned by law. This he must prove, and he can prove it only by a finding of the Commission. In consequence he is driven to go first to the Commission for all the administrative findings. The reason for this lies on the surface of things. When, however, these have been found, either on complaint of our supposititious plaintiff or of some one before him, then he may bring his action at law and can recover. He can recover, because he can make out his case first by proving (through the finding of the Commission) that the system of car distribution enforced by the carrier defendant was unjust and discriminatory; and, secondly, that he has been damaged thereby, and to what amount. He is only compelled to go to the Commission when his case depends upon the administrative finding that the rule of car distribution of which he complains is an improper one. If the carrier has adopted and filed a fair and proper rule, or one has been found by the Commission, and the cause of action arises out of an unjust and discriminatory departure from it, causing damage, this fact may be established in an action at law, and no preliminary recourse to the Commission is necessary. Hillsdale Coal, etc., Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., (E. D. Pa. 1916) 237 Fed. 272.

II. EXCLUSIVENESS OF REMEDIES (p. 433)

Rule stated.—The common-law right of a shipper to have his goods carried at a reasonable rate of compensation is recognized in the provision of section 1, that all charges made by common carriers for services rendered in interstate transportation shall be just and reasonable. A shipper, unless inhibited by statute, may always invoke the aid of the courts to protect himself against an unreasonable exaction of charges. Thus he is entitled at common law to his action in damages for the exaction of an unreasonable rate. This common-law remedy is, however, so abrogated by the Interstate Commerce Act that a shipper cannot now, consistently with its provisions, maintain his common-law action for excessive rates exacted on interstate shipments, where such rates have been duly published by the carrier and not found by the company to be unreasonable; and in such case a shipper must primarily invoke redress through the commission, which body alone is vested with power originally to entertain proceedings for the alteration of an established schedule, because the rates fixed therein are unreasonable. McLean Lumber Co. v. U. S., (E. D. Tenn. 1916) 237 Fed. 460.

III. JURISDICTION OF COURTS

1. Federal (p. 433)

Generally.—Federal District Courts have jurisdiction to construe tariffs and determine what rates are applicable under them to given shipments. National Elevator Co. v. Chicago, etc. R. Co., (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 588, 158 C. C. A. 558.

An action by one carrier against another carrier is maintainable where the defendant demanded of the plaintiff and received more than his share of freight charges for goods transported over both roads. Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. Washington, etc., R. Co., (S. D. Ala. 1917) 242 Fed. 531.

Jurisdiction in equity.—The interest of a shipper in the rate which he is required to pay for the transportation of his property in the necessary conduct of his business is such a direct pecuniary interest and property right as to give him the necessary standing in a court of equity for its protection. McLean Lumber Co. v. U. S., (E. D. Tenn. 1916) 237 Fed. 460.

IV. PRELIMINARY INVESTIGATION BY COMMISSION (p. 436)

In general.—Jurisdiction of a suit by a shipper to recover amounts paid for shipments over an interstate route between two points, both within the state, in excess of what would have been payable under the state law if the shipments had been made over an intrastate route, may not be assumed in advance of a determination by the Interstate Commerce Commission of the administrative question as to the reasonableness of the carrier's practice, because of the grades of the two lines, in routing west-bound shipments over the longer interstate route, and east-bound shipments over the shorter intrastate route. Northern Pac. Co. v. Solum, (1918) 247 U. S. 477, 38 S. Ct. 550, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 1221.

Railroad restaurant.—The question of whether a railroad company can lawfully run a restaurant in connection with the operation of its road is an administrative one, and must be referred to the Interstate Commerce Commission for its consideration and determination as a condition precedent to a suit by the owner of a restaurant against a railroad company for running a restaurant in competition with his. Montgomery v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1915) 228 Fed. 616, 143 C. C. A. 138.

V. PARTIES (p. 438)

Partnership.—The right of action given by the Interstate Commerce Laws to a partnership to recover damages suffered by it through the discriminatory acts and unfair practices of a railroad carrier is not lost in whole or part by the death of one of the partners. The common-law rule that personal actions die with the person has no application. The jury, in assessing damages, may consider as an element the lapse of time between the incurring of the damage and the rendering of the verdict, and allow for this in the assessment. Such element of damage, however, could not exceed the equivalent in amount of lawful interest. Minds v. Pennsylvania R. Co., (E. D. Pa. 1916) 237 Fed. 267.

VI. LIMITATION OF ACTIONS (p. 438)

Undercharge.—In action by a carrier against a shipper, brought in a federal court, for the amount of an interstate freight undercharge, a state statute of limitations can operate to bar a recovery. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Ziebarth, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1917) 245 Fed. 334, 157 C. C. A. 526.

Vol. IV, p. 439, sec. 10 [A]

State statute.—This paragraph relates specifically to and provides for only such conduct as is the result of deliberation and intention, and do not relate to mere neglect in individual cases provided against by a state statute providing a penalty for the failure of a telegraph company to deliver a telegram "with impartiality and in good faith, and in the order of time in which they are received." Western Union Tel. Co. v. Boegli, (Ind. 1917) 115 N. E. 773.

Vol. IV, p. 448, sec. 12.

II. POWERS AND DUTIES OF COMMISSION (p. 451)

Furnishing cars to shippers.—The Interstate Commerce Commission has given no power to order a carrier to provide and furnish to shippers tank cars for interstate shipments of petroleum products by the amendment of the Act of June 29, 1906, to the Act of Feb. 4, 1887, § 1, defining the term "transportation" as including "cars and other vehicles and all instrumentalities and facilities of shipment or carriage, irrespective of ownership or of any contract, express or implied, for the use thereof and all services in connection with the receipt, delivery, elevation, and transfer in transit, ventilation, refrigeration or icing, storage and handling of property transported," and making it the duty of every carrier subject to the provisions of the Act "to provide and furnish such transportation upon reasonable request therefor," although by section 12, as amended by the Act of March 2, 1889, the Commission was authorized and required to execute and enforce the provisions of the Act, and by section 13, as amended by the Act of June 18, 1910, was given power to enter orders not only regarding rates, but regarding classifications, regulations, or practices, whether affecting rates or not. If any duty to furnish such cars exists, it is enforceable in the courts, not by the Commission. U. S. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., (1916) 242 U. S. 208, 37 S. Ct. 95, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 251, affirming (W. D. Pa. 1915) 227 Fed. 911.

Mandamus.—Error on the part of the Interstate Commerce Commission in declaring that a cause is not within its jurisdiction may be corrected by the courts on petition for mandamus, where such erroneous decision cannot be reviewed on appeal or writ of error. Louisville Cement Co. v. Interstate Commerce Commission, (1918) 246 U. S. 638, 38 S. Ct. 408, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 914, reversing (1914) 42 App. Cas. (D. C.) 514.

IV. ATTENDANCE AND TESTIMONY OF WITNESSES (p. 452)

Scope of examination.—The Interstate Commerce Commission has power to require the president of an interstate railway company to answer questions as to supposed political activities and efforts to suppress competition on the part of such company when they are incidental to the questions whether the amount subscribed or expended for such purpose was charged to operating or legal expenses, under this section authorizing the Commission to inquire into the management of the business of carriers and keep itself informed as to the "manner and method" in which the same is conducted, and giving it the right to obtain from the carriers, full and complete information, and section 20, empowering it to require detailed accounts of all expenditures and revenues of carriers, and a complete exhibit of their financial operations, and to prescribe the forms of accounts, records, and memoranda to be kept. Smith v. Interstate Commerce Commission, (1917) 245 U. S. 33, 47, 38 S. Ct. 30, 34, 62 U. S. (L. ed.)

135, 141; Jones v. Interstate Commerce Commission, (1917) 245 U. S. 48, 38 S. Ct. 34, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 142.

Vol. IV, p. 457, sec. 14.

Report—Findings of fact.—Formal and precise findings by the Interstate Commerce Commission are unnecessary in orders affecting railway rates, except where damages or reparation are awarded. Manufacturers R. Co. v. U. S., 246 U. S. 457, 38 S. Ct. 383, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 831.

II. REGULATION OF RATES

1. Power of Commission (p. 460)

Intrastate rates.—To the same effect as the original note see State v. American Express Co., (1917) 38 S. D. 227, 161 N. W. 132.

Congress could and did invest the interstate Commerce Commission with authority to remove an existing discrimination against interstate commerce by directing a change of an intrastate rate prescribed by state authority. American Express Co. v. South Dakota, (1917) 244 U. S. 617, 37 S. Ct. 656, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 1352, modifying decree in (1917) 38 S. D. 227, 161 N. W. 132.

"1. Under the commerce clause of the Constitution Congress has ample power to prevent the common instrumentalities of interstate and intrastate commerce, such as the railroads, from being used in their intrastate operations in such manner as to affect injuriously traffic which is interstate.

"2. Where unjust discrimination against interstate commerce arises out of the relation of intrastate to interstate rates this power may be exerted to remove the discrimination, and this whether the intrastate rates are maintained under a local statute or by the voluntary act of the carrier.

"3. In correcting such discrimination Congress is not restricted to an adjustment or reduction of the interstate rates, but may prescribe a reasonable standard to which they shall conform and require the carrier to adjust the intrastate rates in such way as to remove the discrimination; for where the interstate and intrastate transactions of carriers are so related that the effective regulation of one involves control of the other, it is Congress, and not the State, that is entitled to prescribe the dominant rule.

"4. It is admissible for Congress to provide for the execution of this power through a subordinate body such as the Interstate Commerce Commission, and this it has done by the Act to Regulate Commerce.

"5. Where in the exercise of its delegated authority the Commission not only finds that a disparity in the two classes of rates is resulting in unjust discrimination against interstate commerce but also determines what are reasonable rates for the interstate traffic, and then directs the removal of the discrimination, the carrier not only is entitled to put in force the interstate rates found reasonable but is free to remove the forbidden discrimination by bringing the intrastate rates to the same level." Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. State Public Utilities Commission, (1918) 245 U. S. 493, 38 S. Ct. 170; 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 425, following Houston, etc., R. Co. v. U. S., (1914) 234 U. S. 342, 34 S. Ct. 833, 58 U. S. (L. ed.) 1341; American Express Co. v. South Dakota, (1917) 244 U. S. 617, 37 S. Ct. 656, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 1352.

Where a proceeding to remove unjust discrimination presents solely the question whether the carrier has improperly exercised its authority to initiate rates, the Commission may legally order, in general terms, the removal of the discrimination shown, leaving upon the carrier the burden of determining also the points to and from which rates must be changed, in order to effect a removal of the discrimination. But where there is a conflict between the federal and the state authorities, the Commission's order cannot serve as a justification for disregarding a regulation or order issued under state authority, unless, and except so far as, it is definite as to the territory or points to which it applies. For the power of the Commission is dominant only to the extent that the exercise is found by it to be necessary to remove the existing discrimination against interstate traffic. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. State Public Utilities Commission, (1918) 245 U. S. 493, 38 S. Ct. 170, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 425 (following American Express Co. v. South Dakota, (1917) 244 U. S. 617, 37 S. Ct. 656, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 1352), wherein the court said: "In construing federal statutes enacted under the power conferred by the commerce clause of the Constitution the rule is that it should never be held that Congress intends to supersede or suspend the exercise of the reserved powers of a State, even where that may be done, unless and except so far as, its purpose to do so is clearly manifested. This being true of an act of Congress, it is obvious that an order of a subordinate agency, such as the Commission, should not be given precedence over a state rate statute otherwise valid, unless, and except so far as, it conforms to a high standard of certainty."

2. Power of Courts (p. 462)

Federal.—A federal District Court having only the same jurisdiction under the Act of Oct. 22, 1913, of suits upon orders of the Interstate Commerce Commission that formerly was vested in the Commerce Court by the Act of June 18, 1910, may not exercise administrative authority where the Commission has failed or refused to exercise it, nor annul orders of the Commission not amounting to an affirmative exercise of its powers. Manufacturers R. Co. v. U. S., (1918) 246 U. S. 457, 38 S. Ct. 383, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 831.

State.—To the same effect as the original note, see Reliance Elevator Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., (1917) 139 Minn. 69, 165 N. W. 867.

3. Hearing (p. 463)

By section 12 of the Commerce Court Act (Act June 18, 1910, ch. 309, 36 Stat. 539, 552), section 15 of the Interstate Commerce Act was amended so as to provide that, whenever there should be filed with the commission any new schedule of rates, the commission should be authorized, either upon complaint or upon its own initiative, to enter upon a hearing concerning the propriety of such rate, and to make such order in reference thereto as would be proper in a proceeding initiated after the rate had become effective. It is clear that this provision was intended to so broaden the right of shippers therein declared as not to limit their remedy against any unreasonable rate to claims for reparation after the rate had gone into effect, but to permit shippers who would in the conduct of their business be directly affected by a proposed new rate to appear as complainants before the commission for the purpose of obtaining an order preventing such rate from being put into effect. McLean Lumber Co. v. U. S. (E. D. Tenn. 1916) 237 Fed. 460.

5. Review (p. 465)

Order attacked on constitutional grounds.—Where the Commission, after full hearing, has set aside a given rate on the ground that it is unreasonably high, it should require a clear case to justify a court, upon evidence newly adduced but not in a proper sense newly discovered, in annulling the action of the Commission upon the ground that the same rate is so unreasonably low as to deprive the carrier of its constitutional right of compensation. Manufacturers R. Co. v. U. S., (1918) 246 U. S. 457, 38 S. Ct. 383, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 831.

A party is not necessarily debarred from attacking on constitutional grounds an order of the Interstate Commerce Commission reducing railway rates, even though they were not taken at the hearing before that body, but correct practice,—especially since the amendment of the Act of June 29, 1906 to the Act of Feb. 4, 1887, sections 14–16, by which the necessity of formal findings of fact, except in cases where damages or reparation are awarded, is dispensed with, and a greater effect than before is given to the orders of the Commission other than those requiring the payment of money,—requires that, so far as practicable, all the pertinent evidence shall be submitted in the first instance to the Commission, and that a suit to set aside or annul its order shall be resorted to only where the commission acts in disregard of the rights of the parties. Manufacturers R. Co. v. U. S., (1918) 246 U. S. 457, 38 S. Ct. 383, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 831.

Undue preference, etc.—Whether a preference or advantage or discrimination is undue, unreasonable, or unjust within the meaning of section 3, is one of those questions of fact that have been confided by Congress under sections 15 and 16, to the judgment and discretion of the Interstate Commerce Commission, and upon which the Commission's decisions, made the basis of administrative orders operating in futuro, are not to be disturbed by the courts, except upon a showing that they are unsupported by evidence, were made without a hearing, exceed constitutional limits, or for some other reason, amount to an abuse of power. Manufacturers R. Co. v. U. S., (1918) 246 U. S. 457, 38 S. Ct. 383, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 831.

Collateral attack.—A valid order fixing rates cannot be attacked collaterally. Eastern Texas R. Co. v. Texas R. Commission, (W. D. Tex. 1917) 242 Fed. 300.

Vol. IV, p. 468, sec. 15 [B].

Suspension of new rate.—Under the paragraph giving the Interstate Commerce Commission the power to suspend new rates pending a determination of their reasonableness, if it refuses to do so a District Court will not enjoin the collection of the rates pending such determination by the Commission. M. C. Kaiser Co. v. Central of Georgia R. Co., (S. D. Ga. 1916) 236 Fed. 573.

Burden of proof.—The last sentence of section 15, by the fair import of its terms, imposes upon the carrier the burden of proving the new rate to be just and reasonable, only where that question is involved in the hearing; it does not call for proof as to matters not in controversy. Manufacturers R. Co. v. U. S., (1918) 246 U. S. 457, 38 S. Ct. 383, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 831.

Vol. IV, p. 469, sec. 15 [C].

Constitutionality.—In St. Louis Southwestern R. Co. v. U. S., (1917) 245 U. S.

136, 38 U. S. (L. ed.) 49, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 199, affirming (W. D. Ky. 1916) 234 Fed. 668, the court said: "That Congress has power to authorize the Commission to enter an order for through routes and joint rates, like that here complained of, has been heretofore assumed. No reason is shown for questioning its existence now."

Order fixing maximum for joint rates.—The Interstate Commerce Commission, when fixing by its order a maximum for joint rates, may, in its discretion, permit the carriers to make their own agreement, subject to review by the commission, as to establishing joint rates within the maximum, and as to agreeing between themselves respecting divisions. Manufacturers R. Co. v. U. S., (1918) 246 U. S. 457, 38 S. Ct. 383, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 831.

Vol. IV, p. 472, sec. 15 [F]

Disclosing information of shipments.—

A state statute provided as follows: "All express companies, railroad companies, or other transportation companies doing business in this state are required hereby to keep a separate book in which shall be entered immediately upon receipt thereof the name of the person to whom the liquor is shipped, the amount and kind received, and the date when received, the rate when delivered, by whom delivered, and to whom delivered, after which record shall be a blank space, in which the consignee shall be required to sign his name, or if he cannot write, shall make his mark in the presence of a witness, before such liquor is delivered to such consignee, and which said book shall be open for inspection to any officer or citizen of the state, county, or municipality any time during business hours of the company, and said book shall constitute prima facie evidence of the facts therein and will be admissible in any of the courts of this state. Any express company, railroad company, or other transportation company or any employee or agent of any express company, railway company, or other transportation company violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor." It was held that the state statute did not infringe the federal statute forbidding disclosure as to interstate shipments without the consent of the shipper which might be used to the shipper's disadvantage. Seaboard Air Line Ry. v. North Carolina, (1917) 245 U. S. 298, 38 S. Ct. 96, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 299, (affirming (1915) 169 N. C. 295, 84 S. E. 283), wherein the court said: "The provisions of § 15, Act to Regulate Commerce, here relied on were intended to apply to matters within the exclusive control of the Federal Government; and when by a subsequent act Congress rendered interstate shipments of intoxicating liquors subject to state legislation, those provisions necessarily ceased to be paramount in respect of them."

Vol. IV, p. 473, sec. 15 [H].

Payment of commission to shipper or forwarder.—A corporation engaged in forwarding or bringing goods for importers from the place of purchase in Europe to their destination in the United States, charging the importers for the transportation and such other services as it might perform, may not be allowed by a railway company a percentage upon the latter's published rates, and a salary as an inducement to ship by its line, without violating the prohibition of the Act of Feb. 4, 1887, section 6, as amended by the Act of June 29, 1906, section 2 (see supra, p. 1072); and such allowance cannot be justified under section 15 as being an allowance for a transportation service furnished by a shipper. Lehigh Valley R. Co. v. U. S., (1917) 243 U. S. 444, 37 S. Ct. 434, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 839, affirming (S. D. N. Y. 1915) 222 Fed. 685.

II. ENFORCEMENT OF ORDERS

2. Orders Enforceable (p. 478)

Reparation order.—In Southern Pac. R. Co. v. Darnell-Taenzler Co. (1918) 245 U. S. 531, 38 S. Ct. 186, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 451, the issues and decision reached as stated by the court were as follows: "This is a suit brought by the defendants in error to recover reparation from the railroads for charging a rate on hardwood lumber, alleged to be excessive. The Interstate Commerce Commission had found the rate to be excessive and had made an order for reduction from 85 to 75 cents, which was obeyed, and also one for reparation to the extent of the excess, which was not obeyed. 13 I. C. C. 668. A demurrer to the declaration was sustained by the Circuit Court on the ground that it was not alleged that the plaintiffs had paid the excessive rates or that they were damaged thereby. 190 Fed. Rep. 659. The declaration was amended, but at the trial the judge directed a verdict for the defendant, presumably on the ground argued here, that it did not appear that the plaintiffs were damaged. The judgment was reversed by the Circuit Court of Appeals. 221 Fed. Rep. 890, 137 C. C. A. 460. At a new trial the jury were instructed that if they found the rate charged unreasonable and that prescribed by the Interstate Commerce Commission reasonable, they should find for the plaintiffs in accordance with the Commission's award. The jury found for the plaintiffs and this judgment was affirmed by the Circuit Court of Appeals. 229 Fed. Rep. 1022, 143 C. C. A. 663. The only question before us is that at which we have hinted; whether the fact that the plaintiffs were able to pass on the damage that they sustained in the first instance by paying the unreasonable charge, and to collect that amount from the purchasers, prevents their recovering the overpayment from the carriers. The answer is not difficult. The general tendency of the law, in regard to damages at least, is not to go beyond the first step. As it does not attribute remote consequences to a defendant so it holds him liable if proximately the plaintiff has suffered a loss. The plaintiffs suffered losses to the amount of the verdict when they paid. Their claim accrued at once in the theory of the law and it does not inquire into later events. . . . An objection is taken to the jurisdiction of this court upon writ of error. An application is made for a certiorari in case the objection is held good, and as we should grant the latter writ in that event the question has no importance here except as a precedent. We are inclined to take the course followed sub silentio in Mills v. Lehigh Valley R. R. Co., and to treat cases brought under § 16 of the Act to Regulate Commerce which authorized the joinder of all plaintiffs and all defendants as standing on a peculiar ground."

III. NATURE OF ACTION TO ENFORCE ORDER (p. 479)

An action on a reparation order should proceed in all respects like other civil actions for damages, except that on the trial the findings and order of the Interstate Commerce Commission are prima facie evidence of the facts therein stated. Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Spiller, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 1, 158 C. C. A. 227.

IV. STATUTES OF LIMITATION (p. 479)

Jurisdictional requirement.—The requirement that all complaints for the recovery of damages shall be filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission "within two years from the time the cause of action accrues, and not after," is not a mere statute of limitations, but is jurisdictional, and prevents consideration by the commission of such a complaint when not filed in time. U. S. v. Interstate Commerce Commission, (1918) 246 U. S. 638, 38 S. Ct. 408, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 914, reversing (1914) 42 App. Cas. (D. C.) 514.

"Accrues."—The day when overcharges by a carrier are actually paid, not the day when the shipment was delivered, is the time when the shipper's cause of action to recover back the overcharges "accrues," within the meaning of the requirement that all complaints for the recovery of damages shall be filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission within two years from the time the cause of action accrues. U. S. v. Interstate Commerce Commission, (1918) 246 U. S. 638, 38 S. Ct. 408, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 914, reversing (1914) 42 App. Cas. (D. C.) 514.

Claim of reparation.—A complaint based on a claim of reparation filed within two years is sufficient to meet the requirements of filing although no specific statements of the shipments on which reparation was claimed was filed with the commission until after the lapse of two years. Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. C. E. Ferguson Sawmill Co., (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 235 Fed. 474, 149 C. C. A. 20.

Attorneys' fees.—To the same effect as the original note, see Morgan's Louisiana, etc., Co. v. Isaac Joseph Iron Co., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 243 Fed. 149, 156 C. C. A. 15.

XI. APPEALS AND SUPERSEDEAS (p. 486)

New trial.—In Clark Bros. Coal Min. Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., (E. D. Pa. 1916) 238 Fed. 642, a new trial was granted on the ground that the award of damages by the Interstate Commerce Commission which was in evidence before the jury was made by the Commission on an erroneous basis.

Review of fact.—Findings of the Commission if not without support in the evidence will be accepted by a Circuit Court of Appeals. Morgan's Louisiana, etc., Co. v. Isaac Joseph Iron Co., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 243 Fed. 149, 156 C. C. A. 15.

Vol. IV, p. 488, sec. 16 [L].

Certified copies of schedules in evidence.—Insufficiency of defective certification of a carrier's applicable tariff schedules on file with the Interstate Commerce Commission, which were admitted in evidence by the trial court, could not justify a state appellate court in arbitrarily disregarding such schedules when passing upon the question whether or not the carrier had limited its liability for the baggage of an interstate passenger to a specified sum unless a greater value was declared and excess charges paid. New York Central, etc., R. Co. v. Beaham, (1916) 242 U. S. 148, 37 S. Ct. 43, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 210.

V. EFFECT ON STATE LAWS (p. 511)

VI. SHIPMENTS AFFECTED (p. 513)

Destination in same state through foreign state.—"Where a bill of lading shows the routing to be outside of the state, though the points of origin and destination both be within the same state, under the decisions of the United States Supreme Court it is an interstate shipment. 'The transportation of these goods certainly went outside of Arkansas, and we are of opinion that in its aspect of commerce it was not confined within the state.' Hanley v. Railroad Co., 187 U. S. 617, 23 Sup. Ct. 214, 47 U. S. (L. ed.) 333. In this same opinion Mr. Justice Holmes quotes with approval from the case of Steamship Co. v. Railroad Co., (C. C.) 9 Sawy. 253, 18 Fed. 10, as follows: 'To bring the transportation within the control of the state, as part of its domestic commerce, the subject transported must be within the entire voyage under the exclusive jurisdiction of the state.' These cases are decisive of the question that this shipment was an interstate shipment. It is argued by counsel for appellee that the shipment could have moved wholly within the state of Mississippi, between the point of origin and the point of destination. While this may be true, at the same time the contract of affreightment routed the shipment via Memphis, Tenn. It was not left optional with the initial carrier to route the shipment. The Carmack Amendment was intended to and governs all interstate shipments." Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Rogers, (1917) 116 Miss. 431, 76 So. 686.

VII. RECEIPT OR BILL OF LADING (p. 514)

In general.—To the same effect as the original annotation, second paragraph, see Davis v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., (1916) 172 N. C. 209, 90 S. E. 123.

The Carmack amendment requires the carrier to issue a bill of lading, the terms of which are fixed by the Interstate Commerce Commission, whereby such contracts are made uniform throughout the United States. The carrier has no authority to enter into any other contract. Bryan v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., (1917) 174 N. C. 177, 93 S. E. 750.

While the statute expressly requires a common carrier to issue a receipt or bill of lading for goods accepted for transportation from one state into another, it is not necessary to the right of the shipper to recover for loss or damage to the shipment that it does so. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Jordan, (Ind. App. 1916) 114 N. E. 461; Dionne v. American Express Co., (Vt. 1917) 101 Atl. 209.

Power of connecting carriers to ingraft conditions on shipper's contract with initial carriers.—The terms of the original bill of lading for an interstate shipment which governs the entire transportation, could not be altered by a second bill of lading issued by a connecting carrier, since the latter was already bound to transport the shipment at the rate and upon the terms named in the original bill of lading, and the acceptance by the shipper of the second bill was therefore without consideration and was void. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Ward, (1917) 244 U. S. 383, 37 S. Ct. 617, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 1213, affirming (Tex. Civ. App. 1914) 169 S. W. 1035.

VIII. WHO IS INITIAL CARRIER (p. 516)

Illustration.—Plaintiff shipped a carload of freight from Mankato to Duluth over the Omaha railway which delivered it to plaintiff at the latter place. Plaintiff then delivered it to defendant for transportation from Duluth to Hartford, Conn., and defendant issued a through bill of lading therefor. It was damaged after defendant had delivered it to a connecting carrier. The Omaha Company did not undertake to cause the shipment to be carried beyond Duluth and did not know that it was to be carried beyond that point. It was held that the defendant was the initial carrier within the purview of the Carmack amendment. Victor Produce Co. v. Western Transit Co., (1916) 135 Minn. 121, 160 N. W. 248.

For facts showing railroad company to be an initial carrier see Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Montgomery, (1916) 19 Ga. App. 29, 90 S. E. 740.

IX. LIABILITY OF INITIAL CARRIER

1. In General (p. 517)

To the same effect as the original note see Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Collins Produce Co., (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1916) 235 Fed. 857, 149 C. C. A. 169; Van Epps v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., (1916) 105 S. C. 406, 89 S. E. 1035.

The initial carrier is required to issue a receipt or bill of lading, with the effect of making such contract the measure of liability between the parties. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Texas Packing Co., (1917) 244 U. S. 31, 37 S. Ct. 487, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 970.

Notice of failure of consignee to accept delivery.—Where goods cannot be delivered by a terminal carrier in accordance with the contract of transportation, the duty devolves on such carrier to notify the owner of the goods, whether he be consignor or consignee and if the duty is not performed the initial carrier is liable for damages resulting from the nonperformance of the duty. Stoddard Lumber Co. v. Oregon-Washington R., etc., Co., (1917) 84 Ore. 399, 165 Pac. 363.

3. Period of Liability (p. 519)

To the same effect as the original note see Henderson v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., (Ala. 1917) 76 So. 309.

Under the Carmack amendment the initial carrier is not liable for the negligence of the delivering carrier after its relationship as carrier has ceased, and its duty to the plaintiff and to the goods becomes that of warehouseman only. Or, in other words, if the transit is at an end, if the delivering carrier has ceased to have possession of the goods as carrier, and holds them in another capacity, as warehouseman, then the delivering carrier is responsible only for the care and diligence which the law attached to that relation, and the loss occurring while held in that relation does not reach back and involve the initial carrier or any connecting carrier. Adams Seed Co. v. Chicago Great Western R. Co., (Ia. 1917) 165 N. W. 367, L. R. A. 1918B 622.

4. Nature of Liability (p. 519)

While the carrier is made liable to the shipper for loss, damage or injury caused by it, and no contract may relieve it, the amendment does not attempt to change the common-law rule as to the effect of an act of God in excusing the carrier where loss results proximately therefrom. Where proof is given that goods are damaged in the hands of the carrier, the burden is upon him to show that the damage arose from some cause for which he was not liable. But where the carrier shows that the loss was occasioned by the act of God he has done all that is required. If the shipper then claims that the carrier's negligence also directly contributed to the negligence he must show that fact. Barnet v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., (1918) 222 N. Y. 195, 118 N. E. 625, reversing (1915) 167 App. Div. 738, 153 N. Y. S. 374.

X. LIABILITY OF CONNECTING CARRIER (p. 522)

Nature of liability.—To the same effect as the second original note see Yesbik v. Central of Georgia R. Co., (1917) 19 Ga. App. 252, 91 S. E. 274; Southern R. Co. v. Waxelbaum Produce Co., (1916) 19 Ga. App. 64, 90 S. E. 987; Genarl of Georgia R. Co. v. Yesbik, (1917) 146 Ga. 769, 92 S. E. 527; Nashville, etc., Ry. v. Abramson-Boone Produce Co., (Ala. 1917) 74 So. 350; Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Rogers, (1917) 116 Miss. 99, 76 So. 686; Pennington v. Grand Trunk Western R. Co., (1917) 277 Ill. 39, 115 N. E. 170; Erisman v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., (Ia. 1917) 163 N. W. 627.

What is known as the "Carmack Amendment" imposes liability for goods damaged or destroyed upon the initial carrier no matter where the loss occurs. Other carriers en route are not primarily liable unless the damage occurs on their line. Cedar Rapids Fuel Co. v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., (1916) 178 Ia. 878, 160 N. W. 353.

A common-law action against a connecting carrier for loss or damage to freight, where it is expressly alleged that the injury or damage complained of was caused by the negligence of the defendant carrier, is not prohibited by the Carmack amendment. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Quincey, (1917) 19 Ga. App. 167, 91 S. E. 220.

The Carmack amendment makes a carrier who receives property for interstate transportation liable for loss or injury to such property beyond its own lines, but it does not make a carrier liable for the acts of preceding carriers which may have resulted in loss of, or injury to, such property. Knapp v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., (1916) 34 N. D. 466, 159 N. W. 81.

XII. LIMITATION OF LIABILITY

1. In General (p. 524)

Cummins amendment.—By the Cummins amendment of March 4, 1915, a common carrier of an interstate shipment was made liable to the shipper for the full actual loss, damage, or injury to the property, notwithstanding any limitation of liability or limitation of the amount of recovery or representation or agreement as to value in the receipt or bill of lading, or in any contract, rule, regulation, or in any tariff filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission, whether or not the goods were hidden from view by wrapping, boxing, or other means unless, in case they were hidden from view, he required the shipper to state specifically in writing their value. McCormick v. Southern Express Co., (W. Va. 1917) 93 S. E. 1048.

The Cummins amendment was not retroactive. Bryan v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., (1917) 174 N. C. 177, 93 S. E. 750.

Act of God.—In Continental Paper Bag Co. v. Maine Cent. R. Co., (1916) 115 Me. 449, 99 Atl. 259, the bill of lading provided that the carrier should not be liable for any loss or damage or delay caused by an act of God, it was held that where the arrival of the goods at the place of destination was delayed by the negligence of one or more connecting carriers and after such arrival they were injured by an unprecedented flood amounting to an act of God, the flood, and not the delay, was the proximate cause of the injury, and that the defendant, the initial carrier, was not liable.

2. Exemption from Negligence (p. 525)

An interstate live stock carrier cannot, by an agreement made in consideration of a reduced rate, and contained in a bill of lading issued pursuant to the Carmack amendment in conformity with the carrier's tariffs filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission, limit its liability from unusual delay and detention caused by its negligence to the amount actually expended by the shipper in the purchase of food and water for his stock while so detained. Boston, etc., R. Co. v. Piper, (1918) 246 U. S. 439, 39 S. Ct. 354, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 820, affirming (1916) 90 Vt. 176, 97 Atl. 508.

Though a carrier may contract for the shipper to accompany a live stock shipment, it cannot thereby relieve itself, or any connecting carrier, from its or their negligent failure to perform such duty, and, to the extent that any provision of a special contract would attempt to relieve the carrier from such a liability, it would be invalid and void. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Priddy, (Ind. App. 1917) 115 N. E. 266.

In Adams v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., (Ia. 1917) 161 N. W. 295, the court said: "Something is said in argument to the effect that the company is released from liability because of the stipulation on the back of the contract providing that: 'The undersigned owners in charge of the stock, in consideration of free passage, agree that the company shall not be liable for injury or damage of any kind suffered by us while in charge of the live stock.' Why this provision was inserted, in view of the repeated holdings of the courts that a common carrier cannot relieve itself by contract from liability for its own negligence, we cannot discover. It seems to be urged that under the Carmack Act those engaged in interstate commerce may make rules with the shippers limiting liability. Of course they may make certain rules limiting liability, but not such as to relieve them from the consequences of their negligence. They may limit the amount of damage that may be recovered for loss or negligent injury to freight; they may limit the time in which actions may be brought under contracts, but the authorities do not hold that they can contract against any liability for negligence. They cannot contract against liability for the consequences that follow a violation of their common law duty in transporting passengers. We hold, therefore, that this provision on the back of the contract is void and against public policy."

3. Agreed Valuation (p. 520)

In general.—To the same effect as the original note, see Richter v. American Express Co., (Ia. 1917) 164 N. W. 228, L. R. A. 1918A 749.

The validity of a contract limiting the carrier's liability to an agreed valuation does not depend upon the relation of that value to the actual value. It rests upon the proposition that, by freely and deliberately electing to contract for carriage at a rate of compensation based upon an agreed value, the shipper is estopped to claim a higher value in case the shipment is lost or damaged. Moore v. Duncan, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1916) 237 Fed. 780, 150 C. C. A. 534.

The agreed valuation of an express package determines the amount of damages recoverable from an express company who accepted it and whose agent stole it. The fact that it was undervalued is immaterial. D'Utassy v. Barrett, (1916) 219 N. Y. 420, 114 N. E. 786, affirming (1916) 171 App. Div. 772, 155 N. Y. 916.

Mistake in rate.—When the shipper makes an express representation of value for the purpose of enabling the carrier to fix the rate, and a rate is fixed by the carrier, which by mistake is based on the theory that a much lower valuation was fixed than that in fact contained in the written statement of value signed by the shipper, the rights of the shipper cannot be affected within the limits established by his declaration of value by the rate which the carrier exacts. Aradalous

v. New York, etc., R. Co., (1916) 225 Mass. 235, 114 N. E. 297.

4. Notice of Claim (p. 529)

In general.—To the same effect as the first note under this heading see Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Miller, (Colo. 1917) 163 Pac. 836.

A stipulation in a through bill of lading for an interstate shipment of peaches that the carrier issuing the bill of lading shall not be held liable for damages unless a claim for damages is reported by the consignee in writing to the terminal carrier within thirty-six hours after the consignee has been notified of the arrival of the freight at the place of delivery is valid and not unreasonable. Written notice within the time stipulated of an intention to make a claim for damages, without specifying the amount of the damages claimed is a sufficient compliance with the stipulation. The failure to comply with the requirement of the stipulation was not excused, where the terminal carrier had a freight agent at the place of delivery in charge of the docks upon which the shipment was delivered, by virtue of the giving of verbal notice of the bad condition of the shipment to the terminal carrier's dock master, or because of the knowledge of such condition by longshoremen working on the docks. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Starbird, (1917) 243 U. S. 592, 37 S. Ct. 462, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 917, reversing (1915) 118 Ark. 485, 177 S. W. 912.

In Aydlett v. Norfolk-Southern R. Co., (1916) 172 N. C. 47, 89 S. E. 1000, the court said: "The defense in this case is based, not on a statute, but on the contract of shipment that declares that: 'Claims for loss, damage, or delay must be made in writing to the carrier at the point of delivery or at the point of origin within four months after delivery of the property, or, in case of failure to make delivery, then within four months after a reasonable time for delivery has elapsed. Unless claims are so made the carrier shall not be liable.' The initial carrier and the last carrier are thus made the agents of all the other carriers for the purpose of filing claims for damage. In our judgment, that provision was not intended, nor can it have the effect to preclude the claimant from filing his claim with and from suing the carrier that actually caused the injury."

Waiver of stipulation.—A stipulation limiting the time for presenting claims is valid if reasonable and cannot be waived. Metz Co. v. Boston, etc., R. Co., (1917) 227 Mass. 307, 116 N. E. 475.

5. Time for Bringing Suit (p. 532)

A stipulation, in a contract for an interstate shipment of live stock, providing that no suit or action shall be sustainable in any court of law or equity "unless such suit or action be commenced within six months next after the cause of action shall occur," is valid, binding and enforceable. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Paden, (Okla. 1917) 162 Pac. 727.

XIII. JURISDICTION OF COURTS (p. 534)

Removal of cause from state to federal court.—A state court has jurisdiction of an action under the Carmack amendment but the action may be removed to a federal court because of its federal nature (see vol. 5, p. 16, Judicial Code, § 28) where the matter in controversy exceeds the sum or value of $3,000. Southern Pac. Co. v. Stewart, (1917) 245 U. S. 359, 38 S. Ct. 130, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 345.

XV. PARTIES (p. 535)

"Lawful holder."—The words "lawful holder," as used in the provision of the Carmack amendment, that any common carrier receiving property for transportation from a point in one state to a point in another state shall issue a receipt or bill of lading therefor and shall be liable to the lawful holder thereof for any loss, damage, or injury to such property, cannot be said to mean only the owner of the shipment or someone shown to be duly authorized to act for him in such a way as to render any judgment recovered in the action against the carrier res judicata in any other action, although by section 8 of the earlier Act a carrier is made liable "to the person or persons injured" in consequence of any violation of the Act, since to adopt this view would permit the general purpose of the latter section to control the purpose of the amendment, which is special and definitely expresses the lawful holder of the bill of lading to be the person to whom the carrier shall be liable. Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Olivit, (1917) 243 U. S. 574, 37 S. Ct. 468, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 908, affirming (1916) 88 N. J. L. 376, 96 Atl. 589.

XVI. PLEADING (p. 535)

Issuance of receipt or bill of lading.—The Carmack Amendment requires the carrier receiving property for transportation between points in different states to issue a receipt or bill of lading therefor, and makes the carrier liable to the lawful holder thereof for any loss, damage, or injury to such property. While there is no specific allegation in the complaint that such bill of lading or receipt was issued, as the law makes it the duty of the carrier to issue the same, the presumption is that such duty was complied with. Southern Pac. Co. v. Stewart, (1917) 245 U. S. 359, 38 S. Ct. 130, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 345.

XVIII. DAMAGES (p. 535)

Punitive damages are not recoverable. Harman v. Southern R. Co., (1916) 106

S. C. 209, 90 S. E. 1023, following De Loach v. Southern R. Co., (1916) 106 S. E. 155, 90 S. E. 701.

Freight paid.—The recovery, as a part of the damages caused by a delay in transporting an interstate shipment of perishable freight, of the freight paid upon delivery at destination, is properly allowed, notwithstanding the prohibitions of the Interstate Commerce Act against deviations from the filed tariffs and schedules, and against rebates and undue preferences and discriminations,—especially where the bills of lading require damages to be computed upon the basis of the value of the property at the place and time of shipment. Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Olivit, (1917) 243 U. S. 574, 37 S. Ct. 468, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 908, affirming (1916) 88 N. J. L. 376, 96 Atl. 589.

Vol. IV, p. 536, sec. 20 [L].

Judgment as evidence against connecting carrier.—To the same effect as the original note see St. Joseph, etc., R. Co. v. Des Moines Union R. Co., (Ia. 1917) 162 N. W. 812.

Vol. IV, p. 539, sec. 22

II. RESERVATION OF EXISTING REMEDIES (p. 541)

Failure to furnish cars.—A state court has jurisdiction without previous action by the Interstate Commerce Commission of a suit by a coal mining company against an interstate carrier to recover the damages arising in interstate commerce out of the latter's failure to furnish such company with the number of coal cars to which it claims to be entitled under the carrier's own rule for car distribution, since, the rule itself not being attacked, there was no administrative question involved. Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Stineman Coal Min. Co., (1916) 242 U. S. 298, 37 S. Ct. 118, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 316, reversing (1913) 241 Pa. St. 509, 88 Atl. 761.

The carrier's defense at the trial of a suit brought by a shipper to recover the damages arising in interstate commerce out of the carrier's failure to furnish such shipper with the cars to which it claimed to be entitled under the carrier's own rule for car distribution, that the rule invoked by the shipper was discriminatory, and therefore not an appropriate test of the shipper's right or the carrier's duty, did not oust the state court of jurisdiction, where the administrative question thus presented was not then an open one, such rule having theretofore been found by the Interstate Commerce Commission, upon complaint of other shippers, to be unjustly discriminatory. Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Stineman Coal Min. Co. (1916) 242 U. S. 298, 37 S. Ct. 118.

No recovery may be had in a suit brought in a state court by a shipper to recover damages arising in interstate commerce out of the carrier's failure to furnish a shipper with the cars to which it claimed to be entitled under the carrier's own rule for car distribution, where, before the trial, though after the period covered by the suit, the Interstate Commerce Commission, upon complaint of other shippers and after a full hearing, had found that such rule was unjustly discriminatory, and had directed the carrier to give no further effect to it, and, recognizing that shippers who had been injured through its operation in the past were entitled to reparation, had proceeded to award reparation to such shippers as appeared and adequately proved their injury and the amount of damages sustained, the Commission's report making it plain that the finding was not based upon any temporary condition, but upon what inhered in the rule, and therefore was true from the time of its adoption. Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Stineman Coal Co., (1916) 242 U. S. 298, 37 S. Ct. 118, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 316, reversing (1913) 241 Pa. St. 509, 88 Atl. 761.

Recovery of overcharges.—If the validity of the published rates is not questioned the state court has jurisdiction of an action to recover the amount of an alleged overcharge. Reliance Elev. Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., (Minn. 1917) 165 N. W. 867.

Vol. IV, p. 549, sec. 1 [A].

IX. CONCESSION OR DISCRIMINATION (p. 555)

In general.—Any pecuniary inducement held out to a shipper to procure his business over a particular railroad is or may be a rebate or concession within the prohibition of the Elkins Act. Northern Cent. R. Co. v. U. S., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 241 Fed. 25, 154 C. C. A. 25.

Vol. IV, p. 567, sec. 1.

Scope of immunity.—This section does not grant immunity from a prosecution which has nothing to do with the Anti-trust Act and is concerned only with certain frauds in connection with the weighing of dutiable goods whereby the government was deprived of duties which it should have received. Heike v. U. S., (1913) 33 S. Ct. 226, 57 U. S. (L. ed.) 450, Ann. Cas. 1914C 128, 227 U. S. 131, affirming (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1911) 192 Fed. 83, 112 C. C. A. 615.

Penal Code, section 238, how affected.—

The Webb-Kenyon Act does not repeal, or suspend the provisions of Penal Code, section 238 (see vol. 7, p. 863) which denounces under penalty of a fine or imprisonment, the offense of the delivery by an agent or employee of an express company, or other common carrier, to any fictitious person or to any person under a fictitious name, of any intoxicating liquor shipped in interstate commerce. Witte v. Shelton, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1917) 240 Fed. 265, 153 C. C. A. 191.

IV. IMPORTATION FOR PERSONAL USE (p. 598)

A state law which prohibits the delivery of liquors for the personal use of the consignee, or limits the amount that may be delivered to a consignee for such use is valid under the Webb-Kenyon Act. James Clark Distilling Co. v. Western Maryland R. Co., (1916) 242 U. S. 311, 37 S. Ct. 180, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 326, Ann. Cas. 1917B 845, L. R. A. 1917B 1218, distinguishing Adams Express Co. v. Kentucky, (1914) 238 U. V. STATE LAWS

2. Validity, Scope and Effect of State Laws (p. 600)

Books of record.—A state law providing that railroad companies shall keep a separate book in which shall be entered the name of every person to whom intoxicating liquor is shipped, together with amount, kind, date of receipt, etc., to be followed by the consignee's signature acknowledging delivery is not in conflict with this Act. Seaboard Air Line R. Co. v. North Carolina, (1917) 245 U. S. 298, 38 S. Ct. 96, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 299, affirming (1915) 169 N. C. 295, 84 S. E. 283.

Marking packages containing liquors.—A state statute requiring packages containing liquors to be conspicuously marked with the words "This Package Contains Intoxicating Liquors" is not authorized by the Webb-Kenyon Act. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Giles, (D. C. Colo. 1916) 235 Fed. 804. See Contra State v. Owen, (Wash. 1917) 166 Pac. 793.

Permit attached to liquor packages.—A state statute requiring a permit to be attached to packages of liquor shipped into the state is warranted by the Webb-Kenyon Act. State v. Warburton, (Wash. 1917) 166 Pac. 615; State v. Great Northern R. Co., (1917) 97 Wash. 137, 165 Pac. 1073.

Shipments of liquor through a state from a place without the state cannot be seized under a state statute by virtue of the Webb-Kenyon Act. State v. Great Northern R. Co. (1917) 97 Wash. 137, 167 Pac. 103.

VI. DUTIES AND LIABILITIES OF COMMERCE CARRIERS

If a consignment of liquors is intended by any person interested therein to be the subject, instrumentality, or other means of violating a valid state law governing the liquors described in the Webb-Kenyon Act, it cannot be and does not become an article in interstate commerce, and is not protected by the rules of law applicable to lawful interstate commerce, and a carrier or person concerned in its interstate transportation, its acceptance or delivery, cannot invoke the rule of law applicable to lawful interstate commerce to protect or to justify such carrier or person in respect of the carrier's or person's connection or service in transporting or delivering the shipment thus forbidden lawful entry into interstate commerce. State v. Southern Express Co., (Ala. 1917) 75 So. 343.

JUDGMENTS

Effect of state statutes.—To the same effect as the original note, see U. S. v. Minor, (W. D. N. C. 1917) 243 Fed. 953.

JUDICIAL OFFICERS

Vol. IV, p. 651, sec. 824.

To constitute a "final hearing" in admiralty the cause must be presented to the court in some such manner as to invoke its judgment on the merits of the controversy either upon the facts or upon the law, whereby a determination is reached which disposes of the controversy. And where, after a witness was sworn, or just about to be sworn, but had given no testimony whatever, the proctor for libellant moved for a dismissal without prejudice, which was not resisted by respondent, and an order was entered dismissing the cause on libellant's motion, without prejudice, but with costs to respondent, the taxation of $20 to respondent's proctor as a docket fee was not allowable. Albion Lumber Co. v. Inter-Ocean Transp. Co., (N. C. Cal. 1917) 240 Fed. 1019, citins, with other cases, The Mount Eden, (N. D. Cal. 1898) 87 Fed. 483.

Vol. IV, p. 657, sec. 828.

X. COPIES (p. 671)

In naturalization proceedings.—The clerk of a District Court is not entitled to fees for making, on the direction of the Bureau of Immigration and Naturalization, triplicate copies of original declarations of intention for naturalization, and attaching the seal of the court to the same. The charging of such fees would be incompatible with sections 12, 13 and 21 of the Naturalization Act of June 29, 1906, 34 Stat. L. 596, 1909 Supp. p. 364; Cross v. U. S., (1916) 242 U. S. 4, 37 S. Ct. 5, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 114.

Vol. IV, p. 678, sec. 829.

III. SERVICE OF WARRANTS, ETC. (p. 682)

Summons and declaration.—In Burroughs Bros. Mfg. Co. v. Dulaney, (D. C. Md. 1916) 238 Fed. 255, where the marshal served on each of four defendants a writ of summons with a copy of the declaration attached, and charged in accordance with what appeared to have been the practice of the office for many years, $4 for the service on each person, on the theory that the two papers, to wit, the writ of summons and a copy of the declaration, constituted each a service of a separate writ, the court held that there could not be such a constructive separation of what was really one service, and that "a reasonable construction of the statute limits the marshal to one fee of $2 for one service at one time in one cause on one person, no matter how many papers, copies, orders to show cause, etc., may be served by him on that one individual at the one time, and in the one cause."

XII. SETTLEMENT OF CLAIM IN ADMIRALTY (p. 687)

Right to fee in general.—Where, on a libel against a yacht, the craft was taken into custody by the marshal pursuant to writ, but was afterwards released upon the giving of a bond by the claimant to the marshal, the case was tried, and a final decree was entered for the libellant with costs, he was entitled to have taxed as part of his costs the poundage required to be paid to the marshal in case of settlement without a sale. The Eros, (E. D. N. Y. 1916) 245 Fed. 814.

Vol. IV, p. 756, sec. 771.

IV. CIVIL SUITS AND PROCEEDINGS

1. In General (p. 759)

"To prosecute all civil actions."—Where, on a bill filed by the United States to recover money on account of frauds against the internal revenue laws, a receiver was appointed pursuant to the prayer of the bill, and the receiver filed a bill to recover moneys of a corporation defendant which had been fraudulently misappropriated and concealed, which was a purely ancillary or dependent proceeding, throughout which the United States was treated as the sole beneficiary, as in fact it turned out to be, and the district attorney and his assistant who instituted the main suit and were appointed counsel for the receiver by the court, and though not directed by the Attorney-General to appear in the receiver's suit, did so appear and throughout the litigation were recognized by the court, the receiver and the Department of Justice as representing the United States, it was deemed contrary to public policy to allow said attorney and his assistant, at least without the consent of the Attorney-General, compensation for their services to the receiver, though paid by the defendants, under a compromise, and not out of the fund recovered. It was held that the receiver's ancillary suit was within R. S. sec. 771, which section is not limited to cases in which the United States is a party of record. "We think," said the court, "public policy as declared by the statutes and the decisions of the courts of the United States, opposes generally to the receipt by United States attorneys of private compensation for the performance of statutory duties," especially as criminal prosecutions in which said United States officers were actively connected were pending against some of the defendants. This conclusion was strengthened by consideration of the provision for salaries to United States attorneys in full for official services in the Act of May 28, 1896, ch. 252, §§ 6, 7, 29 Stat. L. 179, 180 [title JUDICIAL OFFICERS, vol. IV, pp. 718, 722]; McPherson v. U. S., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 245 Fed. 35, 157 C. C. A. 331.

2. Suits by United States (p. 759)

Revenue suits.—The United States attorney represents the United States in revenue fraud cases. McPherson v. U. S., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 245 Fed. 35, 157 C. C. A. 331.

Vol. IV, p. 761, sec. 838.

It is the duty of United States attorneys to represent the United States in suits by the latter to recover money on account of frauds upon the internal revenue laws. McPherson v. U. S., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 245 Fed. 35, 157 C. C. A. 331.

Vol. IV, p. 774. [Act of June 30, 1906]

Appointment.—"We do not think the act of June 30, 1906, in conferring the power of appointment upon the Attorney General, should be construed to mean that the Attorney General must, in all cases, sign the appointment himself, but that the power of appointment is conferred upon the Attorney General as other powers are conferred, to be exercised by him personally or through his lawful assistants when only authorized for such purpose." May v. U. S., (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 236 Fed. 495, 149 C. C. A. 547.

Conviction of a bankrupt for fraudulent concealment of property was affirmed as against alleged impropriety or illegality in the fact that the attorney who represented the petitioning creditors, the receiver appointed by the court, and the trustee in bankruptcy aided, as a duly appointed special assistant United States District Attorney in the prosecution of the case, taking active part in the trial, although not appearing before the grand jury, where there was no claim that such assistant was paid otherwise than by the government, nor was his conduct upon the trial criticised. And the fact that such counsel would have been disqualified from so acting, under the state law, was immaterial. Terry v. U. S., (C. C. A. 1916) 235 Fed. 701, 149 C. C. A. 121.

JUDICIARY

Vol. IV, p. 831, Jud. Code, sec. 20.

Judge "concerned in interest."—In In re Honolulu Consol. Oil Co., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 243 Fed. 348, 156 C. C. A. 128, the Circuit Court of Appeals held that the judge was "concerned in interest" in the result of the suits, by reason of a stockholder's liability he might incur, and granted a mandamus directing him to enter an order that an authenticated copy of his disqualification be certified to the senior judge of the circuit.

II. SUITS OF CIVIL NATURE AT COMMON LAW OR IN EQUITY

1. In General (p. 849)

The clause "concurrent with the courts of the several states," which appeared in this section in the Judiciary Act of 1887-1888, having been omitted here, if there is any question that the federal courts have jurisdiction under the general equity powers conferred by the Constitution and the Acts of Congress, such question cannot arise because of any limitation upon their powers by that clause. Welch v. Union Casualty Ins. Co., (E. D. Pa. 1917) 238 Fed. 968.

4. At Law and in Equity

c. In Equity (p. 853)

The general power of federal courts when sitting as courts of equity can be exerted only in cases otherwise within the jurisdiction of those courts as defined by Congress. Genesee Valley Trust Co. v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., (D. C. Kan. 1917) 240 Fed. 524.

State legislation.—Without the assent of Congress the jurisdiction of the federal District Court in equity, under Judicial Code, § 24, cannot be impaired or diminished by the statutes of the several states regulating the practice of their own courts. Welch v. Union Casualty Ins. Co., (E. D. Pa. 1917) 238 Fed. 968.

6. Administration or Probate (p. 856)

In general.—"The courts of the United States, sitting in equity, have no general jurisdiction in matters of probate and the administration of the estates of decedents." Smith v. Jennings, (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1915) 238 Fed. 48, 151 C. C. A. 124.

Establishment of claim—Heirship, etc.—A federal court has jurisdiction to determine the question whether or not a party is entitled to a share in the estate of a decedent in process of administration in a state Surrogate's Court, and to determine the limitation or extent of such share. Stotesbury v. Huber, (E. D. N. Y. 1916) 237 Fed. 413, citing Ingersoll v. Coram, (1908) 211 U. S. 335, 29 S. Ct. 92, 53 U. S. (L. ed.) 208.

A federal court has jurisdiction of a bill in equity by citizens of a state to establish their claim as heirs and next of kin to the entire estate of a decedent, brought against citizens of another state making the same claim on their own behalf, permanent administrators also citizens of the latter state being joined as defendants. Jennings v. Smith, (S. D. Ga. 1917) 242 Fed. 561.

Appointment of receiver.—In Smith v. Jennings, (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1915) 238 Fed. 48, 151 C. C. A. 124, it was held that the District Court erred in appointing receivers of the estate of a decedent, and in enjoining and directing the temporary administrators to surrender the assets of the estate in their hands to the receivers, where it was contended, in support of the court below, that the appointment of the temporary administrators was a nullity because of fraud in the representations made as to the qualifications of the applicants and the amount of personal property of the estate.

Setting aside will.—A suit which is, in an essential feature, a suit to annul a will, where such proceeding is by the laws of the state merely supplemental to the proceedings for probate and cognizable only by the Probate Court, is not within the jurisdiction of a federal court.

Sutton v. English, (1918) 246 U. S. 199, 38 S. Ct. 254, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 664.

VII. AMOUNT IN CONTROVERSY

3. Cases Requiring Jurisdictional Amount

a. Federal Question Involved (p. 864)

In general.—There is no jurisdiction on the ground of a federal question involved unless the amount in controversy exceeds $3,000. Supreme Council, etc., v. Hobart, (C. C. A. 1st Cir. 1917) 244 Fed. 385, 157 C. C. A. 11.

5. Ascertainment of Value, etc. (p. 865)

Injunction.—In a suit by an employer against striking employees and their labor union to enjoin them from destroying or injuring plaintiff's property, where the alleged threatened damage far exceeded the jurisdictional amount, it was not necessary to give the court jurisdiction that $3,000 worth of property should have been destroyed. Tri-City Cent. Trades Council v. American Steel Foundries, (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1917) 238 Fed. 728, 151 C. C. A. 578.

The court had jurisdiction of a suit to enjoin a municipality from taking part of the plaintiff railroad company's right of way and depot grounds for street purposes, where it was possible that the amount awarded for the taking would exceed $3,000. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Lost Nation, (S. D. Ia. 1916) 237 Fed. 709.

Money and injunction.—Where the plaintiff in a suit for an injunction against the further use of a formula for a beverage and the use of a name thereof and for an accounting for profits already earned, the Circuit Court of Appeals, affirming a decree in his favor, said: "The record sufficiently shows that the plaintiff, in good faith, believed he was entitled to recover from the defendants money and property rights worth far more than $3,000. Under such circumstances, on the question of jurisdiction it matters not that the plaintiff may actually recover less than $3,000, or nothing at all." Garrett v. Mallard, (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1916) 238 Fed. 335, 151 C. C. A. 351.

8. Pleading Amount by Plaintiff

a. Necessity and Sufficiency (p. 877)

Injunction and damages to land.—In Bronson v. Emmet, etc., Counties, (N. D. Ia. 1916) 237 Fed. 212, a suit for damages and injunction for unlawful flowage of land by drainage ditches, where the court granted a motion to dismiss on other grounds, but with leave to amend, the court said: "The plaintiff alleges an injury, or damage, to 40 acres of land in Kossuth county, this state, that may be overflowed by backwater from the Des Moines river, if the drainage ditch is completed. It is possible that 40 acres of land near that river might be damaged in excess of $3,000 by backwater from the river or overflowed by it; but unless the damage was in excess of that amount the court, of course, would be without jurisdiction to determine this suit. There is no evidence, however, of the value of this land, or the extent of such damage, if any should occur, before the court except the allegations of the bill; but, if, upon the final hearing, the damage to the land was not shown to be in excess of that amount, the suit would have to be dismissed for want of jurisdiction. . . . If an amendment is filed the amendment must show with reasonable certainty that the amount in controversy is within the jurisdiction of this court."

VIII. SUITS ARISING UNDER CONSTITUTION, LAWS, OR TREATIES

1. In General

f. Citizenship Immaterial (p. 885)

If the cause of action arises under a federal statute the federal court has jurisdiction, though the parties are citizens of the same state and federal district. Chesbrough v. Woodworth, (1917) 244 U. S. 72, 37 S. Ct. 579, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 1000.

i. Suit Against State (p. 886)

Suit against state officers.—In Greene v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., (1917) 244 U. S. 499, 37 S. Ct. 673, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 1280, Ann. Cas. 1917E 88, the court affirmed a decree, as within the jurisdiction of the District Court, enjoining state officers from taking action looking to the enforcement of certain state and local so-called franchise taxes assessed against public service corporations under state authority upon the ground of a discrimination in valuation of the intangible property upon which the taxes were based, arising out of systematic undervaluation of other taxable property.

In Johnson v. Lankford, (1918) 245 U. S. 541, 38 S. Ct. 203, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 460, the action was against a state bank commissioner and the surety on his bond to recover for alleged failure of the commissioner to perform his duty in consequence of which the plaintiff's deposit in a state bank was squandered, and also for arbitrarily and capriciously refusing, in violation of law and his bond, to pay plaintiff's claim as a valid claim against the guaranty fund of the state, which was available under the law of the state for payment of claims against the bank. It was held that the action was not one against the state in violation of the 11th Amendment, and that the federal District Court had jurisdiction on the ground of diverse citizenship.

The same conclusion was reached, namely, that the action was not against the state, where the plaintiff in an action against the same bank examiner and the surety on his bond was a stockholder in the bank as well as a depositor and sought to have his stockholder's liability of $2,000 offset against any sums that might be owing to him by reason of the delinquencies of the said bank examiner. Martin v. Lankford, (1918) 245 U. S. 547, 38 S. Ct. 547, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 464, the court saying that the action was based upon the tortious conduct of the bank examiner, not in exertion of the state law, but in violation of it.

A suit by a foreign corporation against a state secretary of state and attorney general to enjoin the enforcement by them of state statutes imposing a permit tax and a franchise tax in violation of the Federal Constitution is not a suit against a state. Looney v. Crane Co., (1917) 245 U. S. 178, 38 S. Ct. 85, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 230.

In Weiland v. Pioneer Irrigation Co., (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 238 Fed. 519, 151 C. C. A. 455, a suit against Colorado state officials, who had duties to perform in reference to the distribution of water from the streams of the state for irrigation purposes, to restrain them from violating the state law by interfering with the plaintiff's right to divert water, was held not to be a suit against the state.

A suit against the members of a state public safety commission to enjoin them from enforcing an order of the commission, on the ground that such order was not within the purview of the state statute defining the powers of the commission, is not a suit against the state. Cook v. Burnquist, (D. C. Minn. 1917) 242 Fed. 321.

2. Pleading Federal Question

a. Plaintiff Required to Show (p. 888)

In general.—"A case does so arise where an appropriate statement of the plaintiff's cause of action, unaided by any anticipation or avoidance of defenses, discloses that it really and substantially involves a dispute or controversy respecting the validity, construction, or effect of a law of Congress." Hopkins v. Walker, (1917) 244 U. S. 486, 37 S. Ct. 711, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 1270.

g. Anticipation of Defense (p. 890)

In general.—A federal question was not sufficiently presented in a bill by a railroad company against the lessee of its road for specific performance of a contract in the lease to furnish free annual passes to the directors and officers of the lessor plaintiff, the bill alleging that the defendant claimed to be prevented from issuing such passes by virtue of provisions in the Interstate Commerce Acts of Congress. Peterborough R. Co. v. Boston, etc., R. Co., (C. C. A. 1st Cir. 1917) 239 Fed. 97, 152 C. C. A. 147, quoting from Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Mottley, (1908) 211 U. S. 149, 152, 29 S. Ct. 42, 43, 53 U. S. (L. ed.) 126.

In Bronson v. Emmet, etc., Counties, (N. D. Ia. 1916) 237 Fed. 212, dismissing a bill on motion for want of jurisdiction, the court said: "It is the settled interpretation by the Supreme Court of the words of clause 'a' of subdivision 1 of section 24 of the Judicial Code that a suit 'arises under the Constitution or laws of the United States' only when the plaintiff's statement of his cause of action shows that it is based upon some provision of the Constitution or some law of the United States; and if it does not so appear from the plaintiff's petition or complaint, it cannot be shown by the answer of the defendant, or any subsequent pleading in the case, even a petition for the removal of a removable cause from the state court to a federal court."

4. Allegations Held Sufficient

a. Unconstitutional State Statute (p. 895)

Violation of the equal protection clause as a ground of jurisdiction was held to be sufficiently shown in a bill to enjoin state officers from taking action looking to the enforcement of certain state and local so-called franchise taxes assessed against public service corporations under state authority, upon the ground of a discrimination in valuation of the intangible property upon which the taxes were based, arising out of systematic undervaluation of other taxable property. Greene v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., (1917) 244 U. S. 499, 37 S. Ct. 673, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 1280, Ann. Cas. 1917E 88.

d. Construction of Federal Statute (p. 897)

Federal mining laws.—In Hopkins v. Walker, (1917) 244 U. S. 486, 37 S. Ct. 711, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 1270, it was held that the bill in a suit to remove a cloud on the title of a placer mining claim stated a case of which the District Court had jurisdiction.

IX. SUITS ARISING UNDER CONSTITUTION

2. Municipal Ordinances

b. Impairment of Contract Obligation (p. 910)

A suit for injunction by a telephone company against a city, wherein the company attacked an ordinance or resolution of the city requiring the company to remove its poles and wires from the streets as an impairment of the contract constituted by other ordinances, was a suit within the jurisdiction of the federal District Court. Mitchell v. Dakota Cent. Telephone Co., (1918) 246 U. S. 396, 38 S. Ct. 362, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 793.

The federal District Court had jurisdiction of a bill to enjoin enforcement by a city of an ordinance which would cause irreparable injury to the plaintiff street railway company and impair the obligation of a prior contract with the city. Cincinnati v. Cincinnati & H. Traction Co., (1918) 245 U. S. 446, 38 S. Ct. 153, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 389.

7. Denial of Equal Protection of Law (p. 920)

In a suit by a holder of a "death benefit certificate" against a fraternal benefit society organized under the Massachusetts laws, asking for appointment of a receiver, alleging that the state statute forbidding such suit in any court of the state unless brought by the attorney-general, deprived the plaintiff of the equal protection of the law, etc., it was held that no federal question was presented so as to give the court jurisdiction where the allegations in the plaintiff's bill complaining of the unconstitutionality of the statute did not constitute an essential part of the cause of action set forth, and were in no way necessary thereto, and did not show that whether the remedy sought was obtainable or not depended upon the result of the constitutional question raised. Supreme Council, etc., v. Hobart, (C. C. A. 1st Cir. 1917) 244 Fed. 385, 157 C. C. A. 11.

X. SUITS UNDER LAWS OF UNITED STATES

1. General Rules

a. Test Formulated by Judge Amidon (p. 923)

In Fargo v. Cuneo, (S. D. N. Y. 1917) 241 Fed. 726, it was held that every action by an interstate carrier to recover freight is necessarily based upon the Interstate Commerce Act, plus the rulings of the Commission, in carrying out the same, and therefore presents a federal question.

8. Suit Against Officers of National Banks (p. 930)

An action against directors in a national bank by a purchaser of its stock to recover damages for false reports of the bank's financial condition, upon which the plaintiff had relied, presents a federal question, since R. S. sec. 5239, in title NATIONAL BANKS, vol. 6, p. 873, expressly authorizes recovery of such damages, and especially as it was held in Yates v. Jones Nat. Bank, (1907) 206 U. S. 158, 27 S. Ct. 638, 51 U. S. (L. ed.) 1002, and to like effect in Thomas v. Taylor, (1912) 224 U. S. 73, 32 S. Ct. 403, 56 U. S. (L. ed.) 673, and Jones Nat. Bank v. Yates, (1916) 240 U. S. 541, 36 S. Ct. 429, 60 U. S. (L. ed.) 788, that the rule expressed by that statute is exclusive and precludes a common-law liability for fraud and deceit. Chesbrough v. Woodworth, (1917) 244 U. S. 72, 37 S. Ct. 579, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 1000.

31. Federal Employers' Liability Act (p. 940)

Federal question ipso facto.—Where the allegations in a complaint by an administrator to recover for death of his intestate show that the deceased was employed in interstate commerce when injured, the case arises under a law of the United States, to wit, the federal Employers' Liability Act. Great Northern R. Co. v. Alexander, (1918) 246 U. S. 276, 38 S. Ct. 237, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 713.

XII. DIVERSE CITIZENSHIP

2. Citizen of a State (p. 942)

Illustrations.—Where the plaintiff swore that some time before bringing the suit he had become a citizen of Maryland, and whether he had or had not depended upon the intention with which he had removed from Norfolk, Va., to Baltimore, and the District Court heard his testimony, and was obviously satisfied with it, the Circuit Court of Appeals was also satisfied. Garrett v. Mallard, (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1916) 238 Fed. 335, 151 C. C. A. 351.

4. Citizenship of Corporation (p. 945)

In general.—For jurisdictional purposes a corporation is to be regarded as a citizen of the state by whose laws it was created. Peterborough R. Co. v. Boston, etc., R. Co., (C. C. A. 1st Cir. 1917) 239 Fed. 97, 152 C. C. A. 147.

Doing business etc. in another state.—“The state in which a corporation is organized determines the citizenship, whether it has offices and transacts business in the state in which the suit is sought to be brought or not. Johanson v. Alaska Treadwell Gold Min. Co., 225 Fed. 270.” Martin v. Matson Nav. Co., (W. D. Wash. 1917) 239 Fed. 188.

12. Arrangement of Parties as to Adverse Interests (p. 954)

If such an arrangement defeats the jurisdiction the bill must be dismissed. Hamer v. New York Rys. Co., (1917) 244 U. S. 266, 37 S. Ct. 511, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 1125.

Suit to set aside will.—In a suit by heirs to set aside a will and for partition of the estate, one of the other heirs, who was also a legatee and was made a defendant, was interested adversely to the plaintiffs, and therefore could not be aligned with the latter in determining the question of diversity of citizenship. Sutton v. English, (1918) 246 U. S. 199, 38 S. Ct. 254, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 664.

13. Parties to Bills in Equity (p. 957)

Where a bill was brought by citizens of Louisiana against citizens of Georgia, including permanent administrators of a decedent's estate, to have the plaintiffs declared next of kin and heirs entitled to the entire estate, alleging that several of the defendants claimed the entire estate adversely to the plaintiffs, another citizen of Louisiana, who was made a defendant and whose interest in the estate, if he had any, would be merely in common with the others whose rights rested on the same ground with his, was held not to be an indispensable party; and, his citizenship being the same as the plaintiffs, he was stricken from the bill by amendment on his and their application. Jennings v. Smith, (S. D. Ga. 1917) 242 Fed. 561.

16. Unnecessary Parties (p. 961)

In general.—Where defendants brought into a suit in equity, by amendment of the bill on the court's order, were citizens of the same state as the plaintiff, but were not indispensable parties, the jurisdiction of the court was not ousted. Weiland v. Pioneer Irrigation Co., (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 238 Fed. 519, 151 C. C. A. 455.

17. Representative Parties (p. 962)

Administrator.—In Memphis St. R. Co. v. Moore, (1917) 243 U. S. 299, 37 S. Ct. 273, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 733, an action was brought in the federal District Court in Tennessee by a citizen of Arkansas in his representative capacity as administrator appointed by a Tennessee Probate Court against a Tennessee corporation for wrongfully causing the death of the decedent. A Tennessee statute provided as follows: “That whenever a nonresident of the state of Tennessee qualifies in this state as the executor or administrator of a person dying in or leaving assets or property in this state, for the purpose of suing and being sued, he shall be treated as a citizen of this state.” The remainder of the Act prescribed the method of service of summons upon such a nonresident executor or administrator. It was held that on the face of the plaintiff's declaration there was the requisite diversity of citizenship to give the federal court jurisdiction.

18. Interveners and Substituted Parties (p. 963)

Where a party made a defendant to a bill in equity by voluntary intervention was a citizen of the same state with the plaintiffs, an application of the plaintiffs and said defendant to amend the bill by striking out the latter was granted against the other defendants' objection, there being no contention that the application was collusively made, and it appearing to the court that said defendant was not an indispensable, though a proper, party. Jennings v. Smith, (S. D. Ga. 1917) 242 Fed. 561.

20. Pleading Citizenship (p. 964)

Corporation.—In Peterborough R. Co. v. Boston, etc., R. Co., (C. C. A. 1st Cir. 1917) 239 Fed. 97, 152 C. C. A. 147, holding that the federal District Court in New Hampshire had no jurisdiction on the ground of diverse citizenship of a suit in which the plaintiff was alleged to be a New Hampshire corporation and a citizen of that state and the defendant was alleged to be a Massachusetts corporation and a citizen of that state, the court took judicial notice that the defendant was a public corporation organized and existing under the laws of New Hampshire, doing business in said state, and therefore a citizen thereof.

XVI. SUITS BY ASSIGNEES

1. Purpose of Act (p. 974)

"This limitation on the jurisdiction of the United States courts has with some changes been in continuous force since the Judiciary Act of 1789. The history of this provision is set forth in the opinion of the Supreme Court of the United States in the case of New Orleans v. Quinlan, 173 U. S. 191 19 Sup. Ct. 329, 43 L. ed. 664; the three acts governing the matter before the enactment of the new Judicial Code being section 11 of the Judiciary Act of 1789, the Act of March 3, 1875, and the Act of March 3, 1887, as corrected by the Act of August 13, 1888. The purpose of this provision of the law seems to have been twofold: First, to narrow the jurisdiction of the District Court, as granted in the immediately preceding portion of the first subdivision of section 24 of the Judicial Code, over suits between citizens of different states and between citizens of a state and foreign states, citizens, or subjects; and, second, to prevent the creation of jurisdiction in the District Courts by assignment made for the purpose of bringing about an apparent diversity of citizenship." Baltimore Trust Co. v. Screven County, (S. D. Ga. 1916) 238 Fed. 834.

4. "Chose in Action" (p. 975)

Construction of term.—It was held that this provision in the Judicial Code did not preclude a suit by the assignee of an oil and gas mining lease in Oklahoma against the landowners and a second lessee to restrain the latter from drilling the land for oil and gas and to cancel his lease as a cloud on the plaintiff's title although the plaintiff and his immediate assignor were citizens of the same state. Shaffer v. Marks, (E. D. Okla. 1917) 241 Fed. 139.

The words of this section refer only to a cause of action based on contract. Stotesbury v. Huber, (E. D. N. Y. 1916) 237 Fed. 413, citing Kolze v. Hoadley, (1906) 200 U. S. 76, 26 S. Ct. 220, 50 U. S. (L. ed.) 377, and Shoecraft v. Bloxham, (1888) 124 U. S. 730, 8 S. Ct. 686, 31 U. S. (L. ed.) 574.

An action for money had and received was held not to be a suit to recover upon any promissory note, or other chose in action. Menasha Wooden Ware Co. v.

Southern Oregon Co., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 244 Fed. 83, 156 C. C. A. 511; 244 Fed. 90, 156 C. C. A. 518.

Share in a decedent's estate.—An assignment of a share amounting to a stated sum out of a supposed larger legacy is not within the language of this section, as a legacy establishes a beneficial and not a contractual claim. Stotesbury v. Huber, (E. D. N. Y. 1916) 237 Fed. 413.

7. Applicability

b. Application With Regard to Persons (p. 982)

A suit against an alien by a citizen administrator of an alien assignee of an alien is within the original jurisdiction of a federal District Court, and therefore removable from the state to the federal court. Sands v. Carruthers, (S. D. N. Y. 1917) 243 Fed. 636, where the plaintiffs were citizens of New York and administrators of one Sands, a citizen of New York, who was assignee of a chose in action against an alien, defendant in this suit.

8. Matters Relating to Jurisdiction (p. 984)

Jurisdiction must appear on record.—"The decisions of this court have settled the following propositions . . . That the bill or other pleading must contain an averment showing that the suit could have been maintained by the assignor if no assignment had been made." Kolze v. Hoadley, (1906) 200 U. S. 76, 26 S. Ct. 220, 50 U. S. (L. ed.) 377.

In Houck v. Brinkley Bank, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 881, 155 C. C. A. 469, reversing judgment for the plaintiff in a federal District Court in Missouri, and directing a dismissal for want of jurisdiction, the court, premising that the note in suit was payable to bearer under the law merchant and under the Negotiable Instrument Law of Missouri, said: "The note in question is payable to the order of the makers thereof, and is not a liability of such makers until it is negotiated or transferred by them. The petition alleges that it was first indorsed by the defendants in blank, and delivered to the Bankers' Trust Company, which afterwards and before maturity, sold and delivered the same in the usual course of business to the plaintiff. The instrument in suit is made payable upon its face at the office of the Bankers' Trust Company at St. Louis, Mo. From this it appears to be a corporation or association of Missouri, which could not maintain an action thereon in the federal court against the defendants as makers who are citizens of Missouri. The instrument, therefore, only became an obligation of the makers when it was indorsed by them and put in circulation, and in this manner, under the allegations of the petition, came to the plaintiff, Bank of Brinkley, and as there is no averment in the petition that the Bankers' Trust Company of St. Louis could have brought suit thereon in the federal court, the petition fails to show that the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Missouri had any jurisdiction of this controversy. It follows that the suit should have been dismissed by the District Court upon its own motion for want of jurisdiction. . . . In New Orleans v. Quinlan, 173 U. S. 191, 193, 19 Sup. Ct. 329, 43 L. ed. 664, the certificates sued upon were made by the defendant city, a corporation and the Circuit Court therefore had jurisdiction because of that fact."

Actual relation of parties controls.—In Baltimore Trust Co. v. Screven County, (S. D. Ga. 1916) 238 Fed. 834, an action in a federal District Court in Georgia by Baltimore banks against a Georgia county and Georgia guarantors on notes made by the county to a Georgia bank, which transferred them to the plaintiffs it was held on motion to dismiss that the court had jurisdiction of the action, as the Georgia bank, under the facts shown, had no beneficial interest and was a mere agent.

XVII. SERVICE OF PROCESS (p. 988)

A judgment in personam cannot be rendered without personal service of process in the district. Dutton v. Waycross First Nat. Bank, (S. D. Fla. 1917) 244 Fed. 236.

The conformity acts.—"It is settled law that jurisdiction cannot be acquired in an action begun in this court by the issue and levy of an attachment, but that personal service of process upon the defendant is indispensable." Cleveland, etc., Coal Co. v. J. H. Hillman, etc., Co., (N. D. Ohio 1917) 245 Fed. 200.

Privilege from service of civil process.—In Stewart v. Ramsay, (1916) 242 U. S. 128, 37 S. Ct. 44, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 192, where jurisdiction of the federal District Court in Illinois was invoked on the ground of diverse citizenship, the defendant pleaded in abatement that he was a resident of Colorado and was served with process while in attendance upon the District Court as a witness in a case wherein he was plaintiff, and that the process was served while he was returning from the court room after testifying. Judgment sustaining a demurrer to the plea was affirmed.

Service on corporation.—Service upon a sales agent of a corporation who resided in the eastern district of New York, but who had his office in the southern district was insufficient service upon the corporation to give jurisdiction to the federal court in the eastern district, where the corporation made sales and deliveries of coal in the eastern district, but had no regular place of business or representative in that district. Harasimowicz v. Pennsylvania R. Co., (E. D. N. Y. 1916) 232 Fed. 295.

Service on foreign corporation.—See also notes under vol. 5, p. 446, Jud. Code, § 38, "5. Service on foreign corporation (p. 460)," infra, p. 1111.

In Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. McKibbin, (1917) 243 U. S. 264, 37 S. Ct. 280, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 710, it was held that the federal District Court in New York acquired no jurisdiction over the defendant Pennsylvania corporation by service of summons on its president while he was passing through New York, engaged exclusively on personal matters unconnected with the company's affairs.

A sales agent of a foreign corporation, without discretionary powers, and acting under the direction and control of the home office, is not a managing agent within the meaning of a state statute authorizing service upon such agent. American Oil, etc., Co. v. Western Gas Constr. Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 239 Fed. 505, 152 C. C. A. 383.

"Making a contract for sale of goods in another state is not doing business in the latter state. An isolated or single sale of goods in another state, or even occasional repetitions of such sales, would not be doing business within the state." Beach v. Kerr Turbine Co., (N. D. Ohio 1917) 243 Fed. 706, holding, however, that in the instant case the defendant foreign corporation was doing business within the state.

XVIII. ANCILLARY PROCEEDINGS

2. Jurisdiction in General (p. 989)

Citizenship, or amount or nature of controversy not controlling.—"The law is that the jurisdiction of the court as regards the principal suit cannot be questioned in an ancillary proceeding or suit. . . . The rule is that neither the citizenship of the parties nor any other factor that would ordinarily determine jurisdiction has any bearing on the right of the court to entertain jurisdiction of an ancillary suit." McCabe v. Guaranty Trust Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 243 Fed. 845, 156 C. C. A. 357.

A bill was not ancillary to foreclosure proceedings in which a decree had been entered and a sale had thereunder where it set up a wholly independent cause of action concerning which no reservation was made in the decree of foreclosure. Hamer v. New York Rys. Co., (1917) 244 U. S. 266, 37 S. Ct. 511, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 1125.

3. Particular Proceedings and Matters

e. Enjoining Pending Actions (p. 993)

In general.—Where a plaintiff began several actions at law in a federal court against a guaranty company, all being cognizable in that court because arising under a law of the United States, and the guaranty company, conceiving that it had a partial equitable defense, not admissible at law, which was common to all the cases, and other partial defenses in particular cases, exhibited in that court a bill describing the actions at law, setting forth the defenses, showing that nothing was in controversy beyond the defenses, and praying that the entire matter be examined and adjudicated in a single proceeding in equity and further proceedings at law enjoined, this bill was properly framed as a dependent and ancillary bill and the court had jurisdiction to entertain it as such in virtue of the jurisdiction already acquired. Eichel v. U. S. Fidelity, etc., Co., (1917) 245 U. S. 102, 38 S. Ct. 47, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 177.

Vol. IV, p. 1005, Jud. Code, sec. 24, par. third.

IV. SAVING OF COMMON-LAW REMEDY (p. 1008)

State Workmen's Compensation Law.—By amendment of this paragraph third in the Act of Oct. 6, 1917, ch. 97, 40 Stat. L. 395, given ante, this volume, p. 401, "rights and remedies under the Workmen's Compensation Law of any state" are saved to claimants. Prior to that amendment it was held that "the remedy which the [New York] compensation statute attempts to give is of a character wholly unknown to the common law, incapable of enforcement by the ordinary processes of any court, and is not saved to suitors from the grant of exclusive jurisdiction" in Judicial Code, § 256, par. third; and also that "this remedy is not consistent with the policy of Congress to encourage investments in ships, manifested in the Acts of 1851 and 1884 (Rev. Stats. secs. 4283-4285; § 18, Act of June 26, 1884, c. 121, 23 Stat. 57) which declare a limitation upon the liability of their owners." Southern Pac. Co. v. Jensen, (1917) 244 U. S. 205, 37 S. Ct. 524, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 1086, Ann. Cas. 1917E 900, L. R. A. 1918C 451 (four justices dissenting; reversing (1915) 215 N. Y. 514, 109 N. E. 600, Ann. Cas. 1916B 276, L. R. A. 1916A 403).

The ruling in Southern Pac. Co. v. Jensen, 244 U. S. 205, 37 S. Ct. 524, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 1086, Ann. Cas. 1917E 900, L. R. A. 1918C 451, set forth in the preceding paragraph was followed in respect to the California Workmen's Compensation Act in Hartman v. Toyo Kisen Kaisha Steamship Co., (N. D. Cal. 1917) 244 Fed. 567, holding that jurisdiction of an action for damages for personal injuries did not rest exclusively with the state Industrial Accident Commission.

Moreover, in North Alaska Salmon Co. v. Pillsbury, (1916) 174 Cal. 1, 162 Pac. 93, it was held that the California Workmen's Compensation Act did not cover claims arising upon injuries inflicted outside the territorial limits of the state, as were the injuries in the case in the federal District Court above cited.

Contra.—In Northern Pac. Steamship Co. v. Industrial Acc. Commission, (1917) 174 Cal. 346, 163 Pac. 199, decided before the decision of the United States Supreme Court in Southern Pac. Co. v. Jensen, cited in the foregoing paragraphs, it was held that the state Industrial Accident Commission had jurisdiction to make an award in the case of a seaman in the employ of the steamship company, who was injured while on his vessel, owned by citizens of the state, upon the high seas, and an award by the Commission was affirmed as against the contention that the federal District Court in admiralty had exclusive jurisdiction.

Likewise in Lindstrom v. Mutual Steamship Co., (1916) 132 Minn. 328, 156 N. W. 669, L. R. A. 1916D 935, it was held that the Minnesota Workmen's Compensation Law furnished the exclusive remedy for an employee of a fuel company injured by negligence of a steamship company while he was unloading a vessel on navigable waters within the territorial jurisdiction of the state.

Action by seaman for damages for personal injuries.—In Chelentis v. Luckenbach Steamship Co. (1918) 245 U. S. 655, 38 S. Ct. 13, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 533, the plaintiff was employed as fireman on board the defendant's steamship, and while performing his duties on the high seas sustained severe injuries from the alleged negligence and an improvident order of a superior officer, and sued therefor in a New York state court, demanding full indemnity for his damage, and the cause was only removed to the federal court on the ground of diverse citizenship. On the trial he did not question seaworthiness of ship or her appliances and announced that no claim was made for maintenance, cure, or wages. At conclusion of plaintiff's evidence the court directed a verdict for defendant, and judgment thereon was affirmed by the Circuit Court of Appeals and by the Supreme Court on certiorari, the latter court holding that the work about which plaintiff was engaged was maritime in its nature; that his employment was a maritime contract; that the injuries received were likewise maritime; that the parties' rights and liabilities were matters clearly within the admiralty jurisdiction; that unless in some way there was imposed upon the owners a liability different from that prescribed by maritime law plaintiff could properly demand only wages, maintenance, and cure; that under the doctrine approved in Southern Pac. Co. v. Jensen, (1917) 244 U. S. 205, 37 S. Ct. 524, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 1086, Ann. Cas. 1917E 900, L. R. A. 1918C 451, no state has power to abolish the well-recognized maritime rule concerning measure of recovery, and substitute therefor the full indemnity rule of the common law, as such a substitution would distinctly and definitely change or add to the settled maritime law; that, under the clause of the federal statute "saving to suitors, in all cases the right of a common-law remedy," etc., a right sanctioned by the maritime law may be enforced through any appropriate remedy recognized at common law, but does not reveal an intention to give the complaining party an election to determine whether the defendant's liability shall be measured by common-law standards rather than those of the maritime law; and that under the circumstances of the case, without regard to the court where plaintiff might ask relief, his rights were those recognized by the law of the sea. Speaking of section 20 of the Seamen's Act of March 4, 1915, ch. 153, 1916 Supp., p. 251, which provides that "in any suit to recover damages for any injury sustained on board vessel or in its service seamen having command shall not be held to be fellow-servants with those under their authority," the court further said: "Full effect must be given this whenever the relationship between such parties becomes important. But the maritime law imposes upon a shipowner liability to a member of the crew injured at sea by reason of another member's negligence, without regard to their relationship; it was of no consequence, therefore, to petitioner, whether or not the alleged negligent order came from a fellow servant; the statute is irrelevant. The language of the section discloses no intention to impose upon shipowners the same measure of liability for injuries suffered by the crew while at sea as the common law prescribes for employers in respect of their employees on shore."

"Our conclusion is that an action in personam may be maintained for a tort committed on the high seas if the accident is attributable to the 'unseaworthiness' of the vessel; that the common-law courts of a state have jurisdiction concurrent with the federal courts when proceeding in personam; and that the state court will grant the relief that a common-law court would have granted had the case been originally triable in such court." Larson v. Alaska Steamship Co., (1917) 96 Wash. 665, 165 Pac. 880, L. R. A. 1917F 671.

IX. FOREIGN PERSONS OR PROPERTY (p. 1019)

A libel in rem against a foreign ship by a foreign subject for a tort committed on the high seas is within the admiralty jurisdiction of the District Court, nor is the ship immune on the ground that it has been requisitioned by the foreign government for the purpose of transporting military supplies where the executive has not demanded the ship's release. The Atualita, (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1916) 238 Fed. 909, 152 C. C. A. 43.

Vol. IV, p. 1036, Jud. Code, sec. 24, par. sixth.

A suit by a postmaster to enjoin a post office inspector from removing and delivering to any third party, any of the property in plaintiff's possession as postmaster alleging that the defendant claimed that the plaintiff had been removed and alleging that said removal was unlawful, was within the jurisdiction of a federal District Court regardless of the amount in controversy. Porter v. Cable, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 244, 158 C. C. A. 404.

Vol. IV, p. 1037, Jud. Code, sec. 24, par. seventh.

I. SUITS ARISING UNDER PATENT LAWS (p. 1037)

In general.—Where there was no averment in plaintiff's bill that either they or the defendants were the owners of a patent or that any patent had been issued to anybody, but only that application for a patent had been filed by parties who had assigned their rights to the plaintiffs and a defendant, and the suit was brought to prevent the unlawful use of information, which might relate to an invention about the patentability of which there was contention, which had been obtained under such confidential circumstances that it ought not to be used to plaintiffs' harm, the suit did not arise under the patent laws and a state court had jurisdiction. Aronson v. Orlov, (1917) 228 Mass. 1, 116 N. E. 951.

Vol. IV, p. 1047, Jud. Code, sec. 24, par. eighth.

Action by railway carrier against consignee to recover certain charges.—Jurisdiction under this paragraph extends to a suit by a railway carrier against a commission merchant, the consignee of interstate shipments of live stock, to recover the charges for disinfecting the cars, claimed to be due under a tariff duly filed, published, and approved as required by the Interstate Commerce Act, although such consignee, admitting the legality of the charges, defends upon the ground that the carrier, having led him to believe that the amount demanded of and paid by him before he remitted to his principals the entire net proceeds of the sales of such live stock constituted full settlement, is estopped to demand more. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Rice, (1918) 247 U. S. 201, 38 S. Ct. 429, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 1071, where the court said: "The Interstate Commerce Act requires carrier to collect and consignee to pay all lawful charges duly prescribed by the tariff in respect of every shipment. This duty and obligation grow out of and depend upon that act."

A complaint by an interstate carrier to recover freight charges shows a case within this paragraph: Fargo v. Cuneo, (S. D. N. Y. 1917) 241 Fed. 726.

Vol. IV, p. 1059, Jud. Code, sec. 24, par. twentieth.

Process—Limitation.—This section prescribes no system of process to be followed by the District Courts, and those courts may follow their established practice or adopt that established for the guidance of the Court of Claims. Following the practice of the District Court, an action against the United States may be instituted by service of a writ of summons upon the district attorney, and the impetration of the writ, not the filing of a statement of claim, tells the statutory period of limitation, and for all the purposes of procedure the United States is to be regarded the same as any other defendant. Mill Creek, etc., Nav., etc., Co. v. U. S., (E. D. Pa. 1917) 246 Fed. 1013.

Recovery of taxes paid under protest to a collector of internal revenue may be had in a suit under this paragraph. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Lederer, (E. D. Pa. 1917) 239 Fed. 184, citing U. S. v. Emery, etc., Realty Co., (1915) 237 U. S. 28, 35 S. Ct. 499, 59 U. S. (L. ed.) 825.

United States not real defendants.—Where a contractor agreed with the United States to furnish certain machinery, etc., for a public work and made an agreement with a subcontractor whereby the latter agreed with the contractor to furnish said machinery, and the government, on completion of the work, withheld from the final payment to the contractor a certain sum on account of asserted dereliction of the subcontractor, and the contractor in like manner withheld said sum from the subcontractor, and the contractor and a surety company for the use and benefit of all persons furnishing labor, etc., joined in a suit against the United States and the subcontractor alleging that the latter refused to recognize the right of the government to withhold said sum and was threatening to sue the contractor, and that if said subcontractor had a valid claim against the contractor the latter had by equity the same lawful claim against the United States, and that in order to do justice to all parties an accounting should be had between the plaintiff contractor, the defendant subcontractor and the United States, praying that the court adjudicate between the respective parties as the right should appear, but without praying for judgment against the United States directly in the proceeding—it was held that the suit was primarily between the contractor and the subcontractor, and as they were citizens and residents of the state in which the suit was brought, the federal court had no jurisdiction. National Surety Co. v. Washington Iron Works, (W. D. Wash. 1917) 243 Fed. 260.

Costs against United States.—In a suit under this paragraph where judgment is rendered for the plaintiff costs may be allowed against the United States. U. S. v. Cress, (1917) 243 U. S. 316, 37 S. Ct. 380, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 746.

III. RIGHT OF REMOVAL, IN GENERAL

1. Entirely statutory (p. 31)

Dependent on Act of Congress.—"It is of course familiar law that the right of removal being statutory, a suit commenced in a state court must remain there until cause is shown for its transfer under some act of Congress." Great Northern R. Co. v. Alexander, (1918) 246 U. S. 276, 38 S. Ct. 237, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 713.

"The right of removal of a suit from a state to a federal court is purely a creature of statute," and though the subject matter of a controversy be one over which federal courts of equity have general jurisdiction concurrent with courts of the state, it is not removable if there is not diverse citizenship or other element required in the removal statute. Genesee Valley Trust Co. v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., (D. C. Kan. 1917) 240 Fed. 524, remanding a removed equity suit.

4. Waiver of Right of Removal

a. In General (p. 38)

By filing cross-complaint for affirmative relief.—In Hansen v. Pacific Coast Asphalt Cement Co. (S. D. Cal. 1917) 243 Fed. 283, it was held that a defendant who filed an answer and cross-complaint seeking a personal judgment against the plaintiff thereby became a plaintiff and ceased to be a "defendant" entitled to removal; and it was immaterial whether such cross-complaint was filed at the same time with the petition and bond for removal or subsequently.

b. Matters Occurring Before Petition for Removal (p. 39)

Where a defendant takes no exception to an order extending the time within which to file a complaint—"The decisions in this state interpretative of the statute are to the effect that when the time to file pleadings has been extended on the application of the parties, or when such time is given at some particular term by order of court and same is not objected to, such order is taken to have been acquiesced in by defendant, and the right of removal is thereby waived." Dills v. Champion Fiber Co., (N. C. 1917) 94 S. E. 694, affirming denial of a petition for removal.

IV. REMOVABLE SUITS

1. In General (p. 43)

Nonremovable united with removable causes.—"I am of opinion that, when a plaintiff sets up two separate causes of action, even in the alternative, and seeking only one recovery, one of which causes of action is removable and the other is not removable, the defendant may remove the entire case to this court." Per Westenhaver, J., in Bedell v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., (N. D. Ohio 1917) 245 Fed. 788, 791. See also Patterson v. Bucknall, (S. D. N. Y. 1913) 203 Fed. 1021 and cases cited in notes to this section 28 under division VIII infra, p. 1100, and cases cited in vol. 5, p. 79 under subheading "5. Nonfederal united with federal question."

2. "Suit" (p. 43)

Appeal from assessment for taxation.—In In re Mississippi River Power Co., (S. D. Ia. 1917) 241 Fed. 194, denying a motion to remand, it was held that the proceedings upon appeal constituted a "suit" for removal purposes.

10. Within Original "Jurisdiction by this Title"

d. Proceedings for Mandamus (p. 54)

Mandamus not real nature of proceeding.—In State v. Tacoma Ry., etc., Co., (W. D. Wash. 1910) 244 Fed. 989, a motion to remand a removed proceeding for mandamus, was denied upon the ground that the proceeding was in reality one in which the jurisdiction of the court was invoked to compel specific performance of a contract.

The foregoing case distinguished.—In State v. Puget Sound Traction, etc., Co., (W. D. Wash. 1917) 243 Fed. 748, a proceeding was brought in the state court by the filing of an affidavit by the mayor on behalf of the city of Seattle, to obtain a writ of mandamus directed against the defendant foreign corporation to compel it to maintain and operate street railways pursuant to accepted ordinances of the city. The court granted a motion to remand, distinguishing the case cited in the last preceding paragraph.

j. As to District of Residence of Parties
(p. 57)

In general.—Where the plaintiff in a suit in a New York court was a citizen of Pennsylvania and the defendant a citizen of New Jersey, the cause was remanded on motion of the plaintiff after its removal to the federal court in New York. O'Neil v. Birdseye, (S. D. N. Y. 1917) 244 Fed. 254.

Where there is the requisite diversity of citizenship and amount in controversy, a suit by a plaintiff in the court of a state of which neither party is a citizen may be removed by the defendant to the federal court in that district. Hohenberg v. Mobile Liners, Inc., (S. D. Ala. 1917) 245 Fed. 169, denying plaintiff's motion to remand.

Suit by alien.—In Keating v. Pennsylvania Co., (N. D. Ohio 1917) 245 Fed. 155, the court said: "The plaintiff is an alien subject of the king of Great Britain, and the defendant is a corporation organized and existing under the laws of the state of Pennsylvania, and having its principal office in that state. The defendant is, therefore, a citizen and resident of the state of Pennsylvania. This action was brought in the court of common pleas of Cuyahoga county, Ohio, and on application of the defendant, made in due time, was removed to this court. The plaintiff now appears specially, and moves to remand on the ground that, on the facts above stated, this action could not originally have been brought in this court, and cannot, therefore, be removed here." Upon elaborate consideration, the motion to remand was denied.

Objection by plaintiff.—A suit in which the jurisdiction of the federal court, if there be any, depends upon the presence of a federal question is not removable, against the objection of the plaintiff, by a defendant foreign corporation, which is therefore not an inhabitant of the district. Orr v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., (S. D. N. Y. 1914) 242 Fed. 608, remanding the case.

V. REMOVAL FROM AND TO WHAT COURT

2. To What Court (p. 61)

In general.—In Ostrom v. Edison, (D. C. N. J. 1917) 244 Fed. 228, an action was brought in a New York state court against a citizen of New Jersey, by a citizen of New York, suing on a claim twice assigned, the original assignor having been an alien residing in New York city, and the plaintiff's immediate assignor a New York corporation. The action was removed by the defendant into the federal district for New Jersey, but here remanded by that court for the reason that Judicial Code, § 29, provides for removal only "into the district court to be held in the district where such suit is pending."

VI. AMOUNT IN CONTROVERSY

1. Same as for Original Jurisdiction
(p. 67)

The last proviso to this section forbids removal of certain suits against carriers under the Interstate Commerce Act as amended, unless the amount in controversy exceeds $3,000. Where no part of a plaintiff's pleading attempted to allege a primary liability of the defendant under the Interstate Commerce Act otherwise than as a carrier, the action could not be removed if the plaintiff claimed less than $3,000. Emery v. American Refrigerator Co., (1918) 246 U. S. 634, 38 S. Ct. 414, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 912.

4. Amount in Dispute, How Shown

d. Counterclaim or Cross-Bill (p. 74)

Counterclaim.—In Harley v. Firemen's Fund Ins. Co., (W. D. Wash. 1913) 245 Fed. 471, the court granted a motion to remand an action at law removed by a defendant who had set up a counterclaim for $158.40, and alleged in his petition for removal that the plaintiff's claim was fraudulently reduced in order to prevent removal.

VII. SUITS UNDER CONSTITUTION, LAWS OR TREATIES

5. Nonfederal United with Federal Questions (p. 79)

"When one cause of action is stated which involves a controversy arising under the Constitution and laws of the United States, the right to remove exists, and the entire case is thereby transferred to the federal courts. If this were not true, the federal courts would be obliged to yield the right to take jurisdiction whenever a part of the cause was not removable, and thereby the jurisdiction of the federal courts might oftentimes be ousted." Per Westenhaver, J., in Bedell v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., (N. D. Ohio 1917) 245 Fed. 788, 791.

10. Federal Question Must Appear in Plaintiff's Pleading (p. 79)

In general.—Whether a case is removable or not as arising under the laws of the United States is to be determined by the allegations of the plaintiff's complaint or petition, and if the case does not thus appear to be removable it cannot be made removable by any statement in the petition for removal or in subsequent pleadings by the defendant. Great Northern R. Co. v. Alexander, (1918) 246 U. S. 276, 38 S. Ct. 237, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 713.

Averments held insufficient.—In Smith v. Barnett, (W. D. N. Y. 1917) 242 Fed. 83, the plaintiff, as receiver of a railroad company, brought a suit in equity to enjoin the defendants from carrying out and continuing a conspiracy to injury plaintiff's company, by violating a contract with the plaintiff by which traffic was to be routed over the line of his company. The defendants filed a petition for removal, contending that the Interstate Commerce Act substantially regulates the routing of traffic, with the result that the contract set up by the plaintiff was void, as its effect was to deprive shippers of the right to direct the routing of their commodities, etc., and therefore that the cause was governed by the federal statute. But the court granted a motion to remand.

11. Removable Cases

g. Suit Under Postal Laws (p. 85)

A suit by a postmaster to enjoin a post office inspector from removing and delivering to any third party any of the property in plaintiff's possession as postmaster, alleging that the defendant claimed that the plaintiff had been removed, and alleging that said removal was unlawful, was within the original jurisdiction of a federal District Court, regardless of the amount in controversy, under Judicial Code, § 24, par. sixth, and being instituted in a state court was removable to the federal court. Porter v. Coble, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 244, 158 C. C. A. 404.

h. Suit on Federal Employers' Liability Act (p. 85)

A federal question appears where the allegations in a complaint against an interstate railroad company, to recover for personal injuries, show that plaintiff was employed in interstate commerce when injured; and the action would be removable were it not for the proviso in Judicial Code, § 28, forbidding removal of actions based on the federal Employers' Liability Act. Great Northern R. Co. v. Alexander, (1918) 246 U. S. 276, 38 S. Ct. 237, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 713.

i. Suit by or Against Federal Corporation (p. 86)

The Act of Jan. 28, 1915, ch. 22, § 5, in vol. VI, p. 238, operates to prevent a defendant from removing a case on the ground that it was incorporated under an Act of Congress. Texas, etc., R. Co. v.

Hanson, (Tex. Civ. App. 1916) 189 S. W. 289.

VIII. PROVISIO EXCLUDING CASES ARISING UNDER FEDERAL EMPLOYERS' LIABILITY ACT (p. 92)

Diversity of citizenship cannot be a ground for removal of a case arising under the federal Employers' Liability Act. Southern R. Co. v. Puckett, (1917) 244 U. S. 571, 37 S. Ct. 703, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 1321, following Kansas City Southern R. Co. v. Leslie, (1915) 238 U. S. 599, 35 S. Ct. 844, 59 U. S. (L. ed.) 1478; St. Joseph, etc., R. Co. v. Moore, (1917) 243 U. S. 311, 37 S. Ct. 278, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 741.

Where the plaintiff's complaint shows a case arising under the federal Employers' Liability Act, the action cannot be removed on the ground of diverse citizenship of the parties. Great Northern R. Co. v. Alexander, (1918) 246 U. S. 276, 38 S. Ct. 237, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 713.

Fraudulent allegations to prevent removal.—There seems to be no doubt that an action on the federal Employers' Liability Act between parties of diverse citizenship would be removable on the ground of diversity of citizenship upon a petition containing allegations meeting the requirements of the cases set forth in volume 5, pp. 293-301, and showing that the plaintiff's allegations that the injury occurred in interstate commerce were knowingly false and were fraudulently made. See Great Northern R. Co. v. Alexander, (1918) 246 U. S. 276, 38 S. Ct. 237, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 713.

Federal question involved.—An action on the federal Employers' Liability Act involves a federal question, but is not removable upon that ground. Great Northern R. Co. v. Alexander, (1918) 246 U. S. 276, 38 S. Ct. 237, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 713.

Separate counts on common law and state statutes.—In Bedell v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., (N. D. Ohio 1917) 245 Fed. 788, denying motions to remand several actions brought by several plaintiffs against the defendant, the court said: "I am of opinion that, when a plaintiff sets up two separate causes of action, even in the alternative, and seeking only one recovery, one of which causes of action is removable and the other is not removable, the defendant may remove the entire case to this court."

Action against railroad company and Pullman company.—An action solely against the Pullman Company for death of plaintiff's decedent in its employment would be removable, if there was the necessary diversity of citizenship, and so would an action brought against a non-resident railroad company and the Pullman Company where the plaintiff alleged employment solely by the Pullman Company. But where plaintiff alleged employment of his decedent by the railroad company and death caused by the concurrent negligence of both defendants, and the latter removed the cause upon a petition alleging that the employment was solely by the Pullman Company, and the plaintiff moved to remand, the court made an order requiring both plaintiff and defendants to file affidavits and counter-affidavits as to the fact of employment, with the privilege of cross-examination by the plaintiff. In open court, upon notice, of the persons making affidavits for defendants. Martin v. New York, etc., R. Co., (S. D. N. Y. 1917) 241 Fed. 696.

IX. CITIZENSHIP, AS JURISDICTIONAL ELEMENT

7. Corporation (p. 98)

The state in which a corporation is organized determines its citizenship, whether it has offices and transacts business in the state in which the suit is sought to be brought or not. Johanson v. Alaska Treadwell Gold Min. Co., 225 Fed. 270." Martin v. Matson Nav. Co., (W. D. Wash. 1917) 239 Fed. 188.

X. DIVERSE CITIZENSHIP, ALIENAGE, OR FOREIGN STATE AS GROUND FOR REMOVAL

3. Several Parties Plaintiff or Defendant

c. Formal, Nominal, or Unnecessary Parties (p. 106)

Unnecessary party.—In Seattle v. Great Northern R. Co., (W. D. Wash. 1913) 239 Fed. 1009, where a Washington railroad corporation had constructed a tunnel in the city of Seattle and subsequently sold and conveyed to a foreign corporation all its properties and franchises, and had by reason of the statute of limitations ceased to be liable in damages for negligent construction and operation of said tunnel, it was not a necessary party to an action for the recovery of such damages against said foreign corporation, although the franchise and property thus conveyed were not relieved from liability.

4. Fraudulent Joinder of Defendants

a. As Ground for Removal, in General (p. 113)

"While the plaintiff may, in good faith, proceed in the state court upon a cause of action which it alleges to be joint, it is equally true that the federal court will not sanction devices intended to prevent a removal to the federal court where one has a right to such removal, and should be equally ready to protect the right to proceed in the federal court as to permit the state court in a proper case to retain its own jurisdiction." Seattle v. Great Northern R. Co., (W. D. Wash. 1913) 239 Fed. 1009.

6. Suits by Assignee (p. 119)

In Sands v. Carruthers, (S. D. N. Y. 1917) 243 Fed. 636, it was held that where an alien assigned to a citizen a chose in action against another alien, the fact of alienage of the assignor did not bar the federal court of jurisdiction by removal of suit by his citizen administrators, as if the assignor's citizen administrators had sued the court would have had jurisdiction.

In Patterson v. Bucknell, (S. D. N. Y. 1913) 203 Fed. 1021, the plaintiff sued as assignee of ten separate causes of action, the assignors in some instances being citizens of the United States, and in others aliens, and defendant was an alien corporation. The defendant removed the suit and the plaintiff's motion to remand was denied.

XI. SEPARABLE CONTROVERSY AS GROUND OF REMOVAL

3. Tests of Separability

a. In General (p. 123)

Character of relief sought.—On a bill in equity by a receiver of a corporation against its directors, under a statute imposing a joint liability upon all the defendants charged jointly in the bill as tortfeasors, with a prayer for a money decree against all, there was no separable controversy, as the relief sought could not be afforded in a suit against any one of defendants alone. Holcombe v. Ames, (1917) 87 N. J. Eq. 486, 100 Atl. 609.

11. Separate Defenses

b. Actions Ex Contractu (p. 133)

In an action on a contract separate defenses do not raise separable controversies. Seattle v. Beer's Bldg. Co., (W. D. Wash. 1917) 242 Fed. 988.

16. Separable Controversy, How Shown (p. 138)

"In deciding whether or not a separable controversy exists between the plaintiff and the defendant claiming the right to remove, the cause of action alleged in the plaintiff's pleading must be accepted as the only criterion of the decision, and if it is there alleged that the cause of action is joint, and if it appears that some of the defendants are citizens of the same state with the plaintiff, it must be held that the suit is not removable." Holcombe v. Ames, (1917) 87 N. J. Eq. 486, 100 Atl. 609, following National Docks, etc., Connecting R. Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., (1893) 52 N. J. Eq. 58, 28 Atl. 71, affirmed 52 N. J. Eq. 590, 30 Atl. 50.

34. Miscellaneous Equity Suits (p. 148)

No separable controversy.—In a suit in equity against several defendants to recover property held by several of them and alleged to have been obtained by the fraud and conspiracy of some of the defendants, one of the defendants so charged cannot have a separable controversy with the plaintiff. O'Neil v. Birdseye, (S. D. N. Y. 1917) 244 Fed. 254, the court holding that the case could not be distinguished from Baillie v. Backus, (D. C. Ore. 1916) 230 Fed. 711, "where it was held that one conspirator alone could not remove claiming a separable controversy."

In a suit by a receiver of a railroad company against a nonresident railroad company and resident individuals to enjoin them from carrying out an alleged conspiracy to injure the plaintiff's company by violating a certain contract as to routing of traffic, it was held that there was no separable controversy with the defendant railroad company, as the action was brought essentially in tort against all the defendants as wrongdoers. Smith v. Barnett, (W. D. N. Y. 1917) 242 Fed. 83.

Where a state statute prohibited directors of a corporation from paying dividends except upon the surplus or from the net profits arising from the business of the corporation, and imposed a joint and several liability upon them for any willful or negligent violation, which in case of insolvency was enforceable by the receiver to the full amount of any loss sustained by the corporation by reason of such division, and such receiver filed a bill against former directors of a corporation, praying that the defendants "be decreed jointly and severally to pay the full amount of the said dividends," there was no separable controversy authorizing removal by one of the defendants. Holcombe v. Ames, (1917) 87 N. J. Eq. 486, 100 Atl. 609.

36. Action of Tort Against Master and Servant (p. 153)

Removal allowed.—In Martin v. Matson Nav. Co., (W. D. Wash. 1917) 239 Fed. 188, it was held that a nonresident corporation was entitled to remove an action of tort brought against it and a resident servant for injuries suffered by another servant, the plaintiff's intestate, where the plaintiff's complaint showed that there was no joint liability between the servant defendant and the corporation defendant. It seems, however, that no cause of action was stated against the servant.

37. Action of Tort Against Lessor and Lessee Railroad Company (p. 159)

Where the plaintiff's pleading in an action against a resident lessor railroad company and its nonresident lessee railroad company to recover for negligently killing plaintiff's intestate in the operation of the road, stated a cause of action against the lessor company, according to the decisions of the highest court of the state, the lessee railroad company had no removable separable controversy. McAlister v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., (1917) 243 U. S. 302, 37 S. Ct. 274, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 735.

41. Action Against Principal and Surety (p. 161)

An action on a bond of a contractor for public work brought by a municipal corporation against the resident contractor and a nonresident surety on the bond, to recover for breach of the bond, was not removable by the surety on the alleged ground of a separable controversy. Seattle v. Beer's Bldg. Co., (W. D. Wash. 1917) 242 Fed. 988.

XIII. WHO MAY REMOVE A SUIT

2. Only a Defendant (p. 186)

Defendant becoming a plaintiff in a cross complaint.—In Hansen v. Pacific Coast Asphalt Cement Co., (S. D. Cal. 1917) 243 Fed. 283, granting a motion to remand a removed case, the court said: "This action was commenced in the superior court of the state of California, in and for the county of Santa Barbara, and the proceedings therein progressed until a decree was entered June 26, 1916. Thereafter defendant applied, under section 473 of the Code of Civil Procedure, for leave to answer; the application having been made within a year after the rendition of said decree. The court made an order on February 7, 1917, allowing the defendant to answer within 10 days from that date. On February 13, 1917, the defendant filed a petition and bond to remove the cause to this court. On the same date, to wit, February 13, 1917, defendant filed an answer and cross-complaint, seeking a personal judgment against the plaintiff. The record presented to this court shows that the answer and cross-complaint appear in the record following the petition and bond for removal. The court cannot assume from this fact that the cross-complaint was filed subsequent to the petition for removal. The parties have discussed the case as though it were filed subsequent to filing the petition and bond. It does not seem to make any difference whether it was filed contemporaneous with the petition and bond or subsequently. It would seem, however, that the court should consider that all three of the papers were filed at the same time. Only the defendant has a right to remove a case from a state court to this court. Judicial Code, § 28. The question presented upon this motion to remand is whether or not the case was removed here by a defendant. The only difference between a counterclaim and a cross-complaint, so far as the record here is concerned, in the California practice, is that, in a cross-complaint filed by a defendant, the plaintiff is required to answer. No answer is necessary to a counterclaim. C. C. P. §§ 437, 438, 442, 626, 666. There is a conflict of authority concerning the right of removal by plaintiff, where defendant files a cross-bill or counterclaim. . . . Some of the cases which deny the right of a plaintiff to remove assign as the reason that the plaintiff invoked jurisdiction of the court, knowing that a counterclaim or cross-bill might be filed. These cases are distinguished, where it is said that, if the federal court did not have jurisdiction of the cause of action which the plaintiff filed, the principle just stated did not apply, and therefore that the plaintiff could remove the case, where the cross-complaint was such as to give the federal court jurisdiction, because he had become a defendant. Price & Hart v. Ellis (C. C.) 129 Fed. 482; Hagerla v. Miss. River Power Co. (D. C.) 202 Fed. 771. The principle involved in these cases is the same principle involved in this case. A cross-complaint is the assertion of a new and different cause of action from that asserted in the complaint. The defendant becomes a plaintiff to all intents and purposes by filing a cross-complaint. When the action is removed, it carries the whole record. That would bring with it the action which the defendant instituted, and, if he is allowed to remove under such circumstances, it would be allowing the plaintiff to remove an action, instead of limiting the right of removal to a defendant. By filing this cross-complaint, the defendant became a plaintiff, and invoked the jurisdiction of the court, and thereby deprived itself of the right to remove. Texas & Pacific Ry. v. Eastin, 214 U. S. 153, 29 Sup. Ct. 564, 53 L. Ed. 946. The defendant claims he was compelled to file cross-complaint in order to preserve his rights. That, however, is not true, because the defendant could have removed the case without filing any pleading at all in the state court."

3. Only a Nonresident Defendant

b. Suit by or Against Alien (p. 206)

Removal by defendant alien.—In Beat v. Great Northern R. Co., (D. C. Mont. 1917) 243 Fed. 789, the court denied a motion to remand a joint suit for tort removed from a Montana court by defendants, one a foreign corporation, the other a citizen of Italy resident in Montana, as an alien must be assumed not to reside in the United States.

5. For Diverse Citizenship Alone

c. Joinder in Petition for Removal (p. 208)

One of several necessary defendants cannot alone remove the cause, where there is no separable controversy. O'Neil v. Birdseye, (S. D. N. Y. 1917) 244 Fed. 254.

XVI. ORDER OF REMAND NOT REVIEWABLE

2. Indirect Review Forbidden

a. In General (p. 233)

"This court has more than once held that such an order is not subject to review, directly or indirectly, but is final and conclusive. Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Fitzgerald, 160 U. S. 556, 580-583, 16 S. Ct. 389, 40 U. S. (L. ed.) 536, 542, 543; McLaughlin Bros. v. Hallowell, 228 U. S. 278, 286, 33 S. Ct. 465, 57 U. S. (L. ed.) 835, 839; Pacific Live Stock Co. v. Lewis, 241 U. S. 440, 447, 36 S. Ct. 637, 60 U. S. (L. ed.) 1084." Yankaus v. Feltenstein, (1917) 244 U. S. 127, 37 S. Ct. 567, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 1036.

d. On Writ of Error to State Court (p. 234)

In Yankaus v. Feltenstein, (1917) 244 U. S. 127, 37 S. Ct. 567, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 1036, a petition and bond for removal were filed in the state court, after notice, and the bond was approved by the judge of the state court. The record was then filed in the federal court. The state court afterward rendered judgment for the plaintiff. The federal court, on proper notice and motion to remand, then entered an order restraining the plaintiff from proceeding further to enforce said judgment, until the question of jurisdiction could be decided on the motion to remand, and subsequently it entered an order remanding the case. The defendant then moved in the state court to set aside the judgment rendered by it while the cause was pending in the federal court, and his said motion was denied; and the judgment and the decision on the motion were affirmed by the appellate state court. On writ of error from the United States Supreme Court the judgment of the state court was affirmed, it being held that the effect of the orders of the federal court was to hold that the attempted removal was unauthorized, and that this holding was final and conclusive.

Vol. V, p. 235, Jud. Code, sec. 29.

II. Time for filing petition and bond.

6. "Rule of the state court."
7. Time to plead in various states.
10. Extension of time by order or stipulation.

- 23. After nonremovable case becomes removable.

II. TIME FOR FILING PETITION AND BOND

6. "Rule of the State Court" (p. 240)

"This term 'rule of court' appearing in the statute has reference to a standing rule having the force of law. Meeke v. Mineral Co., 122 N. C. 790-797, 29 S. E. 781; Fox v. R. Co., 80 Fed. 945." Dills v. Champion Fiber Co., (N. C. 1917) 94 S. E. 694.

"The reference in the federal statute to the rule of the state court in which suit is brought to answer or plead clearly relates, not to special orders granted upon application or stipulations of parties in any given case, but rather to a general rule fixing the date at which all defendants are required to appear in order to avoid being held in default." Wilson v. Big Joe Block Coal Co., (1907) 135 Ia. 531, 113 N. W. 348, 14 Ann. Cas. 266, followed in a case removed from an Iowa court in Waverly Stone, etc., Co. v. Waterloo, etc., R. Co., (N. D. Ia. 1917) 239 Fed. 561.

7. Time to Plead in Various States (p. 241)

In Ohio.—See Bedell v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., (N. D. Ohio 1917) 245 Fed. 788, holding that defendant's petition for removal was filed in time under the Ohio law.

10. Extension of Time by Order or Stipulation (p. 242)

Order of court.—A petition for removal is filed too late where the statutory time for the defendant to answer or otherwise plead has expired, though within the time extended by a local rule of the state court in which the cause is pending, especially where the highest court of the state has decided that the statute authorizing the court to extend the time to plead does not have the effect to extend the time for removal. Waverly Stone, etc., Co. v. Waterloo, etc., R. Co., (N. D. Ia. 1917) 239 Fed. 561, granting a motion to remand.

Stipulation of parties.—"A defendant is not required by law to plead until the time fixed by order, if the time be extended by order of court, or until the time fixed by stipulation, if the other party sees fit to stipulate in writing that he need not answer or plead until a fixed day. The New York courts and rules recognize stipulations of this character, and in the absence of fraud or mistake hold the parties to them bound thereby. This court has so decided. Groton, etc., Co. v. Am. B. Co., 137 Fed. 284. And see Russell v. Harriman Land Co., 145 Fed. 745. . . . There are a few cases to the contrary which seem to be based upon the proposition that parties by stipulation cannot extend the time within which removal is to be made." Hinman v. Barrett, (N. D. N. Y. 1917) 244 Fed. 621, per Ray, J.

In Solomon v. Pennsylvania R. Co., (E. D. N. Y. 1917) 240 Fed. 231, the plaintiff gave the defendant a written stipulation extending the time "to answer, plead or make any motion." On the next day after expiration of the extended time, the plaintiff stipulated that the defendant should have 20 days' further time to "answer," but struck out the words "demur or otherwise plead." "On such a stipulation, even if we assumed the default was opened thereby, the power to remove was lost," said the court, granting a motion to remand where the cause was removed on a petition subsequently filed.

23. After Nonremovable Case Becomes Removable

a. In General (p. 254)

"That a case not removable when commenced may afterwards become removable is settled by Ayres v. Watson, 113 U. S. 594; Martin v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 161 U. S. 673, 688, 691; Powers v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 169 U. S. 92, and Fritzlen v. Boatmen's Bank, 212 U. S. 364." Great Northern R. Co. v. Alexander, (1918) 246 U. S. 276, 38 S. Ct. 237, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 713.

f. Disclaimer, Discontinuance, Nonsuit, etc., Showing Diversity of Citizenship or Fraudulent Joinder (p. 258)

"The obvious principle of these decisions" set forth under this head in vol. 5, p. 258, holding that a case had not become removable, was applied in Great Northern R. Co. v. Alexander, (1918) 246 U. S. 276, 38 S. Ct. 237, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 713.

ff. Failure of Proof of Alleged Federal Question (p. 258)

A case arising under the laws of the United States and between citizens of different states but nonremovable on the complaint, because arising under the federal Employers' Liability Act, "cannot be converted into a removable one by evidence of the defendant or by an order of the court upon any issue tried upon the merits," and "such conversion can only be accomplished by the voluntary amendment of his pleadings by the plaintiff." Great Northern R. Co. v. Alexander, (1918) 246 U. S. 276, 38 S. Ct. 237, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 713.

In Great Northern R. Co. v. Alexander, (1918) 246 U. S. 276, 38 S. Ct. 237, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 713, cited in the last preceding paragraph, the action as shown in the plaintiff's complaint was based on the federal Employers' Liability Act, and was therefore at its commencement nonremovable, by force of the proviso to Judicial Code, § 28, vol. 5, p. 16, although the parties were of diverse citizenship, and the court held that it did not become removable after the plaintiff had rested his case upon defendant's contention that the proof showed that the case was intrastate and therefore removable for diverse citizenship, where the plaintiff did not at any time admit that he had failed to prove the allegation that the cause of action arose under the federal Employers'

Liability Act, and did not amend his complaint, but contended at every stage of the case that his allegation was supported by the evidence.

III. NOTICE OF PETITION AND BOND PRIOR TO FILING

2. Under Judicial Code

c. Sufficiency of Notice (p. 272)

"A notice of intention to file a petition and bond for removal of a cause is sufficient though it does not specify the time and place when it is to be presented. Potter v. General Baking Co., 213 Fed. 697." Hinman v. Barrett, (N. D. N. Y. 1917) 244 Fed. 621.

e. Reported Forms of Notice (p. 273)

The notice served in Hinman v. Barrett, (N. D. N. Y. 1917) 244 Fed. 621, and held sufficient, is there set forth in full.

IV. PETITION FOR REMOVAL

10. Averments as to Citizenship

a. Individuals (p. 282)

An averment of residence is not the equivalent of an averment of citizenship. Hinman v. Barrett, (N. D. N. Y. 1917) 244 Fed. 621.

f. Corporation (p. 286)

An averment that a corporation is a citizen of a particular state is insufficient. Fentress Coal, etc., Co. v. Elmore, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 240 Fed. 328, 153 C. C. A. 254, where in an action begun in a Tennessee court, the removal petition by the defendant corporation alleged that both at the time of commencing suit and filing of removal petition, the plaintiff was a citizen of Tennessee, and the defendant was a citizen of the state of Pennsylvania and of no other state, residing in the city of Philadelphia, in said state. The Circuit Court of Appeals held that the allegation was insufficient, and reversed a judgment for the plaintiff, but with leave to the plaintiff to amend his declaration in the court below so as to show that the defendant was organized under the laws of Pennsylvania.

13. Averments of Fraudulent Joinder

b. Sufficient Allegations (p. 293)

In Seattle v. Great Northern R. Co., (W. D. Wash. 1913) 239 Fed. 1009, the Seattle & Montana Railway Company, a Washington corporation, was joined as a defendant in an action against a foreign corporation to which it had conveyed its property and franchises to recover damages for alleged negligent construction and operation of a tunnel. The petition for removal by the foreign corporation alleged that the Washington corporation was fraudulently joined to prevent removal and continued: "that said plaintiff had not at the time of the commencement of this action, and has not since had, and has not now, any reason whatever to believe, or any reasonable grounds of establishing any facts connecting the Seattle & Montana Railroad Company with the cause of action herein, and has not now, or has it had, any reasonable grounds to believe that a cause of action against said Seattle & Montana Railroad Company exists now, or existed at the time of the commencement of this action arising out of the facts set forth in said complaint." Upon consideration of affidavits filed in support of the foregoing allegation, the court held that the alleged fraudulent joinder was proved, and a motion to remand was denied.

c. Insufficient Allegations (p. 296)

"The right of removal may not be defeated by a fraudulent joinder of a defendant having no real connection with the controversy; but the defendant seeking removal must allege facts that force the conclusion that the joinder is fraudulent, unless it is apparent upon the face of the complaint and merely to apply the term 'fraudulent' will not suffice. . . . For the purposes of removal the issue tendered is what the plaintiff makes it in his complaint." Martin v. Matson Nav. Co., (W. D. Wash. 1917) 239 Fed. 188.

In a petition for removal by a nonresident lessee railroad company of an action of tort against said company and its resident lessor, an allegation that the said lessor company was "wrongfully, fraudulently and falsely" made a party for the sole purpose of preventing removal to the federal court, without any intention on the part of the plaintiff of proving against it any of the tortious acts alleged by the plaintiff, was on its face insufficient under the decisions of the Federal Supreme Court. McAllister v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., (1917) 243 U. S. 302, 37 S. Ct. 274, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 735.

22. Verification Under Judicial Code

b. Sufficiency (p. 309)

Where a suit by a postmaster against a post office inspector was removable as arising under the postal laws, and a petition for removal was verified by one signing his name as "United States Attorney" and "attorney for petitioner" the verification was sufficient, as it was possible that the words "United States Attorney" were descriptio personæ. Porter v. Coble, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 244, 158 C. C. A. 404, where it seems also that the objection was first made in the Appellate Court.

23. Reported Forms of Petitions

h. Averments as to Fraudulent Joinder (p. 314)

See quotation from the petition for removal in Seattle v. Great Northern R. Co., (W. D. Wash. 1913) 230 Fed. 1009, as given supra, at p. 1105.

V. BOND FOR REMOVAL

7. Validity of Execution (p. 322)

Execution by foreign surety company.—Where a bond was signed by the president of the petitioning defendant corporation, and by a surety company by its agent and attorney in fact, with the surety company's corporate seal attached it was "amply sufficient to authorize the state judge to accept the same, unless something was brought to his attention questioning the validity of said bond." Brady v. J. B. McCrary Co., (S. D. Fla. 1917) 244 Fed. 602, where the court denying a motion to remand, overruled objection that the bond was insufficient on its face, because it was "executed by a foreign corporation in a foreign jurisdiction with a foreign surety company, and it is not made to appear that the seals affixed have been authorized."

9. Qualification, Justification, and Sufficiency (p. 324)

Foreign surety company—number of sureties.—In Brady v. J. B. McCrary Co., (S. D. Fla. 1917) 244 Fed. 602, denying a motion to remand upon the contention that it did not appear that the surety on the bond, which was a foreign surety company, was authorized to do business in Florida, where the removal was had, the court said: "The foreign corporation act of Florida has been construed by the state Supreme Court as making the contracts voidable and not void, and such act has been amended by the legislature at its session in 1915. But in any event by the terms of the act the foreign corporation not complying with the act can take no advantage of such noncompliance, but is bound by its contracts. Section 29 of the Judicial Code requires 'surety,' not 'sureties.'"

VI. FILING AND PRESENTATION OF PETITION AND BOND

3. Filing with Clerk of Court (p. 327)

"The section requires that the petition and sufficient bond be filed, and it is settled law that the clerk is the custodian of the records of the court, and a lodging with him for such purpose is a filing, whether he sees fit to place his file mark thereon or not." Brady v. J. B. McCrary Co., (S. D. Fla. 1917) 244 Fed. 602.

VII. STATE COURT'S LOSS OF JURISDICTION

1. By Filing of Sufficient Petition and Bond (p. 356)

"The filing of a duly verified petition for removal, stating the necessary facts, together with a good and sufficient bond, conditioned as required by the section, with written notice to the plaintiff that the same would be filed, automatically removed said cause to the United States court. . . . It is too well settled by authority to need citation that even the refusal of the state court to grant the petition in a proper case made is of no moment." Brady v. J. B. McCrary Co., (S. D. Fla. 1917) 244 Fed. 602.

5. Validity of Further Proceedings

h. Effect of Adjudication of Federal Jurisdiction by Federal Court (p. 361)

A restraining order issued by the federal court forbidding enforcement of a judgment rendered by the state court, where the memorandum opinion accompanying the order showed that its purpose was merely to prevent proceedings until a motion to remand could be heard and decided, was not an adjudication that the federal court had jurisdiction; and the motion to remand being subsequently granted, the validity of the said judgment of the state court was not assailable on writ of error by the United States Supreme Court. Yankaus v. Feltenstein, (1917) 244 U. S. 127, 37 S. Ct. 567, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 1036.

IX. JURISDICTION ACQUIRED BY FEDERAL COURT

3. By Filing Certified Copy of Record

b. Failure to File or Delay in Filing (p. 366)

Motion to remand—A case was remanded where a copy of the record was not filed in the federal court until more than three months after the expiration of the thirty days prescribed in Judicial Code, sec. 29, and no excuse for the delay was shown. Waverly Stone, etc., Co. v. Waterloo, etc., R. Co., (N. D. Ia. 1917) 239 Fed. 561, the court saying: "The plaintiff has not moved to remand the cause upon the ground above considered; but the court may and should remand the cause upon its own motion, if the case, though a removable one, is not properly removed. Crehore v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., 131 U. S. 9, S. Ct. 92, 33 U. S. (L. ed.) 144; Burnham v. First Nat. Bank, 53 Fed. 163-167, 3 C. C. A. 486; Barth v. Coler, 60 Fed. 466, 9 C. C. A. 81."

4. Injunction Against Further Proceedings in State Court

a. In General (p. 372)

Power to grant injunction—ancillary bill for injunction.—"If a cause is properly removed from a state to a federal court, the latter may, when it is necessary to do so, issue an injunction to restrain further proceedings in the state court, if such court should persist in proceeding." This it may do in an ancillary suit for injunction for the purpose of protecting its own jurisdiction, and in such suit, the court having denied a motion to remand, the jurisdiction acquired by the removal cannot be questioned or re-examined, and the court "can only consider the question of jurisdiction of the ancillary suit so far as to ascertain whether the ancillary character of the suit is made to appear by the allegations of the bill." McCabe v. Guaranty Trust Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 243 Fed. 845, 156 C. C. A. 357.

b. When Injunction Denied (p. 373)

Since a decree in equity is to be shaped as the rights of the parties exist at the time of the decree, and where the answer to an ancillary bill for injunction against further proceedings in the state court in a removed case admitted the intention of the defendant to proceed in the state court if the latter should decide that the case was not removable, but said court afterward but before decree on the ancillary bill, granted the removal, the federal court properly refused to grant the injunction and its dismissal of the bill without prejudice was affirmed. McCabe v. Guaranty Trust Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 243 Fed. 845, 156 C. C. A. 357.

Vol. V, p. 398, Jud. Code, sec. 37.

I. Dismissal of suit.

3. Parties improperly or collusively made or joined.

a. In general.

5. Where jurisdiction is doubtful.

6. Elimination of ground of removal.

b. Reduction of amount in controversy.

7. Delay in filing transcript.

III. Waiver or amendment of defects.

1. Waiver of objection.

2. Amendment of record in general.

3. Amendment of petition for removal.

b. As to citizenship.

IV. Issues of fact in removed cases.

5. For want of jurisdictional amount in controversy.

8. Fraudulent joinder to prevent removal.
- d. Sufficiency of evidence.
- V. Procedure for remand.
 1. Remand on court's own motion.
 - b. For mere irregularities.
12. Reconsideration of order denying remand.
16. Costs on remand.

I. DISMISSAL OF SUIT

3. Parties Improperly or Collusively Made or Joined

a. In General (p. 401)

Friendly suit.—In Stephens v. Ohio State Telephone Co., (N. D. Ohio 1917) 240 Fed. 759, where it was contended that jurisdiction of certain suits was lacking because they were collusive, the court said: "In argument it is urged with considerable insistence that the court has before it a case squarely within the provisions of sections 19 and 20, and particularly the latter, of the act of October 15, 1914. There is no evidence of collusion between the parties in this case; that the original parties may be friendly antagonists is not, however, improbable. Counsel's surmise may be correct, but something more than this is necessary to make their 'collusion' reprehensible."

II. GROUNDS FOR REMAND

1. Want of Jurisdiction, in General (p. 407)

Petition for removal not filed in time.—Where a motion to remand was made on the sole ground that there was no removable separable controversy, the court found it unnecessary to consider that ground, but remanded the case because the petition for removal was not filed in time. Waverly Stone, etc., Co. v. Waterloo, etc., R. Co., (N. D. Ia. 1917) 239 Fed. 561.

2. Suit Not Within Original Federal Jurisdiction in the Particular District (p. 408)

Both plaintiff and defendant nonresidents.—Where the plaintiff in a suit in a New York court was a citizen of Pennsylvania and the defendant a citizen of New Jersey, the cause was remanded on motion of the plaintiff after its removal to the federal court in New York. O'Neil v. Birdseye, (S. D. N. Y. 1917) 244 Fed. 254, where the court said: "Neither the plaintiff nor the removing defendant reside within this district, and under the rule laid down in Doherty v. Smith (D. C.) 233 Fed. 132, this court is committed to the rule of law that a motion to remand should be granted because of the nonresidence within this district of the plaintiff or defendant. Judge Hand, in the authority above cited, reviewed the authorities with considerable care, and I cannot find that the rule laid down in the case of Doherty v. Smith has been departed from in this district."

5. Where Jurisdiction Is Doubtful (p. 411)

"It is the duty of the court, where doubt exists is to jurisdiction to remand the cause to the state court." Harley v. Firemen's Fund Ins. Co., (W. D. Wash. 1913) 245 Fed. 471.

If jurisdiction of the federal court is doubtful, the cause "should for that reason alone be remanded." Ostrom v. Edison, (D. C. N. J. 1917) 244 Fed. 228, citing the following cases: Fitzgerald v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., (C. C. Neb. 1891) 45 Fed. 812; Fishblatt v. Atlantic City, (C. C. N. J. 1909) 174 Fed. 196; Shawnee Nat. Bank v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., (E. D. Okla. 1909) 175 Fed. 456; Odhner v. Northern Pac. R. Co., (S. D. N. Y. 1910) 188 Fed. 507, 508; Jackson v. Hooper, (S. D. N. Y. 1911) 188 Fed. 509; Western Union Tel. Co. v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., (E. D. Tenn. 1912) 201 Fed. 932, 945; Eddy v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., (W. D. Wis. 1915) 226 Fed. 120, 125.

"It is the duty of the court to remand, where there is doubt as to whether the case has been properly removed." Hanset v. Pacific Coast Asphalt Cement Co., (S. D. Cal. 1917) 243 Fed. 283, holding that a defendant who filed an answer and cross complaint seeking a personal judgment against the plaintiff thereby debarred himself from exercising the right as a "defendant" to remove the case. Duty to remand where a doubt exists was also affirmed in State v. Puget Sound Traction, etc., Co., (W. D. Wash. 1917) 243 Fed. 748.

"In case of doubt it has always been the practice of this circuit to remand." Orr v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., (S. D. N. Y. 1914) 242 Fed. 608.

In the Eighth Circuit the rule is stated to be that if on a motion to remand the question of federal jurisdiction is doubtful the jurisdiction should be retained and the motion denied. Strother v. Union Pac. R. Co., (W. D. Mo. 1915) 220 Fed. 731, citing Boatmen's Bank v. Fritzlen, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1905) 135 Fed. 650, 68 C. C. A. 288.

In re Mississippi River Power Co., (S. D. Ia. 1917) 241 Fed. 194, denying a motion to remand based on the contention that the proceeding removed was not a "suit," the court said: "Were the question doubtful, it would be my duty to resolve the doubt against the motion to remand, because from such order an appeal will lie, while from an order remanding the case the parties have no right of appeal."

6. Elimination of ground of removal

b. Reduction of Amount in Controversy (p. 413)

In Jellison v. Krell Piano Co., (E. D. Ky. 1917) 246 Fed. 509, a suit for the recovery of $2,900 for services and to enjoin violation of a copyright was removed for diversity of citizenship on a petition alleging that the matter in dispute exceeded $3,000. In the federal court the action for injunction was dismissed on plaintiff's motion, leaving a suit to recover only $2,900. Upon such dismissal and because the suit as it then stood could not have been removed, a motion to remand was made. Upon much consideration the motion was denied, the court following Kirby v. American Soda Fountain Co., (1904) 194 U. S. 141, 24 S. Ct. 619, 48 U. S. (L. ed.) 911, and the following two cases in the Circuit Court of Appeals for the same circuit: Riggs v. Clark, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1896) 71 Fed. 560, 18 C. C. A. 242; Hayward v. Nordberg Mfg. Co., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1898) 85 Fed. 4, 29 C. C. A. 438; although the court found it "difficult to reconcile the Soda Fountain Case with the Seeligson and Torrence Cases," the latter two cases being Texas Transp. Co. v. Seeligson, (1887) 122 U. S. 519, 7 S. Ct. 1261, 30 U. S. (L. ed.) 1150, and Torrence v. Shedd, (1892) 144 U. S. 527, 12 S. Ct. 726, 36 U. S. (L. ed.) 528.

7. Delay in Filing Transcript (p. 413)

In Waverly Stone, etc., Co. v. Waterloo, etc., R. Co., (N. D. Ia. 1917) 239 Fed. 561, the court remanded a cause partly because a copy of the record was not filed until after a delay of more than three months, no excuse for the delay being shown, although the plaintiff's motion to remand was based solely upon the ground that there was no separable controversy.

III. WAIVER OR AMENDMENT OF DEFECTS

1. Waiver of Objection (p. 414)

Where the plaintiff in an action in a New York court against a New Jersey corporation did not allege his citizenship or residence, and the defendant appeared and answered generally and removed the case upon a petition alleging that the plaintiff was a citizen of New York, it had no right to object to being sued in that district when it developed on the trial that the plaintiff was an alien. Sawickas v. Singer Mfg. Co., (E. D. N. Y. 1917) 241 Fed. 600.

2. Amendment of Record in General (p. 416)

To show citizenship of corporation.—In Fentress Coal, etc., Co. v. Elmore, (C.

C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 240 Fed. 328, 153 C. C. A. 254, where a case was removed on a petition insufficient because it alleged that the corporation defendant was a citizen of a state without alleging that it was organized under the laws of that state, a judgment for the plaintiff was reversed, but with leave to amend his declaration, and thus support the judgment, by amending his declaration so as to make a proper allegation of defendant's citizenship. The court said: "The defect in the record is capable of being cured by amendment, in spite of the fact that the case came into the court below by removal from a state court. La Belle Co. v. Stricklin, (C. C. A. 6th Cir.) 218 Fed. 529, 533, 534, 134 C. C. A. 257; Rife v. Lumber Underwriters, (C. C. A. 6th Cir.) 204 Fed. 34, 36, 122 C. C. A. 346."

3. Amendment of Petition for Removal

b. As to Citizenship (p. 418)

An averment that a corporation is a citizen of a particular state, without alleging that it was organized under the laws of that state, is defective, but amendable. Fentress Coal, etc., Co. v. Elmore, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 240 Fed. 328, 153 C. C. A. 254.

In Hinman v. Barrett, (N. D. N. Y. 1917) 244 Fed. 621, where an averment of residence was made in a petition for removal and conceded to be insufficient as an averment of citizenship, but the prayer for removal was expressed to be "on the ground of diversity of citizenship" of the parties named, application by the petitioner for removal to perfect the petition by amendment of the averment no motion to remand having been made, was granted by the court as in furtherance of justice. But the question whether such amendment would operate to effect a removal as of the date of the filing of the petition in the state court, and thus invalidate proceedings in the state court after that date, was expressly left open for the judge of the state court to determine on deciding a motion there pending to vacate a judgment by default entered after filing of the petition and bond.

Citizenship of plaintiff's assignor.—In Brady v. J. B. McCrary Co., (S. D. Fla. 1917) 244 Fed. 602, the citizenship of plaintiff and defendant in a removed case was sufficiently alleged in the petition for removal, but, the action being on an assigned claim and the jurisdiction depending on the citizenship of the assignor, such citizenship was not alleged. After argument on a motion to remand, and before any ruling thereon could be made, the defendant filed a motion for leave to amend the petition by showing the citizenship of plaintiff's assignor, and the motion was granted and motion to remand denied.

IV. ISSUES OF FACT IN REMOVED CASES

5. For Want of Jurisdictional Amount in Controversy (p. 424)

Where a suit was brought to enjoin the defendant from exercising any jurisdiction over a certain waterway and to reform a lease of certain lands, and was removed on a petition alleging that the amount involved exceeded $3,000, the allegation must be accepted on a motion to remand if no issue is taken on it otherwise than by contending that the rental value of the land as shown by the lease attached to the complaint was a sum much less than $3,000. Seattle v. Oregon, etc., R. Co., (W. D. Wash. 1917) 242 Fed. 986.

8. Fraudulent Joinder to Prevent Removal

d. Sufficiency of Evidence (p. 427)

Use of Affidavits—In Seattle v. Great Northern R. Co., (W. D. Wash. 1913) 239 Fed. 1009, where a case was removed on a petition alleging fraudulent joinder of defendants, and there was a motion to remand denying the allegation, the removing defendant filed affidavits in support of its allegation, and no affidavits or proof controverting them were filed or offered. Formal objection was made to the consideration of the affidavits by the court, but the objection was overruled.

Grantee fraudulently joined with grantor—In Seattle v. Great Northern R. Co., (W. D. Wash. 1913) 239 Fed. 1009, where the plaintiff city brought an action against a corporation of the same state and a foreign corporation to which the former had transferred all right in a certain railway and tunnel, to recover damages for negligent operation of the tunnel and for omitting to provide lateral support, whereby the plaintiff's property was injured, the federal court to which the cause was removed, upon consideration of affidavits filed by the defendant foreign corporation in support of its allegation that the resident corporation was fraudulently joined to prevent removal, found that the resident defendant's nonliability was known to the plaintiff prior to bringing the action and that it was fraudulently made a defendant; and a motion to remand was denied.

V. PROCEDURE FOR REMAND

1. *Remand on Court's Own Motion*b. For Mere Irregularities (p. 429)

In Waverly Stone, etc., Co. v. Waterloo, etc., R. Co., (N. D. Ia. 1917) 239 Fed. 561, the court remanded a case because the petition for removal was not filed in time, and the copy of the record was not entered in the federal court in time, although the motion to remand was based solely upon the ground that there was no federal question.

12. Reconsideration of Order Denying Remand (p. 434)

Motion to remand denied by another judge—Granting a motion to remand for want of a jurisdictional amount in controversy, although another judge of the court had denied such motion at an earlier stage of the case the court said: "That the court's jurisdiction is always open to challenge is supported by a long line of authorities, among which are Gaugler v. Chicago, M. & P. S. Ry. Co., supra; Barth v. Coler, 60 Fed. 466, 9 C. C. A. 81; New Chester Water Co. v. Holly Mfg. Co., 53 Fed. 19, 3 C. C. A. 399; Plant v. Harrison (C. C.) 101 Fed. 307; Groel v. U. S. Elec. Co. (C. C.) 132 Fed. 252; Harrington v. Great Northern Ry. Co. (C. C.) 169 Fed. 714." Harley v. Firemen's Fund Ins. Co., (W. D. Wash. 1913) 245 Fed. 471.

16. Costs on Remand (p. 436)

Where a case was remanded because the petition for removal was not filed in time nor a copy of the record filed until after a delay of three months beyond the statutory period, with no excuse shown therefor, the remand was at the cost of the removing defendant, although the plaintiff's motion to remand was based solely on another ground not considered by the court. Waverly Stone, etc., Co. v. Waterloo, etc., R. Co., (N. D. Ia. 1917) 239 Fed. 561.

II. VALIDITY OF SERVICE OF PROCESS IN STATE COURT

1. Effect of Petition for Removal as Appearance

b. Other Cases (p. 456)

In Beach v. Kerr Turbine Co., (N. D. Ohio 1917) 243 Fed. 706 where a defendant foreign corporation after removing an action at law to the federal court moved therein, upon affidavits, to set aside the summons as not having been served upon its managing agent in the state, in compliance with the state statute, the court said: "It is proper to make this motion here after removal, and defects in the service may be taken advantage of by motion," citing Cain v. Commercial Pub. Co., (1914) 232 U. S. 124, 34 S. Ct. 284, 58 U. S. (L. ed.) 534.

4. Waiver of Objection (p. 460)

In Toledo Ry., etc., Co. v. Hill, (1917) 244 U. S. 49, 37 S. Ct. 591, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 982, reversing a judgment against a corporation and directing dismissal of the complaint for want of jurisdiction, the court said: "Averring themselves to be citizens of the United States, the one residing in the city of New York and the other in Boston, Massachusetts, the defendants in error in April, 1914, sued in the supreme court of the state of New York to recover from the plaintiff in error the principal and interest of certain bonds issued by the plaintiff in error, alleged to be a corporation created by the laws of Ohio. The summons was served upon a director and vice president of the corporation, residing in the city of New York. The corporation, appearing specially for that purpose, on the ground of diversity of citizenship, removed the cause to the district court of the United States for the southern district of New York, and, on the filing of the record in that court, again solely appearing for such purpose, moved to vacate the service of summons on the ground that the corporation was created by the laws of the state of Ohio, and was solely engaged in carrying on its business at Toledo in that state; that is, in the operation of street railways and the furnishing of electrical energy for light and other purposes. The motion to vacate expressly alleged that the corporation was prosecuting no business in the state of New York, and that the person upon whom the summons was served, although concededly an officer of the corporation, had no authority whatever to transact business for or represent the corporation in the state of New York. On the papers, affidavits and documents submitted, the motion to vacate was refused and an answer was subsequently filed by the corporation setting up various defenses to the merits and besides reasserting the challenge to the jurisdiction. At the trial, presided over by a different judge from the one who had heard and adversely disposed of the challenge to the jurisdiction, the court, treating the ruling on that subject as conclusive, declined therefore, to entertain the request of the corporation to consider the matter as urged in the answer. After this ruling the corporation refused to take part in the trial on the merits except to the extent that by way of objections to evidence, requests for rulings and instructions to the jury, it restated and reurged its previous contention as to jurisdiction. There was a verdict and judgment for the plaintiffs, and this direct writ of error to review alone the ruling as to jurisdiction was prosecuted, the record containing the certificate of the trial judge, as required by the statute. Upon the theory that, as there was diversity of citizenship, the challenge to the jurisdiction involved merely authority over the person, it is insisted that even if the objection be conceded to have been well taken, it was subject to be waived and was waived below, and therefore is not open. This must be first disposed of. The contention rests upon the proposition that because, after the motion to vacate had been overruled, an answer to the merits was filed, therefore the right to assail the jurisdiction was waived. But this disregards the fact that the answer did not waive, but in terms reiterated, the plea to the jurisdiction. It further disregards the fact that the court treated the subject as not open for consideration because of the previous ruling on the motion to vacate. Moreover, as it has been settled that the right to review by direct writ of error a question of jurisdiction may not be availed of until after final judgment (McLish v. Roff, 141 U. S. 661, 35 L. ed. 893, 12 Sup. Ct. Rep. 118), it follows that the contention must be either that there is no right to review at all, or that it can only be enjoyed by waiving all defense as to the merits and submitting to an adverse judgment. The contention, however, has been conclusively adversely disposed of. St. Louis Southwestern R. Co. v. Alexander, 227 U. S. 218, 57 L. ed. 486, 33 Sup. Ct. Rep. 245, Ann. Cas. 1915B 77."

5. Service on Foreign Corporation (p. 460)

Sufficiency in general.—"A service in an action at law on a foreign corporation in conformity to a state statute is good in the federal courts, unless the notice thus provided is not adequate according to the rules of due process of law." Beach v. Kerr Turbine Co., (N. D. Ohio 1917) 243 Fed. 706.

Service on sales agent.—In American Oil, etc., Co. v. Western Gas Constr. Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 239 Fed. 505, 152 C. C. A. 383, where an action at law in a New York court was removed to the federal court by the defendant Indiana corporation, and service of summons was there set aside, the order was affirmed, the court saying: "The contract is alleged to have been made in New York, but to be performed in Indiana; i. e., the defendant agreed to deliver to the plaintiff f. o. b. at Ft. Wayne, Ind., certain merchandise to be paid for in cash, which it subsequently refused to deliver, although the plaintiff was ready then and there to pay for the goods. The person designated in 1907 under section 16 of the General Corporation Law (Consol. Law, c. 23) upon whom process may be served within the state having disappeared and the plaintiff finding no officer or director of the company within the state, served Steinmuller as a managing agent of the defendant in accordance with section 432, subd. 3, Code of Civil Procedure. Judge Augustus N. Hand found that the company had done business within the state, but that Steinmuller was only a sales agent, without discretionary powers, and acting throughout under the direction and control of the home office in Indiana. The facts that in 1915 he had made one contract, in the absence of proof that he was not then acting without specific directions, and that the New York City Directory since 1912 had described him as agent, were not sufficient to overcome the positive affidavits submitted by the defendant that it had no office, property, nor any agent within the state, except Steinmuller, a sales agent. We concur in this conclusion."

Who is "managing agent."—In Beach v. Kerr Turbine Co., (N. D. Ohio 1917) 243 Fed. 706, the return of service in an action at law in the state court against a foreign corporation described the person served as "managing agent of said defendant company." The state statute provided: "When the defendant is a foreign corporation, having a managing agent in this state, the service may be upon such agent." It had been decided in a court of the state that this statute provided the only mode of obtaining service of summons on a foreign corporation. The federal court held that the service of summons was valid upon consideration of the facts in the case.

Doing business or not.—In Toledo Rep., etc., Co. v. Hill, (1917) 244 U. S. 49, 37 S. Ct. 591, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 982, it was held, upon the facts there stated, that the foreign corporation defendant was not doing business in the state where the suit was brought, and service of process upon a director and vice president residing in that state was insufficient to confer jurisdiction over it.

Where, at the time when service of summons was made upon the general manager of defendant corporations, the latter were owners of several vessels engaged in transporting merchandise on the Great Lake, and operated a line of vessels carrying cargoes in interstate commerce to and from Buffalo, coming to Buffalo periodically during the season of navigation, where freights were collected by local agents, crews paid off, and vessels fitted out, repaired or laid up for the winter, as necessary, they were transacting business in New York state, although none of the vessels happened to be in port at the time of serving the summons, and the service was valid. Frontier Steamship Co. v. Franklin Steamship Co., (W. D. N. Y. 1916) 233 Fed. 127.

III. PROCEDURE AFTER REMOVAL

2. Legal and Equitable Remedies and Defenses

a. In General (p. 463)

Transfer of equity suit to law docket.—On motion of the defendant in a removed equity suit, it should be transferred to the law docket as required by Equity Rule 22 promulgated Nov. 4, 1912, where the bill shows that the suit is a mere action at law to recover a money judgment for breach of contract. Edward Hines Lumber Co. v. Bowers, (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1917) 238 Fed. 782, 151 C. C. A. 632.

6. Miscellaneous Proceedings (p. 465)

Amendment by substitution of plaintiff.—In Roman v. Lehigh Valley Coal Co., (E. D. N. Y. 1917) 241 Fed. 595, the plaintiff, a New York administrator sued a Pennsylvania corporation in a court of New York to recover under a Pennsylvania statute for the death of his decedent in that state. The defendant appeared generally and removed the action on the ground of diverse citizenship. In the federal court the defendant answered to the merits. It was held that he thereby waived objection to the maintenance of the action in that court, and precluded himself from objecting to the allowance of an amendment by substituting an alien plaintiff for the citizen administrator.

For larceny of fish from a pound in the Atlantic Ocean more than three miles off the coast of New Jersey, where the accused were taken into custody while fishing with hook and line from a boat moored to the pound and were immediately brought ashore within the state, the federal District Court of New Jersey was the proper tribunal to try whatever offense had been committed. Miller v. U. S., (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 907, 155 C. C. A. 495, L. R. A. 1918A 545.

Vol. V, p. 478, Jud. Code, sec. 48.

I. CONSTRUCTION AND SCOPE OF PROVISION

4. "Regular and Established Place of business" (p. 478)

Sufficiency of averment.—An allegation that defendant citizens and residents of Indiana "have jointly and severally infringed" the letters patent sued on "within the eastern district of Pennsylvania" and that all of the defendants "are now doing business under the name or style of Wall & Ochs at 1716 Chestnut street, in said city of Philadelphia" falls short of an allegation that the defendants "have a regular and established place of business" in that city. Schenerle v. One-piece Bifocal Lens Co., (E. D. Pa. 1917) 241 Fed. 270.

IV. SERVICE (p. 482)

A return of service was insufficient to give the court jurisdiction which averred service upon the defendants by serving certain named persons, without stating that they were agents engaged in conducting the business, and the bill did not allege them to be such. Scheuerle v. One-piece Bifocal Lens Co., (E. D. Pa. 1917) 241 Fed. 270.

Vol. V, p. 482, Jud. Code, sec. 50.

II. JURISDICTION (p. 483)

The words "found within the district" must have significance, inasmuch as they are retained in this section while omitted from Judicial Code, sec. 51; and the two sections, construed together "must mean that for the purposes of jurisdiction a single defendant must reside in the district in which the suit is brought, but where there are several defendants the court has jurisdiction of all if one or more are residents of the district and the others are found there." Camp v. Gress, (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1917) 244 Fed. 121, 156 C. C. A. 549.

IV. PARTIES (p. 483)

One or more joint makers of a contract may be sued in the district of their residence when other joint makers cannot be brought into the action because of their residence in another district. Camp v. Gress, (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1917) 244 Fed. 121, 156 C. C. A. 549, citing Clearwater v. Meredith, (1859) 21 How. 489, 16 U. S. (L. ed.) 201, and Barney v. Baltimore City, (1868) 6 Wall. 280, 18 U. III. PARTICULAR WORDS AND TERMS

1. "Civil Suit" (p. 489)

Contempt proceeding.—Upon examination of a proceeding for contempt for violation of an injunctive order, it was held in Mitchell v. Dexter, (C. C. A. 1st Cir. 1917) 244 Fed. 926, 157 C. C. A. 276, that the proceeding was civil in nature, and not distinguishable in that behalf from Gompers v. Bucks Stove, etc., Co., (1911) 221 U. S. 418, 31 S. Ct. 492, 55 U. S. (L. ed.) 797, 34 L. R. A. (N. S.) 874, and that a federal District Court in Wisconsin had no authority to issue a writ directed to the marshal for the district of Massachusetts for the arrest of a person in the latter state and his removal to the Wisconsin district to answer for violation of an injunction.

IV. JURISDICTION

1. General Matters (p. 491)

Where there is only one defendant and the jurisdiction depends on diversity of citizenship alone, the suit must be brought in either the district of the residence of the defendant or of the plaintiff, and not in the district where the defendant is found. Camp v. Gress, (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1917) 244 Fed. 121, 156 C. C. A. 549.

"Diversity of citizenship alone would not suffice where neither plaintiffs nor defendants were residents or citizens of the state of the forum. In re Wisner, 203 U. S. 449, 27 S. Ct. 150, 51 U. S. (L. ed.) 264; Foult v. Gray, 120 Fed. 156." Albert v. Bascom, (W. D. Tex. 1917) 245 Fed. 149.

V. APPLICABILITY

2. Aliens and Corporations of Another Country

a. Generally (p. 498)

"While citizens of states may sue in the state of the citizenship of either plaintiff or defendant, aliens, though living in a state can sue only in the state of defendants' citizenship, and for the same reason a citizen may sue an alien wherever process can be served on him, though the alien lives, is resident, in another state than that of plaintiff or the court. So an alien, resident, in the sense of living, in Montana, cannot bring suit in this court [in Montana] against a citizen of Idaho, though a citizen of Montana, residing in Idaho, can, all because citizenship, not residence controls." Best v. Great Northern R. Co., (D. C. Mont. 1917) 243 Fed. 789.

"An alien is without the language and purpose of section 51," and "he may be sued in any district in which he can be served with process." Keating v. Pennsylvania Co., (N. D. Ohio 1917) 245 Fed. 155.

4. Corporations

b. Effect of Doing Business in State (p. 502)

What is or is not "doing business" in a state, see Beach v. Kerr Turbine Co., (N. D. Ohio 1917) 243 Fed. 706, as cited in notes to vol V, p. 460, Judicial Code, § 38, supra, p. 1112.

5. Action or Proceeding and Subject Matter (p. 506)

Venue of an action by an informer to recover a penalty given by a federal statute is not governed by this section, but by Judicial Code, § 43, vol. V, p. 475. Tomkins v. Paterson, (W. D. Wash. 1916) 238 Fed. 879.

VI. WAIVER

2. Appearance and Pleading to the Merits

b. General Appearance (p. 514)

When a waiver.—Where a bill sufficiently alleged diversity of citizenship, but did not allege residence in the district where the suit was brought, an objection for absence of the residential allegations came too late when made for the first time after a full hearing on a motion for a preliminary injunction. Great Lakes, etc., Transp. Co. v. Scranton Coal Co., (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1917) 239 Fed. 603, 152 C. C. A. 437.

Vol. V, p. 518, Jud. Code, sec. 52.

A joint suit for negligence and misconduct of the directors of a national bank may be brought in a district in which either defendant resides. Dudley v. Hawkins, (S. D. Ga. 1917) 239 Fed. 386.

Vol. V, p. 524, Jud. Code, sec. 56.

Proceeding for disapproval of appointment.—In In re Brown, (C. C. A. 1st Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 452, 155 C. C. A.

228, dismissing a petition for disapproval, the court, per Aldrich, J., said: "This is an original proceeding addressed to Hon. George H. Bingham, United States Circuit Judge for the First Circuit, asking, under the authority of section 56 of the Judicial Code, that he disapprove of an order of the District Court of Massachusetts appointing a temporary receiver of the Boston & Maine Railroad, upon the ground that the District Court was induced to make the appointment by alleged misrepresentations in respect to the financial condition of the railroad, as well as by omissions of material statements in respect to its financial condition. After certain preliminary proceedings, it was ordered by Judge Bingham that the application be filed in the Circuit Court of Appeals for the First Circuit, that a hearing thereon might be had by such court. The parties here have raised questions as to time, and questions as to whether the relief should have been sought through a motion in the original proceeding, rather than by a complaint like this. But we prefer to deal with the single question whether section 56 of the Judicial Code was intended to confer upon a Circuit Judge, or upon Circuit Courts of Appeals, authority, not upon appeal, but by original proceeding, to go into the merits of the question of the legality of the appointment of a receiver by a District Court, or whether such section was intended merely to give a Circuit Judge or Circuit Courts of Appeals, under an original proceeding, authority to disapprove of the assumption of jurisdiction and control by the receiver of property outside of the district in which he was appointed, without any order of court in the outside district. We think section 56 was intended merely to confer upon a Circuit Judge, or upon Circuit Courts of Appeals, authority to disapprove of the automatic phase, so to speak, of section 56, which makes the order operate outside the district, and that if it should be found the receiver appointed in one district, where the property lies in different states in the same judicial circuit, should not control the property in districts or states outside of the district in which he was appointed, a Circuit Judge, or the Circuit Court of Appeals might declare against it. . . . While the scope or the extent of the territorial operativeness of a receivership appointment under section 56 in one district of a circuit, where the property lies within different states in the same judicial circuit, is made subject to the disapproval of a Circuit Judge and of Circuit Courts of Appeals, it is clear that the plain, adequate, and sole intended review of the legality of the receivership decree is by appeal by the aggrieved party under section 129 of the Judicial Code direct from the court making the order to the Circuit Court of Appeals for the circuit." Brown, J., concurred for the further reason that the 30 days within which an order of disapproval might have been made had elapsed; and for the same reason Bingham, J., concurred in the result.

Vol. V, p. 525, Jud. Code, sec. 57.

- I. Construction and application generally.
- II. Applicability to particular matters, suits and proceedings.
- III. Diversity of citizenship.
- VII. Judgment or decree.

I. CONSTRUCTION AND APPLICATION GENERALLY (p. 525)

Where the action taken as a whole, is not one which could be determined by the court so as to give the plaintiff the full and complete relief he seeks, without rendering a personal judgment or decree against an absent nonresident defendant, and by reason of the nonresidence of the plaintiff the federal court has no jurisdiction on the ground of diverse citizenship alone, the action cannot be maintained under this section upon service by publication. O'Neil v. Birdseye, (S. D. N. Y. 1917) 244 Fed. 254, where the court said: "The following authorities support this view: Arkansas v. K. & T. Coal Co., 183 U. S. 185, 22 S. Ct. 47, 46 U. S. (L. ed.) 144; Joy v. St. Louis, 201 U. S. 332, 26 S. Ct. 478, 50 U. S. (L. ed.) 776; Wabash R. Co. v. Westside Belt R. Co., 235 Fed. 645."

Enforcement of liens.—"The lien must have existed anterior to the suit. Circuit Justice Lowell in Dormitzer v. Illinois Bridge Co. (C. C. Mass. 1881) 6 Fed. 218, defining the character of lien or claim to property referred to in the then recent act of March, 1875, now section 57 of the Judicial Code, in a case of attachment of property of an absent defendant, on demurrer to jurisdiction, sustaining same, says: 'A recent statute gives these courts jurisdiction to enforce a lien upon or claim to, or remove an incumbrance or lien or cloud upon the title to, real or personal property within the district, though the defendants, or some of them, may not be either inhabitants thereof or found therein, first giving notice to the absent defendants. St. 1875, c. 137, par. 8; 18 St. 472. But this means a lien or title existing anterior to the suit, and not one caused by the institution of the suit itself.' This early interpretation of the meaning of the act has been sustained and approved in the following cases: Morris v. Graham (C. C.) 51 Fed. 56; Jones v. Gould (C. C.) 141 Fed. 700; Shainwald v. Lewis (D. C.) 5 Fed. 510;

Jones v. Gould, 149 Fed. 154, 80 C. C. A. 1; W. U. Teleg. Co. v. L. & N. Ry. (D. C.) 201 Fed. 944; Bucyrus Co. v. McArthur (D. C.) 219 Fed. 268; Wabash R. Co. v. West Side Belt Co. (D. C.) 235 Fed. 647; Scott v. Neely, 140 U. S. 113, 11 Sup. Ct. 712, 35 L. Ed. 358; Cates v. Allen, 149 U. S. 451, 13 Sup. Ct. 977, 37 L. Ed. 804." Albert v. Bascom, (W. D. Tex. 1917) 245 Fed. 149.

II. APPLICABILITY TO PARTICULAR MATTERS, SUITS, AND PROCEEDINGS (p. 529)

Personal property.—A plenary suit by a trustee in bankruptcy cannot be instituted under this section against a debtor of the bankrupt and the bankrupt's assignee of the debt, in order to set aside the assignment and recover the amount of the debt as an alleged preference. Murphy v. Ford Motor Co., (S. D. Ohio 1916) 241 Fed. 134, where the court granted a motion to quash service of process.

Suit by creditor of decedent trustee.—A suit against devisees and executors of a deceased tenant in common, who was trustee of the plaintiffs, who were his cotenants, the decedent not having accounted, and the suit being in substance one for debt and accounting, was not maintainable in a federal District Court in Texas wherein the land was situated, where neither plaintiffs nor defendants were residents or citizens of the state. Albert v. Bascom, (W. D. Tex. 1917) 245 Fed. 149.

Claim to real estate of decedent.—In Jennings v. Smith, (S. D. Ga. 1917) 242 Fed. 561, a suit in equity was brought by citizens of Louisiana to establish their claim to the entire estate of a decedent, as heirs and next of kin, against citizens of Georgia claiming in their own behalf the same entire estate. The suit was brought in the southern district of Georgia where all the defendants resided, and where a part of the estate was situated. The court held that it was in part, at least, a suit to enforce a legal or equitable claim to real property within that district, and therefore cognizable by the federal court for that district; and that an amendment of the bill was allowable by making the permanent administrators of the decedent parties defendant, although they were residents of the northern district, but citizens of Georgia; that said administrators were proper, if not necessary parties, whose addition by amendment was authorized by Judicial Code, § 52, and by Equity Rule 37 (superseding the old rule, No. 49) and by the new Equity Rule 28; and that, as the adverse claims of the defendants living in the southern district was the substantial thing to which the jurisdiction of the court initially attached, the addition of the permanent administrators as parties did not divest the court of its jurisdiction.

III. DIVERSITY OF CITIZENSHIP (p. 533)

Necessity of residence in district.—"A suit to establish a lien upon or claim to property under section 57 of the Judicial Code may be maintained in the district of the state where the property is situated, though neither plaintiff nor defendant is a resident thereof. Kentucky Coal L. Co. v. Mineral Devel. Co., 219 Fed. 45; Gillespie v. Pocahontas C. & C. Co. (C. C.) 162 Fed. 742; Goodman v. Niblack, 102 U. S. 556, 26 L. Ed. 229." Albert v. Bascom, (W. D. Tex. 1917) 245 Fed. 149.

VII. JUDGMENT OR DECREE (p. 537)

Judgments affecting the particular property only may be entered, unless the defendants are served with process in the district or voluntarily submit themselves to the jurisdiction of the court. Dutton v. Weyeross First Nat. Bank, (S. D. Fla. 1917) 244 Fed. 236.

"The court is without power to enforce a personal judgment upon citation by publication." Albert v. Bascom, (W. D. Tex. 1917) 245 Fed. 149.

Vol. V, p. 541, Jud. Code, sec. 66.

II. JURISDICTION AND POWERS OF FEDERAL AND STATE COURTS

2. State Courts (p. 543)

In general.—Where, pending an appeal from a judgment for plaintiff in an action wherein a federal receiver was served with process of garnishment, the parties stipulated for the sale of property in the garnishee's hands, the proceeds to be subject to the direction of the court, the trial court as ancillary to the original judgment had jurisdiction to enforce the stipulation by directing payment to the plaintiff from the proceeds, and the garnishee having acted on the stipulation could not question such right of the court in the premises. Lamb v. Whitman, (1916) 19 Ga. App. 27, 90 S. E. 736.

A state court has no jurisdiction to grant, by injunction against the receiver of a railroad company appointed by a federal court, in a suit brought without leave of the federal court, specific performance of an executory contract made by the railroad company, which the receiver has not assumed. Dickinson v. Willis, (S. D. Ia. 1916) 239 Fed. 171.

The institution of a foreclosure suit in a federal court against an interstate railroad company and the appointment of a receiver therein did not abate an action for mandamus in a state court to compel the railroad company to remove one of its bridges over a navigable stream on the ground that it was a public nuisance, and under this provision of the federal statute it would be good practice to bring in the receiver as a defendant. Kaw Valley Drainage Dist. v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., (1916) 90 Kan. 188, 161 Pac. 937.

III. "FINAL DECISIONS"

2. Definition and Nature (p. 611)

Generally.—"The question whether a decree is final and appealable is not determined by the name which the court below gives it, but is to be decided by the Appellate Court on consideration of the essence of what is done by the decree. Potter v. Beal, 50 Fed. 800, 2 C. C. A. 60." The Attualita, (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1916) 238 Fed. 909, 152 C. C. A. 43.

4. Reference and Accounting (p. 612)

See Stromberg Motor Devices Co. v. Arnson, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 239 Fed. 891, 153 C. C. A. 19, as cited infra, p. 1117.

9. Habeas Corpus (p. 614)

No appeal lies from an order made by the district judge in vacation on the hearing of the issues raised by a petition for the writ of habeas corpus and the return thereto. Hoskins v. Funk, (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1917) 239 Fed. 278, 152 C. C. A. 266, where the court cited Lambert v. Barrett, (1895) 157 U. S. 697, 15 S. Ct. 722, 39 U. S. (L. ed.) 865; Carper v. Fitzgerald, (1887) 121 U. S. 87, 7 S. Ct. 825, 30 U. S. (L. ed.) 882; Harkrader v. Wadley, (1898) 172 U. S. 148, 19 S. Ct. 119, 43 U. S. (L. ed.) 399, and said: "It is not an order of the District Judge in vacation which is made subject to review by this court by section 129 of the Judicial Code. No statute has been found which purports to confer on this court the jurisdiction which section 763 of the Revised Statutes conferred on the Circuit Court to review 'the final decision of any court, justice, or judge inferior to the circuit court, upon an application for a writ of habeas corpus or upon such writ when issued.' The conclusion reached in the case of Webb v. York, 74 Fed. 753, 21 C. C. A. 85, that, notwithstanding the absence of such a statute, the Circuit Courts of Appeals have in some way succeeded to the jurisdiction which the statute just quoted conferred on another court, is one in which we are unable to concur. The reasoning by which that conclusion was reached does not seem to us to be convincing. We have found no statute having the effect of conferring upon this court appellate jurisdiction to review such an order made by a District Judge in vacation as the appeal in this case seeks to present for review."

11. Intervention and Interpleader (p. 615)

"In intervention there are two classes of cases.—One class in which the intervention is not indispensable to the preservation or enforcement of the claim of the petitioner and there the permission to intervene is discretionary with the court; another class in which the petitioner claims a lien upon or an interest in specific property in the exclusive jurisdiction and subject to the exclusive disposition of a court, and his interest therein can be established, preserved, or enforced in no other way than by the determination and action of that court. The petitioner, who has a claim of the latter class, has an absolute right to intervene in the proceeding in which the court holds the exclusive custody and dominion of the property, permission for him to intervene is not discretionary with the court, and he may review by appeal an order refusing that right. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. United States & Mexican Trust Co., 221 Fed. 545, 552, 137 C. C. A. 113, 120; Credits Commutation Co. v. United States, 177 U. S. 311, 317, 20 Sup. Ct. 636, 44 L. ed. 782; Credits Commutation Co. v. United States, 91 Fed. 570, 573, 34 C. C. A. 12; United States Trust Co. v. Chicago Terminal Transfer R. R. Co., 188 Fed. 292, 296, 110 C. C. A. 270; Minot v. Martin, 95 Fed. 734, 739, 37 C. C. A. 234, 239; United States v. Phillips, 107 Fed. 824, 46 C. C. A. 660." Swift v. Black Panther Oil, etc., Co., (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1917) 244 Fed. 20, 156 C. C. A. 448.

15. Patents (p. 616)

In Stromberg Motor Devices Co. v. Arnson, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 239 Fed. 891, 153 C. C. A. 19, the complainant filed a bill upon two patents, one to Ahara and one to Richard. The District Court entered a decree sustaining the Ahara patent with the usual directions as to injunction and accounting and dismissed the bill as to the Richard patent without costs to either party. The complainant appealed from that part of the decree dismissing the bill as to the Richard patent. It was held that the decree was not final, and the appeal was dismissed.

18. Miscellaneous (p. 616)

Order sustaining demurrer to plea of recoupment.—In Treadwell v. Cooker, (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1917) 245 Fed. 348, 157 C. C. A. 540, the entire per curiam opinion is as follows: "This was an action by the defendants in error (hereinafter referred to as the plaintiffs) against the plaintiff in error (hereinafter referred to as the defendant) to recover an amount claimed to be due under an alleged contract. To the plaintiff's petition the defendant interposed a plea denying the alleged indebtedness, and also a plea of recoupment seeking to recover of the plaintiff an amount greater than that claimed in the plaintiff's petition. The plaintiff demurred to the last-mentioned special plea as it was amended. With reference to this demurrer the record shows that the court 'ordered that the demurrer be and it is hereby sustained.' Other than the quoted order, the record does not show any disposition of the issues raised by the pleadings in the case. So far as appears from the record, the case stands at issue in the District Court, and the whole of it has not been finally determined by that court. We are of opinion that the order mentioned is not such a final decision as is required to support a writ of error. Judicial Code U. S. § 128; La Bourgogne, 210 U. S. 95, 28 Sup. Ct. 664, 52 L. Ed. 973; Webster Coal & Coke Co. v. Cassatt, 207 U. S. 181, 28 Sup. Ct. 108, 52 L. Ed. 160; Bank of Rondout v. Smith, 156 U. S. 330, 15 Sup. Ct. 358, 39 L. Ed. 441; Kingman v. Western Mfg. Co., 170 U. S. 675, 18 Sup. Ct. 786, 42 L. Ed. 1192; Maas v. Lonstori, 166 Fed. 41, 91 C. C. A. 627. The writ of error is dismissed, without prejudice to the right of the defendant to have an appellate review of the ruling complained of, after a final decision of the case."

A judgment denying an application to set aside a default judgment, on the ground that the latter was rendered without jurisdiction, the application having been heard on affidavits, was declared to be final and reviewable in the Circuit Court of Appeals, "in view of the nature of the attack made upon the original judgment." Stevirmac Oil, etc., Co. v. Dittman, (1917) 245 U. S. 210, 38 S. Ct. 116, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 248.

V. CASES REVIEWABLE

2. Admiralty (p. 618)

Finality of decree.—A decree on a libel in rem against a ship by which the latter is released from arrest in effect terminates the proceeding against her and is appealable. The Attualita, (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1916) 238 Fed. 909, 152 C. C. A. 43.

5. Criminal Cases (p. 619)

In general.—“The right to an Appellate review of a judgment of conviction in a criminal case does not exist, except by virtue of a statute conferring it.” American Surety Co. v. U. S., (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1917) 239 Fed. 680, 152 C. C. A. 514.

VIII. FINALITY OF JUDGMENT AND DECREE OF CIRCUIT COURT OF APPEALS

3. “Opposite Parties . . . Citizens of Different States.” (p. 623)

In general.—Where it appeared from the averments of the bill and amended bill that the federal jurisdiction was invoked solely upon the ground of diversity of citizenship the appeal was necessarily dismissed. Hitchman Coal, etc., Co. v. Mitchell, (1916) 241 U. S. 644, 36 S. Ct. 450, 60 U. S. (L. ed.) 1218, followed in Eagle Glass, etc., Co. v. Rowe, (1917) 245 U. S. 275, 38 S. Ct. 80, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 286.

Federal court of first instance as determining factor.—“The jurisdiction referred to, it has come to be settled, means the jurisdiction of the United States District Court as originally invoked. Huguley Mfg. Co. v. Galetton Cotton Mills, 184 U. S. 290, and previous cases cited in the opinion of Mr. Chief Justice Fuller.” Southern Pac. Co. v. Stewart, (1917) 245 U. S. 359, 38 S. Ct. 130, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 345.

Jurisdiction based on other grounds in addition to diverse citizenship.—In Eichel v. U. S. Fidelity, etc., Co., (1917) 245 U. S. 102, 38 S. Ct. 47, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 177, denying a motion to dismiss an appeal, the court said: “In its simplest form the case is this: Laura Eichel, as use plaintiff, began eighteen separate actions at law against the guaranty company in the district court for the western district of Pennsylvania, all being cognizable in that court because arising under a law of the United States. The guaranty company, conceiving that it had a partial equitable defense, not admissible at law, which was common to all the cases, and other partial defenses in particular cases, exhibited in that court a bill describing the actions at law, setting forth the defenses, showing that nothing was in controversy beyond the defenses, and praying that the entire matter be examined and adjudicated in a single proceeding in equity and further proceedings at law enjoined. Although showing that the parties were citizens of different states, the bill was framed as a dependent and ancillary bill, and the court was asked to entertain it as such, in virtue of the jurisdiction already acquired. The court did entertain it and ultimately sustained the equitable defense, partly sustained some of the others, ascertained the amount of the liability of the guaranty company upon the claims set forth in the actions at law, and ordered that this amount, with interest, be paid in satisfaction of those claims. The circuit court of appeals made a small reduction in the amount of the company's liability, made provision for subrogating the company to the rights of Mrs. Eichel against a bankrupt's estate in process of administration, and affirmed the decree as so modified. 154 C. C. A. 237, 241 Fed. 357. Plainly, the bill was dependent and ancillary, and the jurisdiction to entertain it was referable to that invoked and existing in the actions at law out of which it arose. . . . This being so, the decree of the circuit court of appeals is open to review here. See Judicial Code, §§ 128, 241.”

Pleading.—On writ of error to the Circuit Court of Appeals the Supreme Court had jurisdiction to review the whole case where the plaintiff's complaint not only alleged diverse citizenship of the parties, but that certain orders of a state court upon which the defendant relied were void as having been entered without due process of law, in violation of the federal Constitution, and the contention was insisted upon in both the lower courts. Chaloner v. Sherman, (1917) 242 U. S. 455, 37 S. Ct. 136, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 427, citing Howard v. U. S., (1902) 184 U. S. 676, 681, 22 S. Ct. 543, 46 U. S. (L. ed.) 754, 757.

Removal cases.—Where the judgment of the Circuit Court of Appeals was rendered in a case which had been removed from a state court to the District Court upon a petition which set forth as a ground for removal the diversity of citizenship of the parties, and no other ground for removal was in any manner alleged in the petition, the judgment was final and a writ of error was dismissed by the federal Supreme Court, although it appeared that the suit might have been removed because of the federal nature of the cause of action upon which it was brought. Southern Pac. Co. v. Stewart, (1917) 245 U. S. 359, 38 S. Ct. 130, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 345.

Jurisdiction based on other grounds in addition to diverse citizenship.—On rehearing of the case set forth in the last preceding paragraph, viz., in Southern Pac. Co. v. Stewart, (1918) 245 U. S. 562, 38 S. Ct. 203, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 472, the court said: “The opinion in this case was handed down on December 17, 1917 (245 U. S. 359, ante, 156, 38 Sup. Ct. Rep. 130). The cause was submitted on a motion to dismiss which was sustained. The printed record did not contain the proceedings upon the application to remove the cause from the state court.

The briefs of counsel upon both sides, upon which the case was submitted, stated that the case was removed because of diversity of citizenship. Treating these statements as the equivalent of a stipulation, the court decided the case and rendered judgment. It now appears by a certified copy of the record on removal, filed by the plaintiff in error, that the removal petition contained an allegation that the complaint alleged a cause of action arising under the Interstate Commerce Act, and this fact, as well as diversity of citizenship, was made a ground of removal. In this view it follows that, as our order of dismissal rested upon the assumption that the removal was because of diversity of citizenship only, the petition for rehearing must be granted, the order of dismissal set aside, and the cause restored to the docket."

9. Criminal Cases (p. 628)

"A conviction for a criminal although summary contempt is, for the purposes of our reviewing power, a matter of criminal law not within our jurisdiction on error. Cary Mfg. Co. v. Acme Flexible Clasp Co. 187 U. S. 427, 428, 47 L. ed. 244, 245, 23 Sup. Ct. Rep. 211; O'Neal v. United States, 190 U. S. 36, 38, 47 L. ed. 945, 946, 25 Sup. Ct. Rep. 776, 14 Am. Crim. Rep. 503; Bessette v. W. B. Conkey Co. 194 U. S. 324, 335, 48 L. ed. 997, 1004, 24 Sup. Ct. Rep. 665; Re Merchants' Stock & Grain Co. 223 U. S. 639, 56 L. ed. 584, 32 Sup. Ct. Rep. 339; Gompers v. United States, 233 U. S. 604, 606, 58 L. ed. 1115, 1118, 34 Sup. Ct. Rep. 693, Ann. Cas. 1915D, 1044." Toledo Newspaper Co. v. U. S., (1918) 247 U. S. 402, 38 S. Ct. 560, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 1186, dismissing a writ of error.

Vol. V, p. 629, Jud. Code, sec. 129.

X. STAY (p. 638)

Stay of "proceedings in other respects."

—After an appeal from an interlocutory decree ordering assignment of certain patents and an accounting of profits and damages, and enjoining use of the inventions, the trial judge denied an application to stay the accounting unless the defendant give bond to pay the amount found due. Upon application thereafter made to a circuit judge for an injunction and stay, the motion was denied. Chadeloid Chemical Co. v. H. B. Chalmers Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 71, 155 C. C. A. 15.

A judge of the Circuit Court of Appeals may grant a stay on appeal from an order granting an injunction pendente lite. Masses Pub. Co. v. Patten, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 285 Fed. 102, 157 C. C. A. 398.

Propriety of granting stay.—Where in a suit against a postmaster to have certain second-class matter forwarded to destination through the United States mail, but, on the day before the decision of the court in favor of the plaintiff the latter requested the defendant to withhold the matter, as other arrangements for distribution had been made, the judge of the Circuit Court of Appeals on appeal from the interlocutory order granted a stay, because the situation was such that any wrong suffered by the plaintiff could be wholly redressed by damages, apparently measured by the expense of the different transportation arrangement which had been perfected. Masses Pub. Co. v. Patten, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 245 Fed. 102, 157 C. C. A. 398.

XII. SCOPE OF REVIEW (p. 639)

Reversal for want of jurisdiction.—On appeal from an interlocutory decree, the court may reverse the decree for want of jurisdiction of the court below, and direct a dismissal of the bill on that ground. Supreme Council, etc. v. Hobart, (C. C. A. 1st Cir. 1917) 244 Fed. 385, 157 C. C. A. 11.

Appeal from an order granting, etc., injunction.—Reversing a decree of the Circuit Court of Appeals which directed a dismissal of the bill, the federal Supreme Court said: "Since the cause had not gone to final hearing in the district court, the bill could not properly be dismissed upon appeal unless it appeared that the court was in possession of the materials necessary to enable it to do full and complete justice between the parties. Where, by consent of parties, the case has been submitted for a final determination of the merits, or upon the face of the bill there is no ground for equitable relief, the appellate court may finally dispose of the merits upon an appeal from an interlocutory order. Smith v. Vulcan Iron Works, 165 U. S. 518, 525, 41 L. ed. 810, 812, 17 Sup. Ct. Rep. 407; Mast, F. & Co. v. Stover Mfg. Co. 177 U. S. 485, 494, 44 L. ed. 856, 860, 20 Sup. Ct. Rep. 708; Castner v. Coffman, 178 U. S. 168, 184, 44 L. ed. 1021, 1027, 20 Sup. Ct. Rep. 842; Harriman v. Northern Securities Co. 197 U. S. 244, 287, 49 L. ed. 739, 760, 25 Sup. Ct. Rep. 493; United States Fidelity & G. Co. v. Bray, 225 U. S. 205, 214, 56 L. ed. 1055, 1061, 32 Sup. Ct. Rep. 620; Denver v. New York Trust Co. 229 U. S. 123, 136, 57 L. ed. 1101, 1121, 33 Sup. Ct. Rep. 651. But in this case the application for a temporary injunction was submitted upon affidavits taken ex parte, without opportunity for cross-examination, and without any consent that the court proceed to final determination of the merits. Hence there was no basis for such a determination on appeal unless it appeared upon the face of the bill that there was no ground for equitable relief." Eagle Glass, etc., Co. v. Rowe, (1917) 245 U. S. 275, 38 S. Ct. 80, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 286.

Injunctions in patent cases.—In a suit to compel the transfer of patents pursuant to contract, and praying for injunction against further use of the patents and for an accounting of profits, a decree for injunction and accounting was entered and on appeal therefrom the court affirming the decree said: "The court below granted an accounting as against a trustee ex maleficio. Whether this was within the rules of equity is not now before us. The decree appealed from is interlocutory. We can review it only by force of the statute now contained in section 129, Jud. Code. An appeal under this section brings up nothing but the propriety of granting or refusing an injunction or receivership, as the case may be. Procedure not specifically covered by the statute remains unchanged thereby. The question of accounting must await final decree and is unaffected by this appeal. Kilmer v. Griswold, 67 Fed. 1017, 15 C. C. A. 161; Howe v. Dayton, 210 Fed. 801, 127 C. C. A. 351, and cases cited; Lederer v. Garage, etc., Co., 235 Fed. 527, 149 C. C. A. 73." Chadeloid Chemical Co. v. H. B. Chalmers Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 243 Fed. 606, 156 C. C. A. 304.

Vol. V, p. 649, Jud. Code, sec. 145, par. first.

II. JURISDICTION

7. Claims Sounding in Tort (p. 657)

Where a steamer is seized by the proper military authorities during pendency of rebellion or insurrection upon the ground that it is the property of the enemy and was at the time being used in furtherance of the rebellion, and the vessel is subsequently used in the service of the United States, there is no implied contract to pay for the use thereof. The claim for such use sounds in tort, and the party cannot waive the tort and sue in assumpsit. Castelo v. U. S., (1916) 51 Ct. Cl. 221.

A claim for damages for injuries to mules, which were let to the government under an unauthorized agreement by government agents to exercise extra care of the animals, and injured by the negligence of government employees, was not recoverable under this section. Occidental Constr. Co. v. U. S., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 245 Fed. 817, 158 C. C. A. 157.

Vol. V, p. 667, Jud. Code, sec. 152.

"It is plain that § 152 of the Code applies to suits in the district courts, as well as to those in the Court of Claims." U. S. v. Cress, (1917) 243 U. S. 316, 37 S. Ct. 380, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 746.

Vol. V, p. 673, Jud. Code, sec. 162.

The statute is remedial in its nature, as the captured or abandoned property Act was held to be, and is entitled to be liberally construed to effectuate its purposes. Basch v. U. S., (1917) 52 Ct. Cl. 134.

Only the claims of owners can be adjudged under this section, as the language, "claims of those whose property was taken" can have no other meaning. Hence where the owner of cotton sold it to the Confederate States and received in payment bonds of the Confederate States government, but remained in possession of the cotton until it was seized by United States treasury agents, his administrator had no valid claim for the proceeds. Thompson v. U. S., (1918) 246 U. S. 547, 38 S. Ct. 349, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 876.

Property not "taken."—Where the owners of certain cotton in the state of Louisiana, on June 6, 1865, at which time it was taken into possession of the purchasing agents of the United States, who refused to release it until the owners paid one-fourth the market value thereof, paid said amount under protest, and the same was covered into the treasury, the money became the absolute property of the United States and was not recoverable, as it was not "taken" within the meaning of the statute. O'Pry v. U. S., (1916) 51 Ct. Cl. 111.

Parties, pleadings and proof.—In Basch v. U. S., (1917) 52 Ct. Cl. 134, the court said: "A fact, essential by the terms of said original act, to be proved by a claimant thereunder was that he had not given aid or comfort to the rebellion. We have held that no such proof is essential under section 162 of the Judicial Code as to persons coming within the intent and purpose of the general amnesty, issued December 25, 1868. Lincoln's case, 49 C. Cls. 300. This court had long before held it to be unnecessary for a claimant to whom the amnesty applied to aver loyalty in his petition under said original act, notwithstanding the requirement of the statute prescribing what allegations petitions in this court shall contain, the holding being that the loyalty contemplated by said act was loyalty during the Civil War only, and that the amnesty removed any taint of disloyalty, in that it blotted out in legal contemplation the offense itself. White's case, 19 C. Cls. 440; Officers of South Carolina Troops, 20 C. Cls. 21; Carlisle's case, 16 Wall. 147, 151. Recognizing that principle, we held that while the petitions should conform to section 159 of the Judicial Code as a statute of present and prospective operation, the averments as to loyalty would not be referred to acts done in connection with the Civil War, excepting those not included in the amnesty. Young's case, 97 U. S. 39. It is in every case incumbent upon a claimant suing under section 162 to prove (1) that his property was taken, as above stated, was sold, and the proceeds of the sale were paid into the Treasury; (2) his ownership of the property when it was taken. His recovery is by the statute limited to the net proceeds of the sale in the Treasury. We have also held that the suits should be in the name of the original owner or his executor, administrator, or other legal representative, and not in the names of his heirs."

Vol. V, p. 688, Jud. Code, sec. 194.

Power to remand case.—Under the power given by this section, in General Electric Co. v. U. S., (1917) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 484, the case was remanded with directions that the board take and receive such evidence as may be adduced necessary for and in aid of the determination of such facts as will enable the collector to effectually liquidate as to all of the importations covered by the decision and direct liquidation accordingly.

Reversal of decision.—In order to warrant a reversal of a decision of the Board of Appraisers this court must be satisfied that its finding is wholly without evidence to support it or that it was clearly contrary to the weight of evidence. U. S. v. Mills, (1917) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 388.

Vol. V, p. 689, Jud. Code, sec. 195.

Reappraisement cases nonappealable.—"Ultimate and exclusive appellate jurisdiction to appraise . . . is conferred on the board of three general appraisers to which the matter is assigned, and the decision of that body becomes, by the precise language of the statute itself [Act of 1913, par. M, sec. III], final and conclusive on all parties and is not subject to further review by appeal." U. S. v. Loeb, etc., Co., (1917) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 380, dismissing an appeal for want of jurisdiction.

Writs of certiorari to the Court of Customs appeals were granted in four memoranda cases reported in Shaw v. U. S., (1916) 242 U. S. 641, 37 S. Ct. 113, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 541. On certiorari certain judgments of the Court of Customs Appeals were reversed in U. S. v. M. H. Pulaski Co., (1917) 243 U. S. 97, 37 S. Ct. 346, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 617.

Vol. V, p. 691, Jud. Code, sec. 198.

Assignments of error.—The alleged absence of samples of the merchandise at the time of reappraisement thereof by the board of three general appraisers may not be urged before this court when the point is not raised by the protest, or when an examination of samples by the board was expressly waived by a stipulation of the parties duly entered of record. Stubbs v. U. S., (1917) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 399.

36 [2d ed.]

A claim for classification originating in appellant's brief in this court, not specified in the exceptions, and not raised before and presented to the Board of Appraisers, is not entitled to the consideration of this court. U. S. v. McGibbon, (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 290.

Burden of proof.—The evidence in this case being in such hopeless conflict that the court is unable to decide any question of law or fact presented, nothing is possible, under the rule that the burden is on the appellant to establish the material allegations of his protest by a convincing preponderance of the evidence, except to affirm the decision of the Board of General Appraisers sustaining the decision of the collector. St. Elmo Cigar Co. v. U. S., (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 153.

Judicial notice.—See, in general, American Bead Co. v. U. S., (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 18; U. S. v. Malhami, (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 175; Texas, etc., R. Co. v. U. S., (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 328; Fargo v. U. S., (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 346; U. S. v. Irwin, (1916) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 360; U. S. v. Faber, (1917) 7 U. S. Cust. App. 406; Tower v. U. S., (1917) 7 U. S. Cust. II. STATE A PARTY

3. State Against United States (p. 710)

In New Mexico v. Lane, (1917) 243 U. S. 52, 37 S. Ct. 348, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 588, the court dismissed for want of jurisdiction, because there were questions of law and of fact upon which the United States would have to be heard, an original bill filed by the state of New Mexico against the Secretary of the Interior and the Commissioner of the General Land Office to establish the state's asserted title to certain lands under the school land grant, and to restrain the Interior Department from disposing of such lands.

7. State Against Citizen (p. 714)

Citizen of same state.—The Supreme Court would be ousted of jurisdiction of a suit by a state if it should appear that a citizen of the state was an indispensable party. New Mexico v. Lane, (1917) 243 U. S. 52, 37 S. Ct. 348, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 588.

Vol. V, p. 717, Jud. Code, sec. 234.

I. PROHIBITION

4. Limitation on Right to Issue (p. 719)

Issuance as matter of right or of discretion.—A writ of prohibition will not be issued by the federal Supreme Court to prevent further proceedings in an action brought against a contractor and a petitioner for the writ as its surety under the Act of Feb. 24, 1905, ch. 778, in PUBLIC CONTRACTS, vol. 8, p. 374, on the ground that the rights of some of the claimants were asserted after the one-year period of limitation which the statute fixes. Ex parte Southwestern Surety Ins. Co., (1918) 247 U. S. 19, 38 S. Ct. 430, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 961, where the court said: "This depends upon facts which are not before us and besides involves a question within the competency of the court to decide concerning which, therefore, there is no basis for granting the writ of prohibition or sanctioning a resort to any other extraordinary legal remedy. See Re New York & P. R. S. S. Co., 155 U. S. 523, 39 L. ed. 246, 15 Sup. Ct. Rep. 183; Re Oklahoma, 220 U. S. 191, 55 L. ed. 431, 31 Sup. Ct. Rep. 426."

III. FINAL JUDGMENT OR DECREE (p. 727)

In general.—A judgment of the state Supreme Court, setting aside the action of the trial court rejecting the plaintiff's claim in an action at law, but not specifically fixing the amount of the plaintiff's recovery, and directing a new trial to accomplish that result, was not final for the purpose of review by the federal Supreme Court. Bruce v. Tobin, (1917) 245 U. S. 18, 38 S. Ct. 7, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 123. See this case quoted in notes to Act of Sept. 6, 1916, ch. 448, sec. 2, ante, this volume, title JUDICIARY, at pp. 413-414.

In Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Bolch, (1916) 242 U. S. 616, 37 S. Ct. 211, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 529, a writ of error to review a judgment which reversed a judgment in favor of defendant in an action under the Employers' Liability Act, and remanded the case for a new trial, was "dismissed for want of jurisdiction upon the authority of Haseltine v. Central Nat. Bank, 183 U. S. 130, 22 S. Ct. 49, 46 U. S. (L. ed.) 117; Schlosser v. Hemphill, 198 U. S. 173, 25 S. Ct. 654, 49 U. S. (L. ed.) 1000; Louisiana Nav. Co. v. Oyster Commission, 226 U. S. 99, 33 S. Ct. 78, 57 U. S. (L. ed.) 138; Thompson v. St. Louis, 241 U. S. 637, 36 S. Ct. 445, 60 U. S. (L. ed.) 1215."

Condemnation proceedings.—In Washington v. Superior Ct., (1917) 243 U. S. 251, 37 S. Ct. 295, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 702, the court dismissed for want of jurisdiction a writ of error to review a judgment of the Washington Supreme Court which affirmed on certiorari a judgment of the Superior Court, in that state, to the effect that the petitioner was entitled to condemn and appropriate certain land for a private way of necessity, and remanded the cause for further proceedings.

V. HIGHEST COURT OF A STATE (p. 730)

"Highest" court.—A writ of error was properly prosecuted to the Court of Appeals of Ohio where the Supreme Court of the State had denied an application to direct the Court of Appeals to certify the record for review, and had dismissed a writ of error for want of jurisdiction. Cuyahoga River Power Co. v. Northern Realty Co., (1917) 244 U. S. 300, 37 S. Ct. 643, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 1153.

In Cincinnati Second Nat. Bank v. Okeana First Nat. Bank, (1917) 242 U. S. 600, 37 S. Ct. 236, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 518, a writ of error was dismissed because it should have been addressed to the Court of Appeals of Ohio, instead of the Superior Court of Cincinnati.

VI. QUESTIONS REVIEWABLE BY SUPREME COURT

1. Federal Questions

b. Nonfederal Question in Case in Addition to Federal Question (p. 733)

The general rule.—In Municipal Securities Corp. v. Kansas City, (1918) 246 U. S. 63, 38 S. Ct. 224, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 579, dismissing, for want of jurisdiction, a writ of error to a decision of the Missouri Supreme Court, the opinion of the latter court was quoted, and it was then said: "It therefore follows that the Missouri Supreme Court rested its decision upon a ground of general law adequate to support it, independently of the decision upon alleged violation of federal right under the Fourteenth Amendment. In that situation it is well settled that a case from a state court is not reviewable here."

Where the state court "rested its judgment upon a non-federal ground adequate to support it, the existence of a federal question is of no significance." Bilby v. Stewart, (1918) 246 U. S. 255, 38 S. Ct. 264, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 701.

Because the decision was on a nonfederal ground a writ of error was dismissed in Zavaglia v. Notarbartola, (1917) 243 U. S. 628, 37 S. Ct. 403, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 936.

Where a federal question and a question of estoppel in pais, which was nonfederal, were decided against the plaintiff in error, the Supreme Court dismissed a writ of error for the reason that, in the particular case, the estoppel was broad enough to sustain the judgment. Enterprise Irrigation Dist. v. Farmers' Mut. Canal Co., (1917) 243 U. S. 157, 37 S. Ct. 318, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 644.

In proceedings by an Ohio power company to condemn land by eminent domain four preliminary questions were required by the state law to be passed upon by the Common Pleas Court, viz., the existence of the petitioning corporation, its right to make the appropriation, its inability to agree as to the compensation to be paid for the property, and the necessity for the appropriation. The court did not come to a jury trial on the question of compensation because, after hearing evidence on the preliminary issues, on motion of the defendants it entered an order dismissing the petition, no reason for such decision having been expressed. The case was taken to the Ohio Court of Appeals, it being assigned as error that the trial court had erred in its rulings on the four preliminary questions, and it was further alleged that the refusal of the court to order the condemnation of the land upon the theory that it was not subject to be condemned because, after the suit had been brought it had been acquired by the traction company, (admitted on its own motion as a party) and by it dedicated to a public use, constituted an impairment of the contract rights of the plaintiff and a taking of its property without due process of law, in violation of the Federal Constitution. Following a judgment of affirmance without a written opinion, the Power Company applied to the state Supreme Court to direct the Court of Appeals to certify the record for review, which was denied, and a writ of error which was prosecuted to the Court of Appeals from the Supreme Court was dismissed for want of jurisdiction for the stated ground that the case did not "involve any question arising under the Constitution of the United States or the state of Ohio." The federal Supreme Court dismissed a writ of error to the state Court of Appeals on the ground that there were independent state grounds broad enough to sustain the judgment. Cuyahoga River Power Co. v. Northern Realty Co., (1917) 244 U. S. 300, 37 S. Ct. 643, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 1153.

Where the disposition of the case by the state court depended upon the construction of statutes of the United States, and the opinion of the state court showed that those statutes were considered and federal rights asserted under them denied, and the controlling effect of the federal statutes necessarily followed in view of the nature of the rights dealt with, the Supreme Court had jurisdiction on a writ of error. California v. Deseret Water, etc., Co., (1917) 243 U. S. 415, 37 S. Ct. 394, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 821, citing Miedreich v. Lavenstein, (1914) 232 U. S. 236, 242, 34 S. Ct. 309, 58 U. S. (L. ed.) 584, 589; North Carolina R. Co. v. Zachary, (1914) 232 U. S. 248, 257, 34 S. Ct. 305, 58 U. S. (L. ed.) 591, Ann. Cas. 1914C 159; Rogers v. Hennepin County, (1916) 240 U. S. 184, 188, 36 S. Ct. 265, 60 U. S. (L. ed.) 594, 597.

c. Fictitious, Frivolous or Moot Federal Questions (p. 737)

Frivolous claim.—The claim that interstate commerce was unlawfully burdened by requiring that the delivery track owned by a railway company which, though technically a separate legal entity, was the mere agency or instrumentality of two other railway companies through joint ownership and control, should be treated, with respect to intrastate traffic, precisely as many other similarly used and situated tracks had always been used by the owning companies,—was too unsound to merit consideration by the federal Supreme Court on writ of error to a state court. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Minneapolis Civic, etc., Assn., (1918) 247 U. S. 490, 39 S. Ct. 553, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 1229.

In Valley Steamship Co. v. Wattawa, (1917) 244 U. S. 202, 37 S. Ct. 523, 61

U. S. (L. ed.) 1084, the court said: "The first point relied upon is entirely without merit, and inadequate to support our jurisdiction. In the absence of congressional legislation the settled general rule is that without violating the commerce clause, the states may legislate concerning relative rights and duties of employers and employees while within their borders, although engaged in interstate commerce," citing cases.

2. Questions of Fact (p. 739)

In general.—"The question arises, whether the basis of fact upon which the state court rested its decision denying the asserted Federal rights has any support in the record; for if not, it is our duty to review and correct the error. Southern P. Co. v. Schuyler, 227 U. S. 601, 611, 57 L. ed. 662, 669, 43 L. R. A. (N. S.) 901, 33 Sup. Ct. Rep. 277; North Carolina R. Co. v. Zachary, 232 U. S. 248, 259, 58 L. ed. 591, 595, 34 Sup. Ct. Rep. 305, Ann. Cas. 1914C 159, 9 N. C. C. A. 109; Carlson v. Washington, 234 U. S. 103, 106, 58 L. ed. 1237, 1238, 34 Sup. Ct. Rep. 717; Norfolk & W. R. Co. v. West Virginia, 236 U. S. 605, 610, 59 L. ed. 745, 748, P. U. R. 1915C 293, 35 Sup. Ct. Rep. 437; Interstate Amusement Co. v. Albert, 239 U. S. 560, 567, 60 L. ed. 439, 443, 36 Sup. Ct. Rep. 168." Postal Tel. Cable Co. v. Newport, (1918) 247 U. S. 464, 38 S. Ct. 566, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 1215.

And conversely: "It is not the province of this court to weigh conflicting testimony. The record shows testimony supporting the verdict, and that is as far as this court enters upon a consideration of that question." Great Northern R. Co. v. Donaldson, (1918) 246 U. S. 121, 38 S. Ct. 230, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 616, affirming a judgment for plaintiff in an action on the federal Employers' Liability Act.

3. Local and General Law (p. 742)

Doctrine as to conflict of laws.—A contention that the state court made a mistaken application of the doctrines of the conflict of laws in deciding that the cancellation of a land contract was governed by the law of the situs instead of the place of making and performance, was purely a question of local common law with which the federal Supreme Court was not concerned. Kryger v. Wilson, (1916) 242 U. S. 171, 37 S. Ct. 34, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 229.

Municipal nonliability.—In Municipal Securities Corp. v. Kansas City, (1918) 246 U. S. 63 38 S. Ct. 224, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 579, a suit was brought against a city by the assignee of certain tax bills to recover on the ground that the defendant by its official acts, ordinances, and conduct appropriated to the public use the property and property rights of the plaintiff consisting of valid and subsisting liens upon certain real estate without making compensation therefor, and thereby violated the due process of law clause of the 14th Amendment. But the state court held that, in view of the agreement of plaintiff's assignor with the defendant, and of the Constitution and statutes of the state, and provisions in the defendant's charter, recovery could not be had upon any theory of contract, nor could he recover upon the theory of liquidated compensation for a tort, because no such right of action had been assigned to him. For the reason that the decision in favor of the defendant was based upon this non-federal ground, a writ of error was dismissed by the federal Supreme Court.

Champertous deed.—Where a contention that a deed of land by the heir of an Indian allottee in Oklahoma was champertous within the meaning of the state statute, was considered and decided by the Supreme Court of that state in the light of its own and other decisions, the holding of that court did not involve denial of a federal right, such as would make the ruling reviewable on a writ of error. Gannon v. Johnston, (1917) 243 U. S. 108, 37 S. Ct. 330, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 622.

Adverse possession.—The question whether a plaintiff in a suit to quiet title to land which had been conveyed by the government to a state in aid of railroad construction had acquired title to the land by adverse possession was essentially a local question, involving an appreciation of the evidence as to the conduct of the parties, and not reviewable by the Supreme Court on writ of error. Donohue v. Vosper, (1917) 243 U. S. 59, 37 S. Ct. 350, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 592.

Damages.—Refusal to reverse a judgment for the plaintiff in an action on the federal Employers' Liability Act "on the ground that the damages are excessive" did not present a reviewable federal question. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Holloway, (1918) 246 U. S. 525, 38 S. Ct. 379, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 867, the court saying: "It does not appear in the case at bar, as it did in Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Gainey, 241 U. S. 494, 496, that the action of the court . . . in sustaining the verdict was necessarily based upon an erroneous theory of federal law."

Will contest.—Where probate of a will was denied on the sole ground of mental incapacity, no reviewable federal question was presented, although the proponents set up a claim that the testator was a full-blood Creek Indian and that therefore "the execution of said will and the legal effect thereof and the necessity or nonnecessity of the probate of said will is thereby involved in this cause and presents federal questions." Bilby v. Stewart, (1918) 246 U. S. 255, 38 S. Ct. 264, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 701.

4. State Procedure (p. 747)

Pleadings.—"An objection that a copy of the document sued upon should have been filed with the declaration is a matter of state procedure and not open here." Chicago Life Ins. Co. v. Cherry, (1917) 244 U. S. 28, 37 S. Ct. 492, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 966.

As to instructions.—Whether the local rule of practice, that if instructions are offered upon any issue respecting which the jury should be instructed and they are incorrect in form or substance it is the duty of the trial court to prepare or direct the preparation of a proper instruction upon the point in place of the defective one, was applicable in the case at bar, "is a question of local law, with which we have no concern," said the court in Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Holloway, (1918) 248 U. S. 525, 38 S. Ct. 379, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 867, distinguishing Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. De Atley, (1916) 241 U. S. 310, 36 S. Ct. 564, 60 U. S. (L. ed.) 1016, on the ground that in the latter case the state court "assumed for the purposes of its decision that the local rule applied, and was thereby led to decide a question of federal law," and "consequently we had and exercised jurisdiction to review its decision upon that question."

7. Res Judicata (p. 750)

"Res judicata, like other kinds of estoppel, ordinarily is a matter of state law, and as the decision of the state court in this case in effect rests upon that ground this of itself would be sufficient to sustain the judgment against the reversal in this court, except for two queries that must first be answered: (a) Is the question of state law, in this case, independent of the Federal questions? and (b) Is the decision reached upon that point sufficiently well founded to furnish adequate support for the judgment? Eustis v. Bolles, 150 U. S. 361, 366, 37 L. ed. 1111, 1112, 14 Sup. Ct. Rep. 131; Southern P. Co. v. Schuyler, 227 U. S. 601, 610, 57 L. ed. 662, 668, 43 L. R. A. (N. S.) 901, 33 Sup. Ct. Rep. 277; Enterprise Irrig. Dist. v. Farmers' Mut. Canal Co., 243 U. S. 157, 164, 61 L. ed. 644, 648, 37 Sup. Ct. Rep. 318." It was so stated in Postal Tel. Cable Co. v. Newport, (1918) 247 U. S. 464, 38 S. Ct. 566, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 1215, holding that the decision of a state court that a judgment against a corporation, rendered in a suit begun two years after it had conveyed all its property in the state to another corporation through which a third corporation afterwards acquired title, concluded the latter corporation as being in privity of estate with the first-named corporation, was too clearly ill-founded to sustain its judgment against reversal in the federal Supreme Court.

X. REPUGNANT TO CONSTITUTION, TREATIES OR LAWS OF UNITED STATES

1. In General (p. 753)

Where the attorney for the plaintiff in an action on the federal Employers' Liability Act, which the defendant settled before trial by paying a certain amount, intervened and claimed his fee, pursuant to his contract with the plaintiff, and recovered judgment for the same, against the defendant in the action, the federal Supreme Court had jurisdiction of a writ of error as against the contention that the validity of the state statute giving attorneys a lien upon a cause action so far as it applied to a lien upon a cause of action arising on the federal Employers' Liability Act was not sufficiently shown to be a ground of the judgment where the question was called to the attention of the trial court and was discussed at length by the appellate state court. Dickinson v. Stiles, (1918) 246 U. S. 631, 38 S. Ct. 415, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 908.

4. Due Process of Law (p. 764)

In general.—"The due process clause does not take up the laws of the several states and make all questions pertaining to them constitutional questions, nor does it enable this court to review the decisions of the state courts upon questions of state law. Sayward v. Denny, 158 U. S. 180, 186, 15 S. Ct. 777, 39 U. S. (L. ed.) 941, 943; Central Land Co. v. Laidley, 159 U. S. 103, 112, 16 S. Ct. 80, 40 U. S. (L. ed.) 91, 94; Castillo v. McConico, 168 U. S. 674, 683, 684, 18 S. Ct. 229, 42 U. S. (L. ed.) 622, 625, 626." Enterprise Irrigation Dist. v. Farmers' Mut. Canal Co., (1917) 243 U. S. 157, 37 S. Ct. 318, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 644, disregarding the claim that the state court, in disposing of some of the questions, including that of estoppel in pais, misconstrued or misapplied the statutory and common law of the state, and thereby infringed the due process and equal protection clauses of the 14th Amendment.

On writ of error to review a decree which affirmed a decree in favor of a state railroad commission in a suit by a railroad common carrier to enjoin it from enforcing its order requiring locomotives to be equipped with headlights of not less than 1,500 candle power, the railroad company could not insist that the order was so indefinite and uncertain in its terms as not to furnish an intelligible measure of the company's duty, and was therefore a denial of due process of law, where the state Supreme Court held that the railroad commission had power to grant relief through a rehearing, and that without first resorting to that method of procedure the company was not entitled to have the order set aside by the courts, and the record on the writ of error showed that the company was accorded a hearing upon the very question of modification of the order, but abandoned it. Vandalia R. Co. v. Public Service Commission, (1916) 242 U. S. 255, 37 S. Ct. 93, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 276.

5. Impairment of or Giving Effect to Contract (p. 756)

"In cases of this character the jurisdiction of this court does not depend upon the form in which the legislative action is expressed, but rather upon its practical effect and operation as construed and applied by the state court of last resort, and this irrespective of the process of reasoning by which the decision is reached, or the precise extent to which reliance is placed upon the subsequent legislation. McCullough v. Virginia, 172 U. S. 102, 116, 117, 19 S. Ct. 134, 43 U. S. (L. ed.) 362, 387, 398; Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Texas, 177 U. S. 66, 77, 20 S. Ct. 545, 44 U. S. (L. ed.) 673, 680; Terre Haute, etc., R. Co. v. Indiana, 194 U. S. 579, 589, 24 S. Ct. 767, 48 U. S. (L. ed.) 1124, 1129; Louisiana v. New Orleans, 215 U. S. 170, 175, 30 S. Ct. 40, 54 U. S. (L. ed.) 144, 147; Fisher v. New Orleans, 218 U. S. 438, 440, 31 S. Ct. 57, 54 U. S. (L. ed.) 1099; Carondelet Canal & Nav. Co. v. Louisiana, 233 U. S. 362, 376, 34 S. Ct. 627, 58 U. S. (L. ed.) 1001, 1006; Louisiana R. & Nav. Co. v. Behrman, 235 U. S. 164, 170, 35 S. Ct. 62, 59 U. S. (L. ed.) 175, 180. . . . Where this court is called upon in the exercise of its jurisdiction to decide whether state legislation impairs the obligation of a contract, we are required to determine upon our independent judgment these questions: (1) Was there a contract? (2) If so, what obligation arose from it? (3) Has that obligation been impaired by subsequent legislation? Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Texas, 177 U. S. 66, 77, 20 S. Ct. 545, 44 U. S. (L. ed.) 673, 680; St. Paul Gaslight Co. v. St. Paul, 181 U. S. 142, 147, 21 S. Ct. 575, 45 U. S. (L. ed.) 788, 791; Terre Haute, etc., R. Co. v. Indiana, 194 U. S. 579, 589, 24 S. Ct. 767, 48 U. S. (L. ed.) 1124, 1129." Detroit United Ry. v. Detroit, (1916) 242 U. S. 238, 37 S. Ct. 87, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 268.

XII. TITLE, RIGHT, PRIVILEGE OR IMMUNITY CLAIMED UNDER CONSTITUTION OR TREATY, STATUTE OF, OR COMMISSION HELD OR AUTHORITY EXERCISED UNDER UNITED STATES

1. In General (p. 761)

Boundaries between states.—"Whether two states of the Union, either by long acquiescence in a practical location of their common boundary, or by agreement otherwise evidenced, have definitely fixed or changed the limits of their jurisdiction as laid down by the authority of the general government in treaty or statute, to in its nature a federal question." Cissna v. Tennessee, (1918) 246 U. S. 289, 38 S. Ct. 306, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 720.

2. Constitution

a. Full Faith and Credit Clause (p. 761)

Judgments of other states.—An essential step in invoking the full faith and credit clause as to a judgment in another state is that the faith and credit that it has by law or usage in the courts of the state of its rendition must be brought to the attention of the court where the judgment is offered. Gasquert v. Lapeyre, (1917) 242 U. S. 367, 37 S. Ct. 165, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 367.

c. Guaranty of Republican Form of Government (p. 763)

"As has been decidedly repeatedly, the question whether this guaranty has been violated is not a judicial but a political question, committed to Congress, and not to the courts. Luther v. Borden, 7 How. 1, 39, 42, 12 L. ed. 581, 597, 599; Pacific States Teleph. & Teleg. Co. v. Oregon, 223 U. S. 118, 56 L. ed. 377, 32 Sup. Ct. Rep. 224; Kiernan v. Portland, 223 U. S. 151, 56 L. ed. 386, 32 Sup. Ct. Rep. 231; Marshall v. Dye, 231 U. S. 250, 256, 58 L. ed. 206, 207, 34 Sup. Ct. Rep. 92; Ohio ex rel. Davis v. Hildebrandt, 241 U. S. 565, 60 L. ed. 1172, 36 Sup. Ct. Rep. 708." Mountain Timber Co. v. Washington, (1917) 243 U. S. 219, 37 S. Ct. 260, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 686, Ann. Cas. 1917D 642.

d. Contract Clause (p. 763)

"Impairment by judicial decision does not raise a federal question. Cross Lake Shooting & Fishing Club v. Louisiana, 224 U. S. 632, 32 S. Ct. 577, 56 U. S. (L. ed.) 924." Kryger v. Wilson, (1916) 242 U. S. 171, 37 S. Ct. 34, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 229.

4. Statute (p. 765)

In general.—It cannot be held that any right of plaintiff in error under a law of the United States was infringed by a decision and judgment when the law creating the supposed right was not enacted until after the judgment. Vandalia R. Co. v. Public Service Commission, (1916) 242 U. S. 255, 37 S. Ct. 93, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 276.

Under Employers' Liability Act.—See Bruce v. Tobin, (1917) 245 U. S. 18, 38 S. Ct. 7, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 123, as quoted in notes to Act of September 6, 1916, ch. 448, § 2, ante, this volume, title JUDICIARY, at pp. 413, 414.

In Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Mims, (1917) 242 U. S. 532, 37 S. Ct. 198, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 476, quoted infra, p. 1128, a writ of error was dismissed because the party's claim under the federal Employers' Liability Act was not asserted at the proper time and in the proper manner.

Under Safety Appliance Act.—Where an order of a state railroad commission was not invalid as regarded the Safety Appliance Act of February 17, 1911, 1912 Supp. p. 339, under the controlling principles declared in Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Georgia, (1914) 234 U. S. 280, 290, 34 S. Ct. 829, 58 U. S. (L. ed.) 1312, 1317, the validity of such order having been affirmed by the state Supreme Court, its validity could not be attacked on writ of error in the federal Supreme Court on the ground that it infringed the subsequently enacted amendatory Safety Appliance Act of March 4, 1915, 1916 Supp. p. 215. Vandalia R. Co. v. Public Service Commission, (1916) 242 U. S. 255, 37 S. Ct. 93, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 276.

Under Carmack amendment.—In an action against an initial carrier of an interstate shipment for its negligence and that of connecting carriers, on a through bill of lading containing, among other things, a stipulation that the carrier should not be liable for damages unless claims for damages were reported to the delivering line within thirty-six hours after the consignee had been notified of the arrival of the freight at the place of delivery, the defendant's answer making one of the issues upon which the case was tried and decided, set up this clause in the bill of lading and the failure of the plaintiff to comply with it. It was held that a right was involved which was the creation of a federal statute, viz., the Carmack amendment of June 29, 1906, and the action was necessarily founded on that amendment. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Starbird, (1917) 243 U. S. 592, 37 S. Ct. 462, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 917.

Under banking laws.—In Union Nat. Bank v. McBoyle, (1917) 243 U. S. 26, 37 S. Ct. 370, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 570, a writ of error to review a judgment declaring plaintiffs to be the owners of certain shares of stock which they had purchased from the cashier of a national bank was dismissed for want of jurisdiction. The court said: "When the issue is thus accurately fixed, it is apparent that while in mere form of expression it may seemingly raise a question under the National Bank Act, in substance it presents no question of that character whatever."

Under removal statutes.—Denial of a defendant's contention, at the close of the plaintiff's evidence, that the case which was confessedly not before removable had become removable by failure to prove the allegation which made the case previously nonremovable, did not constitute a denial of federal right where, according to the established doctrine of the federal Supreme Court the defendant had not acquired a right of removal at that time. Great Northern R. Co. v. Alexander, (1918) 246 U. S. 276, 38 S. Ct. 237, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 713.

Miscellaneous—Several grounds.—In Wellsville Oil Co. v. Miller, (1917) 243 U. S. 6, 37 S. Ct. 362, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 559, affirming a judgment which dismissed an appeal from a judgment dismissing the petition in a suit to protect rights under an oil and gas lease in Oklahoma, and to set aside a subsequent conflicting lease, the court said: "Before coming to consider the merits of the errors relied upon, we observe that because of the Federal nature of the court which authorized the lease whose validity was involved, the subject-matter with which the case dealt (Indian land), and the asserted want of power in the Secretary of the Interior to disapprove the lease, and the further assertion that the court had no authority in any event to subject the lease to the approval of the Secretary, we think the issues involved so concern matters of inherently Federal nature as to afford jurisdiction. Swafford v. Templeton, 185 U. S. 487, 46 L. ed. 1005, 22 Sup. Ct. Rep. 783; Fritzen v. Boatmen's Bank, 212 U. S. 364, 53 L. ed. 551, 29 Sup. Ct. Rep. 366; Ohio ex rel. Davis v. Hildebrandt, 241 U. S. 565, 60 L. ed. 1172, 36 Sup. Ct. Rep. 708. We therefore overrule the motion to dismiss."

5. Authority Exercised Under United States (p. 772)

Judgment of federal court.—The Supreme Court had jurisdiction on writ of error to review a decree in which a decree of a federal court was an element of decision against the plaintiff in error and was claimed by him to be an element in his favor. Donohue v. Vosper, (1917) 243 U. S. 59, 37 S. Ct. 350, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 592.

XIII. TITLE, RIGHT, PRIVILEGE OR IMMUNITY "SPECIALLY SET UP OR CLAIMED"

1. Necessity (p. 775)

Unless some title, right, privilege, or immunity is duly and especially claimed, the federal Supreme Court has no jurisdiction. Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Taber, (1917) 244 U. S. 200, 37 S. Ct. 522, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 1082.

Claim under federal Employers' Liability Act.—Where an action against a railroad company for death of an employee was based upon the state statute, the answer did not set up or rely upon the federal Employers' Act, and the trial court's attention was not called thereto; and although urged to hold liability depended upon it the state Supreme Court declined to pass upon that point because not presented to the trial court, and this ruling was in entire accord with the state statute and established practice, the federal Supreme Court dismissed a writ of error for want of jurisdiction. Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Taber, (1917) 244 U. S. 200, 37 S. Ct. 522, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 1082.

3. Time of Making Claim (p. 778)

Claim made at trial.—In Nevada-California-Oregon Ry. Co. v. Burrus, (1917) 244 U. S. 103, 37 S. Ct. 576, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 1019, dismissing a writ of error for want of jurisdiction, Mr. Justice Holmes, speaking for the majority of the court, said: "This is an action for breach of a contract to furnish plaintiff (defendant in error) a special train to carry him from Reno, Nevada, to Doyle, California, where his son was ill, and to bring the two back from that place. The plaintiff got a judgment, and the only question before us is whether any rights of the defendant under the Act to Regulate Commerce have been infringed. The ground on which such an infraction is alleged is that the trial court, after the trial had been going on for more than a day, refused to allow the answer to be amended so as to set up that no tariff rate for special trains had been filed by the defendant and that therefore the contract was illegal. The defendant had mentioned the point at the beginning of the trial, but this was the first time that it was presented in proper form under the state practice, although some months had elapsed since the beginning of the suit, and demurrers and other defenses had been interposed without suggesting this one. The Supreme Court of the state declined to overrule the discretionary judgment of the court below. 38 Nev. 156, L. R. A. 1917D 750, 145 Pac. 926, 8 N. C. C. A. 777. Upon the question whether a claim of immunity under a statute of the United States has been asserted in the proper manner under the state system of pleading and practice 'the decision of the state court is binding upon this court, when it is clear, as it is in this case, that such decision is not rendered in a spirit of evasion, for the purpose of defeating the claim of Federal right.' Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Mims, 242

U. S. 532, 535, [37 Sup. Ct. Rep. 188, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 476, 477]. The most that could be said in this case was that the supreme court was influenced in its judgment by the fact that the railroad, after treating the plaintiff very badly, was trying to escape liability by an afterthought upon a debatable point of law,—not at all by the fact that the law involved was Federal. The plaintiff had tried the case relying upon the presumption which was sufficient as the pleading stood. Cincinnati, N. O. & T. P. R. Co. v. Rankin, 241 U. S. 319, 60 L. ed. 1022, L. R. A. 1917A 265, 36 Sup. Ct. Rep. 555. The court reasonably might decline to put him to procuring other evidence from a distance, on the last day of the trial, upon a new issue presented after his evidence was in. We perceive no reason why this court should interfere with the practice of the state."

In Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Mims, (1917) 242 U. S. 532, 37 S. Ct. 188, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 476, the plaintiff administratrix sued a railroad common carrier for wrongful death of her intestate, nothing in her complaint tending to state a cause of action under the federal statute. The defendant filed an answer which was a specific denial under the state Code of Civil Procedure, and when the case was called for the second trial the defendant asked leave to amend its answer by pleading "gross and wilful contributory negligence" on the part of the deceased, which was granted, and the trial proceeded until plaintiff rested her case. The defendant then for the first time offered to introduce testimony which it was claimed, if admitted, would have tended to prove that the train which the deceased was in the act of approaching to inspect when he was killed "was engaged in interstate commerce and that the deceased was in this respect and otherwise engaged in interstate commerce." The trial court rejected this proffer of testimony on the ground that it came too late and was not relevant to any issue tendered by the pleadings in the case. No application was made for leave to amend the answer by adding the claim under the federal law. The federal Supreme Court dismissed a writ of error because the defendant's claim was not asserted at the proper time and in the proper manner.

Claim made in petition for rehearing.—A claim of federal question first made in an application for leave to file a second petition for rehearing comes too late. Bilby v. Stewart, (1918) 246 U. S. 255, 38 S. Ct. 264, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 701.

Claim made in assignment of error.—In Saunders v. Shaw, (1917) 244 U. S. 317, 37 S. Ct. 638, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 1163, holding that the court had jurisdiction on a writ of error, when the state Supreme Court had declined to consider an application by plaintiff in error for a rehearing, it was said: "The record discloses the facts but does not disclose the claim of right under the 14th Amendment until the assignment of errors filed the day before the chief justice of the state granted this writ. Of course ordinarily that would not be enough. But when the act complained of is the act of the supreme court, done unexpectedly at the end of the proceeding, when the plaintiff in error no longer had any right to add to the record, it would leave a serious gap in the remedy for infraction of constitutional rights if the party aggrieved in such a way could not come here. The defendant was not bound to contemplate a decision of the case before his evidence was heard, and therefore was not bound to ask a ruling or to take other precautions in advance. The denial of rights given by the 14th Amendment need not be by legislation. Home Teleph. & Teleg. Co. v. Los Angeles, 227 U. S. 278, 57 L. ed. 510, 33 Sup. Ct. Rep. 312. It appears that shortly after the supreme court had declined to entertain the petition for rehearing the plaintiff in error brought the claim of constitutional right to the attention of the chief justice of the state by his assignment of errors. We do not see what more he could have done."

4. Manner of Settling Up Claim (p. 781)

In general.—In Valley Steamship Co. v. Wattawa, (1917) 244 U. S. 202, 37 S. Ct. 523, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 1084, dismissing for want of jurisdiction, a writ of error to the Ohio Court of Appeals, the court said: "The second reason for reversal now set up was not presented to the trial court in any form. It was not pointed out clearly, if at all, by the petition in error before the Court of Appeals, and was not definitely mentioned in the opinion of that court, whose powers only extend to a review of the trial court's judgment for errors appearing on the record. Section 12,247, Ohio General Code, as amended by 103 Ohio Laws pp. 405, 431. The question, therefore, is not properly before us. Mutual L. Ins. Co. v. McGrew, 188 U. S. 291, 308, 309, 47 L. ed. 480, 484, 485, 63 L. R. A. 33, 23 Sup. Ct. Rep. 375."

Illustration of claim sufficiently set up.—In an action against an initial carrier of an interstate shipment for its negligence and that of connecting carriers, on a through bill of lading containing a stipulation that the carrier should not be liable for damages unless claims for damages were reported to the delivery line within thirty-six hours after the consignee had been notified of the arrival of the freight at the place of delivery, the defendant's answer, making one of the issues upon which the case was tried and decided, set up this clause in the bill of lading and the failure of the plaintiff to comply with it. It was held that a claim of federal right under the Carmack Amendment of the Interstate Commerce Law was sufficiently made by that answer. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Starbird, (1917) 243 U. S. 592, 37 S. Ct. 462, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 917.

Effect of opinion of state court.—In Cissna v. Tennessee, (1918) 246 U. S. 289, 38 S. Ct. 306, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 720, holding that the court had jurisdiction of a writ of error, although the record did not show that plaintiff in error specially set up in the state courts any contention that the decision of the merits turned upon questions of federal law, except as might appear by inference from the nature of the grounds upon which the decision was rested, the court said: "But if the Supreme Court of the state treated federal questions as necessarily involved and decided them adversely to plaintiff in error, and could not otherwise have reached the result that it did reach, it becomes immaterial to consider how they were raised. Miedreich v. Lauenstein, 232 U. S. 236, 243; North Carolina R. Co. v. Zachary, 232 U. S. 248, 257; Mallinckrodt Works v. St. Louis, 238 U. S. 41, 49." The court then pointed out that the opinion of the state court made it clear that the decision adverse to the plaintiff in error turned essentially upon questions of federal law.

Absence of opinion of state court.—A writ of error will be dismissed where, from absence of an opinion by the court below, it is impossible to say whether its judgment was rested upon state questions adequate to sustain it independent of the federal questions, or upon such federal questions, both being in the case. Cuyahoga River Power Co. v. Northern Realty Co., (1917) 244 U. S. 300, 37 S. Ct. 643, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 1153.

XIV. "DECISION AGAINST TITLE, RIGHT, PRIVILEGE OR IMMUNITY"

2. Decision When Adverse (p. 786)

In an action against an initial carrier of an interstate shipment for its negligence and that of connecting carriers on a through bill of lading, the defendant's answer set up a stipulation in the bill of lading that the carrier should not be liable for damages unless claims for damages were reported to the delivering line within thirty-six hours after the consignee had been notified of the arrival of the freight at the place of delivery, and the answer alleged failure of the plaintiff to comply with the stipulation. On a writ of error to review a judgment against the defendant the federal Supreme Court held that the record sufficiently showed denial of an alleged federal right. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Starbird, (1917) 243 U. S. 592, 37 S. Ct. 462, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 917.

Decision adverse by implication.—A federal question which will sustain a writ of error to a state court is involved in the denial of a requested instruction that a common-law marriage was not recognized by the Chickasaw Indians, and that the marriage of Chickasaws, without a compliance with their laws was void, where, considering all the requests for rulings and the ruling themselves, it may be assumed that the request meant that a marriage of Chickasaws, although in accord with their customs, was invalid under a Chickasaw law unless solemnized by a judge or ordained preacher, and, by implication, that the Act of Congress of May 2, 1890, 26 Stat. at L. 98, ch. 182, § 38, did not validate the marriage in accordance with still prevailing custom, if no judge or preacher added his sanction. Carney v. Chapman, (1918) 247 U. S. 102, 38 S. Ct. 449, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 1006.

XVII. RECORD

2. Contents and Sufficiency of Record (p. 792)

Opinion of court below.—In Stadelman v. Miner, (1918) 246 U. S. 311, 38 S. Ct. 189 mem., 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 737, on petition for rehearing the court said: "There being nothing in the record to establish that the federal question relied upon was raised, considered, or decided below, and indeed, it appearing, so far as the record is concerned, that the federal question was for the first time stated in the assignments made for the purpose of the writ of error to this court, the case was dismissed for want of jurisdiction upon authorities cited. 245 U. S. 636 [38 Sup. Ct. 189, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 524]. On this application it is stated that in a previous hearing of the case in the court below the federal question relied upon in this court was pressed, and, moreover, was expressly decided, reference being made to the opinion so showing, reported in 83 Or. 361 [155 Pac. 708, 163 Pac. 585, 983]. The application for leave prays that the clerk below be directed to certify the opinion as part of the record, and thus correct the inadvertence in not having previously included it and the oversight of counsel in not having referred to it in their briefs or arguments as affording in this court the basis of authority to review. As the opinion referred to establishes that the Federal question was considered and decided, and as that opinion should have properly been included in the record, it follows that if the mistake of the parties in failing to include or refer to it be overlooked and corrected, which we think should be done, it would result also that the ground upon which the order of dismissal was made would be without foundation and therefore should be set aside. To that end leave to file the petition is granted, and acting upon it as filed, our former judgment of dismissal will be set aside and the case will stand for consideration under the prior submission. Moreover, for the purpose of disposing of the cause, the opinion of the court below, rendered on the previous hearing, will be considered as part of the record without further formal order to the court below to supply the same. And it is so ordered."

XIX. REVIEW ON WRIT OF CERTIORARI (p. 794)

Writ of certiorari was granted to the Court of Appeals of Kentucky in Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Leach, (1917) 243 U. S. 639, 37 S. Ct. 404, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 942.

For other reported cases of certiorari granted, or denied see notes to Act of Sept. 6, 1916, ch. 448, § 2, ante, this volume, title JUDICIARY, p. 414, containing cases reported down to 247 U. S., p. 402.

Finality of the judgment of the state court continues to be an essential for the purposes of the remedy by certiorari. Bruce v. Tobin, (1917) 245 U. S. 18, 38 S. Ct. 7, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 123. See this case quoted in notes to Act of September 6, 1916, ch. 448, § 2, ante, this volume, title JUDICIARY, at pp. 413-414.

I. SCOPE OF STATUTE AND GENERAL MATTERS

5. Habeas Corpus (p. 798)

Where a petition for habeas corpus raised questions involving the application of the Constitution of the United States or the construction of a treaty made under its authority, a direct appeal could be taken under this section from a decision refusing the writ and dismissing the petition. But if no question described in this section was involved no appeal would lie direct from such decision to the Supreme Court. Horn v. Mitchell, (1917) 243 U. S. 247, 37 S. Ct. 293, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 700.

III. FINAL JUDGMENTS (p. 800)

The finality essential to sustain an appeal is not wanting in an order which denies a petition by which a witness, who offered in evidence in an equity suit certain exhibits owned by him that the court later ordered impounded in the custody of the clerk, seeks to enjoin on constitutional grounds the use of such exhibits before the grand jury as a basis for an indictment for perjury alleged to have been committed in such suit. Perlman v. U. S., (1918) 247 U. S. 7, 38 S. Ct. 417, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 950.

A judgment denying an application to set aside a default judgment on the ground that the latter was rendered without jurisdiction, the application having been heard upon affidavits, was declared to be in effect a final judgment in an independent action and reviewable as such in the proper court. Stevirmac Oil, etc., Co. v. Dittman, (1917) 245 U. S. 210, 38 S. Ct. 116, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 248, holding, however, that it was reviewable only by the Circuit Court of Appeals and not directly by the Supreme Court under Judicial Code, § 238.

IV. JURISDICTION OF COURT IN ISSUE

5. When Jurisdiction Is in Issue (p. 806)

Admiralty.—Objection to a libel in rem against a vessel on the ground that it was immune to proceedings in any court by reason of being under requisition by the Italian government for the purpose of transporting military supplies, went equally to the jurisdiction of any court, state or federal, and appeal from a decree was properly taken to the Circuit Court of Appeals. The Attualita, (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1916) 236 Fed. 909, 152 C. C. A. 43.

Proper service of process.—An order quashing a writ of summons and directing that the defendant go without day, because the summons was served upon the defendant, a nonresident, while he was returning from the court after testifying as a witness in a case wherein he was plaintiff, was properly reviewed under this section. Stewart v. Ramsay, (1916) 242 U. S. 128, 37 S. Ct. 44, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 192, where the court said: "That a direct writ of error lies in such a case is well settled. G. & C. Merriam Co. v. Saalfeld, 241 U. S. 22, 36 S. Ct. 477, 60 U. S. (L. ed.) 868."

The question whether a foreign corporation, was present in a state so as to be amenable to service of process in a case originally brought against it in the federal court in that state was the question presented and decided in People's Tobacco Co. v. American Tobacco Co., (1918) 246 U. S. 79, 38 S. Ct. 233, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 587, affirming the judgment of the District Court sustaining exceptions, in Louisiana, filed by the corporation to the attempted service upon it.

In Toledo Rys., etc., Co. v. Hill, (1917) 244 U. S. 49, 37 S. Ct. 591, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 982, the question of validity of service of process upon a foreign corporation defendant in a case removed from a state court was decided on direct writ of error to a judgment against the corporation.

In Meisukas v. Greenough Red Ash Coal Co., (1917) 244 U. S. 54, 37 S. Ct. 593, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 987, a judgment dismissing, for lack of jurisdiction, an action against a foreign corporation not doing business in the state was affirmed on direct writ of error.

In Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. McKibbin, 243 U. S. 264, 37 S. Ct. 280, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 710, where judgment was rendered on a verdict against the defendant foreign corporation after denial of its motion to set aside service of summons, supported by affidavits, and its subsequent motion to dismiss, the judgment was reversed on the ground that the defendant was not doing business in the state so as to make it amenable to the service of process there.

Vacation of judgment.—In Stevirmac Oil, etc., Co. v. Dittman, (1917) 245 U. S. 210, 38 S. Ct. 116, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 248, about eighteen months after a default judgment against the plaintiff in error, the marshal's return having been previously amended by order of the court so as to show personal service upon the defendant (plaintiff in error), the plaintiff in error filed an application to set aside the judgment on the ground of want of jurisdiction by proper service of summons, that the marshal's amended return was false, and that the court had no power to order the marshal to amend his return. Upon hearing the application, with accompanying affidavits, the court refused to set aside the former judgment and overruled the application. While conceding that the judgment overruling the application was a final judgment and reviewable in the proper court, the federal Supreme Court dismissed a writ of error brought under Judicial Code, § 238, for the reason that "no question is made concerning the jurisdiction of the court to entertain the proceeding to set aside the former judgment, and that the real controversy arises from the attack upon the authority of the court to order an amendment of the marshal's return, and to render the original judgment."

Other illustrations.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Rice, (1918) 247 U. S. 201, 38 S. Ct. 429, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 1071, holding that the District Court had jurisdiction of a certain suit as one "arising under any law regulating commerce" as provided in Judicial Code, § 24, par. Eighth.

Sutton v. English, (1918) 246 U. S. 199, 38 S. Ct. 254, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 664, question of jurisdiction of a suit to annul the probate of a will, where such proceeding was by the state law merely supplemental to the proceedings for probate.

Emery v. American Refrigerator Co., (1918) 246 U. S. 634, 38 S. Ct. 414, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 912, holding that the District Court acquired no jurisdiction by removal from a state court as the amount in controversy was less than $3,000.

Hopkins v. Walker, (1917) 244 U. S. 486, 37 S. Ct. 711, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 1270, where a decree dismissing for want of jurisdiction, a bill in a suit to remove a cloud on title of a placer mining claim was reversed on the ground that the bill presented a federal question arising under the mining laws.

Greene v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., (1917) 244 U. S. 499, 37 S. Ct. 673, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 1280, Ann. Cas. 1917E 88, affirming a decree and holding that the bill showed a question arising under the federal Constitution and that the suit was not against a state.

Hamer v. New York Rys. Co., (1917) 244 U. S. 266, 37 S. Ct. 511, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 1125, presenting the single question whether the court erred in dismissing a bill for want of jurisdiction on the ground that there was no diverse citizenship.

Removal cases.—McAllister v. Chesapeake, etc. R. Co., 243 U. S. 302, 37 S. Ct. 274, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 735, reversing a judgment of dismissal of a case removed from a state court and directing that the case be remanded to the state court as not showing a separable controversy or a fraudulent joinder of dependants justifying removal.

6. Certificate

a. Necessity (p. 820)

Equivalent of certificate.—A recital in the order of the district judge allowing a writ of error that the plaintiff's petition "had been dismissed by the judgment of this court upon consideration solely of the question of this court's jurisdiction of the action," was held sufficient to take the place of the certificate required by the Judicial Code, section 238. McAllister v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 243 U. S. 302, 37 S. Ct. 274, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 735, citing Excelsior Wooden Pipe Co. v. Pacific Bridge Co., (1902) 185 U. S. 282, 22 S. Ct. 681, 46 U. S. (L. ed.) 910, and Herdon-Carter Co. v. Norris, (1912) 224 U. S. 496, 32 S. Ct. 550, 56 U. S. (L. ed.) 857.

9. Scope of Review

a. In General (p. 825)

Where the District Court dismissed an action against a state bank commissioner and the surety on his bond on the ground that the action was against a state in violation of the 11th Amendment, the questions whether the state statute made the surety liable, or whether the plaintiff's pleading or the case was defective in any particular, the federal Supreme Court was not required to decide, since upon neither question was the judgment of the District Court defensively invoked. Johnson v. Lankford, (1918) 245 U. S. 541, 38 S. Ct. 203, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 460.

c. Questions of Fact and Findings (p. 827)

Whether a foreign corporation defendant was doing business within the state, so as to make service of process upon it valid is a question vital to the jurisdiction of the court, and review of a decision thereon extends to findings of fact as well as to conclusions of law. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. McKibbin, (1917) 243 U. S. 264, 37 S. Ct. 280, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 710, where, upon consideration of affidavits in the record, the finding of the court below that the defendant was doing business within the state was held to be erroneous.

d. Merits of Controversy (p. 827)

"Such appeals or writs of error do not bring here the merits of the controversy, and impose upon this court the single duty of determining whether the district court had jurisdiction of the case." Stevirmac Oil, etc., Co. v. Dittman, (1917) 245 U. S. 210, 38 S. Ct. 116, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 248.

10. Manner of Disposing of Appeal by Supreme Court (p. 827)

Decision right, but for a wrong reason.—Where the District Court erred in dismissing an action on the ground that it was an action against a state, its judgment was nevertheless affirmed where the record showed that the parties were citizens of the same state and no constitutional or other federal question was involved. Martin v. Lankford, (1918) 245 U. S. 547, 38 S. Ct. 205, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 464.

VI. CONSTITUTIONAL QUESTIONS IN ISSUE

4. Exclusiveness of Jurisdiction of Supreme Court (p. 834)

Where the cause of action is one arising under the Constitution of the United States, but there is also diversity of citizenship of the parties, the Circuit Court of Appeals has appellate jurisdiction. Crescent Mfg. Co. v. Wilson, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 462, 155 C. C. A. 238.

7. Scope of Review (p. 836)

All questions involved.—If the United States Supreme Court has jurisdiction to review a case originating in a federal District Court on the ground that a constitutional question is in issue, it may determine all questions involved in the case, including questions of state law, irrespective of the disposition that may be made of the federal question, or whether it be found necessary to decide it at all. Siler v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., (1917) 213 U. S. 175, 191, 29 S. Ct. 451, 53 U. S. (L. ed.) 753, 757; Ohio Tax Cases, 232 U. S. 576, 586, 34 S. Ct. 372, 58 U. S. (L. ed.) 738, 743." Greene v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., (1917) 244 U. S. 499, 37 S. Ct. 673, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 1280, Ann. Cas. 1917E 88.

Where the Supreme Court has acquired jurisdiction on direct appeal or writ of error because of a constitutional question raised and passed upon in the court below, all questions involved in the case are before it, and the decision of the court below may be reversed on grounds making consideration of the constitutional questions unnecessary. McCurdy v. U. S., (1918) 246 U. S. 263, 38 S. Ct. 289, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 706.

I. POWER AND DISCRETION TO CERTIFY

1. In General (p. 839)

Any case within its appellate jurisdiction.—Power enlarged.—In U. S. v. Lane, (1917) 245 U. S. 166, 38 S. Ct. 94, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 223, in the course of a discussion not necessary to the decision of the case, the court, speaking of section 6 of the Circuit Court of Appeals Act of 1891 (set forth in notes to Judicial Code, § 238, vol. 5, at p. 796), said: "While by the terms of that act such authority apparently extended to 'every such subject within its appellate jurisdiction,' it came to be settled that by limitations found in the text such power to certify was restricted to cases in which the judgments or decrees of the Circuit Court of Appeals were final and therefore not susceptible of being of right otherwise reviewed in this court. Columbus Watch Co. v. Robbins, 148 U. S. 266, 268; Bardes v. Hawarden First Nat. Bank, 175 U. S. 526, 527. Coming to provide concerning this situation the Judicial Code enlarged the power of a Circuit Court of Appeals by conferring authority to certify 'any case within its appellate jurisdiction' (§ 239)."

II. PROCEDURE

2. Form and Frame of Certificate (p. 846)

Admonition "not to be negligent and ambiguous."—In Boston Store, etc., v. American Graphophone Co., (1918) 246 U. S. 8, 38 S. Ct. 257, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 551, the court, premising that "the court below . . . has certified certain facts and propounded questions for solution arising therefrom," then said: "The certificate as to some matters of procedure is deficient in specification, and, looked at from the point of view of the questions which it asks, is somewhat wanting in precision. As, however the matters not specified are not in dispute and the want of precision referred to is not so fundamental as to mislead or confuse, we are of opinion the duty rests upon us to answer the questions, and we come to discharge it, making the statements, however, which we have made as an admonition concerning the duty not to be negligent and ambiguous, but to be careful and precise in preparing certificates as the basis for questions propounded to obtain our instruction."

Certificate pronounced defective.—In Ricaud v. American Metal Co., (1918) 246 U. S. 304, 38 S. Ct. 312, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 733, the court decided that "for the purpose of making an end of the litigation, we will proceed to answer the questions," but said: "There is no denying that there is much of merit in the objection to the form of this certificate, including the form of the questions, for the reason that the certificate, instead of containing a 'proper statement of the facts on which the questions and propositions of law arise,' as is required by rule 37 of this court, contains a statement of what is 'alleged and denied' by the parties plaintiff and defendant in their pleadings, with the additional statement that there was evidence 'tending to establish the facts as claimed by each party,' but without any finding whatever as to what the evidence showed the facts to be, and the first question, on which the other two depend, is in terms based entirely on an 'assumed' statement of facts. If this certificate had not been supplemented by the recognition by the United States government of the government of Carranza, first as the de facto and later as the de jure government of Mexico, of which facts this court will take judicial notice (Jones v. United States, 137 U. S. 202, 34 L. ed. 691, 11 Sup. Ct. Rep. 80; Underhill v. Hernandez, 168 U. S. 250, 42 L. ed. 456, 18 Sup. Ct. Rep. 83), it would be our duty to declare the certificate insufficient and to return it to the Circuit Court of Appeals without answering the questions. Cincinnati, H. & D. R. Co. v. McKeen, 149 U. S. 259, 37 L. ed. 725, 13 Sup. Ct. Rep. 840; Graver v. Faurot, 162 U. S. 435, 40 L. ed. 1030, 16 Sup. Ct. Rep. 799; Cross v. Evans, 167 U. S. 60, 40 L. ed. 77, 17 Sup. Ct. Rep. 733; Stratton's Independence v. Howbert, 231 U. S. 399, 422, 58 L. ed. 285, 295, 34 Sup. Ct. Rep. 136."

Other certificates quoted.—Questions certified are quoted in U. S. v. Ginsberg, (1917) 243 U. S. 472, 37 S. Ct. 422, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 853.

4. Other Proceedings (p. 848)

Answers to questions.—In U. S. v. Ginsberg, (1917) 243 U. S. 472, 37 S. Ct.

422, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 853, where four questions were certified, the court said: "Considering the accompanying statement of facts and our views in respect of the law, answers to the first and fourth will enable the Circuit Court of Appeals properly to determine the issues involved."

III. TABLE OF CASES WHERE QUESTIONS WERE CERTIFIED (p. 848)

Bond v. Hume, (1917) 243 U. S. 15, 37 S. Ct. 366, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 565, as to whether the enforcement in Texas of a New York contract for the sale of cotton for future delivery was prevented by the Texas statute against futures.

U. S. v. Waller, (1917) 243 U. S. 452, 37 S. Ct. 430, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 843, as to whether the United States could maintain, on behalf of certain Indian grantors, a suit to set aside conveyances made by those Indians of their allotments.

U. S. v. Ginsberg, (1917) 243 U. S. 472, 37 S. Ct. 422, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 853, as to whether the final hearing of a petition for naturalization was had in open court, and whether a certificate of citizenship should be set aside as illegally procured.

Boston Store, etc. v. American Graphophone Co., (1918) 246 U. S. 8, 38 S. Ct. 257, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 551, presenting questions as to the right of the owner of a patent to restrict by contract the price at which the patented article shall be resold by dealers.

Goldfield Consol. Mines Co. v. Scott, (1918) 247 U. S. 126, 38 S. Ct. 465, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 1022, concerning the construction and application of the federal Corporation Tax Act of 1909.

IV. "WHOLE RECORD AND CAUSE" BROUGHT UP (p. 853)

Cases where the whole record was brought up under this section are Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Jacoby, (1916) 242 U. S. 89, 37 S. Ct. 49, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 165, judgment of District Court enforcing an award of damages made by the Interstate Commerce Commission because of discrimination in the distribution of coal cars.

Oregon, etc., R. Co. v. U. S., (1915) 238 U. S. 393, 35 S. Ct. 908, 59 U. S. (L. ed.) 1360; (1917) 243 U. S. 549, 37 S. Ct. 443, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 890, a case twice before the court on certificate and certiorari; to review a decree enjoining certain railway companies from selling any part of the lands granted to them by Congress in violation of the covenants in the land grant Acts, etc.

U. S. v. Wildcat, (1917) 244 U. S. 111, 37 S. Ct. 561, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 1024, bringing up for review a decree dismissing the bill in a suit by the United States to cancel an Indian allotment certificate and the patents for his allotment.

II. DISCRETION IN EXERCISE OF POWER

2. Power Sparingly Exercised (p. 856)

See Houston Oil Co. v. Goodrich, (1918) 245 U. S. 440 38 S. Ct. 140, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 385, as quoted, infra, p. 1135.

3. Before Final Decree in Circuit Court of Appeals (p. 857)

Decree on appeal from interlocutory injunction.—In E. I. Du Pont De Nemours Powder Co. v. Masland, (1917) 244 U. S. 100, 37 S. Ct. 575, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 1016, the District Court enjoined defendant in a suit to prevent the use or disclosure of trade secrets, from disclosing such secrets to experts or witnesses produced during the taking of proof. The Circuit Court of Appeals reversed the decree. "Before any further order was entered the writ of certiorari was granted by this court."

After questions had been certified.—See cases cited in notes to vol. V, p. 838, Judicial Code, § 239, under the heading Cases Where the Whole Record Was Brought Up, supra, this page, and cases under similar heading in vol. V at p. 853.

III. PROCEDURE FOR OBTAINING WRIT (p. 859)

Papers on application to be carefully prepared.—In Furness v. Yang-Tze Ins. Ass'n, (1917) 242 U. S. 430, 37 S. Ct. 141, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 409, dismissing a writ of certiorari as having been improvidently granted, the court remarked that the writ would not have been allowed had the petition and reply thereto disclosed the real situation, and continued as follows: "During the last term one hundred fifty-four petitions for certiorari were presented and acted upon. Because of recent legislation—Act of September 6, 1916, chap. 448, 39 Stat. at L. 726—their number hereafter may greatly increase. Such petitions go first to every member of the court for examination, and are then separately considered in conference. This duty must be promptly discharged. We are not aided by oral arguments, and necessarily rely in an especial way upon petitions, replies, and supporting briefs. Unless these are carefully prepared, contain appropriate references to the record, and present with studied accuracy, brevity, and clearness whatever is essential to ready and adequate understanding of points requiring our attention, the rights of interested parties may be prejudiced and the court will be impeded in its efforts properly to dispose of the causes which constantly crowd its docket."

6. Petition for Certiorari United With Appeal or Writ of Error (p. 860)

In Hanover Star Milling Co. v. Metcalf, (1916) 240 U. S. 403, 36 S. Ct. 357, 60 U. S. (L. ed.) 713, an appeal was taken, and a writ of certiorari was subsequently granted. On final hearing the appeal was dismissed for want of jurisdiction and the case was disposed of under the writ of certiorari.

7. On Motion to Dismiss Appeal or Writ of Error (p. 861)

Where an appeal was dismissed for want of jurisdiction, the federal jurisdiction having been invoked solely upon the ground of diversity of citizenship, the court said: "Considering the petition for certiorari hitherto filed and upon which action was previously postponed until the merits of the case came to be disposed of, it is ordered that the said petition be, and the same is, granted, the record on appeal to stand as a return to the writ of certiorari." Hitchman Coal, etc., Co. v. Mitchell, (1916) 241 U. S. 644, 36 S. Ct. 450, 60 U. S. (L. ed.) 1218, followed in Eagle Glass, etc., Co. v. Rowe, (1917) 245 U. S. 275, 38 S. Ct. 80, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 286.

For a case where an appeal was dismissed and "a petition for a writ of certiorari under § 262 of the Judicial Code" was granted, and the record on the appeal treated as the return to the writ, see Union Pac. R. Co. v. Weld County, (1918) 247 U. S. 282, 38 S. Ct. 510, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 1110.

On dismissing a writ of error the court granted a writ of certiorari in Toledo Newspaper Co. v. U. S., (1918) 247 U. S.

402, 38 S. Ct. 560, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 1186.

In San Pedro, etc., R. Co. v. U. S., (1918) 247 U. S. 307, 38 S. Ct. 498, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 1129, where a writ of error was dismissed for the reason that the matter in controversy was less than $1,000, a petition for a writ of certiorari, consideration of which had been postponed until the hearing on the writ of error, was denied because, "since it was presented, all occasion for granting it has been removed by our decision in Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. U. S. 244 U. S. 336 [37 S. Ct. 635, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 1175] which in principle is indistinguishable from the present case and was decided by the Circuit Court of Appeals (200 Fed. 748) upon the authority of its decision in the present case."

V. HEARING AND EXAMINATION, DETERMINATION, AND REMAND (p. 862)

A writ of certiorari improvidently granted was dismissed on the hearing. Houston Oil Co. v. Goodrich, (1918) 245 U. S. 440, 38 S. Ct. 140, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 385 (citing Furness v. Yang-Tze Ins. Ass'n, 242 U. S. 430, 37 S. Ct. 141, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 409, where the court said: "The controversy (presented in an action at law) is over title to a tract of land in Texas. Both parties claim under one Felder,—petitioners through a deed said to have been executed June 10, 1839, and respondents through one dated June 18, 1839. As grounds for granting the writ, petitioners alleged that the trial court erred in refusing to submit to the jury (1) whether the deed first dated was in fact executed, (2) whether it was presented for record before execution of the later one, (3) whether vendee in the junior deed was a bona fide purchaser for value, (4) whether the junior deed was forged, and (5) whether the action was barred by the three years Statute of Limitations. The propriety of submitting these matters depended essentially upon an appreciation of the evidence. Having heard it all, the trial court concluded there was not enough in support of any one of petitioners' above-stated claims to warrant a finding in their favor, and the circuit court of appeals reached the same result. 141 U. C. A. 264, 226 Fed. 434. The record discloses no sufficient reason within the rule long observed why we should review the judgment below. Forsyth v. Hammond, 166 U. S. 506, 41 L. ed. 1095, 17 Sup. Ct. Rep. 665."

A writ of certiorari was dismissed as improvidently granted in Furness v. Yang-Tze Ins. Ass'n, (1917) 242 U. S. 430, 37 S. Ct. 141, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 409, where the court said: "We should have denied the petition therefor if the facts essential to an adequate appreciation of the situation had then been brought to our attention. Petitions of this character are at the risk of the party making them, and whenever, in the progress of the cause, facts develop which, if disclosed on the application, would have induced a refusal, the court may, upon motion by a party, or ex mero motu, dismiss the writ. United States v. Rimer, 220 U. S. 547, 55 L. ed. 578, 31 Sup. Ct. Rep. 596; State, Malone, Prosecutor, v. Water Comrs. 30 N. J. L. 247."

"Directly within the rule announced in" the foregoing case, said the court, a writ of certiorari was dismissed as improvidently granted in Tyrell v. District of Columbia, (1917) 243 U. S. 1, 37 S. Ct. 361, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 557, a case of certiorari to the District of Columbia Court of Appeals under Judicial Code, § 251.

The ground upon which the writ was asked for is the matter to which the court will confine its discussion. Alice State Bank v. Houston Pasture Co., (1918) 247 U. S. 240, 38 S. Ct. 496, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 1096.

I. DECISIONS OF CIRCUIT COURTS OF APPEALS "NOT MADE FINAL" (p. 878)

See notes to Judicial Code, § 128, supra, p. 1116.

In view of the changes made in Judicial Code, § 246, by the Amendatory Act of Jan. 28, 1915, vol. V, p. 900, and vol. VI, p. 145, the federal Supreme Court has no jurisdiction to review on writ of error a judgment of the Circuit Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit affirming a judgment of the Supreme Court of Hawaii, rendered in a case where there was no federal question and no diversity of citizenship. Inter-Island Steam Nav. Co. v. Ward, (1916) 242 U. S. 1, 37 S. Ct. 1, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 113.

II. MODE AND SCOPE OF REVIEW (p. 878)

Only final judgments.—No appeal lies from a decree of a federal Circuit Court of Appeals which affirmed an interlocutory order of a District Court denying an application for a preliminary injunction upon the ground that there was an adequate remedy at law, where final decree dismissing the bill was neither entered in the District Court nor directed by the Circuit Court of Appeals so as to preclude amendment of the bill and further proceedings. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Weld County, (1918) 247 U. S. 282, 38 S. Ct. 510, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 1110.

III. AMOUNT IN CONTROVERSY

2. Ascertainment of Amount
 - b. Particular Instances (p. 884)

Action for statutory penalties.—In an action by the United States to recover penalties for certain violations of the Hours of Service Act of March 4, 1907, ch. 2939, title RAILROADS, vol. VIII, p. 1383, where defendant challenged and sought to have reviewed only so much of the judgment against it affirmed by the Circuit Court of Appeals as awarded recovery of six penalties of $150 each, for as many separate violations of the Act, the requisite jurisdictional amount of $1,000 was not in dispute, and a writ of error was dismissed. San Pedro, etc., R. Co. v. U. S., (1918) 247 U. S. 307, 38 S. Ct. 498, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 1129.

Habeas corpus.—In Horn v. Mitchell, (1917) 243 U. S. 247, 37 S. Ct. 293, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 700, dismissing an appeal from a decree of the Circuit Court of Appeals, which affirmed a decree of the District Court refusing relief by habeas corpus to a person in custody under an indictment found in that district, the court said: "It long has been settled that the jurisdiction conferred by Congress upon any court of the United States in a case where the matter in controversy exceeds a certain sum of money does not include cases where the rights of the parties are incapable of being valued in money, and therefore excludes habeas corpus cases. Kurtz v. Moffitt, 115 U. S. 487, 498, 29 L. ed. 458, 460, 6 Sup. Ct. Rep. 148; Lau Ow Bew v. United States, 144 U. S. 47, 58, 36 L. ed. 340, 344, 12 Sup. Ct. Rep. 517; Cross v. Burke, 146 U. S. 82, 88, 36 L. ed. 896, 898, 13 Sup. Ct. Rep. 22; Whitney v. Dick, 202 U. S. 132, 135, 50 L. ed. 963, 964, 26 Sup. Ct. Rep. 584; Healy v. Backus, 241 U. S. 655, 60 L. ed. 1224, 36 Sup. Ct. Rep. 726."

Vol. V, p. 887, Jud. Code, sec. 242.

Judgments appealable.—"Upon the authority of § 242, Judicial Code," the appeal in Grand Trunk Western R. Co. v. U. S., (1918) 246 U. S. 652, 38 S. Ct. 335, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 922, was "dismissed for want of jurisdiction."

Vol. V, p. 900, Jud. Code, sec. 246.

Power to review.—The federal Supreme Court has no jurisdiction to review on writ of error a judgment of the Circuit Court of Appeals for the ninth circuit, affirming a judgment of the Supreme Court of Hawaii, rendered in a case where there was no federal question and no diversity of citizenship. Inter-Island Steam Nav. Co. v. Ward, (1916) 242 U. S. 1, 37 S. Ct. 1, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 113.

Vol. V, p. 907, Jud. Code, sec. 248.

See Act of Sept. 6, 1916, ch. 448, §§ 5, 6, ante, this volume, p. 422.

Mode of review.—Appeal, not writ of error, is the proper method of reviewing a decree of the Philippine Supreme Court in a suit in which the complaint set forth a cause of action at law upon a contract, and the answer was in effect a bill in equity for reformation and incidentally to enjoin the action at law, since the proceeding thus became an equitable one. Philippine Sugar Estates Development Co.

v. Philippine Islands, (1918) 247 U. S. 385, 38 S. Ct. 513, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 1177.

Writ of error was the proper method by which to review the judgment of the Supreme Court of the Philippines in a proceeding for registration of certain property under the Torrens System. Gauzon v. Compania General, etc., (1917) 245 U. S. 86, 38 S. Ct. 46, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 165.

Scope of review.—Upon a writ of error to review a judgment in a proceeding for registration under the Torrens System, the court will not reconsider the conclusions of the lower court, which find support in the record, in reaching its judgment. Gauzon v. Compania General, etc., (1917) 245 U. S. 86, 38 S. Ct. 46, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 165.

Final judgment on reversal.—The federal Supreme Court, having determined, on appeal from the Philippine Supreme Court, that that court erred in refusing to consider evidence of mutual mistake offered under appropriate pleadings, with a view to reforming the instrument in suit, will finally dispose of the case, where all the proffered evidence was admitted by the trial court and is in the record, and due exception was saved to the refusal of the trial court to grant a new trial on the ground that the evidence did not justify the findings. Philippine Sugar Estates Development Co. v. Philippine Islands, (1918) 247 U. S. 385, 38 S. Ct. 513, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 1177.

Vol. V, p. 913, Jud. Code, sec. 250.

Final judgment or decree subject to review.—Under this section a judgment of the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia, which affirmed a judgment of the Supreme Court of the District, quashing a writ of certiorari directed to the judge of the District Police Court to bring up for review the record and proceedings before trial in a criminal prosecution, and remanding the record to the Police Court, was not final for the purpose of review by the federal Supreme Court. Hartranft v. Mulloony, (1918) 247 U. S. 295, 38 S. Ct. 518, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 1123, dismissing a writ of error for want of jurisdiction.

Sixth clause.—The Supreme Court had jurisdiction to review a judgment of the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia in an action on the federal Employers' Liability Act, where the defendant contended that it was not a "common carrier by railroad" within the meaning of that Act. Washington Ry., etc., Co. v. Scala, (1917) 244 U. S. 630, 37 S. Ct. 654, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 1360.

Any law of the United States.—In a proceeding for mandamus to restore the relator to office, where the defendant's return, referring to the Act of Congress governing the Civil Service (Act of Aug. 24, 1912, ch. 389, § 6, 37 Stat. L. 555, in PUBLIC OFFICERS AND EMPLOYEES, vol. VIII, p. 956), especially challenged the assertion that the relator was within the provisions of that law inhibiting removal without charges and hearing, and asserted that the right to appoint and remove from the office in question was excepted out of such provisions. A demurrer to the return as stating no defense was overruled, and from the judgment dismissing the proceeding the case was taken to the Court of Appeals of the District. It was held to be a case where the judgment of the Court of Appeals would not be final. U. S. v. Lane, (1917) 245 U. S. 166, 38 S. Ct. 94, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 223, where the court said: "It is not open to controversy that the judgments or decrees of the court below are not made final by § 250 in cases involving the interpretation and effect of an act of Congress general in character, or the general duty or power of an officer under the law of the United States, as contradistinguished from merely local authority. American Secur. & T. Co. v. District of Columbia, 224 U. S. 491, 56 L. ed. 856, 32 Sup. Ct. Rep. 553; McGowan v. Parish, 228 U. S. 312, 57 L. ed. 849, 33 Sup. Ct. Rep. 462; United Surety Co. v. American Fruit Product Co. 238 U. S. 140, 59 L. ed. 1238, 35 Sup. Ct. Rep. 828; Newman v. United States, 238 U. S. 537, 59 L. ed. 1446, 35 Sup. Ct. Rep. 881."

Criminal cases.—Certiorari issued out of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia to the judge of the Police Court of the District, to bring up for review the record and proceedings before trial in a criminal prosecution, is not a new or independent cause, but is a mere step in the pending criminal case, and a judgment of the Court of Appeals of the District, which affirmed a judgment of the District Supreme Court, quashing the writ, was held to have been rendered in a case arising under the criminal laws, and therefore excluded from the appellate jurisdiction of the federal Supreme Court, even though a jurisdictional question or a question concerning the construction of a federal statute was involved. Hartranft v. Mulloony, (1918) 247 U. S. 295, 37 S. Ct. 518, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 1123.

Vol. V, p. 917, Jud. Code, sec. 251.

Certiorari.—Where judgment of the District of Columbia Supreme Court, entered on a verdict, was reversed by the Court of Appeals of the District, and the cause was remanded for further proceedings, this judgment of reversal was reviewable on certiorari. George A. Fuller Co. v. Otis Elevator Co., (1918) 245 U. S. 489, 38 S. Ct. 180, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 422.

Table of certiorari cases.—Ewing v. U. S., (1917) 244 U. S. 1, 37 S. Ct. 494, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 955, reversing a judgment which affirmed a judgment awarding mandamus to compel the commissioner of patents to declare an interference between two applications for a similar invention.

Supreme Council, etc., v. Behrend, (1918) 247 U. S. 394, 38 S. Ct. 522, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 1182, was a case heard on certiorari.

A writ of certiorari was dismissed as improvidently granted in Tyrrel v. District of Columbia, (1917) 243 U. S. 1, 37 S. Ct. 361, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 557, because the petitioner for certiorari had not reserved an exception to the charge of the court on the exact point which was made the basis of the writ of certiorari.

Certified questions.—In U. S. v. Lane, (1917) 245 U. S. 166, 38 S. Ct. 94, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 223, a certificate was dismissed for want of jurisdiction, for the reason that Judicial Code, § 251, confers authority to certify only in cases where the judgments or decrees of the court are made final by Judicial Code, § 250, and the instant case was not one of that character.

I. SCIRE FACIAS

5. Particular Cases (p. 930)

Forfeited recognizance or bail bond.—A District Court has jurisdiction to enforce a forfeited bail bond by writ of scire facias. Ewing v. U. S., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 240 Fed. 241, 153 C. C. A. 167.

II. ALL WRITS NOT SPECIFICALLY PROVIDED FOR BY STATUTE

1. Generally (p. 930)

Extent of jurisdiction.—“Furthermore, we do not think section 262 of the Code

(R. S. § 716; Judiciary Act Sept. 24, 1789, c. 20, § 14, 1 Stat. 73) gives authority to a federal District Court to issue processes to run beyond the limits of the territory in which it is established, but rather that it is a designation o. the form or character of writs which such court may issue within the territory where it is established. Hills & Co. v. Hoover, 220 U. S. 329, 336, 337, 31 Sup. Ct. 402, 55 L. Ed. 485, Ann. Cas. 1912C, 562; McClellan v. Carland, 217 U. S. 269, 279, 30 Sup. Ct. 501, 54 L. Ed. 762.” Mitchell v. Dexter, (C. C. A. 1st Cir. 1917) 244 Fed. 926, 157 C. C. A. 276.

4. Certiorari (p. 931)

When writ will be issued.—“A petition for a writ of certiorari under § 262 of the Judicial Code,” said the court, was granted in Union Pac. R. Co. v. Weld County, (1918) 247 U. S. 282, 38 S. Ct. 510, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 1110, which held that no appeal lies from a decree of a federal Circuit Court of Appeals which affirmed an interlocutory order of a District Court denying an application for a preliminary injunction upon the ground that there was an adequate remedy at law, where final decree dismissing the bill was neither entered in the District Court nor directed by the Circuit Court of Appeals so as to preclude amendment of the bill and further proceedings. Consideration of the petition for the writ of certiorari was postponed to the hearing on the appeal, at which hearing, “we now grant the petition and treat the record on the appeal as the return to the writ.”

9. Mandamus

a. Jurisdiction in General (p. 934)

Nature of remedy.—The refusal of a federal Circuit Court of Appeals to direct the clerk of that court to file the record in an appeal by seamen from a decree dismissing their libels for wages, without making a deposit to secure the costs, may be reviewed by the federal Supreme Court by mandamus. It was so held in Ex parte Abdu, (1918) 247 U. S. 27, 38 S. Ct. 447, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 966, holding that on submission of the rule to show cause the Supreme Court will consider the authority of the court below to make the order, although the writ prayed for is not directed to the court, but to its clerk, and hence, in form seeks to direct the clerk to disobey the order of the court, leaving the order unreviewed and unreversed. The court said: “The existence of ultimate discretionary power here to review the cause on its merits and the deterrent influence which the refusal to file must have upon the practical exertion of that power in a case properly made gives the authority to consider the subject which the rule presents.”

b. Controlling Judicial Action or Discretion (p. 937)

Compelling judicial action.—Error of a federal District Court sitting in New York in ordering transferred to the equity side of the court a count in an action at law which claimed damages for breach of a contract to bequeath a specified sum, was corrected by the federal Supreme Court by granting mandamus to require the District Court to proceed and to give plaintiff the right to a trial at common law. Matter of Simons, (1918) 247 U. S. 231, 38 S. Ct. 497, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 1094.

d. Enforcement of Judgment Generally (p. 943)

Mandamus a substitute for execution.—Where, after judgment against a county, the court, without objection, on petition, order to show cause, and answer, issued an execution, and the proceeding had every essential attribute of a proceeding in mandamus, and there was no issue of fact, the appellate court upon reversing the order for an execution as being prohibited by the state law, remanded the cause with directions to issue a mandamus against the county officers to pay the judgment, as the court would have had power to do and should have done instead of issuing an execution. Clearwater County v. Pfeiffer, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 236 Fed. 183, 149 C. C. A. 373.

16. Warrant (p. 950)

In Mitchell v. Dexter, (C. C. A. 1st Cir. 1917) 244 Fed. 926, 157 C. C. A. 276, it was held that a federal District Court in Wisconsin had no power to issue a writ directed to the marshal for the district of Massachusetts for the arrest of a person in that state and his removal to the district of Wisconsin. The court said: "The Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, in Palmer v. Thompson, 20 App. D. C. 273, expressly held that, in the absence of an act of Congress conferring the power, the federal court in one district had no authority in a criminal case to issue its writ to the marshal of another federal district, commanding him to arrest a person within his jurisdiction, but outside that of the court issuing the writ, and that such power was not conferred by section 716 of the Revised Statutes. What is said in Re Christian, (C. C.) 82 Fed. 885, as to the power of a court under this section of the statute, was disapproved by the Court of Appeals in the Palmer Case, and we do not regard it as authority upon the proposition here in question."

1. Generally.

III. Protection of federal jurisdiction.

5. Injunction as aid in enforcement of federal decree.

V. Other particular matters and proceedings.

I. CONSTRUCTION AND APPLICATION

1. Generally (p. 959)

The object of the statute.—"The purpose of section 265 . . . being to prevent unseemly conflict between state and federal courts, the statute should be given such an interpretation as will effectuate its obvious purpose. American Asso. v. Hurst, 59 Fed. 1, 7 C. C. A. 598, 16 U. S. App. 325; American Shipbuilding Co. v. Whitney, 190 Fed. 109." Hyattsville Bldg. Ass'n v. Bouie, (1916) 44 App. Cas. (D. C.) 408.

"Generally speaking, the term 'proceeding' means a prescribed course of action for enforcing a legal right, and hence it necessarily embraces the requisite steps by which judicial action is involved. It is a very comprehensive term." Hyattsville Bldg. Ass'n v. Bouie, (1916) 44 App. Cas. (D. C.) 408.

Courts included.—"The supreme court of the District of Columbia is a court of the United States, and hence within the purview of this section. D. C. Code, sec. 61 [31 Stat. at L. 1199, chap. 854]; James v. United States, 202 U. S. 401, 50 L. ed. 1079, 26 Sup. Ct. Rep. 685. Because, as pointed out in United States v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 26 App. D. C. 581, that court exercises the jurisdiction elsewhere exercised by State and Federal courts, it is none the less a court of the United States within the meaning of the above provision of the Judicial Code. The declaration of policy contained in that provision is all-embracing, and includes all courts of the United States. Dial v. Reynolds, 96 U. S. 340, 24 L. ed. 644; Sargent v. Helton, 115 U. S. 348, 29 L. ed. 412, 6 Supp. Ct. Rep. 78; United States v. Parkhurst-Davis Mercantile Co., 176 U. S. 317, 44 L. ed. 485, 20 Sup. Ct. Rep. 423. We therefore are clearly of the opinion that under the provisions of this statute the supreme court of the District of Columbia is prohibited from issuing an injunction to stay proceedings in a state court, except under the bankruptcy act." Hyattsville Bldg. Ass'n v. Bouie, (1916) 44 App. Cas. (D. C.) 408.

1.II. PROTECTION OF FEDERAL JURISDICTION

5. Injunction as Aid in Enforcement of Federal Decree (p. 967)

In Swift v. Black Panther Oil, etc., Co., (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1917) 244 Fed. 20, 156 C. C. A. 448, the court referred to "Diggs & Keith v. Wolcott, 4 Cranch 179, 2 U. S. (L. ed.) 587; Peck v. Jenness, 7 How. 612, 623, 624, 625, 12 U. S. (L. ed.) 841; Haines v. Carpenter, 91 U. S. 254, 23 U. S. (L. ed.) 345; Whitney v. Wilder, 54 Fed. 554, 4 C. C. A. 510, and other cases of like character wherein the state court first acquired jurisdiction of the subject-matter in controversy," and continued as follows: "In cases of this class this act of Congress undoubtedly controls, and the federal courts may not interfere by injunction or otherwise with the proceedings of the state courts which have first acquired jurisdiction of the subject-matter. But it is equally true that in a case in which a federal court first obtains jurisdiction of the subject-matter in controversy, and where it acts in aid of its own jurisdiction to render its orders or decrees, or the title or disposition under them of the property within that jurisdiction, effectual, it may, notwithstanding section 720, Revised Statutes, now section 265 of the Judicial Code, enjoin or restrain all proceedings in the state court which would have the effect of defeating or impairing its jurisdiction, or the orders, decrees, or titles it has made or is making in the exercise thereof. Sharon v. Terry, (C. C.) 36 Fed. 337; French v. Hay, 22 Wall. 250, note, 22 L. Ed. 857; Dietzsch v. Huidekoper, 103 U. S. 494, 26 L. Ed. 497; Julian v. Central Trust Company, 193 U. S. 93, 112, 24 Sup. Ct. 399, 48 L. Ed. 629; Starr v. Chicago, Rock Island & P. Ry. Co. (C. C.) 110 Fed. 3, 6; Prout v. Starr, 188 U. S. 537, 23 Sup. Ct. 398, 47 L. Ed. 584; Lang v. Choctaw, Oklahoma & Gulf R. Co., 160 Fed. 355, 359, 360, 87 C. C. A. 307, 311, 312; Kansas City Gas Co. v. Kansas City (D. C.) 198 Fed. 500, 526; Guardian Trust Co. v. Kansas City Southern Ry. Co., 171 Fed. 43, 49, 96 C. C. A. 285, 291, 28 L. R. A. (N. S.) 620; Western Union Tel. Co. v. U. S. & Mexican Trust Co., 221 Fed. 545, 553, 137 C. C. A. 113, 121; McKinney v. Landon, 209 Fed. 300, 305, 306, 126 C. C. A. 226, 231, 232. The law upon this subject has been repeatedly declared by the Supreme Court and by this court." The court then quoted the rule as stated in Lang v. Choctaw, etc., R. Co., (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1908) 160 Fed. 355, 359, 360, 87 C. C. A. 307, 311, 312.

V. OTHER PARTICULAR MATTERS AND PROCEEDINGS (p. 976)

Foreclosure proceedings.—In Hyattsville Bldg. Ass'n v. Bouic, (1916) 44 App. Cas. (D. C.) 408, after the alleged default of appellee mortgagee of Maryland real estate, the appellant mortgagor instituted in the state Circuit Court a statutory proceeding for foreclosure and advertised the property for sale in accordance with the state statutes. Before the sale took place appellee filed his bill in the District of Columbia Supreme Court, and obtained a temporary restraining order, which, upon a later hearing, was continued and an appeal granted. The decree was reversed with directions to dismiss the bill, as being one to enjoin "proceedings," etc., and in violation of Judicial Code, sec. 265. The court said: "Appellants had taken the initial steps provided by the Maryland statutes for the foreclosure of their mortgage, thereby setting in motion the machinery of the law in that jurisdiction. Inasmuch as the statute requires report of a sale to a court, it is not material that proceedings are ex parte up to that point. The court then has sole jurisdiction to determine the rights of the parties, and affirmative action by the court is necessary to give validity to the sale. Viewing the statute as a whole, in the light of its interpretation by the court of appeals of Maryland, we are unable to escape the conclusion that proceedings thereunder may not be stayed by a court of the United States except under the bankruptcy act."

Proceedings in Probate Court.—In Smith v. Jennings, (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1915) 238 Fed. 48, 151 C. C. A. 124, holding that the federal District Court had no power to set aside the appointment of temporary administrators of a decedent's estate, alleged to have been obtained by fraud of the parties, and to enjoin said administrators from interfering with the receivers, the court said: "The federal courts have no authority to stay proceedings of state courts, while they are in progress and before they are concluded by final judgment or decree, except in aid of bankruptcy proceedings or of their own previously acquired jurisdiction."

II. Power of court and single judge.

IV. Application generally.

V. Appeal and effect of appeal.

II. POWER OF COURT AND SINGLE JUDGE (p. 985)

Three judges necessary.—In Crescent Mfg. Co. v. Wilson, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 462, 155 C. C. A. 238, dismissing an appeal from an order denying an interlocutory injunction, the court said: "The question presented to the court below was whether the commissioner of agriculture of the state of New York should be restrained from carrying out and enforcing a threatened course of action having for its object the prevention of sales within the state of mapleine after its importation into New York from the state of Washington; mapleine being a food product manufactured and sold in the latter state and extensively transported in interstate commerce. Stated in another way, the question was whether the New York Agricultural Law (chapter 494, Laws of 1914), entitled 'An act to amend the Agricultural Law, in relation to adulterated or misbranded food,' is unconstitutional, as being in conflict with the provisions of section 8 of article 1 of the Constitution of the United States, as constituting an undue interference with interstate commerce. The District Judge held the New York law constitutional, as not being in conflict with federal law. From this decision an appeal has been taken. The case has been argued in this court, and we shall have to dispose of it upon a point not raised in argument. It appears that the District Judge was without jurisdiction to hear and determine the application for the interlocutory injunction. A court of the United States composed of one judge only is without power to hear and determine such an application. . . . It was not within the power of a single justice or judge to pass on the question whether the New York law violated the Constitution of the United States. When application for the injunction was presented to the District Judge it was incumbent upon him to call to his assistance two other judges, one of whom should be a Justice of the Supreme Court or a Circuit Judge, to hear and determine the application. And it was also his duty to give notice of the hearing to the Governor and Attorney General, as well as to such other persons as may be defendants in the suit. This course was not pursued, but the District Judge proceeded to hear and determine the question sitting alone."

The presence of three judges is necessary at a hearing on a bill to enjoin enforcement by state officers of provisions in a state statute on the ground of their conflict with the federal Constitution. Hebe Co. v. Calvert, (S. D. Ohio 1917) 246 Fed. 711.

IV. APPLICATION GENERALLY (p. 988)

Holding that the court had jurisdiction of a bill to enjoin prosecutions by state officers to enforce provisions of an alleged unconstitutional statute forbidding the sale of certain food products, the court said: "If the threatened acts of the defendants are in excess of the authority vested in them by law, an action to enjoin them is within the jurisdiction of a federal court, both diverse citizenship and the necessary jurisdictional amount being present." Hebe Co. v. Calvert, (S. D. Ohio 1917) 246 Fed. 711.

The phrase "unconstitutionality of such statute" refers to the federal Constitution and does not include unconstitutionality as regards the state constitution. Cook v. Burnquist, (D. C. Minn. 1917)

242 Fed. 321, holding that it was not necessary that the hearing be had before three judges where, although the bill alleged as one of the grounds for relief that the statute violated the federal Constitution, counsel for the plaintiff at the commencement of the argument of the motion for a preliminary injunction, stated that the plaintiff sought the injunction only on the other grounds alleged in the bill that the statute violated the state constitution.

Jurisdiction of the District Court was sustained under this section in an action against state officers to enjoin enforcement of a statute violating the federal Constitution in the imposition of permit and franchise taxes on a foreign corporation. Looney v. Crane Co., (1917) 245 U. S. 178, 38 S. Ct. 85, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 230.

V. APPEAL AND EFFECT OF APPEAL (p. 988)

A temporary injunction against a state officer which a federal District Court, having first acquired jurisdiction over the parties and subject-matter of a suit, granted for the purpose of protecting and preserving that jurisdiction until the object of the suit should be accomplished and complete justice be done between the parties, is not an order from which an appeal may be taken to the federal Supreme Court under this section. Looney v. Eastern Texas R. Co., (1918) 247 U. S. 214, 38 S. Ct. 460, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 1084.

Appeal from an order of a single judge denying an interlocutory injunction in a case within this section is not authorized, and such appeal should be dismissed. Crescent Mfg. Co. v. Wilson, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 462, 155 C. C. A. 238.

Appeal to Circuit Court of Appeals.—Although this section provides for an appeal direct to the Supreme Court, an appeal may be taken to the Circuit Court of Appeals where the jurisdiction of the District Court rests not alone upon the allegation that a law violates the federal Constitution, but also upon the ground of diverse citizenship of the parties. Crescent Mfg. Co. v. Wilson, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 462, 155 C. C. A. 238.

Appeal to Circuit Court of Appeals excluded.—A principle frequently applied in construing general and special statutes prescribing the jurisdiction of courts is considered in the article STATUTES AND STATUTORY CONSTRUCTION, vol. I, of this work, p. 164, under the heading "Special and general statutes on same subject," and was applied in Jackson v. Cravens, (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1916) 238 Fed. 117, 151 C. C. A. 193, holding that an appeal from an order denying an interlocutory injunction in a case covered by this section and heard by three judges, can be taken only to the Supreme Court and not to the Circuit Court of Appeals.

Jurisdiction to review the whole case was acquired by the Supreme Court on appeal from an order which, while enjoining the enforcement of fines and penalties prescribed by a state statute for failure to obey an order of a Corporation Commission regulating water rates, refused to interfere with the enforcement of such order. Van Dyke v. Geary, (1917) 244 U. S. 39, 37 S. Ct. 483, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 973.

Repeal of obnoxious state statute pending appeal.—In Berry v. Davis, (1917) 242 U. S. 468, 37 S. Ct. 208, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 441, the Supreme Court reversed a decree and directed the bill to be dismissed without costs to either party, the court saying: "This is a bill to enjoin the State Board of Parole and the warden and physician of the state penitentiary at Fort Madison from performing vasectomy upon the plaintiff, the defendant in error, in pursuance of an Iowa statute approved April 19, 1913. 35 G. A. chap. 187, § 1. Supplement to Code 1913, chap. 19-B, § 2600-p. This act, among other things, directed the operation to be performed upon convicts in the penitentiary who had been twice convicted of felony, and on February 14, 1914, the board had ordered it, upon the ground that the plaintiff had been twice so convicted. The bill was filed on March 11, 1914. On April 15, 1914, following an opinion of the Attorney General that both felonies must have been committed after the passage of the act, the order was laid on the table, and the warden and physician made affidavits, filed on April 22, that the operation would not be performed by them. Nevertheless, three judges, disregarding the foregoing opinion and action, proceeded to issue a preliminary injunction as prayed in the bill. 216 Fed. 413. An appeal was taken to this court in 1914. In 1915 the Act of 1913 was repealed, and the substituted act does not apply to the plaintiff. Supplemental Supplement to the Code of Iowa, 1915, chap. 19-B, § 2600-s1. All possibility or threat of the operation has disappeared now. If not before, by the act of the state. Therefore, upon the precedents we are not called upon to consider the propriety of the action of the district court, but the proper course is to reverse the decree and remand the cause, with directions that the bill be dismissed without costs to either party. United States v. Hamburg-Amerikanische Packetfahrt-Actien Gesellschaft, 239 U. S. 466, 475, 478, 60 L. ed. 387, 391, 392, 36 Sup. Ct. Rep. 212; Jones v. Montague, 194 U. S. 147, 153, 48 L. ed. 913, 915, 24 Sup. Ct. Rep. 611; Dinsmore v. Southern Exp. Co., 183 U. S. 115, 120, 46 L. ed. 111, 113, 22 Sup. Ct. Rep. 45; Mills v. Green, 159 U. S. 651, 658, 40 L. ed. 293, 295, 16 Sup. Ct. Rep. 132.

IV. REMEDY AT LAW

3. Inadequacy of Remedy at Law as Ground for Equitable Relief (p. 998)

Inadequacy of legal remedy.—In a suit by several patrons of an interstate telephone company, suing in behalf of themselves and all others similarly situated, praying that the company be required to repair its plants, lines, etc., and to observe its duties and obligations as an interstate carrier and as a public utility under the several acts of Congress and its contracts, alleging that the company had suffered its facilities to become so greatly out of repair that it was impossible for complainants to obtain and have the service for which they pay, it was contended that each of the complainants might find relief through appeal to the Interstate Commerce Commission, or through appeal to the state Utilities Board, or in an action for damages, or by an action in mandamus, but the court, upon consideration of each of the suggested remedies, in view of the facts of the case, held that the futility of a resort to either remedy was so plain as to warrant the interposition of a court of equity. Stephens v. Ohio State Telephone Co., (N. D. Ohio 1917) 240 Fed. 759.

VI. APPLICATION OF RULES IN PARTICULAR MATTERS AND PROCEEDINGS

1. Accounting (p. 1001)

A prayer for an accounting in a bill in equity will not give the court jurisdiction where the plaintiff's asserted claims are legal rights, and it does not appear that the plaintiff has not a plain, adequate, and complete remedy at law. National Surety Co. v. Washington Iron Works, (W. D. Wash. 1917) 243 Fed. 260.

11. Damages Generally (p. 1004)

In Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Van Dusen Harrington Co., (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1917) 245 Fed. 454, 157 C. C. A. 616, L. R. A. 1918C 883, it was held that there was no jurisdiction in equity of a bill by the owner of a car load of wheat to compel an interstate railroad company to issue to the plaintiff a bill of lading for transportation of the car to a place on a connecting line in another state, as an action at law for damages would afford a complete and adequate remedy and besides, according to plaintiff's theory, he could obtain a writ of mandamus to compel issuance of such bill of lading under section 23 of the Interstate Commerce Act, and if so, this would be an adequate remedy at law.

2. Particular Phrases and Words (p. 1011)

"So near thereto," etc.—This section was not intended to limit the power of the court to punish for contempt to be exercised only for the purpose of insuring order and decorum in its presence. "Like the law of constructive presence in criminal cases, the misbehavior is committed where it takes effect," and publication of a newspaper article calculated to influence jurors in a pending trial may constitute a contempt. In re Independent Pub. Co., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 240 Fed. 849, 153 C. C. A. 535, L. R. A. 1917E 703.

IV. PARTICULAR ACTS OR CONDUCT AS CONTEMPTS

12. Newspaper Articles (p. 1024)

In general.—"That the publication by a newspaper of the city in which a court is sitting of an article tending to obstruct the administration of justice in proceedings pending in that court is within section 268 of the Judicial Code is so well settled as to require no discussion." U. S. v. Providence Tribune Co., (R. I. 1917) 241 Fed. 524, citing In re Independent Pub. Co., (D. C. Mont. 1915) 228 Fed. 787 (see also 240 Fed. 849, 153 C. C. A. 535, L. R. A. 1917E 703); U. S. v. Toledo Newspaper Co., (D. C. Ohio 1915) 220 Fed. 458, 237 Fed. 986, 150 C. C. A. 636; U. S. v. Huff, (D. C. Ga. 1913) 206 Fed. 700.

Judicial authority summarily to punish as for a criminal contempt the publication in a newspaper of articles and cartoons having reference to pending judicial action which tended and were intended to provoke public resistance to an injunction order, should one be made, and amounted to an attempt unduly to influence the judge with reference to his decision in the matter pending before him, was recognized and sanctioned, not negated, by the provisions of this section. Toledo Newspaper Co. v. U. S., (1918) 247 U. S. 402, 38 S. Ct. 1186, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 560.

Comment and cartoons having reference to pending judicial action, published at the place where the proceedings were pending, in a daily newspaper with a large circulation, may fairly be said to "obstruct the administration of justice," within the meaning of this section where such is the reasonable tendency of such publications, although it is not shown that the newspapers containing them were seen by the judge or were circulated in the court room, and although there is no proof that the mind of the judge in the particular case was influenced, or his purpose to do his duty obstructed or restrained, by the publications. Toledo Newspaper Co. v. U. S., (1918) 247 U. S. 402, 38 S. Ct. 560, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 1186.

In In re Independent Pub. Co., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 240 Fed. 849, 153 C. C. A. 535, L. R. A. 1917E 703, while a criminal case was on trial before a jury in Helena, Mont., a daily newspaper in the city printed an article for which an information for contempt was brought against it and its editor and manager. The information charged that this article was not based upon the facts introduced in evidence on the trial of the case, but was written and published for the purpose of giving to the public generally, and to all persons who should read said newspaper and the said article, certain facts relating to the past life of the defendant, and to inform the jury, and the members thereof who might read the newspaper and the article, of certain facts concerning the defendant which were highly prejudicial to his character and reputation, and would, when read by the jury, or any member thereof, tend to bias and prejudice them against the defendant and prevent the jury, and the members thereof who had read the article, from giving the defendant a fair and impartial trial, for the reason that it brought to their attention certain facts concerning the life of the defendant which were not material to the issues of the cause, and could not be proven on the trial of the cause against the defendant unless on the trial of the cause he had taken the witness stand in his own behalf, or placed his good character in issue. It was not denied that the publication obstructed the progress of the cause on trial, and compelled the court to discharge the jury, resulting, as the court found as a fact, in the infliction of pecuniary damages to the government, in costs uselessly incurred, amounting to $617. It was held that the publication constituted a punishable contempt.

"Interference with the proceedings of a grand jury in the performance of its functions is as truly a contempt of court as is interference with the proceedings of a petit jury, either in the course of a trial or during its deliberation." U. S. v. Provi- dence Tribune Co., (D. C. R. I. 1917) 241 Fed. 524, where the court denied a motion to dismiss an information for alleged contempt of court in the publication of newspaper article, set out in the report.

VII. PROCEEDINGS TO PUNISH FOR CONTEMPT

1. Nature of Proceedings (p. 1033)

Civil proceeding.—Upon examination and consideration of the proceeding for contempt for violation of an injunctive order involved in Mitchell v. Dexter, (C. C. A. 1st Cir. 1917) 244 Fed. 926, 157 C. C. A. 276, it was there held that the proceeding was civil in nature and not distinguishable in that behalf from Gompers v. Buck Stove, etc., Co., (1910) 221 U. S. 418, 31 S. Ct. 492, 55 U. S. (L. ed.) 797, 34 L. R. A. (N. S.) 874.

5. Defenses (p. 1038)

For publication of an article in a newspaper constituting a contempt of court, it is within the power of the court to punish the managing editor, though he was ignorant of the contents of the article, where he failed to perform his duty in supervising the publication, and was negligent in permitting the article to be published. In re Independent Pub. Co., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 240 Fed. 849, 153 C. C. A. 535, L. R. A. 1917E 703.

VIII. PUNISHMENT

4. Fines (p. 1043)

Amount.—Where a newspaper article constituting a criminal contempt caused a mistrial and continuance of a criminal case, the costs to which the government was subjected by reason thereof were properly used as an element in measuring the fine imposed by the court. In re Independent Pub. Co., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 240 Fed. 849, 153 C. C. A. 535, L. R. A. 1917E 703.

XI. REVIEW (p. 1045)

On the facts.—The decision of the trial court on the facts is conclusive, and only matters of law are to be considered. In re Independent Pub. Co., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 240 Fed. 849, 153 C. C. A. 535, L. R. A. 1917E 703.

Vol. V, p. 1059, Jud. Code, sec. 274a.

Under Equity Rule 22 a suit brought on the equity side of the court, on the alleged ground of inadequate remedy at law, where the plaintiff's bill shows, however, that the suit is merely to recover a money judgment for breach of a simple contract, should be transferred to the law docket on motion of the defendant; and a decree for the plaintiff was reversed with instructions so to transfer the case. Edward Hines Lumber Co. v. Bowers, (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1917) 238 Fed. 782, 151 C. C. A. 632.

Vol. V, p. 1061, Jud. Code, sec. 274b.

A plaintiff in action at law may have equitable relief on a replication to a defense set up in the defendant's answer; for example, where, in an action for damages for personal injuries, the defendant pleads a release, the plaintiff may by replication set up fraud in obtaining the release and ask to have the release set aside. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Syas, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 561, 158 C. C. A. 531.

Equitable issues to be tried separately.

—In an action at law for damages for personal injuries, where the defendant pleaded a release, and the plaintiff filed a replication praying that the release be rescinded for fraud, it was reversible error for the court to submit to the jury with the issue at law the issue of fraud in obtaining the release for an advisory verdict on the latter issue, the verdict on the legal issue being made contingent on the result of the advisory verdict. The equitable issue should have been first tried by the court and not submitted to the same jury. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Syas, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 561, 158 C. C. A. 531.

Review of judgment or decree.—In the case set forth in the last preceding paragraph, viz., Union Pac. R. Co. v. Syas, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 561, 158 C. C. A. 531, where the court, pursuant to the advisory verdict of the jury, set aside the release for fraud and rendered judgment on the verdict of the jury for damages, and the defendant brought up the case by writ of error and by appeal the court said it had adopted no rule as to how cases under Judicial Code, § 274b, shall be reviewed, but, in view of Act of Sept. 6, 1916, ch. 448, § 4, 39 Stat. L. 727, ante, this volume, p. 421, "it would seem to be immaterial whether the case was brought here by appeal or writ of error."

In the absence of a rule of court regulating the method of procedure, where there was a verdict and judgment for the defendant in an action at law, the Circuit Court of Appeals refused to dismiss plaintiff's appeal on the ground urged that he had mistaken his remedy, and held it to be unimportant whether the matters set up in an affirmative defense constituted an equitable defense or were properly tried and disposed of at law. Maine Northwestern Development Co. v. Northwestern Commercial Co., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 240 Fed. 583, 153 C. C. A. 387.

Vol. V, p. 1078, Jud. Code, sec. 287.

Joint indictments.—In Schwartzberg v. U. S., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 241 Fed. 348, 154 C. C. A. 228, affirming conviction of several of fourteen defendants jointly indicted and tried for a felony not treason or a capital offense, the court said: "When the 14 defendants were arraigned, they appeared by numerous counsel, who (presumably with the assent of their clients) refused to unite, or act jointly, in respect of choosing a jury. It is not denied, nor doubted, that, had they agreed to speak on this subject as one man, or through one attorney, they would collectively have been entitled to 10 peremptory challenges, and both the letter and spirit of the statute been satisfied. After the above-noted action, or refusal to act, on defendants' part, the trial judge announced that he would entertain one peremptory challenge for each defendant, or 14 in all, with the result that every defendant had one challenge (if their apparent differences were pressed to their limit), but 'the parties' defendant had collectively more challenges than the statute required. Thereupon some defendants peremptorily challenged more than once, and such efforts (not joined in by all) were disallowed."

See this section applied in U. S. v. Cress, (1917) 243 U. S. 316, 37 S. Ct. 380, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 746, as cited in notes to Judicial Code, § 24, par. Twentieth, supra, p. 1097.

Judicial Code, § 129, should not receive a different construction from that which it had when originally enacted in the Circuit Court of Appeals Act of 1891. Jackson v. Cravens, (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1916) 238 Fed. 117, 151 C. C. A. 193.

Vol. V, p. 1105, Jud. Code, sec. 207.I. JURISDICTION (p. 1106)

Jurisdiction of state court.—"A state court would obviously have no jurisdiction" of a suit to enjoin, etc., an order of the Interstate Commerce Commission, in whole or in part, said the court in American Express Co. v. South Dakota, (1917) 244 U. S. 617, 37 S. Ct. 656, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 1352. But it was there held that the state Supreme Court had jurisdiction to enjoin express companies from advancing intrastate rates in noncompetitive territory, which the companies attempted to justify by an order of the Interstate Commerce Commission directing them to remove an existing discrimination against interstate commerce by ceasing to charge higher rates between Sioux City, Iowa, and South Dakota points than for substantially equal distances between such South Dakota points and five named South Dakota cities; and the decree of the state court was modified by dissolving the injunction so far as it extended to rates in the competitive territory.

II. POWER OF REVISION (p. 1107)

"Any order."—The federal District Court had no jurisdiction to cancel an order of the Interstate Commerce Commission fixing a hearing of certain complaints made by certain coal companies for damages for alleged failure to furnish cars upon demand, and permanently enjoining the Commission from further proceeding with the hearing of the complaints. U. S. v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., (1917) 244 U. S. 82, 37 S. Ct. 584, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 1007, on the ground that: "The alleged order was nothing more than notice of a hearing which the railroad company might attend or not, as it saw fit. The notice therefore had no characteristic of an order, affirmative or negative. It was a mere incident in the proceeding, the accident of the occasion,—in effect, and, it may be contended, in form, but a continuance of the hearing." This ruling was required by the reasoning of the court in Procter, etc., Co. v. U. S., (1912) 225 U. S. 282, 32 S. Ct. 761, 56 U. S. (L. ed.) 1091.

The District Court was without jurisdiction to enjoin the enforcement of an order of the Interstate Commerce Commission refusing, on the ground of real or possible competition, to grant an extension of time for compliance with the provision of the Panama Canal Act of Aug. 24, 1912, ch. 390, § 11, in INTERSTATE COMMERCE, vol. IV, p. 404, which prohibited after July 1, 1914, any ownership by a railroad in any common carrier by water when the railroad might compete for traffic with the water carrier, and empowered the Commission to determine questions of fact as to such competition, and to extend the time if the extension would not exclude or reduce competition on the water route, since the order of the Commission was negative in substance as well as form, and the risk to which the railway company was left subject did not come from the order, but from the statute. Lehigh Valley R. Co. v. U. S., (1917) 243 U. S. 412, 37 S. Ct. 397, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 819.

Vol. V, p. 1108. [Act of Oct. 22, 1913, ch. 32.]

Venue of suits.—In Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Public Utilities Commission, (1918) 245 U. S. 493, 38 S. Ct. 170, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 425, it was held that a suit by carriers against the state authorities of Illinois to enjoin them from interfering, by civil or criminal proceedings, with the establishment and maintenance of certain interstate rates under an order of the Interstate Commerce Commission, was properly brought in the federal District Court for the northern district of Illinois. It was also held in the same case: "There was no statute making the United States or the Commission a necessary party to bills of that nature, nor was the relief sought such as to render the presence of either essential under the rules applicable to suits in equity. It well may be that either or both, if desiring to intervene, would have been permitted to do so, but there is no warrant for thinking that without their presence the bills could not be entertained."

Cross-bill.—But cross-bills in the suit described in the last preceding paragraph, assailing the validity of the Interstate Commerce Commission's order on various grounds, and concluding with a prayer that it be set aside and annulled and that the United States and the Commission be enjoined from enforcing it, and the carriers from complying with it, were not maintainable. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Public Utilities Commission, (1918) 245 U. S. 493, 38 S. Ct. 170, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 425.

Objection to the venue is waived by filing motions to dismiss for want of equity. McLean Lumber Co. v. U. S., (E. D. Tenn. 1916) 237 Fed. 460.

Vol. V, p. 1110, Jud. Code, sec. 208.

A state court has jurisdiction of an action by the state to compel corporations chartered by it to obey the orders, classifications, and regulations of the state railroad commission, none of which have been declared void by any court, and to restrain the defendants from charging other than said commission rates or applying other than the said commission's classification, as such suit is not to set aside, enjoin, suspend, or annul any order made by the Interstate Commerce Commission. Abilene, etc., R. Co. v. State, (Tex. Civ. App. 1918) 199 S. W. 878.

Discretion of court.—The court will not grant a temporary injunction unless there is irreparable injury to the complainants, and unless it can be granted without imposing irreparable injury upon some one else. Brown Drug Co. v. U. S., (D. C. Ia. 1916) 235 Fed. 603.

Vol. V, p. 1112. [Act of Oct. 22, 1913.]

Hearing by three judges—Determination of merits.—In Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. U. S., (D. C. Tenn. 1915) 227 Fed. 258, the three judges denied a motion for an interlocutory injunction, and at the same time sustained the motions of the United States and of the Commission to dismiss the petition; the latter "being a matter within the authority of the three judges now composing the court, under the provision of the Act of 1913, relating to the final hearing before three judges of any suit brought to suspend or set aside an order of the Commission; the hearing of a motion to dismiss a petition for want of equity being, in our opinion, a final hearing within the meaning of such provision."

But in Brown Drug Co. v. U. S., (D. C. Ia. 1916) 235 Fed. 603, it was decided by a majority of the three judges convened to hear the application for a temporary injunction that they had no power to hear and determine a motion to dismiss the petition upon its merits, and that such motion must be submitted to the district judge alone and be determined by him. Smith, J., said: "If the motion had been filed before the application had been made, there would be no pretense that these three judges should sit to hear that question."

I. GENERAL RULES AND PRINCIPLES5. Questions of Unwritten or Common Law

b. Present Rule (p. 1129)

In general.—In Sim v. Edenborn, (1916) 242 U. S. 131, 37 S. Ct. 36, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 199, the court said: "This court has many times considered how far Federal tribunals, when undertaking to enforce laws of the states, should follow opinions of their courts. The authorities were reviewed and rule announced in Burgess v. Seligman, 107 U. S. 20, 33-35, 27 L. ed. 359, 365, 366, 2 Sup. Ct. Rep. 10, which declared that, as to doctrines of commercial law and general jurisprudence, the former exercise their own judgment, 'but even in such cases, for the sake of harmony and to avoid confusion, the Federal courts will lean towards an agreement of views with the state courts, if the question seems to them balanced with doubt.' This has been often reaffirmed. Wilson v. Standefer, 184 U. S. 399, 412, 46 L. ed. 612, 618, 22 Sup. Ct. Rep. 384; Bienville Water Supply Co. v. Mobile, 186 U. S. 212, 220, 46 L. ed. 1132, 1135, 22 Sup. Ct. Rep. 820; Stanly County v. Coler, 190 U. S. 437, 444, 445, 47 L. ed. 1126, 1131, 1132, 23 Sup. Ct. Rep. 811; Great Southern Fire Proof Hotel Co. v. Jones, 193 U. S. 532, 547; 48 L. ed. 778, 786, 24 Sup. Ct. Rep. 576; Tampa Waterworks Co. v. Tampa, 199 U. S. 241, 243, 244, 50 L. ed. 172-174, 26 Sup. Ct. Rep. 23; Kuhn v. Fairmont Coal Co. 215 U. S. 349, 357-361, 54 L. ed. 228, 233-235, 30 Sup. Ct. Rep. 140; Ennis Waterworks v. Ennis, 233 U. S. 652, 657, 658, 58 L. ed. 1139-1141, 34 Sup. Ct. Rep. 767; Moore-Mansfield Constr. Co. v. Electrical Installation Co. 234 U. S. 619, 625, 58 L. ed. 1503, 1505, 34 Sup. Ct. Rep. 941; Lankford v. Platte Iron Works Co. 235 U. S. 461, 474, 59 L. ed. 316, 320, 35 Sup. Ct. Rep. 173."

6. Constitutional and Statutory Questions Generally

a. General Rule Stated (p. 1133)

On writ of error to a state court, the decision of the latter that a municipal ordinance is not repugnant to the state constitution settles the question for the federal Supreme Court. Thomas Cusack Co. v. Chicago, (1917) 242 U. S. 526, 37 S. Ct. 190, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 472, Ann. Cas. 1917C 594, L. R. A. 1918A 136.

7. Decisions of Intermediate Appellate and Lower Courts (p. 1148)

A ruling of the New Jersey Supreme Court that a child less than seven years of age was within the purview of the provision of N. J. General Railroad Law, § 55, that if "any person" shall be injured by an engine or car "while walking, standing or playing on any railroad" (except at a lawful crossing), he shall be deemed to have contributed to the injury sustained and shall not recover therefor any damages from the railway company, should be followed by the federal courts, in the absence of any decision of the highest court of that state holding otherwise. The court said: "In view of the importance of that tribunal in New Jersey, although not the highest court in the state, we see no reason why it should not be followed by the courts of the United States, even if we thought its decision more doubtful than we do." Erie R. Co. v. Hilt, 247 U. S. 97, 38 S. Ct. 435, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 1003.

II. APPLICATION OF RULES TO PARTICULAR SUBJECTS

7. Contracts Generally (p. 1163)

Restoration of status quo as condition of rescission.—See Sim v. Edenborn, (1916) 242 U. S. 131, 37 S. Ct. 36, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 199, reversing a judgment of the Circuit Court of Appeals, and holding that the decision of the New York Court of Appeals should have been followed.

V. APPLICABILITY IN PARTICULAR INSTANCES

1. Amendments (p. 32)

A writ of scire facias to enforce a forfeited bail bond may be amended so as to show the jurisdictional fact (assuming it to be jurisdictional), which did not appear of record, that the offender was bailed by one qualified to admit to bail, where such amendment would be allowable under the state statutes. Ewing v. U. S., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 240 Fed. 241, 153 C. C. A. 167.

24. Judgments and Proceedings Subsequent Thereto

f. Methods of Review (p. 45)

Appellate procedure in federal courts is "regulated exclusively by federal statutes and decisions, unaffected by statutes of the states." U. S. v. Jack, (1917) 244 U. S. 397, 37 S. Ct. 605, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 1222.

h. Remedies on Appeal or Supersedeas Bonds (p. 46)

The practice of rendering a summary judgment against sureties on an appeal bond, upon affirmation of the decree appealed from, has been introduced by statute in many states, and this practice is followed by the federal courts in actions at law. Although the adoption of state procedure is not obligatory upon the federal courts when sitting in equity, they have frequently rendered summary judgment against sureties on appeal bonds. Pease v. Rathbun-Jones Engineering Co., (1917) 243 U. S. 273, 37 S. Ct. 283, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 715, Ann. Cas. 1918C 1147.

49. Writs and Process

b. Mode and Sufficiency of Service
(p. 61)

A motion to quash a summons served upon a foreign corporation not doing business in the state was a proper mode of challenging jurisdiction, notwithstanding the objection could have been taken under the local law only by demurrer. Meisukas v. Greenough Red Ash Coal Co., (1917) 244 U. S. 54, 37 S. Ct. 593, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 987.

d. On Foreign Corporations (p. 62)

In general.—“A service in an action at law on a foreign corporation in conformity to a state statute is good in the federal courts, unless the notice thus provided is not adequate according to the rules of due process of law.” Beach v. Kerr Turbine Co., (N. D. Ohio 1917) 243 Fed. 706.

Vol. VI, p. 64, sec. 915.

II. JURISDICTION

Personal service or appearance.—This section, “as has been authoritatively decided, permits the issue and levy of an attachment in an action begun here only in aid of an action in which personal service has been or can be made on the defendant.” Cleveland, etc., Coal Co. v. J. H. Hillman, etc., Co., (N. D. Ohio 1917) 245 Fed. 200.

Suits removed from state courts.—In Cleveland, etc., Coal Co. v. J. H. Hillman, etc., Co., (N. D. Ohio 1917) 245 Fed. 200, granting defendant's motion to discharge an attachment and striking plaintiff's petition from the files, the court said: “This action was begun in the court of common pleas, Cuyahoga county, and was removed to this court by the defendant, a foreign corporation. No process was served personally on the defendant, but plaintiff had sought to obtain jurisdiction in the state court by filing an affidavit and procuring the issue of an order of attachment, which was levied on the property of the defendant. After removal here, the defendant corporation, appearing specially for the purpose, moved to discharge the attachment, because no sufficient affidavit had been filed in the state court authorizing the issue of the order of attachment. This motion was at a former day of this term sustained, and the attachment was discharged. Thereafter the plaintiff filed in this court an affidavit, sufficient under the state law, and obtained the issue of an order of attachment, which has been duly levied on property of the defendant. No other process has issued from this court, and no personal service on the defendant has been made. In this state of the record, defendant again appears specially for the purpose, and moves to discharge this attachment.”

Vol. VI, p. 70, sec. 916.

II. REMEDIES UNDER STATE LAWS (p. 71)

Where a state statute prohibited issuance of an execution on a judgment against a county except as therein provided, the issuance and levy of an execution contrary to the statute is ineffective. Clearwater County v. Pfeffer, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 236 Fed. 183, 149 C. C. A. 373.

Vol. VI, p. 98, sec. 954.

(p. 108)

A writ of scire facias to enforce a forfeited bail bond may be amended so as to show the jurisdictional fact (assuming it be jurisdictional), which did not appear of record, that the offender was bailed by one qualified to admit to bail. Ewing v. U. S., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 240 Fed. 241, 153 C. C. A. 167.

XI. FIERI FACIAS (p. 111)

Where, after judgment against a county, the court, without objection, on petition, order to show cause, and answer, issued an execution, and the proceeding had every essential attribute of a proceeding in mandamus, and there was no issue of fact, the appeal court, upon reversing the order for an execution as being prohibited by the state law, remanded the cause with directions to issue a mandamus against the county officers to pay the judgment, as the court would have had power to do and should have done instead of issuing an execution. Clearwater County v. Pfeffer, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 236 Fed. 183, 149 C. C. A. 373.

Vol. VI, p. 140, sec. 18.

No security need be required upon granting an interlocutory injunction as a method of protecting its jurisdiction, orders, and titles from unlawful impairment, and where such injunction may be regarded as in lieu of proceedings for contempt of the court. Swift v. Black Panther Oil, etc., Co., (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1917) 244 Fed. 20, 156 C. C. A. 448.

Vol. VI, p. 140, sec. 19.

“Specific in terms” and “in reasonable detail.”—In a suit against an interstate telephone company by patrons of the company to compel the company to repair its lines, etc., and perform its duty to and contracts with the plaintiffs, it was held that an order was not obnoxious to this section which substantially followed the prayer of the bill and concluded by enjoining all persons whatsoever "from doing any acts or things which may interfere in any respect with the performance of the duties and obligations of the defendant company as a common carrier." Stephens v. Ohio State Telephone Co., (N. D. Ohio 1917) 240 Fed. 759, where the court said: "The public interest in the company's public service is the first consideration. . . . This provision is as definite as it is possible to make it. It is this paramount interest in the public which may not suffer interference as the result of the controversy, and it is impossible to set out every act or line of conduct which might work interference."

Vol. VI, p. 141, sec. 20.

"Case between an employer and employees."—In a suit against an interstate telephone company by patrons of the company to compel the company to repair its lines and other facilities so as to enable the plaintiffs to enjoy their rights, it was assumed by the court, "it being understood, of course, that the court is not deciding the point," that the power to issue an injunction restraining the defendant's striking employees from interfering with the company's cables, or with their repair or with employees repairing them, would be subject to the limitations of this section 20 of the Clayton Act. Stephens v. Ohio State Telephone Co., (N. D. Ohio 1917) 240 Fed. 759.

"No adequate remedy at law."—See Stephens v. Ohio State Telephone Co., (N. D. Ohio 1917) 240 Fed. 759, as cited in notes to vol. V, p. 989, Jud. Code, § 267, supra, p. 1144.

"Lawful," "lawfully," "peaceful," "peacefully."—These words were emphasized by the court in holding that in a suit by patrons of an interstate telephone company to compel the defendant to repair its lines, etc., the following provision in an order following the prayer of the bill was aimed to prevent unlawful acts and acts not peaceful, and was therefore not in excess of the court's power as limited in this section: "It is further ordered, adjudged, and decreed that the defendant company, its officers, agents, servants, and employees, those in concert or participating with them, and all persons whatsoever, and particularly all persons having notice of this order, be and are hereby enjoined and restrained from interfering in any way, or in any manner, with the cables hereinbefore enumerated, or with the repair of said cables, or with workmen engaged in repairing said cables, or with employees of defendant company when in the company's service; and all said persons and parties are enjoined and restrained from doing any acts or things which may interfere in any respect with the performance of the duties and obligations of the defendant company as a common carrier."

Vol. VI, p. 145, sec. 2.

An appeal, and not a writ of error, was the proper appellate proceeding to review in the Circuit Court of Appeals a judgment of the Porto Rico Supreme Court reversing a judgment of dismissal by the District Court and rendering judgment in accordance with the prayers of the complaint enjoining the defendant railroad company from further operation of its railroad upon plaintiff's lands and ordering removal of the tracks therefrom. Plazuela Sugar Co. v. Pastoriza, (C. C. A. 1st Cir. 1917) 245 Fed. 115, 157 C. C. A. 411.

Where the instructions of the court are not in the record and the appellate tribunal is, therefore, not informed as to their character, it must assume that the instructions were given with proper and sufficient statement of the law applicable thereto. Inter-Island Steam Nav. Co. v. Ward, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1916) 232 Fed. 809, 147 C. C. A. 3.

Further review by Supreme Court.—See Inter-Island Steam Nav. Co. v. Ward, (1916) 242 U. S. 1, 37 S. Ct. 1, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 113, as cited in notes to Judicial Code, sec. 246, supra, p. 1138.

Vol. VI, p. 149. [Act of March 2, 1907.]

II. CONSTRUCTION AND APPLICATION GENERALLY (p. 150)

"Of course the quashing of a bad indictment is no bar to a prosecution upon a good one." U. S. v. Oppenheimer, (1916) 242 U. S. 85, 37 S. Ct. 68, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 161.

V. SPECIAL PLEAS IN BAR (p. 152)

Invalidity or construction of the statute need not be a ground of the special plea in bar. U. S. v. Oppenheimer, (1916) 242 U. S. 85, 37 S. Ct. 68, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 161, holding that where the defendant set up a former adjudication on a prior indictment for the same offense that it was barred by the statute of limitations, a judgment quashing the present indictment on that ground was reviewable under this Act.

A so-called motion to quash, setting up a previous adjudication upon a former indictment for the same offense that it was barred by the statute of limitations was in substance a plea in bar, and a judgment granting the motion and discharging the defendant without day is reviewable on writ of error under this Act. U. S. v. Oppenheimer, (1916) 242 U. S. 85, 37 S. Ct. 68, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 161.

Vol. VI, p. 163, sec. 997.

VIII. PARTIES (p. 166)

Waiver of irregularity.—In McCluskey v. Marysville, etc., R. Co., (1917) 243 U. S. 36, 37 S. Ct. 374, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 578, affirming a judgment of the Circuit Court of Appeals which affirmed a judgment dismissing an action by the plaintiff Nordgard, the court said: "In view of the stipulation of the parties the court below, agreeing to the substitution as plaintiff in error of the administrator of Nordgard, who died while the cause was there pending, the motion to dismiss on the ground that the writ of error was wrongfully allowed, and that the administrator is not a proper party, is based upon a mere irregularity which was waived."

Vol. VI, p. 198, sec. 1007.

V. SECURITY REQUIRED (p. 200)

Liability on bond.—It has long been settled that a supersedeas bond in common form, conditioned that the appellant shall "prosecute its appeal to effect and answer all damages and costs, if it fails to make its plea good," binds the surety, upon affirmation of a judgment or decree for the mere payment of money, to pay the amount of the judgment or decree. Pease v. Rathbun-Jones Engineering Co., (1917) 243 U. S. 273, 37 S. Ct. 283, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 715, Ann. Cas. 1918C 1147, citing Catlett v. Brodie, 9 Wheat. 553, 6 U. S. (L. ed.) 158, and holding that the federal District Court had power to render summary judgment against the sureties on such a bond on affirmation of the decree.

Vol. VI, p. 238, sec. 5.

A defendant is not entitled to remove a cause from a state court to a federal court on the ground that it was incorporated under an Act of Congress. Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Hanson, (Tex. Civ. App. 1916) 189 S. W. 289.

LIMITATION OF VESSEL OWNER'S LIABILITY

Vol. IV, p. 336, sec. 4283.

VI. Measure of liability.

1. Value of vessel.

VII. Effect of proceedings in other actions.

X. Waiver of statutory limitation.

VI. MEASURE OF LIABILITY

1. Value of Vessel (p. 349)

Determination of value of vessel.—The provision for limiting the liability of the shipowner to the value of the vessel and the freight then earned was intended to encourage the investment of capital in such ventures. The American rule is that this value is to be determined at the end of the voyage on which the collision occurred and damage was done; that the methods pointed out in the statute and rules are not exclusive, but that, the libel having been filed, the admiralty court has jurisdiction to proceed to ascertain this value by procedure proper under the circumstances of the particular case, preferably, if possible, by appraisement or sale under order of the court. The principal object of the statute is to change the common-law liability, and restrict the liability of the shipowner to the value of the vessel at the termination of the voyage and the earned freight. The Ethelstan, (S. D. Fla. 1917) 246 Fed. 187.

Towage charges from the place where the voyage was terminated to another port where the vessel was sold may not be deducted from the gross amount of the sale of the vessel when it appears that the value of the vessel in the port of sale was no greater than her value in the port of termination. The Ethelstan, (S. D. Fla. 1917) 246 Fed. 187.

VII. EFFECT OF PROCEEDINGS IN OTHER ACTIONS (p. 350)

Suits on claims against owners stayed.—To the same effect as the original note see Société Naphthés Transport v. Bisso Towboat Co., (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1917) 241 Fed. 463, 154 C. C. A. 295.

X. WAIVER OF STATUTORY LIMITATION (p. 360)

Delay in asserting right.—The right secured to the shipowner by this section is not waived by a failure to assert it before a decree is entered against him. The Ethelstan, (S. D. Fla. 1917) 246 Fed. 187.

A release bond does not have the effect of waiving the statutory limitation. Société Naphthés Transports v. Bisso Towboat Co., (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1917) 241 Fed. 463, 154 C. C. A. 295; The Ethelstan, (S. D. Fla. 1917) 246 Fed. 187.

Vol. VI, p. 368, sec. 18. [Act of June 26, 1884.]

Direct personal contracts.—A part owner of a vessel who signs his firm's name to a charter party containing an express warranty of seaworthiness is personally bound thereby, and, when sued for the loss of the cargo, occasioned by the unseaworthiness of the vessel, cannot, however blameless he may have been, claim the benefit of this section. Pendleton v. Benner, (1918) 246 U. S. 353, 38 S. Ct. 330, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 770, affirming (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1914) 217 Fed. 497, 133 C. C. A. 349.

Vol. VI, p. 371, sec. 1. [Act of Feb. 13, 1893.]

Liability of vessel—Proper care of cargo.—It is not a sufficient compliance with the provisions of this section merely to give proper care, custody and caution to the loading and stowage of cargo before sailing, but that duty continues throughout the voyage. The Skipton Castle, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 243 Fed. 523, 153 C. C. A. 221.

Vol. VI, p. 377, sec. 2.

Bill of lading as affecting statutory requirement.—The stipulation of a bill of lading will not be permitted to cut down the statutory requirements of this section. The Noble, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 244 Fed. 95, 156 C. C. A. 523.

Vol. VI, p. 377, sec. 3. [Act of Feb. 13, 1893.]

IV. SEAWORTHY VESSEL

Affirmative evidence of seaworthiness.—The Harter Act has no application to a case showing damage to cargo by seawater where there is no affirmative evidence showing that the vessel was seaworthy at the beginning of the voyage, or even at a time approximately near its beginning. Such proof cannot be supplied by inference or presumption. Herman v. Compagnie Generale Transatlantique, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 859, 155 C. C. A. 447.

Bad stowage.—The Harter Act will not release a vessel for bad stowage. Gulden v. Hiljos De Jose Toya S. en C., (E. D. N. Y. 1917) 243 Fed. 780.

VI. BURDEN OF PROOF (p. 391)

Seaworthy vessel.—The relief afforded by this section to shipowners is purely statutory, and in order for a shipowner to avail himself of the exemption from liability for errors in management, the burden is on him to prove affirmatively that the vessel was seaworthy at the beginning of the voyage, or that due diligence had been used to make her so. The Governor Powers, (D. C. Mass. 1917) 243 Fed. 961.

Damage by sea water.—To the same effect as the original note see Jamison v. New York, etc., R. Co., (S. D. N. Y. 1917) 241 Fed. 389.

MILITIA

Vol. VI, p. 432, sec. 57.

The militia of the United States, as defined in the Act of June 3, 1916, is sufficiently inclusive to embrace most, if not all, of the individuals composing the militia, organized or unorganized, of the several states. But should they by conscription be drafted into an army destined for foreign parts they would necessarily lose the character of organized state militia, and the implied constitutional inhibition against calling out the organized state militia except to "execute the laws of the Union, suppress insurrections and repel invasions" would cease to apply. U. S. v. Stephens, (D. C. Del. 1917) 245 Fed. 956.

Vol. VI, p. 439, sec. 69.

Upon the expiration of his enlistment an enlisted man is not automatically furloughed to the reserve. No act or acts done by a company captain, or no act or acts of the company captain and the enlisted man, without the approval of the War Department, can operate as a discharge of the enlisted man, or as a furlough to the reserve. Ex p. Roach, (N. D. Ala. 1917) 244 Fed. 625.

Vol. VI, p. 439, sec. 70.

Effect of failure to sign enlistment contract.—"It is quite true that section 70 declares, as to members of the National Guard of the several states, whose enlistment and oath do not contain the broader obligation, that they shall not be recognized as members of the National Guard until they have assumed the broader obligation by signing the enlistment contract and taking the oath prescribed; but we look upon this as merely declaratory of the fact that they shall not be recognized and classed in the National Guard distinctively designated as such, and we do not view such declaration as at all inconsistent with the idea that they shall remain in the class of service into which they had in fact previously entered. In short, upon mobilization and under election, not being recognized as members of that body of men known as the National Guard, the militiamen, by operation of law, are relegated to that branch of the service to which they belong, and in which they are bound to perform certain federal military duty." Sweetser v. Emerson, (C. C. A. 1st Cir. 1916) 236 Fed. 161, 149 C. C. A. 351, Ann. Cas. 1917B 244.

Vol. VI, p. 444, sec. 111.

In general.—Authority from Congress and a draft order from the President is all the formality required to make a member of the militia a soldier of the United States army. Ex p. Dostal, (N. D. Ohio 1917) 243 Fed. 664.

MINERAL LANDS, MINES AND MINING

Vol. VI, p. 508, sec. 2318.

I. IN GENERAL (p. 513)

Coal lands.—"Land valuable for coal is mineral land within the meaning of the public land laws." U. S. v. Sweet, (1918) 245 U. S. 563, 38 S. Ct. 193, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 473.

The end lines of a mining claim are required to be parallel. The side lines are not required so to be. The end lines of a mining location are required to be projected parallel with each other and crosswise of the general course of the veins within the surface limits of the location, and whenever the top or the apex of the vein is found within the surface lines extended vertically downwards the vein may be followed outside of the vertical side lines. The end lines are not necessarily those which are marked on the map or diagram of the location as such, but they may be projected at the extreme points where the apex leaves the location as marked on the surface. Quilp Gold Min. Co. v. Republic Mines Corp., (1917) 96 Wash. 439, 165 Pac. 57.

IV. LEGAL LIMITS OF LODGE (p. 519)

Presumption as to direction of vein.—Where a vein is found to have a certain course, so far as it is disclosed, the inference may be drawn that it will continue in the same direction. Hence, if it crosses an end line and for some distance the strike is parallel to the side lines, it is not unreasonable to conclude that it continues in that direction. Bourne v. Federal Min., etc., Co., (C. C. Idaho 1908) 243 Fed. 466.

Vol. VI, p. 512, sec. 2320.

The conveyance of a placer claim includes, as matter of law, all known veins and lodes of quartz. Wilbur v. Everhardy, (Cal. 1917) 167 Pac. 861.

Vol. VI, p. 523, sec. 2322.

II. POSSESSORY RIGHTS

Apex of vein.—A fissure vein with two dipping limbs whose course downward is substantial, regular, and practically free from undulations, cannot be said as a matter of law not to have a top or apex within a lode mining claim. Jim Butler Tonopah Min. Co. v. West End Consol. Min. Co., 247 U. S. 450, 38 S. Ct. 574, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 1207.

III. EXTRALATERAL RIGHTS (p. 527)

Extent of right.—The extralateral right, under this section, to follow all apexing veins on their downward dip between the end lines of a lode mining claim continued in their own direction and extended vertically downward, may be exercised, where the other elements of such right are present, beyond either or both side lines, depending upon the direction which the departing vein or veins take on their downward course. Jim Butler Tonopah Min. Co. v. West End Consol. Min. Co., 247 U. S. 450, 38 S. Ct. 574, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 1207.

End lines of a lode mining claim are none the less parallel and straight for the purpose of securing extralateral rights, although a portion of each of two diagonally opposite corners of the claim, which is otherwise a parallelogram in form, is cut off by diagonal lines. These diagonal lines must be considered as parts of the side lines, not of the end lines. Jim Butler Tonopah Min. Co. v. West End Consol. Min. Co., 247 U. S. 450, 38 S. Ct. 574, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 1207.

Vol. VI, p. 533, sec. 2324.

V. ANNUAL ASSESSMENT WORK

2. Work, Labor and Improvements (p. 544)

Claim held in common.—Where two or more contiguous claims are held by the same person or persons, work done in good faith upon any one of them, or outside of the boundaries of either of them, which directly tends to the development or benefit of all the claims of mining purposes, should be held applicable to each and all of such claims. Consolidated Mut. Oil Co. v. U. S., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 245 Fed. 521, 157 C. C. A. 633.

Vol. VI, p. 555, sec. 2325.

Order of complying with statutory requirements.—It is the well established law that in the absence of any intervening bona fide rights, the order in which the statutory requirements concerning the marking of the locations are complied with is immaterial; the marking of the boundaries of a claim may precede the discovery, or the discovery may precede the marking, and, if both are complete before the rights of others intervene, the earlier act will inure to the benefit of the locator as of the date of the later, and a complete possessory title to the premises will vest in him as of the later date. Consolidated Mut. Oil Co. v. U. S., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 245 Fed. 521, 157 C. C. A. 633.

Vol. VI, p. 563, sec. 2326.

XI. JUDGMENT (p. 573)

Effect.—Even after judgment of the court in a proceeding by an adverse claimant to a mining claim, under this section, on the question of the right of possession, the Land Department may pass upon the sufficiency of the proofs to ascertain the character of the land and determine whether the conditions of the law have been complied with in good faith. Land v. Cameron, (1916) 45 App. Cas. (D. C.) 404.

Vol. VI, p. 577, sec. 2330.

Extent of claim.—Any device whereby one person is to acquire more than twenty, or an association more than one hundred and sixty acres in area, by one discovery, constitutes a fraud upon the government and is without legal support and void. U. S. v. Brookshire Oil Co., (S. D. Cal. 1917) 242 Fed. 718.

Vol. VI, p. 581, sec. 2333.

Findings of Land Department.—A finding of the Land Department upon ex parte proofs presented in support of a placer mining claim that a tract of public land was valuable for placer mining was not in itself final or conclusive, but essentially interlocutory, being only a step in the proceedings looking to the ultimate disposal of the title, and, until the issue of a patent, was as much open to reconsideration and reversal as are the interlocutory orders or decrees of a court of equity until the entry of a final decree. Kirk v. Olson, (1917) 245 U. S. 225, 38 S. Ct. 114, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 125.

Vol. VI, p. 593, sec. 2347.

Mandamus will not lie to compel the Secretary of the Interior to issue to the relators a patent for coal land which they entered when it was still unreserved, unsurveyed, and unclassified public land, although after its classification as coal land and appraisal they applied to purchase it and conformed to the requirements of sections 2347 and 2348, where the Secretary's refusal to issue a patent to the relators was based upon the ground that not having opened a mine on the land until after its classification and appraisal, they would have to pay the appraised price of the land, and not the price fixed by the statute. Handel v. Lane, (1916) 45 App. Cas. (D. C.) 389.

Vol. VI, p. 607. [Act of Feb. 12, 1903.]

In general.—This Act was the first legislative recognition ever made by Congress of any right on the part of an occupant or claimant of oil bearing lands prior to the discovery of oil thereon. By this Act, which was obviously a remedial statute, and therefore to be liberally construed to effect the object, Congress expressly gave to the good-faith occupant or claimant of either oil or gas bearing lands, who, at the date of the Act, was "in diligent persecution of work leading to discovery of oil or gas," a status. Consolidated Mut. Oil Co. v. U. S., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 245 Fed. 521, 157 C. C. A. 633.

NATIONAL BANKS

Vol. VI, p. 654, sec. 5136.

V. "INCIDENTAL POWERS AS SHALL BE NECESSARY," ETC.

5. "Discounting and Negotiating Evidences of Debt."

a. In General (p. 668)

An authority to discount or make discounts, from the very force of the terms, necessarily includes an authority to take interest in advance. Cooper v. National Bank, (Ga. 1917) 94 S. E. 611.

VII. ULTRA VIRES TRANSACTIONS (p. 679)

Liability for benefits.—To the same effect as the original note see U. S. Fidelity, etc., Co. v. Pittsboro First State Bank, (1917) 116 Miss. 239, 76 So. 747.

Vol. VI, p. 722, sec. 23. [Act of Dec. 23, 1913.]

I. WHO ARE LIABLE AS STOCKHOLDERS

1. In General (p. 723)

Although a national bank is bankrupt, if a purchaser of stock in such bank has satisfied this section he has a right to a rescission of his purchase in case there was fraud by the seller out of which resulted the sale. Salter v. Williams, (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1917) 244 Fed. 126, 156 C. C. A. 554, reversing (D. C. N. J. 1914) 219 Fed. 1017.

2. Married Women (p. 723)

A married woman whose husband transferred national bank stock to her without her knowledge is not, as long as she continues ignorant of that act, liable as a stockholder under this section. But she may of course ratify the act and thereby become liable. Williams v. Vreeland, (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1917) 244 Fed. 346, 156 C. C. A. 554, holding however that ratification was not shown.

Vol. VI, p. 744, sec. 5197.

IV. INTEREST AT RATE ALLOWED BY STATE LAW (p. 745)

In general.—To the same effect as the original note see Cooper v. National Bank, (Ga. 1917) 94 S. E. 611.

V. RECOVERY BACK OF TWICE AMOUNT OF INTEREST PAID

2. Necessity That Interest Be "Paid" (p. 752)

To the same effect as the original note see Cooper v. National Bank, (Ga. 1917) 94 S. E. 611.

12. Limitation of Time (p. 757)

In computing the time within which an action for the recovery of usurious interest paid must be brought the first day of the period should be excluded and the last day included. Haskell First Nat. Bank v. Drew, (Okla. 1918) 169 Pac. 1092.

Vol. VI, p. 762, sec. 5201.

Purchase by bank to protect debt.—It is incompetent for a national bank to purchase its own stock, unless necessary to save a debt going to it. Louisville First Nat. Bank v. Armstrong, (Ky. 1917) 198 S. W. 226.

Vol. VI, p. 766, sec. 5204.

The withdrawal of assets by a bank while insolvent is prohibited by this section. Louisville First Nat. Bank v. Armstrong, (Ky. 1917) 198 S. W. 226.

Vol. VI, p. 770, sec. 5209.

II. EMBEZZLEMENT

3. Who Liable (p. 774)

The receiver of a national bank is not an "agent" within the meaning of this section. U. S. v. Weitzel, (1918) 246 U. S. 533, 38 S. Ct. 381, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 872.

VII. FALSE ENTRIES

2. Who Liable (p. 782)

The receiver of a national bank is not an "agent" within the meaning of this section. U. S. v. Weitzel, (1918) 246 U. S. 533, 38 S. Ct. 381, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 872.

Vol. VI, p. 796, sec. 5219.

II. PROPERTY TAXABLE

1. Stock and Real Property (p. 797)

Shares of stock in a Federal Reserve Bank owned by a national bank are taxable under this section. Cincinnati First Nat. Bank v. Durr, (S. D. Ohio 1917) 246 Fed. 163.

Vol. VI, p. 828, sec. 11.

Paragraph (k) is constitutional. Bay City First Nat. Bank v. Union Trust Co., (1917) 244 U. S. 417, 37 S. Ct. 734, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 1233, reversing (1916) 192 Mich. 640, 159 N. W. 335.

Vol. VI, p. 850, sec. 5234.V. ENFORCEMENT OF INDIVIDUAL LIABILITY OF STOCKHOLDERS*1. Determination and Assessment by Comptroller (p. 859)

Withdrawal of assessment.—An assessment made by the Comptroller of the Currency upon the shareholders in an insolvent national bank may be withdrawn by him before it is paid, or when it is partly paid if he shall conclude that further payment is not necessary, and there is no prescribed form in which such action shall be taken. Korbly v. Springfield Inst. for Savings, (1917) 245 U. S. 330, 38 S. Ct. 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 326.

Vol. VI, p. 873, sec. 5239.II. COMMON LAW LIABILITY OF DIRECTOR AND ENFORCEMENT THEREOF

In Chesbrough v. Woodworth, (1917) 244 U. S. 72, 37 S. Ct. 579, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 1000, the court said: "This section was considered in Yates v. Jones Nat. Bank, 206 U. S. 158, 179, 51 L. ed. 1002, 1014, 27 S. Ct. 638, and it was held that the rule expressed by it is exclusive and precludes a common-law liability for fraud and deceit. To the same effect are Thomas v. Taylor, 224 U. S. 73, 56 L. ed. 673, 32 S. Ct. 403, and Jones Nat. Bank v. Yates, 240 U. S. 541, 60 L. ed. 788, 36 S. Ct. 429."

III. STATUTORY LIABILITY OF DIRECTORS AND ENFORCEMENT THEREOF8. False Reports to Comptroller of Currency (p. 861)

Directors in a national bank, who, with knowledge of their falsity, attested reports of the bank's financial condition, made to the Comptroller of the Currency, and as called for by him, are made personally liable to one who has sustained a loss by reason of his purchase of stock in the bank in reliance on such false reports. The damages recoverable from the directors by one who has sustained a loss by reason of their having knowingly participated in, or assented to, a violation of the National Bank Act, are personal to the plaintiff. He sues in his own right, not for the bank. A direct showing of negligence is not involved; the sole primary issue is whether defendants caused or permitted to be made a statement of the bank's condition, upon which statement plaintiff relied, to his injury, and which statement defendants knew was materially false. The detailed history of the entire transactions surrounding certain "bad" loans made by the national bank is admissible in evidence. One director may be made the sole defendant, or others may be joined with him. Chesbrough v. Woodworth, (1917) 244 U. S. 72, 37 S. Ct. 579, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 1000 affirming (C. C. Jurisdiction and venue.—A federal question is involved, giving a federal District Court jurisdiction, without regard to citizenship, in an action to enforce the personal liability of directors in a national bank, under R. S. sec. 5239, for the damages suffered by one who has purchased capital stock in such bank in reliance upon false reports of the bank's financial condition to the Comptroller of the Currency, attested by them, and upon the declaration of dividends out of capital instead of out of net profits, assented to by them. Chesbrough v. Woodworth, (1917) 244 U. S. 72, 79, 37 S. Ct. 579, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 1000, affirming (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1912) 195 Fed. 875, 116 C. C. A. 465, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1915) 221 Fed. 912, 137 C. C. Petition by alien enemy—"At the time of his application."—Where a subject of the Emperor of Germany filed his petition for naturalization Jan. 11, 1917, and the application came up for hearing on April 14, 1917, the congressional resolution declaring a condition of war with Germany having been passed April 6, 1917, the "hearing on the application" was "deferred until the termination of war, or until further order of the court." In re Duns, (W. An alien soldier in the service of the army who upon his examination states that it is not his intention to reside permanently in the United States, but that it is his intention, upon his discharge from the service, to return to his native country, to remain there permanently, is not entitled to naturalization, either under the general naturalization status or the Act of May 9, 1918, ch. —, § 1, ante, this volume, title NATURALIZATION, p. 488. In re Naturalization of Aliens, etc., (E. D. Mo. 1918) 250 Fed. 316.

III. FILING PETITION

1. Time for Filing (p. 962)

"Not more than seven years."—A declaration of intention made before the passage of this Act is not saved by the proviso of paragraph first of this section from the seven-year limitation in this section after the date of such declaration of intention. And an alien who has made a declaration of intention before the passage of this Act is required to file his petition for citizenship at a time not more than seven years after the date of such declaration of intention. U. S. v. Morena, (1917) 245 U. S. 392, 38 S. Ct. 151, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 359.

An alien's petition filed in a federal court after the expiration of the seven years is too late, notwithstanding his having, within the seven years, twice filed a petition in the state, which were there properly dismissed as the petitioner was not a resident within the territorial jurisdiction of the court. U. S. v. Mueller, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 679, 158 C. C. A. 635.

One who filed his declaration of intention July 19, 1904, and his application for naturalization Dec. 14, 1916, more than seven years after this Act took effect, was cut off and barred by this Act. In re Bourke, (D. C. Kan. 1917) 243 Fed. 794.

VI. SECOND PROVISIO CONSTRUED (p. 961)

Misinformation in U. S. v. Meyer, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 241 Fed. 305, 154 C. C. A. 185, Ann. Cas. 1918C 704, was held to be such as to bring the applicant within the benefit of the second proviso in this paragraph.

V. CERTIFICATE (p. 964)

In general.—Filing the certificate of arrival as provided in this subsection is an essential prerequisite to a valid order of naturalization; and "filing the certificate of arrival being a matter of substance, it is clear that no power is vested in the naturalization court to dispense with it." U. S. v. Ness, (1917) 245 U. S. 319, 38 S. Ct. 118, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 321, reversing (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 230 Fed. 950, 145 C. C. A. 144, Ann. Cas. 1917C 41, which affirmed (N. D. Ia. 1917) 217 Fed. 169.

Vol. VI, p. 967, sec. 4, par. fourth.II. CONTINUOUSLY RESIDED (p. 968)

In general.—A certificate of citizenship cannot legally be granted if the petitioner has not continuously resided in the United States for a period of five years. In re Giovine, (W. D. N. Y. 1917) 242 Fed. 741.

Rules for applying this provision.—

"The courts are agreed that, in applying the provision of the naturalization statute which requires continuous residence within the United States for a period of five years next preceding the filing of the petition for citizenship, two rules should be followed and observed: (1) When actual residence within the United States is once established, the continuity of such residence will not be interrupted by temporary absences from the United States for the purpose of either business or pleasure, provided there is no intention to change or abandon the domicile. And (2) the question whether an alien has resided continuously in the United States for the required five years is one of fact to be determined from all the facts and circumstances in each particular case." U. S. v. Jorgenson, (W. D. Mich. 1916) 241 Fed. 412.

Actual and substantial residence within the United States is required. U. S. v. Ginsberg, (W. D. Mo. 1914) 244 Fed. 209, holding that, on the evidence, the petitioner was and has been, throughout the required period, a resident of Brazil, the court saying: "While intention is one of the determining elements of residence, nevertheless intention alone is not sufficient, but must be coincident with the physical act."

Continuous residence as question of fact.—"The intention of an alien as to his residence or domicile once established is a most important, and usually a controlling factor in determining his right to citizenship. . . . The question of intention is always one of fact to be determined from both actions and declarations, and oftentimes conduct is more persuasive than words." U. S. v. Jorgenson, (W. D. Mich. 1916) 241 Fed. 412, holding that an applicant's petition was properly granted, though he had been absent in the Panama Canal Zone during part of the five-year period.

"Seven new subdivisions" were added to this section 4 by the Act of May 9, 1918, ch. —, § 1, ante, this volume, title NATURALIZATION, p. 488. In re Naturalization of Aliens, etc., (E. D. Mo. 1918) 250 Fed. 316.

Vol. VI, p. 977, sec. 9.I. HEARING "IN OPEN COURT" (p. 977)

Hearing at chambers.—A final hearing is not had in open court, if, after the petition is first presented in open court, the hearing thereof is passed to and finally held in the chambers of the judge adjoining the court room, on a subsequent day and at an hour earlier than that to which the court has been regularly adjourned. U. S. v. Ginsberg, (1917) 243 U. S. 472, 37 S. Ct. 422, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 853, reversing, in effect (W. D. Mo. 1914) 244 Fed. 209.

Vol. VI, p. 984, sec. 13.

Construed with R. S. sec. 2687.—This section is in pari materia with R. S. sec. 2187 in CUSTOMS DUTIES, vol. II, p. 988, and construing the two sections together, a clerk of a court is not entitled to the full maximum sum allowed for fees collected in the naturalization proceedings in any one fiscal year received during six months of such year, but is only entitled to retain his pro rata of said maximum sum for the period during which said fees were collected. Darling v. U. S., (1916) 16 Ct. Cl. 100.

Effect of state statutes regulating fees of state officers.—This section "was not intended to and did not control the ownership of the fees retainable by virtue of it by the clerks of the courts of record of this state. It leaves those fees to whatever disposition may be provided by the state law, even if it be true that under the Act the clerks are agents of the national government. Mulcrevy v. San Francisco, (231 U. S. 669, 34 S. Ct. 260, 58 U. S. (L. ed.) 425. We must, therefore, heed the relevant laws of the state." Price v. Erie County, (1917) 221 N. Y. 260, 116 N. E. 988.

Controlled by the decision in Mulcrevy v. San Francisco, (1914) 231 U. S. 669, 34 S. Ct. 260, 58 U. S. (L. ed.) 425 (affirming (1910) 15 Cal. App. 11, 113 Pac. 339, it was held in Alameda County v. Cook, (1917) 32 Cal. App. 165, 162 Pac. 405, that the county clerk of Alameda county, ex officio clerk of the Superior Court, was not entitled to retain for his own use and benefit one-half of the fees collected by him in naturalization cases, but must pay the same into the treasury of Alameda county.

As stated in State v. Smith, (1917) 165 N. W. 896, "the Nebraska statute in force when the naturalization fees in controversy were collected did not require the clerk of the District Court to account to the county for any part of them."

In New York the clerk of Erie county and of the courts of record therein was not entitled to retain, for his own use one-half the fees collected by him in naturalization proceedings, but must pay them to the county treasurer. Price v. Erie County, (1917) 221 N. Y. 260, 116 N. E. 988.

Vol. VI, p. 987, sec. 15.III. GROUNDS FOR CANCELLATION*3. Illegal Procurement (p. 992)

In general.—Appearance of the United States, under section 11 of this Act, in opposition to the granting of a petition for naturalization, does not make the order res judicata so as to preclude a suit to cancel the order as having been “illegally procured”; because, for instance the petitioner failed to file with the clerk the certificate from the Department of Commerce and Labor as required in section 4, subdivision 2 of this Act. U. S. v. Ness, (1917) 245 U. S. 319, 38 S. Ct. 118, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 321, reversing (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1916) 230 Fed. 950, 145 C. C. A. 144, Ann. Cas. 1917C 41, which affirmed (1914) 217 Fed. 169), holding that “§ 11 and § 15 were designed to afford cumulative protection against fraudulent or illegal naturalization.”

Petitioner not qualified by residence.—A certificate of citizenship may be set aside and canceled where the uncontradicted evidence at the hearing of the petition showed indisputably that the petitioner was not qualified by residence and citizenship, and that the court or judge who heard the petition and ordered the certificate misapplied the law and the facts. U. S. v. Ginsburg, (1917) 243 U. S. 472, 37 S. Ct. 422, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 853, reversing in effect, (W. D. Mo. 1914) 244 Fed. 209.

Evidence disproving residence continuously for five years in the United States was the ground upon which a certificate of citizenship was canceled in In re Giovine, (W. D. N. Y. 1917) 242 Fed. 741.

Witness verifying petition found not credible.—In view of the requirements in paragraph 3 of subdivision 2 of section 4 (“The petition shall also be verified” etc.) and in section 5 of this Act, it was ground for cancellation of a certificate of naturalization that the court after the witness whose affidavit with that of one other was attached to and filed with the petition testified on the final hearing that he had not known the petitioner for five years, permitted the substitution of another witness who had made no affidavit to give the requisite testimony, and thereon granted the petition. U. S. v. Gulliksen, (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1917) 244 Fed. 727, 157 C. C. A. 175.

VIII. PLEADINGS AND PROCEDURE1. In General (p. 995)

“This is an equitable proceeding (United States v. Ness, 230 Fed. 950, 145 C. C. A. 144; Luria v. United States, 231 U. S. 9, 27, 28, 34 Sup. Ct. 10, 58 L. Ed. 101; United States v. Salomon [D. C.] 231 Fed. 461; and Id., 231 Fed. 928, 146 C. C. A. 124), and hence mere form, unless jurisdictional, must yield to substance. Citizenship granted by a court of competent jurisdiction after full hearing should not be taken away unless, from the facts presented, it clearly appears that such citizenship was illegally procured and that the applicant therefor was not entitled thereto at the time his petition was filed. A court decree which accords with truth and justice ought not to be annulled, either because of formal irregularities in the proceedings leading up to its rendition, or because it was based upon an incorrect theory of law, or erroneous reasoning as to facts.” U. S. v. Jorgenson, (W. D. Mich. 1916) 241 Fed. 412.

Vol. VI, p. 1001, sec. 30.

Racial restrictions of section 2169.—In view of the debates in Congress and the legislative history of this section 30, R. S. sec. 2169, vol. VI, p. 944, is to be regarded as so modified as to admit to citizenship a Filipino otherwise qualified for citizenship. In re Bautista, (N. D. Cal. 1917) 245 Fed. 765, holding, however, that only natural-born Filipinos are thus eligible, and that an alien not born in the Philippine Islands is not eligible unless under R. S. sec. 2169.

Vol. VI, p. 1004, sec. 1.

Filipinos born in the Philippine Islands and whose permanent allegiance was transferred to the United States by force of the treaty are aliens as that term is used in this Act and entitled to its benefit. In re Bautista, (N. D. Cal. 1917) 245 Fed. 765.

Half-breed Filipino.—One whose father was a Spaniard and his mother a Filipino is not entitled to the benefit of this provision. In re Rallos (E. D. N. Y. 1917) 241 Fed. 686, disagreeing with a distinction made in In re Mallari, (Mass. 1906) 239 Fed. 416.

NAVY

Vol. VI, p. 1074, sec. 1386.

Appointment.—The appointing power cannot attach conditions which have the effect of depriving an appointee as paymaster's clerk of what the law allows him to receive. Katzer v. U. S., (1917) 52 Ct. Cl. 32.

Vol. VI, p. 1107. [Paymaster's clerk.]

This provision "radically changed the method theretofore existing for the selection of paymasters' clerks and inaugurated a system designed to be complete in itself for the creation and selection of acting pay clerks, and chief pay clerks." Seifert v. U. S., (1917) 52 Ct. Cl. 40.

Vol. VI, p. 1108. [Chief pay clerks.]

A paymaster's clerk commissioned a chief pay clerk under this Act was not "advanced in grade or rank pursuant to law" within the meaning of the Act of March 4, 1913, vol. VI, p. 1212. Seifert v. U. S., (1917) 52 Ct. Cl. 40.

Vol. VI, p. 1165. [Act March 2, 1895.]

Jurisdiction on the Court of Claims is not conferred by this Act, nor has that court jurisdiction under the general grant of jurisdiction of claims "founded upon any laws of congress." Harilee v. U. S., (1916) 51 Ct. Cl. 342.

Vol. VI, p. 1195, sec. 13.

Appointment from civil life in second "provided further."—An enlisted man who, having obtained his discharge, with the expectation and practical assurance of being appointed assistant paymaster as a promotion, for which he had taken an examination, was appointed assistant paymaster two days after his resignation, and was thus appointed from civil life, according to the letter of the law. But according to the doctrine of U. S. v. Alger, (1894) 151 U. S. 362, 14 S. Ct. 346, 38 U. S. (L. ed.) 192, he was not entitled to be so regarded, and the Comptroller of the Treasury eventually so ruled. Meanwhile he had received the increased pay given by the terms of the statute to appointees from civil life, and his vouchers therefor were duly approved. It was held that the government was not entitled to be repaid the sum paid him in excess of that to which the Comptroller finally determined was his due. U. S. v. United States Fidelity, etc., Co., (E. D. N. Y. 1917) 244 Fed. 310.

Vol. VI, p. 1197. [Mileage or actual expenses, when allowed.]

This provision did not operate to repeal R. S. sec. 1566 in NAVY, vol. VI, p. 1179, as to the provision that no officer shall be paid mileage except for travel actually performed, at his own expense and under orders. Katzer v. U. S., (1917) 52 Ct. Cl. 32.

Officer within statute.—A paymaster clerk is not an "officer of the navy" within the meaning of this provision. Ashton v. U. S., (1916) 51 Ct. Cl. 65.

Vol. VI, p. 1209. [Aid to rear admirals.]

A lieutenant commander is not entitled to additional pay on account of services as aid to a rear admiral. Knox v. U. S., (1917) 52 Ct. Cl. 22.

Vol. VI, p. 1212. [Officers to receive pay from date of commission.]

A paymaster's clerk commissioned a chief pay clerk under the Act of March 3, 1915, vol. VI., pp. 1107, 1108, was not "advanced in grade or rank pursuant to law" with the meaning of this Act of March 4, 1913. Seifert v. U. S., (1917) 52 Ct. Cl. 40.

Commission; departmental practice.—Where by the deliberate action of the administrative department a new commission is issued to correct a prior commission under the ruling of the court in Toulou v. U. S., (1916) 51 Ct. Cl. 87, recognition will be given to the practice of the department in reckoning the date from that of appointment rather than from the time of actual service where there is no statute which prohibits said practice. Toulou v. U. S., (1917) 52 Ct. Cl. 333.

PATENTS

Vol. VII, p. 11, sec. 4883.

- I. Nature of patent.
- II. Validity of patent.

I. NATURE OF PATENT (p. 11)

Nature of right—Eminent domain.—Rights secured under the grant of letters patent by the United States are properly protected by the constitutional guaranties and therefore not subject to be appropriated, even for public use, without adequate compensation. William Cramp, etc., Ship, etc., Bldg., Co. v. International Curtis Marine Turbine Co., (1918) 246 U. S. 28, 38 S. Ct. 271, 62 U. S., (L. ed.) 560, affirmed (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1917) 238 Fed. 564, 151 C. C. A. 500.

Right to vend—Price restrictions.—See under this title vol. VII, p. 14, R. S. sec. 4884.

II. VALIDITY OF PATENT (p. 12)

Presumption.—The usual presumption that a patent is prima facie valid and that the burden is on defendant to establish its validity is inapplicable in a case where the Patent Office admits that the patent was granted inadvertently to the unsuccessful party to an interference suit. Safe-Cabinet Co. v. Globe-Wernicke Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 497, 155 C. C. A. 273.

Vol. VII, p. 14, sec. 4884.

Price restrictions.—The monopoly conferred by the patent law does not give the manufacturers of a patented article the right, in derogation of the general law, to fix by contract between its general sales agent and purchasing dealers the price at which such article shall be resold, and an attempt to enforce the apparent obligations of such contract under the guise of a patent infringement is not embraced within the remedies given for the protection of the rights which the patent law confers. Boston Store v. American Graphophone Co., (1918) 246 U. S. 8, 38 S. Ct. 257, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 551.

Patent rights do not confer upon the patentee the right to fix the resale prices of a patented article sold by him. Ford Motor Co. v. Union Motor Sales Co., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 244 Fed. 156, 156 C. C. A. 584.

Vol. VII, p. 23, sec. 4886.

- III. What may be patented.
- IV. Invention.
- VII. Prior use or sale.
- VIII. Abandonment.

III. WHAT MAY BE PATENTED (p. 35)

Patent for method.—A patent for method cannot be sustained when it appears that the result achieved is due to the operation of a machine, but when the new result comes from certain acts or a series of steps, irrespective of mechanism, or the mechanical assemblage of parts, then the steps taken, or the acts performed, or the mode of treatment, involve patentable invention. Buffalo Forge Co. v. Buffalo, (W. D. N. Y. 1917) 246 Fed. 135.

Process—Rule of equivalency.—The same rule of equivalency applies to a process patent as to a mechanical patent. If the defendant omits one step, but uses an equivalent therefor, he does not escape infringement. Philadelphia Rubber Works Co. v. Portage Rubber Co., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 241 Fed. 108, 154 C. C. A. 108, modifying and affirming (N. D. Ohio 1915) 227 Fed. 623.

Combinations.—The same principle is applied to a process as to a mechanical patent, that is to say, each step in the process corresponds to each element in the mechanisms, and, unless the defendant uses all the steps of all the elements, he does not infringe. Philadelphia Rubber Works, Co. v. Portage Rubber Co., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 241 Fed. 108, 154 C. C. A. 108, modifying and affirming (N. D. Ohio 1915) 227 Fed. 623.

IV. INVENTION (p. 44)

What constitutes invention.—Slight variations claimed for a patent for improvements in railroad tie plates, from prior forms of such plates, do not constitute patentable invention. Railroad Supply Co. v. Elyria Iron, etc., Co., (1917) 244 U. S. 285, 37 S. Ct. 502, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 1136, affirming (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1914) 213 Fed. 789, 130 C. C. A. 447.

Combination.—A new combination of old things may be patentable, where the combination is new and the result of the combination of the old elements is also new. National Mach. Corp. v. Benthall Mach. Co., (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1916) 241 Fed. 72, 154 C. C. A. 72, affirming (E. D. Va. 1915) 222 Fed. 918.

For a case in which the bringing together of elements confessedly old, for a gearing device for use in operating power washing machines and wringers, was held not to amount to a patentable combination, see Grinnell Washing Machine Co. v. E. E. Johnson Co., (1918) 247 U. S. 426, 38 S. Ct. 547, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 1196.

Different function in nonanalogous art.

—An old and patented idea may involve invention, where it is applied to perform a different function in a different art. Beckwith Box Toe Co. v. Gowdy, (D. C. Mass. 1916) 244 Fed. 805.

Omission of parts.—Invention may be found in a new combination where one essential element of the old combination is omitted and there is no substitution of a mechanical equivalent. Debnam v. Benthall Co., (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1916) 241 Fed. 103, 154 C. C. A. 103.

Equivalents.—For a patent (acetylene lamp) held to exhibit meritorious invention and entitled to invoke the doctrine of equivalents, see Abercrombie, etc., Co. v. Baldwin, (1917) 245 U. S. 198, 38 S. Ct. 104, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 240.

The term mechanical equivalent when applied to a slight improvement in the progress of an art, has a very narrow and limited meaning. The inventor is ordinarily confined to his specific device and receives little aid from the doctrine of equivalents. Broadway Towel Supply Co. v. Brown-Meyer Co., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 245 Fed. 659, 158 C. C. A. 87.

Mere improvement is not invention. Wagner v. Meccano, (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1918) 246 Fed. 603, 158 C. C. A. 573.

Public demand for a product, as the result of advertising, is not an evidence of utility or invention. Cohn v. Hickey-Freeman Co., (W. D. N. Y. 1917) 246 Fed. 256.

Commercial success alone is not sufficient where it is sought to prove an invention. National Mach. Corp. v. Benthall Mach. Co., (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1916) 241 Fed. 72, 154 C. C. A. 72, affirming (E. D. Va. 1915) 222 Fed. 918.

Successful public appreciation of a device is without importance, where there is a total lack of invention. Package Machinery Co. v. Johnson Automatic Sealer Co., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 598, 158 C. C. A. 568.

The success of a device, in doubtful cases, may turn the scale in favor of patentability or novelty. Alvey-Ferguson Co. v. Peter Schoenhofen Brewing Co., (N. D. Ill. 1917) 245 Fed. 762.

VII. PRIOR USE OR SALE (p. 117)

In general.—It is well settled that the prior use of an invention for two years invalidates a later patent, even if the patentee has no knowledge of the same. Virginia-Carolina Peanut Picker Co. v. Benthall Mach. Co., (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1916) 241 Fed. 89, 154 C. C. A. 89, reversing (E. D. Va. 1915) 222 Fed. 918.

Prior public use.—See Le Roy v. Nicholas Power Co., (S. D. N. Y. 1917) 244 Fed. 955 (public use of a device on a machine).

VIII. ABANDONMENT (p. 127)

Presumption.—Abandonment is never presumed. The presumption is against abandonment and clear evidence of an intention to dedicate an improvement to the public is indispensable to establish an abandonment. Virginia Carolina Peanut Picker Co. v. Benthall Mach. Co., (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1916) 241 Fed. 89, 154 C. C. A. 89.

Abandonment results from the withholding from the public of an invention for personal profit and for an indefinite time. Macbeth-Evans Glass Co. v. General Electric Co., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 695, 158 C. C. A. 651.

Vol. VII, p. 145, sec. 4888.III. Claims.

2. Construction.
3. Essentials and scope.
5. Effect of claim.

III. CLAIMS2. Construction (p. 158)

In general.—A claim cannot be so construed as to cover what was rejected by the patent office in the application for the patent. Broadway Towel Supply Co. v. Brown-Meyer Co., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 245 Fed. 659, 158 C. C. A. 87.

Some of the principles which should govern the construction of claims are stated in Outlook Envelope Co. v. General Paper Goods Mfg. Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 239 Fed. 877, 153 C. C. A. 5.

Claims for improvements.—In Railroad Supply Co. v. Elyria Iron, etc., Co., (1917) 244 U. S. 285, 37 S. Ct. 502, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 1136, affirming (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1914) 213 Fed. 789, 130 C. C. A. 447, it was held that the state of the prior art required that designated patents for improvements in railroad tie plates, be limited strictly to the forms described in the claims.

Construed with specifications.—The claims fix the extent of the protection furnished by a patent. The claim is the measure of the invention. The specification, however, may be referred to in construing the patent and it is well understood that the claims are to be construed in the light of the specification. While the specification is never available for the purpose of expanding a claim, it may be referred to for the purpose of limiting it. Miller Rubber Co. v. Behrend, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 515, 155 C. C. A. 291, following Fowler, etc., Mfg. Co. v. McCrum-Howell Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1914) 215 Fed. 905, 132 C. C. A. 143.

3. Essentials and Scope (p. 161)

Multiplication of claims as validating patent. See A. B. Dick Co. v. Under- wood Typewriter Co., (S. D. N. Y. 1917) 246 Fed. 309.

5. Effect of Claim (p. 170)

Limitations in claims.—Limitations in claims cannot be disregarded if they have been inserted to meet the demands of the Patent Office, or if they have been deliberately and with industry adopted, even though voluntarily. The reason is that the patent is the measure of monopoly. The public has a right to act in reliance of any clear and expressed limitations contained in the grant. Philadelphia Rubber Works Co. v. Portage Rubber Co., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 241 Fed. 108, 154 C. C. A. 108.

If the inventor has intentionally limited a claim, he is bound by that limitation, notwithstanding it was voluntarily made. Arnold-Creager Co. v. Barkwill Brick Co., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 441, 158 C. C. A. 505.

Vol. VII, p. 179, sec. 4893.

The decision of the Commissioner of Patents in the allowance and issue of a patent creates a prima facie right only. That the officials of the Patent Office are theoretical experts is undoubtedly true but it should be borne in mind that from the very nature of things they must accept the statement contained in the application as being true except in a case where such statement is contradicted. The court is not bound by the findings of the officials of the Patent Office based upon ex parte testimony. National Mach Corp. v. Ben-thall Mach. Co., (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1916) 241 Fed. 72, 154 C. C. A. 72.

Vol. VII, p. 193, sec. 4904.

Duty to declare interference.—The refusal of the Commissioner of Patents to declare an interference, where the Patent Office is informed, through the admission of an applicant, that the invention shown in his application was conceived on a date subsequent to the filing date upon an application of another person for the same invention is justified by the provisions of this section, since the duty to declare an interference imposed by this statute and by the rules of the Patent Office, cannot be deemed imperatively to arise merely because of an asserted antagonism between the applications, but there must be precedent and supervising judgment of the commissioner. Ewing v. U. S., (1917) 244 U. S. 1, 37 S. Ct. 494, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 955, reversing (1916) 45 App. Cas. (D. C.) 185.

Vol. VII, p. 231, sec. 4917.

Time of filing.—A disclaimer, filed to conform to the Supreme Court's decision, filed 107 days after said decision and after mandate, but before expiration of the time for rehearing, was timely filed. Minerals Separation v. Butte, etc., Min. Co., (D. C. Mont. 1917) 245 Fed. 577.

Effect of disclaimer on costs.—See Stetson Hospital v. Snook-Roentgen Mfg. Co., (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1917) 245 Fed. 654, 158 C. C. A. 82.

Vol. VII, p. 283, sec. 4900.

Effect of marking.—When articles are marked in compliance with this section, no other notice to an infringer is necessary to sustain suit. Munger v. Perlman Rim Corp., (S. D. N. Y. 1917) 244 Fed. 799.

Vol. VII, p. 288, sec. 4919.

II. WHO LIABLE FOR INFRINGEMENT (p. 296)

United States — Infringement by officer.—Where an officer of the United States in dealing with a subject within the scope of his authority, infringes patent rights by a taking or use of property for the benefit of the United States under circumstances not justifying the implication of a contract, the only redress of the owner is against the officer. William Cramp, etc., Ship Bldg. Co. v. International Curtis Marine Turbine Co., (1918) 246 U. S. 28, 38 S. Ct. 271, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 560, affirmed (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1917) 236 Fed. 564, 151 C. C. A. 500.

Liability on implied contract — Consent to suit.—The owner of a patent right appropriated for the benefit of the United States by an officer of the United States, acting within the scope of his authority, and having knowledge of the patent right and its validity, with the consent of the owner, express or implied, upon the conception that compensation will be thereafter provided, may, under the statute law of the United States permitting suits against the United States on contracts, express or implied, recover, by way of implied contract, the compensation which may be rightly exacted because of such taking. William Cramp, etc., Ship Bldg. Co. v. International Curtis Marine Turbine Co., (1918) 246 U. S. 28, 38 S. Ct. 271, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 560, affirmed (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1917) 238 Fed. 564, 151 C. C. A. 500.

IV. PLEADING (p. 300)

The pleadings in an action, whether in equity or at law, should be so plain, specific, definite and certain that the court may know on inspection thereof whether the suit is for infringement of letters patent, or merely to recover damages for the breach of a contract relating to such patent. Schrade v. Camillus Cutlery Co., (N. D. N. Y. 1917) 242 Fed. 523.

Alleging infringement by licensee.—In alleging infringement of a patent by a licensee (with limited rights) it is proper to allege the patent, the license, the extent and limitations of such license and the doing of acts constituting infringement, not warranted or authorized by such license, and that by doing such acts the patent is infringed. Schrade v. Camillus Cutlery Co., (N. D. N. Y. 1917) 242 Fed. 523.

Vol. VII, p. 309, sec. 4920.

I. PLEADING AND PROOF IN GENERAL (p. 310)

Defenses—Revised patent.—An infringer who entered the field when the validity and scope of the infringed patent were still unquestioned and after an extensive market for the patented article had been created, cannot escape accountability for its infringing acts subsequent to the reissue of the patent on the theory that rights had been acquired during the seven years intervening between the issue of the original patent and the application for the reissue, though by the reissue the patentee loses all in the way of an accounting under the original patent. Abercrombie, etc., Co. v. Baldwin, (1917) 245 U. S. 198, 38 S. Ct. 104, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 240.

Pleading.—See also under this title, vol. VII, p. 288, R. S. sec. 4919.

Vol. VII, p. 326, sec. 4921.

VI. Costs (p. 368)

Costs on dismissal of suit for infringement.—When discretionary with court.

See Parker v. Satebler, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 241 Fed. 589, 154 C. C. A. 365.

VII. LIMITATIONS AND LACHES (p. 370)

Financial inability to begin and prosecute for infringement will excuse delay. Munger v. Perlman Rim Corp., (S. D. N. Y. 1917) 244 Fed. 799.

Vol. VII, p. 377, sec. 4929.

Test of invention.—The test of invention in design patents is precisely like that in mechanical; the question is whether the design was beyond the powers of the ordinary designer. Steffens v. Steiner, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 232 Fed. 862, 147 C. C. A. 56; F. I. A. T. v. A. Elliott Ranney Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1918) 249 Fed. 973.

A design patent must be viewed in its entirety, its effect is optical and it can no more be tested piecemeal than can a picture. Bayley v. Standard Art Glass Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1918) 249 Fed. 478.

In the following cases design patents were considered with respect to invention and rules of decision applied. Baker, etc., Co. v. N. D. Cass Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1915) 220 Fed. 918, 136 C. C. A. 484; Denton v. Fulda, (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1915) 225 Fed. 537, 140 C. C. A. 521; Strause Gas Iron Co. v. William M. Crane Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1916) 235 Fed. 126, 148 C. C. A. 620; R. E. Dietz Co. v. Burr, etc., Co., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 243 Fed. 592, 156 C. C. A. 290.

PENAL LAWS

Vol. VII, p. 395. [Act March 4, 1909, ch. 321.]

Constitutional basis of federal penal legislation.—“An Act committed within a state, whether for a good or bad purpose, or whether with an honest or a criminal intent, cannot be made an offense against the United States, unless it has some relation to the execution of a power of Congress, or to some matter within the jurisdiction of the United States. An Act not having any such relation is one in respect to which the state can alone legislate.” U. S. v. Fox, (1878) 95 U. S. 670, 672, 24 U. S. (L. ed.) 538, per Mr. Justice Field, as quoted in U. S. v. Barrow, (1915) 239 U. S. 74, 36 S. Ct. 19, 60 U. S. (L. ed.) 155.

Vol. VII, p. 460, sec. 13.

III. INGREDIENTS OF OFFENSE

6. “Military Expedition or Enterprise” g. Number of Men Immaterial (p. 468)

“This section does not require that the expedition should have actually set out or any particular number of men, the crime being completed by the organization only. U. S. v. Ybanez, 53 Fed. 536.” U. S. v. Chakraborty, (S. D. N. Y. 1917) 244 Fed. 287.

V. PROSECUTION OF OFFENSE

2. Sufficiency of Indictment (p. 472)

“It is sufficient to charge in the indictment that the defendants, by an act the character of which is of a warlike nature, inaugurated and set on foot an enterprise for the furtherance of a military or warlike purpose against a kingdom or country with which the United States are at peace." U. S. v. Chakraborty, (S. D. N. Y. 1917) 244 Fed. 287.

Vol. VII, p. 484, sec. 19.

IV. RIGHT OR PRIVILEGE PROTECTED (p. 486)

Conspiracies against elective franchise—Bribery of voters.—A conspiracy to bribe voters at a general election within a state where presidential electors, a United States senator, and representatives in Congress are to be chosen is not an offense within this section. U. S. v. Bathgate, (1918) 246 U. S. 220, 38 S. Ct. 269, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 676, wherein the court said "While the opinion in U. S. v. Gradwell, 243 U. S. 476, 37 S. Ct. 407, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 857, [set forth in PENAL LAWS, vol. VII, p. 487] does not determine the precise question now presented, it proceeds upon reasoning which contravenes the theory urged by counsel for the government."

VII. INDICTMENT (p. 490)

Threaten or intimidate.—Allegations of "peremptorily ordering, requiring and directing" a voter are "without substance and of no legal effect." U. S. v. Wilcox, (D. C. R. I. 1917) 243 Fed. 993; U. S. v. Welch, (D. C. R. I. 1917) 243 Fed. 996, holding also that "a threat to use efforts to certain end cannot be regarded as in substance the same as a direct threat of the thing to be accomplished by such efforts," and that "if there is a conspiracy to coerce a voter the intended means should appear to have some adaptation to the end."

Vol. VII, p. 534, sec. 37.

II. CONSPIRACY TO COMMIT OFFENSE

1. In General (p. 537)

Failure to accomplish lawful purpose.—It is "settled doctrine that an unlawful conspiracy under § 37 of the Criminal Code to bring about an illegal act, and the doing of overt acts in furtherance of such conspiracy, is, in and of itself, inherently and substantively a crime, punishable as such irrespective of whether the result of the conspiracy has been to accomplish its illegal end. United States v. Rabinowich, 238 U. S. 78, 85, 86, 35 S. Ct. 682, 59 U. S. (L. ed.) 1211, 1213, 1214, 35 S. Ct. 682, and authorities there cited." Goldman v. U. S., (1918) 245 U. S. 474, 38 S. Ct. 166, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 410.

2. "Offense Against the United States" (p. 537)

Common-law offense.—It is an indictable offense at common law to counsel and solicit a person subject to registration not to register under the Selective Draft Act of May 18, 1917, § 5, in WAR DEPARTMENT AND MILITARY ESTABLISHMENT, vol. IX, p. 1159. While no statute of the United States makes such solicitation criminal, a conspiracy to commit the said common-law offense is punishable as a conspiracy to commit "any offense against the United States" under this section. U. S. v. Galleanni, (D. C. Mass. 1917) 245 Fed. 977.

7. Particular Offenses

p. Violation of Peonage Abolition Act (p. 544)

A defendant cannot be guilty of conspiracy to violate PENAL LAWS, § 269, by conspiring to return a person to a condition of peonage, if the condition contemplated was not that of "peonage" as the latter term has been authoritatively defined. Taylor v. U. S., (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1917) 244 Fed. 321, 156 C. C. A. 607.

III. CONSPIRACY TO DEFRAUD

1. Not Limited to Property Rights (p. 545)

Defrauding of a right.—Under the Selective Draft Act of May 18, 1917, § 5, in WAR DEPARTMENT AND MILITARY ESTABLISHMENT, vol. IX, p. 1159 "the United States was entitled to have persons subject to registration perform their duty and register according to law; and a conspiracy to prevent their doing so was a conspiracy to deprive the United States of a right to which it was entitled, and therefore to defraud it, within the meaning of section 37. U. S. v. Galleanni, (D. C. Mass. 1917) 245 Fed. 977.

11. Corruption of Congressional Elections (p. 548)

A conspiracy to bribe voters at a general election within a state where presidential electors and members of Congress are to be chosen is not a conspiracy to commit an offense or to defraud the United States within the meaning of this section. U. S. v. Bathgate, (1918) 246 U. S. 220, 38 S. Ct. 269, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 676, following U. S. v. Gradwell, (1917) 243 U. S. 476, 37 S. Ct. 407, 61 U. S. (L. ed.) 857.

VIII. INDICTMENT

4. For Conspiracy to Commit Offense

a. Sufficiency in General (p. 566)

In U. S. v. Pierce, (N. D. N. Y. 1917) 245 Fed. 878, the indictment there quoted in part was held sufficient to charge a conspiracy to violate the so-called Espionage Act of June 15, 1917, ch. 30, § 3, in CRIMINAL LAW, ante, this volume, p. 122.

c. Description of Offense Contemplated (p. 567)

"It is not essential to set forth the offense which is the object of the conspiracy with the same certainty and strictness as in an indictment for the substantive offense." U. S. v. D'Arcy, (D. C. R. I. 1916) 243 Fed. 739, also holding that "an indictment charging conspiracy to commit an offense need not negative exceptions found in the statute which defines the offense that is the object of the conspiracy."

j. Scheme to Defraud by Use of Mails (p. 569)

Where an indictment charged "that the defendants . . . unlawfully, etc., conspired, etc., together . . . for the purpose of executing the said scheme and artifice to defraud . . . and attempting to do so, to place and cause to be placed letters in the post office," this was a sufficient averment of a conspiracy to use the mails in execution of the alleged scheme to defraud. Preeman v. U. S., (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1917) 244 Fed. 1, 156 C. C. A. 429, citing Stokes v. U. S., (1895) 157 U. S. 187, 15 S. Ct. 617, 39 U. S. (L. ed.) 667, and Emanuel v. U. S., (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1912) 196 Fed. 317, 116 C. C. A. 137.

u. To Violate Harrison Opium Act (p. 578)

An indictment charging conspiracy to obtain certain drugs for purposes other than those specified in the Harrison Opium Act of Dec. 17, 1914, vol. IV, p. 177, need not set forth specifically what was the wrongful object or purpose. U. S. v. D'Arcy, (D. C. R. I. 1916) 243 Fed. 739, where the court also said: "While the particular paragraphs which set forth the overt acts contain no allegation of place, I am of the opinion that upon reading the indictment as a whole it sufficiently fixes the locus of the overt acts."

In Thurston v. U. S., (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1917) 241 Fed. 335, 154 C. C. A. 215, the allegations there recited in substance were held sufficient to put the defendants on trial on the charge of conspiracy to violate the Harrison Narcotic Law of Dec. 17, 1914, vol. IV, p. 177.

5. For Conspiracy to Defraud

a. Certainty and Particularity (p. 578)

Tenor of written instrument.—In an indictment for conspiracy to prevent persons from registering under the Selective Draft Act of May 18, 1917, § 5, in WAR DEPARTMENT AND MILITARY ESTABLISHMENT, vol. IX, p. 1159, the failure to incorporate into the indictment an exact copy of the statement, the publication of which was alleged as an overt act done in pursuance of the conspiracy, the indictment containing a translation of such statement, was not a good ground of demurrer. U. S. v. Galleanni, (D. C. Mass. 1917) 245 Fed. 977.

IX. EVIDENCE

3. Knowledge, Motive, or Intent

a. In General (p. 593)

Intent to use the mails, in violation of PENAL LAWS, § 215, vol. VII, p. 812, is sufficiently shown by evidence that in the execution of the conspiracy the use of the mails was indispensable. Preeman v. U. S., (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1917) 244 Fed. 1, 156 C. C. A. 429.

X. TRIAL, ACQUITTAL OR CONVICTION, AND PUNISHMENT

4. Verdict (p. 601)

In a prosecution for violation of PENAL LAWS, vol. VII, p. 812, § 215, on an indictment also containing counts for conspiracy to violate that section, where the conspiracy counts set forth as overt acts the mailing of letters, some of which appeared in the counts under said section 215, yet each of the conspiracy counts set forth as overt acts the mailing of letters not set out in the counts under section 215, as the letters mailed in execution of the scheme, conviction on all the counts did not constitute a double conviction. Preeman v. U. S., (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1917) 244 Fed. 1, 156 C. C. A. 429, distinguishing the "doubts expressed by Judge Denison in the recent case of Hendrey v. U. S., 233 Fed. 5, 147 C. C. A. 75."

Vol. VII, p. 747, sec. 190.

Severity of sentence.—Conviction for stealing a money order stamp could not be reversed because of a sentence seemingly over severe, but not excessive in a legal sense nor an abuse of discretion, even though the court may have taken into consideration the fact that the evidence showed the defendant to have been guilty of subornation of perjury in the case. Peterson v. U. S., (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 118, 158 C. C. A. 344.

Vol. VII, p. 754, sec. 194.

I. CONSTRUCTION AND APPLICATION

2. Definitions (p. 756)

Authorized depository for mail matter.

—Boxes placed by tenants for the receipt of mail in the halls of buildings in which they have their places of business must be deemed to be authorized depositories for mail matter within the meaning of this section, in view of a regulation promulgated as an order of the Post Office Department prior to the date of an alleged offense constituting "any letter box or other receptacle," etc., "a letter box for the receipt or delivery of mail matter within the meaning of" this Act. Rosen v. U. S., (1918) 245 U. S. 467, 38 S. Ct. 148, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 406.

3. Period of Federal Protection for Mail Matter (p. 757)

Mail deposited in privately owned box.

—The protection afforded by this section to mail matter deposited in an "authorized depository" does not cease with such deposit in a privately owned mail box constituted an "authorized depository" by a valid postal regulation, but continues so long as the letter remains in the box. Rosen v. U. S., (1918) 245 U. S. 467, 38 S. Ct. 148, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 406.

Vol. VII, p. 788, sec. 211.

II. MAILING OBSCENE MATTER

2. Test of Obscenity (p. 791)

"It is not enough that the letter or publication merely relate to sexual matters and illicit sexual relations, but it must be clothed in language and contain expressions which, with reasonable persons, tend to excite the sexual desires or passions or corrupt the morals of the reader in that direction." U. S. v. Davidson, (N. D. N. Y. 1917) 244 Fed. 523, holding that language in a letter charging a woman with being a prostitute, and surrounded by prostitutes and bastards, did not have such tendency.

III. LETTERS (p. 794)

"Filthy," etc.—"The cases have been substantially uniform (I am not informed of any exception) in holding that a 'filthy' writing or letter, as described in the statute, must be 'filthy' in its relation to or reference to the sexual relations or desires. There are many filthy writings which have no reference to that subject, and I find no case which brings such writings or communications within the statute. . . . I am not content with the restricted construction placed by the courts on the language of section 211 of the Criminal Code, where it adds to the words 'every obscene, lewd, or lascivious,' the words 'and every filthy . . . letter, writing . . . of an indecent character,' as it seems to me it was not the purpose of Congress to restrict nonmailable letters to written or printed matter which relates to sexual acts and conduct and matters which will excite or tend to excite libidinous thoughts and sexual desires or debase and degrade the mind and morals of the reader in the direction indicated. . . . I think the language 'filthy . . . letter . . . of an indecent character' brings within the statute a communication sent to another through the mails which would not be covered by the preceding words obscene, lewd, and lascivious if it be a filthy letter of an indecent character, even though it is not of a character which would promote or excite sexual desires and emotions." U. S. v. Davidson, (N. D. N. Y. 1917) 244 Fed. 523.

V. INDICTMENT (p. 795)

Joinder of counts.—A count charging a violation of this section by mailing a "filthy" letter was properly joined with a count charging violation of Penal Laws, § 212, by mailing a letter having "indecent" and "defamatory" terms on the envelope, where the acts of defendant were directed against one and the same person, were of the same general nature, and were clearly closely connected in point of time. U. S. v. Davidson, (N. D. N. Y. 1917) 244 Fed. 523.

Vol. VII, p. 803, sec. 212.

"Defamatory" language.—Placing on an envelope an abbreviation following the female addressee's name known to the writer and to the recipient of the enclosed letter, as disclosed by the contents of such letter to the recipient thereof and to no one else, to charge immorality, etc., but which abbreviation to all others would have only an innocent signification, is not a violation of this section. U. S. v. Davidson, (N. D. N. Y. 1917) 244 Fed. 523, thus holding as to word "Pros." alleged to be an abbreviation of "prostitute"; since "of itself, 'Pros.' does not suggest, even remotely, anything either indecent, lewd, lascivious, obscene, libelous, scurrilous, or of a defamatory character."

I. CONSTITUTIONALITY (p. 814)

Religious freedom secured by the Constitution is not infringed by this statutory provision so far as it undertakes to punish a person for pretending to entertain certain views, alleged by him to be of a religious character, for the false and fraudulent purpose of procuring money or other things of value from third parties by the use of the post office establishment, where the defendant's good faith is the cardinal question in determining his guilt. New v. U. S., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 245 Fed. 710, 158 C. C. A. 112.

III. ESSENTIALS

1. In General (p. 815)

Limitations.—If the scheme or artifice was devised more than three years prior to the return of the indictment, but was in existence and the defendant was operating under it within three years, the case would be without the statute of limitations and might be prosecuted. Bowers v. U. S., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 244 Fed. 641, 157 C. C. A. 89.

3. Scheme or Artifice to Defraud

a. What Constitutes (p. 816)

In New v. U. S., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 245 Fed. 710, 158 C. C. A. 112, the court affirmed a conviction of the defendant for using the mails to obtain money, etc., by falsely pretending to be one who had attained the supernatural state of self-immortality in the body by abstinence from divers evil practices, thus enabling him to conquer disease, death, poverty, and misery, and that this power could be transmitted by him to others who were willing to accept his teachings and pay therefor the sums demanded by him.

Frauds perpetrated upon particular investors in order to prop up a failing enterprise not fraudulent in itself are not the class of frauds denounced by this section. There is a "real and vital difference between business projects which end and result in loss and disaster to the investors, and schemes which were intended to defraud their victims." U. S. v. Bachman, (E. D. Pa. 1917) 246 Fed. 1009, denying a motion in arrest and for a new trial after verdict of conviction.

"Defraud."—It is not necessary to criminality under this section that nothing whatever is to be given in return for the money. Freeman v. U. S., (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1917) 244 Fed. 1, 156 C. C. A. 429.

4. Use of Mails (p. 825)

In general.—"Under section 215 it is not essential that the use of the mails be contemplated by the fraudulent scheme. It may have been carefully designed to avoid using the mails altogether, but if in the execution of the scheme the mails are in fact used, the Act is violated. Farmer v. U. S. 223 Fed. 903, 139 C. C. A. 341." Freeman v. U. S. (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1917) 244 Fed. 1, 156 C. C. A. 429.

Mailing by agent.—Where drafts and checks received from victims of a fraudulent scheme by those actively engaged in it were turned over to the defendant who rendered guilty assistance by turning them over to a local bank for collection, he thereby made the bank his innocent agent and knowledge was legally imputable to him of the custom of banks to forward such paper for collection by mail, so that when the bank deposited the letters of transmittal in the mails, he, in contemplation of law, caused it to do so. Spear v. U. S., (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 250, 158 C. C. A. 410.

Letters to victims after receipt of money.—"The scheme alleged, being one for obtaining money through the fraudulent representations and practices set forth, the use of the mails, even after the money is received, for the purpose of assisting in retaining the money, or to convey to the victim assurances calculated to lull him into inaction and to postpone, perhaps indefinitely, his taking action in respect to his loss, is within the purview of the law, which condemns depositing in or taking from the mails any letters, etc., for the purpose of executing any scheme to defraud." Freeman v. U. S., (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1917) 244 Fed. 1, 156 C. C. A. 429.

IV. PROCEDURE

2. Indictment

a. In General (p. 828)

In New v. U. S., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 245 Fed. 710, 158 C. C. A. 112, affirming a conviction for violation of this section, the court said: "It [the indictment] alleges various pretensions and promises of the defendant, New, which are alleged to have been false and fraudulent, and to have been made for the purpose of obtaining money and other things of value from others, and it alleges that in pursuance of that fraudulent scheme he deposited in the post office certain letters, one of which was set out in each count of the indictment. Those alleged facts are essential elements of the offense denounced by the statute upon which the indictment was based, but all that are essential."

In Riddell v. U. S., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 244 Fed. 695, 157 C. C. A. 143, the indictment there set forth in substance and charging a scheme and artifice to use the mail for the purpose of selling certain ten acre tracts of worthless land represented to be of high grade and quality, was held sufficient to charge a violation of this statute.

b. Scheme to Defraud (p. 828)

Degree of particularity.—"The gist of the offense is the improper use of the mails. While the fraudulent design is essential, it is merely an element of the crime. As where an indictment charges burglary to commit theft, the theft is not described with the same particularity as if theft were the offense, so, in charging the use of the mails to defraud, the fraud need not be stated with the technical details required when swindling, or a like crime, is the subject of the indictment. . . . There is no rule that the description of a fraudulent scheme should mention all the ancillary devices." Whitehead v. U. S., (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1917) 245 Fed. 385, 157 C. C. A. 547.

In an indictment containing counts for conspiracy under PENAL LAWS, § 37, vol. VII, p. 534, to violate this section 215, and counts for a violation of this section 215, "it is necessary only to set forth generally the scheme or artifice which the defendants devised, and to charge the use of the mails in execution of the scheme. . . . And the scheme itself is not required to be charged with the detail and particularity necessary in an indictment for the specific offense of obtaining property through false representations." Preman v. U. S., (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1917) 244 Fed. 1, 156 C. C. A. 429.

In an indictment for using the mails in execution of a scheme to defraud creditors of bankrupts by using the mails, if defendants fraudulently devised a scheme to falsely represent their commercial collection "agency" as having done things which it had not, or as having information concerning, or taken steps affecting certain bankrupt debtors, which it had not, the fraudulent scheme was the same whether the alleged "agency" was a corporation, partnership, or what not, and it was not necessary to allege its capacity as a business entity. Preman v. U. S., (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1917) 244 Fed. 1, 156 C. C. A. 429.

Where the first count set out the fraudulent scheme in detail it was sufficient for the following counts to refer to and make the first count a part thereof without repeating the details. Riddell v. U. S., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 244 Fed. 695, 157 C. C. A. 143.

c. Use of Mails (p. 833)

Mailing of letters, etc.—Where the indictment charged that the letters therein set out were mailed "for the purpose of executing the said scheme and artifice to defraud, and for the purpose of attempting so to do," and the letters themselves did not indicate that they could not and did not have such tendency, but, on the contrary, carry the inference that they could and did, there was no merit in the contention that it was not sufficiently alleged that they were mailed for the purpose of executing the scheme. Preman v. U. S., (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1917) 244 Fed. 1, 156 C. C. A. 429.

4. Trial

b. Evidence and Instructions (p. 838)

Evidence.—The only essential elements being the fraudulent scheme and the use of the mails in its execution, the extent of success of the scheme as charged is in no manner necessary to be shown. Preman v. U. S., (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1917) 244 Fed. 1, 156 C. C. A. 429.

If prior to and at the time a letter set forth as an overt act was mailed by the defendant the alleged fraudulent scheme had been devised, and the defendant intentionally and for the purpose of carrying out the scheme wrote the letter described and mailed it within three years prior to the filing of the indictment, it was not necessary that the letter should on its face show that it was in furtherance of the scheme to defraud in order to render it admissible. Bowers v. U. S., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 244 Fed. 641, 157 C. C. A. 89.

Evidence to prove intent.—On the trial of an indictment for using the mails to solicit from physicians, surgeons, and dentists accounts for collection upon commission, with the purpose of converting to notes to sec. 218 supra, this page. verisement published by the defendant while he was carrying on such business of collecting offering to sell a half interest in "an exclusive business now paying more than $250 per month" was admissible as tending to show representations which could be made good only by appropriating collections. Clark v. U. S., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 245 Fed. 112, 157 C. C. A. 408.

As the fraudulent intent is one of the material allegations in the indictment, evidence of other and similar ventures by the accused is properly admissible as bearing on the question of intent. Riddell v. U. S., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 244 Fed. 695, 157 C. C. A. 143.

Documentary evidence.—Letters set forth in the indictment as having been mailed in execution of the scheme to defraud need not be to or from the intended victim of the fraud in order to be admissible. The execution of the scheme may be most effectually furthered, and the purpose of its execution or attempted execution most directly served, through communications by mail between the persons who concocted or entered into it. Freeman v. U. S., (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1917) 244 Fed. 1, 156 C. C. A. 429.

"That the letters alleged in the indictment to have been deposited in the mails in pursuance of the alleged scheme were admissible in evidence, of course goes without saying." New v. U. S., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 245 Fed. 710, 158 C. C. A. 112.

Sufficiency of evidence.—In Sprinkle v. U. S., (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1917) 244 Fed. 111, 156 C. C. A. 539, the evidence was held sufficient to sustain a conviction for violation of this section by using the mails to obtain purchasers of pianos at a "sale price" fraudulently designed to look like a "marked down" price.

In Bowers v. U. S., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 244 Fed. 641, 157 C. C. A. 89, the evidence there recited was held to be clearly sufficient for submission to the jury under appropriate instructions, and a conviction of using the mails in execution of a scheme to defraud by the sale of land.

Instructions.—Where the court instructs on a particular subject and the defendant desires more specific instructions thereon he should take exception to the charge, bringing to the court's notice the ground of exception. Riddell v. U. S., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 244 Fed. 695, 157 C. C. A. 143.

Vol. VII, p. 847, sec. 218.

Conviction for aiding and abetting under indictment as principal.—One who knowingly aided or assisted another to alter a money order, though the change was not made by him, may be held guilty under an indictment charging him as a principal, under PENAL LAWS, sec. 332, vol. VII, p. 984. Dean v. U. S., (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 568, 158 C. C. A. 538.

Evidence was held sufficient to sustain a conviction under this section for having altered a postal money order in Dean v. U. S., (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 568, 158 C. C. A. 538, where the evidence is recapitulated.

Vol. VII, p. 886, sec. 269.

Peonage defined.—"In the case of Clyatt v. U. S., [197 U. S. 207, 25 S. Ct. 429, 49 U. S. (L. ed.) 726] the supreme court affords us a clear definition of the term." Taylor v. U. S., (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1917) 244 Fed. 321, 156 C. C. A. 607, holding that under the circumstances of the case, the defendant was not guilty of violating this section, and that a person cannot be deemed guilty of peonage where he has held another in involuntary servitude for the purpose of having him comply with an agreement to work for a certain term.

"Returns . . . to a condition of peonage."—A defendant cannot be convicted of returning another to a condition of peonage where the latter had never been in that condition. Taylor v. U. S., (C. C. A. 4th Cir. 1917) 244 Fed. 321, 156 C. C. A. 607.

Fish in a pound.—A conviction for larceny of fish from a pound on the high seas off the New Jersey coast by taking the fish with hook and line from a boat moored to the pound, was affirmed in Miller v. U. S., (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 907, 155 C. C. A. 495, L. R. A. 1918A 545.

POSTAL SERVICE

II. BREACH OF BOND

2. Registered Letter or Parcel (p. 40)

To the same effect as the original note see U. S. Fidelity, etc., Co. v. U. S., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 433, 158 C. C. A. 497.

Vol. VIII, p. 205. [Readjustment of rates for transportation of mail.]

Purpose of Act.—This Act of March 2, 1907, was designed to make a reduction in the compensation then being paid to railroads, and a railroad has an option of declining the readjusted terms and refusing to further transport the mails, but a protest on the part of the railroad will not have the effect of restoring the old rates or reserving to it compensation at such rates. Delaware, etc., R. Co. v. U. S., (1916) 51 Ct. Cl. 426.

Vol. VIII, p. 212. [Compensation for increased weight of mails caused by parcel post.]

Construction.—By the paragraph the Postmaster General was "authorized" to add to the compensation paid for transportation on railroad routes "not exceeding five per centum per annum," on account of the increased weight of mails resulting from the inauguration of the parcel post system. In determining the additional compensation to be paid, certain railroads were allowed five per centum, others less than five per centum, and to some no additional compensation was made. Congress, by the use of the words "authorized to add to the compensation," prescribed a duty for the Postmaster General and did not lodge such discretion in him as to permit the increase to be made in whole or in part or denied, as he should determine. The words "not exceeding five per centum" used in the Act meant that there should be added to the stated and fixed compensation five per centum and not exceeding five per centum and there is nothing in the Act upon which a discretion to pay a lesser sum was to operate. The Postmaster General did not act judicially in the premises and his action is not conclusive when brought in question in this court. Atchison, etc., Ry. Co. v. U. S., (1917) 52 Ct. Cl. 338.

PRISONS AND PRISONERS

Vol. VIII, p. 298, sec. 2.

Conclusiveness of board's opinion.—It must appear to the board by showing in the manner prescribed that there is reasonable probability that the applicant for a parole will abide by the law; and if in the belief or judgment of the board his release is not incompatible with the welfare of society, the board may, in its discretion, authorize parole. The opinion called for is that of the board, and the power to authorize release is vested exclusively in the board to be exercised as it may, in its wisdom, see fit. Redman v. Duehay, (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 283, 159 C. C. A. 13.

PUBLIC CONTRACTS

Nature of statute.—To the same effect as the original note see Occidental Const. Co. v. U. S., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 245 Fed. 817, 158 C. C. A. 157.

Implied contract.—The United States Government is not liable for damages to property unlawfully taken into the possession of the employees. Occidental Const. Co. v. U. S., (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1917) 245 Fed. 817, 158 C. C. A. 157, wherein the court said: "There is a good reason why the government should pay for that which it actually receives and of which it retains the benefit through the unauthorized act of its employes. But if it is to be held that the government is bound to all the incidents of an implied contract in every case where the oral agreement of its employes has been actually performed, what becomes of the protection intended to be afforded by section 3744?"

Vol. VIII, p. 374. [Act of Aug. 13, 1894.]

I. CONSTRUCTION

4. Labor and Materials Included (p. 379)

Groceries and provisions furnished a contractor for a public work for use in a boarding house which, on account of the absence of other accommodations, it was obliged to maintain for its laborers, are materials used in the prosecution of the work, within the meaning of this Act as amended, and of the bond given in pursuance of its requirements, though they would not have been such had the boarding house been conducted by the contractor as an independent enterprise undertaken solely for the sake of profit. Brogan v. National Surety Co., (1918) 246 U. S. 257, 38 S. Ct. 250, 62 U. S. (L. ed. 703.

V. JURISDICTION (p. 383)

Federal courts.—Federal courts have jurisdiction of actions under this Act. Equitable Surety Co. v. Illinois Surety Co., (S. C. 1918) 94 S. E. 882.

VI. ACTION ON BOND (p. 384)

Limitation of action.—Prohibition or other extraordinary legal remedy to prevent further proceedings in an action on the bond of a public contractor, brought under this Act as amended, will not be granted by the federal Supreme Court on the ground that the rights of some of the claimants were asserted after the one-year period of limitation which the statute fixes. Ex p. Southwestern Surety Ins. Co., (1917) 247 U. S. 19, 38 S. Ct. 430, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 961.

Contract authorizing Secretary to waive damages.—In McIntyre v. U. S., (1917) 52 Ct. Cl. 503, a contract was construed which was made prior to this Act and authorized the Secretary of the Treasury in his discretion to remit the whole or any part of liquidated damages.

PUBLIC LANDS

Vol. VIII, p. 527, sec. 1.

In a suit to recover purchase money it was held that an odd-numbered section embraced in the grant of public lands to a railroad pre-empted by an entryman subsequent to the filing of the railroad's map of general route, but prior to its map of definite location, was open to pre-emption entry under the Public Land Laws. Laughlin v. U. S., (1917) 52 Ct. Cl. 292.

Vol. VIII, p. 528, sec. 2. [Act of March 26, 1908.]

An action for repayment of excess was sustained by the Court of Claims in Magginnis v. U. S., (1917) 52 Ct. Cl. 271.

Vol. VIII, p. 543, sec. 2289.

V. RIGHTS OF ENTRYMAN (p. 551)

Forcible entry.—This statute does not deprive a party in peaceful possession of the right to maintain an action of forcible entry and detainer under a state statute against one who, by force or stealth obtains possession in order to initiate a homestead claim. Denece v. Aukeny, (1918) 246 U. S. 208, 38 S. Ct. 226, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 669, affirming (1915) 85 Wash. 322, 148 Pac. 15.

Vol. VIII, p. 629, sec. 2363.

The statute of limitations of six years, even though not pleaded, bars suit under this section in the Court of Claims to recover purchase money. Quinn v. U. S., (1917) 52 Ct. Cl. 496.

Vol. VIII, p. 654, sec. 2.

Rights conferred and vested by the Right-of-Way Act of Dec. 15, 1870, ch. 2, 16 Stat. L. 395, were not disturbed by this section. Salt Lake Invest. Co. v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., (1918) 246 U. S. 446, 38 S. Ct. 348, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 823, affirming (1915) 46 Utah 203, 148 Pac. 439.

Vol. VIII, p. 692, sec. 1.

Agreement to convey after vesting of title is in violation of the decisions of the Land Department, against public policy, and gives no right of action for breach. Eymann v. Wright, (Cal. 1917) 169 Pac. 1037.

Decision by Secretary of Interior as to character of land cannot be collaterally attacked. State v. New, (1917) 280 Ill. 393, 117 N. E. 597.

Vol. VIII, p. 747, sec. 5.

Determination by Land Department.—If the Secretary of the Interior has made a mistake in overruling the contention by a state that the title to certain land passed to it under the Act of Aug. 3, 1892, ch. 362, 27 Stat. L. 347, and in deciding that a superior title was acquired by a corporation found to be a bona fide purchaser, the error cannot be redressed by a suit by the state to quiet title and to enjoin the issuance of patents to such corporation, where such decision was not arbitrary and was made upon full hearing. "The remedy must be sought in the courts after the issuance of patent." Minnesota v. Lane, (1918) 247 U. S. 243, 38 S. Ct. 508, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 1098.

Bona fide purchasers.—In Krueger v. U. S., (1918) 246 U. S. 69, 38 S. Ct. 262, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 582, affirming (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1915) 228 Fed. 97, 142 C. C. A. 503, a suit by the government to cancel a land patent, it was held, on the evidence, that the defendant had not sustained the burden of showing she was a bona fide purchaser, but that under the circumstances she had constructive notice of fraud.

Vol. VIII, p. 759, sec. 1.

"The proviso must be given the effect of a curative measure confined to lands theretofore patented, and not granting dispensation for frauds or mistakes thereafter occurring." U. S. v. St. Paul, etc., R. Co., (1918) 247 U. S. 310, 38 S. Ct. 525, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 1130, reversing (C. C. A. 9th Cir. 1915) 225 Fed. 27, 139 C. C. A. 301, and holding the proviso was not a bar to a suit by the government to annul a patent applied for and issued long after its enactment.

Vol. VIII, p. 785, sec. 2477.

Acceptance.—Under the Colorado statute, the public lands were subject to the rights of an entryman until the board of county commissioners declared the section and township lines on the public domain public highways. Korf v. Itten, (Colo. 1917) 169 Pac. 148.

A railroad indemnity grant is subject to the requirement of this section. U. S. v. Lane, (1917) 46 App. Cas. (D. C.) 74.

Vol. VIII, p. 810, sec. 2.

Purpose and effect.—This Act "neither enlarges the Act of 1891 in such manner as to supersede the Act of 1896, nor reinstates sections 2339 and 2340 of the Revised Statutes in so far as those sections have been affected by the Act of 1896." Utah Power, etc., Co. v. U. S., (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1915) 230 Fed. 328, 144 C. C. A. 470.

Vol. VIII, p. 816, sec. 1. [Act Feb. 25, 1885.]

Color of title.—The clause at the close of this section prohibits "merely the assertion of an exclusive right to use or occupation by force or intimidation or by what would be equivalent in effect to an inclosure." Omaechevarria v. Idaho, (1918) 246 U. S. 343, 38 S. Ct. 323, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 763.

Under Rem. & Bal. (Wash.) Code, § 811, an action of forcible entry and detainer will lie against one who, to initiate a homestead claim, forcibly enters upon land, which was surrounded by a fence, where the occupant was holding it under claim of right and color of title, and he and his predecessor had so held it for more than twenty years. Denee v. Ankeny, (1918) 246 U. S. 208, 38 S. Ct. 226, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 669, affirming (1916) 91 Wash. 693, 157 Pac. 1199.

A state statute prohibiting any person having charge of sheep from allowing them to graze on the federal public domain previously occupied by cattle was valid and not in conflict with this Act. Omaechevarria v. Idaho, (1918) 246 U. S. 343, 38 S. Ct. 323, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 763, affirming (1915) 27 Idaho 797, 152 Pac. 280, which was a conviction in a prosecution under the state statute.

Vol. VIII, p. 869, sec. 8.

Scope of statute.—The correction of a mistake is not an attempt to vacate or annul the patent. Wilson v. U. S., (1917) 245 U. S. 24, 38 S. Ct. 21, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 128, affirming (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1915) 227 Fed. 827, 142 C. C. A. 351, and holding that the statute did not apply to an action by the government to quiet its title to land erroneously excluded from a patent under the mistaken assumption that a lake existed within meandered lines run in making the survey.

Effect of fraud on running of bar.—Where fraud is concealed by the wrongdoers the statute does not begin to run until discovery of the fraud. Exploration Co. v. U. S., (1918) 247 U. S. 435 38 S. Ct. 571, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 1200, (following Bailey v. Glover, (1875) 21 Wall. 342, 22 U. S. (L. ed.) 636, and overruling dictum in U. S. v. Winona, etc., R. Co., (1897) 165 U. S. 463, 17 S. Ct. 368, 41 U. S. (L. ed.) 789); U. S. v. Booth-Kelly Lumber Co., (D. C. Ore. 1917) 246 Fed. 970.

Recovery for fraud.—The government is not barred by this section of the right to recover the value of lands to which a patent has been fraudulently obtained by the defendant. U. S. v. Whited (1918) 246 U. S. 552, 38 S. Ct. 367, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 879, reversing (C. C. A. 5th Cir. 1916) 232 Fed. 139, 146 C. C. A. 331.

PUBLIC OFFICERS AND EMPLOYEES

Vol. VIII, p. 951, sec. 2.

Presumption as to legal appointment.—Where the compensation of an officer is fixed by statute it may not be diminished by regulation of a department or order of the president unless empowered thereto by Congress, but where appointment to two certain offices is claimed and to so hold would involve a construction that the appointment was invalid under the Act of July 31, 1894, 28 Stats. 205, the court must adopt the view that a legal appointment was contemplated, and hence that the claimant was not appointed to two offices. McMath v. U. S., (1916) 51 Ct. Cl. 356.

I. INTRODUCTORY

3. "Common Carrier by Railroad"

a. In General (p. 1215)

Joinder of carrier and employee as defendants.—An employee of a railway company engaged in interstate commerce cannot maintain a joint action against the company and its engineer under this Act, where concurring negligence of both defendants is alleged and also a violation of the federal Safety Appliance Act. Lee v. Central of Georgia R. Co., (1917) 147 Ga. App. 428, 94 S. E. 558.

4. Paramount to State Laws

d. State Workmen's Compensation Acts (p. 1220)

Election of Remedies.—A judgment against plaintiff in a suit brought on the federal Employers' Liability Act, on the ground that the party injured was not employed in interstate commerce at the time of the injury, is no bar to proceeding under the state Workmen's Compensation Act. Jackson v. Industrial Board, (1917) 280 Ill. 526, 117 N. E. 705, holding that such judgment, though rendered on defendant's demurrer, concluded the defendant as to the question of the character of plaintiff's employment involved in the judgment.

Where carrier not negligent.—An employee of a railroad common carrier injured while engaged in interstate commerce, though without any negligence on the part of the carrier, cannot recover under a state Workmen's Compensation Act. Walker v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., (Ind. App. 1917) 117 N. E. 969.

Where the federal Employers' Liability Act affords a remedy to an injured employee, he cannot recover under the state Workmen's Compensation Act. Dickinson v. Industrial Board, (1917) 280 Ill. 342, 117 N. E. 438.

II. EMPLOYER ENGAGED IN INTERSTATE COMMERCE

2. Railroad Wholly in One State

c. Electric Street Railroad (p. 1226)

An interurban electric railway operated entirely within the state may be engaged in interstate commerce. Cholerton v. Detroit etc., Ry., (Mich. 1917) 165 N. W. 606.

III. EMPLOYEE ENGAGED IN INTERSTATE COMMERCE

2. Employed in Interstate Commerce

a. General Rule and Tests (p. 1236)

"It is the employment that determines whether or not the injury to the employee is within the purview of that Act, and not the act of the employee just at the time of his injury." Jackson v. Industrial Board, (1917) 280 Ill. 526, 117 N. E. 705.

Service "preliminary to the erection of a structure which might eventually form a part of a roadbed used in interstate commerce" "had no connection, even remote, with transportation." Dickinson v. Industrial Board, (1917) 280 Ill. 342, 117 N. E. 438.

d. Employee Engaged in Construction or Repairs (p. 1254)

Employee within the statute—Miscellaneous construction or repair.—A member of a bonding crew who was injured while they were preparing to resume the work of bonding the rails of the track of an electric railway company which operated wholly within the state, but transported shipments in interstate commerce, was an employee within this Act. Chol- erton v. Detroit, etc., R. Co., (Mich. 1917) 165 N. W. 606.

IV. INJURIES TO EMPLOYEES

1. Negligence Generally

a. Basis of Liability (p. 1277)

Negligence is essential to recovery and the plaintiff must prove it even where the local state statute provides that in actions against railroads for damages proof of injury inflicted by an engine propelled by steam shall be prima facie evidence of negligence. New Orleans, etc., R. Co. v. Harris, (1918) 247 U. S. 367, 38 S. Ct. 535, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 1167, reversing (Miss. 1916) 71 So. 913 mem.

b. Relation of Negligence to Injury (p. 1278)

Negligence must have been proximate cause.—The death of a brakeman in a rear-end collision cannot be said not to "result in part from the negligence of any of the employees" of the railway company, within the meaning of this section, where, but for the negligence of such employees, neither train would have been at the point of collision at the time it occurred, even though the decedent would not have been killed had he done his duty and gone back to warn the following train instead of remaining in the caboose, as he did. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Hadley, (1918) 246 U. S. 330, 38 S. Ct. 318, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 751, affirming (1916) 99 Neb. 349, 156 N. W. 765.

d. Defects in Cars, Engines, Appliances, Etc.

(5) Particular Acts or Conditions as Negligence (p. 1282)

Defective ties, etc.—The failure of a railroad company to discover the condition of a tie, a piece of which, being rotten, splintered off under the weight of an employee who stepped upon it, causing him to stumble and fall, and its failure to ballast to the top of the tie, neither of which defects was of a character to impair safety in operation, will not render it liable under this Act for injuries sustained by such employee, who knew that there were always some ties on the line which were partly decayed, and that the ballast was occasionally below the top of the ties. Nelson v. Southern R. Co., (1918) 246 U. S. 253, 38 S. Ct. 233, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 690, affirming (1915) 170 N. C. 170, 86 S. E. 1036.

2. Persons Entitled to Sue

a. Parents (p. 1291)

Pecuniary loss to a mother will not support recovery by her where the son left a widow and although they had lived apart, no claim was made that rights and liabilities consequent upon marriage had disappeared under the local law. New Orleans, etc., R. Co. v. Harris, (1918) 247 U. S. 367, 38 S. Ct. 535, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 1167, reversing (Miss. 1916) 71 So. 913 mem.

4. Practice and Procedure

a. In General (p. 1306)

"Ordinary incidents of state procedure" are not excluded by this Act. Dickinson v. Stiles, (1918) 246 U. S. 631, 38 S. Ct. 415, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 908, affirming (1917) 137 Minn. 410, 163 N. W. 791, and holding that a Minnesota statute giving an attorney a lien for his fees upon his client's cause of action which is not defeated by the latter's settlement of the case, may be applied to a cause of action arising under this Act.

6. Damages

a. Recovery by Employee (p. 1322)

Damages for pain and suffering are recoverable by the employee. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Tomlinson, (Ga. App. 1918) 94 S. E. 909.

Suffering in mind and body.—"No direct evidence of pain of mind was offered, but mental anguish is presumed to follow physical pain and injury such as plaintiff sustained." Panhandle, etc., R. Co. v. Brooks, (Tex. Civ. App. 1917) 199 S. W. 665, affirming judgment for plaintiff.

b. Actions for Death

(1) In General (p. 1323)

Excessiveness of verdict generally.—The court may require a remittitur from a verdict if it thinks the verdict excessive. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Hadley, (1918) 246 U. S. 330, 38 S. Ct. 318, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 751, affirming (1916) 99 Neb. 349, 156 N. W. 765.

(2) Pecuniary Loss (p. 1325)

Where the deceased endured no conscious suffering, possible recovery is limited to pecuniary loss sustained by the designated beneficiary. New Orleans, etc., R. Co. v. Harris, (1918) 247 U. S. 367, 38 S. Ct. 535, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 1167, reversing (Miss. 1916) 71 So. 913 mem.

c. Recovery by Widow and Children

(2) Actions by Widow (p. 1330)

Measure of damages generally.—An instruction, in substance, that the damages should be equivalent to compensation for the deprivation of the reasonable expectation of pecuniary benefits that would have resulted from the continued life of the deceased, was correct. Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Holloway, (1918) 246 U. S. 525, 36 S. Ct. 379, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 867, affirming (1916) 168 Ky. 262, 181 S. W. 1126.

7. Question for Court and Jury (p. 1334)

Negligence of carrier.—The question of negligence on the part of the carrier is one for the jury to determine. "Was the deceased carrier under such bridge without notice or knowledge of its latent dangers?" Marland v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 91, 158 C. C. A. 317.

Defect in appliances.—Evidence tending to show that while the engineer of a backing switch engine which ran down another employee who was walking between the rails in a cloud of steam and smoke did not see the man struck, he was notified almost instantly by a call to stop from the one witness who saw the accident, and that, if the power brake had been working, the engineer could have stopped his engine almost immediately, but that in fact it ran for approximately 135 feet after striking the deceased, dragging and crushing his body between the frozen ballast of the track, the low hanging attachments of the tender, and the rods of the driving wheel brakes, with which the body was found so entangled as to require forty-five minutes to release it, is sufficient to justify the submission to the jury of the question whether a defective power brake on the engine contributed in whole or in part to the fatality, where the injuries causing death some fifteen hours after the accident are not described beyond the bare statement that the driving wheel rested on the wrist of deceased's right arm, that that arm was found afterward to be torn from the shoulder, and that his scalp was badly cut. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Huxoll, (1918) 245 U. S. 535, 38 S. Ct. 187, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 455, affirming (1915) 99 Neb. 170, 155 N. W. 900.

Submitting case to jury.—The trial court was justified in submitting to the jury the general question of defendant's negligence if the defendant's conduct, viewed as a whole, warranted a finding of neglect, despite defendant's attempt to split up the charge of negligence into items mentioned in the declaration as constituent elements, and to secure a ruling as to each. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Hadley, (1918) 246 U. S. 330, 38 S. Ct. 318, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 751, affirming (1916) 99 Neb. 349, 156 N. W. 765.

Vol. VIII, p. 1352, sec. 4.

I. IN GENERAL (p. 1352)

The statutory law of the state has no application, and the question of assumed risk is to be determined by the provisions of the Act itself and the common law, as recognized by the federal courts. Pan- handle, etc., R. Co. v. Brooks, (Tex. Civ. App. 1917) 199 S. W. 665.

Violation of the Boiler Inspection Act of Feb. 17, 1911, ch. 103, § 2, vol. VIII, p. 1201, was "enacted for the safety of employees" within this section. Great Northern R. Co. v. Donaldson, (1918) 246 U. S. 121, 38 S. Ct. 230, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 616, affirming (1916) 89 Wash. 161, 154 Pac. 133, holding that there was no error in refusing to give, in an action for death of an engineer, an instruction to the effect that if he was familiar with the type of construction used or the particular form of negligence involved, and knew the danger likely to arise therefrom, or, in the exercise of reasonable care, should have known of such things, he should be deemed to have assumed the risk.

II. PRINCIPLES GENERALLY AS TO ASSUMPTION OF RISK

4. Negligence of Employer (p. 1359)

Application of section.—"At common law the rule is well settled that a servant assumes extraordinary risks incident to his employment, or risks caused by the master's negligence which are obvious or fully known and appreciated by him;" and the risks which the employee still assumes in other cases, notwithstanding the elimination of the defense of assumed risk by this section, in any case, include those incident to the negligence of the carriers, officers, agents, or employees which are obvious or fully known to and appreciated by him. Boldt v. Pennsylvania R. Co., (1918) 245 U. S. 441, 38 S. Ct. 139, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 385, affirming (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1914) 218 Fed. 367, 134 C. C. A. 175.

III. PARTICULAR EMPLOYEES (p. 1362)

Section hand.—In Carnahan v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., (Neb. 1917) 165 N. W. 956, it was held that the evidence did not justify holding as matter of law that the plaintiff, a section hand, had assumed the risk of injury from a defective hand car, especially as he had complained of its unsafe condition to his foreman, who had promised speedily to replace it.

Vol. VIII, p. 1364, sec. 5.

II. APPLICABILITY OF SECTION GENERALLY (p. 1365)

A contract requiring notice of the injury as a condition precedent to recovery, even though valid at common law, is invalid as a defense to an action under this Act. Panhandle, etc., R. Co. v. Brooks, (Tex. Civ. App. 1917) 199 S. W. 665.

Vol. VIII, p. 1387, sec. 2.

V. EMPLOYEES WITHIN ACT (p. 1391)

Switch tenders.—In Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. U. S., (1918) 247 U. S. 197, 38 S. Ct. 442, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 1066, affirming (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1917) 244 Fed. 945, 157 C. C. A. 295, a switch tender under the facts of the case was held to be within the nine-hour limit of the proviso.

VI. "ON DUTY" (p. 1396)

Continuity of service—Engine held for another train to arrive.—In determining whether engineers and firemen on certain extra freight engines called "pushers" were "continuously on duty" for more than sixteen hours, the question whether rest periods, when those employees were waiting for a train in the opposite direction, were to be regarded as breaking the continuity of their service "depended on whether, as a matter of fact, there was during those sixteen hours a substantial break, one that was substantial in amount and recuperative and restful in effect." The mere fact that they were subject to call during those periods was not decisive that the service was continuous. Pennsylvania R. Co. v. U. S., (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 881, 159 C. C. A. 153, where the court said: "The case is one of those border line and exceptional ones."

Vol. VIII, p. 1406, sec. 3.

IV. EMPLOYEES SUBJECT TO PROVISIO (p. 1407)

Telegraphers.—The proviso applies to all employees affected by the Acts and includes telegraphers. U. S. v. Delano, (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 107, 158 C. C. A. 333.

V. EXCUSES FOR EXCESS OF SERVICE

3. "Casualty or Unavoidable Accident" (p. 1411)

Sudden illness.—Even if the sudden and unexpected illness of a telegraph operator were to be regarded as a "casualty," the railroad company was not excused where it failed to exercise a high degree of diligence after learning of such illness. U. S. v. Delano, (C. C. A. 7th Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 107, 158 C. C. A. 333.

RIVERS, HARBORS AND CANALS

Vol. IX, p. 81, sec. 9.

Bridge over Chicago river authorized by state and Secretary of War held to be a lawful structure. Chicago Transp. Co. v. Pennsylvania Co., (N. D. Ill. 1917) 246 Fed. 190.

SEAMEN.

Vol. IX, p. 174, sec. 10.

Advances by foreign vessels in foreign ports are not covered by this section as amended, but only advances by foreign vessels in American ports. The Belgier, (S. D. N. Y. 1917) 246 Fed. 966.

Demanding half wages.—The Seamen's Act has abolished remedies for recapturing deserters. It does not, however, enable men to collect wages by making demands for half wages, which are part of a scheme to leave the ship. The Belgier, (S. D. N. Y. 1917) 246 Fed. 966.

Vol. IX, p. 180, sec. 20.

Construction.—Full effect must be given this section whenever the relationship between such parties becomes important. But the maritime law imposes upon a shipowner liability to a member of the crew injured at sea by reason of another member's negligence, without regard to their relationship. The language of the section discloses no intention to impose upon shipowners the same measure of liability for injuries suffered by the crew while at sea as the common law prescribes for employers in respect of their employees on shore. Chelentis v. Luckenbach Steamship Co., (1918) 247 U. S. 372, 38 S. Ct. 501, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 1171, affirming (C. C. A. 2d Cir. 1917) 243 Fed. 536, 156 C. C. A. 234.

Vol. IX, p. 215, sec. 4596.

Failure of mate to report presence of alien stowaway to master is not an offense under this section where he had no knowledge of that fact till the vessel was several days at sea. The Ellen Little, (D. C. Mass. 1916) 246 Fed. 151.

SHIPPING AND NAVIGATION

Vol. IX, p. 343, sec. 14.

A tug with a tow of barges was held in fault for collision with a schooner, because the length of the hawsers upon which the barges were being towed at the time far exceeded that which was permitted by the department regulations established under authority of this section. The Piedmont, (C. C. A. 1st Cir. 1917) 242 Fed. 385, 155 C. C. A. 161. To the same point in other collision cases see The Triton, (S. D. N. Y. 1917) 246 Fed. 318; The Teaser, (C. C. A. 3d Cir. 1917) 246 Fed. 219, 158 C. C. A. 379.

TIMBER LANDS AND FOREST RESERVES

Vol. IX, p. 588. [Rights of settlers.]

Title to the base lands does not pass to the United States until the deed is accepted by the General Land Office. State v. Hyde, (1918) 88 Ore. 1, 169 Pac. 757.

Vol. IX, p. 590, sec. 4.

"While such rules and regulations could not defeat the grant, they obviously could operate to execute and condition it." Utah Power, etc., Co. v. U. S., (C. C. A. 8th Cir. 1915) 230 Fed. 328, 144 C. C. A. 470.

TRADE COMBINATIONS AND TRUSTS

III. Construction of Act.

IV. Mode of determining question of violation.

7. General principles.

V. Application of Act.

2. Application in particular instances.

b. Articles protected by patent or trade-marks

f. Miscellaneous cases.

III. CONSTRUCTION OF ACT

1. In General (p. 647)

The distintegration aimed at by the statute does not extend to reducing all manufacture to isolated units of the lowest degree. U. S. v. United Shoe Machinery Co., (1918) 247 U. S. 32, 38 S. Ct. 473, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 968.

"Improvement of business and its efficiency can be striven for without offense to the law." U. S. v. United Shoe Machinery Co., (1918) 247 U. S. 32, 38 S. Ct. 473, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 968.

IV. MODE OF DETERMINING QUESTION OF VIOLATION

7. General Principles (p. 651)

"Merely because they leave open some branches of the business to the enterprise of others" is not proof that a combination does not violate the statute. U. S. v. United Shoe Machinery Co., (1918) 247 U. S. 32, 38 S. Ct. 473, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 968.

"The true test of legality is whether the restraint imposed is such as merely regulates and perhaps thereby promotes competition or whether it is such as may suppress or even destroy competition." Board of Trade v. U. S., (1918) 246 U. S. 231, 38 S. Ct. 242, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 683.

V. APPLICATION OF ACT

2. Application in Particular Instances

b. Articles Protected by Patents or Trade-marks (p. 661)

Patents.—"Where an article has been sold it passes beyond the monopoly given by the patent, and conditions cannot be imposed upon it. Leases are not of this character; they do not convey the title." U. S. v. United Shoe Machinery Co., (1918) 247 U. S. 32, 38 S. Ct. 473, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 968, holding that certain so-called "tying" clauses in leases by which the use of certain patented shoe-making machinery was granted by the corporate owner of the patents, did not offend against the Anti-Trust Act.

f. Miscellaneous Cases (p. 669)

Shoe-bottoming machinery.—A certain interchangeability in the patented shoe-bottoming machinery made by several corporations is not conclusive evidence of competition which would condemn the consolidation of such corporations into a single corporation organized for the purpose. U. S. v. United Shoe Machinery Co., (1918) 247 U. S. 32, 38 S. Ct. 473, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 968, holding that a consolidation of a number of corporations engaged in making noncompetitive patented shoe-bottoming machinery principally in use by shoe manufacturers in the kinds of work to which they are respectively adapted is not a combination in restraint of trade or commerce, condemned by the statute.

A purpose unlawfully to suppress competition cannot be imputed to a corporation formed by the consolidation of a number of corporations manufacturing noncompetitive patented shoe-bottoming machinery by reason of its subsequent acquisition of the plant and machinery of a shoe-manufacturing corporation, and of the shoe-machinery interest of the principal stockholder in the corporation, where the inducements of the purchase were to enable the use in one machine, without any patent infringement, of both the underlying invention owned by the consolidated company, and a patent owned by such principal stockholder for a particular and subordinate form of operation, and to compose patent infringement suits, both pending and prospective. U. S. v. United Shoe Machinery Co., (1918) 247 U. S. 32, 38 S. Ct. 473, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 968.

The Anti-Trust Act does not condemn a contract whereby a corporation formed by the consolidation of a number of corporations manufacturing noncompetitive patented shoe-bottoming machinery acquired the stock of another corporation making metallic fastening machines, merely by reason of a provision therein that the sellers should, for a limited term, assign to the purchaser any other inventions relating to shoe machinery which they should make. U. S. v. United Shoe Machinery Co., (1918) 247 U. S. 32, 38 S. Ct. 473, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 968.

Acquisitions by a corporation formed by the consolidation of a number of corporations manufacturing noncompetitive patented shoe-bottoming machinery, of other patents, property, and business, must be judged separately, not in accumulation, for the purpose of determining whether there has been a violation of the Anti-trust Act, where such acquisitions "were not coincident in time nor parts of the same transaction, . . . were scattered through a period of years and varied each from the other, had no dependency, were different and unrelated steps in the development of the business of defendants." U. S. v. United Shoe Machinery Co., (1918) 247 U. S. 32, 38 S. Ct. 473, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 968.

Board of trade rule.—No unlawful restraint of commerce which may be enjoined as a violation of the Federal Anti-trust Law is imposed by a rule of the Chicago board of trade which prohibits its members from purchasing or offering to purchase, during the period between the close of its "Call" session and the opening of the session on the next business day, any grain "to arrive" at a price other than the closing bid at the Call. Board of Trade v. U. S., (1918) 246 U. S. 231, 38 S. Ct. 242, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 683.

Vol. IX, p. 701, sec. 4.

III. PLEADING AND EVIDENCE (p. 704)

In an answer filed in a suit to enjoin enforcement of a board of trade rule allegations concerning the history and purpose of the rule are relevant and should not be stricken out. Board of Trade v. U. S., (1918) 246 U. S. 231, 38 S. Ct. 242, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 683.

Evidence.—An avowal of monopoly, achieved or to be achieved, cannot reasonably be inferred from a circular which the directors of a corporation making patented shoe-bottoming machinery sent to its stockholders just after consolidation with several like corporations, setting forth that great advantages were to be secured by the control in one corporation of the most efficient types of shoe machinery, and that the directors and large stockholders had been in negotiation to accomplish that end, and that the new corporation would, from time to time, acquire other shoe-machinery properties either by direct ownership or by purchase of shares of their stock, or from a like declaration in a contract between the new corporation and its Australian agent, but such circular and agreement must be regarded as simply the business expression and foresight of the advantages which would result from the concentration in one management of instrumentalities which, however different, supplement one another in the creation of a shoe. U. S. v. United Shoe Machinery Co., (1918) 247 U. S. 32, 38 S. Ct. 473, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 968.

"The history of the restraint, the evil believed to exist, the reason for adopting the particular remedy, the purpose or end sought to be attained are all relevant facts. This not because a good intention will save an otherwise objectionable regulation or the reverse; but because knowledge of intent may help the court to interpret facts and to predict consequences." Board of Trade v. U. S., (1918) 246 U. S. 231, 38 S. Ct. 242, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 683.

I. Construction of Selective Service Act.

1. Right to compel military service.
2. Persons subject to conscription.
3. Exemptions.
4. Determination of liability to conscription.
5. Offenses against conscription law.

I. CONSTRUCTION OF SELECTIVE SERVICE ACT

1. Right to Compel Military Service (p. 1139)

Constitutionality of Act.—The constitutionality of this Act was reaffirmed in Ruthenberg v. U. S., (1917) 245 U. S. 490, 38 S. Ct. 168, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 414. Jones v. Perkins, (1918) 245 U. S. 390, 38 S. Ct. 166, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 358, affirming (S. D. Ga. 1917) 242 Fed. 997; Goldman v. U. S., (1918) 245 U. S. 474, 38 S. Ct. 166, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 410; Kramer v. U. S., (1918) 245 U. S. 478, 38 S. Ct. 168, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 413; Yanyar v. U. S., (1917) 246 U. S. 649, 38 S. Ct. 332, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 920; Breit-mayer v. U. S., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1918) 249 Fed. 929.

2. Persons Subject to Conscription (p. 1140)

The phrase "liability to military service" in section 2 of this Act does not exclude from the operation of the Act citizens of Spain, as well as of other countries who have declared their intention to become citizens under the United States naturalization laws, even though the terms of an existing treaty exempt them. Ex p. Larrucea, (S. D. Cal. 1917) 249 Fed. 981.

3. Exemptions (p. 1141)

"Married man whose wife or child is dependent upon his labor for support," within the meaning of the regulations promulgated by the President under section 4 of this Act includes mental or physical labor and the dependent must be supported by such labor. U. S. v. Miller, (S. D. Fla. 1918) 249 Fed. 985.

4. Determination of Liability to Conscription (p. 1141)

Physical disability.—The finding of a draft board as to physical disability is not subject to judicial review, even though the registrant alleges on habeas corpus that he was ordered to undergo an operation to relieve him from the hernia complained of and refused to submit to it. De Genaro v. Johnson, (E. D. N. Y. 1918) 249 Fed. 504.

5. Offenses Against Conscription Law (p. 1142)

A conspiracy to violate this Act by means of preventing persons subject to registration from performing their duty to register is punishable as a conspiracy to defraud the United States within the meaning of PENAL LAWS, sec. 37 vol. VII, p. 534. U. S. v. Galleanni, (D. C. Mass. 1917) 245 Fed. 977.

Indictment.—An indictment charging in one count that the defendant, being subject to registration, made certain conveyances of property, and thereafter obtained exemption upon his affidavit that his wife was dependent upon him for support, and that he thereby evaded the requirements of the Act, and another count charging that said affidavit constituted a false statement and certificate as to his fitness and liability for military service—was held sufficient as to both counts. U. S. v. Miller, (S. D. Fla. 1918) 249 Fed. 985.

Selling intoxicating liquor to soldier in uniform.—An indictment for such violation of section 12 of this Act need not negative what the court termed the "exceptions in nubibus" in the clause "except as herein provided." Young v. U. S., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1918) 249 Fed. 935, affirming a judgment of conviction.

Evidence.—In Breitmayer v. U. S., (C. C. A. 6th Cir. 1918) 249 Fed. 929, a conviction for violating section 5 of this Act by refusing to present himself for or submit to registration was affirmed upon evidence held sufficient to prove the corpus delicti in respect of the elements of age and failure to register, and that defendant was not a member of the National Guard in the service of the United States.

Vol. IX, p. 1156, sec. 2.

See notes to section 1 of this Act, supra, p. 1181.

Vol. IX, p. 1157, sec. 4.

Regulations promulgated by the President under this section have the force of law and the courts take judicial cognizance of them. U. S. v. Miller, (S. D. Fla. 1918) 249 Fed. 985.

Vol. IX, p. 1162, sec. 12.

See notes to section 1 of this Act, supra, p. 1181.

Vol. IX, p. 1192, sec. 1262.

A contract surgeon is not an officer entitled to have his service as such contract surgeon counted in the computation of his longevity pay. Yemans v. U. S., (1917) 52 Ct. Cl. 388.

Vol. IX, p. 1254, art. 2.

"Persons accompanying or serving with the armies," the phrase in clause "(d)" was held to apply to a person on an army transport who volunteered to stand watch, and for several days did so, and finally refused to continue. Ex p. Gerlach, (S. D. N. Y. 1917) 247 Fed. 616.

Vol. IX, p. 1343, sec. 120.

Compliance with government orders excuses a manufacturer from performing a contract with another party to supply the same goods to the latter, where such compliance renders performance of the contract impossible. Moore v. Roxford Knitting Co., (S. D. N. Y. 1918) 250 Fed. 278, holding that under the facts of the case, the government did "place an order" within the meaning of this section.

WITNESSES

Vol. IX, p. 1421, sec. 858.

III. CRIMINAL CASES (p. 1422)

A previous conviction of forgery does not disqualify the person convicted from testifying on behalf of the government in a criminal trial in a federal court. Rosen v. U. S., (1918) 245 U. S. 467, 38 S. Ct. 148, 62 U. S. (L. ed.) 406, following Benson v. U. S., (1892) 146 U. S. 325, 13 S. Ct. 60, 36 U. S. (L. ed.) 991 rather than U. S. v. Reid, (1851) 12 How. 361, 13 U. S. L. ed.) 1023.
